Where there's smoke -----

There was more smoke than fire, but area fire companies responded promptly and en masse. Equipment from four area fire companies, Felton, Frederica, Harrington and Hous- ton rushed to Lake Forest High School yesterday when fire broke out in two of the three heaters for the new auditorium. There was no injury, little damage, but a lot of smoke. The actual fires were confined to the two heaters, and they were quickly put out.

According to Assistant Principal Richard Moretti, the fires started when the heaters were turned on for a check on their function. They were turned off immediately, and the actual fires were out almost before the first truck arrived. Area fire companies were instrumental in getting fans to rid the auditorium of smoke.

Assistant Superintendent Melvin Luff reported later in the evening that he expected little damage from the smoke and soot that resulted. Some damage was done to the heaters, but they are the responsibility of the supplying contractor.

The incident occurred around three p.m. or a little later and no students were in the building.

Rezoning recommended

If the Harrington City Council follows through on a recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission, the former Millard Cooper Funeral Home on Center Street will become a nursing home. The property has been sold under contract to Mark Yoder of Greenwood conditional upon the rezoning of the property from C3 (a light commercial zoning which could allow the operation of a service station) to R1 (a single family residential zoning which will also accommodate the providing of medical care to patients).

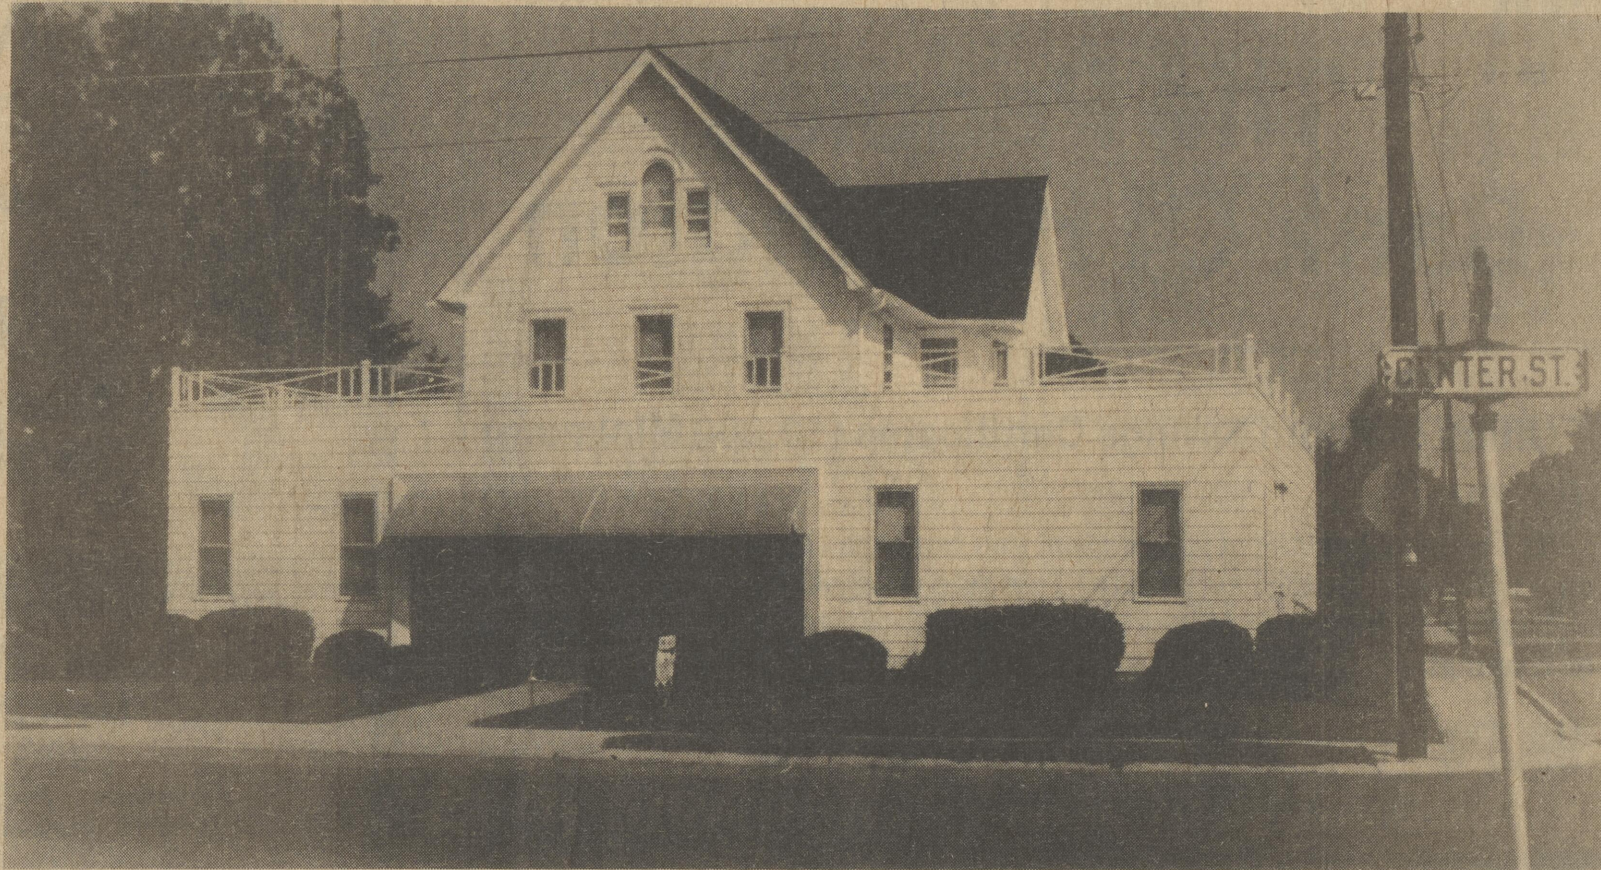

It will not be the first time someone has sought to operate a nursing home at the Center Street location. Mildred Messick, who purchased the property from Betty Cooper in 1974 or 1975 had hoped to convert the building to a nursing home and to locate most of her residents there. Mrs. Cooper was then operating a nursing home on Reese Avenue. Stringent state fire regulations confounded her plans, and she subsequently sold the property to William Y. and Grace E. Musser of Wilmington. The Mussers opened a card, gift and candle shop which later closed.

If the rezoning is approved, the nursing home will not be a first for Mark Yoder who already operates such a facility in the Greenwood area.

The report of the Planning and Zoning Commission was to have been presented to the City Council at last night's meeting, but that meeting was cancelled. No action on the matter can be taken until after a public hearing is scheduled and held.

No official action was announced by the Planning and Zoning Commission on Dudley Willis' request for the rezoning of some of his Harrington property.

If rezoning efforts are successful, a nursing home may be located in this building on Center Street in Harrington. Local residents knew it for many years as the location of the Millard Cooper Funeral Home. In subsequent years it has been owned by Mildred Messick who tried to open a nursing home and by the William Mussers who did open a card, candle, and gift shop

Frederica sets Heritage Day

Frederica will be having a Heritage Day Celebration on Saturday Sept. 22nd 1979. Activities will begin at 11:00 a.m. at the Town Hall with Dr. John Gardner, a local historian, giving the opening address. A luncheon is to be held following the keynote speech at Trinity Church. Local artists will also display their crafts. There will be choral presentations at Trinity and Hubert A.M.E.

Churches. Other activities include a walking tour of the Town and bus tour to Barrett's Chapel and the Shrine Club, where a mural by the noted area artist Bell B. Walters is displayed. Children's games are also part of the scheduled events.

This program is sponsored by Kent County Parks and Recreation, and partly funded by a grant from The Delaware Humanities Forum.

