Unicef Helps Solve Problems

The problems are varied. In rural areas of Thailand, there is one doctor for a population of 84,000 people. In Bolivia, more than half the school-age children do not go to school. In Senegal, a five-year drought has severely affected human conditions. But, as in 100 other countries, the children of Thailand, Bolivia and Senegal are receiving assistance from UNICEF, the United Nation's Children's Fund.

The form of participation in UNICEF DAY activities on October 31 or thereabouts. This includes the traditional "Trick or Treat" for UNICEF campaign, now in its 27th year, and other varied fund-raising efforts such as fasting days, sports tournaments, dances and car washes.

years of experience offer countries practical, tested methods of helping children.

Thailand's more severe health problems occur among children in rural areas. With UNICEF's help, the Thai government is developing a low-cost health delivery system which will reach millions. The training of midwives, paramedical personnel and "village health volunteers" to bring basic health services to the countryside is a major part of the program. In addition, UNICEF is providing medical supplies and even bicycles and motorcycles so health workers can reach the most remote areas.

Bolivia is considered one of the least advanced countries in South America. One out of every four children dies before their first birthday. Two-thirds of the children under age 15 show signs of malnutrition. And only one person in ten has a nearby supply of clean drinking water. UNICEF has an important role to play. Its aid will extend health services, organize agricultural cooperatives, and train child-care personnel. UNICEF is also helping communities to build schools and develop basic educational programs for all ages.

To Thailand, Senegal and Bolivia, and to 100 other countries, UNICEF aid is essential to programs benefitting their children. Support for UNICEF DAY activities here and in other communities throughout the country allows for more wells, more schools, more trained health workers and, in the end, more healthy children with better prospects for the future.

Participate in Harrington's UNICEF DAY activities, which will include Masked Trick or Treaters, October 29th at the Harrington Century Club from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. For additional information call Mrs. K.P. Outten, 398-3860.

The problems seem almost overwhelming, but they aren't with support from concerned citizens of the world. In the United States this help comes in

UNICEF is a unique organization. It works to convince nations that child welfare should have a high priority in their development plans, and UNICEF's work multiplies, since in any long-range program it assists, the aided country more than matches UNICEF's investment. Its 30

Gets National Appointment

Herman Brown Attends New Orleans Meeting

DOVER - Herman Brown, a native of Harrington, recently returned from a meeting of State Chairmen in New Orleans. The meeting was a two-day and one-night affair and among the national figures attending were John Connally, former Texas Governor, and William Brock, former U.S. Senator and now Republican National Chairman who chaired the entire workshop.

Brown served on a panel and gave a ten-minute talk on how to operate a campaign headquarters on a small dimension. Brown spoke on "How to Make Out With What You've Got." Being from the small state of Delaware, Brown could talk on recent experiences as State Republican Chairman running a three-person headquarters.

Brown said basically the secret is getting volunteers. As a further thought, Brown said it was knowing the right people and who and where to get them.

Brown also told the Journal about his appointment to a Republican National Committee entitled "The Council on Human Concern." Robert Find, former Attorney General of California, Carla Hills, former HEW head, George Romney and several of the top aides in Ford's transportation agency also serve on the committee. The council was due to meet again in Washington this week.

Some of the strange noises have been caused by members of the Harrington Jaycees who have spent endless hours of time preparing the old store. Other strange noises have been made by the ghosts and goblins who will be visiting the haunted house on Friday, Saturday and Monday, October 28, 29 and 31. It will open at 6:00 p.m. every evening until 11:00. On Monday the Jaycees will offer as an extra treat, games, prizes and a costume contest. "...the next time I should spend more time plucking daisies."

Since owning the newspaper and traveling around to the school athletic functions as well as municipal meetings, many times we observe things in both categories that make us wonder. The old adage of it is not whether you win or lose but how you play the game comes back to us again and again.

We joined the young people after purchasing the paper with the idea of growing up with them...or growing along with them. We believe that teaching the fundamentals is very important. The importance of being honest and forthright are things worth mentioning. Work hard...do your best...set your goals high...and achieve are very important items worth practicing. To me, love and achievement are very important.

The other day I took my two sons, David and Todd, to the Hagley Museum to see the film on Charles A. Lindbergh's arrival in 1927 at the Wm. B. DuPont airfield. Although Todd is too young (3) to really appreciate Mr. Lindbergh, David at 8 thinks of Mr. Lindbergh as his hero and idol. We all know that Lindbergh was a clean-cut all-American boy whose courage and ideals were high. Mr. Lindbergh always did his homework, always behaved in school, would mind his mother and save his money, attended Sunday school regularly, minded his parents, and did all the other nice things associated with red-blooded American boys. To get David to do these things, we bring Mr. Lindbergh into the picture. It usually works. Anyway...we rode to Wilmington...nearly two hours...to see a 20 minute film. It was worth it though for the example of the teaching. Restless and going like a house afire prior to the start of the film, David settled down once the film started and never moved a muscle until the end of the film. Mr. Lindbergh can surely work miracles.

