Are 1st Runners Up

The climax of the first day of activities at the 29th annual Delaware Chicken Festival at Salisbury last weekend came with the crowning of Miss Pocomoke City, Sharon Elizabeth Lusby, as the 1976 Delaware Poultry Princess.

Selected as first runner-up was Miss Felton, Robin Lee Degnats, 16, from Felton. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Degnats and attends Lake Forest Senior High in Felton. She presented a song and dance routine titled "Look What Happened to Mabel."

For being selected as first runner-up, Miss Degnats will be able to choose between a $500 scholarship or $250 cash.

The new Little Princess is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Kunkel of Salisbury. She was sponsored by the Junior Wicomico Woman's Club. As winner of the contest she received a $200 U. S. savings bond and a handsome trophy.

First runner-up in the contest was four-year old Karen Renee Lofland of Greenwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Lofland. Karen was sponsored by O. A. Newton & Son Co. She received a $50 U. S. savings bond. She also received a small bouquet.

Curtails Water Use

Those April showers failed to come our way this spring and the results are beginning to show up. Farmers who have irrigating systems are relying on them to keep the crops growing until a good rain-fall comes to alleviate the parched conditions here.

The City of Harrington has formally requested that citizens discontinue using water for their gardens and lawns and washing vehicles. According to Bobby Quillen, city manager, the ban will be on "until we have a substantial rain fall." Quillen said he had made the request last Friday when the City's water pumps were being worked 23 hours in a 27 hour period. Since the request was made, the pumps have dropped back to an 18 hour use over the 27 hour period. The ban will continue, however, until the rains come.

In nearby Milford, the City office stated on ban on the use of water by that City's residents had been put in to effect yet.

It has been five years since Harrington has made any request on the curtailment of water usage. At that time it was necessary imposing of fines for disobeying the ban has not been mentioned at City Hall at this writing.

Museum Opens Saturday

A three year old dream, which was born in June 1973 in Bowers Beach, Delaware, will bear fruit this Saturday.

That is the date of the long anticipated dedication of the Bowers Beach Maritime Museum, Inc., a Bicentennial Project. A number of State Officials have been invited, including Gov. Sherman Tribbitt, and Senators William V. Roth, Jr. and Joseph R. Biden.

It was a warm Sunday afternoon in 1973 when several civic minded residents of Bowers Beach resolved that the creation of a Maritime Museum would be the Bicentennial project of the community.

The Town of Bowers, a small fishing village of three hundred residents, was approved as a Bicentennial Community by the Delaware American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, and the project of a Maritime Museum designated as a Heritage project by the committee.

The committee resolved that the purpose of the museum would be to "promote development and appreciation of the Maritime History pertaining to Delaware Bay in and around Bowers."

The house selected was the property of Frank and Bessie Touzor. It was decided the 19th century house was a good location and was big enough to house a museum.

The building was purchased with help of Mr. John Mickey, the first Director of the Delaware American Revolution Bicentennial. Mickey arranged for Federal funds in order to purchase the house. Mickey died rather suddenly in 1975. The house cost $8,500, and has been restored inside.

The museum houses many of the artifacts found along the beach at Bowers as well as elsewhere around the town. Among these is old griddle used in the galley of an old oyster schooner hangs in one room together with an ice chopper and ice puller. Early settlers would cut the ice in the winter time and pull the huge chunks of ice to an ice house pour saw dust on the cakes to keep them in a frozen state through the warmer months. There is also table from the historic Fairview Inn, and lanterns lent by a local resident Howard Nye.

An open house was held Tuesday night for the residents as a preview of the museum contents.

The history of Bowers can be traced back to the 17th century when it was known as "Whitwell's Delight." It has always been an area dear to the hearts of fisherman. "Big Thursday," always associated with Bowers Beach, dates from February 1835 when the General Assembly of Delaware enacted a law pertaining to the gathering of oysters. On July 4, 1975 the Bicentennial Maritime Museum Committee revived "Big Thursday" as a day of commemoration.

This year another custom associated with fishing areas, will be observed. There will be a "Blessing of the Boats" at the State Wharf at 6:30 a.m. on June 19.

