Three Felton youths died last weekend as the pickup truck they were in collided with a tractor trailer truck near Felton Friday evening around 7 p.m.

Fisher and Jacobs were pronounced dead on arrival at Milford Memorial Hospital soon after the crash, police said. Fletcher died of massive internal injuries Saturday afternoon, police said.

The driver of the tractor trailer, Eugene Barnum, 42 of Dorothy, N.J. was not injured, police said. No charges were filed in connection

Lake Forest Board Hears Woodbridge Expansion Request

On Monday night the Lake Forest and Woodbridge School Boards met to discuss a possible change, the boundary line.

The Woodbridge school district wants to move their district's line to just north of Farmington. Representatives of the Woodbridge School District, William Vanderwende and Robert Messick, both of whom are school members at Woodbridge and Dr. Foster Flint, Superintendent of the institution presented their case to the School Board members at Lake Forest.

According to Messick, who lives near Farmington, there is an error in the book of regulations governing school districts which calls for "...four tenths of a mile north of Farmington...and in another calls for eight tenths of a mile north of Farmington." Messick contended that the eight tenths of a mile is correct and that four tenths was in error.

According to Lake Forest School Board President, Albert Price, the matter will be studied and a special meeting will be held sometime in early July for a determination on the matter. The new boundary line requested by Woodbridge would pass near the Robert Vincent land.

No specific reason for the change was offered by the Woodbridge delegation, other than an appearance of a discrepancy in the book of regulations.

One of the farms in question was the Jerreard or Taylor farm recently purchased by a Morgan family.

In other action, E.B. Warrington, Jr. was selected by fellow board members to be the 1976-1977 School Board President. Marvin Brown won the nod for the vice-presidency.

C.C. Oliphant & Son of Seaford was awarded the contract to resurface the roof on the South B Elementary School. The cost will be $6,830. All Rite Rubbish was awarded the contract for trash pick up of $6,217 which was a lower figure than the year before. Last year's cost was $7,490.

High school principal, William Griffin presented a recommendation for change in the entrance into the high school grounds, which will be the entrance closest to U.S. #13.

Transportation bids were presented for the activity bus which was awarded to George and Ed Hobbs at

Fair Plans Finalize

If the advance ticket sales are an indication, this year's Delaware State Fair should be a whopper. According to Gary Simpson, assistant general manager, Harold McDonald reports the advance grandstand ticket sales are the best in the fifteen years he has handled them.

Several changes possibly will help out with attendance, and all involve advance purchase before the fair gets underway July 23.

This year the public may purchase three different types of coupon books that will save fairgoers some money if purchased before 5 p.m. July 23.

The James Strates Rides and Show coupons are again available. This year a coupon book of 12 tickets will be available at $5, a $7.50 value. This is a change from last year, when a youth and adult book were both sold. This year one book will be used instead.

Advance weekly coupons will also be sold for $6. This coupon allows the fairgoer unlimited use in entering the grounds. The daily admission is $1.25 for all persons except children under 10, who are admitted free.

A daily coupon may also be purchased this year for 75 cents each.

Advance sales on discount tickets are also available at Delaware Trust, Sussex Trust and Banks Convenience Stores, a new touch for the convenience of fairgoers.

Again this year there will be no fee for parking.

The 57th fair will run from July 23 through July 31 and will again have a free fair preview night July 22. There will be horse racing on that night by the Delaware Development Fund who will have stake races. There is no admission to the grounds or to the races on the 22nd. The James E. Strates Midway will also be open for business.

When the Fair officially opens Friday the feature grandstand show will be a giant demolition derby. "Smash for Cash" contests are open to the public.

Saturday afternoon, July 24th and Wednesday evening, July 28th will feature stock car races sponsored by the Delmarva Racing Association.

Saturday night's entertainment is the very popular K.C. and The Sunshine Band. Simpson says there are still tickets available for the show, but it is definitely the best seller so far.

Sunday evening, July 25th will feature top name motorcycle racing. On July 26th the "Hell Drivers" will again thrill and chill the audience.

Tuesday will again be Children's Day, with no admission for school children of all ages. There will be a grandstand show geared to the youngsters.

Thursday, July 29, has been declared "Bicentennial Day." It will also continue to be Governor's Day, Armed Forces Day and Senior Citizen Day. The Edwardians, a group of singers and dancers from Chicago as well as Ava Barber, a member of the Lawrence Welk cast will be featured. According to Simpson, an extra special firework display has been planned for Thursday night. (Continued to page 4)

Water Ban Lifted

Because of the recent water fall, the ban imposed by the City of Harrington last week curbing certain uses of water has been lifted, according to City Hall.