I wondered during the trip with the boys, about what I had missed in my youth or even in David's upbringing. It seems that I have spent more time with Todd at his age level than I did with David. With the latter, I was forced to work just about every hour of every day to get my head above water. Things are beginning to come into focus and sharper now and I wondered if perhaps I should have ridden more merry-go-rounds or should I have taken more campouts. I never went bare-footed or waded in mud puddles...but David does. Maybe I should have started early in the Spring and kept my shoes off until late...late fall. David does. I always wanted to take trips...but it took me too long to get ready. I needed the thermometer, hot water bottle, pajamas, bathrobe and parachute...even though I did not need the parachute, if I planned a trip. Why couldn't I have settled for a sleeping bag. I probably would have taken more trips.

The importance and lesson to be learned is not playing host to making money...but achievement through fair play. If it is not too late the next time around, I plan to spend more time plucking the daisies with my family.

The Evans Report

by Congressman Tom Evans

The violent storm that recently struck Delaware's coast chose an ironic date - Friday, October 14. That day, as the storm drove mercilessly into the Delaware and Maryland coast, the U.S. House of Representatives passed, at last, a ban on harmful ocean dumping.

The storm may have brought something more than erosion, as Ocean City's Mayor Harry Kelly points out.

Jack Walls, in an editorial in the Delaware Coast Press writes... "No matter how hard you work, or plan, the roll of the dice is often the deciding factor in the course of events human and natural." The storm, according to Editor Walls... "left a nasty calling card on her way out - black, goey, smelly something all over the beaches" of Ocean City, Maryland.

Editor Walls goes on to say that Ocean City Mayor Harry Kelley claims that if he can prove that the residue substance on the beaches is indeed sewage sludge, he intends to bring legal action against Philadelphia.

In his editorial, Walls urges Delawareans to join in the fight against the practice of ocean dumping. On the same day as that forceful storm, the U.S. House of Representatives took a vital step in that fight by passing an amendment I co-sponsored to ban ocean dumping as soon as possible and forbidding the Environmental Protection Agency from issuing or renewing any permit for ocean dumping after December 31, 1981. It's past time for Philadelphia, Camden and New York City to stop using the Atlantic Ocean as a garbage pit.

New Jersey Congressman Hughes and I fought long the hard to include a ban on ocean dumping in the Marine Protection Act. The Amendment we introduced was opposed by many in the committee including the chairman, John Murphy, who happens to be from New York City. We won in the committee by a close vote so I was extremely pleased that the full House overwhelmingly passed the bill with the ban on ocean dumping included.

The bill goes to the White House in the next few days and I am urging President Carter to sign it as it is vital to the protection of our precious natural resources.

As many of you are aware, while the unemployment rate continued to hover at the 7% level, youth unemployment is at an all-time high of 18.1%. Youth unemployment must be dealt with if we are to expect the young people of today to become the backbone of the work force in years to come.

Unfortunately, the Senate by-passed an opportunity, which I supported, to bring more young people into our work force with its passage of the minimum wage bill.

While I agree with some of the provisions in the bill, I voted against it because it shirks Congressional responsibility -- a responsibility I feel Congress must assume to help put young people to work.

The opportunities came in the form of two amendments which I supported which would have provided for a lower minimum wage for workers under the age of 20. Both proposals, which were defeated, would have established a youth wage ranging from 75% to 85% of the minimum wage to be paid to young workers during their first six months on the job. After that time the normal minimum wage would be paid to them.

The intention of these amendments was to encourage employers in the private sector to create jobs and provide on-the-job training for teenagers. Either of these youth differential proposals, I believe, would have provided sufficient incentive for employers to add teenagers to their work force and thus help to solve the youth unemployment problem.

Congress recently passed a $1.5 billion Youth Employment Act, which, under optimum conditions, may produce a maximum of 350,000 jobs for youths. However, with close to two million of our young people who are eligible to work unemployed, this program will be no more than the proverbial drop in the bucket.

Teenagers, because they have minimal job skills and little, if any, experience to offer a potential employer, will continue to be unemployed in large numbers so long as employers have no incentive to hire them. In our inflation-ridden economy and with the new and higher minimum wage, is it not unrealistic and unfair to expect employers to hire teenagers when they can seek more experienced, highly trained older employees?

Let us face the facts. Young people have to begin their working lives sometime. Wouldn't it be fairer to them to give them a break and allow them to get needed training and experience, even at a slightly lower than minimum wage for a short time, then to deny them opportunities altogether?

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this space and time to thank the ambulance driver and attendant who did such a fine job on a return trip from Milford Memorial Hospital last week.

On return from the hospital with a patient on board, the ambulance met a car headed east on Delaware Route 14. As the car neared the ambulance it turned out its headlights and an individual was seen leaning out the window of the car. This individual hurled an object at the ambulance striking the hood and busting the windshield about the size of a softball.

To the individual who did this, I hope it wasn't your mother or grandmother who we were bringing back from the hospital. With Halloween approaching, I hope this isn't someone's idea of having fun by destroying automobiles or real estate. Think if this happened to them how upset they would be. At the time of the incident the ambulance was traveling at a safe speed and we thank the good Lord that it was only a busted windshield instead of lives being lost.

This windshield which had to be replaced cost in excess of $200, a cost which will be to the citizens of Harrington which support the Fire Company. If anyone sees a destruction of property, I urge them to report it to the proper authorities.

Carl Wright
Ambulance Captain
Harrington Fire Co.

Weekly Report

by Senator Joe Biden

Last week, as Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Penitentiaries and Corrections I heard two days of testimony from many authorities in the field of prison reform.

