Marshall dampens nursing home plans

According to the State Fire Marshall's office, the William Musser property on Center Street in Harrington does not meet minimum structural standards for the nursing home that Mark Yoder had hoped to build there. State Fire Marshall Benjamin Ray said Monday that state law forbids the use of a two story frame structure as a nursing home. Non combustible materials such as brick, steel, block and concrete are required.

Ray admitted there were two story frame buildings throughout Delaware currently being used as nursing homes. But all these, he contended, were in operation before 1973 when the new regulations came into effect and protected by a "grandfather clause".

The ruling came as somewhat of a shock to several Harringtonians who gathered at last Thursday's scheduled public hearing at City Hall to support rezoning the property so that Yoder could open the nursing home. They were told the hearing had been cancelled at Yoder's request following the Fire Marshall's ruling. According to Yoder, this effectively ends his plans to purchase the property and open the nursing home.

In a telephone conversation with the Journal Monday evening Mark Yoder said he had been advised he might apply for a waiver of the regulation. He intended to do just that and appealed to the Fire Board of Commission which consists of two members from each of Delaware's three counties. Yoder felt he got a favorable reception by the board, but said additional requirements, some of them cost prohibitive, were made.

Yoder reported that he had promised to install a sprinkler system and stated he would not put any guests on the building's second floor. He had pointed out that no guest would be located further than 50 feet from an exit, well within the state set maximum of 150 feet. There, apparently, were not enough.

Yoder said the Fire Marshall's office insisted upon the installation of such things as electric door closers which would automatically close doors in an alarm, and a smoke partition or fire wall. It was the latter, especially, that Yoder found both impractical and undesirable. He said it would cut the building in half and would just be too expensive to install. Its purpose, to provide an area of safe retreat and extend the time before evacuation becomes necessary, he sees as inconsistent with the need to get guests out of a frame structure immediately.

Yoder said he appreciated the warm welcome with which many Harrington residents greeted his proposal. He had been hopeful of its acceptance by those who would make

Naticoke nixes union bid, 106-57

The Local 876 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs' Warehousemen and Helpers lost their bid to unionize Naticoke Homes, Inc., a housing manufacturer located in Greenwood.

In an election held last Friday, the union could only muster 57 votes to the anti-union's total of 106 votes which effectively closes the controversial issue for one year. Under federal rules, unionization votes can only take place yearly and the union's backers claim they will try again next year.

Naticoke Homes president John Mervine has been in the eye of the unionization storm for quite some time. According to a few laid off workers, Mervine dismissed them because of their union activities, although Mervine denied these allegations. The laid off workers attempted to cast a vote in Friday's election but the Naticoke management challenged the ballots. Even if the votes were allowed, they would not be enough to swing the election to the union forces.

However, on Monday the Teamsters announced plans to force a bargaining session with Mervine. They also will attempt to hold another election based on allegations that the election was filled with "improprieties". Mervine has vowed to fight these new moves by the union.

Two arrested in robbery

Two Dover residents were arrested on Sunday night after a knife point robbery at Conaway's Arcy in Greenwood.

According to police reports, Gary Hart, 27, of Westview Terrace and Betty Lewis, 28, of Voshell Mill Road were charged with armed robbery and committed to the Sussex Correctional Center in lieu of $15,000 bail each.

The police claim that they spotted a car that fit the description given by the station's attendant on Route 13 south of Harrington. A knife and the exact sum of stolen money were found in the suspect's car. The amount of money taken from Conaway's was $835.60.

Jaycees will honor William Wheeler

William Wheeler

Harringtonians are expected to turn out in numbers on Saturday, November 10, when the Jaycees honor one of this community's favorite senior citizens - William Wheeler - with a testimonial dinner.

Set for the cafeteria at W.T. Chipman, the evening is planned to begin at 6 p.m. with a social hour. At 6:30 turkey and "all the trimmings" will be served by the Lake Forest Band Boosters. Following the meal there will be testimonials and tribute to the founder of Wheeler's Park who has endeared himself to several generations of children of all ages in Harrington and beyond.

Citizens of all ages are invited and encouraged to attend. Tickets for $7.50 are available from any Jaycee member, but they are expected to sell out fast. Watch The Harrington Journal for further details.

Area singers in "Music Man"

Six area people are appearing in the Dover-based Community Singers production of Meredith Willson's evergreen hit "The Music Man" to be shown November 14, 15, 16 and 17 at Dover's Central Middle School Auditorium.

Professor Harold Hill, the charming con-man, who attempts to swindle the townspeople of small-town River City, Iowa, in 1912 is played by Howard Seeback, a professional actor from Wilmington.

He loses his heart to "Marian the Librarian", played by Brenda Collison of Harrington who received perfect reviews after her faultless performance as Annie Oakley in "Annie Get Your Gun". Otto Dekom, an exceedingly tough critic said "She's the best amateur performer I've seen in Delaware". Julian Borris, professional director at Wilmington's Candlelight Theater, is the director.

