

A new face in Harrington: Patrolman Bohn

By now, everyone must have noticed that Harrington has a new police officer. His name is Patrolman Peter N. Bohn and he's been with us for about three weeks.

Bohn, who was born in Ardmore, PA, is a veteran military officer having served in Vietnam as a helicopter pilot. He reached the rank of Captain before his discharge from active duty. Bohn was decorated numerous times including the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Bronze Star, 2 Air Medals with Valor and 2 Army Commendations with Valor. He remains active with the military, serving with the 82nd Airborne Reserves.

Patrolman Bohn came to Harrington by way of his sister who lives in Georgetown. He was a frequent visitor to the area and it began to grow on him, he became a permanent resident last June.

Bohn attended the Police Academy and graduated first in his class on May 18th. He also attends the University of Delaware where he has accumulated 91 credits.

"I love it here," Bohn said, "the people are extremely friendly. One of the best things about the area is how everyone is willing to speak to you and help you out if you need it."

"My main concern here is the drug use," he added, "it seems to be everywhere". Accordingly, Bohn hopes to set up an education program for parents and employers. "The users already know more than I probably do and I hope to bring some knowledge to parents and businessmen who are having problems dealing with this sort of thing," Bohn said.

When asked what he enjoys most about his new job, Patrolman Bohn said "being able to work the case from start to finish. In a bigger force everything is specialized and you only do a small segment of the job, but on a force like this, you can become a well rounded officer".

Bohn looks forward to the growth of the city and being a part of the future of Harrington. "I'd be very happy to remain in Harrington and hope to establish myself as someone the people can trust".

Dog shooting incident questioned

A complaint was filed last week by the Kent County human office, and put into the hands of the Attorney General's office, regarding Frederica Police Chief Larry Washburn.

According to the complaint, Washburn allegedly fired several shots at a German Shepherd dog owned by the Frederica residents Jeffery and Lou Ann Horan on May 31st. The dog died of the gunshot wounds.

State Police Detective Clarence Hurd will handle the investigation for the Attorney General's office. Upon his findings, Washburn could be subjected to criminal charges.

According to reports, Washburn responded to a complaint that the dog had broken its chain and had threatened a passing child. The dog was on its master's property.

Allegedly, Washburn attempted to coax the animal into his car when the dog turned on him. Shots followed.

Washburn, after repeated attempts by the Journal could not be reached for comment. George Nashold, Mayor of Frederica, would not give a detailed version of the incident but said that he was "confident that Washburn carried out his duties in a proper manner and would continue to believe so until shown evidence to the contrary."

Washburn, since taking the job last September, has established himself as an able police officer. He has been involved in many civic programs aimed at reducing unsafe driving and working with the area youth.

Demolition began Tuesday on the Reese Building. It was built in 1914 by Evin Reese a native of Kenton who migrated to Harrington and built all of the brick structures that we know in the downtown district. The Reese Building had three bays, the northern most one was originally occupied by Harry Black a retail garment dealer from New York who settled in Harrington about 1914. Later his wife was to open a millinery shop north of the Reese Building where Cable TV is located today. The middle bay was the original site of Harrington's first post office. The Postmaster was named Harrington. The skylight was built by Reese especially for the postal clerks to see better. The third bay or southern section of the building was the site of "The Pure Food Store". It was the first such store which displayed enameled food container boxes. The Building has long stood as a landmark, and the only building in the downtown area that displayed the name of Harrington's original architect. All this will pass by the end of the week...part of Harrington's past will be buried amid the rubble. Some 100 businesses were to develop in the downtown district and immediate surrounding area of Commerce St. from 1914 until immediately following WWII. Now a mere handful remains in the downtown area.

Lake Forest Title I program recovers funds

by Barbara Brown

Lake Forest District aides in the federally funded Title I program, who had been facing cuts in the number of working hours and days for next year, were told recently that the lost has been found or recovered. The result is that, instead of having to deal with a slice in take-home pay that would have amounted to $700 or more, they will actually receive a slight increase.

Supervisor of Instruction Sol Markowitz was on hand at Monday night's meeting of the Lake Forest School Board to explain what had happened. He said a hefty $49,000 that would have been cut from the budget was money that had been allocated to the Lake Forest District in March 1978 for fiscal year 1979 and held either as contingency funds or carry-over money. The state requires the local district each year to cut the first 10% of its allocation to go into a contingency fund. From the remaining funds, the local district holds back 15% to carry the program over into the next year. Normally these funds are returned to the district at the end of the year. This year they were not. The state had planned to redistribute those funds.

However, a trip to Washington by Markowitz and Title I Reading Consultant Carol Lamphier resulted in instructions from there to the state to restore the funds to the Lake Forest District. This brings the total for fiscal year 1979 back up to $255,000. The district will still only get $218,000 for 1980. But, Markowitz said, with carry-over funds the local Title I program could be maintained at close to normal level. Beyond that, the future of the program is uncertain. It hangs from year to year on a formula based on the number of AFDC families in a district.

What this means to local aides in the Title I reading program is that they will be working a five hour day rather than the four hour one anticipated. The length of their working year will be 167 days. Although this is still a reduction in the number of days, a projected 7% increase in hourly pay will net them a slight advance over the 1979-1980 school year. Markowitz said aides would be receiving precise information on their individual hours, days and pay within the coming weeks.

Lake Forest-Woodbridge Boundary Where is it?

Like the coils of the Loch Ness Monster or the labyrinthine entanglements of some modern day version of BLEAK HOUSE, the Lake Forest - Woodbridge boundary dispute keeps resurfacing.

