Banquet honors Raymond Dill

A testimonial banquet honoring Raymond Dill of Dover was held Sunday evening, August 19, 1979, at the Blue Coat Inn, Dover.

Mr. Dill, retiring on a medical disability from the U.S. Postal Service, was honored for his many hours of community service along with the promotion of deltiology in the state. An avid collector of philatelic and Delaware antique post cards, Dill was cited by many speakers from all parts of the state.

From Dover postal clerks to Wilmington officials of the First State Post Card Club, Dill was lauded for his zeal and personal sacrifices in helping in the historic preservation

Guest speakers included State Senator Nancy Cook, Dr. E. David Bryant, Kent County Official Edie Hemphill, Retired Felton Postmaster Margaret Kates, Roland Trader, Dover funeral director, Vernon Hoffman, clerk at the Clayton Post Office, who is vice president of the Delaware Branch of the American Postal Workers Union; and Daniel Taylor of Wilmington, who is the Chaplain and past president of the First State Post Card Club, Burt Willis, auctioneer and Lott Ludloy Dill's High School Teacher.

Serving as Co-Chairman of the festivities were George Caley, Smyrna historian and genealogist, and C. Robert Godfrey of the U.S. Postal Service located at Hare's Corner, near New Castle.

Dill, a member of the Class of 1941 of Felton High School, was from the Canterbury area and served as a military policeman in the Army during the Second World War. He served overseas in Europe prior to his military discharge. As a bachelor, Dill spent endless hours up and down the state in assisting with the opening of many libraries and museums. He is always in demand to speak to different organizations on his favorite subject of Delaware history bringing

Visit Chipman today

On Wednesday, August 22, students who are attending the W.T. Chipman School for the first time are invited to come to the school with their parents. From 9 o'clock until 4 there will be opportunities to look around and to find the location of homerooms. It is hope that this preview will eliminate any anxiety students may feel about entering a new school.

Two may be company, but it's not enough," says Auctioneer Chester Lee Carroll of Carroll's Auction in Felton as he berates the crowd for bidding only $200 on a hog at the special Boar Sale last Thursday at the Delaware State Fairgrounds.

"Good-by, summer.. Hello, swimming!"

Students and parents who are calendar conscious have already noted that the opening of school is two - that's right, just two - weeks from tommorow. That means the end of summer and all of its attendant pleasures except, for those who reside in the Lake Forest District, swimming.

The early weeks of September, which effectively mark summer's end, will see the opening of the pool in the recently completed natatorium at Lake Forest High School and the kick off of the program for community use of that pool.

According to Aquatics Coordinator Dennis Berry, community involvement is a major goal for the first year of the pool's use. The pool will, of course, figure in the physical education programs at the high school, and by spring it may be possible to involve the district's three elementary schools and/or the junior high school. In the meantime, the community at large will have access to the pool through evening and weekend programs which will keep it in operation seven days a week. For those who take advantage of the membership plans which will be opening up, this could mean 22 hours of swimming a week or 1,000 hours school, a week of registration for community memberships in the pool During that week there will probably be six evenings of free swim programs aimed at such various groups as families and teens. At that time there will also be a campaign for pool memberships.

Fees set by the Lake Forest School Board last Monday night include the following: Resident Family - $60; Resident Inidvidual - $25, Non Resident Family - $100, Non Resident Individual - $40. The memberships are for a year. The classification of resident applies to all those who live in the Lake Forest School Disrict as well as to Lake Forest staff members, regardless of where they live.

Members will be admitted free to Open or Recreational, Family, Adult and Swim for Fitness programs. In addition, they will be eligible for reduced rates for swimming lessons and such Red Cross programs as lifesaving and WSI (Water Safety Instructor). The fall schedule of programs includes the following opportunities: Swim for Fitness - Monday through Friday, 7 to 8 a.m. and 6 to 7 p.m. Open Swim - Tuesday & Thursday, 7 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 3 to 5 p.m. Family Swim - Friday, 7 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 1 to 3 p.m.

Adult Lessons - Wednesday, 7 to 8 Adult Recreational Swim - Wednesday 8 to 9:30 p.m. Ladies Only - Sunday, 2 to 4 p.m. Men Only - Sunday, 7 to 9 p.m.

Elementary Learn to Swim Program Saturday, 9 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving and W.S.I. - Monday, 7 to 9 p.m. Fees have also been set for admission of non members to specified programs. These include Open Swim ($1 per person per session), Family Swim ($4 per family per session) and Adult Swim ($2 per person per session). There are also rates for non members who wish to enroll in lessons or Red Cross programs.

Pool rentals will be available to Community Service (non-profit) organizations at $25 per hour and to private groups at $50 per hour.

A pre-school program for swimming lessons will probably not get underway until next fall.

