They Want 100 Percent Parity

Farmers May Strike

GREENWOOD— The word parity may not mean much to the average housewife, but if the farmers don't get the help they say they desperately need, that word parity will be a household word from one coast in this land of plenty to the other.

One person who is concerned about parity and its role in the farmer's life is Wayne Eakin of near Greenwood. As an agri-business man, he plans to do something about it, including a strike if necessary until the situation improves.

Not Making It

The farmer isn't making ends meet, and the federal government's idea of what is equal (parity) to the American farmer just isn't working out.

That is why people are beginning to see signs by the side of the road, posted on tractors, combines, in front of agri-businesses, not only here in Delaware, but throughout the country, calling for 100 percent parity for American farmers.

The federal disaster programs, for which a farmer may apply, according to Eakin, are only available to a farmer who has been turned down by three lending institutions. That, says Eakin, is for the farmer who is on the way out, not a man who needs help until conditions improve.

Go To Colorado

A delegation of 10 Delaware agri-businessmen and 6 Marylanders traveled to Pueblo, Colorado last week to join 2,000 people with related stands from 41 states. The Secretary of Agriculture, Robert Burgland was to speak there.

Not only did he speak, he listened, maybe.

If he didn't, or if his voice isn't heard, with the backing of the American farmers, there will be a strike, said Eakin.

The Beginning

Several months ago, Eakin and Walter Schiff, a Harrington agri-businessman were talking. Eakin said Schiff and he agreed the "...farmers were definitely up against it financially for the price we were about to receive."

As a result of that conversation, which began momentum in Delaware, a meeting was called at the Farmington Fire Hall in late August where four representatives of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service met with a group of 200.

The ASCS representatives clarified at that meeting what the program would mean to the Delaware farmers.

Eakin said after the representatives spoke, he asked the people present if they "...could plant a crop next year?" Ninety-nine percent agreed at that meeting, according to Eakin, that the ASCS plan was not sufficient.

A delegation came as a result of that initial meeting, to "...pursue every avenue of hope to find help or aid and alleviating the financial pressure and eventual financial disaster in lower Delaware," said Eakin.

Besides Eakin, the committee consists of Dale Wheatley, Emil Gallo, Richard Andrews, Keith Carlisle, Robert Fitzgerald and Walter Schiff.

The committee has met with a representative of Senator Joe Biden's office and presented the problem to him. Since then the Biden office has been in contact and is trying to set up a series of meetings with the Commodities Futures Trading Commission.

The committee has also met with Governor Pete DuPont's Agriculture Advisory Council, who "...expressed a great concern for the farmer and his financial situation," said Eakin.

This group has in turn set up an appointment with the Governor, as well as representatives from Senators Biden's and Roth's and a representative from Rep. Tom Evans' offices on October 4 in order to enable the farmer delegation to present their problems.

It was during the course of setting up these meetings that the committee heard about a group of farmers in Pueblo, Colo. who were about to go on strike. The Delaware group decided to meet with the Colorado group to see if they had similar problems.

Sixteen went west. Of the original group were Eakin, who became the Delaware spokesman, Wheatley, Gallo, Carlisle, as well as E.B. Warrington, Massey Ferguson dealer from Felton, Walter Messick, John Deere dealer from Harrington, Lloyd Esdrige, a representative of Valiant and Milford Fertilizer, Tommy Elliott, Earl Passwaters and Bill Loockerman.

Maryland representatives were Wheatley Neal, Norris Reed, George Wheatley, Freddy Hubbard, Bill Greenage and Dale Regan.

It was upon the group's arrival in Colorado that they found farmers from 40 other states had "...virtually the same problem facing the Maryland and Delaware farmer today," said Eakin.

Eakin told the Journal Tuesday "The farmers of Delaware and Maryland are prepared to sell only that portion of grain under obligation by contract and to store or withhold the rest of their commodities, to put a cease to all buying of machinery and farm-related items until 100 percent parity for the farmer in the United States is achieved."

"We feel that it would be to the consumers' best interest to weigh the situation of the farmer very carefully, (to become) familiar with what it cost the

(Dis)parity

Louis Mills, a farmer near Greenwood, tells his view of the farmer's fair share of the dollar for the commodities produced. Mills is just one of the growing number of Delaware farmers who are upset, to the point of talking strike if something isn't done. This load of manure with its sign eloquently states the farmers' case as it rests by the side of the road on rt. 16 near Greenwood.

Here, Snipe...

What Harrington Police received recently was perhaps a call that should have gone out to the game warden.

When police received a call from a Raughley Hill Road resident of a suspicious person walking down the road and around the cars, the areas were checked and revealed nothing.

It was later learned that a resident of Raughley Hill Road had picked up a youth and had taken him to Banks Market, near the wooded road.

The youth, who will remain unidentified, told the resident, also whose identification will remain anonymous, that the youth was snipe hunting, using the timeless method of carrying a bag in his hands.

