

This youngster knows what to do with snow when he sees it, and took his opportunity last Wednesday. Now, the next thing to find in southern Delaware was a hill, and this slight downgrade on Misspillion Street was enough to bring a smile to young Michael Smith's face.

This black kitten finds time to frolic for a few minutes in the afternoon snow that fell Wednesday afternoon. Not all felines are as happy about the snow as Midnight was. It appears that some cats like some forms of water.

Vogl House Named To National Register

MASTEN'S CORNER—The Vogl House, a unique concrete-block house of Eastern European design, has been named to the National Register of Historic Places by the National Park Service.

The announcement was made this week by the State of Delaware's Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs.

According to Edward Heite, the historic registrar, the process in naming the Vogl House took about six months. Properties are first nominated by the staff at the Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs, then reviewed by a state reviewing staff. Following this review, the nominations are sent to Washington to be decided upon by the National Park Service.

Living in the home are three of the children of a family of 10 children, eight of whom helped their parents in the construction of the home, which began in 1915.

The cornerstone of the concrete block house reads 1915, but according to Elsie Vogl Rouse, it took about three years for her parents, John A. and Wilhelmine, and the eight children to make the home livable. Two children were born after the home was completed.

"Mother was gifted from God", said Mrs. Rouse. She kept things moving in the construction of the home, which was a product of her talent and partly from the memory of homes in her native Bohemia. A newspaper advertisement lured the Vogl family to Kent County in 1908 after immigrating from Bohemia. The family farmed at first, but soon turned to raising chickens.

When the family decided to build the present home, they ordered a block machine and moulds from Sears, Roebuck and Company and laid the foundation.

Mrs. Vogl, who had no training in architecture and design, drew the plans and supervised the complete production of the building, which included designing the intricate moulds for statues and columns.

Concrete was used primarily because it resembled cut stone, the material used in the Vogls' native Bohemia in buildings and, for practicality, because it could be handled fairly easily and was relatively inexpensive.

The house is H-shaped, measures ninety by fifty-one feet with two large wings joined by a central section. There are seven bedrooms, two living rooms, one kitchen, one balcony and one hallway.

Throughout the house the European effect is in evidence. Mrs. Vogl's talent is also seen within the home as her art work is seen nearly everywhere. Several examples are seen on page 4 of this issue.

Even outside the home are examples of the family's artistry. Cast-concrete animal statues, designed and made by Mrs. Vogl, view the surrounding farmland through the stand of cedar trees that surrounds the home.

According to Susanne N. Fox, who was the research archivist involved in submitting the Vogl House to be considered initially, "Few details were overlooked in the creation of the Vogl House. Its beauty rests in its harmony of design and its charm in its overall picturesque quality."... "The Vogl House is also

Greenwood Fills Council Vacancy

GREENWOOD—Robert Reynolds attended his first meeting at the Greenwood Council last week. Reynolds had been appointed November 30 by the Council on recommendation by the Council President Floyd McDowell to fill the vacancy on the town council created by the death of Paul R. Webb.

The 37 year-old electrician will be completing the term of Mr. Webb, which ends in January, 1978.

The council announced the town's election will be the third Saturday in January, which is the 15th. Dates for voter registration for the January election were Dec. 11 and will be again this Saturday, December 18 at the town office located on South Church Street, from 2 to 6 p.m.

Date for filing for election is 10 days prior to the election. No one has filed at this writing.

Councilmen Nelson Taber and Charles Todd are the only members of council whose terms expire this January.

LF Board Approves Plans

FELTON—Monday night the Lake Forest Board formally approved the final plans for the proposed addition to two school facilities in the district. The district awaits approval by the State Board of Education of the plans submitted by Buckhart Associates of Lancaster, Pa.

The State Board will review the proposed plans when it meets this Thursday.

When final approval is given, the school district's next step will be to open bids, anticipated sometime during the latter part of January.

The proposed plans call for a $1,499,000 addition to the Lake Forest High School and a $92,000 addition to the Lake Forest North cafeteria.

The high school plans include eight class rooms, one science laboratory, one industrial arts shop and a 1200 seating capacity auditorium.

Additions to the Lake Forest North cafeteria will include a 2,000 foot addition to the cafeteria.

School officials do not anticipate when the work will be completed although one speculated it would be around 18 months.

In other action the board adopted the state sunshine policy that regulates what information will be made public regarding meetings. The local school board also decided they will continue to publish the agenda of their monthly meetings in this paper. The board has been publishing their agendas since October in an effort to inform the public of the meetings. The agenda is published the Wednesday before the Monday monthly meetings, which are usually the third Monday of the month.

The board also approved purchasing $175 for the student government to assist in the purchase of a $425 vacuum cleaner to clean the smoking area at the high school.

City Employee Injured

Due to someone's thoughtlessness, a city employe was cut on the wrist last week when he picked up a plastic trash bag that contained broken glass.

City Manager David Peterson has requested city residents to put items that are potentially hazardous (broken glass or jagged cans) into metal containers.

The city employe required stitches to close the cut on his wrist.

