Berry hired to oversee Lake Forest pool

With the pool at Lake Forest High School nearing completion, it was announced this week that Dennis Berry of Cane, Pennsylvania, has been hired as the District's first Aquatics Coordinator. Berry is to be on the job July 25 to begin planning and coordination of programs. It is now projected that the pool will be open in early September.

With Berry's hiring complete except for the formality of signing the contract, Lake Forest High School Principal Dr. Margaret Phelps said, "I am expecially pleased at his enthusiasm. You know, he gave up a very good job to come down here." She also said Berry likes the idea of setting up a program from scratch and that his first responsibility would be teach-

Teaching chores will be included in his total responsibility for the pool and its management. Berry be the man in charge of programming for the use of the pool by the school district and by the Lake Forest community. He will be the chief aquatics instructor at the high school and will supervise any other personnel who may be involved. He will also be charged with budgeting and the pool's maintenance. In short, Dennis Berry will be the man on whose shoulders rests the responsibility of making Lake Forest's natatorium (the pool and the complex which houses it) a working asset for the district and the community. Contacted by the HARRINGTON JOURNAL Saturday, Berry, who is aquatics director and physical education instructor at Doylestown High School, said the Lake Forest offer was an opportunity "....too exciting to turn down." He looks forward to developing a strong program at the high school and then branching out to involve the whole community. One of the biggest areas of recreation is on or in the water. And that, Berry says, "...involves a lot more than learning a few swimming strokes." He hopes to initiate a full range of aquatics activities at Lake Forest related programs to offer as qualifications for the job. His Red Cross titles included his being Instructor Trainer for Water Safety Instructors, CPR Instructor, and Canoeing Instructor. He is similarly qualified in First Aid and Personal Safety and Adaptive Aquatics.

Apart from the Red Cross his qualifications include the fact the he is a certified Water Polo Instructer, a Scuba Diver, and an Instructor of Lifeguards. He is additionally qualified as an instructor in Facility Management (the whole operation of a pool and its program). He has participated in the Nation Aquatics Institute held at Indiana University of Pa. and in programs involving the instruction of lifeguards at Penn. State.

Berry became interested in this area through his wife, the former July Taylor who will be remembered as Outstanding Female Wesley College After that she went to Lock Haven State in Pa. the college of which Dennis Berry is a graduate. The Berry's who have 2 children, expect to be moving into the area within the next month.

The pool and facilities at Lake Forest High School are, according to Assistant Superenintendent Melvin Luff, 88 percent complete. Installation of tiling is in progress and once this is done, a final concerte coating or layer will be poured. The pool is to be filled immediately to insure the proper setting of the concerte. This is done to prevent cracking. Seats in the bleachers remain to be tiled. The work on the locker rooms is progressing well.

The other construction in progress at the high school-the new auditorium-is 95 percent finished and should definitely be ready for use in Sept.

Luff said delays in arrival of materials compounded recently by the independent truckers strike were a major reason for the slowing of the construction schedule. Other include weather and the sometimes questionable dependability of sub-contrators. The pool was originally scheduled for complete this past February.

Heritage update

Plans for the celebration of Heritage Day in Harrington on August 11 keep rolling in. It was recently announced that Jimmy Temple will be the auctioneet for the auction sale sponsored by the American Legion that afternoon. Items to be donated or to be taken on consigment are being accepted. Interested persons may call Ray Garne at Stone's Hotel at 398-3434. The auction will be held in the parking lot of People's Bank. 50 percent of the proceeds will go to the Harrington Public Library.

At noon on Heritage Day there will be a square dance demonstration by two groups: Diamond State Twirlers and Levis and Lace. They are to be folloed by a group called the Stoney Creek Cloggers. This group does a special adaption of square dancing which combines it with many of the steps used in tap dancing. Square dancers move to a shuffle; cloggers wear shoes with taps and do a kind of a jumping step. The footwork is clogging is more complicated than that in square dancing; the figures, some-

Disabled vets to get more help

The list of American casualties of the Vietnam War continues to mount, even though U.S. involvement in the fighting in Indochina ended several years ago.

Hundreds of thousands -- possibly many more -- American GIs were exposed to Agent Orange and other powerfully toxic defoliants while fighting in Southeast Asia during the Vietnam War. Agent Orange contains dioxin, which Barry Commoner and many other scientists have called "the most toxic man-made substance known."