The only comment to make at this point, is that most have heard of snipe hunting, but one should check with the wildlife officials before actually trying to catch one.

Hopefully the lucky person will also have a camera and flash. To present knowledge, a snipe has never been known to have itself caught.

For those unfamiliar with the sport, one has to walk through the woods, at night, with a bag in hand and call, "Here, snipe..."

Police Log Flurry of Activity

Local police had a busy weekend as fights occurred in two of the city's taverns.

While both Stone's and Marshall's are usually quiet spots, some dissension erupted briefly Friday night.

Around 11:35 p.m. a call came from Marshall's that there were two people creating a disturbance.

When Harrington police arrived, they were told by owner Roland Cashwell that Tyrone M. McGlotten 20, of Seaford and Raymond Williams, 23, also of Seaford were being disorderly.

Both were taken to Court 7, Dover and entered pleas of guilty and were fined a total of $38.

Around 12:05 September 24, police report receiving a call from Ray Gagne of Stone's Hotel, who was calling to report an alleged assault on the bar tender Harry E. Riggan Jr. of Harrington.

According to police a disturbance allegedly began when a glass was broken on the shuffle-board table.

Noble Woolyhand, 21,

Danny Porter, 20, and Clifford C. Cooper, 22, were asked to leave.

The three men were arrested for alleged assault in the third degree, while Porter was also arrested for an alleged criminal mischief charge.

The men were taken to Court 7, Dover and all posted bond with trial scheduled in Court 6.

On September 25, Bert Ensen, of Harrington reported the theft of a 1977 Ford Mustang last seen on Railroad Avenue. The car was recovered September 26, when it was found by police on Railroad Avenue, with no apparent damage to the vehicle. There are no suspects in the incident

The Rev. Joseph Hinks Dies

The Reverend Joseph Hinks

MILFORD— The Rev. Joseph S. Hinks, 87, of 7 Rogers Drive, died Saturday, September 24, at the Milford Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Father Hinks, as he was known to countless Episcopalians throughout Delaware, served most of his priesthood in the Milford area, a ministry that spanned 36 years.

He served as rector of Christ Church, Milford from 1928 to 1960, the longest service by a priest in the church's history, which dates to 1704.

From 1930 to 1956 Father Hinks also was Priest-in-Charge of St. Stephen's, Harrington.

During the years of service at Milford there was an addition to the rectory (now moved) and most recently in 1954 extensive restoration to the church.

His schooling included attendance and graduation from the Bethlehem Preparatory School in Bethlehem, Pa., and completion of theological studies at Nashotah Theological Seminary in Nashota, Wisconsin. He graduated in 1914.

Upon learning that there was a vacancy at St. Peters in Lewes, he came to Delaware and found it to his liking, where he remained ever since.

He served as rector at St. Peters and Priest-in-Charge of All Saints, Rehoboth until coming to Milford.

Father Hinks was the senior priest in Delaware at the time of his death, and had served on numerous committees within the diocese.

He was Diocesan secretary for nine years, from 1947 to 1956, the chairman of the Department of Church Extension as well as serving on the Committee on constitution and Canons. He was known in Delaware for being an expert on the latter.

Activities that occupied him outside the church were primarily historical, and he was a member of the Milford Historical Society, the Lewes Historical Society and the Rehoboth Historical Society. He was also a member of the Old Christ Church League.

His wife Elizabeth J., died in 1966.

He is survived by his daughter, Isabelle Catherine, at home.

Services were held at Christ Episcopal Church Tuesday morning at 11.

Interment was in the church cemetery.

Contributions made to the church's memorial fund in care of Rev. Joseph E. James, Milford, will be used toward a project, not disclosed at this writing, that was of interest to Father Hinks.

Funeral arrangements were by the Berry Funeral Home.

First National Starts Branch Bank

The First National Bank of Harrington broke ground last week for its first branch site, which will be located at Canterbury.

Located on the northwest corner of county roads 31 and 33, ground is already piling up in order to make way for the basement of the 2600 square foot colonial-type building that hopes to open its doors in the spring of 1978.

The building, which will be one story brick with a full basement will house a branch bank to the First National that will offer full banking services, according to David Jones, the bank's executive vice-president.

There will be two drive-in windows as well for customers.

According to Jones, the branch site will initially be manned by six employees.

The bank purchased the property in 1975. Two studies, one by Mitchell Marketing, Inc. of Paoli, Pa. revealed there was "...more housing in the three mile radius of that corner than the bank's existing location," said Jones of the study results.

"The facts revealed overwhelmingly to go in that direction," Jones said of the Canterbury site.

In citing the decision to found a branch to the present Harrington site, Jones said the First National had "...extremely good growth in the past five years with a lot of that growth coming from the Canterbury area." Jones continued to observe the branch site was being built in a location where building lots are readily available. The bank growth, the growth of the area and the study all pointed to the decision to build the first branch of the bank's history, having founded in 1888.