A boundary line settled upon and signed by the Lake Forest District in 1970 and by the Woodbridge District in 1973 was later contested by Woodbridge. When the two districts failed in attempts at getting their heads together over the matter, the question was taken to the State Department of Public Instruction and subsequently, to the courts. DPI ruled that the intent, if not the letter of the law or of the two parties involved was that the boundary remain the same as the old dividing line between the Greenwood and Harrington

School Districts before consolidation created Lake Forest and Woodbridge. This line was supposedly set in 1952 or 1953. Lake Forest's court challenge of that ruling went through a series of appeals and finally lost out in Delaware Superior court.

The problem now, says the Lake Forest School Board, is "Where is that boundary?" Local school board members say descriptions given to Harrington and Greenwood differ to the point that there is an area where two boundary lines run parallel to each other, leaving a sort of no-man's land between. Both districts claim that territory. In addition, the board members claim the old boundary was defined by markers such as cedar trees and hedgerows which, in many cases, are no longer in existence.

The Lake Forest School Board elected Monday night to make one more attempt to get together with Woodbridge to define the boundary. Woodbridge Superintendent William Griffin will be contacted, and if a meeting can be arranged, a local delegation will sit down with a similar group from Woodbridge to see if an agreement can be reached. The local group is to consist of Superintendent William Cline, Assistant Superintendent Melvin Luff and Board Member Albert Price.

Whether or not the two districts can reach a meeting of the minds, the Lake Forest School Board feels it will be necessary to ask the state for funds for a survey to establish the boundary on the basis of known coordinates rather than non-existent cedar trees.

Meanwhile, the Woodbridge

District continues to receive the tax monies from the disputed area, and local residents continue to send their children to schools where their loyalties lie.

Retirements and Resignation

The Lake Forest School Board Monday night accepted with regret the retirement of two long time teachers in the District. Mrs. Dorothy Talbott, English teacher in the district and local high schools for sixteen years has regrettably requested retirement. She leaves a teaching career that spans at least 41 years.

Mrs. Ellen Perry, fourth grade teacher at Lake Forest South Elementary, has been a teacher in the district for the past ten years. Prior to that she had six years of teaching experience. Mrs. Perry submitted her request for retirement with "mixed feelings".

The School Board also accepted the resignation of Justin K. Hyatt, High School Guidance Counselor and Wrestling Coach. Hyatt has served the district for three years.

Three Day Homecoming To Begin With Frederica Parade

"Frederica is an important part of the Lake Forest District and is entitled to a parade", was the general consensus of the board as it responded with a gentle, but firm, "No" to a request brought by new officers of the Student Government Association at the high school that next year's homecoming parade be held in Harrington.

Jack a one time 9 til 5 office worker gave it all up to do what he enjoys most, which is cooking, with fast food restaurants growing, and being a part of the American way of life. With his wife Doris at his side, he keeps the Quarter Pounders going. Oh! Yes--those delicious French Fried Mushrooms to snack on. Everybody should try them at least once. I'll bet you go back for more. The Bauers reside in Harrington with three of their six children a daughter Jackie, age 20, and two sons Sammy, age 17, and Randy, age 22. Can hardly believe there was no Bible Study Monday morning, but such was the case. Jeff Whiling gave a most remarkable piano concert at 11:00 a.m. Members meeting after lunch. Marion Brown was elected President, Elbert Stevens - Vice President, Tony Perrone - Treasurer - Sec. "Andy" Anderson. Discussion was made for a trip to Atlantic City and Christiana Mall. Everyone busy making carnations for their hats that they are going to wear to county-wide picnics at White Oak Park, Dover, DE, June 14. Band practice with all that were here - tuned to perfection! Didn't hear the mens chorus, don't know if they practiced or not...know for sure they are great when they do sing, but it's like pulling teeth to get them away from the pool table, especially since they have their new balls and cu sticks. Today's dinner was so good too! Smothered pork chops, sweet potatoes, string beans and applesauce.

Cats-cats-cats-every color, kind, and trick a film on cats projected by George Goodge. They were intriguing, pretty and if you own one wouldn't take anything for it. They are masters, believe me!

Local shopping Thursday was an absolutely beautiful day - perfect for the picnic. As the 37 members boarded the bus all decked out in their carnation and ribbon hats, Bruce from the Harrington Journal took their picture. Everyone was jubilant. When they came back about 2:30 they were just a little faded, but full of talk, turkey salad, and cake. They had a game, the cake walk and several won a luscious slice of cake. Our site manager, Charlotte Welch, accompanied them and had a ring toss booth and it was done very well. The picnic was sponsored by Modern Maturity Center, Dover, DE. It was well planned and received singing, bean bags, ducking, and hat contests were among the activities. Our ladies didn't win a prize, but in effort they were 100%, for every woman had a hat. That's what I call cooperation.

Board meeting, Thursday night - Central Air Conditioning was approved.

Mr. Marion Brown's "mothers" birthday was Thursday, so he and his wife Roxanne went to help her celebrate her 98th one. They took with them a lovely cake and an arrangement of silk flowers, many at the nursing home enjoyed the cake and other goodies. The photographers, gifts and cards finished her wonderful day with her family and friends.

Ceramics go on just about everyday, but Friday is ceramic specifically. We are doing bells, birds, cats in shoes, pitchers in bowls, and snowmen. Weaving and flowers go on too. Folding some Readers Digest books for angels, playing some cards, listening to good music with Larry, chatting, and enjoying friends and lunch.

The most important happening in history this week was the signing of SALT II at Vienna. Gasoline prices are high and it is hard to get in many places. Prices range from 80 to 90c a gallon.

Six members attended the Senior Citizen Art Exhibit at the University of Delaware on Sunday, June 17, 1979. They said they hoped more would attend next year as it was well worth while.