Dioxin has been blamed for a number of severe health problems and some deaths among Vietnam veterans, as well as birth defects among some of their children. These disabilities are showing up years after exposure to herbicides such as Agent Orange.

The 622,000-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV) has set up a nationwide program to assist these veterans in filing claims with the Veterans administration (VA) for health care and disability benefits for illnesses that may be associated with dioxin poisoning.

FLASH - It has just been announced that Harrington Moose Lodge No. 534 will be serving barbecued chicken on Heritage Day. The chicken is expected to be ready around 11 a.m., and the Moose plan to go on serving all afternoon and into the early evening as there is demand. The barbecue stand will be set up somewhere in the area of Dorman Street behind the Harrington Public Library.

My Opinion

by Bruce Levy

I've got a confession this week. Secretly, I'm enjoying this "economic slowdown".

Not because I make enough money that I'm immune to ever escalating prices, but because of the government's "Solution" to it all. What they seem to be doing about all this is a very welcome occurance; the endless establishment of new business regulations is screaching to a halt and in fact the regulations of the past are beginning to come under some serious fire. Witness the talk of lower taxes, deregulation of the oil companies, deregulation of the trucking industry and so on.

It seems as if our leaders are beginning to wake up to the fact that their non stop propogation of strangling regulations is: putting us 6 feet under. The economic conditions of today demand that the meaningless, self serving control over our free enterprise system be halted before its too late.

When government interference into our daily business lives is put under the harsh light of a belt tightening public, it simply can't justify itself. Hence, the scramble to the right.

If this is what we get in a "slow down", I say bring on the

The Biden Report

By Senator Joseph R. Biden, Jr.

Although I am convinced that in the long term the energy crisis is real, I am just as convinced that it is being manipulated in the shortterm by the energy cartels of this country and internationally, particularly by the OPE nations.

There are several things that we as a nation must do now to overcome both the short and long-term crisis. We must press the investigation into the causes of the current shortage and into the reliability and extent of the information available to the government about the oil industry. It is clear that the oil industry, the Federal Department of Rergy and consumers have made mistakes which have contributed to and aggravated the situation, but the questions I have on the cause of a rather sudden dilemma have not been answered.

The Department of Justice should be providing, through a formal investigation, answers to these basic questions. Is the oil industry providing proper data to the government on oil supplies and costs? Are they refining at full capacity? Is the reduction in production of domestic oil related to the phased decontrol of domestic oil? Is the industry reducing output in anticipation of higher prices? Is the industry stockpiling refined oil products waiting for prices to spiral even higher? Why did all of the major oil corporations reduce imports, reduce reserves, reduce production levels, but raise prices uniformly?

The Senate recently passed a resolution which I co-sponsored urging the President to convene an "Hergy Summit Conference" consisting of all executives of all major oil corporations, key government personnel and consumer groups. One way or the other we must get answers.

The important thing is to get tough-tough with the American oil industry and tough with ourselves. We must begin using mass transportation wheere it is available and extend it where feasible. School buses can be used to establish new transit routes such as transporting people from their community to work or the beach where feasible. We must outwit the manipulators by cooperating locally, nationally and internationally.

Thoughts From Dover

By Governor Pete du Pont

Suppliers and refineries have informed the State that gasoline allocations to retailers in July will be higher than the previous two months. The State's energy office estimates that the gasoline allocations will be about 6 percent below the allocation for July of a year ago.

While that appears to be welcome news to motorists who have waited in long gasoline lines during the past three weeks, it must be viewed with some caution. First of all, gasoline allocation figures are subject to change and that could mean some spot shortages around the state. Second, demand by the public for gasoline has increased about 4 percent this year.

With more motorists on the roads and less gasoline, the shortage will continue, but without the same long lines we have experienced over the past few weeks.

Nevertheless, the new figures should mean good news to the state's tourist industry, which unfortunately has suffered because many out-of-state tourists have been shy about traveling for fear they may not have enough gasoline to get home. I hope that the new July allocations figures will help convince motorists there is no need to panic and they should resume their plans to visit our attractions.