At issue was the wide-ranging examination of the underlying premise upon which our entire prison system is based, namely rehabilitation. The hearings provided a philosophical and statistical framework for viewing the function of prisons throughout our nation. Special emphasis was placed upon the emerging concepts of "just desserts" and "protection of society."

The concept that the primary purpose of prisons should be the rehabilitation of the prisoner is one that has come under careful theoretical and scientific scrutiny in recent years and there is a growing consensus that rehabilitation no longer works -- if it ever worked at all.

The time has come, therefore, to re-evaluate seriously the aim of imprisonment. If rehabilitation does not work, it still remains our responsibility to incarcerate an offender by removing him from society. The offender should be sent to prison not primarily to be rehabilitated but simply because he has committed a crime, been convicted, and therefore deserves to be punished. It is imperative that our sentencing system operate on the premise that sentences should be meted out swiftly, surely, and fairly. There is no place in our criminal justice system for disparate sentences for the same type of crime. We must deal with criminals evenhandedly and across the board. At the same time we should do all we can to provide safe and humane conditions within our prisons so that judges will have confidence in our institutions and will harbor no concerns about incarcerating convicted offenders.

Peach Blossom 4-H News

By Terry Hinzman
 "Columbus was a 4-H'er" was the theme of our October meeting. Terry Hinzman brought a replica of one of Columbus' ships. Ronna Legates carried a bag of coins representing Columbus' borrowed money for the trip. Rochelle Messick wore a crown as Queen Isabella. C.I. Legates recited the well-known poem "Columbus sailed the ocean blue in 1492...." David Mesibov, Jar Tarr and Brenda Clark pretended to be the ships, The Pinta, The Nina and The Santa Maria. Richard Lindale and Charles Miller showed pictures of Columbus. Others also took part to make an interesting program.

Laura Newnom collects marbles for a hobby and brought some of her choice ones with her to present a demonstration entitled "Accent with Hobbies."

Denise Lindale demonstrated "What Makes Up A First-aid Box" and showed the box she had made.

Richard Lindale pointed out the 12 important safety spots on a bicycle.

David Mesibov, who served on the window display committee reported on the display in Davis' Antique Store window.

Ten members took part in the 4-H week parade recently.

Following the business meeting, Lisa Clark led the group in a game. Project leader, Mrs.

Mesibov, instructed the group in the potting of various house plants. Refreshments were served by the Miller family.

There will be a skating party on October 31 at the Camden rink.

Please remember that we are still collecting newspapers and magazines for recycling.

For Your Information
Dear friends,
An acquaintance of mine recently said, "I just can't seem to bring myself to make a personal call of sympathy when my friends are in sorrow. I never seem to know what to say."
We know that it isn't necessary to say anything. The "gift" of your presence speaks for itself. Friends mean more than you realize to a family during a time of bereavement. The fact that you share in their grief is an act of compassion.
Respectfully,
William A. Bayler

Spartans Hurdle Riders' Obstacles

Coach Jim Blades and his Henlopen leading Lake Forest cross-country team heard that Caesar Rodney High had changed its course. A trip to Camden, Wyoming the day before the meet led to the discovery that the new course involved two lengthy trips through narrow rough root strewn paths. The new distance was 2.9 miles.

As Lake Forest practiced on this layout, Coach Chip Kane and his Riders engaged in a touch football game. Subsequently, it was revealed that the strategy here was to lull the Spartans into a sense of false security. If Lake Forest took the Riders lightly, a chance of an upset would be greatly enhanced. Secondly, Caesar Rodney hoped to take an early lead into the woods, then slow the pace down since passing was almost impossible in that jungle.

Blades and his Spartans weren't fooled. They have not lost a Henlopen dual meet in more than two years. Then too, C.R. represented the last major obstacle on the path to yet another Henlopen crown. Dan Parker took the early lead and breezed to a 17.33 clocking.

Louis Thomas led C.R.'s tough Garth Stubbolo through the woods the first time, but Stubbolo surprised Thomas at the last split second, going into the forest on the final lap. Thomas bided his time then jumped the Rider at the exit to get second by eight seconds. Sophomore Billy Mitchell was far closer to Stubbolo than he's been before, coming in nine seconds later in 13.32.

Joe Custis appeared to be fading fast but had a fine sprint when needed to hold off the surging John Freeman of C.R.

Wilson Fry was eighth for Lake Forest to put the meet in the win column and virtually insure another perfect Henlopen dual-meet season. Only minor threats remain in the sub-par Dover team plus Laurel and first-year Sussex Central. Barring an epidemic, the Spartans are in!

Craig Fry's 19.40 won the jayvee race with Doug Caskey next in 19.48. After Murray of C.R., the win was insured by the quick arrival of Pete Fraley, Randy Ramirez, Dale Jarrell and Charles McDougall, all finishing within 38 seconds of Fry. Such togetherness is known as "a pack."

Another Stubbolo was next closely followed by Eugene Butler, a Rider, and freshman John Veith.

Woodbridge Harriers Edge Laurel 26-29

Woodbridge High's Blue Raider cross-country team, coached by Bill Degnan, outran Laurel High's harriers in a meet held on Woodbridge's 2.7 mile course.