Be kind to each other. Best wishes to all. A special hello to homebounds and those who are ill.

Heritage Day

The musical program for the day has presented some problems, but is shaping up just fine. During the day we plan to have music of various kinds. Some that have volunteered to share their talents for Heritage Day are THE LOST ORPHANS - a folk guitar group, The MOOSE HILL BILLY BAND - a unique experience, and for the street dance PAST TENSE - a trip through time with everything from Rock n' Roll to the latest Disco.

The American Legion is having an auction and anyone wishing to make contributions for the auction should contact Ray Gagne - 398-3434.

Mr. and Mrs. John Camper will be demonstrating their crafts, carving and wood carving. Mrs. Mary Jane Shockley will also be carving.

So many things have been developing in the past couple of weeks, it is difficult to know which to tell about most. But there will be more news next week on the progress of plans for Heritage Day, August 11, 1979, which is going to be a day you won't want to miss.

Publishers Choice

BY HARRY G. FARROW, JR.

"... the voice of the people was denied on both issues..."

Often it seems that the job that is being done could have been done another way...or in the alternative...it could have been done better by you rather than the other person. Second guessing...or hind sight is always 20-20. Such is not the case in the matters which faced our City government at last week's monthly meeting.

It is not my intent to single out anyone person or in the alternative suggest or imply that I am the Father, Son, or Holy Ghost. I make mistakes too. I am not perfect. But, the two major questions which faced the Town father's last week also placed the rest of us on the line. In both cases there were errors on the record...both cases deserved the voice of the people. This was denied them...a closed shop situation.

In the first instance, the case has been stated back and forth in the Town on the merits of taking or not taking title to the W. T. Chipman property. There were good arguments on both sides. I don't want to argue pro or con in this editorial whether we should or whether we shouldn't take title to the property. That is a collateral issue...and the fact that it was a valuable piece of real estate is also a collateral issue...as is whether or not the Town could afford it. The issue from the outset was moot and with some deep seated. It was controversial, and consequently it was one which should have been placed squarely in the laps of the people for them to decide. A referendum should have been held. The people should have had the privilege to vote one way or another. After all, all of us or nearly all of us were close to Dr. Chipman that we felt that we deserved the right to vote on "him". Not only that it was an issue which should have been decided at the earliest point in time for the convenience of the sellers...and certainly not to their detriment. Last but not least is an air which sums up many things in our Town and one which was implied in the motion on the Chipman property "...make the motion that we not buy the property...". The motion was a negative one...as negative as it could be and all motions and all actions from councilpeople should be positive. Our Town should be forging forward. We have enough negativism hovering over our Town as it is...and we don't need any more to be sure.

The other had to do with the proposed apartment complex in the area of Harrington Meadows. The Planning & Zoning Commission had recommended to the Council that the rezoning request be approved. At that point it was a matter for the people to decide...or allow them to have a voice...in the form of a referendum. When the Council voted the rezoning request down, it in fact acted illegally.

Once the people had their opportunity in the form of a vote, the Council then has the right to decide finally on the matter, which maybe opposite from the people or the P & Z. Anything to the contrary is illegal. Again whether the complex would beautify the Town or in the alternative whether the Town would degrade the complex is not the issue at all. The real issue is that the people did not get a voice on the matter. It's too bad that we continue building the "...great Chinese Wall around our little town...which is huffing and puffing with all its might to stay alive

My Opinion by Bruce Levy

Celebrated conservative essayist James J. Kilpatrick stated in a recent nationally syndicated column that American Business is lacking in product integrity; companies today are not manufacturing things in the proud and careful way they used to. Says Kilpatrick, "Something seems to be happening in virtually every field of American enterprise - in manufacturing, in retailing, in service occupations - and that something, whatever it may be, is not far removed from the cry of long ago, 'the public be damned'."

Most of the time, I agree with Mr. Kilpatrick. He comes on a bit shrill sometimes, but I forgive him in the name of free market enlightenment. He is an asset to anyone's editorial page. Yet, on this one, I must disagree.

Kilpatrick has some of his facts correct; American goods and services are in a quality decline. No question about it, take a look at the rust that's developing on the rear panel of your car. But he misses the mark when he blames it totally on business.

In a free market, the true (and only) watchdogs of industry are the consumers. Through boycotts, product education, mass actions and public opinion, companies of any size can be brought to account and made responsive. If they don't heed an aroused buying public, bet the rent that their business is in jeopardy. But this historic role is being usurped.

Today, the Federal Government has assumed the watchdog role. Typical bureaucratic thinking goes, "we must protect the helpless, uninformed and pitiful public - they cannot act by themselves."

This type of condescending attitude, combined with the total weight of the enforcement power of the government, puts popular control out of reach. Business knows that its real counterpart today is not so much a consumer coalition, but the feds. Consequently, the game is played to please the government, not the public. As the government grows in power, things will only get worse.

So, Mr. Kilpatrick, stop courting the liberals and see the real story. This is, again, a case of government speaking for the people when the people are perfectly capable of speaking for themselves. The consequences are readily obvious.

Sen. Thurman Adams writes....

Last week I voted against a bill (SB 4) to prohibit the construction of any nuclear power plant in Delaware until all homeowner policies have a nuclear disaster coverage and the federal government figures out a way to safely dispose of nuclear waste, or spent fuel and by-products.

I realize there is a great deal of concern about nuclear power since the recent near-disaster at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania. You have to weigh those fears against the positive safety record of the nuclear power plants over the past 20 years.

The world is in an energy crisis and we can't just stick our head in the sand and pretend there isn't any crisis. We must keep looking for something other than foreign oil to produce our energy, and nuclear power is the only thing we have right now. Solar energy is still a long way down the lane.

