Pilot Project For Schiff's

by Barbara Brown

What does it take to raise 1200 beef cattle from 750 pounds to market weight in the course of a year? What operations are involved? And just what does it require in the way of manpower and time? The answer, at least to the last question is one man, part time. As to the operations involved, they can all be performed at the fingertips from just one spot. These are answers made possible by the recently tributing food - combine to make this possible. The total confinement building, unique on the Delmarva peninsula, has been constructed for Schiff by Diamond Buildings of Greenwood. The building itself is 60 ft. x 152 ft. and rises to a height of 13 feet. Designed to completely contain the young beef from the time of their arrival here to the time of their shipment to market, it is open and airy. A curtain on the manure can be pumped out and used as needed fertilizer. The second component is the automated feeding system. This begins with the storage and processing of forage and grains in two Harvestore structures supplied and erected by Maryland Harvestore System, Inc. of Mt. Airy, Maryland. Filled from the top, these structures are unloaded from the bottom by automatic equipment located in feed room at their base. [Continued to page 9]

200 Years Ago... And Now... Caesar Rodney... the Man of the hour

State Police Captain William Wallace David, of Bear, the man selected by Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt to portray Caesar Rodney in this week's reenactment of the historic ride for independence, is seen in the enclosed photograph greeting the Governor during one of his morning practice sessions on horseback. Not only does the reenactment constitute a major portion of Delaware's Bicentennial activities, but the 1976 arrival of Caesar Rodney in Philadelphia on July 2nd will signal the kick-off of both Philadelphia's and Pennsylvania's Gala "Independence" commemoration activities, which will continue through the weekend.

Building shown above represents a revolutionary concept in farming. See article for details.

completed total confinement beef feedlot constructed for Schiff Milling Company and located just west of here on the Whitelysburg-Greensboro road. Schiff Milling Company is owned and operated by Walter Schiff of Harrington. The total confinement feedlot, a pilot project in this area, is especially the concern of his son, Dr. James Schiff. Beginning with the first lot of 400 to 450 young beef to arrive early this month, the feedlot operation is expected to handle around 1200 head this year. The management of the day to day feeding operation will be mostly in the hands of one man and will occupy him only briefly, for a matter of minutes, morning and evening. Two components - a total confinement building and an automated system for storing, processing, and dis-north side of the building provides additional protection in bad weather, but the south side will remain always open to sunlight and fresh air. The building is divided lengthwise by a central feeding trough with a belt conveyor and rotating brush for the distribution of feed. Gates bisecting the building on either side make it possible to separate each lot of cattle into four groups as varying feed rations may require. A catwalk above the central trough allows for direct inspection of the feeding process. The building is also designed with a slatted floor for simplicity in handling waste materials. This floor is constructed of sturdy 3 x 8 planks spaced to provide safe footing and to allow waste materials to drop into four manure pits beneath. Here they will be liquified and stored for up to six months. From the pits the liquid

Gets Life For Murder

A 30-year-old Bridgeville man was sentenced to life imprisonment last week after pleading guilty to second degree murder in the April 16 shooting death of another Bridgeville man. Carlos Rexach, originally charged with first degree murder for the death of Carlo Ortiz, 29, was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Claud L. Tease in Georgetown. Ortiz was shot with a .22-caliber pistol, then dragged into a neighbor's house. His death was reported to Bridgeville police after the shooting and Rexach was apprehended by Virginia State Police.

HAPPENINGS

by Carole Glasspool
 Ann Chambers is back at her Canterbury home after spending a week at Dewey Beach. The vacation, a belated birthday present from husband Cliff, was very pleasant with good weather and good company reports Ann through the sun-burned lips she brought home as a souvenir. Accompanying Ann were sons Scott and Tom, and Jean Beddle with daughters Lisa and Carol. Joining them last Wednesday, just for the day, were Mrs. Donald Woikoski and children, Mrs. Barbara Trent, and Jean's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Boldt and daughter Donna. Twenty years ago Ann and Cliff Chambers had a real dilemma when it came to setting their wedding date. Because of Cliff's avid baseball participation, they had to schedule the wedding when there were no ball games. Now, twenty years later, on Wednesday, June 30, Cliff and Ann celebrated their wedding anniversary at separate ball parks. While Ann was at the Felton Little League diamond with son, Tom, Cliff was in Harrington with his big league team that he manages. Ann was planning to join Cliff in Harrington for a hot dog. I hope she made it. As she said "Its not candlelight and wine, but You can't have everything". Congratulations to two terrific people.
 Mrs. William (Jean) Thomas of Woodbury Acres celebrated her birthday last Sunday. On the Saturday evening before her daughter, Cassandra, invited in a few friends and neighbors to share Jean's birthday cake and ice cream.
 Karen Wilmore informs me that the convenience of borrowing books from the Kent County Bookmobile will be even more convenient for Woodbury Acres residents in the future. Beginning Tuesday, July 13 and every two weeks thereafter, the Bookmobile will be at Woodbury Acres between 10 and 10:30 A.M.