Court overturns residence requirement

The Chancery Court of Delaware has ruled unconstitutional the practice of requiring a candidate for town government to be a resident of that town.

The ruling affects quite a few small towns in Delaware. Specifically, it affects K. Ross Wellwood and his bid to run for town council in Frederica. Six months ago, Wellwood was denied a chance to run and he initiated a suit to challenge the law. Frederica refused his candidacy on the basis of Wellwood's non ownership of town property. He will now run.

The Chancery Court judge, Maurice Hartnett, cited, as the basis of his decision, a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court. The Supreme Court struck down a Georgia statute banning the practice of allowing only property owners to participate in town government as an elected official.

Hartnett also ruled that an election in Frederica must be held no sooner than ten days following the closing date for election filing. Filing for the election is taking place now but will end by Monday.

The decision was opposed by town lawyer Nicholas Rodriguez. Rodriguez told the Chancery Court that Frederica is financed mostly by property taxes and property owners should be the only ones to hold elected office. But the judge felt otherwise.

Former mayor George Nashold, in an interview with the News-Journal Papers last week, expressed satisfaction with the decision. According to the Morning News, Nashold said he was better satisfied with the decision than he was with an opinion. He said that the fairest solution was to let the people of the town decide through the election process who was the most fit for town office.

Magnolia treasurer admits theft

Delaware's Attorney General, Richard S. Gebelein, announced that the Special Investigations Unit of the Department of Justice has concluded its investigation into the misappropriation of funds by the former Treasurer of the Town of Magnolia. The investigation was culminated today by the entry of pleas of guilt by Janet M. Kanoy on the charges of Felony Theft and Official Misconduct, a misdemeanor. The charges relate to the defalcation of funds by Mrs. Kanoy between 1974 and 1978.

The investigation was begun in July, 1978, after the newly elected Mayor and Town Council of Magnolia became concerned with the status of the town's financial records. Investigators reconstructed Magnolia's financial records for the four years in question by obtaining bank records and documents from vendors and creditors of the town.

Tax error brings jail sentence

Alton M. Collins of Harrington was sentenced to a jail term last week by U.S. District Court judge Edwin D. Steele for filing a false income tax form in 1973.

Collins pleaded guilty without admitting guilt and was sentenced to 30 days in jail along with a $3,000 fine. He will be allowed to finish harvesting his crops before reporting to prison.

According to the Collins lawyer, Gerald Kavanaugh, Collins did not know he was committing the federal crime when he filed his return in 1974. An IRS audit found that Collins had deposited more in the bank than he reported on his return, a discrepancy that Collins maintained he was unaware of. Judge Steele maintained that the error was intentional although the Collins family denied this.

The amount of unreported income was $23,000. Collins repaid the sum when he learned of the error.

Purdue promises to eliminate odor

Complaints about a stench originating in the septic system at Purdue reached the ears of Felton Town Council at its Monday night meeting. Citizens had been complaining about the highly unpleasant odor in the vicinity of Purdue's Felton plant.

However, the Council reported Purdue was planning to put in an additional sludge tank to help correct the problem. No one at Purdue could be reached for comment.

