New Trash Collection Law Plagues Harrington Council

"I think it's a job for private enterprises" was the reaction councilman William Shaw had to a problem that caused several concerned citizens to appear before the Harrington City Council at its regular meeting Monday night.

The problem referred to was that of trash collection. Although the city did not want to revert to that extreme of a change Councilman Vincent Lobo stated "What the community wants we'll give them." He cited instances in other towns where when private enterprises took over trash collection they made prices so exorbitant that it was prohibitive to many individuals.

Most citizen complaints were about that even though they hauled their own trash to the dump they were being billed for the collection anyway. Many also complained of battered trash cans and scattered trash.

In a meeting months ago Mayor William Minner told the council the City was losing money on trash collection.

He assigned a committee to study the problem. The committee made their recommendations to the council which were accepted.

Many of the citizens who appeared before council last night were not aware of the new law in effect since last February.

The law contains eight parts which are (1) property owners are responsible for payment of trash collection (2) tenants may pay (3) homes unoccupied for 14 days or more may be exempted from the trash collection fee providing they come to City Hall and sign an affidavit (4) falsification can be fined (5) after six months of non-payment the proper mans can be used to collect the money or collection can be terminated, (6) no discount for payment in advance (7) all are required to pay for the service even if they do not use it and (8) commercial business owners must also pay even if they put their home trash in their business bins.

Other solutions which were suggested by council and citizens to the problem were to make it all a part of the city tax by increasing the tax rate, to have the whole town reassessed which would bring in more money to the town and pay for the trash collection, or just abolish the city trash collection altogether.

One of the other major matters the council took action on was that of deciding to hire a part-time policeman for the city. In a statement handed out by Chief of Police Ed Layton he figured that hiring a part-time man would save the city $3986.40 in pay. This includes regular weekly duty, vacations, and the period where two men will be required to attend mandatory training school.

Ed Hudson appeared before council to protest the letters the city has been sending him saying he has to clean up his property on the Farmington road near the power station. However following a meeting with City Manager Robert Quillen on Tuesday, he decided to clean up some and also to mow the lot.

The council also approved the purchase of a base citizens band radio for City Hall so that they may be in constant contact with the police department.

Woodside Train Wreck Under Investigation

by Jim Cresson

WOODSIDE--The train derailment north of Woodside, last Thursday that left 13 coal cars damaged and 300 feet of track uprooted could have been much worse, according to officials.

The freight train, on its way from Harrisburg, Pa. to the Delmarva Power & Light Company's Indian River power plant, jumped the tracks at 9:20 a.m. Thursday, tipping the tracks at 9:20 a.m. Thursday. The freight train, on its way from Harrisburg, Pa. to Delmarva Power & Light Company's Indian River power plant, jumped the tracks at 9:20 a.m. Thursday, tying up rail traffic for some 35 hours.

According to Woodrow Biles, Con Rail supervisor of Maintenance Way for the Delmarva Peninsula, reasons for the derailment are still obscure, but his team will be working through the coming weeks to determine the cause.

"It could have been much worse than it was," said Biles after the track was reopened, Friday. "Had the train been longer, there would certainly have been a big pile-up." As it was, only a few of the cars overturned and most of the coal cargo was salvaged.

Fortunate for all of Delmarva was the fact that none of the nearby high-tension power lines were downed. The big DP&L poles run parallel to the tracks and were within feet of some of the derailed cars.

"If one of those cars had clipped a pole, the entire peninsula would have experienced a blackout," said Biles.

There were, of course, some problems for the maintenance crew as they worked steadily to clear the wreckage and lay new track. Spikes had to be driven by hammer-swinging 'Gandydancers' since an air-hammer could not be shipped to the scene. "It was just like the old days," said Biles. The men worked round the clock, swinging hammers, and it wasn't easy for them.

But trains are moving once again and all that remains now is some minor clean-up and the important job of reconstructing the damaged track to find the cause of the derailment. "We will examine every inch of that old track until we find the problems," Biles said. "Until then, everything is speculation."

Annexation Dominates Felton Council

by Jim Cresson

The Felton town council decided Monday night to go ahead and lay the groundwork for a referendum on annexation of a tract of land bordering the northwest corner of the town.