Chris James of Woodbridge was the individual winner for the second time this season. His time of 13.47 paced his team to the 26-29 victory.

The Blue Raiders hit the win column for the first time this fall after sitting out 1976. That hiatus resulted in every Blue Raider being a rookie at the hill-and-dale sport.

George Williams, Woodbridge's two-mile run record-holder in track, was third in 13.56 just four seconds behind second-place finisher Dave Dulis of Laurel.

Jay Mervine, Ken Baker and Harry Willey came in fifth, eighth and ninth to assure Woodbridge of at least a one-point victory. Adam Beckert's tenth-place finish broadened the win margin to three points.

Joe Busby was 13th for Woodbridge which captured a victory in its first season. Many first-year cross-country teams have to wait a while before recording a victory. Cross-country thus offers an alternative to the small and border-line youth who after analyzing his lack of impressive physical attributes may conclude that his chances of making it big in football are microscopic.

Harriers Drop 1st Dual Meet In 2 Years

The Spartans had to win as Lake Forest's cross-country team met St. Marks on the New Castle County school's beautiful, but tough and hilly, three-mile course last week. Unfortunately, it was the St. Marks' Spartans who prevailed over the Lake Forest Spartans by a score of 25-34.

The losers were beaten in a dual meet for the first time in more than two years, but have not lost a Henlopen Conference setto during that period.

Lake Forest usually does better than St. Marks when the two run in big meets together, and Dan Parker ordinarily takes the measure of Chris Delmonte. However, the home course advantage tipped the scales Delmonte's way this time with Parker a strong second in an excellent 15.14.

The losing team was further hindered by the loss of Dave Richter who stayed home with a hip problem and by the greatly reduced effectiveness of two other top locals, who were slowed by a spike wound and chest cold, respectively. Louis Thomas' fourth place finish closely followed by Billy Mitchell's great closing rush for fifth put Lake Forest in great position, but two of the three wounded gladiators had to achieve their normal finishes to give the down-staters the win. Wilson Fry and Joe Custis managed good performances despite their ailments, to finish fourth and fifth for Lake Forest and 12th and 13th overall.

Marple-Newtown High of Pennsylvania came to St. Marks after the Spartan-Spartan setto and could not finish a harrier until ninth place.

St. Marks also took the jayvee test. Pete Fraley, Doug Caskey, Randy Ramirez, Craig Fry, Dale Jarrell, John Veith and Sam Lamphier were the top Lake Forest harriers.

Jim Blades' tough and talented W. T. Chipman team, a seventh and eighth grade combine, defeated a St. Marks' reserve team consisting entirely of freshmen-and-up runners.

Maurice "Reese Cup" Coverdale took on a strong St. Marks runner for three miles and lost a close decision despite wearing heavy sneakers. Coverdale's forgetting to bring his spikes cost his team a three-point victory, reducing the final margin to 28-29.

After two more St. Marks' finishers, first-year Chipman prospect Doug Stevens charged in in 18.58 for 5th place. He averaged 6.19 a mile for three hilly miles and he's a long way from his peak, since he's only been running competitively a little less than a month. Looks like Coach Blades has unearthed another nugget.

Bob Aycoth, a second-year harrier, continues to improve as does surprising little Mike Bishop. Aycoth captured sixth spot in 19.15. Bishop was running strongly in seventh until seventh-grader John Layton suddenly sprang out of ninth place and charged past a St. Marks' runner with such velocity that he passed Bishop also. Layton appears to possess 440-yard-dash type speed for spring track but may have to wait until 1980 to find out, since Chipman has no track team due to inability in finding a coach. At any rate, it appears from this seat that a future Lake Forest cross-country team of Coverdale, Stevens, Aycoth, Layton, Bishop, Robby Manaraze (10th) and Derrick Chodkiewicz (11th) could be the greatest in the Spartans' illustrious history.

Chris Caskey, Jerry Mosley, Albert Burns, Tony Scott, and Ken Kline make up a group who have run very well on occasion, but lack the consistency of the top group.

Sherry Colburn ran 3 miles in a good 22.06 at St. Marks. Pandora Scott Karen Warrington and Melissa Lewis all bettered 24 minutes. These girls have earned a lot of respect this fall, especially when one hears from some of the male students, "What, me run three miles! No way!" Then they exit, cringing and shuddering.

Meanwhile Brian Barthlow, age 9, continues to battle the stop watch with amazing results. Brian, who won a 12-and-under, two-mile run at age 8 last fall, ran C.R.'s 2.9 mile course in 23.08. This was better than 16 of the 24 Chipman runners could manage and Chipman's kids are tough!

Incidentally, a series of cross-country races for all age groups will be held Saturday, November 12, at Killen's Pond State Park. Start getting in shape if you are interested. Tentative age groups are: 9 and under, 10-12, 13-15 and older races. Prizes range from medals and patches to turkeys! No cracks please! The birds' appearances will depend on the cooperation of Kent County merchants.

Yearling Sale

Last Saturday the sixth annual sale of yearlings, sponsored by the First State Sales Company, was held at the Harrington Raceway.

