Thumbs down on Chipman home

Under pressure from vocal citizens present at last night's meeting, and from their own constituents, Harrington's six City Councilmen unanimously turned thumbs down on the purchase of the W.T. Chipman home for use as a city hall. The six council members voted "Yes" on a motion by Councilman Jack Wyatt and seconded by Councilman Harold Brode not to buy the property which had been offered to the City for $35,000 by Suzanne and Kenneth Jones.

In responding to the roll call vote, several of the Council members said their constituents were strongly opposed to the purchase. Reverend Ray Newman said he personally was in favor of the purchase but felt he must vote the sentiments of the voters in his Ward.

Asking that his vote be deferred to last, Dr. Vincent Lobo echoed the regret. "Maybe we should have had a referendum." The sentiment came a little late as the Council felt it could no longer keep the Jones dangling for want of a decision. In any event, the option taken by the Town on the property would run out on July 7 of this year.

Whatever the future of the W.T. Chipman home may be, it will not rest in the hands of the City of Harrington.

Present at the Council meeting were several citizens who expressed strong words of caution or opposition to the purchase.

One of these was Earl Yoder who opened by saying that it was unfair to the citizens of Harrington who would have to foot the bill for the Council's decision. Yoder said the matter should have been brought before the voters in the form of a referendum.

Yoder, who is a contractor, also worried that the additional $5,000 would not really be enough to cover all of the repairs and renovations that might be needed. He said the Chipman home would soon need a new roof and the white paint is peeling where brick joins mortar. He thought it would be difficult to find a paint that would really adhere to the surface.

Claude Neeman pointed out the financial burden to the large number of elderly taxpayers living on fixed incomes in Harrington.

A further objection was made by Donald McKnatt who took the Council to task in not having the foresight to have sought a long term lease with the fire company from which it rents its current quarters.

He thought possibly some arrangement for expansion upstairs or outward at the present site could have been made.

After their unanimous rejection of the Chipman purchase, the Council also unanimously backed a disappointed Mayor Cahall's request that Suzanne and Kenneth Jones be formally thanked by the City for the generosity of their offer.

APARTMENT ZONING APPROVAL DENIED

Despite the favorable recommendation of the Planning & Zoning Commission, the Council denied a request for rezoning of two parcels of land on Peck Avenue from IMP to C-2. The land is owned by Dudley Willis, and the rezoning would have allowed construction of an apartment complex particularly designed for rental by the elderly. Willis and Irwin O. Drummer, Sr. of Case/Edwards (the Washington firm that would have built the apartment complex) were on hand, but were given almost no opportunity to speak or present their case before the motion to deny was put to a vote. Speaking after the request was denied, Dudley Willis said it had been demonstrated the area had a need of housing, especially for the elderly, and that the town "will not grow" if it continues to take a "really determined" position in opposition to growth.

In other business the Harrington City Council: -decided to purchase a piece of property adjacent to the Town's water pumping station from the Downing Company. Cost of the 80x125 foot parcel of land was $1,000.

-received a petition signed by residents in the area of the West and Milby Street intersection about drainage conditions that for over twenty years have made that spot nearly impassable after any kind of heavy rainfall. The petition was carried by Mrs. Grace Welch. At the behest of Councilman Vincent Lobo, the City Manager and the Street Commissioner were empowered by the Council to explore avenues through which funds for correcting the difficult problem might be obtained. Mrs. Welch said that many cars are stalled there and that residents must wear high boots to leave their homes after a rainfall. -decided to board up windows on the vacant building at the corner of Fleming and Mechanic Streets and send the owner the bill. -drafted an emergency ordinance to extend the n parking yellow lines on curbs at the intersection of Weiner Avenue and Center Streets. The intersection has been the location of several accidents occasioned by poor visibility. -raised the minimum fee for mowing to $12.

The decision making process is not easy as the Harrington Council found Tuesday night

Advisory committees set at Woodbridge

Efforts of Woodbridge parents to have input on curriculum and other school matters will bear fruit when newly established advisory committees begin functioning September 1.

The Woodbridge School Board Monday night heard of plans for the advisory committees in a report read by Superintendent Dr. William Griffin. Dr. Griffin explained that each of the five schools in the district will have such a committee. The committees in each school are to have at least a minimum number of parents involved. The plans further stipulate that where there are appropriate parent-teacher-student organizations operations in a school, there be at least a specified number of representatives of the organization on the parent advisory committee.

Two district advisory committees are also to be set up. One of these is for parents; the other, for students. The district parents advisory committee will solicit at least one member from each active parent-teacher-student organization in the district. The rest of the committee will be appointed by the Superintendent.

Student representatives appointed by the principals of the schools will also be meeting regularly with the Superintendent.

Local P.T.A. representatives were gratified at the plans for establishing the advisory committees, but expressed concern that this was still short of their goal of having input on every curriculum committee.

Dr. Griffin replied that the plan outlined in his report was simply a "foundation program" and that the district had every intention of including parents on the curriculum committees that might be functional in the future. He pointed out current parent involvement in the reading program.

The Woodbridge School Board gave its approval to standards for reporting and grading as proposed by a committee of nine faculty members, four parents and three students headed by Greenwood Principal Charles S. Parks.

The letter codes in current use for grading at the Kindergarten and Pre-School levels will be continued. In grades 1-3 the letters G (Good), S (Satisfactory) and U (Unsatisfactory) will be used.

A grading scale to convert numerical percentages to letter grades will prevail from fourth to twelfth grades. The bottom line for passing is 70 which will get a student a D for effort. "A" students will have to score a 93 or higher.

Guidelines for figuring grades assign the importance to be given to such areas as classwork, homework, quizzes and exams. Beginning in fourth grade, marking period examinations will be given at the end of each nine-weeks and final exams are to be given at the end of the year.

In other business the Woodbridge School Board adopted a continuing budget until July and the clarification of financial support from the state legislature.

In other business the Woodbridge School Board

-adopted a continuing budget until July and the clarification of financial support from the state legislature.

-voted a big, formal "Thank You" to the town of Bridgeville which used some of its revenue sharing funds to resurface and repair tennis courts at the high school. -heard some repair or replacement would be needed for the center circle of the gym floor damaged by a leaky fountain at the prom.

-postponed the next meeting of the Referendum Committee from June 14 to the following Thursday, June 19. This will be an open meeting. -hired Karen Cohee as a teacher in the district and accepted the resignation of Susan Simchok. -awarded bids for bread, milk and ice cream for the coming year and decided to reopen bids for trash collection.

-at Dr. Griffin's behest commended the local Boosters Club on the recent Sports Banquet and the local chapter of the American Industrial Arts Student Association for winning 14 out of 25 individual awards in state competition as well as bringing home the outstanding chapter award.

Council seeks answers

FREDERICAForbid drinking of alcoholic beverages in public parking lots and enforce the curfew were suggestions to solve one problem. The Frederica Town Council is not quite sure what to do about the other.

Beisged by complaints from citizens who say that young drinkers are leaving their empty beer cans strewn about where the litter laws and even roof tops, the Frederica Town Council at last Wednesday's meeting gave serious consideration to proposing an ordinance that would outlaw the drinking of alcoholic beverages in such public parking lots as the one in front of the local fire hall. In fact, Frederica Mayor George Nashold said he thought the town would definitely move in that direction.