Keith Burgess of Harrington and Jerry Hobbs of Felton, along with Larry Rose of Camden and Dan Coons of Dover, form the Barbershop Quartet, which sings five numbers

City starts budget scramble

The Harrington City Council is faced once again with a problem familiar to local law makers and citizens alike. The demands are bigger than the dollars. At least this much was in evidence last Thursday evening as the City Council held a public hearing on the 1980 budget.

Figures so far are only preliminary but it would appear that the Council has the problem of trying to stretch $368,000 in expected revenues to cover $389,000 in anticipated expenses. That leaves a $19,000 gap.

The expenses so far foreseen do not include anything not already planned. The City this year bought a new police car at about $6,200 and a back hoe for $11,500. They have been paid for, but the friends come out of the 1980 budget.

-Library Requests Funding-
Charlotte Gagne, President of the Harrington Public Library Advisory Committee presented the library's request for local funding beginning in July next year. On July 1, the library's "free aide" from the state will end and the community will be able to keep the building and the services only if some way can be found to pay for utilities, insure a continuing book circulation and pay one staff member to open and operate the library for 25 hours per week.

The library is currently seeking funds to operate just for the final quarter of 1980. Mrs. Gagne told the City Council the Advisory Council is also looking for other methods of raising funds and is actively promoting its Friends group as a supportive organization.

-Police Will Get Radios-

The City Council gave its official blessings for the use of some $2,200 the local police force expects to get in SALLE (State Aid to Local Law Enforcement) monies. These are funds that can be used in no other way other than for local police needs.

Police Chief Carl McIlroy told Council members he has plans to initiate a Block Watch program. The new equipment will allow officers on duty to be out of their cars and still be in radio contact.

Governor proclaims Oct. 27 "Reading Together Day"

Concerned parents who want to be more involved in their children's education will get an opportunity on Saturday, October 27, a day Governor DuPont has proclaimed "Reading Together Day". On that date Kent North Vo-Tech will play host to a reading conference scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Theme for the conference is "Reading Together Day: The Family In Education". Governor DuPont will be the keynote speaker.

Flyers inviting any and all interested parents of children from Pre-School to Grade 12 have been sent home with Delaware's school children. Billed as a workshop, the conference will actually offer a number of workshops keyed to a variety of interest and concerns. These include children's imagination: Story-telling, "Your Child and Homework:

Girl Scouts in Brownie Troop 684, Junior Troop 332 and Junior Troop 879 enjoyed a new encounter last week as they made the acquaintance of Glover, the talking bike, and learned about bike safety at the same time. Making the introductions was Sergeant Jopp of the Harrington Police. The bike is provided by Delaware 4-H Clubs for use by police in safety instruction.

A lifelong resident of the Greenwood area, Yoder has had past experience in managing a nursing home. At present he serves as minister at Laws Mennonite Church and farms with his son, Mark Yoder, Jr.

He is still interested in opening a nursing home and may decide to build, but probably closer to his Greenwood home.

The William Mussers have had little success in trying to sell their Center Street property. Originally it was the Millard Cooper Funeral Home. Subsequently it became the property of Mildred Messick who attempted to operate it as a nursing home. She was thwarted by state agencies, mainly the Fire Marshall's office. The Mussers purchased the property from Mrs. Messick, using it as their residence and operating a gift, card and candle shop there. Some time ago the Mussers had a buyer who wanted to convert the residence into a home for the educable or trainable mentally retarded. This plan was so vehemently opposed by neighbors that the City Council refused to rezone the property for the purpose. Now the neighbors are in favor of the project, but the state says, "No." So once again, the Mussers will be looking for a buyer.

This dwelling on Delaware Avenue seems unobtrusive. But Beware! On Halloween and on several nights preceding, it will be haunted. The Harrington Jaycees dare you to put down your money and step over the threshold. If you have the nerve, the dollars will all be in a good cause - the fight against muscular dystrophy. The dates are October 26, 27, 29, 30 and 31 from 7 - 10 p.m.

including the beautiful "Lida Rose" and "It's You", plus the rousing, boisterous "Sincere".

Lois Divil, a smash hit as the mother of Professor Higgins in "My Fair Lady" is a Farmington resident in the play. Frederica's Jerry LeMunyon and Harrington's Matt Burgess will be behind the scenes. Matt Burgess will be playing in the pit orchestra.

Mayor Shinn will be played by veteran Milford actor, Don Horowitz. His wife Eulalie is Cindy David, one of lower Delaware's finest sopranos. Marcellus Washburn, the reformed ex-con man will be ably done by Dovers Donald Dean, who can handle comedy or drama with equal facility.

Characterizations not to be overlooked are those done by Connie McGuire as Alma Hix, Benjie Benton as the lisping lad, Winthrop, age nine and Kim Kelly as Amaryllis, a winsome lass of eight. See ad in classified section for tickets.

Harringtonian makes a "bang" in Hollywood

Wayne Beauchamp

Wayne Beauchamp, a former resident of Harrington and a 1964 graduate of Harrington High School, is making his presence known and felt in the entertainment world. Beauchamp, now residing in Hollywood, California, does special effects for motion pictures, particularly those designed for TV.