Houston Council Makes Donation

HOUSTON—The Houston Town Council in their monthly meeting last week voted to donate $1,000 to the Houston Vol. Fire Co.

When the matter was brought before the council by Mayor Leonard Rollison, Councilwoman Virginia Twilley moved to donate $1,000 to the Fire Co. Mayor Rollison announced the he was remaining neutral on the matter, but George Jester spoke out in opposition to the size of the donation. Last year's gift was in the sum of $500. In as much as there was a motion on the floor at the time, Jester's motion was out of order. Councilman William Sapp who admitted that this was only his second meeting felt that he needed more information on the subject.

When the vote was taken there was no opposition to the donation. Mayor expressed his belief after the vote that he approved the donation to be the same as last year's. Councilman Surdowski said "...the citizens of the Town would still get the fire protection regardless of the donation". It was felt earlier that the monies could be obtained from the federal or state funds, but it was ruled by the accountant that the money would come from the general fund.

In other matters before Council, Councilman William Sapp complained about a motorcyclist traveling at a high rate of speed from time to time in the community. This prompted later in the meeting a decision by Council to allow Police Chief Tom Francovic custody of the police car. Repairs to the police car in the way of new brakes have allowed the car to be in good condition.

The pot holes on Walton Street were reported on again by Councilman Surdowski that it would cost in the neighborhood of $40 to repair the large one. It was felt the cost of resurfacing the entire street was prohibitive. It was left to Mr. Surdowski to arrange to have it finished.

The Council awarded the snow removal to David Marvel, and it was left to his discretion to come into the Town and remove the snow when and if it does snow this winter.

It was also decided to arrange to have the storm drains cleaned by Charlie Wilson.

Poet's Condition Improves

Mr. Clifford Miller of Paradise Alley Road has been in the Milford Memorial Hospital for two weeks, having suffered a stroke. The family reports he is growing stronger at this writing. Mr. Miller contributed to the Harrington Journal for many years with a railroad column and the Poems from Paradise Pastures.

One of the fender benders that resulted from the snowfall here last Wednesday was on Rt. 14, west of Harrington. State police said neither Penelope Dubbs of Camden nor Penelope Jobses of Harrington were charged in the afternoon accident.

LOCAL INTEREST

by Edythe Hearn

During this busy season while, we are sending greetings to one another let's remember Mrs. Florence Layton and Mrs. Nellie French who are shut ins at the Messick Nursing Home and many others in our area.

Mrs. Charles Rapp and Mrs. Jack Harrington visited Mrs. John M. Connor in Wilmington one day recently.

Friends of both Burtin Satterfield who has been a patient in the University of Maryland Hospital and Raymond McCreedy who has been in Johns Hopkins Hospital were able to return to their respective homes last week.

The local Rotary Club will hold their Annual Christmas dinner at the 3 Little Bakers near Wilmington Thursday evening.

Chuck Hurd, Christopher and Missy Beene were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Outten and family

Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coverdale and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown have returned from a week's vacation in Pontotoe, Miss. visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wix visited his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Blanche Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carpenter visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter in New Castle one afternoon last week.

Mrs. Lela Taylor is a patient in Milford Memorial Hospital, room 341, and is much improved but expected to remain for several more days.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDonald returned home Monday after spending last week with their son, Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald in Goldsboro, N.C.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Layton Betts who passed away this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gritz of Faulkland Heights have been in Harrington since a few days before Thanksgiving holidays.

A former resident of Harrington Mrs. Nevada "Vadee" Wyatt Winkler, now of Wilmington, passed away early Sunday morning. She was a sister of the late Mrs. Elsie O'Neal.

The Harrington Journal has its own Santa Claus and he lives in Wheeler's Park. Every year Mr. William Wheeler brings us delicious (and some tart) apples around the beginning of December. We appreciate his thoughtfulness and are doing our share of munching these days, thanks to our friend from Wheeler's Park.

This photo of Frank Fleming, taken about 1919, was supplied by Mrs. Avery Gray of Wilmington and Clarence Collins of Harrington. Fleming was the founder of The Harrington Journal in 1913. His wife was a relative of Collins. After the sale of the newspaper to J. Harvey Burgess of Missouri in 1917, Fleming moved to Federal Point in Maryland where he became an administrator in the Veterans Hospital located there. Collins remembers visiting with the Fleming's.

We would like to express our most sincere and heartfelt sympathy to our bookkeeper, Mrs. Merle Ruth in the loss of her daughter-in-law Mrs. Patsy Kimmey and to her husband Neal and all her family.

We also extend sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Short due to the loss of their son-in-law Layton Betts. Our sympathy also to Thelma and the children.

Our Kitchen Band had rehearsal on Monday morning as usual. After lunch the Band went to Greenwood Rest Home to entertain the patients.

Mr. Lassiter was here with some slides and a talk on New England. It would make a nice trip when the weather is warmer.

The state nurse was here as usual every month for blood pressures.

Wednesday quite a few members boarded Mrs. Bawman's Bus and went to Clayton for the county-wide Christmas party and dinner.