I don't particularly like the idea of having a nuclear power plant in Delaware, but to eliminate that alternative would be just cutting down our chances of solving the energy crisis.

SB 4 only received nine favorable votes, two short of enough, but the roll call has been tabled and the sponsor can try again in the future to get the required votes.

I voted for the Fiscal 1980 budget bill (HB 333), even though it is the largest I've ever voted for and certainly the largest in the state's history. The state, like everyone else, has been hit by inflation and it costs more to deliver services than it ever did.

The $557.2 million in spending called for in the bill, which the Governor probably will have signed by the time you read this, will still leave enough of a surplus by June 30, 1980, to fill the reserve account we established last year as a hedge against state emergencies.

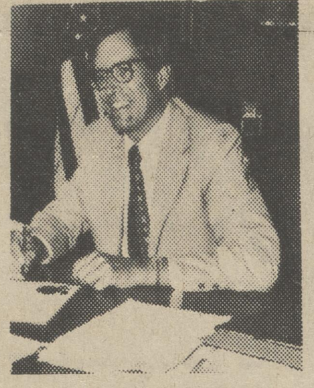

And don't forget that we've already enacted a $21.5 million tax cut. What all this means is that inflation, although it hikes the cost of the state doing business, it also raises the revenue the state gets from all those inflated salaries and inflated prices and profits.

On the other side of the coin, when the economy slumps so does state revenue. That's why the General Assembly has limited state spending to 98 percent of revenue, putting the other 2 percent in a budget reserve account. That account will total $29.2 million by the end of Fiscal 1980, giving us a cushion to prevent any sudden tax increase if the bottom suddenly drops out of the economy.

The budget bill, the tax cut, and a 2 percent reserve for emergencies are three important bills that we have now passed.

Thoughts From Dover

By Governor Pete du Pont

The Delaware State Senate, in following the lead of the House of Representatives, quickly and easily passed the State's fiscal year 1980 budget. I've promised both parties that I would sign the $557 million operating budget quickly.

The budget, as proposed by the Joint Finance Committee, almost completely parallels the budget proposal I made in January, and marks for the earliest passage of the budget since 1975. The state budget must be enacted and signed into law by June 30 of each year to maintain the operation of state programs.

The budget takes effect on July 1 and the only major increases in the document are pay raises of 7 percent for state employees and additional funds to pay increased costs of energy and inflation.

This budget is unique because it allocates only 98 percent of anticipated state revenues for spending, with some of the remaining funds designated for a budget reserve account to cover any unexpected downturn of the national economy.

Zero-based-budgeting, which gives a detailed account of how each department and agency will spend the funds, was utilized in many departments in developing this budget.

While the budget is the most important bill to pass the General Assembly in any given year, several other important bills remain on the agenda. Most, I expect, will pass before the legislative session closes on or before June 30.

Included are bills to provide a modest increase in welfare benefits; a supplementary appropriation bill that includes among other things, about $1 million in funds to beef up security at the state prisons; and funds for the Jobs for Delaware Graduates program. Also, I hope the General Assembly will enact permanently the 98 percent limit on state spending and require a 3/5ths vote (instead of the usual simple majority vote) on all proposals to enact new taxes.

Already this year, the General Assembly has enacted a $21.5 million personal income tax reduction and the House of Representatives has supported by contention that the Coastal Zone Amendment be modified to allow pipelines to cross the zone.

This General Assembly session is shaping up to be one of the best in many years. The next two weeks of activity will show that both the legislative and executive branches are dedicated towards making job opportunities available through attracting new businesses to the state and towards maintaining a strong state financial position.

Sen. William Murphy writes....

Last week Governor DuPont nominated persons to replace two of Kent County's best magistrates for purely political reasons, and I'm a little angry and disappointed.

Chief Magistrate Russell Rash and Magistrate Wallace Wooten only had one strike against them--they were Democrats and the Governor wanted them out. This is the same Governor who went up and down the state in his 1976 campaign promising to take politics out of government.

Unfortunately, he's fallen far short of that promise. No governor in my memory has made more political appointments than the present Governor. A former Wilmington Republican chairman is our Secretary of Administrative Services. Another former Wilmington GOP chief is our Turnpike manager. A former Republican legislator is our highway chief, and he replaced another former Republican senator. The Governor nominated the GOP defeated U.S. Senate candidate to be Agriculture Secretary, and his first appointee as Acting Secretary of the Natural Resources Department was a former Republican leader in the House of Representatives. He nominated a partisan politician who had served as Senate Republican whip to be State Elections Commissioner. I could go on and on.

But when the Governor starts tampering with our minor court system for no other reason than to replace competent Democrats with unknown Republicans, I have a little difficulty holding my tongue. I don't know what the Senate will do with the nominations to replace the two sitting Kent magistrates, but I know I won't vote to confirm them until someone tells me a reason other than just plain old raw politics.

I refused last week to support legislation (SB 4) which would have imposed an indefinite moratorium on construction of nuclear power facilities in Delaware.

First, the bill imposed the moratorium until every homeowner in Delaware had an insurance policy against a nuclear disaster. We haven't ever had a nuclear disaster in the 20 or 25 years of nuclear power plants, and I don't think any large number of Delawareans want to pay premiums on insurance against a nuclear disaster. In the second place, if even a single Delawarean held out against such insurance, the ban would continue indefinitely. We all know that the country is in an energy crisis, and ruling out nuclear power as an alternative to oil eliminates our number one chance of solving the crisis.

I'm as leery as the next person about nuclear power, but I don't think we should rule it out as an option.