According to Dennis Berry, the school is now accepting applications for instructors and lifeguards to staff

New street light on the way

Another dark corner of Harrington will be illuminated soon when a street light is installed at the corner of Dickerson and Liberty Streets. The Harrington City Council approved the installation at the request of Councilman Jack Wyatt and on the complaint of several citizens. Elderly residents of the area told council the area was very dark at night and at least one home had been broken into on at least one occasion

-Citizens Complain-

The City Council last Tuesday night heard a citizen complaint about police procedure in an early morning investigation. Ray and Charlotte Gagne, owners of Stones Hotel, were present at the council meeting to question the courtesy of local and state police who awakend them in the early hours (4:30 - 5:30 a.m.) of Saturday, August 11. Mrs. Gagne said she was asked for information, but despite repeated queries, was not told the nature of the police business. Councilman William Dill commented that he felt local police regretted the inconvenience and intrusion at the early hour, but that the situation was apparently an emergency.

District schools stay within budget

Lake Forest District Schools stayed within their budgets for the 1978-1979 school year. As the matter of fact, there was actually a small surplus in local funds which helped to pay summer salaries. This eliminated the need for borrowing to carry the district through the summer. According to Lake Forest Superintendent William Cline, who reviewed last year's budget with the School Board at its regular meeting on August 13, credit for this goes to several individuals in the disrict. Cline said principals in the district's five schools had made real efforts to keep within their budgets. He gave credit also to Mrs. Sara Masten in the Disrict office and to Assistant Superintendent Melvin Luff. Mrs. Masten kept a careful check on each bill and alerted the Superintendent when there seemed a danger of a budget running over in any one area. Luff was instrumental in paring maintenance costs. In one instance this saving amounted to over $9,000 as some electrical equipment expected to cost $26,700 was purchased for $17,588.

Lake Forest School Board President Albert Price commended the district's principals on their success in keeping spending within prescribed In other business the Lake Forest

Commissioner issues warning

(DOVER) -- Delaware residents are being warned by Delaware Insurance Commissioner David H. Elliott about the activities of the Somerset Insurance Company, which is apparently operating without a license. Commissioner Elliott said he was informed by New Jersey's State Insurance Commissioner, James J. Sheeran, that a Superior Court injunction has been obtained against the continued operation of the Somerset Insurance Company, located in Cherry Hill. Sheeran said the injunction temporarily enjoins the company and its representative, Alex Feinman, from engaging in the business of insurance.

Elliott warned Delawareans that the company is not licensed in Delaware, New Jersey, or as far as

In My Opinion - By Bruce Levy

Minimum wages for any worker (except for certain farm workers) is now at $3 per hour. Theoretically, this mandate from the government insures each and every American with enough money to live in reasonable fashion. But a quick look under the rug shows clearly that it does just the opposite. Again, government intervention into the private sector actually accomplishes the reverse of its intentions.

Lets look at the facts: Joe Clod has a small business in a small town, he employs five people. Business is good for Joe, his bottom line increased by 15% last year and all appears good for further expansion. Joe sees a need for more help. Nothing special, just another set of hands around the business to make deliveries - a job a kid out of high school could easily fill.

So Joe talks to his accountant, Mrs. Clod. After a hard look at the books, Mrs. Clod points out that the 15% increase last year is actually an illusion, inflation kept them at their previous level. But they were happy to know that they stayed above the water line and decide they can look for a new worker.

The run an ad and get plenty of response. The Clods prepare to make a choice. But then they get a notice from the feds: Be advised, it said, the new minimum wage is $3 for all employees.

Minimum wage is $3 and the Clods can't afford it, it's simply too much to pay for a small operation working on a small, tight margin. They do the only thing they can, they make the deliveries themselves and forget about hiring

Who loses here? The Clods do because they wanted extra help and now can't get it. The high school kid loses because now he can't find work. Instead, he trys a career robbing banks (at everyone's expense in the end).

It could have all been avoided if the government would only allow a man to pay what he can. Workers beware, what seems like a good idea will eventually price you out of the job market.

The condition of the U.S. intelligence capabilities has me deeply concerned. We are living in a dream world if we think our Nation's security can be adequately protected without a strong intelligence force.

The government has over-reacted to the abuses of the past and has cut the number of intelligence agents gathering information in foreign countries. Mistakes have been made, but they have been corrected. These mistakes should not be an excuse for a wholesale gutting for our intelligence operations.

The Federal government should take some immediate steps to strengthen our country's information-gathering apparatus. We should rely more on human intelligence resources to complement satellites and other means of gathering information on other countries.

Satellites cannot look into people's minds, they cannot tell us how other countries preceive our Nation. Only human, face-to-face contact can give us those important in-sights.

There should be more efficient oversight by Congress. Right now before the CIA can begin any special operation it must notify, not only the President, but also eight separate Congressional committees, consisting of 163 legislators and 41 staff members. That's too many people and leaves too much for room for "leaks". Congress could still maintain the needed oversight if the CIA were required to report to just two committees in the House and Senate, instead of eight.