The Board of Directors met with Gallo and Stevenson, local general contractors for photographs and traditional turning of the first shovel of earth at the site last Tuesday.

The green, black and white sign announcing the coming soon of the First National's branch facility was done by Emil Gerardi Jr., also a local talent.

College Night Set

The third annual Kent County College Night will be held on Wednesday, October 5 at Lake Forest High School from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

According to Justin Hyatt, of the high school guidance department, 29 colleges have committed to attend, with representation from as far as North Carolina and Pennsylvania.

The evening will be broken into two areas. Students will select three colleges of their choice to hear 20 minute sessions about, followed by a general session at the conclusion of the evening, where individuals will be able to visit any of the college booths to ask questions and to obtain brochures.

Although the evening is designed primarily for the junior and senior, parents are encouraged to attend.

The program is open to anyone who is interested in attending college.

to the Committee on Agriculture, to the U.S. House of Representatives from 1975 to 1976.

National 4-H Week is October 2-8.

The four men in the photo are gathered to supervise the turning of the first shovel of earth in a ground-breaking ceremony held last week at Canterbury, the site of the First National Bank of Harrington's first branch site. In the photo are the two general contractors for the building, Bob Stevenson and Ernest Gallo (to left) and bank president Benjamin Hughes (holding shovel) while building chairman John Curtis watches.

Disaster Payments Possible

Georgetown - Sussex County farmers affected by the drought this summer may become eligible for disaster payments from the ASCS Office, said Donald W. Campbell, County Executive Director.

This will apply to farmers who have no acreage allotments or who have over-planted their old allotments for corn, barley and/or wheat.

The payments depend on approval of the new farm bill, but farmers who have suffered a loss should come to the county office in Georgetown and apply for disaster payments for these crops.

If you are not going to harvest at all, because the field is not worth combining, it should be appraised before you destroy it.

The ASCS office is located in the Agricultural Service Center near Georgetown.

"...the only way you will understand the Indians is to go live with them..."

When I was an undergraduate student at the University of Georgia, I enrolled in a course one semester that proved to be about the best course I ever took in college. It was taught by John Talmadge.

When the University of Georgia was first integrated, there were no problems and I trust none today. During one of Mr. Talmadge's lectures, the center of conversation centered around understanding people. He said about the only way you can really understand a people is to go live with them...live among them. "The only way to understand Indians... is go live among them, and they you will truly understand them," said Talmadge.

When the media picked up the Bert Lance story, I thought of my days in Georgia. I thought of what my friend John Talmadge said, and began to think of things to come from the Carter administration. I lived among 'the Indians' during my stint in the service and later in college. I know how 'the Indians think.

For one thing there is loyalty plus. There is pride also, and I know when President Carter read Lance's resignation letter...more than anything else the pride was what hurt.

I once said long after leaving Georgia that I was always glad to meet a Georgina, for I never met one that I did not like.

Reflecting on Bert Lance, I am trying to determine just what it was that caused a national uproar. As far as being overdrawn, many banking executives today have been extended this privilege. Why? ...because most of the money in the bank probably belongs to them anyway. But...these are civil crimes, and frankly speaking, ones which could have been aired somewhere other than in the U.S. Congress for the benefit of the national news media.

While we were dilly dallying with this sort of thing that took up countless hours and money, other crimes...violent ones by people on people were taking place at reckless abandon.

As for Bert Lance, there are many perhaps like him...or many who have done far more in the way of civil crimes. It could probably be shown that many in Congress have already been just as much at fault. For instance what will the Park matter unfold. The point is that in all these cases, much crime both civil and criminal could be prevented if the punishment for the crime could be made to fit the crime. Under these cases no rehabilitation would be necessary. We allow...our courts...allow law breakers of the violent cases to get off in many instances with weak sentences...or probation.

In many cases society or the ones upon whom the crime has been perpetrated know that the offenders will get off. Those who live within the law now have little faith...respect yes...but little faith in the law.

There doesn't appear to be a fair interpretation of how the law should be administered. Do the courts know how to deal with crime and punishment? The answer is doubtful.

Last week a young man was sentenced for the beating of a police officer. This is a case in point. The beating of any police officer should be dealt with in the harshest of ways. The beating of the police officer was a severe case, but had the beating been instead of the gas station attendant, I am wondering if the sentence would have been the same. I agree it should not have been the same, for a police officer, unlike a layman, is there not as a volunteer...but one who is being paid to do his job and uphold the law. That's different, but the punishment should have been severe even if it had been the gas station attendant.

In comparison the Bert Lance story is a Sunday School tale compared to the real crime which goes on in a society somewhat unprotected against the real crimes. When the courts learn to deal with crime and punishment, society will be a better place to live. Maybe if we lived with the Indians, we could find the answer. It's probably a very simple solution, and it involves punishment.