I voted for the Fiscal 1980 budget bill (HB 333) carrying $557.2 million to run the state government for the next 12 months. I wasn't happy with everything in the bill, but overall it was worthy of support. According to the financial efforts, we'll be in the black on June 30, 1980, even with the record budget and the $21.5 million tax cut I supported two weeks ago.

letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

As president of the Lake Forest Class of 1979 for 3 years, it concerns me deeply when a member of my class becomes upset over any class activity that I am related with. Although the Commencement exercises were not directly organized by the Class of '79, funds for the event came from our class treasury.

Apparently there are many parents, friends, and seniors that don't know or don't care to find out many problems in arranging exercises for 205 graduating seniors and about 3000 parents and friends. To begin with, the athletic stadium at Lake Forest could only sit in chairs that had been set up on the football field. When it began to rain on Sunday, June 3, the administrations first inclinations were to have commencement inside. However, nowhere in Lake Forest High School is there a place large enough to seat as many people that were expected. If graduation was to take place one of the two choices had to be decided on. Either have graduation inside for PARENTS only or postpone graduation in hope that many friends and relatives could remain in the area an extra day so that they could still see their loved ones graduate.

When graduation finally occurred almost all seniors were able to take part. After taking attendance everyone was accounted for by either their presence or by a notification of vacation or work plans. I can not understand any employer now allowing one of his employees off for their graduation unless they didn't want off. As for vacation plans, all seniors were notified back in January of graduation plans which included raindate procedures.

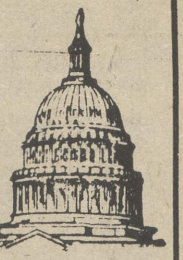

I can do nothing but praise the decisions made by those in charge of the 1979 commencement exercises. Making decisions that will affect so many people are not easy ones to make. Before someone accuses the head of commencement exercises as having "lack of planning and thinking ahead" and "lack of intelligence" as the parent of last weeks letter did, problems affecting graduation like those listed above should be checked out. The only "lack of planning and thinking ahead" that I can see was from the writer of last week's article who failed to find out all the facts. Thank you.

Thoughts From Washington

By U.S. Senator Bill Roth

The U.S. House of Representatives is, at the moment, debating the windfall profits tax and, within days, it'll reach the U.S. Senate.

As a member of the Senate Finance Committee, I'll be directly involved in initial consideration of this tax.

I support a windfall profits tax and I believe a portion of the money from a windfall profits tax should be used to roll back Social Security taxes. When the issue reaches the Senate, I intend to propose an amendment to this effect.

It's now apparent the President's plan to decontrol domestic oil prices will not be blocked by Congress and, I believe, it's also probably that some form of windfall profits tax will be enacted. What's more, as far as I'm concerned, the President's windfall profits tax can be made even tougher.

Properly drafted, a stiff windfall profits tax and a Social Security tax rollback would promote energy conservation and production, plus offset the drag already showing up in the economy.

Unless action is taken, higher oil prices and increased Social Security taxes will deliver a one-two punch to all Americans. The higher taxes and energy prices will further increase inflation.

Our high Social Security taxes are scheduled for another substantial increase in 1981. The tax rate is scheduled to increase from 6.13 percent to 6.65 percent and the wage base will increase to $29,700. The maximum Social Security will increase from $1,404 to $1,975, a tax increase of $571.

A tough windfall profits tax and the higher corporate income taxes resulting solely from decontrol would raise at least $50 billion between 1980 and 1984. Approximately $35 billion of this revenue could be used to roll back the increased Social Security taxes in 1981 and 1982.

Consideration should be given to channeling the balance of the decontrol revenues into a crash research and development project on alternative forms of energy. Special emphasis should be given to a program to increase gas efficiency of cars.

My proposal would provide relief to consumers and promote energy conservation and production. The Social Security tax rollback will offset the inflationary impact of decontrol and ease the impact of higher oil prices. Increased research and development funding will promote alternative forms of energy and a properly drafted windfall profits tax will insure that decontrol leads to increased energy production.

The Biden Report

By Senator Joseph R. Biden, Jr.

A bill which I believe will improve the quality of justice and keep criminals off the street was approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee and is before the full Senate this week.

I sponsored and conducted hearings on the bill which will, if enacted by Congress, reduce the time between arrest and trial for a federal crime. Its design is to reduce crime on the streets, restore confidence in the federal judicial system and assure fairer trials.

The bill, an amendment to the Speedy Trial Act of 1974 has sparked some controversy in the federal judiciary and is in response to government lawyers' attempts to lengthen the amount of time between arrest and trial. In 1974 there were no time restraints--cases took outrageous lengths of time to get to trial. Currently there is a time limit, 125 days from the time a person is charged with a federal crime and trial for that crime. But there are no measures to assure compliance with that time frame.

The federal judiciary sought to increase the time frame to 180 days. But the judiciary failed to provide facts to substantiate the need for their request during the committee hearings which I chaired. All they showed was that government lawyers have been dragging their feet.

I introduced the amendment to the Speedy Trial Act to provide that all federal criminal indictments be issued within 30 days of arrest, arraignments be held within 10 days of indictment and the trial be held within 60 days of arraignment, a total reduction to 100 days between arrest and trial. The shorter the time between arrest and trial, the fresher the witnesses' memories, the greater the association between crime and punishment, the greater the reduction in backlog of cases, the greater the public confidence in the federal judicial system.

Evidence revealed during committee hearings indicate that persons out on bail over 60 days are likely to commit additional crimes. We cannot afford to have people charged with serious crimes running loose on bail committing additional crimes. We must get the accused into court and determine guilt or innocence. The longer it takes to get to trial, the harder it is to get a fair one.

I believe that my amendment to reduce that length of time along with the increase of 117 federal judgeships and an additional 630 marshals and attorneys to make possible due process will impact significantly on crime in this nation.