Early morning joy ride may be costly

The young man who took his car for a joy ride around the front lawn and the football practice field at Lake Forest High School at 3 a.m. on Sunday may find the trip a very costly one.

The Lake Forest School Board Monday night authorized Assistant Superintendent Melvin Luff to follow through on claims for property damage which resulted from the incident. A claim was filed yesterday in Magistrate Court in Harrington. The district will seek payment for damages as well as reimbursement for extra hours put in by the custodial staff in restoring the

School's open, enrollment's down

School openings in the Woodbridge District went well, but enrollment seems to be down. Both Superintendent Dr. William Griffin and Assistant Superintendent Dr. Robert Sutton reported smooth openings as the district opened its doors for the 1979-1980 school year.

But Dr. Griffin also told the Woodbridge School Board Monday night that the district's enrollment appears to be down. Griffin said out of a projected 98 units there appears at this point to be justification for only 96. A unit is the number of students the state says a district must have in order to hire one teacher. Currently at the high school level 20 students are necessary for one unit. That number is around 24 in elementary school. State funding for teachers' salaries is determined by the unit count which will not be final

No quorum - no Council

Harrington's City Council meeting was cancelled last night for lack of a quorum. Of the six members of the Council, only two were able to attend. Four members constitute a quorum. Work and other commitments were cited as reasons.

According to Mayor Cahall the regular September Meeting of the council has been tentatively rescheduled for Tuesday, September 25 at 7:30 p.m. However, this date still has to be confirmed.

Radio station plans changes

Officials of Milford radio station WTHD have announced the debut of a new programming format which became effective on September 4. The station now features an emphasis on a broad base of information and news which is carried from 7:00 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The format change stems from a natural interest among listeners and people to be better informed. Changing lifestyles and the importance of issues facing people today also necessitate closer surveillance.

Local station news and programming personalities Joe Scott, Linda Gray, Dennis Hazzard and Charlie Magill will carry the main thrust of WTHD's new format concept through coverage of local and regional news events.

The accent on local weather and sports will be increased. A focus on local community lifestyles through in-depth features and reports will also be maintained.

In addition to the local news coverage provided by Joe Scott and Linda Gray, WTHD will be incorporating more programming from Associated Press Radio, a national audio news service. WTHD has been a charter member of this service since its inception in 1974, but has restricted use of some network programs because of past programming practices. Now the station will feature most of the award-winning public affairs programming offered by this professional news gathering organization.

"Talk 93", a popular two-way talk show hosted by WTHD's Joe Scott, has been added to the station's program schedule from 9:30 to 10:00 a.m. This is in addition to the 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. version which has been heard on the station for the past several years.

Ellendale U.M. Church

As summer ebbs into autumn, nature is painting beautiful pictures everywhere, yet most of us take entire process of granted. However, on Sunday, Sept. 30, at 7:30 p.m. you are invited to attend a special "Celebration Service" at the Ellendale U.M. church.

Michaele Russell, and the pastor of the Felton U.M. church, Rev. Lawrence Berry, the Scripture will be taken from the book of Ecclesiastes, the creative, arts, poetry, and literature, will be used rather than the structured form liturgy, to enact the glory of God.

an ordinary life experience. "This particular service," she explains "will glorify God and His good creation and show our enjoyment of it. Theologically, the service will lift up God's majesty and splendor."

Need Foster Parents

Unless you become like children (Matthew 18:3) is a phrase signifying that childlike qualities are keys to the Kingdom. Parish Education Month 1979 is listening to the children of our congregation and learning childlike qualities from them.

According to Rev. Russell, a "celebration service" may be normal or informal. It's purpose is to intensify

We worship a God of order and authority, and as a new season begins, we invite you to share in the celebration and beauty of one of the many wonders found in His service. A time of fellowship will follow, as members of both churches will be providing refreshments.

For Your Information

Dear friends,

The average of all death benefits left to a widow today is only $12,000, including everything - Social Security, life insurance, veteran's benefits, etc. 50% of widows over 65 live on less than $2,000 a year. 25% of widows never receive all their husband's benefits because they don't even know what benefits are available to them.

Hockey team seeking .500 season

Hockey coach Pat Dyle has completed the job of evaluating her prospective players and deciding the starting team for the coming season, set to begin on September 17th with Indian River. She is loaded with senior talent and all indications are for a more successful campaign than the 2-6-4 season of last year.

Set to start in goal for Dyle is four year veteran Beth Hughes. "We are expecting a lot from Beth this year," Dyle said, "she's a veteran and knows what to do."

Another player expected by Dyle to contribute substantially is senior Gwen Scott. Scott will play on the forward line. "Gwen should be our high scorer," Dyle said. "She can handle the ball well and makes a good shot from just about anywhere. She has performed well in the past and I hope she continues to improve."

Beth Horleman and Shelly Barthelow will start in the defensive back positions. The fullbacks, or sweepers in hockey language, are charged with protecting the goal and quickness is the key here. "Shelly and Beth can get the job done," the coach commented. "Barthelow has lost weight this year and should be tough to get around."

Playing the link position, between the front line and the final defence spots, are Lisa Welch and Nanette DeLong. This position requires players to be able to play both offence and defence equally well. Both girls are seniors.

At wing will be Tammy Warren, also a senior.

Teresa Hubbard, a junior this year, will see duty on the front line with fellow junior Sheila White playing the other link position as well as halfback. Lori Clough and Shelly Chambers will start at the halfback spot.

Playing the defensive sweeper and halfback role will be Rhonda Whitt.