However, he said the proper procedure for the adoption of new ordinances would have to be followed. This would include the mandatory publication of any new ordinance proposed before it could be formally considered for adoption.

A second measure--enforcement of the 9:30 curfew already in effect--is also counted upon to help alleviate the problem. Police Chief Larry Washburn has been instructed to enforce that curfew which affects those under 18.

A second problem is a perennial frustration which may be tougher to deal with. It involves the parking situation in Frederica's business district. The district is a relatively small area on Market Street, and the parking demands are sometimes conflicting. People, especially businessmen, complain when the two-hour parking limit is violated. But there are also apartments in the area for which the only adjacent parking available for residents is on the street. Councilwoman Helen Powers was hopeful that some equitable arrangement could be worked out.

Cars parking on the wrong side of the street in the area also pose a problem which resurfaces from time to time.

A meeting designated as a public hearing to discuss funding of needed water system improvements through the HUD program held Monday was sparsely attended. Mayor Nashold extended an invitation to all concerned citizens to attend a similar hearing scheduled next Tuesday evening in Town Hall.

My Opinion

by Bruce Levy

Those who have come to know me through this page realize that there are few people I appreciate less than professional beaurocrats. The regulatory personnel of the government contribute nothing to our economy yet demand a larger and larger share of the revenue generated by private business. I think they are strangling those who seek to provide for themselves through private enterprise and honest labor.

But I have come to see the error of my ways. It happened because of an acquaintance I made in the past few months.

Living next door to me is a professional rule enforcer, a government worker whose job it is to harass poultry producers into conforming with the thousands of laws and regulations that apply to their businesses.

What happened was that I came to see that this person is actually a very conscientious and intelligent government employee who believes in his work and tries to do the very best he can with laws he happens to feel are justified. He goes to work every day with the hope of improving the world we live in.

I saw that he was a good person like the rest of us. He is not trying to bring down the private business world, he is trying to improve it in a way he thinks is necessary. This realization was quite a shock to me, I never took the time to look at an individual case. Now I have and now I see the real problem.

It's not the individual beaurocrats who are the real problem, it's the laws they are given to enforce. I've been picking on the wrong people. It is we who are the problem by letting our elected officials come up with the regulatory "programs" in the first place. Lets throw 'em out! Then these millions of nice people can go out and get real jobs.

The Biden Report

By Senator Joseph R. Biden, Jr.

To develop a significant seafood industry in Delaware, three basic elements need to exist - fishermen, a port and a seafood processor. We have one, are well underway developing the second and need to find the third.

Fishermen along the Mid-Atlantic region from New Jersey to Virginia are in need of an easily-accessible, accomodating facility at which to unload their harvests from the ocean. I believe Lewes is the ideal location to develop the industry to receive, unload, process and ship to other markets the products harvested from the Atlantic.

My staff and I are actively working to help make possible the revitalization of the American fishing industry on the Atlantic coast with Lewes playing a vital role. The Delaware Bay forms a good harbor at Cape Henlopen. The Corps of Engineers has placed the dredging of that harbor to provide a medium depth channel for larger vessels as a high priority. Congressman Evans has testified in the House and I provided testimony to my colleagues in the Senate to get adequate funding for the project. When it is dredged and existing docking facilities are renovated, Lewes will have a port for the fishing industry.

There exists at the port site 63 acres of commercial property which could, with the proper investment, accomodate all of the services necessary for a seafood port. The critical need is for a seafood buyer/processor's investment to establish the industry base.

The owners of the property are eager to develop a port facility and are working to attract a processor. When a reputable processor locates, commercial fishing vessels will begin frequenting the port. There is an abundant crop of various species in the Atlantic. Because our 200 mile territorial limit keeps foreign fishing vessels away from our shores, American fishing harvests are increasing, existing ports are overcrowded. Foreign investors, in order to fish American waters, must invest in American based companies - American ships, captains and ports. Smaller American fishing enterprises need help to complete and expand. The time for expanding is now.

Although the U.S. Senate passed a maritime authorization bill which would provide incentive to the American fishing industry to invest in developing onshore fishery facilities by providing a guarantee loan and tax deferral program, unless the House of Representatives acts, the incentives may be lost.

I have asked Congressman John M. Murphy, chairman of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries and author of the House version of the maritime authorization bill, to amend his legislation to include the incentive program. Although the bill has been reported out of committee and is pending a full House floor. If it is not amended and made law, the bright prospects for developing the fishery industry in Lewes and stimulating the economy of all Delaware becomes a little dimmer.

Because my European Affairs Subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations will be holding hearings this month to discuss European attitudes on the proposed Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT II), I conferred with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and other leaders in Germany last week.

Like other Europeans, the Germans are obviously concerned primarily with their own problems but realize that our SALT II agreement with the Soviet Union will have a major impact on how they handle their problems with the Soviets. Their own decisions on their relations with the Soviets are going to depend heavily on whether we accept or reject the SALT treaty. In fact, Chancellor Schmidt suggested that failure to ratify SALT II would have a devastating effect on world security.

The two key issues the Senate must consider about the SALT II treaty are verification of Soviet compliance and the attitudes of our European allies toward the treaty.

The Senate will certainly base its treaty decision on the best interests of the United States but we can't really determine what our interests are without taking the attitudes of our allies into account. It is vital that we understand their thinking and they understand ours. I will be carrying to the Senate the product of the candid discussions between the German leaders and myself.

In just a single second, light travels from the Moon to Earth.

"Nobody can become perfect by merely ceasing to act," cautions the Bhagavad-Gita.

Governor Pierre S. DuPont IV observes a new hearing program for senior citizens called "EARS." Carlton Maricle, a Division of Public Health audiologist, is shown helping Mrs. Mattie Derby, an 85-year-old Smyrna resident. The EARS Program is funded by the state Division of Aging, and administered by the Division of Public Health.

Sen. Thurman Adams writes....

Last week the Senate passed my bill (SB 255) to ease just a little bit the financial strain on local school districts. The bill allows a local school district to keep its share of the fees it collects for rent or use of school facilities.

Under present law, such fees must be turned over to the state, which isn't fair at all. For instance, a local school district's taxpayers put up 40 percent of the cost of building a high school. But, if the district rents the high school auditorium out for a convention, all the fee received has to go to the state.

Under SB 255, the local district would keep 40 percent of the fee--the same proportion as the taxpayers paid for the facility. I was successful in getting similar legislation through the General Assembly last year, but the Governor vetoed it on a technicality. Hopefully, I'll have better luck this year.

The Senate passed my resolution (SCR 35) to extend the life of the State Police Pension Reform Committee on which I serve until June 30, 1980.

The committee has been meeting weekly since it was created but we realized that the problem of State Police pensions is too complex to recommend a satisfactory solution in the time we had.

Under the resolution, the Committee must present its recommendations to the Governor and the General Assembly by next February 1. That will give the General Assembly five months to consider the Committee proposal and introduce the recommended pension reform legislation.