The hurricane effects in a film called "Berzerk" and the demolition of a roller coaster in "The Death of Ocean View Park", both aired recently, are among Beauchamp's explosive contributions. He has also done special episodes for the TV series "Emergency".

Wayne Beauchamp is the son of Clarence Beauchamp and Marie (Messick) Potter, formerly of Harrington. His grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Messick, is a long time Harrington resident.

After graduating from high school here, Beauchamp attended the Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. Then after about six months at home, he made his way to California where he has been for the past ten years or so. Although he has not revisited Harrington, the family keeps in close touch.

His mother, Marie Potter, recently returned to Harrington for a seven day reunion after a six year absence.

In My Opinion

By Bruce Levy

If you read our front page this week you'll notice that Nanticoke Homes, on the basis of a plant-wide election, turned down a bid by the Teamsters Union to unionize the workers. Sitting in the hot seat was John Mervine, president of Nanticoke Homes.

Congratulations to Mr. Mervine, I can imagine what trials and troubles he has been through with the entire long episode with the Teamsters. This infamous union has the deserved reputation for playing rough and I have no doubt that they used all the persuasive powers they could muster to bend Mervine to their will.

Congratulations are also in order for those Nanticoke Homes employees who actually did the voting. The anti-union vote, in federally supervised proceedings, won by an overwhelming margin of 106-57 which indicates independent judgment winning out over threats, fear and empty promises.

The whole mess reminds me of an incident that took place in a company where I used to work before coming downstate. It's a sad example.

The business was started by my grandfather in 1913. Naturally it was small at first but through much effort, sacrifice and good help, the company began to grow and prosper. As it grew, and more and more employees were needed, the management became aware of the real need to keep long term workers who could be relied upon day after day. They were also aware of the divisive effects of unionization and their desire to keep the shop union free.

So what did they do? They did what most responsible business owners do, they went to great lengths to keep the employees happy. Everybody got paid above average wages with regular raises, everyone got an added bonus at Christmas time, people got no interest loans if they needed it, bail was put up sometimes, and so on.

Then, 50 years later, the union made a grand push. Ugliness followed and the plant became a union shop. Now it's a different story at the once close and prosperous company, the extra benefits are gone and workers only gain through confrontation. Management no longer even eats in the same room as the hourly workers, surly glances have taken the place of friendly greetings. And, you guessed it, productivity has dropped. A very typical story.

A job is not a right. A job is a privilege. Work is there because somebody took a huge risk and continues to take that risk everyday. If a worker is unhappy in his or her job, the option is there to simply leave and find something better. Forcing an owner to pay beyond what he can afford is a sure fire way of losing that job eventually.

I've got a great idea for those dissatisfied employees at Nanticoke: borrow some money, build a plant, go into business for yourselves and drive Mervine right out of the market. Until then, respect the man's right to operate his property the way he sees fit.

Conference to shape Library Services

Rebecca Scarborough of Frederica will be joining more than 1,000 delegates, alternates and official observers from across the Nation next month in Washington, D.C. to help shape a national information policy at the first White House Conference on Library and Information Services.

The Conference, to be held November 15-19 at the Washington Hilton Hotel, will recommend to the President policies and programs to deal with the future of libraries and information services through the 1980's and beyond. The Conference will be the first national forum to address the diverse library and information needs of people throughout the country in the light of the technological revolution that has brought the Nation into the Information Age.

Among the issues delegates will tackle will be:

- the right to privacy versus freedom of information;
- the importance of meeting people's information needs, as contrasted with other national priorities; and
- the future role of libraries and information services in the Information Age.

More than 100,000 Americans have been involved in the Conference, the culmination of years of grass-roots participation, including 57 pre-White House Conference held in the states and territories over the past 2-1/2 years. Two-thirds of the delegates are community representatives; the remainder are library and information services professionals.

Delegates will have a unique information resource at hand as they draw up their recommendations to President Carter -- a working Information Center to function as a prototype library of the future. The center, which is being designed by the Library of Congress, will combine online data bases with telecommunications and more traditional library reference sources. Another unique feature will be a Congressional hearing on the last day of the Conference, to be co-chaired by Sen. Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.) and Rep. William Ford (D-Mich.).

Under the umbrella theme, "Bringing Information to People," the Conference's five theme areas will concentrate on Library and Information Services for:

- Personal Needs;
- Life-Long Learning;
- Business and the Professions;
- Governing Society; and
- International Cooperation and Understanding.

Older Americans, Evans Seeks Views

In the next few months, Congress will turn its attention to legislation important to older Americans. I would like to know how you stand on these issues and urge you to contact me to express your views.

"Food Stamp Cash Out" is one provision of Welfare Reform amendments. Nearly 1.5 million Supplemental Security Income recipients are currently eligible for food stamps, but are not receiving them, presumably because of the difficulty of the application procedure. The plan would automatically add in the food stamp benefit for approximately 85 percent of these SSI beneficiaries. Welfare reform would also liberalize SSI eligibility with respect to institutionalized individuals and extend the period for emergency advance payments to three months.