Thursday some members went by Mr. Bawman's Bus to Cherry Hill, N.J. It was a nice day and we had a good trip. We all came home tired and with some shopping done.

Friday as usual after lunch the Tele-Ride bus took some members to Milford, bowling, shopping or whatever.

Our high lady this week was Mrs. Merle Roth. The high gentleman was Fred Littmann.

Couple Relate Story Of Sea Rescue

Ed. note: Several months ago, the Harrington Journal carried the rescue account of a couple who went into the ocean during a sudden storm. What follows is an account of the accident and a letter from the woman, who with her husband, were rescued by Henry Nutter, a former resident of the Harrington area.

Norman J. Kelley and Henry Nutter, both of Milford, Delaware, rescued a woman and a man in the late afternoon of Tuesday, May 18, 1976.

A storm came up suddenly with gale force winds and high waves. During the height of the storm, both radios and depth finders were destroyed by waves breaking over the bow of the boat, Nina Kay II, making it impossible to communicate with rescue agencies, marine police or any other boat.

While the Nina Kay II was storm tossed by lashing winds, Norman observed a small boat starting to sink and the two occupants, who wore life jackets, were washed overboard by the rough sea. The man was holding onto one of the woman's hands. The water was turbulent with high winds and waves.

The boat made a number of passes trying to rescue the woman and the man whose boat had sunk. The last pass Captain Henry Nutter in the Nina Kay II made, Norman Kelley was able to grab the woman by one of her hands, while the man was holding onto her other hand. Norman called for assistance and other members of the fishing party came to his aid and helped pull the woman and the man on board the Nina Kay II.

When Norman rescued the couple, they were in about 45 feet of water, and were completely exhausted and water soaked. The water temperature was about 50 degrees.

This accident happened southwest of the oil tanker, Anchorage. The Delaware Bay was the roughest that Norman Kelley had ever seen it in his 20 years of experience in boating in the Delaware Bay.

Someone asked Norman Kelley why he risked his own life in saving the life of the woman and the man. Norman replied, "Because I thought it was the RIGHT thing to do and if I were in the same circumstances, I hope that someone will do the same thing for me."

Henry Nutter is Captain of the Nina Kay II, a 47 foot long fishing party boat that docks at Millpillion Light near Milford, Delaware.

Norman J. Kelley went on the boat trip to assist Captain Henry Nutter with his fishing party.

In my opinion, Norman J. Kelley and Captain Henry Nutter should receive some recognition for their heroic effort in saving the life of a woman and a man in a wild turbulent sea.

Helen B. Phillips - 222 Schafer Blvd. Llangollen Estates, New Castle, Delaware

It's easy to relate an event to someone - to describe in detail what happened - the fears, the pain, the hope, the prayers. It's something like what an arthritic patient who looks well enough but who is wracked with pain that cannot be seen, the heart attack victim who attempts to describe the excruciating pain in his chest, his striving for every breath of air knowing that is his very life line. It's easy for the listener to nod and attempt to understand, yet, it is impossible for him to understand since he was not the one who experienced it.

I use the foregoing only for the purpose of setting the stage for describing our accident, knowing, fully well, there are no words that can come close to describing the hazardous conditions and the heroism shown by Captain Henry Nutter and Norm Kelley and so as not to exclude anyone - several other men on the headboat who assisted in our rescue risking their lives, under nearly impossible navigational conditions, to rescue us. No honor, how great, would be too great for these fine men.

With this in mind, let me begin -

It was on May 18, 1976, that Bernie, who is a Professional Pharmaceutical Representative for the Schering Corporation, covering the State of Delaware and who, on that particular day, was working down State, had mentioned if the weather was nice after he finished work, taking the boat, a 20' Sea Craft, out for a couple of hours before he returned to Maple Shade, New Jersey, where he has an invalid mother in a nursing home and an elderly father he must keep close check on, and I, who am attending Temple University in Philadelphia, returned to my apartment in Merchantville, New Jersey. On his lunch break he had checked the Coast Guard report. They had reported 10-20 knots, no small craft warnings. So, at approximately 5 p.m., we launched the boat from Bowers Beach, a place we have come to love because of its unspoiled natural beauty. There were a few clouds in the sky. It even looked as though we might possibly get a few showers some time in the evening, but the bay was relatively calm. We had been out only twice prior to this and had had little more luck at fishing then catching several sand sharks and numerous oyster crackers. On the two previous occasions, we had had my two small boys, ages six and nine with us. The horrible thought haunts us still - had they been with us, even with the heroic seamanship displayed by Captain Nutter, we would have all perished since they would probably have panicked and Bernie and I had, by the time of our rescue, expended our last bit of strength to keep ourselves afloat.