 Following a leave at the Canterbury home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright, Airman Bruce Wright has arrived at Randolph AFB, Texas. His address is: A/B Bruce Wright, P.S.C. 3404, Randolph AFB, Texas.
 Mrs. Gardner (Grace) Kersey, who co-chaired the Viola Bicentennial Committee with Margaret V. Chambers, reports that they were ever so pleased with the turnout at the celebration held last Saturday, June 26, in Viola. There were compliments galore on the fine exhibits and plandits for Don Jacobs of Felton who did such a super job as parade chairman. In attendance were Governor Sherman Tribbitt, Senator Nancy Cook, Samuel Thomas, who is head of the Bicentennial Committee for Kent County, William Paskey, and Mayor Tom Maloney of Wilmington. I'm told the dashing Mayor of Wilmington was looking around for a lovely lady to ride in the antique car with him and selected Mrs. Evelyn Chambers much to the delight of Ann and Cliff Chambers. Evelyn is Cliff's mother.
 Virgil Jarrell, who owns a farm near Viola, was the lucky person to take home the original Briere painting "Golden Thicket" which depicts the Viola area as it was two hundred years ago.
 There are still some Viola Bicentennial plates and copies of the book "Golden Thicket" available. Plates can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Gardner Kersey at 284-4188. For your copy of the book, contact Margaret V. Chambers at 284-4641.
 In conjunction with the Bicentennial celebration the V.C.F. Ruritans held a dance at the Ruritan building in Viola.
 Among those enjoying the music of Mary Ann and the Playboys were Clarence and Louise Hurd, Sam and Hannah Walters, Bud and Marian Allen, Mrs. Edie Hemphill, Clark and Margie Brittingham, Clark's niece and her spouse, the Lewises, and Elbert and Fern Harrington.
 The next Ruritan affair will be a BYOB dance on July 24 with music by The Shoremen. Tickets are available from Ruritan members.
 Mrs. Oscar (Katherine) McGinness of Viola had some very interesting company over the Viola Bicentennial weekend. Katherine and her late husband, Oscar, had Carlos Dones as a Fresh Air Child from New York each summer from the time Carlos was eight until he was fifteen. At the age of fifteen, Carlos returned to his home in Caguas, Puerto Rico but Katherine and Oscar still brought him to their home each summer. Carlos is here now and for the Bicentennial weekend was joined by his sister, niece and brother-in-law from Brooklyn, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Rodriguez and Vanessa, and his mother who flew over from that lovely island, Puerto Rico, Mrs. Victoria Dones. Katherine had never met any of Carlos' family and was delighted they could be here to share in the Felton-Viola Bicentennial celebration. Carlos will still be here on July 17th to share in another big event when his "brother" Bill weds Miss Kathy Voshell at the Sandtown Church of God on that date. Happenings sends best wishes to Kathy and my favorite "drummer boy" Bill.

 The Felton MYF will hold a car wash at Chambers Truck Garage in Canterbury on July 10th from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.
 All you folks in Orchard Acres and Hillside Acres, please call Carole at 284-9632 with your Happenings.

Around Town

by Loretta Hitchens
 Mr. and Mrs. H. Lorenza visited her uncle in Harrington this past week.
 Mrs. Lola Moore and Mr. Leo Burris spent two days this past week in Dover visiting his granddaughter and family.
 Loretta Hitchens visited Miss Laura Anderson Friday last week.
 Miss Mayola Allen of Houston, Texas spent the weekend visiting her aunt Mrs. L. Hitchens of the rural district of Harrington. Mrs. Rosealee Jackson is sponsoring a bus trip to Wildwood, New Jersey, Saturday, July 3rd, Tickets $8, contact her for further information.
 Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holts of Steelton, Pa. were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Goldie Spence of near Harrington.
 Mr. Jessie Brooks of Buffalo, New York, visited friends and relatives in Harrington.
 Bishop and Mrs. Major Foster visited Bishop Randolph Brown on Thursday last week.

Move To Burrsville

The residents of Burrsville are pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Gary Booker and son to the neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Booker recently purchased a home in Burrsville and plan to spend the summer here and the winter in their home in Florida.

Why do so many women come to Milford, Delaware on Saturday Morning?

They come in car pools and sometimes even rent buses to save 40 to 75 percent on the finest bedspreads, made to measure draperies and liners. They drive from miles around to buy the highest-quality towels, rugs, sheets and pillowcases pillows, price goods, placemats and blankets at prices far below those found in department stores. If you haven't been there, you'd better come and see for yourself. Open the first and third Saturdays of each month: 9 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Senior Citizens News

by Cleota Willey

We are planning a trip to Kutztown Fair on July 7 leaving the Center at 7:30.

Monday the ladies came in and finished the reverse painting, and most everyone framed their pictures. We have some talented senior citizens.

Tuesday was county-wide picnic day at Wheelers' Park, but due to the weather it was cancelled, and we had an indoor picnic at the center. Also, a film was shown by George Goodge. We had some guests from Dover to drop in, which we were glad to welcome.

Wednesday was Bingo Day which is a favorite game of all the folks. This time being a sweets day—Candy Bingo.

Thursday was Nationality Day. We celebrated it with a salute to the Deep South with songs appropriate for the day. We also had guests on Thursday.