Medicare amendments expand home health care under Medicare. Under the proposal, the prior hospitalization requirement, the 100 visit limit, and the $60 deductible would be eliminated. Coverage would be extended to dental services. In addition, reimbursement would be allowed for services in qualified community mental health centers.

Age Discrimination legislation would eliminate the mandatory retirement age for members of the Foreign Service, civil service employees and would amend the Age Discrimination in Employment Act to extend coverage to all persons above the age of 40. One amendment would outlaw mandatory retirement completely by changing the 1965 Civil Rights Act.

The Preretirement Act of 1979 as proposed, provides grants to develop pre-retirement education programs. The grants would be available to state and local education agencies, colleges, universities and businesses.

Evans Co-sponsors heating Program

Low income persons and senior citizens on fixed incomes would be eligible for help to pay their home heating bills this winter under legislation cosponsored this week by Congressman Tom Evans (R-De). "This bill increases the amount of money to fund the Energy Crisis Assistance Program, an ongoing program which met great demand in Delaware last winter," explained Evans.

"This winter's increased energy costs are forcing some families and older Americans to choose between eating regularly and heating their homes. Tragic stories were reported across the nation last winter when utility services were cut off because bills had been unpaid. There were incidents of people literally freezing to death because they had no heat. Some senior citizens went without the medicine or food they needed, just to pay their heating bills," continued Evans. "We cannot allow that to happen this winter." The Energy Crisis Assistance Program is administered by the Community Services Administration. Eligible persons receive funds to help them absorb the increased cost of heating their homes. Last year some 30,000 Delawareans were eligible for the assistance, but only 8,000 were helped.

"A number of legislative proposals have been offered to provide low income energy assistance," said Evans. "The measure I'm cosponsoring has one clear advantage over all others -- the Energy Crisis Assistance Program already exists and is operating in all 50 states."

"Heating costs have doubled for many Americans. We must make sure this program keeps pace with the size of this critical problem," added Evans. "There are already 3,000 applications in hand for this program in Delaware. Definitely there is a need for low income energy assistance and I think it important to make sure that urgent need is met soon."

Letters to the editor

When will people in the Lake Forest School District wake-up? Parents are actually having extra responsibility forced upon them.

As adults, we learn to accept many laws and regulations without questioning the reasons behind them. For example, mandatory education. I know how important education is and therefore agree my children must attend school.

I have no anxieties about my children attending or traveling to school. I know they are under the supervision of trained bus drivers and very responsible teachers. However, when I am told that my five year old child must walk down a road (rural route area) to a certain point to catch a school bus, something is very wrong.

Who has the right to tell any parent that their child must walk roads that are not as safe as the Lake Forest School Board, and the states unique Hazzard Committee seem to think they are? How many of their children walk these back roads? There are no set times, day or night, for murders, rapes, drug soliciting, speed violators, hunting accidents, child kidnappings, or any other various factors that seem to have been ignored.

I am not simply a hot-headed parent, upset over a distance requirement. If this area had sidewalks, school speed limits, crossing guards, or weather shelters, there would be no cause for argument. This is not the case.

Are there really that many parents who are willing to let their elementary children walk back roads? Can anyone guarantee it will never happen to my children?

Mrs. Linda Ellingsworth

Extra food Stamp benefits

Several regulations in the Food Stamp program could provide extra food stamp benefits to Delaware recipients.

Under recently enacted Federal law, households with elderly or disabled members can get extra food stamp benefits if the recipient has medical expenses over $35 a month, or if the household has high shelter costs. This applies to recipients who are 60 or older, or who receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) or Social Security Disability Payments.

All food stamp households are eligible to claim the standard utility allowance, which is now $87 a month in Delaware, even if their current utility bills are lower than that amount. This could provide additional benefits, and also eliminates the inconvenience of having to make many trips into the food stamp office to recalculate benefits based on fluctuating utility bills. Households whose actual utility costs exceed the standard allowance may claim their actual cost.

In addition, the State's Division of Social Services has announced that it plans to increase the standard utility allowance on January 1, 1980, based on anticipated increases in fuel and utility costs. More information on these regulations and other aspects of the Food Stamp program can be obtained by calling the food stamp hotline number 1-800-292-7924.

Quinten Hendricks broke through many would be tacklers on his way to a 45 yard score during the Woodbridge rout on Friday

50-0, Spartans win first

To many observers of the first six games, it would appear that Lake Forest lacked in as much offense as defense. They snapped out of their slump and scored 50 points against a limp Woodbridge team.

Don Sisson in his first game as head football coach was dealt a crushing blow. The former Chipman School teacher and an assistant coach under Spartan head coach Jim Fleming last year has had the Woodbridge team for about a week. Jack Hassman resigned the head coach's job at Woodbridge last week. Sisson stepped into a situation that does not appear to be a healthy one. Hassman cited personal reasons for leaving and also added that he was disappointed in not having a J.V. football program. Lake Forest has such a program but up until last Friday night had a nine game losing streak which dated back to the last four games of last year. The losses were to Dover Air, Delmar, Cape Henlopen and Milford.