It's strange when you speak of death - you feel sad for a friend who loses a loved one. You learn of someone very dear to you who is dying of cancer and you feel sad. You hear of a plane crash where large numbers of people are killed - and you feel sad, an automobile accident where a whole family is wiped out or a young high school senior with all his dreams of tomorrow suddenly gone - and you feel sad. I'm sorry is the classic expression, but tomorrow brings less remembrance of the tragedy of yesterday. It always happens to someone else - then suddenly, with little forewarning, you personally come face to face with death! There is an old adage that wherever there is life, there is hope, but no words I can ever write will express the thoughts of someone who is alive, but short of a miracle, knows they are dying.

Mrs. Vogl used the eagle, the symbol of her new homeland, in this painting which is frozen in flight on the wall of the entrance hall.

From The Frying Pan

Last week the Harrington City Council took a giant step forward. They voted to have the city charter rewritten. It will cost the city $1200 to have this work accomplished, but it should be well worth it.

For the past several years, whenever we have had to refer to the charter, it has been a frustrating and somewhat confusing experience. Items that should be covered are not, and things are included in the charter that need to be updated.

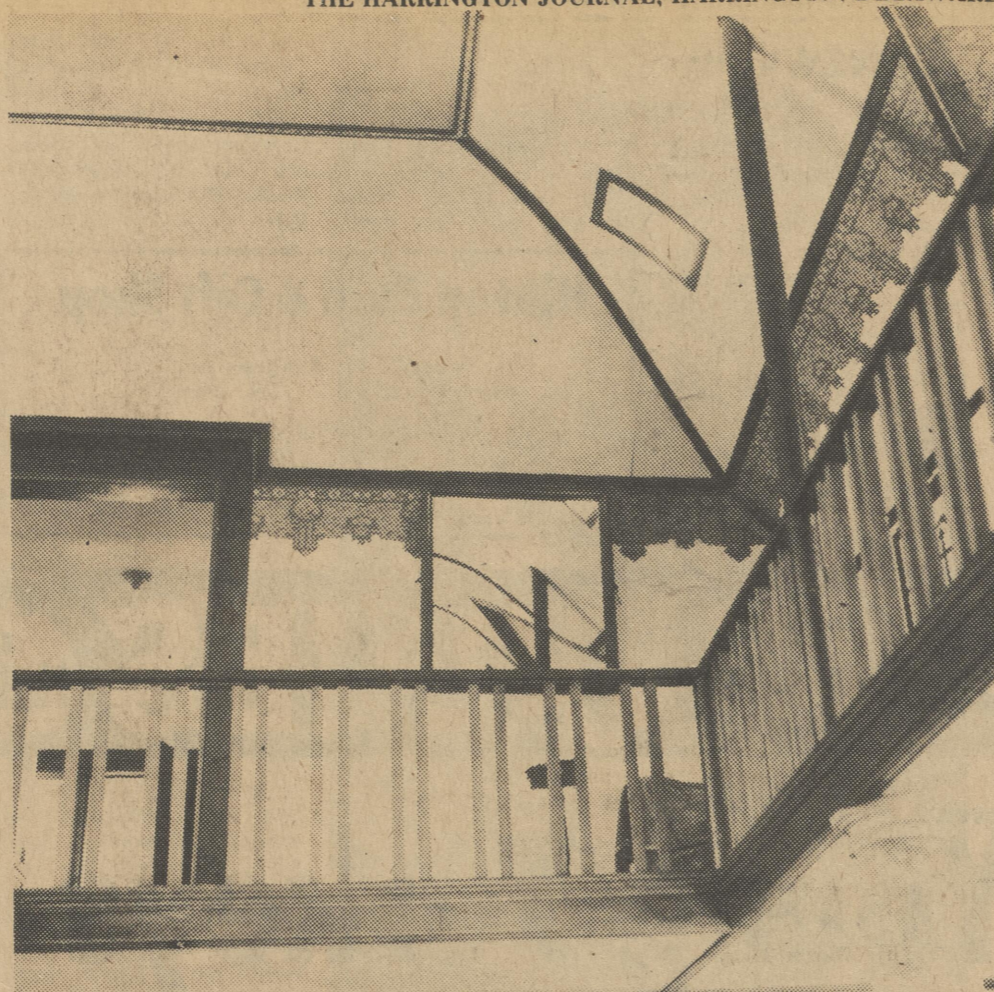

In particular, however, it is high time the city got some teeth in its governmental mouth. There have been several instances where citizens who are in open violation of ordinances in the charter have beaten a court case because the charter has been declared unconstitutional in those instances.

We hope that the $1200 the city is paying Mr. Harry Flood will give the charter some effectiveness and clarity it is in desperate need of having.

There will be time for citizen input into the charter, too. After the draft is made, there will be a public hearing where city residents will be given an opportunity to express views.

After that, it will be up to the General Assembly to accept or reject the revised charter.

The next thing the council needs to do, although it will be too late to have any effect on the city's election in January, will be to redistrict the wards, which are not in balance at present.

This interior photograph of the Vogl House shows the decorative border and celestial scene in the ceiling of the main entrance hall.

Former Harringtonian Sends Greetings

My friend, Harry G. Farrow, Jr. allowed as how he would print a message from me from North Wisconsin. No way can I be in Harrington this Christmas season, and since this will really be my first Christmas away from all of you people, I would certainly like to say Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year by way of the Harrington Journal.