In the meantime, I have instituted minimum purchase requirements and odd-even gasoline restrictions in order to help cut down on the gas lines and to bring some sanity to gasoline distribution. These measures should cut down on the lines and help prevent people from topping off their tanks in panic. We have all heard stories of people waiting in long lines only to buy a dollar or two of gasoline.

Much of the gasoline lines were caused by fear of many people that gasoline would not be available in the future and because of the slow-down in deliveries because of the Independent truckers strike. This already compounded the shortage problems of May and June when allocations were down 12-14 percent.

But the figures for July are better. While people should continue to exercise conservation whenever possible, I am encouraged and I think many, many people in the state are breathing easier now.

This will help Harrington residents, but it won't do much for Felton. It_ is still a long distance call. Felton residents bristle at the idea that it takes a toll call to get State Police help. One said that on one ocassion when State Police were contacted around 11:30 p.m., it was 2:30 before they arrived.

In other, not necessarily related incidents, a disagreement between two young people resulted in a chase through a local market from front to back door, and a flag posted during Saturday's Street Fair was taken by individuals in a car which stopped, picked up the flag, and took off. According to reports, the license number of the car was recorded. Both of these incidents occured during the day.

Questioned about the problems, Felton Patrolman John Bartsch said he felt at least 80% of the problem was caused by youths from other communities who are coming to Felton. Residents and Council members agreed, saying not many of the faces they see are recognizable as local young people. Bartsch also said there are a lot of drugs in the area which may be compounding the problem.

The Felton Town Council vowed to do something to crack down on area seven nights a week.

Town Council:

-tabled a request from Melvin Smith that 28 acres of farm land. he owns be excluded from the local sewer district.

-agreed to put up two new stop igns at the intersection of Sewell Street and Railroad Avenue.

-heard a citizen complaint that individuals are blocking access to an alley between Ware's Market and the barbershop that serves as a private drive. It was noted that it was sometimes necessary for residents seeking to enter or leave the drive to wait five or ten minutes before the blocking vehicles would be moved.

the problem. After an executive session called to discuss the situation, it was reported that the town will try stepped up police protection. A schedule is to be worked out whereby the town's two police officers and Harrington Police Chief Carl McIlroy, working part time, will try to patrol the commented, "Frankly, I've already been told that this project doesn't have a chance of approval; but I can't imagine anyone who has seen what we have seen today calling these developments a slum."

In other business the Felton

Speaking to the citizens who took advantage of the free tour, Cahall also said, "You should tell your friends what you saw, whether it is good or bad, and encourage a vote on the basis of whether or not it is good for the City of Harrington.'

Contacted by THEHARRINGTON JOURNAL, the Mayor further commented "I think in order to make a proper decision...it should be a decision as to what is best for the city based on what the apartments are, as opposed to what people think they are.." The Mayor was concerned that facts, not rumor, be the deciding factor.

Those who want to get a first hand view will have the opportunity this Sunday. In addition to the Mayor, the City Council and the Planning and Zoning Commission, Willis extends the invitation to take the bus tour to any interested adult citizens of Harrington.

Building the apartment complex, which is designed as housing for the elderly and for childless couples here, requires a zoning change. The Willis property on Peck Avenue currently has a selective industrial zoning.

The Harrington City Council at its regular June meeting summarily turned down Willis' rezoning request. The following week it was forced to admit that it had proceeded illegally in even taking action without a public hearing. The required public hearing has been set for Thursday, July 12 at 7:30 in the town hall. At that time concerned citizens will have the opportunity to voice their views.

Local citizens took last Sunday's tour are Elizabeth Anthony, Katherine Masten, Bertha Dean, Marion L. Brown, Catherine Hobbs, Pearl Hickman and Florence Minner.

Thoughts From Washington _____

By U.S. Senator Bill Roth

Washington, June 27-Senator Bill Roth today cautioned the Food and Drug Administration that they should not approve product labelling that will mislead consumers and impact dairymen. Roth in a letter to FDA Administrator, Robert C. Wetherell, stated, "I wish to express my personal disapproval of the FDA's proposed standards of labelling of milk, cream, and cheese substitutes. Products with the milkfat removed are not natural dairy products, and the public has a

The reason for the Roth letter is an FDA proposal to call cheese and other dairy products made with vegetable fat by their natural name with "imitation" or "substitute" preceding. "Imitation" would describe such products that are not nutritionally equivalent to the natural dairy product, while "substitute" would be used for products with the same nutritional value as the natural product. Members of the farming community and dairy industry object to the adulteration of the term "Cheese" as well as other dairy products, and suggest that any new product gain consumer acceptance on it's own merits.