Other activities for the day are: Breakfast, 7:30 to 9:30 at the Fire Hall, $2.50; Delaware Conestoga Wagon, at the Museum site, 9:30 a.m.; Dedication Ceremonies, 10:30 a.m. - W. T. Chipman, Jr. High Band Performing.

Members of the committee include: Edna LeMunyon, Chairperson, Bowers Beach Bicentennial Maritime Museum Committee; Jane Boone, vice-president; Helen Byrd, Achtenberg; Coleman Morris and Michael Gosh.

'Mohicans' Invade Milford

"The Last of The Mohicans" will be presented in Milford at the High School Theater on June 26th at 8 p.m. This will be a joint presentation of The Wilmington Opera Society and the Milford Adult Education Association. This Opera has been commissioned by the Wilmington Opera Society as part of the Bicentennial celebration.

Tickets: $5, $4 and $3 for Students and are available at Wollaston's in the Quillen Shopping Center.

Trooper Saves Trucker From Fire

Last Thursday around 3:40 p.m. State Police trooper William Groton, a three-year veteran of Troop 5, Bridgeville, pulled the driver of this overturned tractor-trailer to safety from the burning vehicle.

The driver was lying half-way out of the cab of the truck, was engulfing and the truck was fully involved in flames when the trooper arrived.

No charges have been placed in the accident that sent driver Paul E. Steininger, 63, of Denton, Md. to Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, Seaford. He was later transferred to Peninsula General in Salisbury. Steininger was cut and burned on the head and arms and had a severe concussion according to police.

Army Says No To Bowers

A hasty meeting was called last Wednesday night at Donovan's Dock Restaurant at Bowers Beach. A contingent of watermen, Town Councilmen, representatives from the Army Corps of Engineers, and Gary Patterson, Administrative Assistant to U.S. Senator William V. Roth, Jr. met to discuss the problem facing the Town of Bowers as it concerns the mouth of the Murderkill River.

The Army Engineers quite bluntly took the position that there was a great lack of interest in seeing to it that the dredging of the Murderkill River at its entrance takes place.

The watermen and the council members took the opposite position arguing that it is impossible for boats now to enter the mouth of the river coming into Bowers at low tide. The Army referred to the plan of "...deauthorization of dredging the Murderkill and the St. Jones River." The Army in an alleged survey felt that there was not enough traffic of boats to warrant dredging and installing a jetty.

The subject was first brought up in 1935 when it was determined a jetty was necessary to prevent further beach erosion as well as curtailing the hazards of boat traffic in and out of the Bowers channel. Nothing was done about it.

Since 1935 at low tide it has been impossible for boats to enter or leave the channel to Bowers.

The plan originally called for a widening of the channel to 60 to 75 feet and to a depth of 7 feet. A jetty would be constructed from the St. Jones River out into the Bay a distance of 5700 ft. Another jetty from the entrance channel would extend out into the Bay a distance of 4100 ft. The dredging was to extend out a distance of 2700 feet. The watermen claim there is a real problem with a potential loss of fishing trade to Bowers if the Corps of Engineers does not do something in the way of permanently correcting the problem at the mouth of the Murderkill River there. The dreding of the River is not the answer alone. The problem can only be corrected with the installation of the jettys.

"Fishing to Bowers is a small industry," as one waterman pointed out, who wished to remain unidentified, but it is necessary for the prosperity of this fishing village which has a larger population than a winer one.

The Corps decided to send the dredging machine to Bowers the latter part of this week. Break downs and needed repairs to the dredge are now keeping the Corps at the mispillion Light. One waterman suggested it might be another week before the dredge arrives.

Meanwhile party boats are being hindered from setting out of Bowers for their fishing endeavor. On Tuesday morning, one sailing lad said that "it was from 7 o'clock until 9 before a boat could get out of Bowers".

The residents and the fishermen meanwhile wait for the Corps to start the dredging. The constructing of the jetty "will apparently have to wait for further Federal funds necessary to complete the job." As one waterman put it "...they have plenty of time in which to complete this job...after all it only since 1935 that the job was first started."

