Weather Continues

To Cause Problems Here

If the weather isn't normally one's conversation, it surely has been this month, and this past week in particular, when it has been as cold, if not colder than locals can remember in 40 years or more.

Monday morning around 7 a.m., the temperature dipped to 3 below zero, only to rise to about ten degrees all day. Tuesday brought slightly higher temperatures, but the early morning low reading continued. The forecast for the remainder of the week was to be more of the same at press time.

Those venturing out onto roads and streets have found the traveling treacherous, although no serious accidents have resulted from the weather in this area.

As if the sleet, icy rain, and snow followed by wind were not enough, the sudden plummeting of the temperature has caused its own problems.

At Lake Forest High School, for instance, absenteeism was around 30 percent Monday, when normal absentee percentage is around 8 percent. Lake Forest and Milford School Districts were the only two south of the canal to open their doors on time Monday, following a snowfall of around three inches Sunday. School is getting back to normal, according to Griffin, who said the major problems were with drivers getting their buses to start in the mornings, a difficult task with vehicles with motors so large.

Electricity was cut back five percent Monday and gas reduction was a possibility as power was being shipped into the Midwest and Southern states who have been unable to get power supplies due to waterways being frozen. Local electric users will not notice any appreciable difference in their usage of electrical appliances or televisions, and DP&L spokesman stated local customers will not pay in any way for the power being transferred to the Midwest and South.

The frigid temperatures have caused business to boom in some stores, and to lag in others. Carl June reports not many people are venturing out to the local pharmacy this week, which he contributes to the weather.

On the other hand, Taylor's Hardware and Discount Auto are doing a brisk business. Bob Taylor at the local hardware store reports they are low on heat bulbs, heat tapes and tanks for hand to raches, although they are expecting a new supply by today. He also says his stock is getting low on electric heaters, except for the more expensive ones. Also, gloves, boots, hats, weather stripping have all been selling well. As of Tuesday the store was just about out of pump parts and out of heater motors. He also reports they are about a day behind in service calls, which they usually keep current. District To View Corporal Punishment

Felton - The Lake Forest School District will hold a hearing next Thursday night to discuss the district's policy regarding corporal punishment. The meeting is to be held at the Lake Forest High School cafeteria at 7:30 p.m.

The district must formulate a policy dealing with punishment within the district in accordance with a ruling from the State Department of Public Instruction as through dictate of the State Board of Education.

According to high school principal William Griffin, there has been a discipline committee working on the district's policy since early fall, meeting weekly in October and November and twice in December.

The eighteen member committee has drafted a two page policy on the corporal punishment policy and will air it, hopefully with input from interested and concerned people next Thursday night.

It will then go to the local school board for final viewing and passage.

As written, the policy draft deals with the authority of teachers and administrators to administer corporal punishment. Griffin says he has had to resort to corporal punishment four times in three years. The proposed policy will return corporal punishment to individual teachers where necessary, according to Delaware Code.

According to the drafted objectives, corporal punishment will be to maintain order and control of the total school environment to assure the conduct of scheduled teaching/learning activities.

As defined, the proposal states it is "...physical contact between the student and a teacher or an administrator for the purpose of corrective action and/or maintenance of safety and well being of students and staff."

It will include spanking, paddling, by use of a District approved instrument, forceful pressure on the shoulder or arms to gain students' attention or to restrain them, slapping a student on the hand.

Prohibited will be "physical contact in any vital area such as the head, neck or solar plexus, use of the feet or fists, throwing objects at students."

Two To Study In Washington

Who really controls a government "of...by...and for the people"? Cathy Ann Ricker and Mary Lou Tilghman, students at Lake Forest High School will soon have an opportunity to find out by participating in A Presidential Classroom for Young Americans. They and other selected high school students from throughout the country will meet in Washington, D.C. for a nontraditional, nonpartisan look at the nation's political structure.