The decision on this proposal will not be made until the end of this year after work on a new Food Labelling Act is completed. Senator Roth, however, wanted to make his feelings known to the FDA well Spiraling gas prices and endless lines have graphically illustrated our dependence on foreign oil. Even though we were made painfully aware of how unstable our Middle East oil supply is, we have gone on importing greater amounts of foreign petroleum every year. The skyrocketing price of this imported oil has contributed directly to our run-away inflation rate and brought our nation to the brink of a crippling recession. Congress must move to find alternative sources of energy to replace this foreign oil.

Deveoping synthetic fuels is one fo the best ways we can establish energy independence. We can gradually begin to replace every barrel of imported oil with American made synthetic fuel. This will put control of our energy supply back in our own hands where it belongs. We cannot forever permit our domestic and foreign policies to be dictated be a group of oil-rich Sheiks in the Middle East

We can achieve our goal of energy self-sufficiency by embarking on a crash program to develop synthetic fuels. With a truly national effort, similar to the drive to put a man on the moon in the 1960's American technology can overcome the energy crisis. I'm confident our country can find a long term solution to this problem.

But even with plans as exciting as this one, I must underscore the need for all Americans to use the existing energy supplies wisely. Conserving what we now have is the best way to insure we have the time to develop alternative supplies. When the plan just passed by the House is fully implemented, we hope to replace close to 2 million barrels of imported oil a day with synthetic fuel we produce ourselves. However, this plan will take some time, and we must conserve current supplies to achieve our goal.

Congress must continue to develop policies that provide the proper incentives for developing alternatives to import oil. I'm hopeful that this plan is just a first step to insure energy independence for America.

Sen. Thurman Adams writes....

This column is being written before the General Assembly has completed its work for the 1979 session. In future columns, I'll discuss some of the matters which were dealt with in the final hours.

I'm pleased that the House of Representatives passed and sent to the Governor my bill (SB 185) to authorize the state to turn over to the Milton Jaycees the old Broadkill School and grounds. The building wasn't being used for anything, until the Jaycees started putting it to good use. The property is being turned over for the nominal sum of $1 with the understanding that the state will take it back any time the Milton Jaycees have no further use for it.

I voted against legislation (SB162) which would have required cities and towns to go to compulsary arbitration if they were unable to reach any progress in collective bargaining talks with police units.

I'm opposed to someone from outside coming in and dictating terms of a labor contract to the people who have to pay taxes. Under provisions of the bill, a town would have to go to arbitration if it was unable to agree within 30 days to a settlement of any dispute with its police units. In my opinion this is not the way a labor dispute should

An arbitrator doesn't have to worry about where the money is coming from when he recommends a pay increase or increased fringe benefits. It's the town council and the townspeople who have to figure out how to finance those recommendation, therefore they should settle

The Senate passed and sent to the Governor legislation (HB 410) which I co-sponsored which should be of great assistance to the farm community. They bill authorizes the establishment of Agricultural Commodity Advisory Boards for each farm product whose producers want them to develop markets for such commodities.

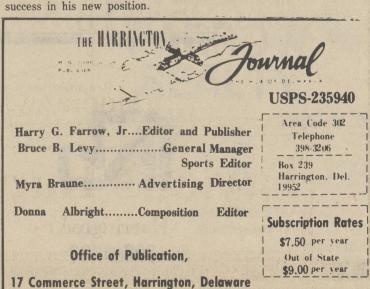

These Boards would be elected and would work with the Department of Agriculture, the University of Delaware handlers, dealers, and processors of the particular commodity to increase quality, production, and markets.

The bill provides for a referendum by the farmers growing a specific commodity and, although every farmer in the group would have to pay an assessment to finance the program, any farmer who didn't want to participate could apply for and get a refund.

The bill also makes it clear that this new concerted effort to improve quality and markets for farm products will not be considered in restraint of trade.

The Senate Executive Committee which I chair considered the nomination by Governor Du Pont of Alden Hopkins of Lewes to be Secretary of Agriculture following a public hearing last Friday.