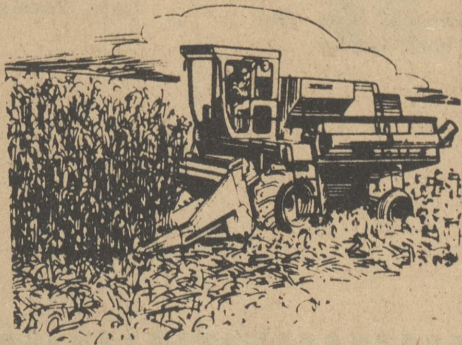

The top horse in the sale Museum Princess, which sold for $9,200 was owned by Mary Vinyard of Houston. Raymond Banks of Dagsboro purchased the trotting filly who was sired by Carlise.

Selling for the second highest amount of money was Dr. Brodie who went for $9,000. This yearling was sired by Adios Harry, Vanity Van. The horse was previously owned by Harry Tingle of Bishopville, Md. and was purchased by Francis Pitts of Felton.

All together fifty-nine yearlings were sold for a total of approximately $163,000.

Donnie Allison: Ups Earnings Over $100,000 With Victory In American 500

Donnie Allison is enjoying the finest season of his career, racing the Chevrolet that A.J. Foyt quit as uncompetitive.

"I guess I'm gettin' a little lucky in my old age," wisecracked the 38-year old Allison, a Grand National veteran since 1967 when he was voted Rookie of the Year. "Actually I think we're doing so well because our whole team wants to race, enjoys racing, now".

Allison pushed his money winnings over the $100,000 mark for the first season in his career with the $17,135 he collected for running away with Sunday's American 500 Grand National stock car race. It was his second victory in 15 starts and ninth top ten finish in 1977.

"A.J. is a good friend of mine," Allison pointed out. "But I don't think he gave 100 percent when he drove Hoss Ellington's car."

Ellington, the car owner, summed it up a little more critically: "A.J. runs U.S. Auto Club races more than ASCAR, and NASCAR is more competitive racing. You can mess around, miss gears and spin out and all that stuff in a USAC race and still win. A.J. couldn't do that in NASCAR."

Ellington's team runs only a partial schedule, Allison reminded, and that makes it harder for the team to stay competitive. "You can't miss too many of these races and then show up for one and be competitive," he said. "You really have to work at it."

"I'd like to run all 30 races. I'd rather win the Grand National championship more than anything else in my life now, but I don't want to do it so bad that I want to mess up my race team. I think we've got a good group right now."

Allison singled out Sunday's victory, the ninth of his career, as "probably the easiest race I've ever won".

He added, "I'm probably in the best shape of my life. I quit smoking in April. I really feel good."

Allison got off to a tremendous start, averaging an incredible 139.773 mph for the first 10 laps, about a half mile an hour faster than his pole position winning speed.

"The car was handling super," he said. "I don't care how many engines you've got in the car, if it ain't handling you won't win."

Allison led 374 of the 492 laps around north Carolina Motor Speedway's slippery 1.017-mile oval. His average speed was slowed to 113.534 mph because of nine different accidents.

"One time that No. 4 car (Randy Myers) lost it right in front of me. I didn't like that at all," Allison said.

"That was about as close as I come to trouble all day."

Allison had tire troubles about the 175th lap, and dropped a lap down. It wasn't until the 237th circuit that Allison managed to get himself unslapped. But one he did, it wasn't long before he was in front once more. He was in that position most of the rest of the way.

"We've been real happy with Donnie as a driver," said Ellington. "he knows Grand National racing real well, and he's helped our team accomplish the things

I knew it was capable of." Asked if Allison would be rehired for next season, the generally evasive Ellington replied, "Definitely ... I Think."

Super Speedway Finale

The U.S. 13 Super Speedway finished a successful year with a twin 40 lap grand finale race last Sunday.

Saturday nearly 75 cars raced against the clock to qualify for positions in Sunday's competition. Dick "Toby" Tobias earned the coveted pole position. A huge crowd watched Sunday as Dave Kelly of Alburts, Pa., not once but twice survived and was the first to the checker flag.

Dick Tobias of Lebanon Pa. was runner-up in the first race followed by Walt Breeding of Federalsburg Md., Harold Bunting of Milford and Jerry West of Georgetown.

In the second race Bobby Braxton of Wayne Va. was second, followed by Hal Browning of West Grove Pa. Eddie Pettyjohn of Milton & Ron Tobias of Reading Pa.

Pit Chatter

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

Several thousand fans turned out on Sunday to witness the running of the Twin's 40's at the U.S. #13 Speedway Delmar. From my observation and vantage point, it appeared to me that stock car racing is one of the fastest growing sports in this area of the country. It also goes for other parts of the country where this form of racing is being participated. For an extra dollar any fan young or old can walk among the drivers and pit crews in the "garage area". This continues the enthusiasm of the fans for it enables them to be close to their idols.

Dirt track racing is a lot more difficult to handle than the macadam of the Grand National NASCAR track. It also plays havoc with the wear and tear of the car.

It is also interesting to note that many business men associated with auto repair are finding the door opening wide for them through contacts with the local racing circuit. Mr. Joe Carmichael of Red Mill Radiator Shop claims he was dead until he met Lou Johnson of Lewes one of the area local drivers. Carmichael built a radiator for Johnson which got him started in the racing field. Incidentally Carmichael knows his stuff when it comes to building or rebuilding a radiator. Now Carmichael represents some of the largest business and trucking concerns in the area as well as nearby Maryland. His business has jumped over night, and is now preparing to move into a new building three times the size of the old shop. Good going Joe. The pattern which Joe Carmichael exhibited in bringing his business to the front demonstrates the true racing spirit.