One of the problems on offense for the Spartans is holding onto the ball. Again on Friday night, the Spartans fumbled the ball away several times in the first half. The Raiders from Woodbridge, however, lacked any offense or defense and could not take advantage of the situation. Mark Smith connected on a dozen passes for well over 200 yards and two TD's. One of the touchdowns was his favorite receiver Quentin Hendricks.

Woodbridge was unable to put together any kind of an offensive attack, but were kept out of deep trouble many times when their punter came through for long and high kicks. The bogged down attack on the part of Woodbridge made the Raiders cough up the football which is something the opponents in the first six games did not do. One of the weapons the opponents have used in the first six games is to keep the ball away from the Spartan offense. The Lake Forest Quarterback, Mark

Smith, is tied in the conference lead in number of TD passes at 6. His long aerials this season have been right on the mark. In earlier games this year, dropped passes thrown by Smith might have spelled the difference in the outcome of the game.

The Spartans play Dover Air away this Friday night. It will be Dover Air's homecoming. Last year Dover Air spoiled the Lake Forest homecoming by defeating the Spartans 34-12. Fresh from a win last week and wanting revenge from last year's disaster with Dover Air, the Spartans look to play a good game—come to win and spoil Dover Air's homecoming.

Spartans 6-0 in Cross Country

by Keith S. Burgess

Lake Forest's near-perfect 16-49 victory over Dover Air last week at Killen's Pond State Park brought the Spartans record to 6-0 as the only unbeaten cross-country team in the Henlopen Conference. Only one other team, Sussex Central, has as little as one defeat. The locals have winless Seaford, Woodbridge and tough Laurel left on the schedule.

If Lake Forest can get by two of these rivals, they will win the loop title since their 8-1 log could only be matched by Sussex Central and the Spartans beat the Knights on September 27th.

Chuck Tozer ran three miles in 16.05, setting a course record for that distance. Bill Mitchell was second in 16.33 followed by Doug Caskey, Jay Howerin and Maurice Coverdale. Tozer is a super athlete, but the finish of the other four runners within the close span of 32 seconds is the kind of depth that wins meets. George Barnett's sixth place finish was his best outing yet.

Freshman James Lofland, senior Dale Jarrell and junior Sam Lamphier also ran well and finished in

Top jaycee Spartans were: John Greene, Tom Silkworth, Chris Caskey, Ken Kline, Larry Guessford, Mike Grogan and Sherri Coburn.

Lafayette Bell and Danny Haines, a pair of tough seventh-grade battlers, are good bets to step into prominence as distance runners in both track and cross-country if they retain their interest in the running sports. Bell ran three miles in 20.41, a better than 7 minutes to the mile pace. Haines clocked 21.18, a performance equal to Bell's, when it is realized that Haines is at least a year younger than his W.T. Chipman School teammate.

Jeff Beene comes from a family of cross-country runners. His father, at least one uncle and two or three cousins ran cross-country here. Jeff shows promise of being the best of the lot as a harrier since he is doing such a fine job as a seventh grader.

John Caskey and Keith Chandler were the fourth and fifth Chipman harriers to finish.

Other seventh graders to do well over the three miles ground were: Becky Brown, Gary Price, Paul Meding and Bob Endres.

Harriers down Smyrna in race of unbeaten

by Keith S. Burgess

Jim Blades' Lake Forest cross-country Spartans are sitting in the catbird seat, after knocking off one of the last pretenders to the throne.

Smyrna's unbeaten Eagles fell 25-31 to the Spartans on Smyrna's home course at Blackbird State Forest. Lake Forest is 4-0 and has beaten four of the five strong teams in the Henlopen Conference. The fifth power Laurel will be met on November 1. However, Lake Forest may have the dual-meet title wrapped up by then.

Chuck Tozer, the Millville, NJ transfer student, ran with Smyrna's tough John McDonald for 2.3 miles then spurred away over the last two tenths of a mile. Tozer cut ten seconds off McDonald's course record, running 2.5 miles in a swift 12.58.

Junior star Jay Howerin was third in a very good 13.18. Bill Mitchell, Doug Caskey and Maurice Coverdale were sixth, seventh and eighth to hand Smyrna its first loss. Freshman James Lofland and junior Sam Lamphier completed the top seven Spartans. George Barnett, Dale Jarrell, Tom Silkworth, Ken Kline, Chris Caskey, Rob Manaraze, Mike Grogan and Sherri Coburn were other locals to run very well.

Woodbridge coach resigns

Coach Jack Hassman has resigned for personal reasons as Football Coach at Woodbridge High School, effective October 16, 1979.

Assistant Coach, Don Sisson, will act as interim Head Coach for the Raiders the remainder of the season.

KC Three takes Franklin Memorial

Excitement and speed was the name of the game this past Sunday at Harrington Raceway during the 2nd Annual Franklin Milby Memorial. K C Three provided both as he nosed out the win in a quick 2:00.2 over the pace-setting Texas Tea.