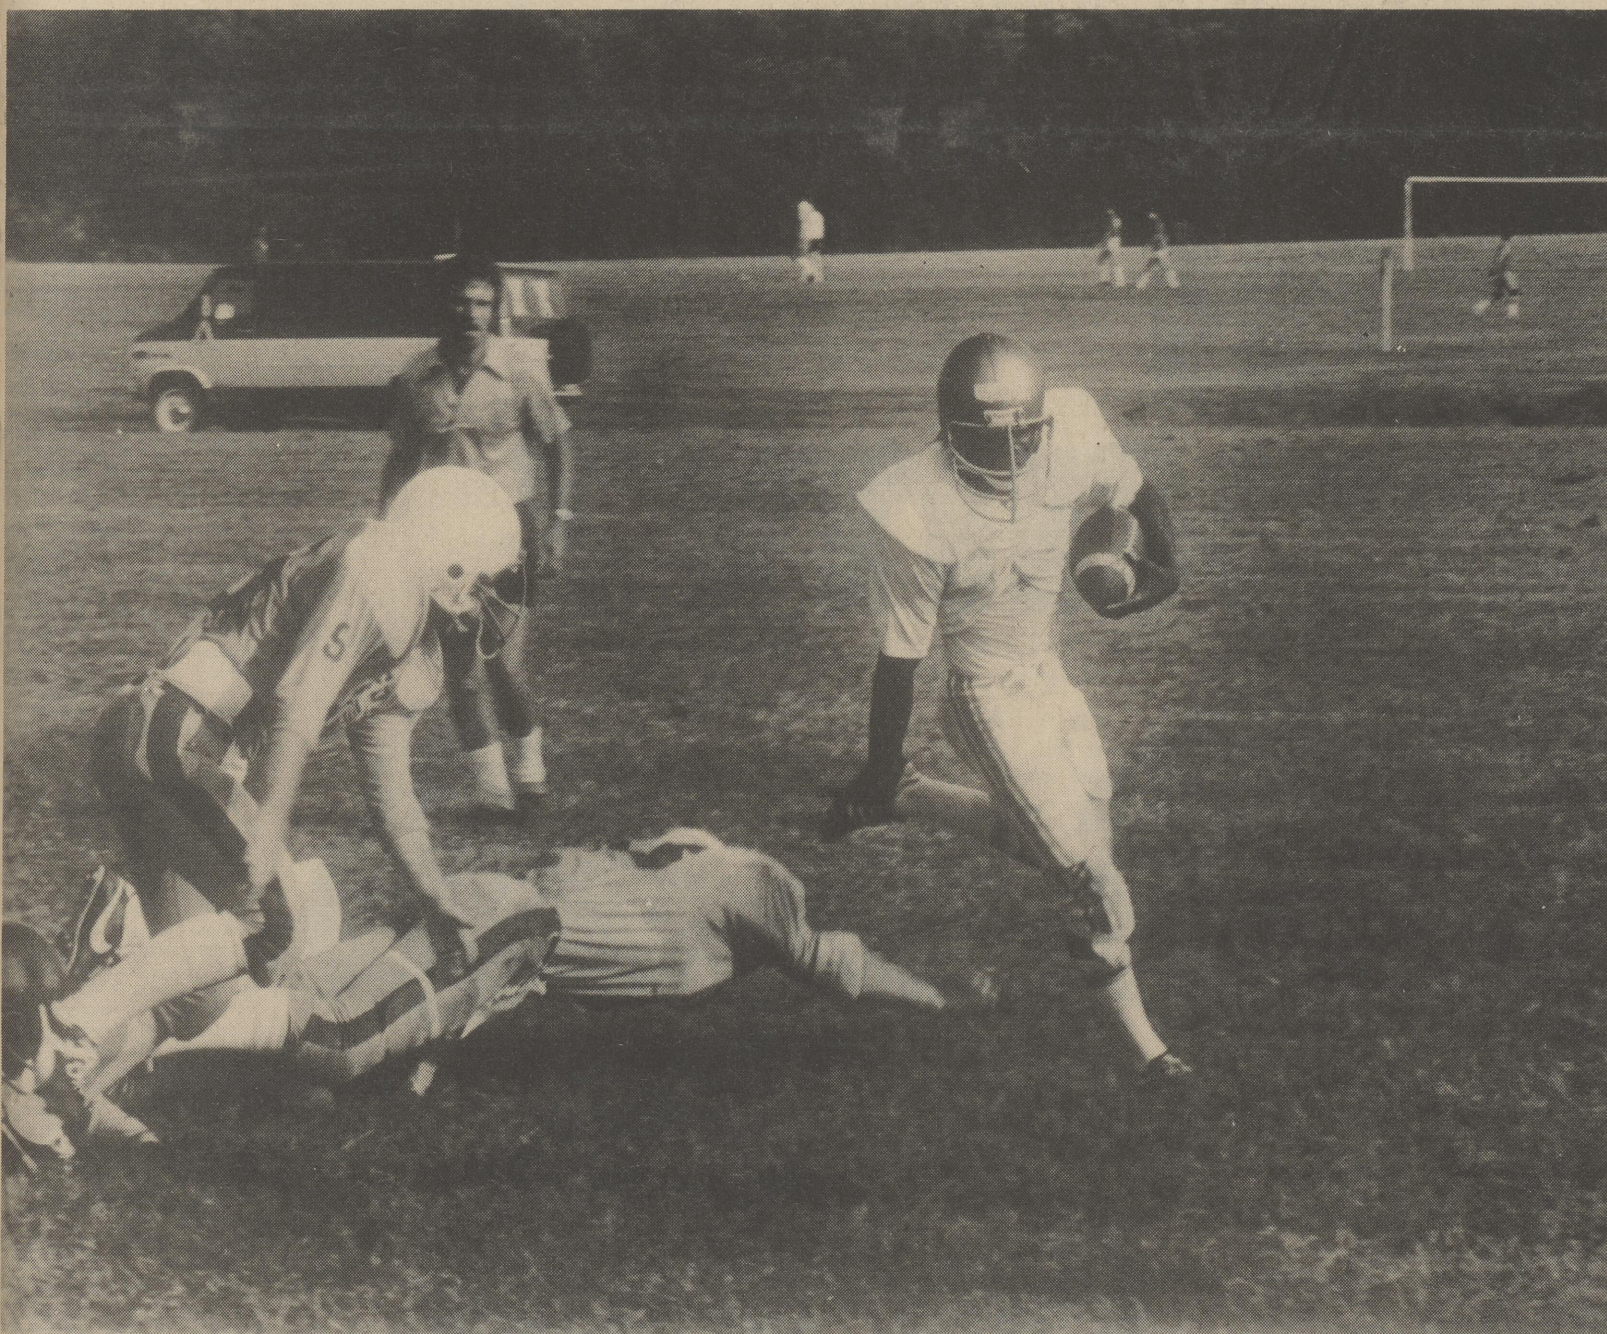

Sophomore sensation Stephanie Dopirik is the only 10th grader on Dyle's squad. She played JV last season and was the high scorer for the team. Coach Dyle has high hopes for Dopirik on the varsity, going so far as to say that Stephanie will join Gwen Scott on the high scorer list. She'll play on the offensive line.

"We seem to be further ahead now than we were at this time last year," coach Dyle said. "We've been working on the basics only so far and I have to like most of what I see. Our goal is a .500 year, mainly by turning all the tie games we played last year into wins."

"Hockey has become a very systematic game, making it more and more difficult to score goals. We used to see lots of scoring but now many contests are decided by a goal. The team with a weak defense will lose plenty of games."

Halfback Billy Scott turns the corner and heads for daylight against Seaford on Thursday

Fleming optimistic about coming year

The Spartan varsity football team finished their final tune-up before the official start of the '79 season scheduled for this Friday. Coach Fleming matched his squad against Woodbridge on Wednesday, then Seaford on Thursday and reports optimistically on the results.

Against the Raiders, Lake Forest cruised to an easy 4-0 victory in the pouring rain as the Spartans lived up to their speedy reputation. Quarterback Mark Smith started the contest by throwing four complete passes to firmly establish the aerial attack and pave the way for a devastating ground game. The offensive backs, led by sophomore Billy Scott, punished the young Woodbridge team for long, unmolested runs to turn the warm-up into a rout.

"They are a very young team," said coach Fleming, "and weren't the strongest competition for us. But Woodbridge will improve with the season and should be a more respectable match when we meet them in regular season play."

"We just had too much speed for them" he added. "Ernie Smith looked especially capable at running back, scoring two touchdowns with over 70 yards gained for us. We are deep in quality running backs which should keep us competitive."

"All in all, I was very happy with our play against Woodbridge. It was a good way to start," Fleming said.

Thursday's match with Seaford proved to be a stiffer test. The Blue Jays outscored Lake Forest by a 1-0 margin but Fleming still expressed enthusiasm for what he saw.