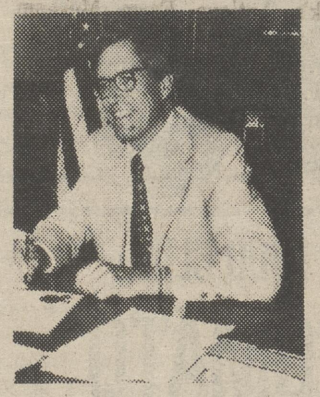

The problem with the State Police pension plan is two-fold. Because a State trooper is retired automatically after 20 years service, we are losing many officers in the prime of life who might want to continue but can't. Secondly, the state has not been funding the pension plan on an actuarially sound basis which means we have built up millions of dollars in future pension obligations which haven't been funded. It's the committee's task to decide if any changes are necessary in the pension plan as it now stands, and whether or not there is a way to fund future obligations much in the way the other State Employees Pension Plan is funded.

I did not support a bill (SB 209) which would grant a $500-a-year tax exemption to residents who send their children to private schools. Although I have no strong feelings there is a serious question about whether such a bill is Constitutional and there is the added drawback that the exemption might encourage people to take their children out of the public school system.

A quality free education is one of the standards which has made our nation and our State great, and I'm reluctant to see anything done which would encourage substitution of a private system for our free public school system.

Thoughts From Dover

By Governor Pete du Pont

The State of Delaware and the three counties, along with the City of Wilmington, have signed a joint agreement establishing a Delaware Economic Development Corporation. The corporation was established on the recommendation of the Intergovernmental Task Force, which said that the new group would help bring jobs and business development to the state.

The corporation will work primarily with local governments in developing publicly-held industrial sites for commercial and industrial use, as determined by the local jurisdictions. The corporation will also help find suitable tenants and developers for the sites.

Sussex County Administrator Joe Conaway, Kent County Levy Court President Bill Paskey, New Castle County Executive Mary Jorlin and Wilmington Mayor Bill McLaughlin signed the agreement on behalf of their jurisdictions.

A non-profit corporation, the new enterprise will be operated by a 13-member board appointed by the government officials. It will have a first year budget of $200,000, with half being appropriated by the General Assembly and the other half raised from private sources.

Ideally, the Corporation will become a developer and manager of major pieces of publicly-held industrial property. The corporation may in the future assist businesses and local jurisdictions with funding, site selection and expansion.

It must be stressed that the new Corporation would not interfere with industrial development programs currently underway in each of the three counties. The corporation will not encourage relocation of existing businesses from one area of the State to another.

The new corporation, based upon the recommendation of the Intergovernmental Task Force, was developed by a bi-partisan committee representing all major governmental jurisdictions and the private sector under the direction of the Secretary of Economic Development and Community Affairs, James H. Gilliam, Jr.

Local jurisdictions and the state utilizing the services of the Economic Development Corporation will enter into a contract with the corporation and pay whatever costs may occur as a result. This way, each locality will be paying for the services it seeks. Ultimately, the corporation will become self-supporting.

The corporation will be staffed by an executive director and three other assistants. The corporation's offices will be in Dover, but additional offices may be established elsewhere depending upon the corporation's activities. The 13-member board will include representation from all jurisdictions.

letter to the editor

To Whom It May Concern:

I am one of the parents of a Senior that was totally upset by the arrangements for the graduation. There should not be a rain date for something special that Seniors and parents have waited 12 years for. If decided by Seniors where and when and the time, some adult should be smart enough to inform them that an inconvenience for hundreds of people should be taken into consideration. There are friends, relatives that travel thousands of miles for this special event and had to return home before it could take place. Because of lack of intelligence from staff and head of graduation, my Senior and others didn't get to stand proud and graduate with others from their class. Reasons for other commitments that could not be cancelled that had to go on. I hope Class of '80 parents, relatives and friends don't have to experience what we did. Lack of planning and thinking ahead caused a lot of sadness for lots of angry people.

Thoughts From Washington

By U.S. Senator Bill Roth

It's been over three years since I introduced the sunset legislation with Senator Edmund Muskie (D-Me). Since that time, the bill has received tremendous bipartisan support, which attests to its need and responsible approach. Today, there are 75 senatorial co-sponsors.

From last year's election, we learned one of the overriding concerns of the American public was that government is not working as well as it should. People expect more from their tax dollars than they're getting.

Sunset provides a way for government to discipline its appetite for tax dollars and do a better job with the resources at its command. Many citizens think the mushrooming size of the federal government has resulted in a largely unsupervised government with the cost of government ever increasing and its benefits and services decreasing.

A few days ago, the Committee on Governmental Affairs opened hearings on S.2, the Sunset bill. The Sunset Act requires nothing less than a systematic re-examination of the federal structure. Programs would come up for review and reauthorization on a 10-year cycle. Those with similar intent would be reviewed together, with an eye toward eliminating waste, ending duplication and improving those programs which are still doing their job.

Currently, there are about 1,000 different federal programs. Most are reviewed on a regular basis, but usually one program at a time. With different expiration dates and overlapping agency or committee jurisdictions. Congress has no opportunity to examine, for example, all health programs at the same time. Congress is expected to pass judgment on one piece of a very complex puzzle without knowing how it fits into the puzzle as a whole.

The General Accounting Office has completed a number of studies on conflicting and overlapping federal programs. One involved an evaluation of outpatient health care facilities in the District of Columbia. In 1975, the GAO discovered that there were so many federal agencies and programs involved in this one area that on one knew what anyone else was doing. In a single neighborhood, there were eight different clinics and in several of these clinics, doctors were seeing as few as four or five patients a day.

One of the fundamental premises of the sunset bill is that Congress, if required to look at all similar programs at the same time, would be able to eliminate such instances of gross waste and budget mismanagement.

In addition, S.2 is a hopeful piece of legislation. Its purpose, over the long haul, is to release resources so they may be directed to changing national needs. The bill was born, not just out of concern that government is too big, but out of a sense that government has many important jobs to do. Right now, it is not doing them well enough!

There's still another aspect of this bill I'm extremely pleased about and that is Title IV, which authorizes a national, bipartisan and independent commission to review the structure, organization and effectiveness of government programs.

The public has become increasingly disenchanted with the performance of the federal government. Our taxpayers want permanent improvements in government's delivery of services. I believe a national commission of leading public and private citizens with broad public involvement could be an effective means to sustain public pressure and interest in securing permanent improvements.

The need for sunset legislation was great when Senator Muskie and I developed it several years ago and, today, the need is even greater.

We simply cannot afford federal programs that have outworn their usefulness. We must make the federal government more accountable and effective in serving the American people by trimming away at ineffective and inefficient programs. We can no longer afford to reject this opportunity to do just that!

Sen. William Murphy writes....

The Senate last week voted unanimously for my joint resolution (SJR 17) requesting that State Insurance Commissioner David Elliott deny a workmen's compensation insurance rate hike of about $4 million at least until there is concrete proof that such a rate hike is needed.

The workmen's compensation insurance companies have already gotten an enormous rate hike of more than 30 percent last year and there is virtually no factual data to support another rate increase at this time.

The proposed Fiscal 1980 budget bill (HB 333) contains $56,000 to allow the Industrial Accident Board to upgrade its efficiency and record-keeping ability. When that has been done, we will be able to see if awards for workers injured on the job are really going up-or whether the insurance companies are just claiming they are.

Delaware's small businessmen can ill afford at this time another $4 million in workmen's compensation premiums, especially with the widespread predictions of a coming slow-down or recession in the economy.

One interesting proposal pending before the General Assembly is a bill (HB 34) which would establish a presidential primary in Delaware on the second Saturday in February of a presidential election year. What interests me as chairman of the Senate Elections Committee is the fact that enactment of the bill would put Delaware second behind New Hampshire in the presidential primary sweepstakes.