K C Three, a 4-year-old owned by James A. Marshall from Washington, D.C. and trained and driven by W (Windy) Donaway, left from the one hole and quickly settled in along the rail behind the front running Texas Tea. Texas Tea, winner of eight straight races earlier this Fall, turned in fractions of .28.2, .59, and 1:30.1 and looked like the wire-to-wire winner when just a few feet from the wire, K C Three made a valliant effort and squeezed in front for the photo-finish win. Mar lu Ace finished third.

Although not a record-setting performance, it was never-the-less the second fastest time ever recorded at Harrington. Last year's "Milby" went down as the fastest when the great pacing mare, Missouri Time shattered the previous mark by going the distance in a blinding 1:58 flat.

Other horses entered in the $7,500 purse event and their respective order of finish behind the top three included Tar Keel, Sonnet Chip, Happy J. Miss, and Best of Jenkins.

This was Harrington's premier event of the year and honored the memory of one of the Eastern Shore's more prominent harness personalities, Franklin Milby. This year's event produced the highest handle yet at Harrington this Fall when close to $200,000 passed through the windows.

The classy, and awesome, 1979 Chipman football team

After two games, no opponents have gained a first down. After two games, no opponent has gained so much as a yard on offense. The Pittsburg Steelers? No, we're talking about the Chipman Little Spartans under the expert direction of head coach Kevin Docherty.

It started with Selbyville on October 11th. Chipman bulldozed their way to a 26-0 victory. Then came the hapless Delmar Wildcats, last week Chipman crushed them 58-0.

Docherty, has taken only 14 returning players from last year and molded one of the finest junior high football teams in the state. Led by quarterbacks Stanton Brown, running QB, and Ralph Taylor, the passing expert, Chipman is an awesome bunch of boys. So far, seven different players have scored points. Maurice Parker is leading the scoring efforts so far with 30 points scored on 5 TD's. Then there is Raymond DeShields with 3 TD's, Andy LaSalle with 2 and Ralph Taylor, Jerome Scott and Earnest Elsey all with 1.

Says Docherty, "There is no more talent here than last year, it's basically a change in attitude. We have developed a winning one and I am predicting that we will not lose a game this season. Our contest with C.R. on November 15 will be a thriller but we'll win it."

During the six-month cruise, he and his shipmates participated in training exercises with other 6th Fleet units and ships and air units from France, Great Britain and the Netherlands. He was involved in the major NATO operations "Multiplex 79" and Dawn Patrol."

A 1976 graduate of Camden High School, Camden, DE, White joined the Navy in January 1976.

D.A.F.B.; Things Changing....

If there's one thing that never changes in this world, it's the fact that things keep changing.

For example, do the words Air Force Reserve bring to your mind a picture of idle men sitting in dilapidated buildings wasting their time flying old airplanes held together with baling wire because they were last used against the Red Baron in the First World War? Then you haven't heard about the changes in the folks who do business as "citizen airmen" at Dover Air Force Base.

Let's start with the one thing that hasn't changed over the years in the Reserve program. Reservists do still train one weekend a month and one additional two week period during a year. That, however, is where the similarity with the past ends and why the tag "weekend warrior" no longer fits.

The unit at Dover Air Force Base is called the 512th Military Airlift Wing (MAW) (Associate). The name tagged on the end, Associate, is where our story begins.

The 512th MAW does not own any airplanes. Not even the ragtag hand-me-downs the Reserve units used to get. The 512th MAW doesn't own any buildings. What it does own is 2,000 people and these people fly the world's largest and most modern cargo aircraft, that hugh giant that fills the skies over central Delaware, the C-5A Galaxy.

True, a reservist with the 512th MAW does still have an annual two week military commitment, but it's no longer confined to the heat of the summer or conducted in tents parked in a field where the most consistent activity was killing mosquitos and the only guaranteed end result seemed to be survival. Today's training under the Associate Program is done any-time during the year and its just as likely to take place in Germany or Spain as in Dover.

The reason for this amazing change goes back to the time, ten years when the first C-5's were being rolled off the assembly lines. Military planners realized that the U.S. would have a far greater capacity to move cargo by air than ever before but not manpower to take advantage of this capability. The Associate Program was the answer.

By training Reserve personnel on all C-5 operations from loading to maintenance to flying, a vast pool of experienced and skilled personnel has been created to meet the surge demands of cargo movement for military and civilian emergencies, while at the same time avoiding the waste of unneeded fulltime personnel. At Dover Air Force Base this is accomplished because the 512 MAW uses the same facilities and aircraft as the 436th Military Airlift Wing, the active duty Air Force Wing.

In order for the program to work and be responsive, reservists study side by side with active duty personnel at the required technical training schools because they have to meet the same demanding requirements for on-the-job training and continuing proficiency training. This means hands-on experience on some of the world's most advanced and sophisticated equipment.

The corn is shocked, the pumpkin is ready for the frost, and a pair of wild ducks is more than ready for a harvest feast. It's autumn in Delaware.

Hints to keep Warm Fashionably

The really cold weather will be here sooner than you think. But Delaware extension home economist Janet Goszyk says you'll be able to stay warm—even with the thermostat set to 68 degrees F. or lower—by wearing the fashionable layered look.

