

Dangerous crossing? Five respond

By Barbara Brown

It's 4:30 on Friday afternoon and Jennifer Doeperson is leaving Harrington via Delaware Avenue - or trying to. She's been sitting at the intersection of U.S. 13 near Bank's Convenience store for what seems like forever. But traffic continues to stream down U.S. 13. At intervals she's tempted to cross, but she'd rather be safe than sorry. Behind, on Delaware Avenue, six honking drivers are urging her to move on. Finally an impatient Buick pulls around to her right and shoots across to the median strip headed for the Jackson's Ditch Road. It

Harrington man found dead in his jail cell

A Harrington man being charged with attempted murder and assaulting a police officer was being detained overnight in a holding cell at Delaware State Police Troop 5 at Bridgeville. Monday morning the man was found to have hung himself while lying in his bunk.

It began at 2:30 Sunday afternoon when Verne Young, 36, of 129 C Milby Street, Harrington, called Harrington Police to report that she and her boyfriend, Robert Burns, Jr., 35, of the same address, had been fighting. She wanted to sign a warrant for his arrest, but he had her car keys and would not let her leave.

Patrolman Benjamin F. Twilley, Jr., of Harrington Police Department, responded and met the couple outside the residence. When advised of the problem, Ptlm. Twilley suggested they go inside and get the keys. When they got to the doorway, Burns pushed Twilley backwards, forced the woman inside the house and locked the door. Twilley could hear the woman screaming, and kicked in the door to find her lying on the floor covered with blood. Ptlm. Twilley subdued Burns and got him handcuffed, then took him outside and laid him on the ground by the patrol car while he called for an ambulance. He then went back inside to see what he could do to help the woman. Harrington ambulance responded and transported Verne Young to Milford Memorial Hospital where she is now in fair condition with 8-10 stab wounds, one in an arm and the remainder in the body.

Ptlm. Twilley took Burns to Harrington Police Station for processing and to complete affidavits to charge Burns with attempted murder. Burns was then handcuffed with his hands in front and was put in the patrol car and secured with the seat belt and shoulder strap, and they started for Court 7 in Dover. A mile-and-a-half north of Harrington, Burns unbuckled his seat belt, lunged at the officer, grabbed his hair and pulled him down on the seat and beat him with the handcuffs. Twilley headed for the grassplot, and while he was getting the car stopped, Burns shredded the officer's portfolio of police reports and attempted unsuccessfully to get the shotgun out of its holder. When the car came to a stop, Twilley drug Burns across the seat and out the driver's door. A passing motorist, Mitchell E. Lapollo, 37, of Pine Hill, New Jersey, saw the scuffle. Realizing the officer was having trouble subduing the man again even though his hands were cuffed together, Lapollo helped the officer subdue him, and then held Burns to the ground while Twilley called for assistance.

Two more Harrington police cars and two Delaware State Police units working Operation Ease in the area responded. Once Burns was properly restrained, a trooper from Troop 5 transported him back to Troop 5. There detectives began an investigation into the assault on Ptlm. Twilley. After being processed by state police, Burns was placed in the cell while the detective went to Court 4 in Seaford and obtained warrants for criminal mischief

It was a real Thanksgiving feast last Wednesday at Lake Forest South Elementary School in Mrs. Ann Chambers' afternoon class. Here Helen Morgan, Mark Hurd, Mrs. Chambers and Ivan Chason lead the Thanksgiving prayer. The hats were made, along with the meal, by the students themselves. Parents were responsible for the colorful costumes. There is a class picture on page eight.

Police Department hires two

Alice Ault

Ron McQuade

There are two new faces in the Harrington Police Department this week.

Hired as the new office secretary is Alice Ault, the new police officer is Ron McQuade. Both Ault and McQuade are part of the CETA program which means their funding comes primarily from government sources.

Ault is a resident of Dover, although she has lived most of her life in the Pennsylvania community of Chester. But Alice is far from a stranger to Delaware. "I've been a part of Delaware all my life," she said. "My family has a residence by the beach and we used to spend from spring to fall there, it seems that once you get the Delaware bug it's always with you."

Alice learned her office skills at her family's lighting business in Chester. It was there that she became acquainted with not only her office duties, but the skill of working with people too. "I like to work with the public," she said, "and I think I can be an effective part of the Harrington Police Department."