Bicentennial State Chorus Prepares For Debut Next Week

"LIBERTY SONG" to Greet Caesar Rodney's Counterpart

John Dickinson's "Liberty Song" is one of the songs to be sung by the outstanding State-Wide Delaware Bicentennial Chorus of 150 talented singers, dancers, and instrumentalists, when they greet Caesar Rodney's counterpart as he arrives at Rodney Square, Wilmington, Independence Square, Philadelphia. The entire program includes popular songs of each period of history being celebrated at this time.

The 150 participants, arrayed in colorful colonial costumes, will entertain the audience from 5:45 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at Rodney Square July 1, and from 3 - 3:45 p.m. at Independence Square July 2.

The public is invited to both concerts and all other programs the group is giving throughout the state, which are free. Their June 28, 8 p.m. concert is in the Caesar Rodney Senior High School Auditorium in Camden, Delaware as guests of the Camden-Wyoming Bicentennial Committee and their final concerts are on Saturday, July 3 at noon on the Dover Green and at 8 p.m. in the Bridgeville Union Methodist Church where they will be guests of the Bridgeville Bicentennial Committee. All concerts by the Delaware State-wide Bicentennial Chorus are funded by the Delaware American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, the Kent County Bicentennial Committee, and the Dover Bicentennial Committee.

Directors of the concerts are Margaret S. Storey of Dover, and Evelyn D. Swenson of Wilmington. Kathryn Copple of Milford is the pianist. Members of the Cathedral Brass Choir from the Wilmington area will accompany several numbers. Linda Moore, a talented student of the dance, trained in the Martha Graham technique and in folk dancing, has designed some simple folk dances to illustrate many of the songs. Mrs. Moore has danced in numerous productions of the Brandywine's and Cronies and is currently choreographing the Aldersgate production of "THE KING AND I".

Mrs. Storey is music director of The Singing Players, a group of people predominately of central and southern Delaware and nearby Maryland communities, who take their Christmas concert to each of the three counties in the fall and present a Broadway hit show each spring. Mrs. Swenson is music director for Aldersgate United Methodist Church. This church choir provides concerts and productions such as "THE KING AND I" for the community in addition to their schedule of weekly services.

According to George M. Cohan's version, Yankee Doodle came to London just to ride the ponies, but Captain Wallace David, Delaware State Police, of Bear, is riding his own horse to commemorate the famous eighty mile trip made by Caesar Rodney which had such vast historical significance.

It is hoped that all Delawareans will set aside these occasions as a time for remembrance and enjoy the festivities planned for fun and frolic as well as an appreciation of our fine heritage.

Birth Defects Are Likely For Alcoholic Mothers

Pregnant women who are alcoholics should know the risks of their alcoholism causing serious birth defects, says Mary Ann Finch, extension family and child development specialist at the University of Delaware.

There is an estimated 30 to 50 percent chance of a serious problem in the developing fetus of an alcoholic mother, according to Drs. Hanson, Jones and Smith. A report of their research, "Fetal Alcohol Syndrome," appeared in the April 5 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The doctors reported findings with 41 patients that are supported by similar findings in France, where infants born to alcoholic mothers were also studied.

In the infants studied, the reporting team of doctors found these six most frequent birth defects, says Ms. Finch. Both prenatal and post-natal growth deficiency, including low birth weight, were present in 97 percent of the babies.

About 93 percent had abnormally small heads while 92 percent had abnormally short eyelid folds. Delayed developmental or mental deficiency was found in 89 percent while fine motor dysfunctions occurred in 80 percent.

Among the less consistently found birth defects were heart abnormalities, unusual creases in the palms of hands, and minor joint, ear and genital abnormalities.

Still other features of babies born to alcoholic mothers include deformities of the eyes, wide mouth, prominent ears, long and thin upper lip, and sometimes a low nasal bridge with a short, upturned nose.

One or more of these abnormalities may occur in some individuals who [Continued to page 5]

Bowers Has Gala Celebration

A return to the old tradition of blessing the fishing fleet occurred Saturday morning in Bowers. The "blessing" preceded a breakfast and Maritime Museum dedication that spotlights the historic past of the Kent County port. On hand for the early morning events was U.S. Senator William V. Roth, Jr., here seen talking with Capt. W.R. Faulkner, owner of several headboats. Roth recently had $20,000 added to the Public Works appropriation bill in order that a study of navigation problems at Bowers could be begun.

Mrs. Minnie Coates is still a patient at the hospital.

Monday we had out monthly business meeting and covered dish dinner. Herb Hussey was re-elected President, Elma Thorpe as Vice-President, Andy Anderson Secretary, and George Goodge as Treasurer for the coming year.