Former Resident Visited In Wisconsin

Arnold Gilstad formerly of Harrington now living in Wisconsin had two well known visitors from Harrington as guests this past week, June 20th.

Gilstad, who now lives in Grand View where he operates an insurance and real estate business was visited by Herman C. Brown and Paul Neeman.

Brown, a native of Harrington who now holds down the job of State Republican Chairman, and Neeman, a Magistrate for Kent County, flew to Castle, Wisconsin in Brown's 182 Cessna. They left Johnson's air park in Magnolia last Sunday and flew to Carlisle, Pa. where bad weather grounded them until the following morning. From there they flew directly to Castle, Wisconsin.

Castle is about 16 miles from Grand View. At Castle, they stayed at the world famous Telemark Lodge where the U.S. Olympic Ski team makes its headquarters. According to Neeman the lodge has riding, boating, hunting, and many other sports as well as golf. The three played golf nearly every day.

The return trip for Brown and Neeman was an easy one according to Neeman. They flew out of Castle of Friday afternoon at 2 and flew to Valperis, Ill. where they remained overnight. The next morning they got to tailwind into Magnolia which got them home in fast time.

The weather in Grand View was very pleasant with cool evenings. Gilstad's rancher is located high on a mountain side with a "...grand view" of Grand View.

Mrs. Anna Dill of Philadelphia as the guest of her niece, Ms. Ina Hughes of Felton; Mrs. Detwiler as the guest of Mrs. Hazel Latch of Viola; Mrs. Lee Lake as the guest of Mrs. Nellie Tyler; and Mrs. Alice De Costa as the guest of Mrs. Irene Welch. Glad to see all you folks. Hope you come again.

was informed Mrs. Hazel Latch, one of our members from Viola, fell this week and broke her left wrist. All our sick members seem to be improving.

The last report on Al Breuer was he is improved quite a lot.

Well, it's bowling time again today with Elbert Stevens as high roller for the men and Marian Littmann for the ladies. Quite a bowler, Marian.

State Bicentennial Chorus Is Well Received

by Melvin Brobst

The Delaware Bicentennial Chorus made its first appearance Monday evening on the stage of the Caesar Rodney Senior High School Auditorium before an enthusiastic audience and acclaimed itself well.

Under the codirectionship of Margaret Storey representing lower Delaware and Evelyn Swenson for the upper part of the state, the fast-moving program ran the gamut of representative music from the Revolutionary War period to the patriotic favorites of today that made the listeners eager for more.

The singers were appropriately costumed for this Freedom's Week celebration and were musically enthused for the first rendition to the last. The program was meticulously chosen for its seriousness, humor, and patriotism that often became spine-tingling, especially during the rendition of the music from the Civil War Period that closed with the favorite 'Battle Hymn.' But the same could be said for each of the sections of the program.

Both directors were ably assisted by the fine work of Kathryn Copple, accompanist, as well as by the members of the Brandywine Cathedral Brass Choir.

A surprise of the evening was the fresh approach of dancers in their seemingly happy approach given to the accompanying dances to various numbers on the program. It all enhanced a very enjoyable evening in the air-conditioned auditorium.

This chorus is a credit to the state of Delaware and should be a fitting contribution to the celebration planned in Dover and Philadelphia for the week-end.

Monday's program was presented by the Camden-Wyoming Bicentennial Committee and funded by the Delaware American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, the Kent County Bicentennial Committee, and the Dover Bicentennial Committee.

Reaching high keeps a man on his toes.

Miss Knox Is Member of "Solid Rock"

The "Solid Rock," a Christian folk rock group from Largo, Florida, will present a concert in the sanctuary of Asbury United Methodist Church in Harrington on Monday, July 5, beginning at 7:30 p.m. This will be one of fourteen appearances scheduled during a 16 day tour, culminating with concerts in Washington, D. C. and Philadelphia.

Sponsored by First United Methodist Church of Largo, the "Solid Rock" is composed of 25 youths who have won considerable renown throughout Florida and the East since their conception six years ago. Many of the singers double as accompanists on the piano, guitar, bass, drums and other percussion instruments. To honor the Nation's 200th birthday they are including some patriotic music in their repertoire of contemporary Christian and inspirational folk songs, interspersed with lively old gospel tunes and spirituals.

Miss Sandy Knox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Knox formerly of Harrington, is a member of "Solid Rock." Miss Knox promises the concert to be an enjoyable, inspirational evening for young and old alike.

It Seems To Me

If you like to sew, you're probably a fabricolic. Most seamstresses have an addiction for pretty fabric and can hardly resist an interesting new material or a good fabric bargain. So...most of us have a cache of fabrics waiting to be sewn some day.

My cache has been waiting for me for a long time, steadily increasing and requiring more and more storage space. Soon I'll be able to start working on it. On July 1, I will retire from my position as State Leader of Home Economics Extension Services, as well as textiles and clothing specialist. Somehow I haven't found much time to sew these past eight years as I have tried to fill both of these positions.

But come July 1, I'll get out my sewing machine. There are the draperies waiting to be made with the polyester knit chair cover started for demonstrations for a class on slipcovers and never finished; new covers for sofa pillows.