Alice is an active member, in fact she is the Financial Chairman, of the Capital City Business and Professional Women's Organization in Dover. This club helps women in business.

Good news for tennis fanatics

For the would-be tennis fanatics among us, there's good news. The Lake Forest School Board Monday night awarded two contracts for the construction of eight tennis courts at the high school, and construction is already underway. The courts will be used by students, but they will also be available to the community. And if the weather holds, they could be ready by spring.

About half of the money for the project is coming from a grant through the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund to the State Division of Natural Resources and Environmental Control. The Lake Forest District applied for the funds through the State Department of Parks and Recreation. The other half is a local responsibility to be paid by funds left over from the L.P.W. project which financed the new athletic facilities.

$25,876 contract for removing the topsoil cutting, grading and filling the site. Tilcon Warren will do the blacktop surface for $31,000. Fencing, nets and possibly lighting, will come later.

Griffith, Mannering win election

Frederica voters Monday night selected Dan Griffith and Larry Mannering to fill two seats on the Town Council. One hundred twenty-five voters turned out to vote in the election which was held at the Frederica Fire Hall. Each voter had a choice of two from a slate of five candidates.

Dan Griffith, who is presently serving in the position vacated by former Mayor George Nashold, racked up 107 votes to Mannering's 65. The losing candidates were Edgar Russell, Virginia Simpler and Ross Wellwood.

Originally scheduled for March, the election was delayed when Wellwood challenged the town charter's property ownership requirement for candidates. Mannering and Griffith will serve until March 1981, completing the two year term which would have begun in March of 1979.

A Council reorganization meeting is set for this evening at 7 p.m. in the town hall.

City sale in high gear

As the dates for the first annual Harrington Days Christmas Sale approach, the city's merchants are busy getting their stores and inventory to accommodate the expected surge of area shoppers. The special sale is scheduled for December 6th, 7th and 8th.

According to the promotion's guiding force, Myra Braune, the show of enthusiasm and support by the merchants has been "tremendous."

Braune, who is the Advertising Director for the Harrington Journal, will work closely with the Harrington Chamber of Commerce to insure that the three day sale will attract shoppers who may be thinking of taking their business out of town. "We want to make it fun and convenient for our residents to find bargains in their own town," Myra said.

The following merchants have committed themselves to the December 6th, 7th and 8th sale: Taylor and Messick, Welch's Seed Service, Modern Gas, Taylor's Hardware, The Salvation Army, The Quillen Shopping Center Merchants, Nancy's Country Flowers, Southern States, Kirby and Holloway, Cook's Tires, Irabak's, Quillen's Market, Ann's Variety Store and Collins Plumbing and Heating.

The above list is far from complete, there are others too numerous to mention. For information or to participate, call Myra at the Journal office. Be sure to watch the December 5th issue of the Harrington Journal for detailed information on the items to go on sale.

Harrington man found dead contd.....

and second-degree assault. The intent was to detain Burns on those warrants until Harrington police could sign warrants at Court 6 this morning for possession of a deadly weapon during the commission of a felony, that being a 6 1/2" kitchen knife, assault with intent to commit murder, and second-degree assault.

Robert Burns was placed in the cell at 7:00 p.m. He was still up and about at 12:15 a.m. when he asked a trooper for a cigarette. During the course of the night, the midnight shift commander checked the cell eight times between 12:30 a.m. and 0645 a.m. From about 2 o'clock on, he was seen lying on his stomach on the bottom of two bunks, and was assumed to be asleep. The suicide was not discovered until 8:30 a.m. It was then learned that Burns had torn a thin strip of material from his blanket and tied it to the top bunk, and a roll of toilet paper was placed on the top bunk to conceal the knot. Burns then tied the material around his neck short enough that when he laid down, the strain was taken on his throat. Since the only light in the cell is over the top bunk, Burns was in a heavily shadowed area making it difficult to see that anything unusual had taken place.

Robert Burns was pronounced dead at the troop by Deputy Medical Examiner Dr. Judith Tobin at 9:10 a.m.