RIVERSIDE, Calif. 88 The cast is set for the final race of the 1977-78 international Race of Champions, and two-time Indy 500 winner All Unser has top billing.

Unser and eight other world class driving stars survived the "cut" last weekend at Riverside International Raceway and have qualified for the championship-deciding race on the high-banked Daytona International Speedway oval on February 17.

The original field of 12 driving stars for IROC V was reduced to nine at Riverside on the basis of accumulated points. Three races: one on the Michigan International Speedway oval and two on the road course at Riverside.

After three races Unser holds a commanding lead in the series with two wins and a third place finishes. Joining Unser at Daytona will be NASCAR star Cale Yarborough, Richard Petty and Darrel Waltrip; USAC drivers Johnny Rutherford and Gordon Johncock; Mario Andretti and Gunnar Nilsson from Formula 1 and sports car champion Jacky Ickx.

NASCAR's Benny Parsons, USAC's Tom Sneva and IMASA's Al Holbert failed to qualify for the finale.

"I missed a shift on the last lap," Parsons explained after the race, "and he just motored on by me. One missed shift in an entire race, but that's what did it."

Holbert also came close. He led the first half of the second Riverside race, but lost his chance in a spin.

"I slowed for a yellow flag at turn seven and Cale pulled right up on my bumper. I had trouble with the brakes in turn nine, spun to the inside and he got around me."

"I'm very disappointed. Maybe I'll have another chance next year."

Unser will start the Daytona race with 56 points. Yarborough, who won the third race in the series, is second with 41 points and Petty is third with 39 points. Yarborough is the only driver who could actually overtake Unser for the IROC championship at Daytona. Petty, however, could tie Unser which would mean a five-lap tie-breaking race to decide the championship.

But Unser would have to finish last with Yarborough or Petty winning to deny the younger of the racing Unsers the $50,000 championship purse.

That could mean Unser will take it easy, coast along in the middle of the pack. Not likely.

"I always think about winning first, not about the points," Unser said at Riverside. "I think about points after the race."

And certainly Yarborough and Petty will be going all out, even if their shot at the title is slim.

The other drivers? Every step up in the final standings is worth approximately $2000 more in prize money. Ninth place is worth $12,000 with the purse escalating dramatically up to $26,000 for second overall. No one will be holding back.

"I drove all out the last 10 laps at Riverside," Yarborough said. "I had to keep Andretti behind. And I'll have to drive the same way at Daytona if I'm going to beat Unser. Our work is cut out for us. It should be a very good race."

And Unser can be counted on to do his part in making it a typically hard-fought IROC finale.

"I have to do well at Daytona," Unser says. "Anytime you go into a race feeling you've got it won, that's when you have problems. It's the same thing with the IROC championship."

"Besides, I always try to win. Regardless."

Homecoming This Friday Spartans Edged By Seaford

Lake Forest High School football fans saw high hopes for a victory drop off to a 16-12 loss as the Spartans losing to Seaford last Friday.
Coach Jim Fleming who is quoted as saying that we played the worst half all year as far as intensity and aggressiveness is concerned." In the first half Seaford took a quick 8-0 lead but Lake Forest rallied with a touchdown in each quarter to take a 12-18 lead into the locker room at half-time. Both times the Spartans missed their extra points as runs for a two point try failed.
Both Spartans touchdowns were scored by Orlando Burriss who was the top rusher on the night for the Spartans with 103 yards on 16 carries. However, the Spartans failed to score in the second half and a third quarter pass from Thad Ellis spelled defeat for the visiting Lake Forest team.

Overall the Spartans gained 152 net total yards. Bill Moore was the second leading rusher with 35 yards on 4 carries. Passing the Spartans completed only 2 of 10 tries for 42 yards. Larry Smith was on the receiving end of one of the tosses which gained 24 yards while Marty Voshell caught the other one for eighteen yards.
On defense the Spartans limited Seaford to just 76 yards rushing and 58 passing. Bill Moore led the tacklers with three unassisted tackles and sixteen assists. Larry McCombs was second with three unassisted and fourteen assists while Greg Shortell chipped in with twelve assists and one unassisted.

The Spartans had one touchdown called back as Louis Hendricks returned an interception back for a score but a clipping penalty nullified it.
This Friday will be the annual Homecoming game for Lake Forest as they will battle the Woodbridge Raider at the W.T. Chipman field beginning at 8 p.m. The pre-game parade will begin in town at 7:00 and crowing of this years homecoming queen will be done at halftime.

Sunny Side Up

By Lynn Hershey

The smallest things can provoke the biggest family arguments.

We had our Hot Oatmeal Hassle again this morning at breakfast. I have always placed oatmeal right up there with apple pie and Old Glory, but our resident teenager, it seems, would almost rather eat ground up night crawlers.

This morning he sat and poked at his oatmeal with a spoon for 20 minutes until the steamy, creamy bowlful had become tepid and stiff. Then he complained about how long it was taking him to eat it.

"Why didn't you tell me we were going to have this stuff? I'd have skipped my shower," he grouched. "In fact, why do we have to have it at all?"