So far the bill hasn't even gotten out of the House Administration Committee, so I don't know if the bill's sponsor plans to push for passage. But the bill is interesting from several angles.

The early presidential primaries, especially in New Hampshire because it is first and snow is still on the ground when it's held, attract the attention of the news media and network television as well as the candidates. There might be no better way to get free advertising for our State.

Such a primary also might be good for Delaware's tourist industry. The primaries attract hundreds of media representatives, campaign staffs, advance staffs, security staffs, hangers-on, volunteers, and the just plain curious. All of them have to be fed and housed and entertained.

These advantages just might outweigh the cost of holding such a presidential primary.

The 1979-1980 grant-in-aid bill being put together by the State Senate will contain several items of interest to this area, thanks to my efforts. The Frederica Senior Center will get a grant of $11,000, up from last year's $8,000. The Bi-County Adult Center in Milford will also get an increase, from $27,750 to $30,250, while the Bowers Beach Maritime Museum will get a grant of $5,350.

These private organizations are all doing a fine job, and the grants the state gives to them represents only a portion of their total effort.

Heritage Day

During the day an antique car show located in the parking area at Taylor and Messick and Welch's Seed Service will add to the interest for visitors. Those who wish to see the antique autos and who may, as well, be attracted to Messick's Antique Farm Museum. An ice cream festival and a bicycle rodeo are just two of the attractions recently added to the calendar of events as plans roll forward for the celebration of Harrington's first annual Heritage Day on August 11.

The Ladies' Auxilliary of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company is planning to hold the ice cream festival which will feature - you guessed it - home made ice cream.

Also during the day, the Harrington Police will stage a bicycle rodeo which should interest kids of all ages. Competition classes will be set up for various age groups, and prizes will be awarded. The rodeo is to be located on the Peoples' Bank parking lot.

During the day an antique car show located in the parking area at Taylor and Messick and Welch's Seed Service will add to the interest for visitors. Those who wish to see the antique autos and who may, as well, be attracted to Messick's Antique Farm Museum which will be open may want to take advantage of Walter Messick's generous offer to provide transportation to and from the downtown area via their tractor drawn shuttle buses which he uses at the Delaware State Fair.

Harrington's history and the talents of local artists will be on display in a number of store window exhibits that will be set up for the occasion. Mr. Elbert Stevens' recreation of historic Harrington will be just one of these.

There is still room for more. If you have a craft; if you would like space at the flea market; if you have anything you would like to contribute to the day - call the library at 398-4647.

SALISBURY

The Pine Bluff Village, Inc. board members and staff were hosts to the Delmarva Ecumenical Agency (DEA) board members on May 31, at the recently opened complex of apartments for the aging. The DEA board members were able to share in the accomplishment of the non-profit housing corporation they organized in 1975. The purpose of uniting the efforts of different denominations and all levels of government were fulfilled in order to construct the Pine Bluff Village complex of 150 apartments for aging at Pine Bluff Road.

Following a fine dinner prepared by the nutrition staff, the boards and residents joined in a brief dedication service and tour. The development of the $3 million plus Pine Bluff Village was explained by Mr. Wade Insley, President, and made visible with slides taken and shown by the Rev. Donald E. Lelter, DEA Executive Director. The Most Rev. Thomas J. Mardaga, Bishop, Catholic Diocese of Wilmington gave the prayer of dedication.

Mr. Edward Jackson, Assistant Resident Manager, indicated that the first of these units had 45 residents. Assignments were being made for the second unit of 50 apartments from the 292 requests received by mail. The third unit burned in February, while under construction, is anticipated to be rebuilt soon. The fifty-year lease, from the state of Maryland, includes adjacent land to construct additional apartments.

A tour of the several apartments indicated that residents would have pleasant surroundings in their one bedroom apartment that includes a living-dining room, kitchenette and private bath. Each resident is expected to eat at least one meal in the Village cafeteria.

For Your Information

Dear friends,

A person's own wishes, not his age, should determine his time of retirement. Forced retirement at 65 or 70 is wrong. Many artists, musicians, and other professionals have done good work until they died. Older industrial workers have a 20% better absentee record than younger workers. They have fewer on-the-job injuries and the frequency of accidents decreases with age.

Respectfully,

William C. Berry

Gratitude Brings Abundant Living

Deep gratitude to God, says a Christian Science lecturer, is a powerful force in overcoming lack, loneliness, and other distressing human conditions.

In his talk, "God Is Your Provider" to be given at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 217 W. Division Street, Dover, on Thursday, June 14, 1979 at 8:00 p.m. William Henry Alton of New York City regards gratitude as essential to heal any human problem.

Mr. Alton likens gratitude to the blossom on a fruit tree. "You can't have fruit on an apple without first having a blossom" he says. "No blossom, no fruit. Equally true, gratitude -- the acknowledgment of God's everywhere present divine ideas -- is the blossom, the nucleus, around which the fruit, or healing, forms."

The lecturer cites Christ Jesus as the perfect example, noting that before raising Lazarus from the dead the Master acknowledged the healing that was about to take place: "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me."

Prayerful gratitude, the lecturer explains, includes the understanding that God's goodness is everywhere available and that man as God's child is governed entirely by Him.

Mr. Alton also points out that to reap the benefits of an abundant Christian Life it is necessary to establish spiritual priorities as Jesus did. Quoting the Master he said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

A former business executive before taking up the full-time Christian healing ministry,

The 1979 Harrington Big League team

Right to left: Mgr. - Don Adams; Players - Randy Hammond [SS], Jerry Johnson [RF], Jimmy Carroll [3B], Bill Andrea [RF], Roy Boehmer [6], Randy Ramirez [2B], Ben Potter [1B], Snooky Collins

by Don Adams

The 1979 version of Harrington's Big League team swung into action on June 7 at Georgetown. The team under the direction of Mgr. Don Adams and Coach Ken Collins turned in a creditable performance but lost the game 4 to 1. Andy Givens of Georgetown and Mark Smith of Harrington both pitched a fine game. Mark gave up just 5 hits and struck out 5. The biggest problem with this years edition so far is lack of hitting. We are leaving just too many men on base. Our defense is outstanding. When out hitting comes around there is going to be trouble for the other teams in lower Delaware Big League baseball. Anyway down at Georgetown we just came up with 4 hits. Givens shut the locals out until the seventh when Ben Potter drove in Dwayne Harrell for our only run of the game.

On Saturday, June 9, the locals came through with their first victory, 7-1 over Laurel. Randy Hammond pitched a fine 3 hitter and knocked in 3 runs with a homerun in the first inning. Eric Wise led off the game with a double. Todd Gruwell grounded out and Wise moved to third. Mark Smith then drove him in with a single. Jim Carroll fanned. Roy Boehmer walked and then Hammond hit his homerun. It was nice to jump out in front. Mark Smith was a stickout at the plate with two hits and 3 RBL. We came up with seven hits and the men were hitting the ball hard but right at people. Harrington's record is now at 1-1.

On Sunday evening, June 10, Seaford came to town with what may be the best team in lower Delaware. Our defense was outstanding again with a couple of exceptions. Harrington just seems to make a couple of mistakes that costs them a game. Jim Carroll pitched a fine 6 hitter but Harrington only managed 5. Five would have been enough but we just couldn't get them at an opportune time. Harrington had bases loaded with one out in the third and didn't score men on second and third with one but in both the 5 and 6 innings and couldn't score. Mike Guida of Seaford was a real battler and Seaford has a very class team. When the evening was over, Jim Carroll had lost a fine ballgame to Seaford 4-0.