The 10-acre parcel of woodland is owned by Myers Construction Company of Felton and is already being developed as lots are sold. The land faces Walnut Street from the west.

According to Joe Winger, town treasurer, the annexation is part of a long range plan to increase the town revenue base.

"The proposed homes in the Myers tract will be first-rate homes," said Winger. "Each one of them will give the town a revenue equal to, say, three of the older homes within the existing town limits," he said.

As for location of the land, Winger believes it is probably the most ideal spot for town expansion. Water lines lead up to the property and fire hydrants border it on the town side.

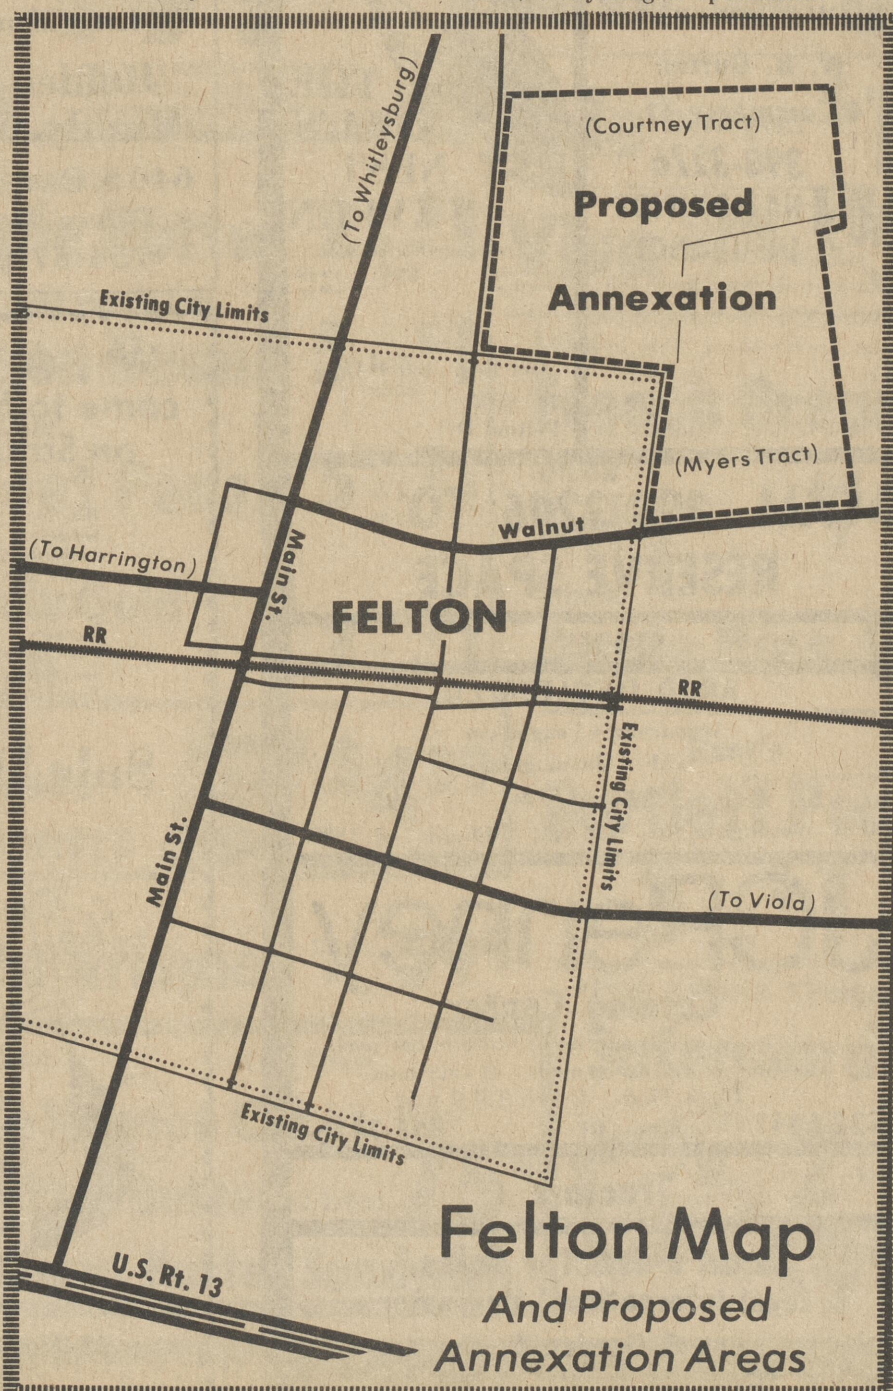

"Felton is in good, solid financial shape at this time," Winger stated, "and when the situation calls for it, the town would have no trouble laying water lines through the tract."

"We are proposing this entire expansion plan as a long-range project and intend to approach it carefully and a step at a time," said Winger.

"If we lay a water line, we will wait for that line to pay off before laying more," Winger explained. "The town does not intend to ask for any bond issues in this matter; the project should pay for itself."

As for the proposed referendum, Mayor William Myers explained that it is in an infant stage at this point, but that he hoped to present it to the people of Felton as soon as all facets of it are investigated and resolved.

As Winger explained, "All we intend to do is lay the facts on the table and let the citizens here decide."

Frederica Sewer Project Still

FREDERICA--The controversial Frederica sewer project is nearing completion, according to the contractor and county engineer, but some citizens and members of the town council are not so sure.

The $1.1 million project, requested by the town five years ago and begun during December, has been a constant problem to residents and a running issue at town meetings.

"We just feel that the job has not been done in good faith," said councilman Blaine Tucker. "We were led to believe the streets would be resurfaced and left as good or better than they were before."

Tucker, and many others in Frederica, feel the roads are worse now are quick to point out the patchy, uneven job left by the construction crew and approved by the state and county inspectors.

Central Construction Company of New Jersey, the firm that did the work, feels differently about the job. The firm has told Mayor Nashold and the council that their only obligation was to lay the 20,050 lineal feet of sewer lines. Such touches as leveling the streets and replacing curbing apparently are not considered necessary to the overall job. The town, naturally, feels they are.