During a rigorous seven days of seminars and on-site briefings, Misses Ricker and Tilghman will study the major components of the Federal government—the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches — plus other institutions which have significant relationships with government, among them the Military, the news media, corporate management and organized labor. The curriculum will include both the structure of institutions and the decision-making process that, combined with political power, is responsible for the formation of public policy. Chartered in 1968 as a nonprofit, educational program, Presidential Classroom has provided more than 13,000 young people with firsthand exposure to prominent leaders and observers of the Federal government. Past speakers have included Senators, Representatives, Justices of the Supreme Court, Cabinet Secretaries, members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, foreign ambassadors, White House Staff, news media personnel and high-level executives from many different Federal agencies and the private sector.

The two students will be participating in Class three of the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans from February 12 through February 19.

Miss Ricker is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Ricker of Harrington.

Miss Tilghman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw, Jr. of Weiner Avenue, Harrington.

Gab Fest

by Pat Hatfield

Here's a delightful poem for you early risers who love the dawn as I do. It is by Phoebe Cranor and she calls it "My Good Fortune". "The sun got up and touched the hills with pink. It glorified the early morning air. I almost stayed in bed...in bed, just think! For such a show, I almost wasn't there."

Such a moment would add another brick in our store house of memories. And last week we talked a lot about memories. Today, I picked up Gladys Taber's latest book, "Harvest of Yesterdays" and enjoyed her discourse on memories. She says: "I think of my memories as tucked away in an ebony treasure box like rough-cut jewels...when I hold one in my hand, chosen at random, I live completely in the spell it casts...I have tried to assemble them as if I were stringing those rough-cut stones on a single strand."

So many letters and telephone calls are still coming in about Minnehaha Cake, and I've tried to answer them all. But right after Christmas, I mislaid the recipe for the batter which we use in this family. Of course as I told everyone, the batter can be any favorite batter you may like, or might, if you wish, be a box mix. But I've found the one that the Hatfields have used. Here goes once again. Get out your scissors, dear Readers, and clip. This is called "One, Two, Three, Four Cake" and may be used any time. It will give you three thick layers. Thus: 1 cup butter or Crisco, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla (or more if desired), 2 cups sugar, 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 4 eggs, and 1/4 teaspoon salt. I cream the butter, sugar and vanilla, add 1 egg at a time and beat well, then the dry ingredients with the milk. The Minnehaha part is in the frosting. You may use homemade or a mix. I use the canned frosting, ready to spread. White is pretty, but I lean toward the butter pecan mix...the beige color is pleasing. After frosting, press into it chopped dates and black walnut pieces and place a candied or maraschino cherry here and there for pretty. There! Now we can all file that along with the rice pudding and the tomato fritters! But, if you lose them, as I have done, just call. I had to get the rice pudding recipe again from dear Mrs. Deputy and she was so kind about it. I've never really gotten my recipe file in proper shape since Hilary, at three, dumped the whole thing all over the kitchen floor. I have never been so exasperated by a child behavior problem. I was so mad I was afraid to spank her, for fear I'd hit her too hard!

I got over a big, emotional hurdle this week. I had some teeth removed to get ready for new dentures. This did not hurt at all physically but the problem was psychosomatic. After all, I have lived with these teeth for seventy some years, more or less, and it was like losing a vital part of me. I'm making out fine with liquid soups, soft custards and the like, but the minute you can't have something, it becomes the most desirable thing in all the world. Isn't that silly? And you sit and think of all the foods you haven't had in weeks or years...totally unrelated items...cucumbers, corn bread, pecan pie or salmon soufflé. However, this, too, shall pass, and no doubt the new teeth will compensate for all the problems.

Farmers Plant Crops

Delaware farmers planted a total of 33 thousand acres of winter wheat in the fall of 1976 for harvest in 1977, 6 percent less than last year.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) December Winter Wheat Seeding Report, Delaware's winter wheat production for this year is forecast at 957 thousand bushels, James S. Metz, Chairman, Kent County ASC Committee said. This compares with 1,087 million bushels in 1976 and 1,156 million in 1975.