I subscribe to the Journal and the Delaware State News - the Journal arrives right on schedule every week; but the State News delivery is very erratic.

Let me report from this north woods - that I'm busier now than when I was working! Aside from the fact that the names are certainly different and so are the places, I do feel very much back in business. Am now working a six day week, mostly mornings - doing business as Darwin Insurance Agency, an old time Grand View agency established in 1910, which I was able to purchase effective July 1st. Also, am now a licensed Wisconsin real estate broker, operating as Gilstad Realty. All that's needed now is an association with a local bank, then everything will seem very much like back in Harrington business wise. However, it would be so much easier doing business with familiar names like Quillen, Peck, Hughes, Minner, Gallo, Gerardi, Smith, Walls, Taylor etc. etc. instead of Carlson, Olson, Gunderson, Amundson, Finstad, Volstad etc.. You may have heard that I had visitors this past summer. The Jones Family; David, Madalyn, and Charles drove out, arriving about the same hour that Herman Brown and Paul Neeman were flying into near-by Telemark Lodge. Believe me, their visitation was a highlight of the summer. We golfed, picnicked and just plain visited. Also canoeed down the White River. David just had to say that my White River reminded him of Jackson Ditch-But, later, when he upset his canoe I asked him if it wasn't a heck of a lot colder! Really the White is a beautiful trout stream, spring fed and crystal clear water, providing some of the best German Brown trout fishing in the U.S. Daughter Anne and her husband Rick Miller spent ten days with me in early August - just a great visit. Yesterday, Laura Davidson (Brown, Shiels and Barros office) and her husband Bob stopped by, stayed over night and what a pleasant surprise visit it was.

I'm in the woods a lot - the office work is now becoming fairly routine - I can knock it all out in a couple of morning hours. Then, most days, I head for the woods. My own cooking and hikes in the brush seem to be keeping me out of the doctors office. (Don't know where I would find a doctor anyway up in this North Pole! Was minus 36 degrees a couple days ago.) You know, when you transplant as I have, you really miss your dentist, your doctor, your banker, lawyer and garage man. I also miss oysters, clams, scrapple, going to Dover and being with the Brown, Shiels and Barros gang. Miss stopping in at Burton

Smith's, the Paper Store, and Post Office, the Bank and SWAIN'S HOTEL - just to name a few of the places, and, of course, I do miss the Fair Grounds very much.

But mostly, I miss all of you wonderful people who were so kind during my years in Harrington. Best wishes for a Happy Holiday and may the Good Lord bless you - everyone.

unusual because it was built through the efforts of an entire family.

The Vogl House joins 166 homes, archaeological sites, ruins, and other historical sites in Delaware. By joining the list, the Vogl House will achieve consideration by the federal government in case of federal projects in the area. It also becomes eligible for national preservation funding on a 50-50 grant basis. The house remains a private residence and is not open for public inspection.

The day before he died, Mr. Vogl told his daughter Elsie, "You're gonna fix shon (it)". She thinks he meant that the family should try to preserve the home they all labored over for the future. Today Alexander and Alfonso Vogl and sister Elsie Rouse still live at the home. No doubt their parents would be relieved to know their efforts would be a little safer now.

At the age of 22, Ludwig van Beethoven paid 19 cents to take his first music lesson from Franz Joseph Haydn in Vienna.

Days Of Our Years

Ten Years Ago

Fri., Dec. 16, 1966
"Vandals 'observed the Christmas spirit' Wednesday evening by damaging the car of William Taylor near Harrington High School where the annual Christmas candlelight and carol service was being given. Wires were torn from the motor as part of the damage."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dill attended the Baltimore Colts football game last Saturday.

Doug Poore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Poore, celebrated his 3rd birthday Tuesday, Dec. 13. [Ed. note: this young man is now delivering the Harrington Journal to city residents].

The following members from Harrington High School were named to this year's All-High School Band for Kent County: Judy Burgess, Daniel Smith, John Swain, Charles Brown, Donny Ray Ellwanger, and Norris Guy Winebrenner.

From the "Sixteen Years Ago column": (Fri., Dec. 15, 1950) Burton Betts, 89, died at his home in Dover Sunday morning after several weeks' illness. He lived in Harrington many years where he conducted a mercantile business at his home on Mechanic St.

Nancy Yost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Yost, of Houston is confined to her home at the present time with an attack of flu.

Mrs. Leroy Wheeler, intertype operator at the Harrington Journal underwent a minor operation Wednesday at Milford Memorial Hospital.

Marshall L. Hatfield, son of Mayor and Mrs. Luther P. Hatfield, is a member of the 67-voice East Carolina College Chorale. The group presented its first concert of the year Sunday afternoon.

Twenty Years Ago

Fri., Dec. 21, 1956
J. Gordon Smith, Chairman of the State Highway Department, was a speaker during ceremonies opening the final section of dual highway south of Greenwood last Friday. The ribbon was cut by Governor J. Caleb Boggs, while Mr. Smith held it for him.