Miss Janie Warren

Will Study In Turkey

Sometime within the next two weeks Janie Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warren of near Felton, will board a trans-world airplane and fly to Antalya, Turkey. She will be one of several hundred Americans Abroad Exchange Students with the American Field Service program who will spend two months living with foreign families.

Miss Warren, who will be a senior next fall at Lake Forest High School had been notified several months ago that she was selected as a definite candidate for the summer program. Until this week, however, she did not know her destination.

Her family in Antalya will be Mr. and Mrs. Ismail Turan and their two children, a son, 22 and a daughter 18. The father is a welder and the mother, according to a letter received from New York AFS headquarters is a typical housewife, interested in her family and home. The children speak English, and since the family have been hosts to one other Exchange student will be able to provide Miss Warren with many experiences during her stay with them.

Antalya is a city of 130,000 people on the Mediterranean Sea, and is known for its endless beaches and hot climate. Barbara Blackman of Canterbury was also a summer exchange student to Turkey several years ago there.

On her return, she will be available to speak to groups in the Lake Forest area.

Haber Tells Dems About East Street

Richard Haber, Director of Highways of the State of Delaware spoke at the most recent meeting of the 35th Democrat Representative District and the topic was the work scheduled for Harrington's East Street.

Haber showed slides and further discussed the proposed project that passed the General Assembly last year. The quarter million dollar project was originally to include curbing and sidewalks, but according to the latest information, these are not to be included in the project now.

The project has been discussed by the city fathers during the council meetings in the past year.

Maritime Museum

The Bowers Maritime Museum will be ready for visitors when the town stages its bicentennial celebration this Saturday, beginning at 6:30 a.m. with a little-practiced custom in this country of blessing the fishing boats. This begins a day of activities of which the museum inspection will be the focal point.

driven by Eddie Banks, 20, of Felton. As Banks drove north on U.S. 113 about 6:45 a.m., police said, he apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The car hit a road sign, traveled across the grass median, and rolled several times. Banks was released from the same hospital after treatment for cuts and bruises, police said. He was charged with inattentive driving. Boone was listed in fair condition.

Journal Begins 61st Year

The Harrington Journal begins its sixty-first year of publication this week and looks forward to serving its reading public in the coming weeks, months and years ahead.

Yes, we realize we have some flaws, most publications do from time to time, and we do need our readers to help us in our job of getting information to the public.

We are encouraged by the number of readers who help in providing us with the news and as a means of keeping open the communication system, we would like to make the following suggestions for those of our readers who feel they have news to share with the readers of the Harrington Journal.

For any given week, we would appreciate having whatever news anyone might have by noon on Tuesday (this also holds true for any classified advertising). Of course, the sooner we have the information, the better, since Tuesdays frequently are hectic. If the wedding, anniversary, club meeting, or whatever it is our readers want to share has happened prior to Monday, we would like to have the information when it is still fresh.

Occasionally we do misspell words, or miss them in proofreading, but sometimes it is because the original copy was handwritten and not too clear to begin with. If the copy is not clear, the typists and editor will have to guess, which reduces the chances of the names being correct.

When pictures are involved, a black and white photo is usually the best one to use for the paper. Color shots are acceptable but are not always as satisfactory when printed.

For those reader-contributors who wish to bring the information to the paper, our plant is located next door to the People's Bank on Commerce Street. There is a slot in the door or a tray on the inside wall in the first room for news items and/or pictures. Please identify all people in pictures and for whom the pictures are to be held. For obvious reasons, we are no longer able to return photos by mail.

To dispell a possible remaining theory, the Journal no longer practices the charge for wedding or engagement pictures.

We hope to involve more of our readers in what is important to them...and in the smaller communities in which we live, people and their activities and organizations frequently are the news.

We would rather be reminded of the coming event in our readers' organizations or communities than to have them ask where we were.

As a parting reminder, there is a section where letters to the editor are printed, and are to be signed, although the name may be withheld upon request. We encourage the involvement of our readers in the paper, since we feel it is one manner in making the area more unified as well as a more interesting place in which to live.

Our advertisers are also a large part of our paper and we encourage our readers to patronize the advertisers who help make the news come your way.

Just as you depend on us to be there, we ask for and need your help.