Ellendale United Methodist

The camp meeting originated around 1820 on the American frontier, but it is still a very important part of American Christianity today. In recognition of this fact, Chaplain's Chapel, representing the Ellendale United Methodist Charge, will host a traditional style camp meeting inside a tent, beginning Friday, June 22, through Sunday, June 24. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Chaplain's Chapel is located off of Route 40, in Bridgeville, DE.

Members of the church and their pastor, Rev. Michele Russell, invite you to become a part of these special services. There will be guest speakers and inspirational music each evening.

On June 22, the guest speaker will be Rev. William H. Revelle, Jr., Dover District Superintendent.

Music will be provided by Everett and Keith Warrington.

Saturday night, June 23, Rev. Edward R. Wilkins will be the guest speaker. Rev. Wilkins serves St. Luke's and Ames churches in Denton, MD. He is also the Peninsula Conference Registrar for the Board of Ordained Ministry. The Embers will be bringing the message in song.

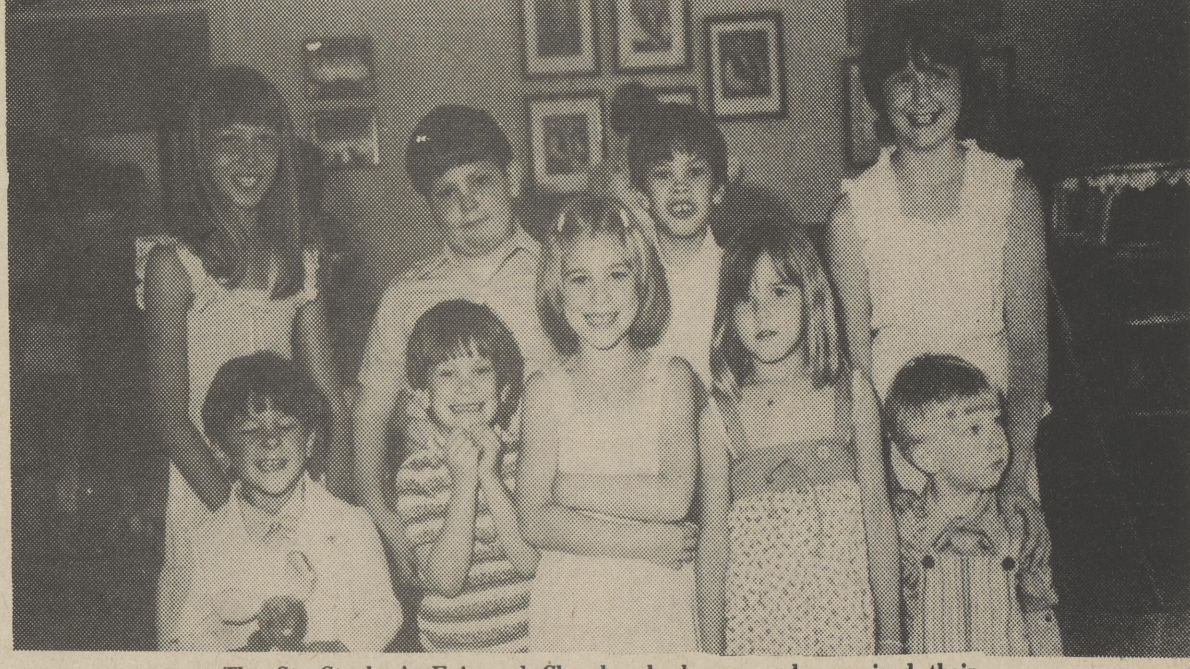

On Sunday, June 24, Rev. Frank Lucia, pastor of the Avenue Methodist Church in Milford, will be the guest speaker. The Chaplain's Chapel choir will be singing, along with Mr. Walter Willey. In keeping with the camp meeting tradition, refreshments, in this case, home-made cake and ice cream, will be served following each service.

The camp meeting technique, according to Rev. Russell, was first used by the Presbyterians, but the Methodists and Baptists made extensive use of the style. Camp meetings came into being at about the same time as the American Sunday School, during the period of the country's second awakening.

In those early days, there were many positive results from the camp meeting. "For example," says Rev. Russell, "frontier morals improved, and the mid-week Prayer Meeting became an important part of American Christian life." She adds that Christians also became more missionary-minded, both at home and abroad.

This month's three services represent the first effort of the Ellendale Charge in presenting the traditional style camp meeting. Positive results are expected, and you are invited to share in the fellowship.

St. Bernadettes Ladies Guild

On Saturday, June 9th, the women of St. Bernadettes sponsored a successful yard and bake sale in front of the Aetna Shirt Factory in Harrington, thanks to Emil Girardi who graciously let us use the space. Also many thanks to the residents of Harrington who stopped by and purchased our goods.

On Fathers day, following mass, a coffee and donuts get together was held in honor of the men of the parish. Also the ladies' guild used this time to introduce themselves to the wives and young ladies' of the parish. Everyone seemed to enjoy the warm and friendly gathering.

A new choir is being formed at St. Bernadettes under the direction of Regina Kukulka 398-4181. Anyone, parishioner or not, who lives near the church and would like to share a little of their time and talent, please contact Regina.

The next ladies' guild meeting will be Monday, July 9, at 7:00 p.m. A short meeting is planned

The next ladies guild meeting will be Monday, July 9, at 7:00 p.m. A short meeting is planned, following will be a Tupperware demonstration.

For Your Information

Dear friends,

The human brain does not shrink, wilt, or deteriorate with age. Only if the blood supply to the brain is diminished by clogged arteries, or in case of malnutrition, does the brain, and intelligence, deteriorate. The elderly should insist upon an adequate diet. Fresh fruit, raw vegetables, whole grain cereals, skim milk - rich in minerals vitamins and essential nutrients to ward off the aging process.