There is that beautiful sheer wool carefully wrapped the last time fashion and in style again. If you don't use your fabrics right away, keep them awhile and one of these days they will be fashion-right again.

There is that beautiful border print that needs time and patience to take advantage of fabric design in relation to the figure. This is definitely not a speed project and has been waiting a long time. And that new sheer knit with three different designs knit into the width. Planning of that one will keep me busy awhile.

There are all those garments made as demonstration pieces for certain clothing classes—too good to give away but not being worn and some never finished. I'll have to make decisions on those.

I'll have to admit there are some duds—garments completed but somehow not very becoming or suitable. It's poor use of time if you can't wear a garment once it is finished. And don't you hate to dispose of clothing if it has been worn only a few times? Maybe a little work will make them useful.

And there are the skirts to let down. It seems as though I have been letting down or taking up hems all my life. And this year is no exception. Most of the skirts seem an inch too short this year.

Think of all the storage space I will be able to clear once I get some of these sewing projects out of the way. I hope I won't start collecting fabrics again, because I already have enough for all the and never finished; new fabricolics I'll ever need. But that. There is joy in admiring the color, design and hand of beautiful textiles.

I'm going to have fun. I've enjoyed communicating with you through this column. I'll miss writing it, but I'll be sewing instead. Hope you will be having fun creating at your sewing machine, too. Happy sewing!

"It Seems to Me" Columnist Retires

Janet C. Keed, State Extension Home Economics Leader, retires June 30 after 17 years of service to Delaware homemakers. Ms. Keed originally came to the state as a specialist in clothing and textiles and continued her work in that field after she became State Leader in 1968. She is probably best known to many Delawareans through her newspaper column, "It Seems To Me," which has appeared for years as a regular feature in many area papers.

Ms. Keed began her extension career as a 4-H agent in a small county in her native West Virginia. She holds a bachelor's degree in home economics from West Virginia University and a master's degree in clothing and textiles from Cornell University. She worked in New York state as a clothing specialist for ten years before coming to Delaware.

For Your Information

Dear friends,

While we enjoy the Fourth, let us recall the significance of what we are celebrating. We are apt to forget about the Declaration of Independence and think only of picnics and fireworks. Let us be more helpful toward others who struggle for the liberty and freedom which we tend to take for granted.

Sincerely,

William A. Berry Jr.

From The Frying Pan . .

Bell Walters pauses beside the portrait of King George III, one of several she has painted since asking the Bicentennial Commission what was being done with the arts for the Bicentennial. Although this portrait is not to be burned, there has been some hot water about proposed burning of a 'fine portrait'. According to Mrs. Walters no one has bothered to ask her or the Commission the facts regarding what is to be burned. The editorial comments to follow clear up some of the confusion, and offer some suggestions as well.

The Cardboard Controversy

Two hundred years ago, a controversy flared into war and resulted as the eventual independence of these United States. Somewhere in the ensuing years, the idea of independence and freedom has gotten to the point where we often seem to be like a dog chasing its own tail and getting nowhere fast.

A typical example is that involving the plans to burn a portrait of King George III on The Green in Dover on July 3. Two hundred years ago, an excited crowd of Delawareans gathered to hear the reading of the Declaration of Independence and as a result of the crowd's enthusiasm, the King's portrait was burned to remove "even the shadow" of the English rule. The plans for the July 3rd activities in Dover include a reenactment of the burning of the King's portrait. "Concerned citizens and English 'natives' have expressed their concerns about the plans to burn the portrait. One letter reported being "flabbergasted at the naivety of burning a fine oil painting of poor King George"...

According to the portrait's painter, Bell Walters, (also of British descent) the 'fine painting' is actually oil paint done on cardboard put into an old frame selected by her for the express intentions of burning.

What no one has bothered to do for those concerned with the fate of the 'fine painting' is to consult the Delaware Bicentennial Commission or the artist, who informed the Journal of the composition of the 'fine painting'.

As for the objection to the deed itself, it is a reenactment of what was one of the first outward breaks from England.

Excuse us, but is this not the Bicentennial, the 200th birthday of the United States? Is it not for the fact that we are an independent nation that we are celebrating the birthday in the first place??

We would like to suggest that these "concerned citizens" put their concern to work in productive channels for the good of themselves, their communities, and the country...the possibilities are limitless.

Aren't there more important things to get concerned about than the "Cardboard Controversy?" We think there are and suggest these 'concerned citizens' begin the nation's tricentennial year in honest pursuit of a subject truly worthy of their concern. The chances are they will not have to go too far to find one.

Thoughts . .

By Senator
William Roth

This Fourth of July is something very special in our lives. Long after the events occupying our daily attention are forgotten, this day will remain in our memories as the day when this great nation observed its two-hundredth anniversary.

When our forebears rebelled two hundred years ago, they were rebelling against a government which imposed intolerable constraints upon them and was indifferent to their needs and wishes. They founded a nation based on the revolutionary idea that government should be the servant of the people.

Today we still live by the principles so brilliantly articulated in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. The idea that governments derive their power from the people is no longer a novel and radical theory.