"Dad likes it," I replied, smiling pleasantly through clenched teeth. "And you might as well accept the fact that we're going to have it once a week all winter."

"Why can't you let Dad eat it, and fix me something else?"

"Because, ole buddy, I'm not running a bloomin' cafeteria!" I explained for the thousandth time at least.

So, how are things at your house in the morning?

I got to wondering, though, whether oatmeal is really worthy of its reputation as a nutritious breakfast. A quick check with Marguerite Krackhardt, Delaware extension nutrition specialist, verified it.

Yes, she said, oatmeal, with milk and fruit, is a good breakfast nutritionally. It's also filling, and you can't beat it for economy.

Oatmeal is valuable mainly for iron and B vitamins—thiamin, riboflavin, niacin. It also contains worthwhile amounts of protein, and some of that fiber everybody's talking about.

If you have the time in the morning, prepare regular instead of the more refined quick-cooking or instant oatmeal. Generally, as the amount of refinement increases, the price of breakfast cereals goes up and the naturally occurring nutrients decrease. For this reason oatmeal might be preferred over the more highly processed hot cereals such as cream of wheat or cream of rice.

One cup of cooked oatmeal contains only about 130 calories, says Marguerite. So weight-watchers can enjoy it with skim milk, plus a glass of juice, and still keep calories to a minimum.

My teenager, though, certainly doesn't need to cut back on calories. He's about nine feet tall and six inches wide, so I get as much food into him as possible.

Here are some ways to dress up hot oatmeal for balky teenagers and other non-calorie-watchers:

Add dried fruits such as dates, chopped apricots, apple slices or raisins (if you can afford them these days).

Top with a pat of butter and a liberal sprinkling of brown sugar.

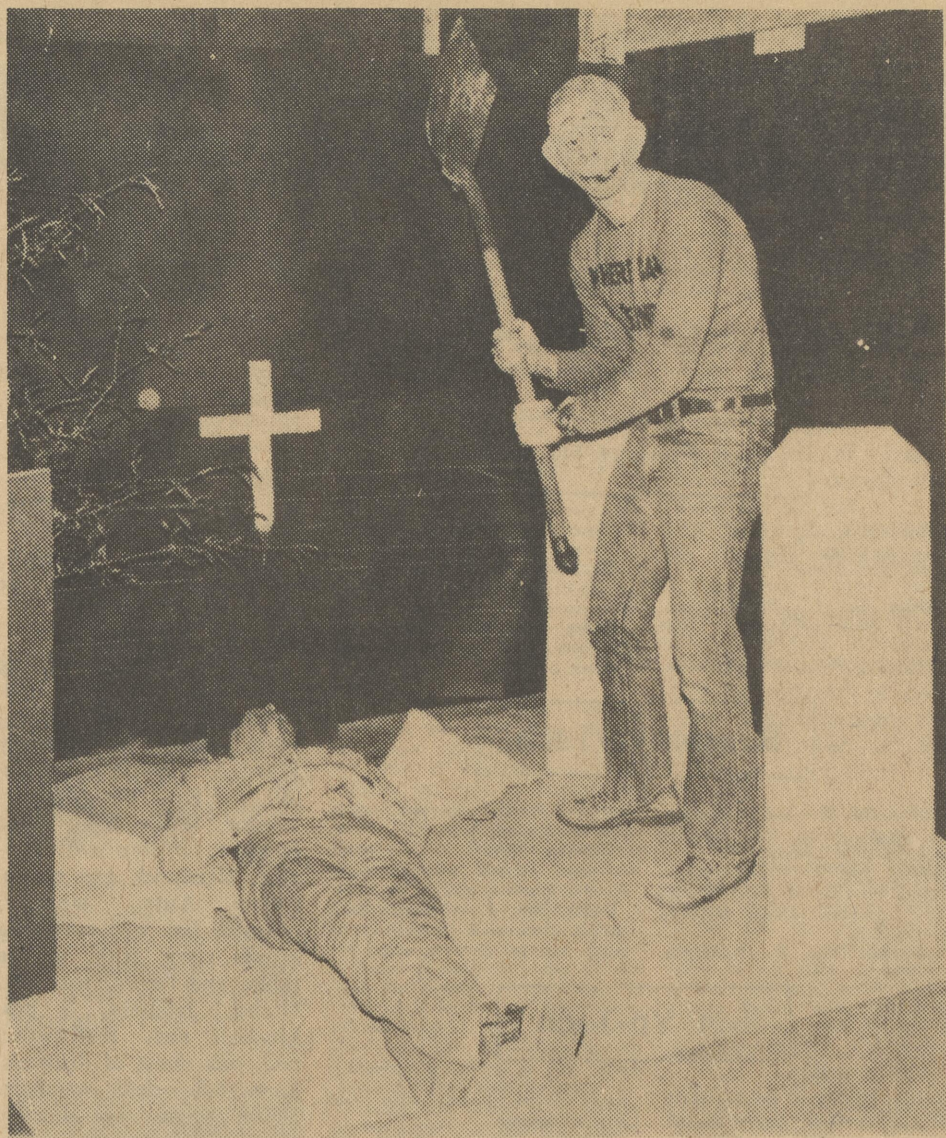

Try a spoonful of strawberry jam or orange marmalade on top.

Use honey, maple syrup or a cinnamon-brown sugar mixture instead of regular sugar.