Felton Area News

by Barbara Jacobs

Flash for all teens and young adults: Rick Catrois of WKEN has agreed to be here on June 26 from 9 p.m. - 12 p.m. for a record hop, so keep this date open for our big Bicentennial day celebration.

For all who missed or forgot, yesterday was the start of Felton's Big Day. The Conestoga wagon was here and led in a parade by our town fathers in the new police car. We are really proud of the new car; now all we need is an officer to ride in it.

The wagon master, Mr. Brittingham, was very gratified for the reception Felton gave them. They couldn't get over the hospitality. Refreshments were served by the Bicentennial Committee of Felton and Viola which was free. Everyone is not commercializing on the Bicentennial.

The gathering of the residents and these travelers was a sight not to be forgotten and the friendship was really a true Bicentennial way. June 26 they will meet in Newark to carry all the town scrolls with all residents names signed to be carried to Valley Forge. These later will be microfilmed and preserved at the historic park for the next 200 year celebration. Our scroll was presented by Mayor William Myers (with over 200 names on it) to the wagon master, Mr. Brittingham. The scroll from Woodside was presented by the Mayor, Jack Pratt, with the names of their town residents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stafford have been visiting Mrs. Stafford's sister, Doris DeLong Hastings and husband, James and son, Jimmy Hastings from Clinton, Iowa.

On Sunday, June 12th at the Felton Methodist Church Bill G. Lamb Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill G. Lamb Sr., of Viola, and Eloise Darrell, of Flying Dutchman Trailer Court, were married. A reception followed the service in the fellowship hall. Ninety guests attended.

Congratulations are in order for Mrs. Nellie Jarrell is going to have her 90th birthday June 20. The family requests a card shower for her. The address is Viola, Delaware.

First of all, he's honest...

Bill Roth makes frank, straight-forward statements of what he believes and where he stands on specific issues. He doesn't speak out of both sides of his mouth—saying one thing to please a group in New Castle County today, and something else in Kent or Sussex County to please a different group tomorrow.

This kind of honesty, this consistency of character is also why you will find Bill Roth on the job, representing you in the Senate. Quality Education—Bill Roth believes that his children and your children deserve a quality education within our public school system. His children attend public schools. He was one of the first in the Senate to realize that forced busing would not further this goal of quality education, but would actually create stresses that neither you nor your children should be asked to bear. He was and still is a recognized leader in the Senate against forced busing... because it is wrong.

Fiscal Responsibility—As a member of the powerful Finance Committee, Bill Roth's fight against inefficiency and waste in government spending has earned him national recognition as a champion of the taxpayer. His dedication to the control and reduction of federal spending, even to the point where he has voted against every congressional pay increase for the 10 years he has been in Congress, has saved millions of tax dollars.

Bill Roth is doing his part. Now you can do yours. Start by contributing to Bill Roth's campaign, by offering to spend a few hours as a volunteer, or both. With your help, we'll keep Bill Roth in the United States Senate.

Concert Set For Asbury UM Church's New Organ

Asbury United Methodist Church in Harrington will dedicate their new Allen Digital Computer Organ on Sunday evening, June 20, at 7 p.m. with Carl Gearhart of Macungie, Pennsylvania, organist and representative of the Allen Organ Company, playing the recital during which many of the organ's wide range of possibilities will be heard. A graduate of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., Mr. Gearhart will be assisted by John Williams, a colleague at the Allen Organ Company and a graduate of the Leo Ornstein Music School in Philadelphia, who will play several selections on the violin, accompanied by the organ.

The organ is a three-manual instrument of fifty-one basic stops, with scores of additional musical voices and effects made possible by the use of computer cards which are 'fed' into a slot in the organ console. A very remarkable and versatile instrument, it replaces a four-rank Moller organ which served some sixty years.

About $1500 toward the cost of purchasing the organ has been raised by the Choir Mothers Auxiliary in previous years in appreciation of Mr. Melvin Brobst who served as organist and choir director of Asbury Church from 1946 to 1972. The sound chambers were constructed by the men of Asbury Church.