More than any other nation on Earth, The United States needs a strong intelligence operation. Legislation should be enacted to place strong criminal penalties against those who disclose classified information or the names of intelligence agents. It's nonsense and potentially dangerous to our security if the names of the CIA agents are made public knowledge. One organization in Washinton D.C. regularly publishes the names of our intelligence agents in a special magazine. This type of disclosure should be st pped. We live in an "Open Huddle" society because our country is a free one. Our political adversaries operate in a "closed huddle" because our governments constrict their citizens daily lives. We must know what other countries are up to if we are to protect the security and basic foundation of

Thoughts From Dover

By Gov. Pierre S. Dupont

Eight Delaware high schools have been selected by the Board of Directors of Jobs for Delaware Graduates to participate in the first year's

The students from the eight schools participating in the first year program will receive job counseling and assistance in securing that important first job following graduation.

The eight schools include Sussex Central and Indian River in Sussex County; Dover and Smyrna in Kent County and Claymont, Wilmington, Dickinson and Glasgow in New Castle County.

Some 2,800 students in the Class of 1980 and another 2,800 students in the Class of 1981 will participate in the program, with about one-third of each group receiving special assistance because they do not yet have clearly defined career goals.

Originally, Jobs for Delaware Graduates was to be a statewide program for all 26 public high schools in the state. The U.S. Department of Labor contributed $2.5 million to the program and various private groups, including the Ford and Rockefeller foundations, contributed another $500,000. Unfortunately, the Delaware House of Representatives failed to approve a $500,000 grant to JDG, thus causing the program to be limited to just eight schools in the state.

The schools were selected because most of the seniors in each school do not choose to attend higher education. While many do have career plans, such as armed forces or an already secured job, many others do not.

It is those students who do not have career plans or a prospect for a job immediately following graduation that Jobs for Delaware Graduates will attempt to help. Through an intensive job counseling program, students will be oriented towards work habits, career goals, and job selection. Following completion of courses, the students will be directed towards jobs in business and industry. Once placed in a job, they will receive up to six months of further counseling and assistance.

The youth unemployment problem is difficult to solve; but if we, can make a start in reducing unemployment among young adults through programs such as these, we can reduce many of the other problems facing

Counselors will be working each of the students on an individual and small group basis, as well as in conjunction with existing vocational programs in the school. By concentrating on placing students in a job once graduation occurs, we can get a head start on unemployment before the students become unemployed.

Author Edie Dill Hemphill cited Dill for his abundant assistance in research for the publication of the Bicentennial History of Felton which came out several years in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the independence of our country.

The history of Felton is now out of print and is considered in limited supply as only 1,000 copies were printed which carries a crest of the Town of Felton on the front cover.

Letters to the editor

I have a complaint to make about the just passing Delaware State Fair, which I think should be taken into some consideration.

I'm a 17 year old exhibitor of the fair for the past four years, and I feel that we as yearly exhibitors of the fair are being treated unfairly. For instance to see if you have won anything you must pay to get in. We get no pass, unless you enter live stock do you get a pass. This is unfair!

In the flower department they know as much about keeping plants watered and floral exhibits alive as a third grader. We need some support! My floral arrangements were dead within two days after I took them because of a lack of proper watering. If watered properly, they would last anywhere from a week to two weeks. Who wants to look at dead flowers? This makes the department look bad, along with us because our names are

As for my live plants, one was half dead and died a day after I took it home because of a lack of proper watering.

It says in the rules to put all watering instructions on the back of your entry tag. For what, they don't water them anyway! As for the rest of them (the plants) they were sick because of lack of watering. I had a blue ribbon with nothing to show for it because it had died.

I've attended Kent Vo-Tech for two years in the Horticulture Department and I should know a little bit about the care of plants. As for my floral abilities, I know a great deal from experience at Vo-Tech and from my former employer Wendy Aycoth of Wendy's Flowers for Weddings and Special Events near Killens Pond. So I feel it's time we get some outside help on this matter.

If if wasn't for us exhibitors, there would be no fair, just a mid-way. I sincerely hope that Mr. Simpson is reading this and is willing for a change. For this is serious to those like me who are exhibitors. Paying exhibitors at that! Thank you for your time. I hope we will see a good reaction and possibly a change from this letter.

Since April there has been some talk about the library having an anniversary celebration and at that time we were not entirely sure just what it would be. As time went on and the Historical Society became once again involved in a joint project, things progressed. People were contacted, and people and clubs began to respond in many ways. Some were very eager to join in, and some had to be convinced that this would be a worthwhile project, but as time grew short more and more energy was directed toward a "Heritage Day" that would never be forgotten. At some points during the last three months things were happening so fast it was difficult to keep up with everything. The program was written and re-written and re-written and the final copy was written and sent to the printers. Then the REAL work began.