Mrs. Annie Laurie Clark and Mrs. Blanche Cahall spent Monday in Wilmington.

Sgt. Grace Miltenberger spent the weekend at home with her parents. She has bought herself a 1957 Chevrolet for Christmas.

A-2C Glenn Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sullivan, is visiting his parents over the holidays. He is a radio mechanic and is stationed at Eglon Field, Fla. Mrs. Lucy Knipper left today for Kentucky to visit relatives and friends. She plans to spend the Christmas Holidays there, and return sometime in January.

Mrs. Harry Greenberg and son Stuart will spend the holidays visiting friends and relatives in New York. They will also visit points of interest.

Births: to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dill, Felton, boy, Dec. 8; to Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Smith, Harrington, boy, Dec. 9; to Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rust, Farmington, girl, Dec. 11; to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Messick, Jr., Harrington, boy, Dec. 12.

Dr. Hewitt Smith has announced he will run for mayor in the municipal elections Tuesday, Jan. 8. This was after considerable urging. No opponent has appeared to date to seek the office.

The mayor will serve two years, replacing Mayor Ernest Killen, who has served two terms.

Jo Ann Breedg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Breeding of Hkman, and Everett Outh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Outhen, were married Friday evening by the Rev. Lawson Jump of Denton.

Holiday Safety Do's and Don'ts

Ed. note: The following information was submitted by Joe Green, chief of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company. He and the members of the company hope the leaders will take the time to check these helpful safety hints prepared by the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc to insure a safe holiday.

The Christmas season usually goes hand in hand with traditions. Many traditions revolve around the decorating of the Christmas tree, and the purchasing of gifts for loved ones and friends. Underwriters Laboratories Inc., a not-for-profit organization testing for public safety, and your local fire department, would like to offer a few tips to help make your holiday safe - not sorry.

DO be careful when buying your tree

When purchasing your Christmas tree this year, buy a firm, fresh tree. Store it in a cool place with the base of the tree in water - until ready to be decorated.

If you are buying an artificial tree - be sure to look for the UL Label which tells you it is classified as flame resistant.

DO make a check of the decorations you use - Remember to check the decorative ghting strings for frayed wires, broken cords, an loose sockets. These conditions pose potential electrical hazards. Use only light strings that bear a UL Label.

When trimming the tree, avoid using ladders or other decorations that may ignite easily. Keep the tree away from the fireplace, radiator, and the T.V. set - any source of heat may cause the tree to become dry, thus creating a fire hazard.

DON'T overdo it -

Be sure not to overload the electrical circuits in your home. The wires that carry more current than they can handle may overheat and cause a fire. Read manufacturer's instructions on lighting strings carefully and do not use more than the recommended number of lights in one circuit.

Christmas decorations are beautiful - and very pleasant to look at. However, when you leave your home or retire for the night, turn off the light sets, colored spot lights, or other decorations.

DON'T settle for the unknown -

When purchasing gifts for the people you care about take time out to check for the UL label. Gifts of electric food blenders, hair dryer, hot combs, and the like are tested for safety by Underwriters Laboratories. Show that you care - check for the UL Label.

Be safe and happy this Christmas season. When preparing for the holidays take the extra steps to show you care - follow the Do's and Don'ts outlined above. You'll be glad you did.

This particular day we decided to go out close to the Brandywine Shoal since that is where the headboats lie and the weakfish as they are called in New Jersey, according to all reports, had been biting well. I'm quite sure that was the best decision we could have made, since that put us in a position where Captain Nutter could have come across us in his attempt to reach home.

I remember very vividly how beautiful the day was that afternoon. Being a novice at boating, I had no fear of the few dark clouds that seemed to be gathering behind us and on occasion would blot out the sun, but as the clouds would pass, I can remember expressing how beautiful the sun is on the bay at that time of the afternoon.

We continued past the anchorage and shortly beyond decided to stop. We dropped our lines - five in all. Within about twelve minutes we had caught four beautiful weakfish. There were several boats in the area, however, I don't recall seeing "The Nina Kay".

The wind had picked up a little and there seemed to be a few drops of rain now and then, so we put our raincoats on.

The wind continued to pick up and Bernie decided to pull in our lines and start for home. I was opposed to this since I was ecstatic with joy over catching my first fish. Bernie, with quite a bit of navigation experience behind him, apparently sensed we might have some difficulty in reaching home so he won out. We started for Bowers. The wind continued to pick up as we started back toward the anchorage. As we neared the anchorage, where a Japanese freighter lay anchored, the sea had turned to a raging inferno of water much comparable to an uncontrollable fire. There was a thunderstorm with sharp lightning over us. We had figured the freighter was about one mile ahead of us and it had taken us approximately one hour to go that one mile. I would estimate at that point the waves were approximately twelve to fifteen feet high, many times totally engulfing the bow of the boat. The boat fortunately was self-bailing.