Felton Little League:

Yanks take Cards in extra innings

Last Wednesday saw the last game of the first half of the season for the Felton Little League as the Pirates downed the Phils by a 13-6 score. The Pirates piled up an 8-0 lead in the first two innings. It was a slew of extra bases that made the difference in the Pirates' easy win.

The first half, which actually ended on Thursday, had the Cards in first place in the team standings with a fine 7-1 record. The Dodgers finished the half close behind with a 7-2 record (there are five games to be made up) and the Cards were third with an even 4-4 won lost performance. The Pirates hold down the fourth spot by virtue of a 3-5 record followed by the Phils, 2-6, and the Yanks who won only one and lost six.

The second half of the Felton Little League year got underway on Thursday with a battle between the Phils and Cards. The Phils were off on the right note, whipping the favored Cards 13-8. The difference was a big Phil fourth inning that followed a change in Card pitchers at the start of the frame. Billy Dernberger not only went the distance for the win but he helped his cause by knocking in six runs. John Hardy hit a home run for the losers. Charlie Carlson was the 1-sing hurler.

On Saturday the Yanks beat the Orioles in a real slugfest that went to extra innings. The score was Yanks 22, Orioles 17 in seven frames. Darrell Harris hit a home run for the Yanks while Richy Hawkins, Kevin McCloskey, and Heather Hughes had tripled for the losers. The game see-sawed throughout and was 17 all at the end of the regulation six. In the seventh, Harris snaked a double with the bases loaded to put the game out of reach. John Swain was the loser and Harris was the winner.

To date, the Felton standings are as follows:

Yanks 1-0
Orioles 1-1
Phils 1-1
Dodgers 0-0
Cards 0-1

8 Lake Forest trackmen compete in Kiwanis Mile

A dozen runners from the Lake Forest School District competed in the Eighth Annual Kiwanis Mile Runs, held on June 10th, at Baynard Stadium, Wilmington.

Each participant receives a Kiwanis Mile T-Shirt with additional awards goint to the first three finishers.

Junior Bill Mitchell was third in the age 17 mile, in 4.53, despite the fact that he was coming off an injury induced layoff. Doug Caskey also ran in this race.

Jay Howerin and Terry Caskey clocked 5.05 and 5.28, respectively, in the age 15 test. Both are talented cross-country runners, who figure prominently in Jim Blades' plans for this autumn.

Kevin Green, age 16, has suddenly blossomed as a distance running prospect. Green dwelled Laurels Benny Curtis, 1978 Henlopen Conference champ for four laps, finally being edged 5.12 to 5.13. Greene also has a sub-11 minutes two mile. However, it is uncertain at this writing whether Greene will listen to reason and return to cross-country, the sport which now boasts 21 consecutive winning seasons here.

Jerry Mosleys 5.32 mile, at 14, was a fine effort. Tony Scott did well with 5.41. Allan Buckley, Mark Moreau and Sherri Colburn were other milers Saturday.

In a special 440 race, Joe Custis and Milton Justice ran one lap in 53.3 and 53.7 respectively, good clockings which earned them the second and third place awards.

Trifecta replaces double at Ocean Downs

Harness racing fans at Ocean Downs have been asking, "What happened to the daily double?" The ever-popular double was replaced for the first time in 30 previous years of racing by the new trifectas. The trifectas are wagers involving horses in a single race, while the traditional double ties the winners in two consecutive races on a parimutuel ticket.

The answer to the oft-asked question was swift in coming! The trifectas have been paying thousands of dollars on straight first-second-third tickets and on the six dollar box tickets. A thousand dollar double is a great rarity at any track. Last Saturday's first race trifecta returned $1274.70; the last race trifecta, $889.50. The first race trifecta last Sunday returned $4602.00 on a 4-6-7 box ticket (three selections in any combination). Following suit, the final race Sunday night featured a $1211.10 pay-off on a 6-2-3 combination. The record exacta ever paid at Ocean Downs was a $2600 payoff on a two-six choice in 1976. The trifectas have both exacta and double payoffs topped by $2000 already for the records, having been "alive" at the Ocean Oval for just 15 days of the 85 day race meet. The majority of trifectas have paid between $600 and $800 each night.

YMCA registration

Registration is now open for Camp Sackarackin, the YMCA of Dover's Day Camp. Parents can sign their children up for camp at the Y, located at 1137 S. State St. in Dover Monday thru Friday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Last year, over 1,200,000 kids went to the YMCA camps throughout the United States. In the Dover area, nearly 200 attended Camp Sackarackin.

Camp Sackarackin will run in four, two week sessions beginning on June 25. The fee per session is $50 for Y member children of $65 for children of non-members. The camp fee can be considered as a child care expense for tax purposes for working parents. There will be bus transportation to camp and back each day. For further information come in to the Y or call 674-3000.