I can not express in the space the Journal has for me the many, many thank you's that need to be said. Just this morning I was making my list and it is now up to two pages long not even mentioning the number of people individually that helped on all of the committees. So, let me just say, to each and everyone of you, and you know who you are all the people that helped to put together the HARRINGTON HERITAGE DAY and the Barn Dance THANK YOU, THANK YOU. Churches observe NCBA Sunday

Wilmington, DEL--A member of protestant and catholic churches throughout Delaware will devote portions of their services this Sunday (August 19) to addressing the concerns and problems of the Black aged.

Congregations at some 25 churches will participate in the Second Annual NCBA Sunday--an observance designed to give visibility to the programs administered by the National Caucus on the Black Aged, a D.C.- based organization after which the event is named.

"NCBA is dedicated to improving the quality of life for all elderly persons in this country, but our primary focus is on the special needs of the Black elderly," Caucus Chairman Aaron Henry said in a prepared statement to be read at various churches by members of the NCBA Delaware Chapter, which organized the event.

In his statement, Henry pointed out that NCBA, through its nationwide network of chapters, closely monitors state and federal programs to help ensure that there is equitable distribution of the share of the nation's resources earnmarked for improving the living conditions of the elderly. He commented on President Carter's stated commitment to the nation's elderly and urged the church community to work to ensure that the President translates that commitment into action. Concern about the impact of the Older Americans Act (OAA) as amended, in meeting the needs of the minority elderly is the major theme of the NCBA Sunday, according to Dr. W. June Abrams, Chairperson of the NCBA Delaware Chapter, "We would like to see full implementation of the provisions of the OAA which seeks to determine whether or not discrimination is practiced against minority older persons in federal programs designed to benefit the elderly," said Abraham.

She said that the objectives of NCBA Sunday are to re-educate senior citizens, to build more political awareness in the Black community and to help the minority elderly more assertive in obtaining their rights and entitlements.

Other participating organizations include Delta Lambda and Zeta Omega graduate and undergraduate chapters respectively, of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, and the Minority Affairs Committee of the National Association of Social Work-

The Catholic Diocese of Wilmington Liturgical Commission will sponsor a Convocation on Prayer and Worship for its members from Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland on Sept. 15. A theme, "A Praying...Serving...Caring Church," has been set for the event to be held in the buildings of St. Mary Magdalen parish in Sharpley, Wilmington, De. Activities will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 5 p.m.

Keynote speaker will be the Rev. John Gurrieri, associate director of the U.S. Bishops' Committee on the Liturgy Fr. Gurrieri who works in Washington, D.C. will speak on the topic of "Dimensions of Liturgical Renewal: Building for the Future."

More than 20 parish choirs from throughout the diocese will join in providing music for the celebration of the Eucharistic Liturgy at 9:15 a.m. Noted Liturgical musician, Mr. Robert Batastini. vice-president of G.I.A. Publications in Chicago, Illinois, will direct the combined choirs.

The day which is open to all interested persons will feature eight all-afternoon tracks as well as 13 workshops. Numerous national experts will join local and area leaders in conducting the instructional and informational parts of the programs. Information may be obtained from Liturgy, 1925 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington De. 19806.

Orphans Collection set for Sept.

The Catholic Diocese of Wilmington will seek support of its people in the Annual Orphans Collection of the weekends of Sept. 1-2 and Sept. 8-9. Only resort area parishes will take up the collection of the Labor Day weekend.

One of the oldest charitable activities in the diocese the support is used primarily to operate two groups care homes in the Wilmington area. Siena Hall houses young boys and girls, and Seton Villa is a residence for teenage

Most of the young people have been moved from their homes becomes of serious crisis: abuse, neglect, illness or death of a parent. They need such services as medical, and dental, remedial school assistance and guidance in many areas of their lives.

The Most Reverend Thomas J. Mardaga, Bishop of the diocese which includes Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, said, "The Christroubles, the weak, the defenseless is nowhere so clear as in the action which brings care and loving protection to a child." His comments were made in a letter addressed to all the people of the diocese.

While support comes from state and federal resources, it is not enough to cover all costs and needed services. Last Year the generosity of the local Catholic community amount-

Vacation Bible School came to a close on Sunday Morning, Aug. 19, when 329 people assembled for the closing program. Songs, recitations, music and crafts were presented. Average attendance for the VBS this year was 193. The highest attendance was on Thursday evening, when 216 were present. A giant balloon release capped off Friday evenings activities.

Dear friends,

For Your Intermation

The dying patient and his family have so many unmet needs you can fill. You only need to care -

Names, addresses, and a short resume of the VBS were sent via helium filled balloons. Hopefully we will hear from this project. Mrs. Thelma Miller and an excellent staff of workers are to be commended for a job well done.