"We gained 205 total yards against them," he said, "while they got 180. We fumbled the ball in their territory which set up the only score."

"Seaford is always a competitive team, they were 3rd in the Northern Conference last year, but we more than held our own, Fleming added.

Probably the best indication of Lake Forest's strength was in the play of the offensive line. Against Seaford, long known as a blitzing team, the Spartans managed to contain them on practically every play.

"It was a bit of a surprise," Fleming said, "the line did a better job than I thought they could at this point in the season. Jimmy Fleming, Dee Rodgers, Mike Kosiorowski and Roy Boehmer are working together well and promise to show a lot."

Fleming's line strength may be at the expense of the backfield. The coach moved many of his last years linebackers to the line and now contends with inexperience at the back positions. The Spartans are counting on quickness in the backfield to pull them through and judging from the performance so far, it doesn't seem to be an idle hope.

One of the surprises so far has been Dale Benson at tight end. He caught three passes in the Seaford game and has what Fleming calls "excellent hands and good speed". He will probably be used with Aron Moore, a junior, with Moore in for those situations that require a strong blocker.

"The practice sessions and scrimmage games have gone well," Fleming summarized, "and we are going into the season with a lot of expectations. The boys have worked hard and I'm happy with what I've seen."

The '79 football season opens this Friday at 8 p.m. in Laurel.

soccer squad battles to 2-2 tie

The Lake Forest soccer team launched its sixth season last Thursday with a scrimmage against visiting Holy Cross. After missing a few good chances to break the game open, the Spartans settled for a 2-2 tie.

The contest began on a sour note for Lake Forest as the starting goalie, Walt Gygyryuk, was injured in warm-ups and was unable to assume his usual position. Coach Dave Buck was forced to move Vince Ware, a fullback, to the goalie spot where he played the 78 season which left an unplanned hole in the starting backfield.

Overall, Buck seemed content with his teams play. "They played a fairly good game," Buck said. "Our biggest problem throughout the afternoon was a definite lack of depth. Not having ready replacements for winded players hurt us somewhat."