How Delmarva Power is cutting its dependency on foreign oil

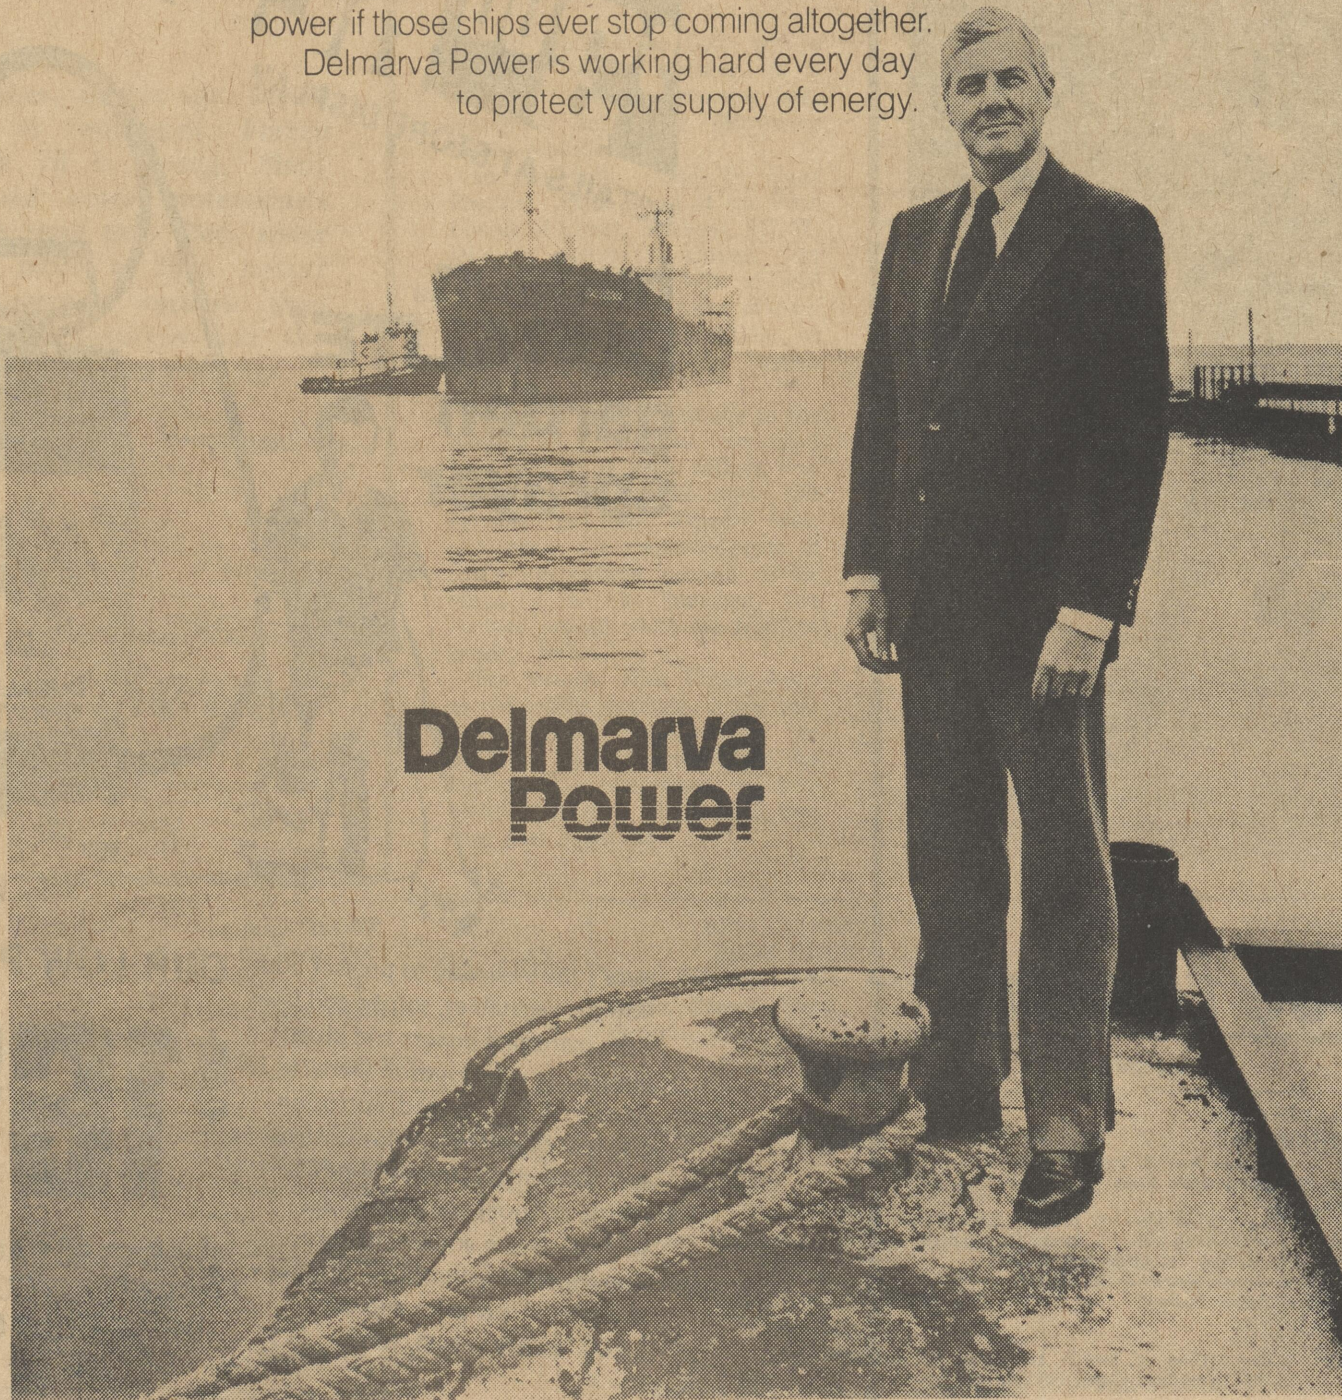

That ship is bringing in a cargo of oil from overseas. It's going to Delmarva Power... to make electricity for Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Used to be that a load of oil that size would cost Delmarva about $1,000,000. Today they'll be forking out a cool $4,500,000 for it. That's 4½ times what it cost just six years ago... and we wonder why electricity costs more these days!

One good thing though, Delmarva has started cutting back on its use of oil, and is using more coal.

In fact, in the next three years they plan to cut oil from 57% of the total fuel used, to just 26%. That's important! Not only because it'll help to control fuel costs now... but because it'll help to make sure we still have a dependable source of power if those ships ever stop coming altogether.

Delmarva Power is working hard every day to protect your supply of energy.

PROGRAM

DELAWARE DIVISION OF LIBRARIES

The State Division Of Libraries

Dover, Delaware - For the first time, a coordinated, statewide summer reading program for young people in Delaware has been developed by the State Division of Libraries of the Department of Community Affairs and Economic Development.

The theme, "Light Up Your Summer" is graphically displayed on posters, bookmarks, registration forms, and certificates of achievements with a humorous Rube Goldberg's-type cartoon. Each child registering and subsequently reading ten books will receive the colorful certificates.

Each of the 26 participating libraries will use other creative resources related to the theme, such as films, puppetry, arts and crafts, and games.

According to Sylvia Short, Director of the Division, preparation for next summer's reading program will begin this fall, continuing the Division's leadership planning and coordination in 1980. Ms. Short feels that encouraging young people to read can establish a life-long habit of finding pleasure, entertainment and learning in books.

Dover, Delaware - Nearly 1,500 films are listed in the Delaware Films Cooperative Catalog now available at every public library in Delaware. All films are for free public use.

Features, short subjects, comedy, drama, classics, and films children may be chosen by borrowers at their local public libraries from the catalog.

Films must be reserved in advance through the library and can be borrowed with the appropriate projector if needed. There is no charge for either the films or the projectors, unless either is returned damaged.

A copy of the 85-page catalog may be purchased by individuals or organizations at a cost of $2.00, from the Division of Libraries in Dover or at the Wilmington Institute Free Library.

The free film program is a joint project of the Delaware Division of Libraries of the Department of Community Affairs and Economic Development and the Wilmington Institute Free Library. Recently the purchase of films with a grant from the Delaware Humanities Forum has increased the film collection which now numbers 2,060 supplied to every library by the Division.

Division Director Sylvia Short says that films reserved for patrons of local public libraries are delivered there by interlibrary messenger service and may be returned to the same place. In addition, she says, the new program helps those in Kent and Sussex Counties who, in the past, have had to travel to Wilmington Institute to pick up and return the free, quality films.

Save Money . . . By Saving Energy

This is the second of a series of articles appearing in the REAL ESTATE supplement on how consumers can save money at home, on the road and in the marketplace.

Material for the series is being taken from a publication of the U.S. Dept. of Energy, "Tips for Energy Savers."

The following article tells how to save money on heating and cooling costs.

Heating and cooling our homes account for most of our residential energy costs.

During both heating and cooling seasons ...

Close off unoccupied rooms and shut their heat or air-conditioning vents; or turn off room air conditioners. (This does not apply if you have a heat pump system. Leave it alone; shutting vents could harm a heat pump.)

Use kitchen, bath, and other ventilating fans sparingly. In just one hour these fans can blow away a houseful of warmed or cooled air. Turn them off just as soon as they have done their job.

Keep your fireplace damper closed unless you have a fire going. An open damper in a 48-inch square fireplace can let up to 8 percent of your heat out the chimney.

With heating equipment...