And through the years, despite crises of every nature, the American people have justified the belief of our founding fathers in their courage and good sense.

From a fledgling nation of little more than 3 million English settlers and slaves, we have become a vibrant, pluralistic nation of more than 200 million. Our accomplishments and the institutions we created have been a source of inspiration and a model for peoples all over the world.

We are faced with a good many problems today. Some have to do with the direction our government has taken in recent years. But our institutions are sound and hopefully contain the mechanisms necessary for self-correction. I believe they will enable us to overcome our problems.

Whatever its imperfections, our society today provides more luxuries, more leisure, more educational, cultural and recreational opportunities, and more freedom for its citizens than any other society in history.

America, better than any other country, has conquered communicable diseases, clothed and fed its people, eliminated illiteracy, opened wide the doors of higher education, and given the ordinary citizen opportunity to improve himself and enrich his life.

On this singular occasion of America's two-hundredth birthday, we have every reason to be proud and much to celebrate.

of the State
Bicen Chorus

Bicen Chorus Has Four Concerts

The Delaware Bicentennial State-Wide Chorus of 150 choice voices will present concerts throughout the state and in Philadelphia in this week leading to a climax in Dover, July 3 at noon when Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt rededicates the Old State House on The Green.

A special feature of this July 3 noon concert will be the participation of the Dover Light Infantry and narrator who will re-enact the 1776 burning of the portrait of King George III, interpolated into the medley of "SONGS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION" as sung by the Chorus.

Researched by Daniel Blagg, Chairman of the Dover Bicentennial Committee, this fascinating story of the local clash between Loyalists and Patriots depicts the Committee of Safety receiving the Declaration of Independence from the courier on the steps of the State House. Then the Declaration is read to the people while the Dover Light Incan Revolution Bicentennial Commission, the Kent County Bicentennial Committee and the Dover Bicentennial Committee.

Twelve instrumentalists of the Cathedral Brass Choir of Wilmington will accompany a number of the songs along with pianist, Kathryn Copple of Milford. These concerts will be directed by Margaret S. Storey, Dover, Music Director of THE SINGING PLAYERS, and Evelyn D. Swenson, music Director of Aldersgate United Methodist Church of Wilmington.

Guitarist, Charlie McCloskey, will accompany appropriate folk songs including the Men's chorus singing "HOME ON THE RANGE." To show how the people lived, worked and played in bygone days, Linda Moore, Choreographer, has designed some simple folk dances to be performed by selected singers to illustrate the story being sung by the Chorus.

It has been such a wonderful and fantastic experience had for me during this year living with a host family, attending to school and unite to the community of Harrington.

It is really hard to find words that express my thankful gratitude, appreciation from the deepest of my heart toward Mom and Dad, Mr. and Mrs. Out-ten, Robin, from who I carry to Ecuador that love to music, Renee from who my enthusiasm to cook increase and Reig, my ability to speak fast, they will always will mean for me my second family.

I also want to thank immensely to my Grant-parents from who I carry wonderful experiences into me. And to everyone else that was part of my American family.

Besides I want to say thanks very much to everyone else in the community of Harrington and towns around who gave to me their friendship and help throughout the year of my stay in U.S.A.

Again and again thank you very much to all of you I know clearly that I will miss you all, but always I will have a place for you into me.

Maybe some day later I have the chance to come back and see you but now the time is gone and just memories will go across our minds.

legal assistant

Commonly called paralegals, these assistants provide the lawyer with assistance in such duties as summarizing and indexing written testimonies, preparing legal documents, gathering information from clients' files, and basic research.

Assistants rank between lawyers and secretaries in most jobs. Jobs are found in law firms, corporation legal departments, and government agencies. Legal assistants may be classified according to function: litigation assistant real estate paralegal.

A two-year program is the usual training required of legal assistants. About 15 programs are now accredited by the American Bar Association. Some 95 % of all paralegal workers have college degrees in a variety of subjects before enrolling in a training course. At present no certification exists.

The salary for starting legal assistants is about $8,000 per year with a possible ceiling of $11,000 per year.

The need for qualified personnel to assist lawyers appears to be growing rapidly, but even though the need for legal assistants has been generally recognized, the opportunities for employment are uncertain at this time.

Cash crop or livestock?

More cash grain farmers are turning to livestock feeding each year.

Why? Plain and simple. Livestock feeding offers the opportunity to make more money than cash grain farming. But in order to make enough additional money, you've got to have the right tools.

And that's where the Harvestore System comes in. When you feed the Harvestore higher profit way, you eliminate many of the risks and costs usually associated with livestock feeding. Like grain drying, expensive commercial rations, labor problems, and storage losses.

Harvestore processed feeds are highly palatable and convert readily into beef, pork, or milk.

Loretta Lynn Show at Fairgrounds On Friday

Loretta Lynn Show to be in Harrington

From growing up in a log cabin on a farm owned by her grandfather, to superstardom as the undisputed all-time female country music vocalist. That's the accomplishment of the slender and vibrant Loretta Lynn who will headline a bicentennial weekend show on Friday, July 2, at Harrington Raceway, Harrington. There will be performances at 7 and 10:00 P.M.