The tie should have pleased the coach when Holy Cross's previous performance this year is taken into consideration. They tied C.R. in their first scrimmage this season 1-1, and C.R. was a state tournament team in 78. At no time was Lake Forest in danger of being blown out of the game and the 2-2 tie would suggest that the Spartans have contending potential.

"Our attitude is much better this year," Buck commented, "and we seem to have made progress in our basic skills. I was pleasantly surprised by some of the substitutes I put into the game and our JV's were a particularly good unit as a whole. From all indications, we should be a better team than last year." Last season, Lake Forest finished 5th in the conference and was shut out in 6 of their games.

Senior center halfback Terry Simmons put the Spartans on the scoreboard in the first half with a direct kick from 30 yards out. It was the only score for Lake Forest in the first half, but there were many other opportunities. "We made a lot of errors and didn't help ourselves in the first," said the coach. "We outplayed them but failed to capitalize on every chance we had." Holy Cross also scored in the first which left tied at the end of the half. The second half saw some sloppy play on both sides. Holy Cross put the ball in the goal first to go ahead by a point.

Bobby Collier, who missed the season last year, gave a fine performance for the Spartans and answered the goal to again tie the score. Collier will be a central figure in Buck's plans this year. The senior will play mostly on the front line and should make a strong contribution to the overall play of the team.

Neither team could score the winning point and a tie was the final outcome. The season begins officially for Lake Forest on September 18th at home against Sussex Central.

Coal Company?

Everyone knows that Delmarva Power sells gas and electricity... not coal.

So what's all the talk about Delmarva

Power and coal? That's easy... Delmarva was one of the first companies in the area to anticipate the need to return to coal as a basic fuel. Delmarva started its move back to coal more than five years ago, within strict environmental standards. So customers have already begun to benefit from lower priced coal as a fuel rather than expensive imported oil. By 1981 the use of oil will have been cut by more than 50% since 1974. It's interesting that the President didn't start his push for coal until four years later, in 1978. Many others are only now beginning to talk about the value of coal... a full five years after Delmarva Power started taking positive action. We're not telling you these facts because we expect praise, or a pat on the back. We just thought that you, as an electric customer, should know the steps we've been taking... and how long we've been taking them... to help control your energy costs and fuel availability.

At Delmarva Power, we're working hard every day to protect your supply of energy.

Moving On: New Problems and Pleasures

American families are characteristically on the move. Being uprooted every year or two is becoming the norm for vast numbers of families. Whereas once families lived a generation, or longer, in the same town, same neighborhood, often the very same house, now many of us move frequently, and find ourselves far from close relatives and old friends.

For adults, frequent uprooting is painful; for children it can mean anguish. Losing the continuity and stability of going to the same school with the same kids one grew up with poses potentially serious problems for children. "What will I do without Mary?" sobs Annie. "Gee, Mom, I just made the team," Bob complains. "I can't leave now."

What can parents do to make it easier for their youngsters to adapt to this kind of change?

Since school is the child's all-day, every day world, try not to move in the middle of the school year. If such a move is unavoidable, meet with the principal and teachers at the new school before your child's registration and find out if the curriculum is close to the one your youngster had at his or her old school; if it isn't, see what coaching may be available. Try, too, if possible, to have your child visit the school before he or she enters.

If the move is to be to a far place, discuss it well in advance with your children. If possible, have them visit the city with you, and involve them in your neighborhood and house-hunting expeditions. At the least, make friendly and informative progress reports to them. If possible promise and keep your promise that visits with their dearest friends can take place during school vacations.

If your children have special interests, special talents—say, gymnastics, music, dance, or special problems such as handicapping conditions, find out in advance what facilities and services the new community offers, and how to get your children involved from the beginning. Share your own feelings with your children, too; tell them why the move is occurring, and, without denying any sadness or anxiety you may feel, try to emphasize the pluses.

Teenagers often seem to find moving especially difficult; at least they make their distress openly evident by "acting out" their anxieties and anger more freely than younger children. Be patient though not mollifying with a teenager's anger and sultriness. You might permit a limited number of long distance calls each week at weekend rates to special friends, and again, the possibility of holiday visits with old friends.

After you've moved to your new home, new neighborhood, new community, make a special effort to welcome visits from neighborhood children. And remember that not seeming different is especially important to children in a new community. If all the kids, for example, wear a certain kind of sneakers, get them if possible for your children. If the neighborhood kids go to school in T-shirts and jeans, girls as well as boys, don't insist on more formal garb for your children. You can also help a child's transition to a new school and classmates by joining the local parent-teacher group and getting involved in community work. Such activities, which promote family participation in local affairs, will go a long way to helping your children—and you, too—feel fully at home in your new home.

A fun time was had by everyone at the Moffett's Labor Day barbecue and pool party. Ed and Doris Moffett, daughter stacy and son, Mike played host to the Homewood's and the Reiden's at their home on Sunday, September 2, the kids had an especially fine day, if they weren't swimming they were eating and that is two of my children's favorite things. Bill was the chief of the day and us gals didn't complain, his own private recipe for chicken was excellent and we didn't have to lift a finger to help.

The kids busy in the pool and the men taking care of the food meant a very relaxing day for the women and was greatly appreciated and enjoyed.