Bernie tried to keep the bow into the waves in order to keep from capsizing. At several points, as we approached a wave, we had laid on top, not certain whether or not we would swamp. As we neared the freighter, I began to panic, begging Bernie to try to tie into the freighter. It seemed our only hope of surviving. My inexperience in boating was apparent at that time, since Bernie knew that our chances of reaching shore were greater than being thrashed apart against the freighter should we attempt to get close enough to tie into their anchor line. I can remember thinking - there must be some courtesy of the sea as there is on land - that one human being helps his fellow man but, there was no sign of life on the Japanese freighter. Bernie kept reassuring me that we could make it. It is difficult to gauge distance when in the sea, but I would guess we were approximately 500' beyond the freighter when Bernie mentioned there seemed to be an abnormal amount of water in the bilge. Being afraid to leave the wheel since I am not experienced in navigation, Bernie inserted a fuse in the bilge pump. Unable to leave the wheel, he could not tell if the bilge pump was working. Apparently it was not, because shortly thereafter, the motor quit. We had been taking a lot of water over the stern, but being self-bailing, it was running out. As the motor stopped and we lost our power, Bernie tied a bucket and threw it from the bow of the boat. That, I later learned, was in an attempt to keep the bow into the wave. Prior to this, there had been no boats visible near us. It seemed we were totally alone. It is difficult to describe what happened in the next few minutes - everything happened so fast. We were being thrown almost mercilessly about the sea. Bernie threw anchor hoping to help stabilize the boat to some extent. I was in the bow on the floor as there was no standing up. I could see water in the stern. Bernie had a bucket and was bailing, but as fast as he could bail the water came higher. At that moment, I saw two boats, one appeared to be about 16'; the other I recognized as the Nina Kay. They apparently were going in the same course as we. I can remember praying that they might help us, but the 16' boat, having its problems too, sped past us, too busy fighting the raging sea to even acknowledge our existence. I kept thinking "Dear God, how can a human being ignore its fellow man." Then I realized - this is a matter of self preservation - man against the sea. Who are we but two small people in this vast world to expect them to jeopardize their lives and the lives of their passengers to try to rescue us. The 44' Nina Kay was having its problems too as it continued on its course completely unaware of our situation, it seemed.

Christmas Masque Set

Two performances of the second annual dance drama, "A Masque for Christmas," will be held Friday, December 17, at 7 and 8:30 p.m. in Christ Church, Dover. The masque is an unusual presentation of the Christmas Story told in free form music, song, dance and pantomime. It was designed from a collection of early fifteenth-century French illuminated manuscripts called Les Belles Heures, by Jean, Duke of Berry.

Elizabeth Toulmin, director of the Dover School of Ballet, is producing the masque. The Dover Baroque Ensemble and the choir of Christ Church will provide the music. The Friends of Old Dover are sponsoring the production. Admission is free.

Retired School Teacher Dies

Wilma C. Wood
 HARRINGTON - Wilma C. Wood, 67, of 36 Clark St., died Friday in Milford Memorial Hospital after a long illness. Mrs. Wood was a retired school teacher who had taught for about 30 years at the Lake Forest North Elementary School in Felton. Her husband, Wilford W. Wood, died in 1959. She is survived by three sons, William J. of Vienna, Va., and Robert L. and David A., both of Felton; one brother, Robert H. Hooper of Baton Rouge, La.; one sister, Winifred Stevens of Springfield, Mo.; and five grandchildren. Services will be today (Wednesday) at the Blackmore-Whitaker Funeral Home, Trenton, Mo. Friends called Sunday night at the Berry Funeral Home, Main Street, Felton. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society, Kent County Unit, 5 E. Reed St., Dover.

Churches Schedule Christmas Programs

Harrington Baptist

The Adult Choir of the Harrington Baptist Church will present the Christmas Cantata, "So Great a Gift" by Daniel B. Thomas, on Sunday evening, December 19, at 7 p.m.

Soloists include Marcia Yancey, Linda Collins, Diane Baugus and George Black. A ladies quartet will feature Anise Black, Pat Bailey, Diane Baugus and Marcia Yancey. A mixed quartet will include Donna Schurman, George Black, Anise Black and Everett Yancey.

Directing the choir will be Mrs. W. P. Watson, with Tara Coverdale at the organ, and Abe Ellison as the narrator.

W. P. Watson is pastor of the church. The public is invited to attend.

Calvary Wesleyan

The Senior Choir of Calvary Wesleyan Church, Harrington, will present "Love Transcending" on Sunday, Dec. 19, during the morning service at 10:50 a.m. The choir is under the direction of Mr. Harry Bradford, Jr.; Mrs. Thelma Miller is accompanist.

The music was written by John W. Peterson and includes songs by Earl Griffin, Carlton Goodhand, Kathy Wetherhold, and Mr. and Mrs. John Mervine. The full choir is used extensively throughout the Cantata.

Rev. William H. Miller, Pastor, extends an invitation to all in the Harrington area to attend this special Christmas service.