Skip the sugar entirely and sprinkle with crisp bacon and shredded cheese.

Spoon the oatmeal into a bowl with a layer of sliced bananas and chopped nuts in between.

Our son may never become an oatmeal convert. But I'll bet you that some day he'll be telling his own son, "Eat your oatmeal—it'll grow hair on your chest."

Those who enter the Harrington Jaycee Haunted House are likely to see anything. The Haunted House opens this Friday night at 6 p.m.

Did You Know?

Motorcyclists, check your cycle's tires frequently to be certain they're in good condition. Worn or uneven tread can make the motorcycle difficult to handle, especially on wet pavement, warns the Delaware Safety Council.

Get Fireplace Ready For Winter

Now is the time to get your fireplace ready for winter use. A yearly check-up is a must, says University of Delaware extension agricultural engineer, Ernest Walpole.

To avoid the possibility of fire in the wrong place, make sure the smoke shelf is clean and unobstructed. Also make sure there are no birds' nests, leaves or other debris in the chimney.

You should also examine the inside top of your fireplace for buildup of black crust or tar, which constitutes another fire hazard. If a buildup is evident, scrape it off.

A good way to clean out your chimney is to climb to the roof and lower a set of automobile tire chains into it. By swishing the chains around, you should be able to knock off most of the accumulated soot and tar deposits. Just be sure to seal off the entrance of the fireplace first. Use a piece of plywood or tape some heavy duty plastic across the opening. Otherwise you'll have a big mess inside the room.

Once the fireplace is safe to use, remember these tips for the most benefit from it.

Always use dry wood. To burn off the water in green wood will use much of the heat the fire produces. Dry wood is also easier to start and smokes less.

Use dry kindling and allow some air to get between the logs as they are stacked.

Make sure the damper is open. It may also help to start your fire, to warm the chimney and get an updraft going. This prevents smoke from pouring out into the room when the fire is lit.

Close the damper when the fire is out. Otherwise you'll lose a lot of precious heat right up the chimney.

Hardwood will produce the most heat. Get seasoned wood or buy it a year in advance and let it season before you burn it.

It's best to store wood in an open shed. If you store it outside, lay some supports under the bottom layer to keep it from rotting.

To burn well, firewood should not exceed eight inches in diameter without being split into halves or quarters.

Take Advantage of Fresh Apple Season

Fall means crisp weather, beautiful colors and a new crop of apples.

With modern methods of commercial storage, apples are available to us year round. However, what autumn is complete without the aroma of apple pie hot from the oven, the tang of fresh cider or the crunch of an apple just off the tree?

The many varieties of apples differ widely in appearance, flesh characteristics, seasonal availability and suitability for different uses. Here are some tips on choosing apples from Delaware extension home economist Sue Matusiak.

For good eating raw, the commonly available varieties are: Delicious, McIntosh, Stayman, Golden Delicious, Jonathan and Winesap.

For pies and applesauce, use tart or slightly acid varieties such as Gravenstein, Grimes Golden, Jonathan and Newtown.

For baking, the firm-fleshed varieties—Rome Beauty, Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening, Winesap and York Imperial—are widely used.

These are only suggestions. Ms. Matusiak points out. There is no agreement on which apple varieties should be used for what. Any apple can be used for any purpose, but results vary. In general, apples to be eaten out of the hand or in salads should be mature. For cooking, many people prefer green or at least unripe apples. Note, however, that Newtown is greenish-yellow when mature, and Rhode Island Greening is like its name.

Regardless of the variety, look for firm, crisp, well-colored apples. Flavor depends on the stage of maturity at the time the fruit is picked. Apples must be mature when picked to have a good flavor, texture and storing ability. Immature apples lack color and may have a shriveled appearance after being held in storage.

Many consumer packages of apples show the variety, the grade and the size. Federal grades are U.S. Extra Fancy, U.S. Fancy, U.S. No. 1 and combination of these. U.S. No. 2 is a less desirable grade.

Apples from the western states are usually marketed under state grades which are similar to Federal grades. General appearance—color, maturity, imperfections—determine the grade.

Apples contain vitamin C, although not as much as some other fruits and vegetables. Cooking causes considerable loss in vitamin C content, adds the home economist.

A medium apple has 85 to 90 calories. Four-fifths of the ripe fruit is water. Sugar and acids in the fruit can be absorbed immediately, and supply the body with nutrition in an easily available form.

Apples also contain traces of calcium, phosphorus, copper and iron, organic acids, bulk and pectin—all of which are valuable in promoting smoothly functioning digestive systems.

Only perfect apples should be stored raw for later use, advises Ms. Matusiak. Use those with bruises, skin breaks or decayed spots as soon as possible.

Store slightly underripe apples for two weeks or less in a cool place, 60 to 70 degrees F., to ripen.

Apples that are ripe enough for eating will keep in the refrigerator for a week or longer. Place them in the humidifier compartment or in a moisture-resistant, ventilated container.

Most varieties of apples will keep several months if stored at lower temperatures. However, freezing raw apples will lower their quality.

Apples and their various products can also be canned, frozen or dried in slices or fruit leathers. Cookbooks provide endless suggestions for using them in interesting and creative ways.

After the death of a loved one, so many people believe at that time words of comfort or good deeds aren't really heard or appreciated.