Thoughts

by Senator Bill Roth

After months of sparring, Boston and Wilmington finally met head-to-head with the U.S. Secretary of Transportation on the question of where to locate a highly prized rail repair shop.

At stake is the location of a huge AMTRAK repair shop. Although it is now in Wilmington, where it employs upwards of 700 persons, pressure had been brought to bear by Boston politicians to have it moved there.

The Secretary of Transportation, Brock Adams, made no decision, but he did release a thick study revealing that the Wilmington site would save $200 million. The study confirmed what I've insisted all along: if the decision is made on merit instead of politics, the clear winner is Wilmington.

One of my principal concerns has been the fate of the employees and what their loss could mean to Delaware's economy.

Wilmington is clearly a better site for a variety of reasons including location, personal availability, existing capital facilities, and tax treatment. In fact, there is a clear consensus among neutral and experienced railroaders that Wilmington is far and away a better site from the perspective of operating efficiency. But the most com-elling reason for preferring Wilmington is simple justice.

Too many people have referred to the repair shop as 'new.' It's new in terms of brick and steel, but in terms of jobs and workers, it is old. The 700 men and women whose jobs are at stake are a tightly knit part of our community and economy. Their forced relocation would destroy their family lives and deal a devastating blow to the State and local economy.

Those were the arguments which I pressed on Secretary Adams. He appeared to listen, promising to make the right decision based on merit, not politics.

As every Delawarean knows, one of our major industries is poultry. The poultry growers of Delaware make a major contribution to our state's economy.

My office has recently aided Delaware and Eastern Shore poultry farmers in securing a $3.8 million loan guarantee from the Farmers Home Administration.

These funds will enable the farmers -- those who have banded together under the name of the Delmarva Poultry Cooperative -- to establish their own fully integrated poultry operation.

Currently farmers must sell their poultry to processing plants, that in turn, process and mark up the poultry for sale to consumers. This procedure cuts down on the farmer's income.

This loan will help our farmers to operate a fully integrated poultry process and consequently increase their profits and productivity.

L. Byrd Whaley, a Delmar resident, is president of the approximately 100 member poultry organization. Mr. Whaley contacted my office with a request that I intercede with the Department of Agriculture on behalf of the Delaware group.

The Delmarva Poultry Cooperative was able to meet the necessary conditions of the Farmers Home Administration loan terms and the funds became available this week.

The establishment of a successful cooperative is essential in stabilizing the poultry industry and maintaining the necessary productive level of many small family farmers.

The Poultry Cooperative plans to employ about 350 people in Delaware and Maryland in order to operate the plant which will include a processing center, a hatchery, and a large feed mill.

I am pleased that our office was able to help the farmers receive the loan guarantee. The benefits will be three fold: the loan will assist the poultry growers through unified production procedures, it will provide new jobs and stimulate Delaware's economy, and the end result hopefully will be lower prices for consumers in the market place.

Wages of salaried employees will vary according to the annual volume amount of business done by an agency. Naturally salaries will vary with the amount of responsibility the job entails, the individual's ability, and his length of service with the company. Secretaries and clerks receive a slightly higher salary if they are regarded as trainees.

Employees usually have legal holidays off, paid vacations, insurance coverage, and pension plans. Many travel agents put in overtime but take time off later to balance it out. Agents and their employees often receive 75 percent discount on international travel.

An ability to get along well with the public is of key importance for the travel agent for he or she deals directly with people. He or she must be cheerful, agreeable, pleasant, and friendly, as well as have a neat appearance and impeccable manners.

In his business, patience is a virtue, for he meets all types of people. He must be courteous at all times. An ability to work smoothly with people and to assume responsibility is important. A travel agent must determine what kind of trip is the most suitable for his client. Gaining the confidence of clients is extremely important to the success of any travel agent's sales efforts.

An agent must possess a talent for selling and a mind for detail if his enthusiasm for travel is to carry over to his customer. He must be able to describe accurately places of interest he has made it a point to learn about. The agent must be able to advise the tourist entering other countries on matters of passports, visas, and health certificates. He must be able to tell the traveler what items can be taken into a country duty free, the clothing requirements, and necessary medical precautions.

He must also be able to advise on what travel

The Evans Report

by Congressman Tom Evans

Weekly Report

by Senator Joe Biden

There is a disturbing form of child abuse taking place across the country. It is the solicitation and use of young children in sexual activities for use in pornographic publications. The flood of child porn sweeping the country has many of us up-in-arms.

As the current torrent of 'kiddie porn' continues to mount, my outrage and indignation swells for the victims of this crime. Almost more obscene than the actual depiction of children engaged in sexual acts, is the obscene exercise of power over them. These children engaged in sexual acts, is the obscene exercise of power over them.