The State Highway Department, which oversaw and inspected work on two of the streets, and Kent County engineer, Walter Fritz, who inspected the remaining work, both agree that the job was done in good faith and, in fact, is completed to specification.

Bat Scare Just That

HARRINGTON--The annual flurry of 'bat concern' has hit the Harrington area again this summer, but residents have little to worry about, according to the office of State Disease Control.

The concern began during the July 4th weekend when Donald Chalmers, Harrington barber, and family were interrupted at their home poolside, Sunday evening, by an erratic bat.

According to Chalmers, the bat began diving persistently into the pool area causing some panic among his wife and children. The bat was so persistent, in fact, that Chalmers fetched a shotgun and, after studying the flight pattern of the tiny mammal, shot it dead.

(No easy shot for most gunmen, the bat kill was nothing special for Chalmers who has participated in many shoots in the area and has prizes for his efforts.)

The following day the bat was taken to Dover where Public Health Department disease specialist, who examined it and found it to be of the red bat variety and devoid of rabies.

However, during the middle of the week another red bat was downed between Felton and Harrington, taken to the health department and found to be rabid. It was the third rabid bat brought to them this summer.

Rider Is Fair Head

HARRINGTON--Despite cool temperatures and gusty winds, Monday evening, some 2,000 stockholders and their families turned out at the Harrington Fairgrounds for dinner, business and entertainment celebrating the 57th annual stockholders meeting of the Delaware State Fair.

Foremost on the agenda was the announcement of Robert F. Rider, Bridgeville, as the new President of the Fair.

Rider, 47, is the 5th person to hold the prestigious office. He succeeds the late J. Gordon Smith who served honorably in that capacity from 1958 until his death at 82, last November.

The new President of the Fair is

But, says Dr. Turkell, there is no need for alarm. The red bat, as opposed to the brown bat, Delaware's other native variety, is a solitary bat and rarely communicates the disease.

However, rural residents should be aware of bats and should know what steps to take when confronted with them.

Never touch a live bat is, without a doubt, the first rule. However, if a dead bat is found in the field it should be taken in a sealed container to the Jesse S. Cooper Memorial Building, Dover, for testing.