C.C. hopes for 22nd. winning season

by Keith S. Burgess

Since Harrington High, pioneered the sport of cross-country, in lower Delaware, in 1958, 21 consecutive winning seasons have been the result. It would be hard to find a school in Delaware that can point to one of their sports that has never known a losing campaign.

Harold McDonald, who coached at Harrington, then at Lake Forest, had three state championship teams. His successor at Lake Forest, Jim Blades, has had four state titles and usually comes close in the non-winning years.

On paper the Spartans would rank as the No. 2 team downstate, since state champion Woodbridge lost their coach and most of their top performers. Sussex Central nosed Lake Forest for second place in the state meet and has everybody back.

Lake Forest is expecting at least thirty candidates most of them experienced, when practice starts at the high school, Monday night, August 27, at 6:30 p.m. Louis Thomas, No. 1 and Joe Custis are the chief losses, by graduation.

Senior Bill Mitchell, starting his sixth year of cross-country, should inherit the No. 1 spot. Mitchell is a hard worker, who has improved significantly each year. No. 2 could be veteran Doug Caskey, or Jay Howerin, a junior who surprised everyone by coming from nowhere last fall to crack the starting lineup on a very-experienced team. George Barnett, a track two-miler, is a cross-country tyro, who may be the "find" of 1979, as Howerin was in '78.

Mike Hernandez, who had some cross-country experience, in Philadelphia in 1977, has the ability to be one of the top Spartan performers.

Dale Jarrell and Randy Ramirez are senior veterans, along with Hernandez, Mitchell and Caskey.

Howerin and Barnett are juniors along with John Greene and Sam Lamphier. Lamphier finished second in a huge field at the Salisbury State College Jaycee Invitational meet last fall. He and Greene are seasoned runners, also.

Maurice "Reese Cup" Coverdale, Terry Caskey and Bob Aycoth are sophomores with experience and ability. All lettered as freshmen, which is tough to do, at Lake Forest. Coverdale made the all-time "Top Ten" list, here by running 2.7 miles in 15.20. Unfortunately, he has had foot trouble, since last spring and his status is questionable. Healthy, he might be No. 2.

Other sophs, most of them graduates of Jim Blades' careerperfect, W.T. Chipman 7-8th grade team are: Larry Guessford, Tom Silkworth, Dan Greene, Albert Burns, Mike Bishop, Manny Hernandez, Ron Lewis and Sherry Colburn. Sherry was top point scorer for Lake

Forest's girls track team as a fresh. man. This is her fourth cross-country season and she is used to running with and beating the boys.

Freshman, coming up from the Chipman team are: John Layton, Jerry Mosley, Mike Grogan, Allen Buckley, Ken Kline, Chris Caskey, Robby Manaraze, Tony Scott. Another frosh, James Lofland, may not compete for Lake Forest this campaign. Lofland made a name for himself in cross-country and in amateur track this spring, where he clocked a stellar 5.04 mile. He had been classed, by some, as the next Danny Parker. Parker, a 1977 Spartan graduate, was state record holder, at 1500 meters (4.02) and is rated, by many, as the top distance runner in more than two decades in a area that is a hotbed of long-distance

Show attracts hot dogs & show dogs

Story & Photos By Mark Barczewski

The Fifteenth Annual Mispillion Kennel Club Dog Show and Obedience Trial was held last Friday at the Harrington Fairgrounds. According to Mr. Jack Kunkle, Assistant Show Chairman, the show attracted dogs from as far away as California. Mr. Kunkle stated "Out of some 130 breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club, 114 are represented here at the show." He further said, "According to our entries, a total of 954 dogs were shown. This is also the first time we have been affiliated with the American Kennel Club"

The show took on a carnival-like atmosphere with mobile shops set up to supply dogs and owners with any canine-oriented novelty one could imagine. Eight show rings were constructed adjacent to two large tents to handle the large turnout.

It took thirteen judges to complete the awesome job of deciding who the Fellton, of Marietta, Georgia, was handed the job of judging the Best In Show winner. His choice, out of the six groups of which all the dogs are classified, was a four-pound Pomeranian named Ch. Lennis's Tar Lacy Foxfire. The winning small Pom. was by no means a newcomer to the show ring. The 3-year-old winner of the Toy Group has won 24 other groups this year alone with 15 Best In Show awards. The dog, owned by Edward B. Jenner of Richmond, Ill., and handled by Susan A. Fisher of Catonsville, MD, now has 25 Best In Show wins in its lifetime. Other winners were:

Sporting Group - Ch. Fieldfines Lord Tanner, a German Short haired pointer owned by Leonard S. and Mark Shulman of Colchester, VA and handled by Keith Vooris.

Hound Group - Ch. Reveille Do Be Sirius, a Basenji owned by Mrs. James Symington of Leesburg, VA, and handled by Damara Bolte.