Greenwood United Methodist Church

The Senior Choir of the Greenwood United Methodist will present a Christmas cantata, "The Wonder of Christmas" by John W. Peterson, Sunday, December 19th, at 7:30 in the evening. The Christmas Story will also be enacted in a pageant with a cast of twenty people.

Girls' Team Rebuilding

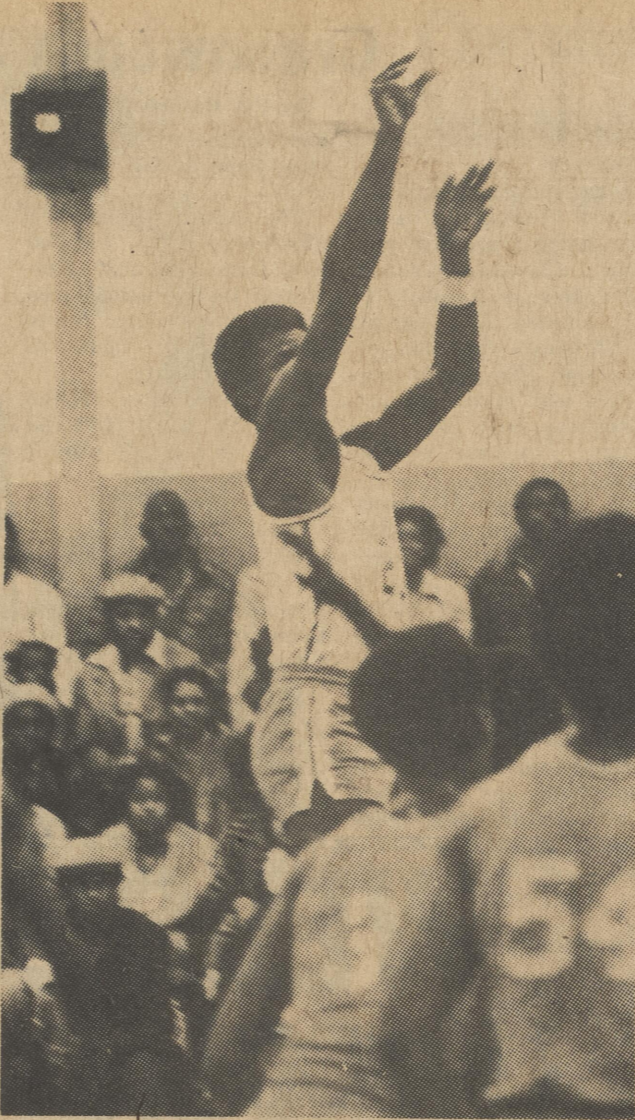

by Millard Ellingsworth III
This will be a year of rebuilding for the Lake Forest Girls Varsity basketball team.

Vivian Sudler, and Cheryl Short as well as Barbara Richter and Debbie Knowles. Four of last year's varsity players are returning, however. They are Laura Newnom, Sandy Carey, Brenda Teat, and Cindy Dukes. To complement these are Paula Jackson, Joyce McClements, Joyce Ewing, Judy Mohlenkamp, Chris Morrow, and Doretha Dukes.

Ms. Pat Dyal, the team's coach, said that the team is "...progressing slowly. They lack game experience because they are young." Going on, Ms. Dyal commented, "This team needs to gather together and become a unit, they need rebounding and shooting improvement as well as acquiring hustle and aggressiveness."

The big gun in the Spartans' victory last Friday was Sam Carey who scored 21 points to help Lake Forest defeat defending State Champion Cape Henlopen.

LF Comes From Behind

Cape Defeated 77-60

by Millard Ellingsworth III
After falling behind early in the first half, the Spartans staged a 23 point third quarter rally to smash defending state champion Cape Henlopen last Friday night.

The Spartans took the court against the Cape Henlopen Vikings for their first game of the season. The Vikings had played one previous game against Brandywine which they lost. Cape Henlopen jumped to an early lead putting themselves seven points ahead of the Spartans 9-2 early in the first quarter. They held the lead through the rest of the first quarter, ending the period 15-8, Cape Henlopen.

Tightening up their defense, the Spartans hoped to close the margin. Cape's attack was still devastatingly aggressive, however, and they were able to stretch their lead to 11 points at 25-14 early in the second period. Lake Forest's full court press started to work and Frank Corsey was able to bring the Spartans within one point after a steal and a breakaway. Cape managed to put four more points on the board before the half ended to take a five point lead into the locker room with them, 33-28.

Lake Forest's defense remained effective and Sam Carey led the offense with eight points to take a 51-39 third period lead, scoring 23 points while holding the Vikings to six. The Spartans continued to lengthen their lead during the fourth quarter and Coach Buck Starkey took the opportunity to allow everyone to play. They were able to score 26 points in the fourth period for a total of 77 points to Cape's 60.

Coach Starkey commented after the game "I'm happy for them (the team)...They (Cape Henlopen) were really aggressive when they first started...the pressure was tremendous (but) we loosened up after those first game jitters."

When Ron Shockley, a senior member of the team, was asked what was wrong during the first half, he said, "Coach knew the problem. He said 'You've got to play tighter'."