Loretta Lynn is being brought to Delaware by WAFL radio in Milford and Little B Productions of Maryland.

Miss Lynn has won virtually every major award that can be bestowed upon a country music performer.

A country music performer. Her list of awards is distinguished by her receipt of the coveted "Entertainer of the Year" award, voted to her by the Country Music Association for unprecedented success with both country and general audiences. She is the only female performer to win this award. "Coal Miner's Daughter" is the name of a publication released in April, 1976, which tells her fabulous story.

Two of her six children still live at home and there are grandchildren to be concerned about too, since she became a grandmother at the age of 32. One son travels as part of her show and will be featured at Harrington. He performs under the name Ernest Ray.

Loretta's band, the "Coal Miners" will also be featured on July 2.

Opening the shows will be a group based out of Sharptown, Md., "Velvet Country" featuring Robbie Watkins.

Tickets, at $4.50 for general admission and $5.50 for reserved, for the 7:00 and 10:00 p.m. are available at WAFL radio in Milford, Perry's Sizzlin' Steakhouse in Dover, WJWL in Georgetown, Tull Brothers in Seaford, Joy-Freeze in Frankford, Waggon Wheel in Denton, and Alexander's in Cambridge.

Equipment for weighing, rolling, and metering grain is a part of the automated freedom at the Schiff feedlot. This combines with supplement and mineral meters and forage weigher to produce the exact ration required.

Also in this feed room is automatic equipment for weighing, rolling and metering grain and weighing forage as well as for adding needed supplements and minerals. The whole of this operation is managed through fingertip control centers located at one spot in the feed room. Thus one man can accomplish in minutes what once required hours.

From the feed room the ration is carried into a two-ply, woven conveyor belt which runs the length of the feeding trough. A heavy duty rotating brush floats above this belt, sweeping the feed ration to either right or left, but it also can be controlled so as to operate along only half the length of the trough. This gives the capacity to feed four completely different rations. All of this is also managed from the control centers in the feed room.

Watering is accomplished through temperature controlled tanks located at the sides of the building. Commenting on the feedlot operating, Dan Nissley of Diamond Buildings said: "Among the advantages of a total confinement system is the fact that the farmer now has the control of the environment in which his animals are raised. Also he can have a better control of the feed rations, which is vitally important with the increase in feed costs most farmers have experienced over the past number of years. If he can reduce the feed consumption and not reduce the rate of weight of grain, it can often make the difference between profit and loss."

Completion of the Schiff feedlot project marks a first anniversary for Diamond Builders. Dan Nissley points out that a major portion of the credit for this project must go to his partner Roy Mast who was directly responsible for the workmanship in the construction of the building, feedroom and manure pits.

Nissley also cites the company's salesman, Fred Slabaugh, whose knowledge and experience, especially from his former association with Maryland Harvestore, were invaluable.

Vital to the operation are the now familiar blue "Harvestores". These structures may appear to the layman as gain silos, but there the similarity ends. Their built-in capacity for oxygen-limiting storage adds the dimensions of processing and preserving to feed management. Designed to prevent the entry of oxygen, these glass-fused-to-steel structures are equipped to breathe. Each is fitted at the top with vinyl breather bags. During the day these bags are deflated by the pressure of expanding gases within the structure. Thus they exhale or breathe out. At night cooling and contracting of those same gases allows the bags to breathe in and trap the air which would otherwise enter the structure and cause spoilage.

According to Mr. Hetrick of Maryland Harvestore these structures offer the farmer (in this case Schiff Milling Company) the option of diversification of income to his cash grain operation.

Corn ground harvested in the fall can be reseeded in such fall grains as wheat and barley for spring harvest and cattle feeding. Reseeding after the spring harvest can be in corn or soybeans for a fall cash crop or for cattle feeding, as the price situation indicates. If prices are high, corn can be sold as a cash crop and the stalks in the field chopped for forage. If prices are depressed the whole crop can be diverted to the feeding process. By these two options the farmer can look ahead six to eight months with some degree of knowledge.

Maryland Harvestore, whose president is James DeLong, was responsible for supplying and installing the automatic unloading and feeding equipment as well as the Harvestore structures at the Schiff feedlot.

Many of the young beef to be brought in to the beef feedlot are raised on Schiff-owned pastureland in Virginia. Dr. James Schiff spends a portion of his weekend time flying his own plane to Virginia to check on them. Familiar to Harringtonians as high school track star here, Schiff attended the University of Maryland and Maryland dental school. He now has his dental practice and lives with his wife and son in Cambridge, Md.

 Girls State Held in Dover ***

by Millard Ellingsworth III

With many hugs and kisses, and a few tears, the members of the 34th session of Delaware Girls' State departed from Wesley College in Dover to return home on Friday, the 25th.

All ninety girls checked in on a rainy Monday morning four days before, not knowing what to expect. After a "get acquainted" session, they officially started with greetings from: Mrs. Dale Roth the Girls' State Chairperson; Mayor Charles Legates of Dover, and Dr. William W. Hassler, President, Wesley College. Next they had a 1975 Girls' Nation report from last year's delegates and an opening speech from last year's Girls' State Governor, Juliet Freeman.