If, on occasion, a bat finds its way into the home, windows should be opened and the bat driven out with a broom or similar tool.

Rarely do the bats ever attack humans. If a bat is rabid, it will act sick and become disoriented, even to the point of flying in the daytime. These are the ones that require extreme care in handling, even after they are dead.

Red bats can be identified by their reddish velvet-like body fur. Their body itself is about the size of a large mouse and the wing-span can measure up to 10-inches.

Although officials cannot estimate the bat population in Kent and Sussex counties this year, they do know that the number of rabies cases is no worse this summer than it usually is.

also president of O.A. Newton & Son Co., Bridgeville, and president of Nanticoke Memorial Hospital in Seaford. He serves as a member of the executive committee for the Baltimore Trust Company Bank and is chairman of the agricultural committee for the Delaware Bankers Association and chairman of the Delaware State Planning Commission.

Eight new directors were also named. They are: James Baxter, Kenneth Walls, and William Vanderwende of Sussex County; Leon Pleasanton, Robert Holloway and Gary Homewood of Kent County; and Joseph J. Breen and Josef A. Burger of New Castle County. Arnold Gilstad was named Honorary Director and John Whitby was elected 4th vice-president.

Least of Evils...

Garbage normally is not a topic of thought, and usually it is the last thing anyone gets upset over, but some residents in the City of Harrington have been just that recently.

Although the law went into effect at the first of February and was duly reported in this paper following the city council meeting when it was discussed, surprise, indignation and some anger resulted when the citizenry received their trash bills this last time.

There were several changes, including a 25c per week hike and a bill to every household in the city (or to the landlord, where a tenant was in occupancy).

A mild deluge resulted upon City Hall, the councilmen and finally at Monday night's council meeting, when the issue had had a little time to cool off. It still caused a lengthy council meeting and some controversy still exists.

As the title of this editorial suggests, it may indeed be the least of several routes the council could have taken to patch up the losing proposition of the trash business, which was in the red around $4,000 to $5,000 annually as was general estimation to date.

A committee appointed by Mayor Minner explored possible alternatives. The result was passed by council 5 - 1. The rate per household to be billed on a quarterly basis is to be a savings of around $1000 for billing alone, according to the committee. The new law will also help in raising revenue to pay for the trash truck, which has not been done yet.

Is it legal? Yes, by way of legislation passed by the General Assembly this winter. Council does have authority to levy on this service, whether the citizenry chooses to use it or not.

The City needs money...and many residents must suspect Harrington is due for reassessment and probable higher taxes. The going rate for assessors is $20,000 plus.

The City fathers could have gone that route, so instead of $39 per year for trash, the city taxes could have gone up considerably and could have enriched the city coffers with much needed income (after paying an assessor). Instead, they chose to put a patch on the leaking trash fund bucket.

Reassessment and higher taxes are the future, but at the moment the City still owes $10,000 on the short term note on the trash truck and is hardly in a position to pay out six figures to an assessor in order eventually come by needed income through property reevaluation and subsequent tax hikes.

Although no one wants to pay more for anything, and unless some benefactor wishes to step in, it looks as if the City fathers selected the course of least cost to the citizenry. For the moment, perhaps we should be grateful it is only $39 per year, for that spectre of higher taxes isn't far away.

For the citizens who complained that there was garbage being left or their trash cans were being ill treated, perhaps, especially for the 'white glove' treatment of trash cans, they would like to pay a little extra...

Some county residents reportedly pay anywhere from $5 to $15 and higher monthly to rid themselves of their trash. So, although some may not like the trash law, consider the alternatives and think...it could have been worse...

Letters To The Editor

Felton Shows Love Editor: An open letter to the people of Felton, Delaware:

This week I witnessed the great outpouring of love given by you to the three bereaved families in your community who lost sons in a tragic accident on Friday, June 18, 1976.

The acts of love and kindness, rendered by the townspeople of Felton to these families in despair, are truly heart-warming.

You supported these families with your hearts and hands; your time and money. You spent lonely hospital vigils with fathers; you consoled mothers; you cared for their children; you showered the families with gifts of food.