School days, school days, good old fashioned rule days I for one am glad to see them get here. Don't get me wrong, I think children are the world's greatest thing going in the world today, but I can only be entertaining, amusing light-hearted and cheerful so many hours of a day. After three months with six children, 24 hours a day, I start to get spastic. Six kids means there are six different meal times at least for breakfast and lunch. Thank goodness, at dinner time Dad is home to put his foot down, by the time of the day my foot is sore from being put down do often.

My son, John left yesterday morning for the University. His car was loaded with the necessities, a television, stereo, a window-fan, a popcornpopper, three calculators, two suitcases and thirty dollars worth of snacks. He gets three meals a day at the University, but he was worried about his snacks lasting until Friday. His father and I have decided that his six foot two inch body is completely empty. He was gone from home for a total of ten hours before he called, in case we were worried about him. Of course, he called collect. That's the first thing they teach them in their freshman year at the university, John is now a sophomore and he has got calling home collect down pat. I'm beginning to wonder if the colleges are getting a kick back from the telephone company or if they are slipping a little commission to the students.

Ah, the first day of school and that second cup of coffee sure looked good, but I didn't get to it quick enough. The car, Venus, decided the house was too quiet, so she proceeded to terrorize the dog. It's painful to see a 60 pound dog quivering while its trying to hide underneath the sofa, with a five pound car growing and snacking after it. Well, the first thing I did was smack the car, and then had on the living room floor to convince the dog it was safe to come out, it didn't work, the car decided that I must want to play, since I was laying on the floor, so he gave me a couple of smacks for good measure. I got even though, I locked her-

SEWING TIPS—The Shell. A tailored or casual shell to be worn with your skirts, pants and suits may be made from a knit fabric. You may choose a conventional pattern or one of the special knit series. The shell can be sleeveless or have a sleeve

Use a pattern with a dart if you are working with a double knit fabric and want a more tailored look. The zipper opening in the back does not require a center back seam if the pattern you are using has a center back seam you can fold it out of the way and then place the pattern piece on a fabric fold. The zipper used is to exposed type used in many ready-to-wear garments.

Shell patterns with a bust dart should be checked to be sure the dart location is in the proper location for your figure. Usually some alteration is necessary and this information will apply to your dress patterns also. It is easy to do and will improve the fit of your garment.

Darts should be directed toward the high point of your bust and stop 1 inch short of it. The angle and the length of the dart should be adjusted to fit your bust line. The following steps will help.

1. Determine the "drops" of your bust by measuring from the middle of your shoulder seam to the high point of your bust. Place a dot on your

The American diet is slowly changing...

The average American's diet has changed over the past ten years, says Delaware extension home economist Sue Schaefer. Although we're still eating the same amount of food -- 1,440 pounds per person per year, we've changed in terms of the types of food we seem to prefer.

Each American continues to eat about 640 pounds of food from animals each year. However, we're eating more beef than we used to -- 89 pounds per person now, as compared to 81 pounds a decade ago. USDA economist Allen Johnson says this trend is the result of our generally affluent lifestyles and the ability of our cattle industry to produce increasing quantities of beef.

We're eating less pork than we did ten years ago, from 61 pounds to 57 pounds per person, even though pork is leaner today. Lamb, never a big item in the American diet, is even smaller today. We ate an average of three pounds of lamb per person ten years ago, but we're eating less than one-and-a-half pounds per person today.

Poultry has become more popular. Our consumption of chicken and turkey increased from about 45 to 57 pounds per person in the last ten years. Johnson attributes the increase to new poultry production technologies which have kept the cost low, and to the growing desire among some Americans to limit fat in the diet.

Yet another factor is the expansion of fast food restaurants. Fish consumption has also increased, by about 17 percent over the last decade. Egg consumption dropped 13 percent in the last ten years, undoubtedly increased pork and poultry production. Total red meat and poultry consumption should be slightly above last year's.

Our consumption of dairy products may show a slight increase. Once again, increases in cheese consumption are expected to offset anticipated reductions in use of fluid milk and cream.

Out total fruit consumption this year is expected to decrease slightly due to declines in citrus and dried fruits. We're expected to eat more vegetables, though.

Cereal consumption is expected to continue at its present level, since this year's food grain crops were substantial. Sugar consumption may show a slight decline, while coffee consumption continues at the reduced 1978 level.

'Housemaids knee' is a common problem

Sometimes it's "housemaid's knee." Or "polliceman's heel." By another name it's still bursitis. It is one of mankind's more painful and disabling ailments.

Bursitis says the American Medical Association, means inflammation of a lubricating sac about a joint. The sac, called a bursa, is similar to a collapsed balloon with some fluid inside. It is located at various places in the body where joints or tissues touch and rub. Without cushioning there would be friction.

Bursitis can hit many points in the body, but most often occurs in the shoulder, elbow or knee.

We see many of our misguided young people of today embracing all kinds of live-together arrangements in the name of modern sophistication. Molasses adds flavor to Apple - Walnut Cake

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.

For a delicious treat on winter days, Apple-Walnut Upside Down Cake is an ideal choice.

Made with Brer Rabbit molasses, the cake can be served as a dinner time dessert during mid-morning or afternoon coffee breaks, as a late night snack, or any time it suits your fancy. Apples and walnuts give the cake a "something different," flavorful taste. Here is the recipe:

APPLE-WALNUT UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 3 medium cooking apples
- 9 maraschino cherries
- 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Place the apple rings on top of brown sugar. Put a cherry in the center of each.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg, beat well. Sift together flour, baking soda, cinnamon, ginger, cloves and salt. Combine molasses and water; add alternately with dry ingredients to creamed mixture. Fold in prepared chopped apple and black walnuts. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 50 minutes or until done. Let stand five minutes on cake rack. Invert over serving plate; remove pan. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

APPLE-WALNUT UPSIDE DOWN CAKE made with Brer Rabbit molasses is an ideal dessert, a great accompaniment with coffee during morning or afternoon breaks, or an excellent late night treat.