The secret is insulation. Insulate your body from the cold as you would insulate your home, Ms. Goszyk explains. The best insulator, for you or for your home, is air. By trapping the air between your clothing and your skin, you can form your own personal insulation system—free!

Keep warm by wearing clothes that will trap as much air as possible around your body; but this does not necessarily mean heavy clothes. Two thinner, less bulky sweaters, for instance, insulate better than one thick, bulky sweater. This is because the two sweaters not only trap air themselves but also trap a layer of air between them. Just as important, if you get too warm, you can always loosen or remove one until you are comfortable. Just be sure that your outer sweater is bigger than the inner one, to allow enough room for that air layer.

If clothes fit too tightly, there is no room for air to be trapped between the clothing and your skin. If the clothes are too loose, the air moves around and carries heat away from your body as you move. Therefore, select clothing that falls somewhere between the two extremes. And what is more fashionable than wearing clothing that fits just right?

Shirts or jumpers and blouses are good choices, as these lend themselves to layering. Choose a skirt made of a fabric that has some thickness and insulation, but don't choose one that's too full. You want to prevent excess air movement.

The new longer length in skirts is not only up-to-date in fashion, but also adds warmth to your legs. A blouse, jersey, or light sweater serves nicely for a top. Choose long sleeves to keep your arms warm. A turtleneck underneath a top keeps a warm air from leaving your body—and it's also very fashionable.

Next, add a sweater or vest to your ensemble. Quilted vests are very fashionable, and the added thickness—the trapped air in the bathing-means much more warmth. You could also choose a tunic top or a tabard to go over the costume. Many different lengths are in style. The longer ones cover more of your body, and provide much more warmth.

A jacket is always an appropriate choice, whether matching or coordinating, because it adds another layer for warmth. Or, consider the wide variety of shawls that are still in fashion.

The layered look is "in." Take advantage of it, and keep fashionably warm this winter.

Mrs. Lola O'Day of Felton, her sister Naomi Minner and husband Rawlins and brother-in-law, Frank Lewis all of Wilmington vacationed in West Virginia the week of October 15th to 19th.

October 13th weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Donoham, Sr. were their granddaughter, Carolyn Jean, Victoria and Stephanie Killen.

Hate to transfer markings from pattern to fabric? Use the easy clip method. Make a tiny clip in seam allowances to mark notches, most dots, ends of fold lines, center front and center back. Be sure not to cut too deeply into seam allowances, no more than 1/4 inch. Use pins or tailor's chalk to mark pocket placements.

To help you sew seams more easily, put a piece of masking tape on your sewing machine 5/8 inch from the needle if your machine isn't marked. Guide out edge of fabric along tape edge. Keep garment to your left. Sew over pins SLOWLY or remove them as you sew.

It's Time to Pamper The Plants.....

How quickly the days go by. When I awake in the morning, I immediately think what household chores I can do in a hurry to keep the house presentable and still have time and energy to work with my African Violets. I also have two poles with hanging plants that need grooming and water once in a while.

I suppose your newly potted African Violets are sitting on the proper windowsill or table and are sporting new buds or blooms. Perhaps they have had a warm bath as well and are really feeling perky. If your violets are growing at a window, be sure to give them a quarter turn each week so they will grow flat and show the beautiful blooms. At the same time you can pull off faded blooms and leaves that are too old or dry. They will look so much better if you do this. You can also look for "suckers" at this time.

No, suckers are not a bug or disease. They are little side growths that grow out from the stem and if you let them grow they will get big and it will look as if you have three or four plants in the same pot. This spoils the shape of the plant. Hold your violet up so you can see through it. If you can see little plantlike growths with four or more leaves, but no signs of buds you should pick them off with a sharp instrument of some sort—your fingernails, tweezers or something like a nutpick. Be sure you get all the sucker clean back to the main stem. Always do a good, clean job otherwise they will grow back again. If the suckers are very large, with five or six leaves you can carefully remove them and put them down into moist vermiculite. They will soon root and you will have a new plant started. Your original plant may have an empty spot there for a while, but the other leaves will soon cover it. I try to keep an eye out for suckers because I like my plants nice and flat.

There are some varieties of African Violets that put up several plants from the roots and each section will have a root system. These can be carefully separated with roots on each section and potted up as separate plants. They will look sort of gangly for a while but soon they will be nice blooming plants.

Since it is the beginning of the heating season your violets will need humidity, for that matter so will all your plants. Group your plants together and put a saucer of water in the middle. Keep the saucer filled with water as it evaporates. You can also set them on a tray of stones with water just below the bottom of the pots. Some of us have sinus trouble and have to run a humidifier. Violets seem to like that. Maybe they have sinuses too. All houseplants like humidity except the cactus.

Now we come to fertilizers and fertilizing. If your plants have just been repotted, they won't need to be fertilized for about two months. After that they begin to need some food.

First there is "Fish Emulsion." This smells terrible but the smell goes away in a day or two and gives your plant nitrogen to keep it green. Follow the directions on the bottle and mix just the amount you can use at one time. It has a terrible smell if you keep it until the next watering time—"Rotteen fish" Ugh. You can get fertilizers in the 5 & 10 store, your chain food stores or Garden Shop.