The Senate approved his nomination and I wish Mr. Hopkins great

Are you all savoring to the fullest extent the wonder of June? I'm trying to, whenever I get my head out of the blanching kettle long enough. Filling the freezer keeps me hopping. First, the strawberries, then the peas and now the cabbage, witht the beets coming right along. But even as I try to plan for the security of a freezer full of food for the long winter ahead, I will, somehow, take time for beauty.

The summer theme is Flowers with a capital "F". This morning, while waiting for a kettle of water to boil, I was looking over an old book of prose and poetry published in the year 1900. This little gem appealed to me. It was written by someone named Lyndia M. Child, and she calls it "Flowers". She says: "How the universal heart of man blesses flowers! They are wreathed round the cradle, the marrriage-altar, and the tomb. The Persian in the far East delights in their perfume, and writes his love in nosegays; while the Indian child of the far West clasps his hands with gleee as he gather the abundant blossoms--the illuminated scripture of the prairies. The Cupis of the ancient Hindoos tipped his arrows with flowers, and orange buds are the bridal crown with us, a nation of yesterday. Flowers garlanded the Grecian altar, and they hand in votive wreaths befor the Christian shrine.

All these are appropriate uses. Flowers should deck the brow of the youthful bride, for they are in themselves a lovely type of marriage. They should twine round the tomb, for their perpetually renewed beauty is a symbol of the ressurection. They should festoon the altar, for their fragrance and their beauty ascend in perpetual worship before the Most High.

Again in the flower department what is more lovely than the familiar quotation, I believe, by James Terry White?

"If thou of fortune be bereft And in thy store there be but

Two loaves. Sell one, and with the dole

Buy hyacinths to feed the foul!" Turning the pages in my old book, I found a wee poen about lilacs. Everyone loves lilacs, but you don't see many poens about them. This one is attributed to a man named Henry Davenport. I wonder is he is the one who gave his name to that particular type of sofa? Anyway, here is his poem entitled "Lilacs". "Fair, purple children of the sun, I pet your blossoms, one by one, Glance looks of love into your eyes, your perfume breathe, your beauty prize. Hold your sweet clusters to my view, Cool my warm blushes with your dew, Any every morning, and at noon, Mourn that your tints are gone so soon." Well, thank you, Henry,. This has been the flavors of some of the Vistorian poetry of my great-uncle, Isaac. They were very flowery in those days and had high-flown beautiful thoughts. We could do well to copy a bit of that style, perhaps?

Another important step is about to be taken to the parishioner's of St. Bernadette's parish in Harrington. On Saturday morning ground will be broken on which a parish will be erected.

A 1,000 fire which raged for several hours through the George C. Rothwill Inc., grain elevator near the Murderkill River, Frederica, gutted the four story building from top to bottom and destroyed nearly 150,000 bushels of grain and considerable amount of milling equipment Saturday evening.

The intense heat from the blazing grain elevator also ignited Draper's Processing Plant, across the street but the flames were quickly extinguished with very little damage. The firm processed vegetables.

Tuesday afternoon.

George Goodge took time off from pool to show a movie Wednesday morning. At 1:00 p.m. Mr. Bob Adams with Homeowners Cost Cutting Clinic gave a slide and talk demonstration of many ways to prevent heat loss and to keep your house cool in the summer. He had many good points to offer, but to tell you the truth it was just too long!

Thursdays was worm day, ho my goodness, could have said that nicer, like caterpiller day and Panda day, entitled to a slip once in a while. Will soon be sixty-five, have to blame in on something, huh? Mabel Jean was here and we did make fuzzy-wuzzy worms and cute little Pandas for the refrigerator door or any metal objects and they are cute just slinking along on a table top. Thank you Mabel Jean for your kindness!! Local shopping with our new driver Art. Cam is on vacation, tho he will be back by Friday - putting the calendars together was done in a hurry assembly line style. Hope our stapler gets here before next month. Most of the ladies played Bingo and had a happy time. A big pool game was in full swing and a couple of ladies were at the ceramics table, while I was head neck and shoulders in a regular Fibber McGee and Molly closet. You know how closets get at home, well this one is a catch all, a closet you just can't live without, but what a headache every once in a while. Love that closet!!

Ceramics-cards-weaving and sale as well as pool, dominoes, singing and a few dance steps.