Rev. Alvin J. Willink pastor of the Harrington Asbury and Houston charge extends a cordial welcome on behalf of the congregation to all area residents to share in the enjoyment of a fine evening of music as they dedicate their new organ in the airconditioned sanctuary. A fellowship and refreshment period will be held in Collins Hall following the dedication service.

For Your Information

Dear friends,

Among the 'personal' data required on the deceased are: full name, birthplace and date, father's and mother's name, Social Security number, military service details, list of organizations and offices held. The latter information is valuable, not only for death benefits, but for participation in the funeral service. It is well for this data to be prepared in advance.

Respectfully,

Youngsters Perform Well

A group of Harrington lads competed in the younger divisions of the Delaware Junior Olympics, at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium, on Saturday.

The locals were entered late and performed without much in the way of training or coaching, so whatever they achieved was on the basis of raw potential alone.

Frank Jenkins and Jerry Mosley started out too fast in the 880 yard run (10-11 division) but held on well enough, to capture second and fifth places, respectively. Jenkins' 2.48 clocking won an award. Mosley ran 2.56. These are very good efforts, for elementary students.

Mosley, Jenkins, Francis Sargent and Terry Morris were second in a 440 relay heat despite poor handoffs of the baton. Their 62 second time, shows that the quartet possess good sprint potential.

Eight-year-old Brian Barthlow won a third place ribbon, for a 2.30 600 yard clocking.

Gus Teague, Mike Steward, Hershel Harmon also vied in the competition and each showed either short or long distance potential.

Last week at the annual Lake Forest Booster Club's sports awards banquet Anna Jackson [l] and Mike Benson [r] were named recipients of the Moose Award for the most improved athletes. Dick Crouse, Chairman of the Moose sports committee, presented the award.

Computers Scheduled For Super Markets

One of these days, if it hasn't already happened, you're going to wheel your cart of groceries to the checkout and find that the cash register is gone. Don't panic, says Carol Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. And don't think your groceries are free, either! Most likely your supermarket has just gone to "priceless" pricing.

What will this change mean to you? Well, for starters, it's going to make your trip through the checkout line much faster. And second, even though you won't be able to check each price as the checker goes along, you'll find that you have a much more detailed record of purchases and prices when you get your computer printed slip. Instead of an abbreviation for a department such as "dairy" or "grocery," leaving you to figure out what each item refers to, you'll get a slip which reads OLD FASH VEG .22. This tells you that you paid 22 cents for old fashioned vegetable soup.

This kind of detail will be very helpful after you get home, but many consumers see other problems which will irk the shopper. For instance, depending on the market, priceless pricing may do away with marked prices on each item. A "scanner" can read the bar code soon to be found on every item, and conventional numbered pricing really won't be necessary except as a convenience for the shopper. Some markets may provide grease pencils for shoppers to mark their own items from prices CORRECTLY noted on each shelf. (Supermarkets are notorious for listing prices on shelves of items that were moved weeks ago to another aisle. It gets very confusing, but the new pricing may force this issue, for the good of the consumer.)

You may be wondering how the computer is going to keep up with daily specials and "two-fers" (two or three for a given price). Actually the scanner and computer will be more accurate than the human checker. You will no longer have to group your "three-for-a-dollar" items together so the checker doesn't charge you 34 cents for each of them as she happens upon them in various places. The computer will be programmed to charge 34 cents for the first two and 32 cents for the third.

Checkout time can be cut by as much as one-third, says Ms. Morris, and that should put smiles on the faces of even the most skeptical. Faster lines will result because the checker needs only to bag each item as he/she runs it over the scanner, which will feature a built-in window on the counter.

Another advantage of computer checking in the supermarket is the ease with which a manager can maintain inventory control. The computer will record sales and automatically tell what is needed. With more precise information, ideally the store can operate with smaller quantities of stock in reserve and will have less of its money tied up this way. The computer can signal for re-ordering when supplies reach a certain minimum, so there will be less chance of running out of things. Thefts and errors on incoming deliveries can be better pinpointed and controlled.

Many consumers groups feel that the new pricing systems are a tremendous investment in equipment and that these costs will get passed on to the consumer in the form of higher food prices. Supermarket managers say that it should cut costs which will show up in the consumers food bill in a positive way.