Tuesday was our monthly birthday party with 48 members present. Those who had birthdays that were with us were Gladys Hill, Irene Welch, Elsie Neal, Hazel Langrell, and Miles Draper. We wish you all many more. George Goodge showed a movie later that day.

Wednesday morning, about 38 members boarded one of Mr. Bowman's coaches for a trip to Ocean City, Maryland. After eating lunch, we saw the State Firemen's Carnival.

Thursday we had a most interesting class in reverse painting with Mrs. June Dryzmaliski of Milford as instructor. About 17 members participated.

Friday, as usual, was bowling at Milford Lanes. James Koneincki was high for the men and Marion Lippmann was high for the ladies.

Saturday some of our members attended the dedication and Strawberry Festival Carnival at Modern Maturity Center. It was rather interesting as Senator Roth was there and presented a flag to be flown at the Center.

'Buckle Up For Safety'

Recent statistics show that serious injury and death is virtually non-existent among drivers wearing lap or shoulder belts in severe accidents, says a farm safety specialist. Yet, research show that less than twenty-five percent of the population use safety belts on a regular basis.

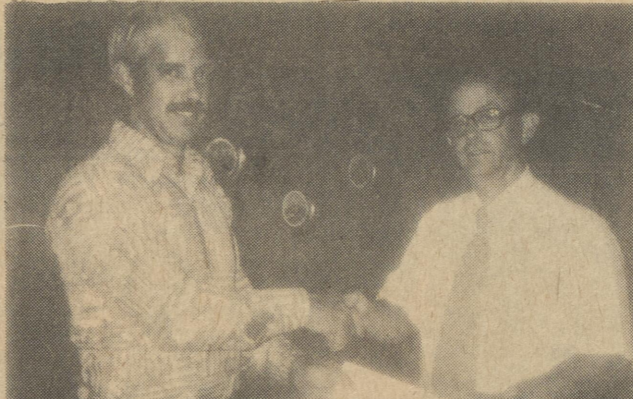

According to Ronald Jester, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Delaware Substation in Georgetown, millions of dollars are spent annually advertising the value of safety belts. One study estimates that, over a ten-year period, the use of safety belts by vehicle occupants would result in the saving of 89,000 lives and the forestalling of more than three million accidents which would result in injury.

The advice seems to be ignored by the public, though, says Jester, and some safety-minded persons have suggested legislation for safety. In the National Highway Needs Report, sent to Congress recently by Secretary of Transportation William Coleman, Jr., for example, mandatory safety belt use ranked first in both potential to save lives and in cost effectiveness.

Jester says that while such legislation may be useful, personal involvement in safety would be more effective. He urges that everyone "Buckle Up For Safety!"

Thoughts.....

By Senator William Roth

Middle-income families would receive some badly needed tax relief if Congress adopts legislation I pushed through the Senate Finance Committee. One of my proposals would provide special tax credits for college costs. Another would make it possible for many husbands to set up tax-free retirement funds for wives without outside employment...

the present $60,000 estate tax exemption would be changed to a tax credit of $30,000, which would be increased by $5,000 a year until it reached a maximum of $50,000 in 1981. The $30,000 tax credit is the equivalent of a tax exemption of $130,000 and the maximum credit of $50,000 would be equal to a $200,000 exemption. Another provision would increase the estate tax deduction that a widow is allowed at the time of her husband's death...

er affluent enough to be able to afford the high costs of college today nor poor enough to receive the government assistance available to students from low-income families. If my proposal is enacted, the tax relief would be extended in the form of a tax credit, which is subtracted - near the bottom of the Federal income tax form - directly from the amount of taxes owed. The tax credit would amount to $100 the first year for each student and would rise to a maximum of $250 by the fourth year. The latter amount is the equivalent of a $1500 tax deduction. Under the housewife pension provisions, men or women who are self-employed or work for employers with no pension program could set aside, on a tax-free basis, up to $1000 a year as a voluntary pension fund for non-employed spouses.

Woodbridge Gets Funds For Land Purchase

It was learned at the June meeting of the Woodbridge School District that the State legislature had recently passed a special bill which Governor Tribbitt signed into law enabling the School District to obtain $28,000 from the local minor capital improvement program.

The funds were made available to the District through this program so that the State could be paid off. The so called McIlvaine farm is the one originally designated as the scene for the future Woodbridge School which would house the entire school.

Officials now at Woodbridge are admitting that the likelihood of this happening in the near future is especially since enrollment at the school continues to decline.

The cost of the farm when sold to the School District was in the neighborhood of $70,000. This figure of $28,000 represented Woodbridge's share in the purchase... or the balance remaining on their proportion.