The Nation's winter wheat seedings for 1977 totaled 55.8 million acres, 3 percent less than last year, and 1 percent less than in 1975. Based on crop conditions in December, production of the U.S. winter wheat crop for this year is forecast at 1,438 million bushels, 8 percent below the 1976 crop.

According to the USDA report, seedbed preparation for the crop was slowed over much of the United States as farmers waited for rains to provide needed soil moisture. Some farmers began seeding late August hoping the needed rains would come. "Nationwide, the winter wheat crop was in only fair condition during early December," the report said.

January linen sales often include savings on bed pillows. If you're replenishing your pillow supply, be selective and buy good quality, advises Coral Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. With proper care, pillows can last indefinitely she says.

Pillows are available in a wide range of fillings and sizes. The softest, most luxurious, and most expensive are those filled with down. People who like slightly firmer pillows may prefer a blend of down and feathers.

All-feather pillows are the firmest of the natural fillings. Pillows of polyester fiberfill or foam rubber also tend to be firm.

Down and feather pillows will usually outlast synthetic pillows. However, the synthetics may be advisable for those with certain allergies.

After selecting your new pillows, Ms. Morris recommends protecting them with an underslip which can be laundered regularly. Each day, fluff and air feather and down pillows, pushing the corners toward the center. This will keep the crowns high and pillows plump.

Feather and down pillows also benefit from an occasional session in the dryer on low heat for ten minutes. This will remove the humidity and keep the pillows resilient.

Occasional washing will also extend the life of pillows, adds the specialist. Check the care label for the correct washing and drying instructions, and follow them carefully.

"...take off the blinders...there are no trespassing signs there"

The usual enthusiasm which precedes an election as well as the same which follows it was the case with the recent Town election. Although pleased that a write in candidate did not win the election for the simple reason that I feel a write in candidate should only be allowed under strict rules as apply to say voting an absentee ballot, I am not saying by the same token that any of the write ins would not have made a good Mayor...or councilman.

At last Wednesday night's organization meeting of the newly elected Mayor suggested that more citizens of the Town become interested in Town affairs or in the alternative attend Town meetings by the droves. This won't happen just like that for the simple reason that most of us...except through this Newspaper...are not as informed as we should be. Most of the citizens do not know in which Ward they reside or for that matter who is their Councilman. They simply pass it off as being something they will look into some time. They may...but most likely they will not do so...and they will not do so for the many other reasons directly related to Town affairs.

Is it their duty to do this? Maybe so, but more like the fact that it should be up to the people who direct the Town Government. I personally believe every Councilman should know everyone who resides in their Ward. Go out and meet them, and don't wait until election time to do so. Have Ward meetings and get to know their problems and how to solve them. Why not? What other recourse is there...that is if you want to carry this principle into play. Might it open up a Pandora's Box? So what if it does...there should not be any problem that can not be explained away with a free ward discussion. It might not be solveable...I did not say that, but it can be resolved one way or the other.

Through this method, the Town's people will become more and more familiar with how the Town operates and become involved. Then if a citizen has a real problem that can obviously be spotted in a Ward meeting which cannot be resolved there then let them come to the Council meeting for it to be fully aired.

Through more discussion with others who share common problems the issues will become more and more defined so that the results can better be rendered.

What more can we citizens ask for...so remove the blinders, for you will never see any trespassing signs on Ward meetings. It is up to you, Mayor and Councilmen.

He Was No Hero

The United States has seen its first case of capital punishment meted out this week, the first in this country for ten years.

Our observations from this as we have followed the debate and legal wrangling have been that we have seen a murderer transformed into something short of a folk hero.

It's bad enough to have a diet of crime and violence via nearly every media around today, but to sit and see such a travesty take place, almost pushes us to the point beyond endurance.

Certainly Gary Gilmore could have selected a different life style to follow, and we certainly hope the publicity surrounding his death wish will be over and done with. He was not a hero, in any sense of the word.

Thoughts.... by Senator Roth

One of the most important duties I have as a U.S. Senator is the selection of nominees to the United States Air Force, Military, Naval, and Merchant Marine Academies. Each year the best of Delaware's high school graduates apply for nominations and each year, because of the quality of candidates, the decision is difficult.