The women of Felton quietly and efficiently took over the three households and cooked, answered phones, ran errands and relieved the families of all unnecessary burdens.

You sent cards, sympathy bouquets and funeral wreaths; you attended three funerals enmasse; you flew your flags at half-mast.

These are your numerous untold good deeds; are living testimony to the commandment; that you love another.

Your response to this sad event will long be remembered and be an inspiration to all who witnessed the people of Felton in action.

Recalls Bicentennial Wagon Train To Valley Forge by Patt Garey

Already it was five a.m., but it seemed as if you had just drifted off into a well deserved slumber. The wagon train was beginning to stir, softly at first and then more definitely. Horses started to nicker and stomp, waiting impatiently for their breakfast.

The delicious aroma of camp coffee and frying bacon hung in the misty morning stillness. Quickly the camp sprung into a bustling hub of expectancy and awareness.

Horses were fed and saddled, teams were hooked up, a prayer was given and then the morning began with a vibrant "Wagons Ho".

We were off, moving out of our camp, down the road, into another day of greeting happy patriotic Americans along our route to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Judy Jarman and I spent four days and nights with the Southern Bicentennial Wagon Train. We started in Wilmington, Delaware on June 29th, and rode proudly into Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, on July 3, 1976.

It was a thrill of a lifetime to be able to participate in one of our National Bicentennial Celebrations. We rode horseback thru some beautiful Pennsylvania hillsides, greeting exuberant people all along the route.

During the day we rode with the outriders accompanying the official State wagons from Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, and the independent wagons from these same states.

We wound our way thru many small towns stopping overnight in Avondale, West Chester, Media and Valley Forge. An entertainment troupe traveled with the train and performed nightly for the crowds that gathered to view the wagon train and perhaps extract a little bit of the patriotic spirit that engulfed us wherever we went.

At one camp, the crowds were estimated to be about 20,000 people. In the evenings, after the work was done, the newcomers would gather around some of the old timers and listen to the tales of the train.

The last night out of Valley Forge, we were held spellbound by Frank Rickman, the man who played Grizzly Adams in the film "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams." He was a scout from the state of Georgia and was 100 percent frontiersman every mile of the way.

But we could add a few tales of our own. One of the horses ahead of us suddenly jumped sideways landed in a swamp, up she came with her rider and down she went again, but the second time her rider got wet.

Soon after that we came to a metal bridge. Now I don't know how familiar the readers are with mules, but from that experience, I gathered they were not too fond of metal horseshoes clicking on metal bridges.

All of a sudden the six hitch team from Pennsylvania wheeled around and headed for the wagon directly behind them. The wagon master waves them off and they went down a four foot embankment, through a wire fence and into a field.

The mules were not hurt, the passengers were a little shook up, and the wagon tongue was broken. The owner just happened to be viewing the procession and with all good neighborly spirit, offered the broken fence to repair the wagon tongue, and we were on our way again. We had a wonderful time being a part of the Bicentennial Wagon Train. But aside from that, we each had our own personal feelings of what our country meant to us as individuals, strengthened by what we had involved in as a group of modern pioneers working together to accomplish a goal. Thank you America.

Webb Barn Burns

MILFORD--A six alarm fire in Milford, Saturday, left a grain barn destroyed and four firemen hospitalized before it was finally brought under control.

The fire raged on the estate of Truitt W. Webb, longtime resident of Milford and area landowner. According to Webb, a passing motorist spotted smoke coming from the large grain storage barn behind his home about 5:30, Saturday afternoon, and stopped to investigate.

Webb had been unaware of the burning at that time but immediately called in the alarm which eventually turned out the fire companies from Milford, Houston, Harrington, Ellendale, Felton and Bowers Beach.

Smoke and intense heat from some 600 bales of hay and 750 bushels of barley burning inside the barn caused six firemen to suffer collapse. Four were treated at Milford Memorial Hospital.

In all, the fire cost Webb the loss of the building, the grain, a tractor-trailer rig, a seed cleaner and manure spreader, two farm tractors, a welding outfit and his platform scales.

Webb estimated the losses at $50-thousand and said he has no intention of rebuilding or continuing in the grain business which he has had for so long.