Had another Dast driver Friday. A lady - Irene. Thank the people who brought the white elephant by the porch full, it was fun and profitable for the Center.

Mrs. Redden is sporting a nice new porch as we go thru Harrington it is really pleasant to observe so many gorgeous blooming magnolia trees - every leaf seems to be waxed, lawns are green, flowers bright, and as we see the rough spots in Harrington cleaned up it surely makes you feel proud of them. Reminds me of a song we were taught at Chitaugua "I Am Proud of My Town, Is My Town Proud of Me. All it needs is citizens, trained in loyalty, when we work - when we play with our fellow man, good citizens we should be then I'll be proud. Be proud of my hometown and I'll make her proud of me." Do you remember? Best Wishes to all. Stop by, every day you miss, we miss you, and you miss something.

(LANDOVER) An estimated crowd of 15,770 assembled Sunday for the final session of the "Living Hope" district convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in Landover, Maryland.

S.F Herd delivered the principal address of the meeting, speaking on the subject "Mankind's Only Hope--God's Unshakable Kingdom.

Herd told the vast audience at the Capital Centre that viewing the present world situation has caused an increasing number of people to despair of ever seeing an end to crime and violence.

"Although mankind is endowed with an inherited sense of optimism about the future," Herd said, "events in recent years have strongly influenced the outlook on the part of the masses so that their optimism is waning."

Quoting a HARRIS survey, Herd said the vast majority of people indicated they do not expect to see continued.

"But is this not just another example of continuing to hope against hope?," Herd asked. "Should men not rather awaken to the fact that the evils of the world cannot be cured simply by human legislation? Herd stressed that trusting in human governments has led mankind to one disappointment after another. "Man's inability to provide a satisfactory administration of earth's affairs in this century has become more painfully obvious than ever before," he said.

Jerry Wyatt, Lions catcher, stands to make a play behind the plate in Harrington Little League action last week. The Lions won the game 17-5 and locked up the championship.

Pirates take first place

The Dodgers continued their hex over the Orioles last Monday in Felton Little League beating them for the third time this year, this time 10-5. The Dodgers scored 3 times in the 5th to wipe out a 5-4 Oriole lead and then added 2 more in the 6th to win the game Karen Sipple went the distance for the winners. Three Oriole pitchers walked 17 batters. On Tuesday, the Phils beat the Yanks 9-8 by scoring 2 runs in the top of the 6th. The Yanks scored 6 runs in the fourth to tie the game at 7 all then briefly lead with another in the fifth. Bobby Reed was the winner.

John Hardy drove in 2 runs with a single in the bottom of the 5th to snark the Cards to a 5-4 win over the Dodgers in Wednesday's contest. Mike Kersey was the winning hurler and Eric Payne the

The Pirates took a big step toward the second half championship by edging the Orioles 6-4 on thursday. A controversial call in the top of the 5th kept the inning alive for the Pirates and they cashed in with 3 straight singles for 3 runs and a 5-3 lead. Wayne Kemp fanned 14 as the winning pitcher while Jason Bell, the loser, struck out 11. The Orioles' Kevin McCloskey had the only extra base hit, a double.

The Registered Quarter Horse Show Circuit, which opens here July 9, will bring national competition to the area. Participants in the seven shows scheduled from the 9th through July 15th will be rolling in from many states across the nation.

The first show will begin at the Delaware State Fairgrounds in Harrington on July 9 at 9 a.m. On Tuesday, July 10, the action will move to Gold Champ Stables, home of Mr. & Mrs. Ed Robichaud. It's back to the Fairgrounds on Wednesday, July 11 and on to Gray Dawn Acres, the home of Mr. & Mrs. William Messick on July 12. Gold Champ Stables is located outside of Farmington; Gray Dawn Acres is on Route 117, the Farmington-Staytonsville Road.

The seven-day Circuit of shows will wind up at the Fairgrounds on July 13, 14 and 15. All shows are open to the public.

Tennis tourney

As part of the Heritage Day Celebration, a tennis tournament is being planned. The tennis tournament will begin on July 14, with the first round matches being played that weekend. The rest of the matches will be played on the weekends preceding August 11, when the finals will be played as part of Heritage Day, 4:30 at W. T. Chipman school.