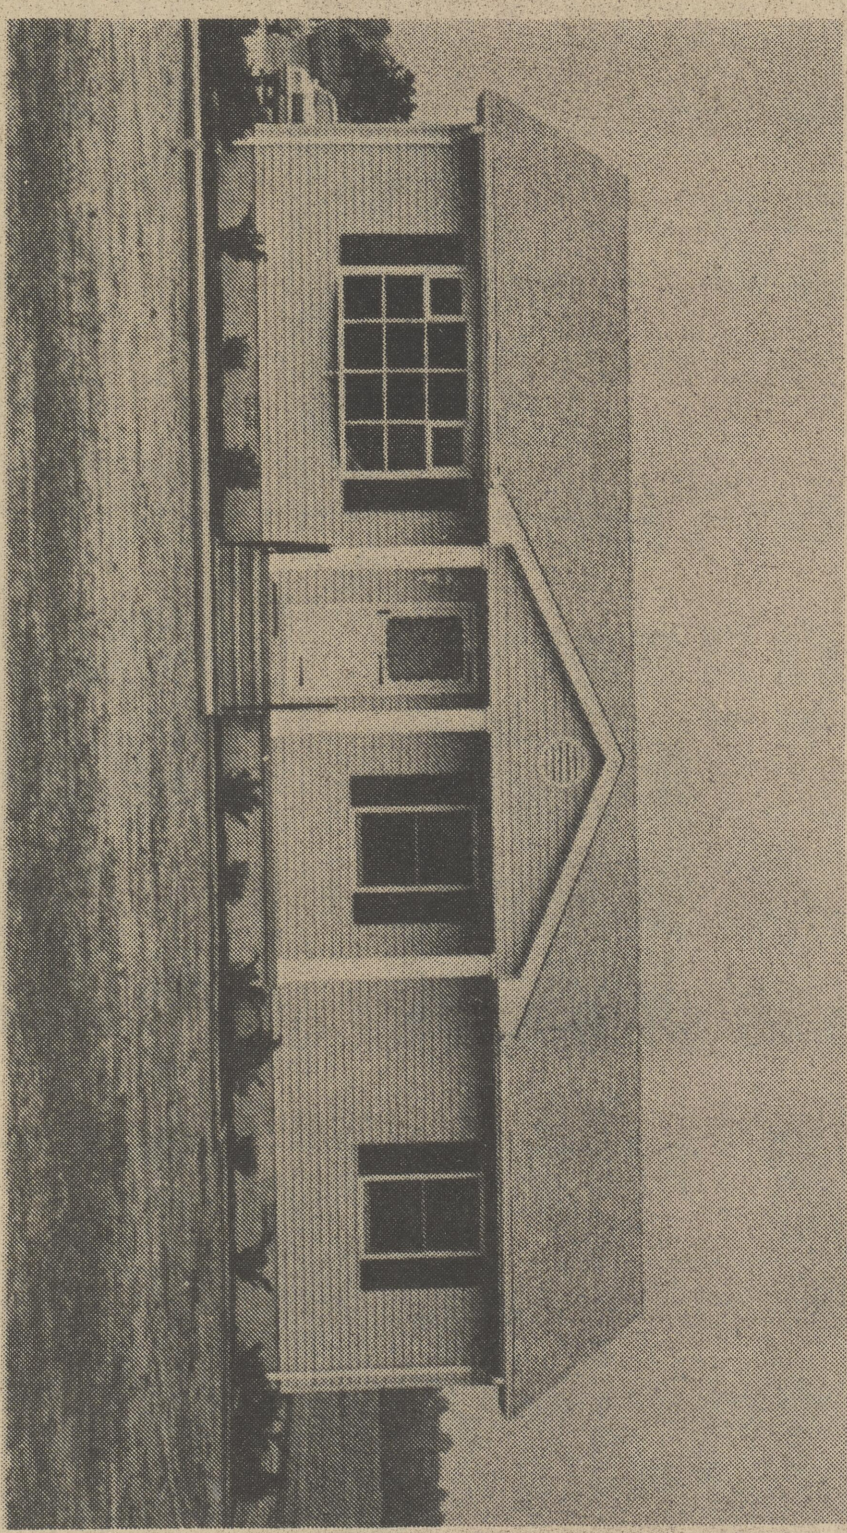

If you use electric furnace heating, consider a heat pump system. The heat pump uses thermal energy from outside air for both heating and cooling. Costs for these pumps run from about $2,000 for a whole-house unit to about $425 for room size. But they can cut your use of electricity for heating by 30 to 40 percent and also might provide some savings in cooling costs.

If you plan to buy a new gas heating system, ask your gas utility or public service commission about the savings potential of electronic ignition. Ask also about possibilities for retrofitting the system you may already own.

(Consider the advantages of a clock thermostat for your heating system. The clock thermostat will turn the heat (continued to page 4)

Proper insulation of ceiling joists is an effective way to reduce heating and cooling costs for the home owner. Equipped with safety glasses, mask and gloves, Mark Gysin of the Rust-Weir Supply Co. in Georgetown applies nine-inch insulation to the attic floor of a home under construction. down for you automatically at a regular hour before you retire and turn it up again before you wake. While you can easily turn your thermostat back at night and up again in the morning yourself, the convenience of a clock thermostat may be worth the $40 to $90 cost to you.

Consider buying a properly sized furnace that incorporates an automatic flue gas damper. This device reduces the loss of heat when the furnace is off. (Contact your gas utility or oil supplier for guidance.)

Insulate heating ducts in unheated areas.

Don't use your fireplace for supplemental heating when your furnace is on, unless you take one of the measures suggested below to lessen the loss of heated air from the house.

The warmth from a fire on the hearth generally doesn't radiate through the house; the heat gain is confined to the room with the fireplace. And when your furnace is on, too, a considerable amount of heated air from the rest of the house flows into the fireplace and goes wastefully up the chimney. Then the temperature in other rooms of the house goes down, and the furnace uses more fuel to raise it to the level controlled by the thermostat. So you use more fuel, rather than less, when the furnace and fireplace are both going. Lessen heat loss if you use your fireplace when the furnace is on.

—Lower the thermostat setting to between 50 degrees F and 55 degrees F. Some warmed air will still be lost, but the furnace won't have to use as much fuel to heat the rest of the house to these temperatures as it would to raise the heat to 65 degrees F.

—Close all doors and warm air ducts entering the room with the fireplace, and open a window near the fireplace about one-half to one inch. Air needed by the fire will be provided through the open window, and the amount of heated air drawn from the rest of the house will be reduced.

—If you have a simple open masonry fireplace, consider installing a glass front or a glass screen. This will cut down on the loss of warmed air through the flue.

When the heat is on...

Lower your thermostat to 65 degrees F during the day and 55 degrees F at night. You can save on your fuel costs for every degree you reduce the average temperature in your home.

Keep windows near your thermostat tightly closed, otherwise it will keep your furnace working after the rest of the room has reached a comfortable temperature.

Have your oil furnace serviced at least once a year, preferably each summer, to take advantage of off-season rates. This simple precaution could save you 10 percent in fuel consumption.

—Clean or replace the filter in your forced-air heating system each month.

—Check the duct work for air leaks about once a year if you have a forced-air heating system. To do this, feel around the duct joints for escaping air. When the fan is on. Relatively small leaks can be repaired simply by covering holes or cracks with duct tape. More stubborn problems may require caulking as well as taping.