Who are the victims? In most cases, these exploited children are tricked or enticed by adult predators using money, gifts, drugs, or threats of physical violence. Many times they are emotionally disturbed runaways from broken homes. In order to survive in the streets they 'sell' themselves for what they often mistakenly interpret as affection. They are victims in the truest sense of the word.

The legislation I recently co-sponsored is designed to close the gap in the existing law concerning the use of children in the production of pornographic materials. Current Federal laws dealing with pornography focus almost exclusively on the sale, distribution, and importation of obscene materials, and do not directly address the abuse of children inherent in their participation in the production of such materials.

There is no way to measure absolutely the effect that this type of activity has on the child. The incalculable damage is most certainly imprinted on the child's psyche, and affects his process of growth and development accordingly.

The legislation I have co-sponsored would prohibit any person from knowingly employing, using, persuading, enticing, or coercing any minor to engage in, or assist in, any sexual explicit conduct.

Many authorities believe that the problem stems from the breakdown of the family, and the solution must come from the strengthening of families. However, the immediate situation is one that cannot be adequately controlled at the state, local or home level. I am convinced that we must begin to make a concerted effort to coordinate all law enforcement activities to help eradicate this blight on society.

American farmer to produce the food which is so vital to our survival and it is our sincere hope that... the consumer will support the farmer in every way possible to achieve 100 percent parity so that he can continue to feed... the world when needed," concluded Eakin.

Eakin said the American farmer represented the smallest minority in the country, with 4 percent of the population being farmers. According to statistics, the American consumer spends only 16 percent of his income on food.

Last year, said Eakin, wheat was $3 a bushel. Only two and a half cents go into a 59 cent loaf of bread. This year the wheat sells for $1.85 a bushel and bread is still 59 cents.

What does it mean to the Delaware, and American consumer? "You figure it out," said Eakin, "I can't."

The farmer doesn't want to strike, he just wants his fair share, and according to the farmer here in Delaware and across the country, it is past due.

If things come down to a strike situation, Eakin said the date decided upon for Delaware farmers would be December 14.

Will they strike? Eakin said if the prices continue for the farmer, there would be no doubt that the first national farm strike in the history of the country would take place.

So, now the question of parity for the American farmer is being passed along the line, to consumers and the politicians.

But if the buck doesn't begin to improve for the farmer, the strike will be on.

Sam Lamphier Bikes 100 Miles In 7 Hours

by Keith S. Burgess

Fourteen-year-old Sam Lamphier, was among some 60 cyclists who rode either 50 or 100 miles in the Delmarva Century, last Sunday. The Weiner Avenue resident is on the Lake Forest cross-country team.

Lamphier and Keith Burgess stayed together for 50 miles, with the younger rider moving ahead to finish in slightly more than seven hours. Burgess reached the 100 mile point in 8:45, as both riders qualified for the Century patch.

The Friends of Bikeology tour, followed back roads throughout, after starting at Augustine Beach, Port Penn, near the Delaware River. The first leg crossed Delaware to the bridge at Chesapeake City, Md.

Turning south the riders went through Warwick, Sassafras, Massey and Milington, where food was purchased at a store, at the 41 mile point. More back roads led to Templeville (56 mi.) and Hartly (60 mi.). Kenton, six miles on, Cheswold 70 miles and Leipsic 75 miles were just far enough apart to help the time pass swiftly.

The last 25 miles up scenic route 9, passed Bombay Hook Wildlife Refuge, the Smyrna River Bridge at Fleming's Landing, Taylor's Bridge and back to Port Penn.

South of Chesapeake City, the bikers saw beautiful horse country, with beautiful houses and barns and miles of white fences. A horse show was in progress, at one point. The tide was in at Flemings Landing with water over the road. The local pair enjoyed a grueling but interesting ride.

Lake Forest Wins Invitational

by Keith S. Burgess
The annual autumnal madness that is cross-country at Lake Forest High School was resumed on Saturday, at Killen's Pond State Park. Christiana's Vikings won the Division I test (over 600 boys) with Lake Forest annexing the Division II or small school competition. Jim Blades' Spartans have never known a losing season and on Saturday started their 20th campaign on a winning note. The locals outran eight schools from three states and were not seriously threatened as second-place Cape Henlopen was 22 points off the pace. North Caroline of Denton, Md., was third, followed by Oxford, Pa., Smyrna, Kent High of Wornton, Md., Dover Air, Laurel and Woodbridge. Lance White, defending state champion, was the individual winner, negotiating the 2.7 miles in 14.18. Dan Parker of Lake Forest was a strong second just four seconds back. Wilson Fry, who was the no. 5 harrier on the Spartan 1976 state champion team was the second Lake Forest harrier to finish, coming in 10th of the 63 starters. Louis Thomas (12th), Dave Richter (14th) and Bill Mitchell (16th) were the other scorers.