Terrier Group - Ch. Harwire Hetman of Whinlater, a wire Fox Terrier, owned by Frederick Jones of Sewickley Heights, PA, and handled by Clifford Hallmark.

Non-Sporting Group - Dassin's Determination, a Standard Poodle, owned by Mrs Gail Drubin of Kings Park New York, and handled by Robert A.

Working Group - Ch. Innisfree's Sierra Cinnar, a Siberian Husky owned by Kathleen Kanzler of Accokeek, MD, and handled by Trish total waste of energy. Remember to turn off your radio, TV, or records player when you leave the room.

The show was held in memory of Mrs. Stephen Clute.

Keep appliances in good working order so they will last longer, work more efficiently, and use less energy. When buying appliances, read labels carefully. Compare energy use incarefully. Compare energy use information and operating costs of similar models by the same and different manufacturers. The retailer should be able to help you find the wattage of the appliance.

Material for the series is taken from a publication of the U.S. Dept. of Energy, "Tips for Energy Savers."
This issue's article tells how to save money on appliances.

About 8 percent of all the energy used in the United States goes into running electrical home appliances, so appliance use and selection can make a considerable difference in home utility

Before buying new appliances with special features, find out how much energy they use compared with other, perhaps less convenient, models.

A frost-free refrigerator, for example, uses more energy than one you have to defrost manually. It also costs more to purchase. The energy and dollars you can save with a manual-defrost model may be worth giving up Use appliances wisely; use the one that takes the least amount of energy for the job. For example: toasting breadin the oven uses three times more

Buying an energy-efficient appliance may cost a bit more initially but that expense is more than made up by reduced operating costs over the lifetime of the appliance.

Energy efficiency may vary considerably though models seem similar. Wise selection requires a degree of time

To help you save energy when buying or using appliances here are a few general ideas to consider.

Use the "vacation switch," if you have one, to eliminate this waste; plug the set into an outlet that is controlled by a wall switch; or have your TV service maninstall an additional on-off switch on the set itself or in the cord to the wall outlet. Small-Scale Oriental Furniture

by Barbara Hartung Copley News Service

have a number of Japanese and Chinese accessories I have collected through the years.

I have a scroll and two nice Chinese Q. We are living in a condominium with a 14-by-13-foot dining room. I would like very much to use Oriental styled furnishings in the room because I watercolors as well as some sculpture I acquired on travels to the Orient. However, all of the Oriental furniture I am familiar with is quite heavy and I feel might overpower the room.

Would I be better off to buy dining room furniture in a contemporary style — maybe natural teak — and then accessorize with the Oriental?

We do not entertain in large groups but I think the room could very well accommodate six chairs if they were not too massive. — P. T.

A. You certainly could create a very lovely room using contemporary wood furniture and then accessorizing with your Oriental pieces. That has been the best way to go for persons who have reasonably small rooms and want an

In the past tables and chairs in Oriental designs were simply too large for apartments, condominiums and small homes. However, with the rise in popularity of Chinese design, you will find a number of American manufacturers who are offering smaller-scaled pieces of furniture in a Chinoiserie motif.

One such manufacturer is Hickory which has produced a collection called Ancestry. Its dining chairs have a yoke back, cabriole leg and swan neck arm design suggesting a Ming period. And the finishes feature a lacquer look with an undertone of a similar shade.

The table is particularly adapted to small space because it has glass panels in the top, giving the table a much lighter look than if it were a solid piece of wood.

Oriental-inspired furniture, look at furniture departments and shops this summer. The new designs should be arriving now. Other manufacturers are doing likewise and are showing their new designs at furniture markets around the country. Therefore, if you do want

Q. We are senior citizens living in a home and at present, have light green painted walls, white ceilings and pink in the entryway and hall leading to the kitchen. The carpeting is gray, a medium shade, and the sofa is green with a sort of crewel pattern with beige. I'd like to replace one chair, which is gray. It's time for a change and I am at a loss to know where to go with colors for the walls. Can you help me? —A. K.

ELLIS REALTY COMPANY

"Service With Extra Effort"

Seaford

scheme in two different ways.

Here's one possibility: Paint your walls throughout living room and halls a light yellow. This would be fresh and pleasant with gray carpeting and a green and beige sofa.

Then look for a soft stripe fabric that would repeat the light yellow, green and gray and put that on the new chair, replacing the gray one. Yellow would give you a much warmer look in the room, compared with the light green you now have.

Or if you do not care for yellow, you could use off white for the walls and for the chair use a soft stripe of rose or deep pink, light green and gray. That color combination could be very pleasant, too.