Fire officials are uncertain what started the blaze.

"What we have in Frederica," says Fritz, "is a lot of misunderstanding. It's a case of too many 'sidewalk superintendents' who simply don't know what the quality of work should be."

"Central Construction is a good firm," Fritz continued, "and we feel it has done an adequate job. In many cases the contractor even went beyond his obligations in dealing with the residents."

So, with little more than some clean-up work remaining for the sewer project, it appears as if the job is done and, like it or not, the citizens of Frederica now have a sewer and some brand new, bumpy streets.

Happenings

Hilary Robb, Preston, England, a Lake Forest A.F.S. student this past year, was beginning to think her friends were tired of her and ready for her to return to England. There were phone conversations at the Richter but no one asked to speak with Hilary, and when Paula Caskey took Hilary out for the day on July 2nd and then suggested at 7:45 it was time for Hilary to go home, Hilary was sure everyone was weary of her.

When Hilary returned to the Richter home in Canterbury that Friday night, she learned her anxiety was for naught. There were about thirty of her school friends awaiting her for a surprise send off party. The affair was engineered and hosted by Hilary's "sister", Barbara Richter, Susan Eliason and Marty Hayes.

Hilary was the recipient of many lovely gifts one of which was a wrist watch, her hearts desire of quite sometime.

Punch, tea, lemonade, cake and cookies were served to the happy throng that came to wish Hilary well on her three week bus tour and eventual return to Preston, England.

Hilary's "Mom", Laura Richter, confessed she finds herself a bit tearful each day since Hilary's departure as she was such a delightful "daughter". Others who will be missing Hilary and were in attendance at the party are Cheryl Lissy, Wayne Voshell, Jeff Chambers, Candy Atkinson, Margaret Kinney, Donnie Lloyd, Lee Turner, Jimmy Roland, Debbie Knowles, Dennis Childress, Kevin Peck, Bill Leonard, Dean McCombs, Steve Saulsbury, Sheri Swain, Lester Blades, Mary Jean Mason, David Lester, and Laura Lee Richter, Robin and Renee

For Your Information
Dear friends,
Man is basically a social creature who lives his life in fellowship with others. At no time does he need an expression of this supporting fellowship more than at the time of mourning. Jesus said, "Blessed are they who mourn for they shall be comforted". He certainly was referring to the comfort afforded by our relatives and friends as He was the God's supporting presence.

Little League Starts Tournament

by Pat Knight

Final plans for the 1976 Little League Tournament program, covering the Little League, Senior League, Big League and Girl's Softball were completed at a District #1 (Lower Delaware) meeting at the Dover State Armory over the past weekend.

Eligibility rosters and birth certificates were verified, and an orientation on Tournament Rules and Regulations was presented by District Administrator Pat Knight, who is now in his 20th year in that position.

Two major tournaments will be held in the District #1 area this year. Mid-Atlantic Division Senior League tournament, a double elimination event, will be held at Camden-Wyoming starting on Aug. 3. Champions will advance to the Eastern Regional at Auburn, Maine. Mid-Atlantic Division Little League tourney will be held at Smyrna-Clayton on Aug. 13-14. Winner moves to the Regional at Nutley, N.J.

Senior Leaguers will kick off the District #1 tournaments on July 23 as Dover plays at Camden-Wyoming. Middletown invades Smyrna-Clayton. Harrington will be at Laurel with Seford visiting Georgetown. All games start at 6:15 p.m. On Saturday, July 24, the first round is completed as Marydel plays at home with the Smyrna-Clayton and Middletown winner. Dover-Camden-Wyoming victor hosts Dover AF Base, Cape Henlopen will be at the Harrington-Laurel winner, with Milford entertaining the Georgetown-Seaford winner. All Saturday games at 2 p.m. District finals will be played on July 28 with the State title game on July 31.