The number of nominations I can make each year varies. The requirement, set by law, is that a Senator or Representative can have no more than five appointees in an academy at any time. This past year, because of the success of previous appointments to the academies, I had but one opening available at each of the three major schools. Each principal nominee is supported by nine ranked alternates.

Providing recommendations to me on these important appointments is a 12-person Academy Advisory Review Board that I initially formed when first elected to Congress in 1966. These volunteers, as a favor to me, interview, evaluate and then rank all applicants who have applied through my office for nomination.

Chairing the group again this year was John F. Curran, Chairman of the Brandywine High School Guidance Department. Also serving at my invitation are: Mrs. Alice Holmes of Dover, a local school board member; Mrs. Reba Hollingsworth, a counselor at Dover High School; Dr. W. H. Duncan, a West Point graduate, Delaware Army National Guard General and Medical Director at St. Frances Hospital, Wilmington; Carleton Smith of Meadowood near Wilmington, long active as an advisor to student activities at Dickinson High School; George Collins, an Air Force Reserve Colonel and Plant Superintendent of the Indian River Delmarva Power and Light Company plant; Colonel Walston Jones (ret.), a Dover businessman; Henry Lautenkos of Wilmington, retired Hercules Corporation manager with a longtime involvement in the activities of the Delmarva Boy Scout Council; Hayes Dickerson, former Air Force pilot and now editor of the Milford Chronicle; Warren Beh, Wilmington insurance executive; Charles Johnson, counselor at Claymont High School; and the Rev. Owen Mullen, a West Point Liaison Officer and counselor at St. Mark's High School.

Young people interested in obtaining an appointment to the classes entering in July 1978, at the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis or the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York, should begin now to correspond with me. My nominations for the classes entering in July, 1978, will be completed by the first of December, 1977, and the Review Board generally conducts interviews during the first weeks of October.

Anyone interested in applying should address a letter to U.S. Senator William V. Roth, Jr., 2215 Federal Building, 300 South New Street, Dover, Delaware 19901, or call (302) 678-3308.

The Service Academies are outstanding institutions of higher learning but it should be remembered that their primary mission is to produce combat-ready and career officers. I urge every young person in Delaware to consider seriously this opportunity.

Weekly Report by Senator Joe Biden

This week I introduced legislation that will provide a comprehensive national policy to deal with liability in the aftermath of oil spills. There is present legislation that deals with some areas of this problem but the laws that are now on the books are too varied and too narrowly drawn. I think that it is time to consolidate these laws into one uniform policy.

The legislation which I have introduced incorporates the best provisions from each of the numerous laws that have been enacted dealing with liability and compensation as a result of an oil spill.

This bill will cover oil spills from vessels, on-shore and offshore facilities, pipelines and deep-water ports. It imposes unlimited liability for all of the clean-up costs on the owner, and operator of the vessel, facility or port from which a spill occurs.

Additional liability to cover damages caused by the spill is also imposed. A $250 million fund generated by a 5c per barrel charge on oil produced in or transported to the United States is available to compensate for costs which exceed the liability of the responsible party or to compensate for clean-up costs and damages in cases where the source or the party responsible for the spill cannot be determined.

The incidence of oil spills is growing rapidly. In 1973, the Coast Guard reported 13,328 spills of a total volume of over 24 million gallons of oil. The number of spills in 1974 was 13,996, totaling nearly seventeen million gallons.

In 1975, over 58 million gallons were spilled. In the first nine months of 1976, according to the Tanker Advisory Center in New York, 61.6 million gallons have been spilled. These 1976 figures do not include the two spills that occurred off Nantucket Island and in the Delaware River totaling over 7.7

million gallons. Nor do they include the Panamanian-registered Grand Zenith which has been missing since December 30 and is carrying over 8 million gallons of oil.

It is obvious that government regulation and enforcement is not the answer to the oil pollution problem. Until those people responsible for the equipment and operations involving petroleum are made directly responsible for preventing spills, the problem will not be solved.