Ex-mayor of Dover, Crawford W. Carroll, met with the girls that afternoon to explain the structure and working of city government and answer any questions that might arise.

After breakfast on Tuesday, a representative from each county government held a discussion and question session with each representative giving a ten minute speech and then fielding questions that ranged from viewpoints to salaries.

Following a short break, Susan Eliason, a 1975 Girls' State Citizen from Lake Forest, related to the members of Girls' State the occurrences of her Bicentennial trip to England. The subsequent discussion entailed questions ranging from food to schools to weather.

Wilmer F. Williams came in the afternoon to explain political party organization and the workings of a candidate who aspires to office. He also explained the structure of state government concerning senatorial, representative, and election districts. Immediately after explaining the legislative process and all its formalities, he held a mock session of the Senate covering the entire process of introducing, debating and voting on a bill.

The remainder of Tuesday was spent in party conventions with the purpose to formulate a party platform and nominate candidates to state offices.

The only area candidates for office were: Federalist party secretary Terry Rider, Woodbridge, for Attorney General, and Diane Dziwura, Milford, for Lt. Governor.

As is a Girls' State tradition, the governor appoints the Secretary of State. Helen appointed Francine Cannon of Seaford, her adversary for the office of Governor.

A trip to Legislative Hall and two legislative sessions were on the agenda for Thursday morning and afternoon, but a banquet and fashion show highlighted the evening festivities. Many important people from the American Legion Department of Delaware were present as well as 1976 Boys' State Governor Bob Hupp, Laurel, and many parents.

The fashion show was sponsored by Benjamins and the models were the girls themselves. At this time Susan Smith of Dover was named Miss Congeniality.

She had been elected the previous day.

On the day of departure, Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt addressed a joint session of Girls' State at Legislative Hall. He mainly retraced Delaware's governmental history since the Revolution and encouraged everyone to participate in government if at all possible.

At the commencement exercises held that afternoon, the three girls chosen for Girls' Nation. They were: Wendy Holgate, Dickinson; Diane Dziwura, Milford; and Eileen Guyer, Christiana.

O. A. Newton Has Port-A-Stall

O. A. Newton and Son Company of Bridgeville, Delaware, which currently is diversified in sales with the Farm Equipment Department, Homes Department, and Industrial Department has signed a licensing agreement with the Port-A-Stall Company of Mesa, Arizona, to manufacture and market as the Eastern Manufacturing Division of this patented horse shelter fabricator.

"Under this new franchise," it is explained by Bradford Barnes, Vice President and General Sales Manager, "that exclusive rights have been granted to the Newton Industrial Department to manufacture all components in accordance with the Port-A-Stall patented design and specifications.

An area of exclusive marketing will include the state of Virginia north along the Eastern Seaboard to and including the state of Maine. A network of retail dealers is to be set up to serve their respective local markets for horse shelters throughout the various states involved."

The Port-A-Stall is an innovation in horse shelters that has revolutionized the thinking of horseowners from the far North to the far South. It can be erected in a few hours; can be subjected to the rigors of kicking horses, cribbing horses, destructive horses, and still keep its new appearance with little or no maintenance. And it is safer than conventional stalls for your horse.

The Port-A-Stall is a modular, prefabricated concept consisting of steel framing which supports laminated 4 ft. x 8 ft. "sandwich" panels with outer layer of enamel colored aluminum, inner core of plywood and/or insulation, and interior galvanized steel for strength and resiliency. The layers are all bonded together in a special laminating roller process for greatest strength. The complete fabrication will be done in Bridgeville upon completion of the set up of the lines which is currently proceeding under the supervision of a factory representative and Pete Pratt, the Construction Superintendent of O.A. Newton & Son Company.

The Port-A-Stall offers advantages to the large breeder, show barn, race track, training stable, veterinarian, or the individual with only a few horses. For veterinarians who are boarding sick animals, or large barns where new animals are brought for breeding, showing or training, sanitation is no problem - just wash down or spray the inner metal surface with a disinfectant, and in a matter of minutes your stall is germ free and safe for your new or visiting stock.

This expansion is expected to complement the Butler Farmstead Building line which the Newton Industrial Department sells throughout the Delmarva Area.

WTHD Gets New Look

The sound of old will be new on Milford radio station WTHD-AM starting Thursday morning, July 1st, at 6 a.m.

Starting then the station will switch to an "oldies" format, turning back the hands of time for the best in recorded music, spanning the years 1950 through 1975. Also featured will be the golden sounds of the big bands such as Glen Miller, Tommy Dorsey, and Les Brown.

According to Dennis Hazzard, the demographics of the area indicate this format would appeal to the listeners in the area. It is the station's first major programming change since 1967.

Primary reason for the switch was the keen interest in nostalgia evidence country-wide and the uncertainty of the music market in the "middle-of-the-road" area programmed by the station previously.

Bicentennial Calendar of Events

On July 1-2, 1776, Caesar Rodney rode from his home southeast of Dover to Philadelphia to break the tie in the Delaware delegation to the Continental Congress on the vote for independence. In 1976, Delaware State Police Capt. W. Wallace David of Red Lion will portray Rodney, following as closely as possible the original route. Ceremonies are planned at several stops along the way, both in Delaware and Pennsylvania.