Richard Cerklefskie eyes on incoming pitch, which he eventually sent to the outfield, during last Wednesday's Greenwood Trust vs Jiffy Car Wash game in the Harrington Softball League. Greenwood Trust won the contest 7-4.

Johnston gives "outstanding performance"

By Bruce Levy

"There seems to be a lack of concentration sometimes, we're not playing as a team. Our pitching is excellent, our hitting stinks. It's not like us at all, but I know we'll come around. There are quality players on this team and we won't stay down too long."

So says Don Adams, second year coach of the Harrington big League squad. After experiencing a 2-2 record from last Wednesday, he is a little worried about his club's play and their ability to win the "big" one. Harrington battled Delmar and their star pitcher Bobby Nichols to a 1-1 tie at the end of regulation, but Delmar managed an 8th inning 2 out rally to get the winning run. Delmar was considered a big one.

The next "big" one on the schedule was Camden-Wyoming North. It came after Harrington had met, and beaten, Camden-Wyoming South and Maryland. In the North contest, described by Adams as a heartbreaker, Harrington held them scoreless until the final frame when a series of hits and a passed ball allowed the winning run.

"We are battling the tough teams to a standstill then letting them get away," Adams said. "A lot of this is luck, but a lot of it is lack of concentration too."

In the Delmar game on Wednesday, Mark Smith started things on the mound for Harrington, but quickly ran into trouble in the first inning. Plagued by back problems, as he has been all season in high school play, Smith allowed a hitting rally, but fortunately managed to hold Delmar to just one run. he was taken out of the game in favor of Randy Hammond. The score remained at 1-0 until the fifth inning when Harrington got on the boards on a stolen base and a past ball to deadlock the contest. Noone scored in the sixth or seventh as the game went to extra innings.

In the eighth, with two outs, Delmar scored on two hits before Eric Wise made a sensational put out at the plate for the third out to go up by one run. The run held as Harrington failed to score on their last attempt in the bottom of the inning.

Said Adams, "Delmar ranks with the toughest teams we will face this year and we almost took it to them."

Harrington played their next game on Saturday against Camden-Wyoming South, an expansion team this year, and came out on top of a 5-4 score. It was a game that had a few surprises for Adams.

Randy Ramirez started for Harrington and allowed 4 runs without an out. Adams was forced to pull him from the game, but he had a problem; who could finish the game? He was getting some needed rest for his usual hurlers and had to take a gamble - Jerry Johnston would get the not and a chance to prove himself.

Johnston quickly showed what he was made of. He retired, much to the surprise of the coach, the next 21 batters in a row! All Harrington had to do was make up at least 5 runs, which they did.

"Sure took me by surprise," Adams said. "I had no idea Jerry had that in him! He was throwing mostly speed and changes and had them fooled all day long. Seems you never know what you have till you try it."

The game also saw some fireworks from slumping Todd Gruwell who has been strangely silent at the plate this season. Todd smacked a long homer in the seventh to get the winning run.

Harrington's next game was with Maryland. Jim Carroll, unquestionably the ace hurler on the staff, was in rare form with a smoking fast ball and an awesome curve as Harrington romped to an easy 4-0 win.

Carroll allowed just two hits; a bunt and a bad call and was the big man at the plate with 3 RBI. Mark Smith contributed heavily with a 4-4 day at the plate.

After the Maryland contest Harrington's season record stood at 3-3.

On Sunday, Adams and company faced probably the league's top team, Camden-Wyoming North. Smith was in charge on the mound.

He had a masterful day, not a single Camden player got past first base until the seventh inning as Smith worked on a two hitter. Offensively, Carroll put us on the board with a homer in the second and Todd Gruwell scored on a walk and some aggressive base running as we lead 2-0 until the final frame.

Then North put two on by virtue of a single and a walk. A double followed which scored both and, suddenly, the game was tied. A passed ball allowed the winning score.

"Mark pitched a fantastic game," Adams said. "Think about it, they got just four hits and won the game. It was a brilliant performance on his part, but we wound up the losers. It was a heartbreaker."

Orioles first in Felton

A four run rally fell short last Tuesday by the Pirates as the Orioles won the week's first contest in Felton by 7-5 score. Billy England pitched the entire game for the winners. He also added a timely double to the cause. He was aided by Richy Hawkins who hit two baggers socking a double for the losses was Paul Pennington.

On Wednesday, the Yanks played the Phils. The Yanks snapped a 2 all tie in the third with 2 runs and posted an 8-4 win behind the fine pitching of Danny Demara. The win was a relatively easy one for the Yanks as week fielding and pitching marred the Philly effort.

It was a closer contest on Thursday between the pirates and the Dodgers with the Pirates pulling out a slim 3-2 victory on the strength of some strong pitching and timely hitting. Paul Guida pitched out of a bases loaded jam in the first two innings and Wayne Kemp picked up a save by hurling the last two frames for the winners. The eventual winning run came on a long single by Kemp in the bottom of the fifth Karen Sipple went all the way for the losers.

Friday afternoon saw the Orioles, behind the skillful effort of Jason Bell who struck out all of 14 batters, best the Cards by 7-3 margin. A double by Bruce Schuman sparked a two run fourth inning to break a 3 all tie, Mike Kersey was the losing pitcher.

On Saturday, a make up game from the first half of the season between the Orioles was the first half of a double header, the Orioles won it 6-5, a rally for 3 runs in the last inning being the deciding factor. Keven McCloskey gave up only 1 run over the last four frames to pick up the hotly contested win. McCloskey helped himself by socking a triple and a single while Jason Bell added a single. Tommy Milligan was the lose Saturday's other game was between the Pirates and the Yanks and the Pirates handed the Yanks

Gene Fox. The story of a man who overcame a bleak situation by doing what he loved best.