How To File Those Farm Tax Forms

With over 35 percent of Delaware farmers reporting working 200 days or more off the farm, according to the 1969 Agricultural Census, a question that many of these part-time farmers are asking is: "Do I file my income tax as a farmer or as a wage earner?"

For tax purposes, a farmer is a taxpayer who receives at least two-thirds of his gross income from farming. Farming is defined as those who operate or manage a farm for profit. A farm includes livestock, poultry, fish, fruit, truck, orchards and horticultural nursery. It does not include forestry or recreational or pleasure farming.

As a farmer, you would file and pay your tax by March 1, 1977. You should file just one tax report for 1976-form 1040. The 1040 form will include taxable income from the farm operation-form 1040F; taxable income from wages-W-2; other income from employment and all other sources of income.

Farmers who file an estimated tax form (1040ES) for 1976 and paid on this tax estimate have until April 15, 1977 to file a final report and pay any deficit or request a refund for overpayment.

Farmers are not required to file an estimated tax form for the year ahead but many do. Payments on this estimate are made quarterly rather than having a large sum to pay at the end of the year.

At Discount Auto owner Dorsey Hampshire says he has had an increase in battery and anti-freeze sales, as well as selling dry gasoline, an additive to gas tanks to keep the gas from freezing. Hampshire says gasoline is likely to freeze anywhere below the freezing mark.

The local branch of Downing Fuel reports making an increased number of calls this week, with frozen fuel lines heading the list of problems. The lines run into problems when there is a condensation build up in the tank. When the Temperature drops so suddenly, the lines are subject to freezing.

Donald Wilson at Quillen's Market says they can't keep in rock salt, and did not have any Tuesday afternoon, but are expecting some today. Bread and milk are heavy sellers in this kind of weather, according to Wilson.

Anthony Gallo reports a marked rise in the number of pipes he has been called upon to thaw out this week. The wind seems to be the major culprit, according to Gallo, who says pipes may not be wrapped adequately in the present temperatures.

There have been no cases of frost bite reported to the city's two doctors, Dr. Zosimo Buendia and Dr. Vincent Lobo. To avoid the painful condition, one should keep fingers, toes and faces warmly protected from the cold, especially moist cold.

One should avoid wearing tight clothing as well as prolonged exposure to the elements. Frost bite is characterized by an itching, burning or tingling sensation, swelling, numbness and or blanched skin appearance. One will eventually lose feeling in the frost bitten area.

For lighter cases of frost bite, gradually warming up the area is the method to use. Ice wrapped in a towel applied to the area, soaking the area in cold water until the area gradually gets used to warmer temperatures is suggested, while keeping the rest of the body warm.

Extreme cases of frost bite may require amputation.

Youngsters who nake snowballs, snowmen or get their hands wet are especially subject to frost bite, as are people who have underlying vascular disorders, those with hardening of the arteries or diabetics.

With the weather as it is, it is best to be safe. If you don't have to go out, stay home. For those of us who make up the majority, we will hopefully proceed with caution...and wish it were Fair Week.

Choose an occupation because you like the work, not solely because of the rewards in money or prestige.

Choose an occupation that will use the abilities you possess.

Choose an occupation in which there is likely to be an active demand for workers when you are ready to go to work.

Do not choose an occupation because you admire someone else who chose it. Avoid occupations that require abilities you do not possess.

Do not confuse interest and ability.

Before making a final choice of an occupation, find out what are ALL the things you might have to do in it. Find out which of these will take most of your time.

Do not expect to find a job in which you will never have to do anything that you dislike.

Do not stay permanently in a job in which you dislike most of the things you have to do.

Beware of recruiters and biased information from other sources.

Take all the advice that is offered, then act on your own judgement.

Remember Robert Louis Stevenson's counsel, 'To know what you prefer, instead of humbly saying "Amen" to what the world tells you ought to prefer is to have kept your soul alive.'