To enter the tournament, you can pick up applications at the library or call Tournament Director Mark Homewood at 398-3984. The entrance fee is $1.00. Prizes will be awarded. Entries close July 12, so get your applications in soon.

Big League loses to Dover

The Harrington Big League team, coached by Don Adams and sponsored by E.B. Warrington, played just one game last week. It was a contest that saw the struggling defense improve significantly, but unfortunately, a contest that also saw a loss. Dover beat us with the long ball.

"Dover could have been beaten by us this year," Adams remarked, 'but I guess it just wasn't to be. We stayed right with them, but their three home runs put us

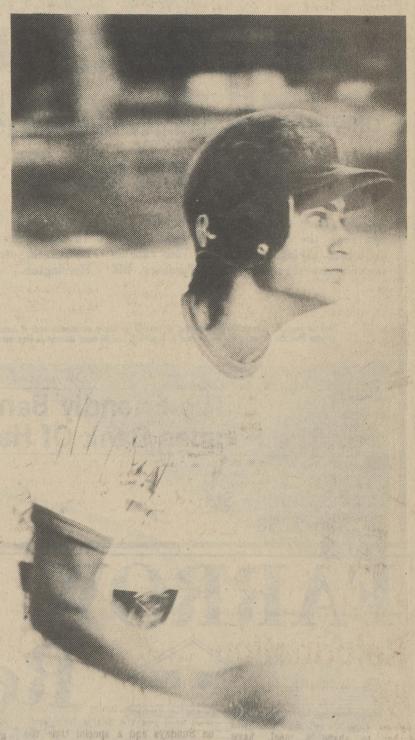

"One thing that did go our way though was the defense, it really tightened up from the sloppiness of our last few games."

Adams continued, "I get tired of telling you this, but it's still true, our team is much, much better than our record would indicate. I hope now we've gotten our bad games out of our system and we can go on to an overall even season record."

Jimmy Carroll started the game on the mound for Harrington. The big right hander gave up four earned runs including the backbreaking home runs. He was lifted in favor of Mark Smith for the final 4 innings. Smith allowed the third home run of the game.

Harrington's lone run came at the hand of Carroll who smaked a 350 foot shot to left field his first time up. This was his fourth round tripper in the last five games. He also helped the team with a triple later in the contest.

Harrington has three remaining games on the '79 schedule, Georgetown, Laurel and Milford.

He Wise strains to make it to first before the ball arrives. He didn't. The Harrington Big League lost the game with Dover 5-1.

Put your on a diet and save

Well, that's not too surprising. Air conditioning is the single largest cause of the highest peak demand for electricity during the whole year. It's so energy hungry, in fact, that Delmarva Power has to keep special reserve generating units ready to help feed it on the hottest days. They're called "peaking units" because they only kick-in when demand is really at its peak. It's those "peaks" that determine how much reserve capacity Delmarva has to have to provide an uninterrupted supply of energy. And, since peaking units can't produce power as economically as baseload generating units... summertime peak energy is more costly. So, a good way to cut operating costs, is to use energy very wisely at the times of peak demand. They're not hard to identify. just look at your thermometer. If it's over 90, you can bet the peak is way up there. And when the peak is up... cut your use of energy down, and save.