Mitchell, a constantly improving sophomore, is the lone newcomer of the quintet and narrowly missed getting the final medal (for 15th place). Tom Ott and promising rookie Joe Custis were the other Lake Forest runners. St. Mark's High was the jayvee winner, with Lake Forest finishing a strong second. Strong efforts by Kelly Woodward (6th) and Pete Fraley (8th) led the Spartan effort. Bruce Humphrey, a can't miss prospect as a freshman, was 20th, in 17.03, cutting some 40 seconds off his last and best effort

Lake Forest Drops First Game To CR

CAMDEN—Although end results tell the final story, Lake Forest fans saw more than the 36-0 final score at last Friday night's first Spartan defeat of the season at the hands of Caesar Rodney, who continued their wins, now headed into the third year. The Spartans knew they were facing what probably would be their toughest opponent this season, and the fans saw shoulder to shoulder football in the first half of play. Although the half time score was 16-0, the Spartan defense played their best this season. It was also the best effort put forth by the Riders this year. The teams were nose to nose during the first half, with C.R. constantly inside the Spartan 40 yard line. The first Rider touchdown came in mid-second quarter, with a first and goal on the Lake Forest five yard line. The defense dug in and held the Riders on first down. A Spartan penalty made it second and goal from the 3 yard line and the Spartans held until the 4th down and a foot to go. After the first touchdown, neither team gained ground. With only a minute and 40 seconds of play in the half, Rider quarterback Kelsie broke to the outside from the 40 yard line and raced to the Spartan 15. The second touchdown followed, and with the extra points, gave the home team their 16-0 lead. Key men with injuries and illness began to tell on the Spartans in the second half. Coach Jim Fleming's Spartan line has three men with leg injuries. Doug Warrington, John O'Toole and Dennis Childress didn't need that as they played Friday night. The Riders scored twice in the third quarter and once again in the fourth quarter, making the final score 36-0. In offensive statistics Friday night, the Spartans had a total of 104 yards gained, of these 49 were rushing. Caesar Rodney had a total of 308 yards offensively. Their quarterback Kelsie scored three of the touchdowns. Turning in the best night of his year so far for Lake Forest was Billy Moore, who had seven unassisted tackles of the night and 22 assists. He was followed by John O'Toole with five unassists and 7 assists. Mike Quail turned in four unassisted tackles and ten assists. Also playing well were Mark Smith, Larry Mc-

The heap of tangled players here was a typical scene during Friday night's game between Lake Forest and Caesar Rodney, whose quarterback, Kelsie (25), is seen at the right.

This week the Journal begins a new column on the speed sport of auto racing. Initially the remarks will be directed to stock car racing. The first real live stock car race for me was the Delaware 500. It has left a thrilling impression on me. Although confused and sometimes lost, I was determined to hang in there to the end. The episode reminded me, according to my wife of a southern comedian, Brother Dave Gardner, who in a joke of his said, "Don't mess with that wheelbarrow, boy, you know you don't know nothin' about no machinery."

Richard Petty has signed another contract with STP. The Pettys were in Florida last week at the invitation of STP. Not only did they sign a contract for the 1978 season, but Petty was presented with an emerald ring surrounded by 10 diamonds. David Pearson has been declared ineligible to race in the 300 mile late model sportsmen(permetex) cars coming up this weekend at Charlotte. Many drivers have lodged protests against Pearson for not competing enough in this classification this year. Pearson will compete in the NASCAR event to be held at Wilks, North Wilks Boro Speedway.

It takes a little longer for an offensive team to jell," said Fleming. Right now, time to heal injuries and to get that offensive team jelled is in the Spartan favor, with Friday night an open date. Pit Chatter (Cont.)

Cale Yarborough was completely exhausted after Sunday's race. When he stopped in Victory Lane, he was so exhausted he could hardly speak. The temperatures at Martinsville were blistering. Many cars lost their rear ends, still others did not have large enough oil coolers installed.

Walt and Marie Messick will ship their race car to Syracuse, N.Y. for the Schaffer 200. It is believed some 300 cars will try to qualify. Only 100 will qualify.

The Messick fire ball will be piloted by reliable Walt 'Steevie' Breeding.

Messicks have competed in New York before.

Ricky Rudd, without a national sponsor, is writing his own news releases. He recently talked about the Delaware 500. He said he was disappointed in the performance of his car. "About 150 laps I knew the car was acting funny and 25 laps later, I had to pull in," said Rudd. It turned out that the engine had burned a piston. It was because of this event that enabled one of the true sportsmanship stories to break at Dover Downs. With Rudd out of the race, a member of Janet Guthrie's pit crew came over and asked him if he wanted to go for a ride. He pointed out that Janet needed a relief driver. When Ms. Guthrie pulled into the pits and climbed out of the car, Rudd, a fellow rookie competing against Janet, climbed aboard and finished the race for her, which helped her get points toward her rookie standing. Rudd said he was not thinking about the points. He was merely trying to help out a fellow driver. He said Butch Hartman had helped him the same way at Darlington.