The cities of Dover and Philadelphia will use the ride as the kick-off for major July 4 celebrations. Outriders, provided by horsemen's associations, will accompany Rodney and citizens participation is planned in many other days.

July 3 - Rededication of Old State House.

Delaware's historic capitol building has been restored to its original appearance as a Bicentennial project. The rededication is a joint project of the state of Delaware and the city of Dover, and is a major part of Dover's four-day July 4 celebration.

It will be held at noon, following an Independence parade. A re-enactment of the burning of King George III and a concert by the Delaware Bicentennial Chorus will be a part of the program.

The State House will be open for tours from 1:30 to 5 p.m. following the ceremony.

July 4-Salute to Independence. At 2 p.m., bells throughout the state will join others throughout the nation in ringing in the celebration of U.S. Independence.

1-4-Dover. Independence Festival. Featured, in addition to the departure of Caesar Rodney, are dedication ceremonies for the first-day issue of the Caesar Rodney postal card at Old Christ Church at 10:30 a.m. Thursday; an outdoor concert on The Green by the Banjo Dusters at 6 p.m. Thursday; "Life, Liberty and Love" by the Delaware Regional Ballet Company and the film, July 20-Bicentennial Day at Delaware State Fair, Harrington. A full day of entertainment, featuring bands, singers, etc., is planned.

"Thunder and Rain" in the Capitol theatre at 7 p.m. Thursday; a Bicentennial dance at the Armory at 8 p.m. Friday (13 per person); a parade beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday; a film, "The First State," in the State Supreme Court Building at 2:30 p.m. Saturday; Folk Festival, crafts, art exhibit, outdoor cafe with entertainment, and children's fair from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and fireworks at 9:30 p.m. On Sunday the churches of Dover will feature colonial services and will join in the ringing of the bells at 2 p.m.

1-Camden-Wyoming. A square dance at the Camden-Wyoming Fire Company, 8 p.m. This is a part of a three-day celebration that will include a fire company competition and fireworks.

3-5-Seaford. Homecoming festival. Games and contests: class boat flotilla on Nanticoke River; special church services, reunions; parade and fireworks.

3-5-Rehoboth Beach. Bicentennial Independence Day celebrations each night, with band concerts at the municipal bandstand. On July 4 at 9 p.m. there will be an old-fashioned fireworks display.

3-4-Millsboro. Independence Day Festival Parade July 3, 2 p.m., followed by games and contests in Cupola Park. July 4, 10:30 a.m., "American Heritage" cantata and service; 2 p.m., ringing of church bells.

3-Rising Sun. Display and showing of documentary film about Caesar Rodney's ride. Community Club House, 2 p.m.

3-Greenwood. Open house by all merchants, shops, and inns. Village Bicentennial celebration with patriotic decorations and displays. There will be an ice cream festival and street dance at the plaza.

4-Centerville. Special Bicentennial service at Lower Brandywine Presbyterian Church, 10 a.m.; Bicentennial ceremony and concert in Canby Grove Park by Delaware Concert Band, 1 p.m.; Tolling of bells in salute to the Bicentennial, 2 p.m.

4-Camden-Wyoming. Family picnic at Wyoming Park, beginning in mid-afternoon.

Viola - Felton Bicentennial Day

Mayor Edgar Dill and Governor Sherman Tribbitt lead the Viola portion of the Viola-Felton Parades Saturday. A large contingent of antique cars filled with members of the two towns' governments, Bicentennial committees and political hopefuls followed.

Are YOU still playing the Name Game?

There was a Lucky winner this week.

Just look for your name in the Journal.

Find it backwards, call us by noon on Tuesday. If you subscribe, the prize is $10. Otherwise, the prize is $5.

There is one name in an ad this week.

William Paskey, Kent County Levy Court, was out early Saturday to be in the only parade reportedly in Viola in 200 years. It was a big one, with around 75 units of which antique cars provided interest to the large crowd gathered.

The indefatigable ladies of the Felton Ladies Auxiliary of the Felton Volunteer Fire Department don their costumes and push their 1851 fire apparatus during Felton's Bicentennial parade Saturday.

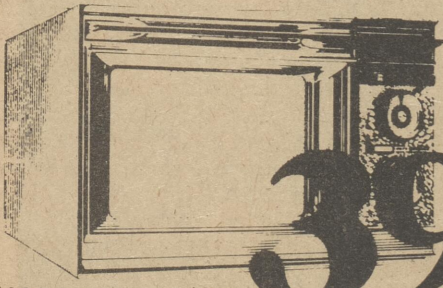

Large groups participated in the Felton Street Fair following the town's parade Saturday. Here is a typical picture where colonial garb mingles with today's dress. The day was filled with musical activities and ended with a talent show.

W.T. Chipman Junior High School Band treated the crowd Saturday with their rendition of "It's A Grand Old Flag" as it came through Felton. Also parading were the Lake Forest High School Band [who were in attendance at the Viola activities] and the Caesar Rodney High School Band.