Little League tournament (11-12 age) kicks off with two games on July 29 as Camden-Wyoming plays at Harrington and Milton will be at Lewes. Only July 30, Dover plays at Milford, Middletown will be at Felton, Rehoboth at Woodbridge (Bridgeville), with Seaford playing Millsboro at Georgetown. All games at 6:15 p.m. First round will be completed on Saturday, July 31, as Maryland hosts the Camden-Wyoming and Harrington victor, Dover AFB will be at Smyrna-Clayton. Georgetown will be home with the Milton-Lewes victor, with Lower Sussex, defending champions, at Laurel. All Saturday games at 2 p.m. District finals on Aug. 5 with the State championship at Georgetown on Aug. 7.

District Big League championship will be played on July 24-25. Northern Division winner will take on the Southern Division winner at Georgetown at 8 p.m. on July 24. Southern Division winner visits the Northern Division winner on Sunday, July 25, for one or two games - whichever is required. State Championship will be on July 31.

Aug. 1. Seaford is currently leading the Southern Division area and Camden-Wyoming is out in front in the Northern Division area in Big League. District #1 meets District #2 for the State title. Newark is currently out in front in the District #2 race.

Girl's Little League softball District #1 championship will be played at Lewes on Saturday, June 24, at 6 p.m. at Lewes on Laurel. Lewes is the defending District winner. Winner advances to the State championship on July 31.

Laurel's Senior League girls' softball (13-15 age) will play in the State championship on July 31.

Carlton Brent Lowe, 21, from Wakefield, Virginia, last years' winner in the "First State Gold Cup" motorcycle race will be back to defend his championship at the Delaware State Fairgrounds, Sunday, July 25, for the sixth annual event.

Motorcycle Champ Defends Title At Fair

Wakefield, Virginia's Carlton "Brent" Lowe put his five years of racing experience on the line last summer at the Fifth Annual "First State Gold Cup" and beat many more experienced racers to win the prestigious event.

"We had some gearing problems in the heat race as the track surface had changed, and made the necessary modifications to a smaller rear sprocket," the 21 year-old said recently. "And from then on it all worked. I felt pretty comfortable in leading the race and had the confidence I needed to beat guys like Shaefer and Palmgren who have a lot more experience."

Lowe will be the racer to beat when the competition gets under way for the Sixth Annual "First State Gold Cup" at the Delaware State Fairgrounds, Harrington at 8 p.m., Sunday evening, July 25 during the Fair Week.

Lowe's success at Harrington preceded winning the North Carolina State Championship later in 1975. Combined with consistency all year long, including a sixth place at the inaugural Harrington National Championship, Lowe was awarded National Number 43, signifying that he is one of the top 100 Expert motorcycle racers in the entire United States -- and the only one from Virginia.

After a 1976 season that so far is not as good as last year, Lowe is looking forward to his return to Harrington.

"There's no doubt about it, Harrington is my favorite half-mile track. It's got a nice, smooth surface that is extremely fast. It's always well-prepared and enjoyable to ride."

Racing begins at 8 p.m., Sunday evening, July 25 and should conclude by 10:30 p.m. Tickets are priced at $4 for Reserved Grandstand, $3.50 for General Admission, with kids 10 and under only $1.50.

Sunny Side Up

In case you're running late this year and are just getting around to "doing something" about your redwood furniture, some help is on the way. I was talking to Coral Morris, extension home management specialist here at the University of Delaware.

She tells me that outdoor redwood furniture that's been stained with soft drinks (or heaven-knows-what other stuff people dump on your furniture) can be restored by an application of oxalic acid or bleach and then rinsed thoroughly. You can buy oxalic acid in the paint or drug store, says Coral, but remember that it's poisonous, so use sensible precautions.

Coral also reminds us that the best prevention of stains is to clean up spills immediately. That doesn't always seem like such a good idea, though, when you're stretched out on the lounge chair, I told her.

Also, don't forget the redwood is soft, and redwood furniture should have its nuts and bolts tightened periodically to keep them snug. To keep redwood looking its best, apply a new coat of penetrating sealer stain in the spring.

I don't know if the canning rage is on again this year, but an interesting item showed up this week which should ease the minds of home canners. (If you're a non-canner, skip this part because talk of boiling water baths will definitely make you UNCOMFORTABLE.)