Q. I need to replace my dining room carpeting. Now it is the same as my living room but the living room carpeting is fine and will remain. The dining room opens into the kitchen. Next to the kitchen is an entry hall and on the other side of the entry hall is a bathroom and hallway into bedrooms. I think I would like the same thing in all these areas — dining room, kitchen, entry and bathroom — but I don't want the dining room to look "kitcheny." One suggestion I had was hardwood plank flooring (type with pegs). But how is this finished for minimum care especially for the kitchen. I could put something else in the bathroom. — J.D.

Wood throughout the area might be quite expensive. If you do not mind the expense, it would be great. However, if you would prefer to ease the budget, consider a vinyl flooring.

If all these rooms and spaces open into each other, you probably would like the continuous look of one floor covering and a vinyl that was not kitcheny could do well in all areas.

Vinyl floor coverings are offered in such a wide variety of designs and sytles, it's hard to choose a favorite. There are great simulated brick patterns in a variety of colors, slates and flagstone designs and even marvelous designs simulating wood and cork.

Visit some of the model homes in your area to take a look at what designers are using in heavily trafficked areas and you'll see beautiful materials that are extremely easy to care for and aesthetically pleasing, too.

Please send questions for Decor Score to Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

A. Certainly wood floors can be exquisite and with a heavy gymnasium finish can be used in any room in the house, according to the wood flooring

SEAFORD - Current projections of double-digit inflation for 1979 are stirring increased interest in home ownership as consumers attempt to stretch earnings and find safe investments, according to Melba P. Robinson of Robinson Real Estate.

"Consumers, particularly the young first-time buyers, are coming to view real estate as their most practical hedge against inflation as well as an important tax shelter," Mrs. Robinson said:

"The latest projections show inflation surpassing the 10 percent rate this year. As a result, the investment opportunities open to most people simply do not yield sufficiently high interest to keep pace with inflation.

shows single-family homes rising in value at an annual rate of 12 to 15 percent in most areas of the nation," she added. "Home ownership is an exception. In fact, a survey recently completed by RELO-Inter-City Relocation Service taxes their home mortgage interest payments and real estate taxes and receive a tax credit for the cost of certain home improvements designed to cut energy consumption," Mrs. Robinson said.

Robinson Real Estate is one of 1,200 real estate firms across the United States that compose the RELO net-

"This shelter is of particular im-"In addition to the investment aspect, people want immediate benefits. They see their home as a tax shelter because they can deduct from federal income taxes their home mortgage interest > increase in the number of working wives as families attempt to stay one jump ahead of rising living costs. Without a tax shelter, much of their additional income can be lost to taxes." The result, according to Robinson Real Estate, has been an increased portance at a time when incomes are rising to keep pace with inflation, but are also pushing people into higher tax brackets. The combination of increased taxes and inflated living costs can wipe out the benefits of a raise.

> "There has also been a dramatic interest in home ownership by younger people as well as a growing number of single buyers.

"The influence of inflation is not only encouraging first-time home buyers, but is causing others to consider a more expensive home and long-time owners to borrow against their equity." Mrs.

"And we are seeing increased interest in investment property as people buy homes, apartments and condominiums as rental units. They not only deduct interest and property taxes, but maintenance and other

Mrs. Florence Von Goerres celebrated her eighty-seventh birthday at her home last Saturday. Those attending the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sylvester, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Von Goerres, of Georgetown, Mr. and Mrs. George Von Goerres, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Legates and son, David, of Harrington. Congratulations, Mrs. Von

Due to a computer mistake, David Legate's name was omitted from the Dean's List at the University of Delaware. David's grade average was 3.618 for the spring semester. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Legates, of Center Street, and is studying for a degree in Meterology with a second major in Mathematics.

Mark Homewood, son of Gary and Eleanor Homewood, left Wednesday for his new career in the Navy. Mark is a 1979 graduate from Lake Forest High School and Mark is going to specialize in electronics while in the Navy. Although, we all will miss Mark, we wish him the very best in

The results of the Heritage Day Tennis Tournament are finally in. The rainy weather over the weekend sure didn't put a damper on the tennis enthusiasts of Harrington. The single's winner is Ed Tucker, of West Street, as he defeated Tony Perone in two sets 6-1, 7-5. The double's were won by Ed Tucker and Tony Perone as they defeated Mark Homewood and John Teagle in two out of three sets

A soggy shopping trip to Williamsburg is what Zee Vitsay is talking about during her stay in Harrington. Zee is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Braune, of Mispillion Street, and is visiting here from her home in the Pocono Mountains. Zee had really been planning on a day of shopping in the pottery at Williamsburg and it's a shame the weather couldn't cooperate. But as a old shopping pardner of Myra Braune's, I'm sure they had a good time, a little thing like rain does not slow down Myra in the least little way.

Moving? Its a major project

Moving to a new home is a major undertaking which can be worrisome because so much is involved with which you're probably not familiar or experienced. But if you know a few simple facts and take a few precautions, it can be easier and more pleasant, says Delaware extension family living agent Pat Wilson.