The upcoming race at Charlotte will be a milestone for Rudd, who will get his first national sponsor for this one race. The sponsor will be NAPA. The Rudd Racing Team, headed by Al Rudd Jr., is building a special engine for Charlotte which is being supervised by Smokey Yunick. The car will be painted the same colors as the Pontiacs that Fireball Roberts drives. Rudd has the same number as Roberts - 22. The colors are black and gold.

The purse at Charlotte is $250,000.

David Pearson has been declared ineligible to drive in the World Service Life 300 set for Sat., Oct. 8.

Pearson was disqualified because he had not competed in enough races in the late Model Sportsman events. General Manager Humpy Wheeler said it was unfortunate that so many drivers reacted unfavorably to the Pearson entry. Wheeler said, "We will go along with NASCAR this year, but next year we will open the race to all owners. This is the richest race in the history of Late Model Sportsmen.

Craig Fry, Randy Ramirez, and Eugene Butler ran well for the runner up Spartans.

Sophomore Doug Caskey, a fine prospect, was hampered by illness. Caskey is a brother to ex-Spartan harrier Howard Caskey and to Chris Caskey, another fine runner for W.T. Chipman School. Chris was the fourth-best Chipman runner, over thirty thinclads, from the seventh-eighth grade Harrington school, to finish in the jayvee B race.

This latter test saw Charles McDougal, a recent Spartan recruit, in his first-ever race, produce a strong effort that nearly netted him second place. He may improve his team ranking quickly, as he learns this new sport.

Freshman John Veith, an ex-Chipman standout, did well in his first high school outing, despite recent leg problems.

The B race included everyone who did not run in the first two competitions, thus 37 Chipman and Lake Forest runners were in action against everyone else's reserves, some 80 runners in all.

Eighth-grader David Bullock (14th), a first-time starter, turned in a terrific 18.11, to be the first Chipman finisher, as many older runners ate his dust. Another tyro, Doug Stevens, was 16th, thirteen seconds back, just one second ahead of freshman Sam Lamphier, seventh grader Robby Manaraze and Doug Jarrell.

Manaraze, Stevens, Bullock, Chris Caskey, along with Jerry Mosley and Maurice Coverdale give Chipman a strong team. Without Coverdale, they outpointed Caesar Rodney's Junior School 31-70.

Bobby Aycoth, Albert Burns and Mike Bishop ran well last fall and should be key Chipman harriers in the near future.

Shelly Colburn was the first Chipman girl to finish followed by Pandora Scott, Elaine Grant, Melissa Lewis, Karen Warrington, Donna Pardee and Benji Adams.

Other top Chipman finishers were: Derrick Chodkiewicz, Dave Emory, Alan Buckley, Scott Carter, Herb Hertzberg, and Dan Green.

Brian Barthlow, a ten-year-old, has been competing in amateur, age-group competition for three years. He has done well in national competition in New York and Annapolis against runners his age.

Last fall at age 9, he won the Kent County Parks and Recreation, 12-and-under cross country race. Brian's mother acts as his trainer and clocks him from time to time, over the high school course. The fleet, wiry youngster has run 2.7 miles in 21 minutes already. He may break 20

Yarborough Repeats At Old Dominion

MARTINSVILLE, Va. - A grueling test of man and machine was exhibited at Martinsville Speedway on Sunday as Cale Yarborough fought off again and again challenges by Benny Parsons, David Pearson's car driven by Donnie Allison, and Richard Petty's STP Dodge which was driven by Bobby Allison. Pearson quit early in the race when he became ill from fumes. Petty was also out early apparently due to the continuing discomfort as a result of broken ribs in an accident suffered in Tennessee race. Pearson was asked if he would get back in the car after apparently having recovered from the fumes, he said "...from the looks of things Donnie is doing alright out there, and I doubt if I could improve on his driving."

Donnie Allison in his Hawaiian Tropic Chevrolet was out after 41 laps due to brake trouble. Brother Bobby piloting the 1st. Nat. City Travelers was out after 216 laps with rear end failure. A protege of Bobby Allison, the young sensation of the racing circuit, Neil Bonnett, also of Huyetown, Ala. was out after 304 laps with rear end trouble. Bonnett who has had bad racing luck in his last two outings (Del. 500 and Martinsville) was a winner at Richmond the week before the Delaware 500.

The most remarkable thing about the win was that it was his first win on the circuit and only 3 days after being picked up by Jim Stacey. Bonnett has managed the pole position in the last three outings. The Harry Hyde speciality of getting the pole position for his car has not diminished. Bonnett set the track record on Saturday and earned him the pole position in the Martinsville race with a blistering 87.637 m.p.h. on the half mile oval. Bonnett would up 22nd in the race. Martinsville is the only half mile oval on the NASCAR circuit.