Woodbridge continues to get requests from members of their coaching staff for more money. Coach Kay Smith requested a salary increase for coaching softball without an assistant coach. She felt that in the absence of such a coach, she was entitled to what an assistant coach would receive. The Board denied her request.

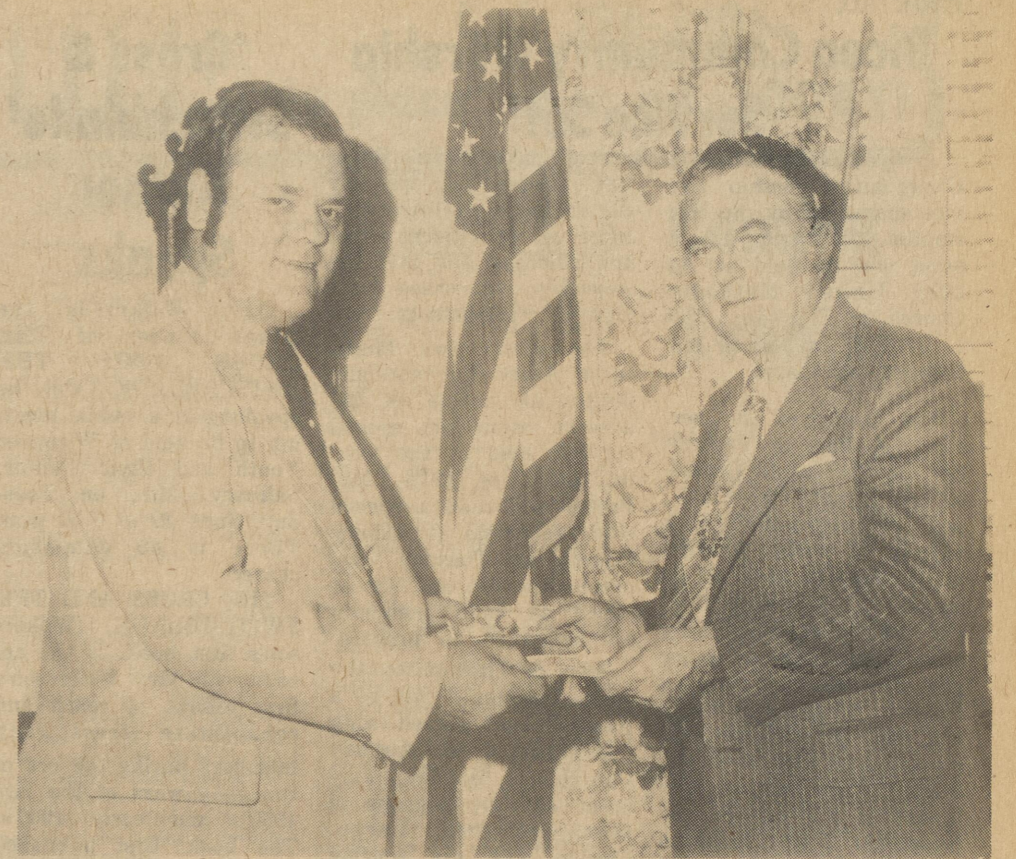

Bids were advertised for the completion of the new ag building which was erected in late spring of this year. The internal design is being conducted by Diamond State Engineering under the State supervision and requirements.

In other matters, the School Board received a copy of a letter from their attorney who was responding to a charge made by the NAACP and NOW that there was certain discriminations made toward some of their clients who had applied for jobs at Woodbridge over the years. They are contending damages measured by the length of time in which they have been refused positions in the school district. The Board contends they were within their rights to reject, at the time mentioned.

The status of the case is not at this point widely understood. The letter to the school district listed names which according to the Board have no meaning or recollection to the administration.

Delaware's Number One sports fan, Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt, kicked off ticket sales for the 21st Delaware All-Star Football Game by purchasing the first tickets.

"This traditional football game, played for the benefit of the state's mentally retarded children, deserves the attention of everyone in the state," the Governor remarked.

This year's game is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, August 21st at the University of Delaware's Stadium in Newark, and special preparations are being made to make this, the 21st in the series, an outstanding event.

Tickets for the game are available from members of Lions Clubs and the State Police throughout the state, as well as from trade union members, Rhodes Drug Store, Sears Stores and Brookside Liquor.

For additional ticket information call the All-Star office, 762-1806, or ticket chairman, George Brown, 994-0713.

Chrysanthemums Are Favorite Fall Flowers

Hardy chrysanthemums are the favorite flower of fall. They can be used in a mixed border to prolong seasonal color. They can be grown in the garden for show and cutting. They can be planted over bulbs around shrubs. They can be grown in pots or planters and used wherever they are needed for a spot of bright color.