If you are using a professional moving company there are several things that you need to consider. If you are moving locally, you will be charged according to the number of workers and vans that are used and for the time it takes.

The basic cost of hiring professional movers includes trained and experienced workers; modern equipment that allows movers to handle your belongings without soiling or damaging your furniture and floors; pads to protect your furniture while in tran-equipped dependable van.

A professional moving company can provide extra services. For an extra charge they will pack your furniture from your present home and set it up in your new one.

You can also have the movers pack or crate special possessions such as china, glassware, lamps and pictures.

Make sure to get an estimate of the charges so you will have the correct amount of money available at the end of the move. The moving bill is due when your furniture is delivered. Payment should be made in cash, certified check, money order or traveler's checks. If your final bill is more than twenty-five percent more than your estimate, the mover must deliver your goods if you pay the amount of the estimate plus twenty-five percent. You will have fifteen days, excluding weekends and holidays, to pay that portion of the bill that exceeded twenty-five percent of the estimate.

No matter how much you entrust to your mover, there are things you must do yourself.

*Dispose of things your family doesn't need which would consume the pay would be to have to never the pay.

*Dispose of things your family doesn't need which would consume moving time you would have to pay for.

*Decide on a date for moving. Try to avoid moving at the very end or beginning of the month because movers are busiest at these times and may not be able to accommodate you.

*Decide on date for packing.

*Keep an inventory. Number your cartons and record what goes into them.

*Mark "Do Not Move" on items you want to leave behind or take with

Charcoal Jugs

Coolers

Pool Supplies

*Save one carton marked "Load Last" for such things as toiletries, sheets, towels, light bulbs and other essentials you will need right away in the new house.

*Arrange ahead to start electricity, gas, telephone, oil, newspapers, milk and other utilities and deliveries you will need in your new destination.

*Decide how you will arrange your furniture. It will save time and footsteps at your new residence.

*Pack a small suitcase to take along with you that includes food for the baby, other needs for the children, any medicines or other incidentals you might require before the movers reach your new destination.

*Get copies of prescriptions from your dector and oculist.

Displaced at home? Help is available

The Delaware Displaced Home-makers Center is a state agency established in July of last year under the Delaware Department of Labor. The Center's primary objective is to assist women and men who have been primarily homemakers and now find themselves "displaced" through separation, divorce, or death, find permanent employment. To this end, we offer personal and career counseling, job-readiness workshops, subsidized vocational training, and job referrals.

is imperative that we view ourselves as serving not only our clients, but the business community as well. This means that we would refer only those women and men who would make competent, reliable, and conscientious employees. Because our referrals would be pre-screened, this would save you, the employer, valuable time by insuring that you would be interviewing only those people who are truly interested and qualified. In addition, we provide a further incentive for the employer to consider our women and men. The Center has If our organization is to succeed, it

In fact, our clients skills range from semi-skilled factory workers to highly trained technical writers. Since we do seek to place our clients in employment, it would be a boon to our Center's program if the next time you have an opening in your concern, you would consider our agency as a possible source of potential workers. We will do our very best to help. While by definition, our clients have been primarily homemakers in the past, they do have the diverse skills and experience which should be Allowances for your kids?

Are you having a problem deciding whether your child should have an allowance, or deciding how much to give and at what age? Here are a few points to consider that might aid you with your decisions.

Most authorities agree that even a small allowance provides an excellent teaching and learning experience for your child in acquiring sound money management practices.

An allowance is a definite sum of money which is given to the child on a regular basis. This generally saves a family money in the long run as it amounts to less than money given out of the pocket whenever a child asks for it, notes Delaware extension family living agent Pat Wilson. A regular allowance can eliminate begging and nagging by the child to purchase everything that appeals to him or her when you are shopping.

Before you decide how much allowance to give your child or at what age you should start, consider the following points. Can your child count? Is he responsible when using money? And does he understand what money can hour?

The amount of allowance you give depends upon your family situation, of course. Consider the child's age, the family's income, the number of children in your family and what the child is expected to buy with his

When deciding the amount to pay, it's helpful for the family and child to sit down together and decide what the money is needed for and what he or she will be expected to buy out of it. When a child spends all of his allowance, extra money should not be

The lessons learned from taking responsibility for his own spending decisions can encourage early development of good money habits. By experimenting and making mistakes, he may learn these lessons faster. Freedom to choose the way to spend his money can give a child a sense of responsibility and pride.

As a parent, help your child to understand the use of money but avoid telling him how to spend it. When needed, give guidance and help him to realize mistakes. Avoid using money as a form of punishment and avoid giving extra money as a reward. Home chores should be considered part of a child's family responsibilities, instead of as jobs for which a child is paid, suggests Ms. Wilson

Parents provide the most direct models for their children's money habits, whether their examples are good or bad. So in preparing to teach your child the wise use of money, be aware of your own values and money management practices.