Just take some ground, add kids and some perfectly bred dogs, and you get a happy man.

Timberline Acres; one man's paradise

His doctor told him he would never work again; the pipe fitting days were over for Gene Fox. That was in 1969.

Instead of burying his head in the sand over his debilitating back injury and settling into a life of convalescent leisure, Fox had a better idea. Why not turn a love for animals, particularly dogs, into a business? Why not strike out on a different path and see where it leads? Why not indeed!

So Fox erected some kennels next to his house in Wyoming and launched into the dog raising and training business. Long hours, careful work and loving care paid off and today, 8 years later, Timberline Acres is one of the most respected kennels in the state for guard and watch Snepards. His dogs are known far and wide to be of the finest heritage and temperament available anywhere. For Fox, what could have been an end to a good life has turned into a beginning of a better one.

Fox, an easygoing and personable man of approximately 40 years, says "there is really no such thing as a dumb dog, its simply that most people don't know the proper way to handle and train them. Dogs need careful attention."

"Most pet dealers don't take enough time to properly talk to their customers about their animals," added Fox. "They should always be careful to explain such things as health care and maintenance so that problems can be avoided before they start."

Talk to Gene Fox and one thing becomes very clear: he loves his work and he loves what it means to his family life. Said Fox, "I feel like the most privileged father I know. I work at home and get the chance to involve all of my children in the business. I can raise my kids and build a good business at the same time. It's good for all of us."

Besides the raising, training, and selling of dogs, Fox also gets involved in laboratory and grooming work. He has extensive facilities for health analysis that allow him to do most of this type of work himself.

Gene Fox, turning adversity into a new life of family involvement and personal satisfaction at Timberline Acres.

It is always a hard day when we have to attend the funeral of a dear friend. With her vivid personality ever before me and her amazing capacity for friendship, it seems that I cannot give her up. But the memory of her friendship and love will be with me as long as I live.

We have to go on and we comfort ourselves with sayings... "Time will heal", etc. It is this way to a certain extent, but it is not truly so. Time does make the sorrow more bearable and blunts the sharp edges of grief a bit, but I know in the case of my mother, who died when I was not far out of my teens. There are times even now that I miss her and need her and want her as badly as ever.

But we must look up and go on. The sun shines, the flowers bloom and the mockingbird sings in the tree. And God is in His Heaven. He is in complete control. He does not make mistakes. And so, I strive, as I know you all do, for complete acceptance.

Strawberries are still going on and now the peas are ready. We will now enjoy a pot of peas with little slippery dumplings. We make a complete meal of this and just give ourselves up to it. I was brought up on the theory that you must never eat strawberries at the same meal with garden peas. Even the doctors, some of them at least, felt that it could be so. When I was about four I came down with a severe stomach upset that was diagnosed as Cholera Infantum, no doubt they said brought on by this combination of peas and strawberries.

Of course in this enlightened age we know that this is not true, but they put enough artificial additives in to louse it up anyway! Another thing I was told not to do was to eat nuts with ice cream. There was Cousin Sam, you know...ate a big dish of ice cream and a handful of black walnuts...nearly died. Any seafood with ice cream also was considered poisonous. And new potatoes and honey! Oh, my you wouldn't take a chance on that at the same meal.

Well, most of us survived and lived to a ripe old age. My Uncle Theodore often spoke of the time when he was growing up. His father was a prosperous farmer and there was always plenty of meat, potatoes, fruit and vegetable. And meat and egg sandwiches in their lunch boxes. But right down the road from them, there lived a ne'er do well family whose children did not have all these things. Day and day they went to school with a large chunk of cornbread and that was it. But they all grew up and never seemed to get sick. Even in my childhood they had not heard of vitamin C, B plus, D, or any of the reat and oranges were for Christmas stockings. Somewhere in there is a point that should be made.

I see the day lilies are out. We have only the orange ones. What a pity the last only for a day

The board had ruled last year that the homecoming parade alternate between the three major towns in the district - Felton, Frederica and Harrington. Last year's parade was held in Frederica. In previous years it had been held in Harrington because of the location of the only football facilities there. The completion of the Lake Forest stadium changed that.

A delegation led by SGA President Sandy Crouse asked the School Board to change that decision and allow the alternation to be between Felton and Harrington only. Frederica, they felt, was too small and the problem of parking and finding an adequate parade route was too difficult to justify the effort that goes into a homecoming parade.

The board said Frederica must get the parade, but did concede to a further SGA request that homecoming activities be stretched over three days. Last year, the parade, game and dance were all on Saturday. The 1979 Homecoming Parade will be on Thursday night; the homecoming game, on Friday night, and the dance, on Saturday night.

Ruritans Celebrate Flag Day

BURRSVILLE - The Ruritans of the Burrsville Club celebrated Flag Day on Thursday night with a dinner followed by guest speaker on the flag, Francis Yates of Denton. Mr. Yates, a retired mechanic, spoke fluently about the Flag of the U.S.

Following the dinner and speech, Tom Brown asked for veterans of Foreign Wars to stand and describe their jobs in the service. There were veterans from World War II and Viet Nam. Brown had the most touching story as he described the torpedoing of his ship off Saipan. "The stern was blown off except the portion holding the flag". Brown also described the torpedoing of a convoy in which 7000 men were in the water "...asking to be saved...but we couldn't stop". It was agreed that nothing was gained through war.

In other official business, Miss Eugenia Gerardi was officially given the $200 scholarship as a graduating senior from Lake Forest who was most deserving.