For blooms we have other fertilizers. There are many I use "Schultz Instant"—10-15-10, "Peters House-plant Special" 15-30-15 and Miracle Gro. Always be sure the middle

Mrs. Helen Workman called and said that some folk had gotten the wrong impression from the news of her recovery, from eye surgery. They thought she had had more difficulty. Such is not the case. She has had no pain and no complications in any way and praises her doctor for his skill.

Don't forget the Greenwood Volunteer Fire Company supper on October 26, starting at 1 p.m. The usual menu will be on hand for our enjoyment.

Six members of the Women's Bible Study group from Greenwood joined the Bible Study group in Lincoln on Wednesday morning. The group drew names to set up a prayer chain and pray for that particular person daily for a least one week.

Tips to save On Health Costs

The cost of treating a serious illness or accidental injury most often is unanticipated and always is unwanted. Often it is not included in the family financial plan, and often it presents an extra expense on top of an already tight budget.

Like all other living expenses, the price of medical treatment has risen in the last twenty years. But, says the American Medical Association, there are still a number of ways in which you can stretch your medical dollar and at the same time get better protection for yourself and your family.

*Have a family doctor. He will keep a record of your medical history, which may save duplicating many expensive and time-consuming tests.

*Don't wait too long. Many people try to save money on medical bills by not seeing the doctor until they are seriously ill. This not only defeats the purpose of preventive medicine, the only sound way to preserve your health, but is more expensive in the long run.

*Have regular checkups. Not necessarily every year, but at regular intervals as your doctor suggests.

*Go to the doctor's office. Few patients understand that house calls are not only more expensive but less efficient.

*Use the telephone. This not only saves money but also often makes good medical sense. A family doctor who has examined you regularly can sometimes advise over the phone about minor health problems.

*Follow your doctor's advice. If you refuse to follow the expert advice you solicit and pay for, you are throwing away your money.

*Have good health insurance. Buy as much as you can afford, but especially protect against the catastrophic expenses of serious illness.

*Take allowable tax deductions. Doctor bills, hospital bills and drug costs beyond a certain percentage of your income may be claimed as deductions for tax purposes.

Your helmet will help you head off trouble—if you keep it in top condition. In case of a really severe impact, the hard, outer shell should be partially destroyed. That's because it absorbs part of the shock before it gets to the inner lining—and your head! So don't reuse your helmet after any impact. The Motorcycle Safety Foundation points out that even an unintentional dropping of the helmet may partially weaken the shell.

Bob Outten, of Outten Brothers, was one of the guest speakers at last Monday's Wood Stove Safety Seminar at the Harrington Fire Company. The seminar was a great success as over 75 area people came to learn how to prevent potential disaster in their homes.

NEWS OF NUTRITION

FILL-IN ON FIBER

Despite much recent talk about food fiber, many people are none the wiser about what fiber really is and does to help prevent heart disease and cancer of the colon.

By increasing the transit speed of food residues through the gastrointestinal tract and serving as an alternative to fat and protein in the diet, fiber can help protect you against these diseases, Cornell University nutrition expert Dr. Peter J. Van Soest reports. But, he says, the U.S. government-approved method for analyzing the fiber content of certain foods is misleading.

FIBROUS FOODS are an essential part of a well-balanced and healthful diet.

COOK'N CORNER

Rice and chicken combine beautifully in many delicious and economical ways. Versatile rice can form the basis for most any meal, but its mild taste makes it a particularly appropriate accompaniment for subtle-tasting chicken—and at only about three cents per half-cup serving, a very inexpensive one, too.

Not only is it low in cost, it has many positive features as well. Consider these facts:

- It contains all eight essential amino acids in proper proportion to allow the body to effectively use the protein in rice.
- Calcium and iron in rice help meet your body's need for these essential minerals.
- Rice contains only a trace of fat, is low in cholesterol and sodium.
- Rice can be digested in only an hour while other foods require up to four.
- Try rice with this medley of vegetables for a delicious one-dish meal:

- ### GLAZED CHICKEN AND VEGETABLES WITH RICE
- 2-1/2 to 3 pounds choice chicken pieces
 - Salt and pepper
 - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 1 large onion, cut in 8 wedges
 - 2 ribs of celery, cut in 1-inch pieces
 - 3 carrots, cut in 2-inch pieces
 - 1/2 large green pepper, cut in 1-inch squares
 - 1 can (14-1/2 to 16 ounces) tomatoes (about 2 cups)
 - 1 clove garlic, crushed
 - 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - Dash of cayenne pepper
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 1-1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 3 cups hot cooked rice

Season chicken with salt and pepper. Brown on all sides with butter. Add onion, celery, carrots, green pepper, tomatoes and seasonings. Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer for 30 to 40 minutes or until chicken is tender. Blend a little water into the cornstarch. Stir into chicken-vegetable mixture. Cook about 2 minutes longer. Remove bay leaf. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings.