Chrysanthemums are sunloving plants, so you plant them where they will have sun most of the day.

There are many kinds of chrysanthemums, says University of Delaware extension horticulturist, Dr. Charles Dunham. They go by such exotic names as Super Fast, Space Age, Harvest Giants, Spiders, Tuffette and Color-Me-Red, to name a few. The American Chrysanthemum Society recognizes fifteen flower types in mums. For simplicity, though, they can be grouped according to their habit of growth and size of flowers. Choose the kinds that will fit your garden.

Cushion mums make low mounds 12" to 15" high and are excellent for edging along walks, in the front of borders and even in rock gardens. The medium upright types (15" to 24") are excellent in containers or planted out in the garden. Tall uprights (2' to 3') are best in a large garden or at the back of a border.

Flowers are classified by size and form of the petals. There are small buttons one-half inch in diameter, intermediate pompoms and decoratives 1" to 3" across, and large football mums and spiders that grow to 6" or more in size.

The small or intermediate type flowers are usually grown naturally, but the larger sizes are usually disbudded. This means removing all but the terminal flower bud on each stem. Do this as soon as buds are the size of a pea. Treated this way, flowers will attain the maximum size possible for the variety.

If mums live over winter in your garden, they should be divided down to single plants. You can do this any time in May or early June. Dunham does not recommend using the thinnings to increase your chrysanthemum plantings. A better way is to propagate by cuttings. Use the top 4" to 5" of growth and root this in a propagating bed or under plastic. Cuttings will root in three to four weeks.

Pinch chrysanthemums back to induce branching and control height. Do this once or twice as needed, starting when plants are 6" to 8" high. Make the last pinch no later than the middle of July.

You can buy chrysanthemums either from garden stores or by mail up until mid-July. Plants set out in July should be pinched lightly at planting or allowed to grow naturally. Stake the taller garden types and any plants loosely to the stakes.

Mums are heavy feeders, says the horticulturist. Work in a handful of garden fertilizer around each plant about every six weeks during their growing season.

Although insects and diseases are not serious problems with chrysanthemums, a good combination spray which includes both a fungicide and an insecticide like malathion should be used every couple of weeks or as problems occur.

are not born to alcoholic mothers, cautions Ms. Finch. However, when several or even many of these types of abnormalities occur together in a cluster, then it becomes a pattern known as a "syndrome." The medical team of Drs. Hanson, Jones and Smith call this the "fetal alcohol syndrome."

Follow-up studies of fetal alcohol syndrome infants indicate no catchup in growth or performance during infancy or early childhood. "The precise pathogenetic mechanisms for the fetal alcohol syndrome have not been determined," say the doctors. They explain that present evidence does not support the theory of undernutrition, a condition frequently found in alcoholics, as the primary cause of these birth defects.

The researchers believe the limited evidence favors ethanol (ethyl alcohol) or some toxic breakdown product of it, as the culprit causing the birth defects. Ethanol readily gains access to the fetal tissue at about the same level as the mother.

Dr. Jon Aase, pediatric dysmorphologist, University of New Mexico School of Medicine and consultant to the National Foundation March of Dimes, states "fetal alcohol syndrome could be the third most important cause of mental retardation." He says these birth defects are totally preventable if the woman withdraws from alcohol during her pregnancy.

Town and Country

We have been deluged with calls concerning the loss of leaves and a sticky substance dripping from maple trees. Cars and lawn furniture have been covered with this sticky substance and it's concerning many of our homeowners. If you will look closely under the leaves you will find thousands of sucking insects at work. These insects are called aphids or plant lice. Aphids or plant lice are sucking insects which are small, soft bodied and pear-shaped. Aphids are of all colors - black, green, pink, red, yellow, lavender, brown, or grayish. Wings, when present, are usually clear, and are held vertically over the body when at rest. All aphids secrete honeydew. This is really plant sap which passes through their body while feeding. This "honeydew" is rich in sugars which attracts the bees and wasps as well as ants. It also serves as the food source for a black fungus known as sooty mold. This sooty mold is responsible for the black appearance on leaves and bark. Aphids infest many other plants besides shade trees and shrubs. Every home gardener or farmer has confronted aphids at one time or another. Aphids cause loss of plant vigor and sometimes curling and puckering of leaves. They also are transmitters of virus diseases as well as the bacteria which cause fire blight in apples and peas. Many chemicals will control aphids if they become injurious to your plants. Malathion, Lindane and Diazinon is the most widely used material and does a good job. 20 % Lindane EC at the rate of 1 1/2 teaspoon per gallon of water applied to the leaves is recommended for control of aphids in maples which includes the woolly alder aphid that is now present in Kent County. Homeowners are concerned about the loss of leaves due to the insect infestation. However, it is very doubtful that the insects will completely defoliate and kill the tree. If you have further questions concerning this problem, call the Extension Office, 736-1448.