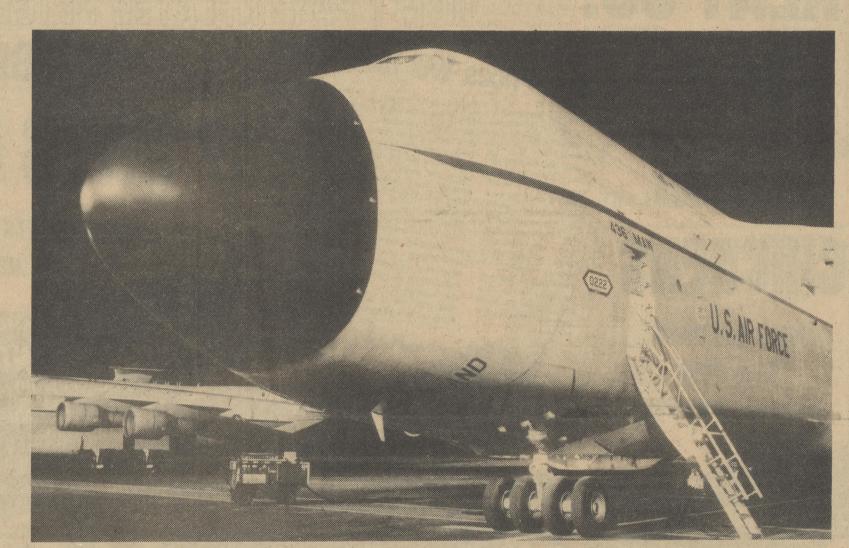

At Delmarva Power we're working hard every day to protect your supply of energy

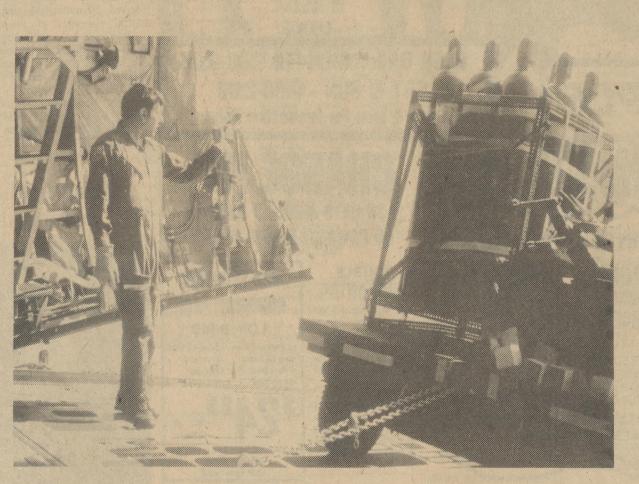

The Air Force Reserves;

more than just a weekend trip

Story and photos by Bruce Levy

The awesome bird sat alone on the runaway in the dead of the night. Its size and shape humbled the few workers who were preparing her for a mission, a mission that would take us across the country and back in just a few short hours. This was the Air Force C-5A, the largest airplane that ever took to the skies.

The Air Force public relations effort had prepared us for the flight with a packet of facts. They told us things like the C-5 can haul 100 volkswagons at once, that it carries over five miles of control cable, that it sucks more gas than a car would need to go around thw world 31 times in the course of one fill up. But somehow these gee-whiz facts didn't mean a thing when the plane was encountered face to face. Standing on the ground next to her brought out one emotion-this thing will never

As we assembled to board the bus that would take us out to the runway, a sign caught the eye. t drove home the point that this was no ordinary place and these were not ordinary airport personnel. The sign read Restricted Area, Use of Deadly Force Authorized. Adding weight to the sentence were some very alert looking guards, stationed strategicaly around the area, toting sinister looking M-16s. No, this was not your usual airport. This was Dover Air Force Base and these people were into some very serious business.

The purpose of the night's mission was to test the 512th Military Airlift Wing Associates. The local Air Force Reserves were to be evaluated on their readiness. Members of the press were invited to have a first hand look at a typical Reserve weekend and we were, at 4:00 in the morning, about to do just that.

We got on board the C-5 and gazed with open mouths at the cargo hold. It was, we thought, an endless cavern capable of carring the entire contents of the U.S. Air Force. We mounted the steep steps and climbed to the cockpit area where the bird is controlled. It is filled with all types of things you would expect; on board computers, dials, switches, and lights that tend to boggle the mind of the uninitiated. The pilot and his crew were speaking a strange sounding tongue that was somehow reassuring.

If they couldn't be understood by that Laymen, they had to know that they were doing.

As the plane effortlessly left the ground and proceeded to climb through the morning sky, we were struck with two things. Yes, the monster could fly and yes, the Reserve crew had the situation completely under control. They may only practice once a month but there was little doubt that they were dedicated professionals. We hardy press people promptly plugged our ears and went to sleep.

We landed, effortlessly again, somewhere out west and the Reserves began to go through their paces. Over 80,000 pounds of cargo was loaded, strapped in and secured and we prepared to leave the ground again.

The bird didn't seem to mind its extra weight, if anything it was an even smoother flight, as we again headed east. We stopped in Ohio to off-load, this was accomplished in about 20 minutes, and we were Dover bound in the middle of the afternoon.

The crew was all smiles as we touched down on familiar earth, The mission was a complete success and all hands had performed their functions without a problem. Yes, the 512th Associate Wing was ready for any contingency, let no one question it.