The Yarborough win, which was repeated from last year enabled him to extend his lead in NASCAR's Winston cup Grand National point standing. The Holly Farm ace now leads six time Winston Cup champ Richard Petty by 219 points with five races remaining on the circuit. The victory was Yarborough's ninth victory of the long season, and equals the number which he won in 1976 when he won his first Grand National title.

Yarborough's total point total to date is 4155, Petty with 3936, Parsons 3782, Waltrip 3727, Baker 3276, Brooks 3088, James Hylton 2876, Cecil Gordon 2860, Richard Childress 2855 and Bobby Allison with 2703.

The Holly Farms super champion whose style of driving seems to pattern that of Junior Johnson, the owner of the Holly Farm car, is getting to the front and running from that position.

When interviewed before the race on Sunday, Yarborough said "...I enjoy the front running position because there is less wear and tear on the car. The second and third positions require more braking and hard driving, and that is why I go for the front end."

To date Yarborough has won on the NASCAR circuit $312,175, followed by Petty with $277,365.

The Winston Cup series continues on Sunday at Wilkes 400 at North Wilkesboro, N.C. Speedway over 400 laps on the 5/8 mile oval for $72,165. The weekend of Oct. 9, the masters will race over the Charlotte (N.C.) Motor Speedway for 500 miles over the 1.5 mile oval for a purse of $250,000.

One of the closest races for Rookie-of-the-Year honor between Ricky Rudd and Sam Sommers is squaring off for a final showdown.

Rudd, driving without a national sponsor, is looking to the Charlotte race. He and Sommers are tied for the lead in the Rookie-of-the-year honors. Janet Guthrie is a distant third in the Kelly Girl special.

Time of Race: 3 hrs. 34 min. and 40 sec.
Avg. speed: 73.447
Lap leaders: Waltrip 1-36; C. Yarborough 37-39; Parsons 40-95; Pearson 96; Allison 97-100; Yarborough 101-179; Parsons 179-180; Pearson 181-205; Parsons 206-350; Parsons 351-365; Yarborough 366-386; Parsons 387-395; Yarborough 396 to 500.

Smart Shoppers Should Understand Open Dating

To help consumers determine quality in packaged foods, many companies voluntarily date their products. This open dating is generally an easily read and understood calendar date on a package to indicate freshness.

Because certain foods are more perishable than others, open dating helps consumers select foods that are at their peak and avoid those that are past their prime.

Sue Matusiak, Delaware extension home economist, says consumers should not confuse open dating with coded dating. The latter indicates in coded form precise information about when and where a product was packaged. Coded dating is intended for manufacturers and retail stores, and is not easily interpreted by consumers.

Four kinds of open dating are commonly used, explains the home economist. To benefit from open dating, consumers should know what kind of dating is used on an individual product, and what it means.

Best Before Date - This is the date the food was manufactured, processed, or packaged. It tells how old the food is when you buy it. The importance of this information depends on how quickly a particular food normally spoils. Most canned and packaged foods have a long shelf life when stored under dry, cool conditions.

Use By Date - This is the date the food should be eaten or used. Baby formula and yeast are examples of products that may carry expiration dates.

Freshness Date - This is similar to the expiration date but may allow for normal home storage. Some bakery products that have a freshness date are sold at a reduced price for a short time after that date.

is the last date the product should be sold, assuming it has been stored and handled properly. The pull date allows for some storage time in the home refrigerator. Cold cuts, ice cream, milk and refrigerated fresh dough products are examples of foods with pull dates.

Expiration Date - This is the last date the food should be eaten or used. Baby formula and yeast are examples of products that may carry expiration dates.

Freshness Date - This is similar to the expiration date but may allow for normal home storage. Some bakery products that have a freshness date are sold at a reduced price for a short time after that date.

guides to use, the reading of foreign time tables, and exchanging dollars into foreign currency.

If you have a desire to join the field, examine yourself to determine if you possess the following requirements: a knack for correctly analyzing people, a fascination for geography a valid reputation as a world traveler, a desire to travel, and a flair for foreign languages. Provided you can meet these requirements, you may then qualify to be a trainee in an agency.

For those planning to go to college, courses that will be the most helpful for entering the travel profession after graduation are: geography, literature languages, history, and psychology. The broader your cultural background the greater your chances for success in this profession.

Since many beginning agency jobs are in the secretarial and clerical fields, courses in typing and shorthand are helpful.

The best way to enter the travel field is by direct application to a travel agent, either by letter or in person. An organized way to do this is by making a list of the travel service organizations in the community in which you wish to work and then making the rounds.

Don't expect, as a beginner, to be hired for a job that requires an expert's experience and knowledge. However, the chance's are that any starting job with an agency will eventually lead to travel bureau work for the person sincerely interested. Promotions generally come from within the agency.