Bicen Community Worship Service Set

A special Bicentennial Community Worship Service sponsored by the Harrington Ministerial Association will be held at Asbury United Methodist Church on Thursday, July 1, at 7:30 in its air-conditioned sanctuary.

The theme of the service, "A Past to Remember...A Present to Consider...A Future to Mold", will be expressed in a variety of ways. A combined choir of high school students and adults from the churches will sing three hymn-anthems under the direction of Melvin Brobst. Three ministers will each give five-minute messages on aspects of the theme, and one of the hymns in the service, "O Beautiful For Spacious Skies," will be illustrated by the use of projected slides as it is sung. The offering will be used for hunger relief through World Vision International.

Following the service, there will be a fellowship hour, held outside on the parking lot if weather permits, with the participating churches providing special "America's Birthday" cakes appropriately decorated. Following a brief senior citizens from the churches, and then the assembly will share in a time of refreshments.

The Harrington Ministerial Association cordially invites all people in the area to attend this special service, held at the very mid-point of 1976. Mr. Brobst will hold a special choir rehearsal at Asbury Church on Tuesday evening, June 29, at 7:30 at which all choir members are asked to be present.

Also of interest to the entire community will be a patriotic and sacred song presentation at Asbury Church on Monday, July 5, at 7:30, by a group of teenagers from Largo, Florida who are touring the east coast during the summer.

Bird 'Rescues' Are Rarely Successful

The first thing most children and adults think when they find a young bird is that its parents have abandoned it. The natural tendency is to pick it up and bring it indoors for a "rescue" attempt. Unfortunately, such attempts are rarely successful.

Nearly always the best thing to do when you find a young nestling is to give its wild parents a chance to adopt it back. "Anything else is likely just killing the bird," says John T. Linehan, an ornithologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service stationed at the University of Delaware. For one thing, he explains, we don't really know what kind of care a young bird requires. "We're handicapped by sheer ignorance of its needs, which could be social and physical way beyond our ken. What to feed it could be the least important question to ask. Giving them young bird the right food while it may be dying from too dry an atmosphere won't help it at all." Most young birds require lots of moisture. The need varies tremendously from one species to another. In the wild, the parents provide this moisture in interesting ways. Some birds will bring green leaves to the nesting site. Others build their nests out of materials that retain moisture.

The need for moisture is just one of many of the nestling's needs. This and other requirements cover areas where just about all we can do is guess, when we presume to take on the role of foster parent.

Linehan's first reaction, when someone calls him to ask what to do about a young bird they've found, is to tell them to put it back where it came from. Doing this as soon as possible increases the chances that the parents will still be there to take over its care.

For the most part, the fact that humans have touched the nestling doesn't affect its acceptability by the parents. They don't appear to care about the human scent left on their young. It's probable that length of separation is much more critical. Just silencing the voice of the young bird for a period of time could be enough to untrigger the parental response and lead to actual abandonment.

Even though the baby bird is out of the nest, its parents will continue to feed it, protect it and give it instructions if the nestling is left where they can get to it.

The ornithologist often gets calls at this time of year from people about fledglings they find. Most of the calls deal with children picking up a young robin or similar bird. The person making the call sometimes makes a point of saying that the bird was not removed deliberately from the nest and insists that it was clearly abandoned. Perhaps it is the very insistence of such denials which makes Linehan wonder if, in at least some cases, children were not in fact responsible for the separation, either by removing the young bird or otherwise disturbing the nest. If it's possible to relocate the nest, he recommends putting the baby bird back in it. This is the best procedure to follow, even if it left the nest without human help.

Putting a young bird back in the nest is often a tricky thing, especially as it gets older. Once the nestling has tasted freedom it tends to be jumpy. Getting it to stay put may require considerable patience on the part of the returner—holding a hand gently over the young bird in the nest for quite some time while it quiets down. It may be necessary to repeat the effort a number of times before succeeding.

"One thing that bothers me about this whole business of finding a young bird or an animal is that people will sometimes encourage their children to try to raise one as an educational process. "But," says Linehan, "it's the wrong kind of educational process. It would be much better to leave than young animal with its parents and to find out from observation and reading how these parents raise their young. If human parents are generally interested in fostering this kind of learning, the right message comes across and children learn respect for the ways of the wild. If they're more interested in just letting their youngster have a tactile sensation, they're making a poor eduational choice." Resisting the temptation to try to play foster parent to some wild creature calls for a certain humility. Each person has to size things up for himself and use his own conscience in making a decision when the interests of nature and his own interests conflict.