If you have oil heat, have your service man check to see if the firing rate is correct. Chances are it isn't. A recent survey found that 97 percent of the furnaces checked were overfired.

Don't let cold air seep into your home through the attic access door. Check the door to make sure it is well insulated and weather-stripped, otherwise you'll be wasting fuel to heat that cool air.

Dust or vacuum radiator surfaces frequently. Dust and grime impede the flow of heat. And if the radiators need painting, use flat paint, preferably black. It radiates heat better than glossy.

Keep draperies and shades open in sunny windows, close them at night.

For comfort in cooler indoor temperatures, use the best insulation of all—warm clothing.

The human body gives off heat, about 390 Btu's per hour for a man, 350 for a woman. Dressing wisely can help you retain natural heat.

Wear closely woven fabrics. They add at least a half degree in warmth.

For women, Slacks are at least a degree warmer than skirts.

For men and women, A light long-sleeved sweater equals almost two degrees in added warmth; a heavy long-sleeved sweater adds about 3.7 degrees; and two lightweight sweaters add about five degrees in warmth, because the air between them serves as insulation to keep in more body heat.

If every household in the United States lowered its average heating temperatures 6 degrees over a 24-hour period, more than 570,000 barrels of oil per day would be saved.

NEXT: The focus is on saving on cooling costs.

Lighthouse Design For Children

by Barbara Hartung
Copley News Service

Q. We're moving into a small, old home we have bought recently as an investment because the land is valuable.

We'll be living there probably four or five years, so I want to do all I can to make the house pleasant, but I don't want to put a lot of money into expensive projects.

My present concern is converting the two-bedroom home into adequate space for my husband and me and our 4-year-old daughter.

Our second child is expected in three months. How would you suggest I create an imaginative an interesting room for two youngsters using one 12x12-foot bedroom? — R.F.M.

A. You might take a lesson from interior designer Shirley Regendahl who created a charming room for two young occupants.

She started with sheet vinyl in off-white in a geometric bricklike pattern for the floor. Then she transformed drab walls with "Animal Crackers," a vinyl wall covering by Comark.

Regendahl was generous with the wall covering and slipped it over chests and toyboxes and even created a miniature between the bed of one child and the crib of the other.

Fresh, gay paint on an old rocker and cubes provided a happy look in the nursery. To add to the lighthouse design of the room, she painted giant letters on the cube and on window louvers.

When the time comes for the child to have the crib replaced, another twin bed may be added without necessitating any major changes in the room.

Q. I'm planning to redecorate our living room, which is dominated by a fireplace. I'd like to plan the major seating arrangement around the fireplace for easy conversation. What options do you have for buying furniture with this in mind? — B.W.

A. You could create a circular or rectangular arrangement around a large, low coffee table. This could be created with a sofa on one side and two chairs on the other, all facing in to the table. Or try two sofas opposite each other.

Still another option: two sofas at right angles to one another with the possible addition of a chair. Or use entirely mobile units, such as chairs on casters or lightweight rattan or cane chairs that can be moved about at will.

Q. We recently bought an old cabin in the country which we plan to fix up to use for weekends during the spring, summer and autumn.

The structure has wood floors which are in need of refinishing; however, the wood is badly scarred and damaged. We need storage as well as shelves in both the living room and bedroom.

Do you have some suggestions for adding storage and perking up a pretty dismal little cabin? I'd like to be as budget-conscious as possible.

A. Regarding how to install storage at a budget level, you might consider a couple of ideas that others have found successful.

For example, if you need drawers, try stacking two or three unfinished pine chests on top of each other. Or buy the metal industrial-type shelves used in workshops and garages.

Paint them the color of your walls or a bright, whimsical contrasting color and use them in your cabin.

Here's How

Lift For Old Steps

by Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. I have a set of outdoor wooden steps that lead up to the second floor of my home. The steps have become weather-worn and cracked. Is there any kind of a coating that I can put on the steps to cover them and seal them? I have been told that a product is available that can be troweled on that will do the job, but I haven't found anyone who knows the name of it. I will appreciate any help you can give me.

A. "Safety Walk," a strip material, is often used on outdoor surfaces, such as stairs, around swimming pools, and home entries and other areas. Its nonslip surface makes it a good choice. The product comes in several colors and is applied as easily as cellophane tape and has the additional advantage that it can be cut to fit.

So-called indoor-outdoor carpeting is another choice. A weatherwear roof decking material, marketed under the trade name Dexo-O-Tex, is still another choice. This product is troweled on and it is more difficult to install. Consult your local building supply dealers for these products.

Q. In several of your answers concerning leather-top tables, you mentioned that they should never be waxed, but should be cleaned first with mineral spirits. When I asked a paint store salesman for mineral spirits, he said that it was another name for turpentine and would ruin the leather.

I have three leather tables with a walnut edging which I have been waxing for many years. There are a few small white spots on the coffee table which I cannot remove. What do I use that is safe for the leather?

A. Leather table tops can be cleaned with saddle soap or special cleaning products for leather. The Upholstery Leather Group advises against using Don't overlook the old bricks and boards method of constructing shelves. Use bricks or concrete blocks to separate 1-1/2- or 1-10-inch lengths of wood.

For an inexpensive desk, pile two or three (depending on their size) flue liners on top of each other to make the base and stretch a wooden door across. If your cabin is rather dark and dingy, start out with a clean coat, or couple of coats of off-white paint for the walls.

If you wish to keep your wood floor, but don't want to go to the trouble of refinishing the surface, why not simply clean it off well, sand lightly and give it a coat of dark green paint.

Fill the room with light-weight furniture that's easy to care for and fabrics with plenty of color.

furniture polish or wax.

Incidentally, mineral spirits is not like turpentine, although either is recommended for cleaning and removing old polish and wax.

If the leather is dried out, rub with a mixture of two parts lanolin and three parts neat's-foot oil, mixed over low heat in a double boiler and applied with a pad or soft brush. Allow this to remain for several hours, then rub with a soft cloth. White petroleum jelly or lemon oil also could be used.

Q. We have a mobile home which has corklike ceilings with little holes. The ceilings have brown spots, probably caused by cigarette and furnace smoke. We have tried several things to no avail. Have you any suggestions?

A. To clean the acoustical ceiling tile, wash it with mild, warm detergent, if it is washable. If not washable, first try cleaning with wallpaper cleaner. If this fails, try dry steel wool, just coarse enough to remove the soil. Painting with a flat paint will make surface easier to clean. When applying the paint, use a long-nap roller, being careful not to close the perforations.

Q. I have an old but still good ashtray stand that has a brass finish. I've been using a liquid polish on it for many years and it does a good job, but after a few weeks, the stand becomes dull and stained, and I have to start all over again. Is there anything I can use after I've polished the stand to prevent it from tarnishing?

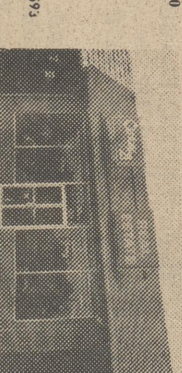

A. Immediately after the brass has been polished, give it a coat of clear, non-yellowing lacquer. Most of the big paint manufacturers make such lacquers. However, if your dealer carries a lacquer-type terrazzo sealer, it also should serve satisfactorily. Such a terrazzo sealer is of transparent, colorless plastic and xylo.