It seems that some well-meaning people have started the rumor that the new "low-acid" varieties of tomatoes don't have enough acid in them to make them safe to can in a boiling water bath. "Not so," says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. "Several so-called 'low-acid' tomatoes are actually not low in acid, but high in sugar, which masks the tart, acid flavor of the tomato," they say.

So, can if you can, without worry, provided, of course, you follow all directions CAREFULLY. But if you're like a friend of mine who would rather be "Creative" than follow directions, better skip canning this year and preserve your food some other way. Because, with canning, you're not being creative by not following directions; you're taking big chances with your family's health and possibly their very lives.

This creative friend of mine did have good luck one time though, when she read the first half of the recipe and them mistakenly concluded with the second of another. She created a terrific sauerkraut omelette.

Breeding Wins Again

by Charlie Brown

Walt Breeding of Federalsburg, Maryland, piloted the Taylor & Messick modified Gremlin home to victory for its eighth time this season at the Georgetown Speedway last Friday night.

Wayne Cusick, who captured his first modified victory two weeks ago, jumped to an early lead while Breeding struggled through traffic. Haines Tull in the Howard Davis Vega and Snookie Vent of Milton dueled for second while Cusick started to open a substantial lead.

By lap ten Breeding had caught Tull and Vent and easily moved into second using the outside groove. On lap 12, Harold Bunting, who had worked his way into fifth, spun in turn three bringing out the first caution of the race and eliminating Cusick's lead.

It was Cusick and Breeding, side by side on the restart with Breeding gaining the advantage going into the first turn. The Taylor & Messick Gremlin performed flawlessly but Cusick was able to keep the pressure on the leader all the way to the finish.

Vent collected the third place honors followed by Tull, Bunting, Donnie Joseph, Richard Jarvis, and Paul Walker, Jr.

It was win number 11 for the 7-11 Lewes Dairy Mustang of Bodie Bodenweiser as the six cylinders continued to dominate the sportsman division.

Bodenweiser narrowly escaped disaster as he brushed the front straight wall on the initial start while the "old man" of racing, Clem Horvath in his Go Navy Gremlin grabbed the lead.

Horvath fought off challenges from Tom Walker and Fred Workman but was unable to hold off Bodenweiser who had quickly charged his way to the front. Finishing third behind Horvath was Nelson James followed by Tom Walker, Larry Grier, and Al Rogers.

Pittsville's Dave White stayed clear of trouble in the action packed late model feature and collected his first victory of the year.

Several early race mishaps prevent pole sitter, Bob Wilkins of Milford, from pulling away from the pack. Mel Joseph, Jr. didn't waste any time coming from the rear and was soon challenging Wilkins for the number one spot.

Lap after lap Joseph challenged Wilkins for the lead and finally pulled fender to fender with him with only five laps left to go. Wilkins tried to hold the lead but got crossed up in front of Joseph in the second turn. The two machines collided sending Joseph off of the embankment. Joseph was uninjured but the car would not handle good enough to continue.

Dave White managed to escape the accident and held off hard charging Ronnie LaVere for the victory. It was White's first race since his serious crash at Georgetown three weeks ago.

Wilkins managed to charge back to finish third followed by Vernon Collins, Jim Goslee, Lester Nailor, and Bob Rogers.

Modified cars take the turn at Georgetown Speedway last Friday.

Dance Revue Scheduled for The Green

DOVER--A two-night dance and costume show is coming to the Dover Green this week.

The show, Clowns Unlimited, which began Wednesday, will continue Thursday at 7 p.m. Local talent in a modern jazz dance revue is being featured.

Dance routines will be directed by Felton Elementary School teacher, Bill Comer while Jane Singleton, also a Felton teacher, will direct the music.

Some of the numbers will be from Broadway shows such as the currently popular Chorus Line, some from movies such as Funny Lady and even numbers for the children from the ever-popular show, Sesame Street.

To diversify the dance from strictly modern jazz, the group will perform a square dance, a drill routine and the age-old Charleston.

Area residents participating are Jimmy Callaway and Clinton Graham from Lake Forest High School. Technically assisting director Comer in the revue are Sharon Williamson, Lee Kersey, Rae Ann Redman and Joyce Simmons, all teachers at Felton Elementary.

The show is free and open to the public.