Godspell To Return During Celebration

June 26 is the date of the Felton-Viola Bicentennial celebration and Felton annual Church Street Fair. A part of the festivities for the day is a musical variety show, which will start at 7:30 p.m. in the Felton fire house parking lot. It will be hosted by Bob Draper and Robin Degnats, featuring the Lake Forest cast of "Godspell", Felton Methodist Church Choir, and other area entertainers.

Although final plans had not been made when this was written, most of the "Godspell" cast hopes to return to do as much of the show as can be done in the half hour they will be performing. The show will last one and half hours, admission is free, but donations will be collected. Immediately after the show there will be a teen dance with music by WKEN's Rich Catrosis.

Other activities scheduled for the day include a parade at 10 a.m. and Felton at 11 a.m. Felton's annual Church Street Fair will be from 12 noon until 6 p.m. with a ham dinner from 2 through 6 p.m. served at the Felton United Methodist Church. Various craft and antique exhibits will be on display in both towns throughout the day. There will be an auction in Felton on Church Street, benefit for the Church, with Bob Draper auctioneering, starting at 6 p.m. Everyone is invited to come and spend the day for a day filled with fun and enjoyment.

It Seams To Me

Tops are tops! Whatever your taste you can find styles in tops to suit your fancy. They are easy care, too, and we all like that feature.

Tops used to be called blouses, or shirts, or sweaters, or shells; so it is convenient to have one word to designate the whole group of wearing apparel. Sometimes the line between a blouse and shirt, or a sweater and shell is a fine one anyway; so it makes good sense just to call them all tops.

The most popular style these days is the shirt. It teams well with pants, skirt, or shorts and has almost become a uniform. The shirt styles have a sameness, but variety is achieved with fabric. You have a wide fabric choice either in ready-to-wear or for the tops you make.

Prints are dainty or bold, and scenic prints are eye-catching. Sheer shirt fabrics are worn over sleeveless, low-necked shells; or bras; or over bare skin if you're bold enough. Shirt styles make up well in knits or wovens; although lighteasily of soft cotton knits using knit techniques. These are more suitable for casual wear.

The bow neckline blouse is flattering and attractive with summer suits.

If you buy ready-to-wear, that is about the extent of your choice. But if you make your own, you'll notice that patterns are shown for new and interesting design lines. These are a welcome change from the monotony of the shirt. Maybe pattern companies had to come out with some new styles if they were to sell patterns. After all, a shirt pattern can be used over and over again.

Some of the new tops use imaginative ways to achieve fullness for bust-line curves. There are yokes, and gathers, and tucks to release fullness where it is needed.

Sleeves show variety, too; puffed sleeves, wide airy styles, short, long or sleeveless.

Vests are worn as sleeveless tops or teamed with skirts.

The fashion interest today is in tops. This is another reason for making your own. You can add your own creative touches and make the styles you want instead of relying on the rather limited choice in ready-to-wear.

Farmers Spend More

FARMERS SPEND—Production expenses took $3 of every $4 earned by U.S. farmers from the sale of crops and livestock in 1975.

Farm expenditures for production goods and services continued to climb last year, but at a somewhat slower pace than in other recent years. Total 1975 production expenses were more than $75 billion.

The nation's gross farm income for the year was about $99 billion, somewhat below the 1974 total. The estimated net income realized by farmers in 1975 was around $24 billion.

Crop production reached a record level, but prices were down a tenth.

How Much Ends Up With The Farmer?

How much of your food dollar ends up in the pockets of the farmer? Not as much as you may think.

According to University of Delaware extension marketing specialist, Carl German, farmers got 42 cents of each dollar spent by consumers for food in 1975. This was a penny less than in the year and four cents less than in 1973. If the farmer's return is on the way down, why are your food costs still so high, with prospects of going even higher?

For the answer, it's necessary to look at what's known as the farm-to-retail price spread. This spread, which includes the costs of processing, packaging and distributing food once it leaves the farm, makes up the major part of your food bill.

The farmer's share of the food dollar varies widely among food products, says German. For example, on highly processed foods such as corn flakes, bread, canned tomatoes and frozen French fries, the farmer receives less than 25 percent of the retail price. On the other hand, he gets from 50 to 70 percent of the retail price of animal products like milk, eggs, butter, beef and chicken.

This wide variation in the dollar share going to farmers is due largely to differences in the amount of processing and other marketing services performed before a product reaches the consumer. Eggs, for instance, are sold in virtually the same form as when they left the farm. But the flour in bread is milled from wheat, combines with other ingredients, baked, sliced and packaged before it reaches you.