A heavy dew prevented good hunting, but the hunters claimed they had a warm club house to dry off in, a large fireplace and good eats for all. A good time was had by all in the spirit of comradeship. Spartans Continue Undefeated Win Streak

by Millard Ellingsworth III

"We're going to have to play one of our better games to win. Laurel is one of the better teams in either conference," said Coach Buck Starkey the Wednesday preceding the showdown between the undefeated Laurel Bulldogs of the Southern Division and the undefeated Lake Forest Spartans of the Northern Division.

And play one of their better games they did. It seemed to be a defensive game with only eight points scored in the first four minutes of the game, but the Spartans took the lead after this and maintained it throughout the game.

A devastating Spartan defense paced Lake Forest to a 24-12 halftime lead and kept Laurel from coming within less than nine points during the remainder of the game. The final score was 59-44.

In the locker room after the game, the entire team was pleased with their performance on defense.

Ronnie Shockley attributed the difference to the fact that the team was "loose...talking".

After the Spartans completed the seventh straight regular season win, Coach Starkey commented that his Spartans "...controlled the tempo of the game very well... I was pleased with the defense. I thought everybody did a good job."

Sam Carey led the Spartan triumph with 22 points and Billy Moore followed with 16, 12 of them from the foul line.

Earlier in the week, the Spartans played a much closer game against Sussex Central, winning the game on a basket scored at the buzzer by Sam Carey.

The game started off slowly with the score tied 10-10 at the end of the first period. Sussex Central got the jump on the Spartans in the second quarter and led until the final minutes of the game. Coach Starkey said that seven points, five for Lake Forest, two for Sussex Central were scored in the last 12 seconds of the game. He also commented on the game that "They (Sussex Central) were very tough...Our shots just weren't falling."

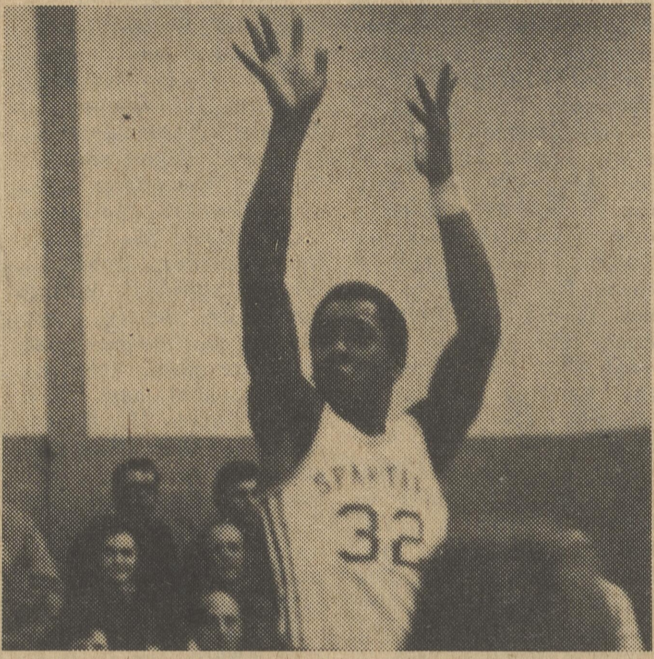

Three of the Spartans, Sam Carey, Bill Moore, and Ronnie Shockley carried the brunt of the scoring. Carey had 18, Moore 15, and Shockley 12.

Whoa, mule, or donkey, or move...or something...donkey basketball might be fun unless you're a donkey...they provided fun and some funds for the Lake Forest Athletic Boosters during a two game stint last Wednesday here.

Coach Starkey is depending on the Spartans outstanding defense to pull them through the season. He commented, "That's where we have to win our ball games, on defense. We work a lot on defense and that's where it pays off."

Friday night the Spartans have no game scheduled, but this Tuesday the Northern Division playoff will be held at Lake Forest between the Lake Forest Spartans and the Dover Senators at 8 p.m. No tickets will be sold at the door. Tickets may be bought at the high school between 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. during this week.

Spartan Frank Coursey lets go with a jump shot for two points in helping Lake Forest to victory over previously undefeated Laurel last Friday.