Its time to start a perennial garden

Perennial gardens are taking new forms in modern landscapes. And fall is the perfect time to start one, if you're looking for a colorful addition to your yard, says University of Delaware extension horticulturist Dr. Charles Dunham.

The traditional perennial border used to be a long narrow bed placed down one side of a yard against a fence or hedge. But today it's more likely to be a free-form island of any size or shape, located wherever a spot of color is needed. It may even be planted on a specially created mound, to make it more interesting.

The first step in designing your perennial planting is to decide its shape and where to put it. The dimensions of your overall yard will of course affect this decision. You may wish to locate the plot near a patio, porch or picture window, where it can be most easily enjoyed.

The amount of time and effort you'll be able to devote to caring for the plot will have a lot to do with its size. It's a good idea to start small. Then let it grow as your ideas (and interest) develop.

Soil preparation is very important for perennial flowers, stresses Dunham. These plants need a soil with good physical structure and good drainage. Most northern Delaware soils will be improved by the addition of both sand and peat moss. Where drainage is a problem, use a mound. The best way to determine your lime and fertilizer needs is to have the soil tested. But in the absence of a soil test, add 3 pounds of 5-10-5 and 3 to 5 pounds of lime for each 100 square feet.

In planting perennials, Dunham says to make a good-sized hole to accommodate the root system of plants. But take care not to set them too deep. None of these plants likes to have its crown buried. Keep new plantings well watered during the fall and mulch them over this winter with evergreen branches or a combination of branches and straw. With this kind of protection they should come through the cold without heaving as the ground freezes and thaws. Most perennials have a limited period of bloom. So the key to having an attractive long-season garden is to choose those that have good foliage even after flowering, or the kind that when cut back will bloom again. Everyone will have their own list of favorites, but here are some that work well in modern landscapes.

Early bloomers include doronicum (a yellow daisy that has good foliage after it flowers), candytuft, dianthus or pinks, and armeria (thrift). Coral bells also combine excellent foliage with a long season of bloom. Also, for early color, interplant spring bulbs with your perennials. The foliage may have to be tidied up when bulbs finish blooming, but eventually it can be cut off, and the other plants will spread over it in time anyway.

For summer color, galathea, coreopsis and veronica all will keep blooming if dead flowers are cut off. Nepeta or catmint makes an attractive edging or ground cover. Aster Frikartii is a hybrid aster with a long period of summer bloom. While daylilies come in both dwarf and full size forms and have good foliage when not in flower.

Sedum spectabile is a showy succulent with lots of late summer flowers. The seed heads are also attractive in the fall.

For a variety of fall color use dwarf asters in small gardens, or as edging in larger areas. Chrysanthemums are another possibility—especially some of the cushion mums. But you definitely should start new cuttings or divisions of these each year in order to avoid disease problems, says Dunham.

There's no reason why you can't mix some annuals in with your perennials, adds the specialist. Snapdragons work especially well because they take up very little space and bloom right up to the start of cold weather. Other good annuals to add to your perennial bed are marigolds, vinca and calendula.

If the idea of starting a perennial bed in your yard appeals, get out the shovel and start preparing the soil now. The weather is more comfortable for working at this time of year, and it shouldn't take long to get your first perennials in the ground, in time for a good display next year.

The Bridgeville 4-H adopts a grandmother

It's not blood relationships that make a family; it's love and caring. In Bridgeville last fall, 15-year-old 4-H member Faith Iclivan "adopted" a former stranger, 84-year-old Elsie Butler, and truly made her a part of the family.

Faith, who is vice-president of the Bridgeville Live Wires 4-H Club and secretary of Sussex County Junior College, became involved in the adopt-a-grandparent project when she was a member of the Division of Aging in county, Michael Conery, suggested the idea at a 4-H planning committee meeting.

The next morning Faith's mother, Doris McIvaine called the Greenwood Social Center and was given Mrs. Butler's name.

When Faith contacted Mrs. Butler, the elderly woman said she felt her prayers had been answered. The entire McIvain household joined in raking leaves, removing trash, making household repairs, running errands, and bringing thoughtful gifts for their new Grandmother.

During the winter months they checked on her and picked up items she needed from the market. At Christmastime they brought a stock inr full of gifts and small tree, which they decorated together. Mrs. Butler said she couldn't remember a happier Christmas. Neither could the McIvains.

When Mrs. Butler's birthday came around in April, the McIvains were on hand to celebrate with ice cream and cake. For Mother's Day Kenneth McIvain repaired the flower box and the family got together to plant blooms for their adopted grandmother. Faith's father, a long time employee of the Diamond State Telephone Co. enjoys swapping stories with the good-natures elderly woman. She, too, had been a telephone company employee in younger days. As an operator she was paid three dollars per week...and she had to learn every telephone number in the community before they would give her her first paycheck.

This summer the McIvains kept up the mutually rewarding relationship by mowing Mrs. Butler's lawn and bringing her fresh produce from their garden.

Faith, who has been active in 4-H for seven years and has successfully participated in a host of projects ranging from dog car to horticulture. Says adopt-a-grandparent is the best 4-H project ever.