The biggest share of your food dollar goes to pay for the services involved in processing and distributing food. Labor takes the biggest part of this share—about half the cost of processing and distributing farm food products in recent years. About 30 cents of each consumer food dollar goes for these labor costs.

Food containers and packaging materials are the second component in processing and distribution costs. They accounted for about 12 percent of the total cost of marketing farm foods in 1975.

Truck and rail transportation is the third big item in getting food from the farm to the supermarket. About eight percent of your food checkout bill pays for this service.

The farm-to-retail price spread was 58 cents of every dollar in 1975. This figure was slightly higher than in the previous three years, but it's still below the 1965-72 average of 60 cents.

As food prices continue to creep up, it's important to remember that the farmer isn't wholly responsible, points out the marketing specialist. A very high percentage of the food dollar does not remain on the farm for the producer to pocket, but passes through his hands to pay for machinery, chemicals, transportation, storage and other resources used in the production of raw farm products. An even larger share of your food dollar moves directly to industries for the processing, handling and distribution of food.

Palmisano Stars In Olympic and Kiwanis Runs

by Keith S. Burgess

Approximately one year ago Chris Palmisano, a new Canterbury resident, entered the Kiwanis Mile Run, in Wilmington, and won an award for a high finish in his age group. An excellent runner as a sophomore at Dover Air High, under Coach Charles Bell, he helped Lake Forest, as a junior, win the state cross-country title. He was the first Spartan to finish in that one. In track he scored in the state meet with the equivalent of a 10.04, two mile run. Saturday, at Willingboro,

N.J., Palmisano picked up another award by finishing second in the Junior Olympic Middle Atlantic Regional two mile run. Athletes were present from Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Chris thus qualified to compete in the Eastern Regional meet at Catonsville, Md. next Saturday. He is only the third Lake Forest or Harrington High athlete to advance this far. Bob Smith, some sixteen years ago and Ron Mosley, in 1974, were the others. A victory at Catonsville would qualify the Spartan senior-to-be, for a free trip to the National Championships, to be held in Tennessee. Sunday, Palmisano was back in action at the Kiwanis Mile and won his age group in 4.42. This is a very fine effort, especially when one considers that Chris had a long, tiring trip and a hard, two mile run just one day earlier. Joyce Ewing did a fine job in discus, approximately 78 feet, her finest competitive throw ever, to capture fourth place.

Recreation Activities Begin

A program of summer recreation activities get under way in Kent County Monday. The four-phase program, being sponsored by the Kent County Parks and Recreation Department, features summer playgrounds, day camps, a mobile field trip unit and a mobile entertainment unit. Most activities will conclude July 30. The playground program began Monday and will continue six weeks, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. daily. Participants must have completed first grade and should bring a bag lunch. A fee of $6 covers all playground activities. Registration may be made any morning at area playground sites at Lake Forest North Elementary and W. T. Chipman schools. Activities will include group games, music, drama, arts and crafts, team sports, individual sports, table games and tournaments. Each playground will swim at a pool once weekly and each playground group will be visited once weekly by a wrestling instructor. The Dover Public Library Story Theatre will visit each playground twice during the six-week session. Field trips are planned to Cape Henlopen, Trap Pond, and the Philadelphia Zoo. A bonus overnight camping trip will be available for an additional $3.50 registration fee. The 24-hour trip in a Kent County area will expose participants to outdoor cooking, sleeping in three-man tents, nature hikes, fishing, wood cutting, treasure hunting, tracking and fire building. Day camps will be offered for three-week sessions and will be available only at the Houston Elementary School and the Cheswold Fire House. The Houston session begins Monday and runs through July 9. Both sessions will be operation from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Participants must have completed the first grade and should bring a bag lunch to the session. Participants must provide their own transportation. A fee of 25 cents per person covers the entire session. Registration can be made when the morning camp opens or in advance by contacting the Parks and Recreation Department at 417 S. State St., Dover.

Are YOU still playing the Name Game?
There was a Lucky winner this week. Just look for your name in the Journal. Find it backwards, call us by noon on Tuesday. If you subscribe, the prize is $10. Otherwise, the prize is $5. There is one name in an ad this week.

We'd like you to look at our Delmarva Power Mountain Range...

Your use of electricity follows a pattern of peaks and valleys - In the last ad we talked about the peaks; now let's take a look at the valleys...

The Valleys come at times when you demand the least electricity... like the wee hours of the morning when most of us are asleep, or during the cooler months, when the ocean resorts are deserted and air conditioning isn't needed. The Valleys indicate that the power plants we built to meet peak demands aren't being utilized to full capacity.

And that's the bottom of the Delmarva Power Mountain Range