One critical, one dead after violent crash in Canterbury

The Delaware State Police jet helicopter, HQ 501, was called Friday afternoon to airlift an injured man to Milford Memorial Hospital from a crash scene a half-mile south of Canterbury. He remains in critical condition, but his brother died of his injuries three hours later.

David S. King, 40, of RD 1 Box 405, Frederica, was driving east on Cty. Rt. 371 at approximately 3:15 p.m. Friday at an apparent high rate of speed. The vehicle skidded out of control and slid counterclockwise for 260 feet before going off the north side of the roadway. The car struck the ditch bank and slid along the embankment for 50 feet before the front of the car dug into the bank. When this occurred, the car went airborne and flipped end-over-end twice as both David King and his brother James King, 52, of RD 3 Box 501, Felton, were ejected from the left side of the car. Thirty feet later, the car finally came to rest in the roadway on its wheels.

The state police helicopter landed at the scene and transported David King to Milford Memorial where he was admitted in critical condition with a fractured jaw and multiple lacerations. James King was transported by Camden-Wyoming ambulance and was admitted at approximately 4:00 p.m. with fractured ribs and shock lung trauma. He expired at 7:00 p.m. Another passenger who had been seated in the left rear, William H. Johnson, 39, of RD. 3, Felton, was transported to Milford Memorial in a private vehicle and was treated for multiple contusions and released.

In My Opinion

By Bruce Levy

It's Christmas time again, and if you don't believe it, just watch the commercials on TV. They're coming hot and heavy now as the holiday billions go up for grabs.

I like it, if the truth be known. Since early childhood I have watched with awe the skills of the high powered Madison Avenue ad agencies as they earned their keep. I see beauty in an effective advertising campaign.

But, I noticed a commercial the other night that amazed me, if they can sell this item I'll be surprised.

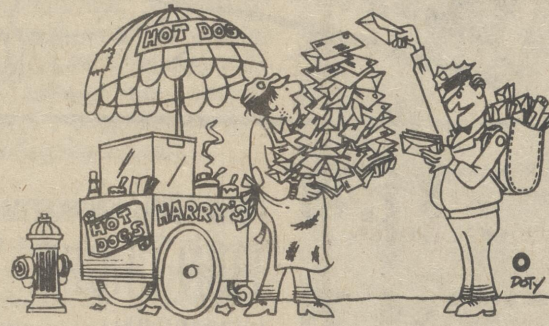

The commercial starts with a shot of a typical suburban housing project with three or four slightly overweight husbands out on the walk shoveling snow. One guy looks up at the camera and breaks his snow shovel over his knee. He says, "haven't you always wanted to do this?"

Then we see a new power shovel that will eliminate all the heartache of cleaning the walk. The camera zooms in for a close up view of this little power shovel gobbling up about 2 inches of powdered white stuff and blowing it into the ozone. From the looks of the shovel, two inches is about all it can effectively handle, more than that and the machine would be gasping for breath.

After it was over, my wife Ginny and I looked at each other. She said, "you know, there is not a man in America who wouldn't benefit from a few minutes of shoveling snow."

Amen.

Publishers Choice

By Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

"...the issue of hostages is the invasion of our property! A lot of people are speculating about what should or shouldn't be done with the crisis in Iran. From the beginning, I think drastic and positive action should have been taken. This would have been a sign to those elsewhere and in the future that we would not stand for this kind of action.

We should not be afraid of what the Russians might do or what other countries might think - otherwise we will never get anything accomplished. The basic premise should be that we understand these situations. Violations of this nature are first an invasion of American property and above all "this type of blackmail" violates all phases of international laws. We should know when we are wrong and if so lay off - but...when we are right...then look out. The Iranian students would not have dared...dared I say to attack the Russian Embassy, for they know what was waiting for them.

We place a high priority on the lives of our citizens, and certainly those who are held hostage. But...maybe "the principle of the thing" takes priority in order to halt an incident from getting completely out of control. Once during President Teddy Roosevelt's term an American diplomat was held hostage. Demands were made on the President. "They walk softly but carry a big stick man" wasted no time in letting the pirates know where he stood...as we should today. Roosevelt said return him immediately or be responsible for the grave consequences. And...if you don't we will come for him and get him dead or alive. They freed him immediately when the show of force was displayed.

The important issue before us NOW is not the welfare of the hostages as it might have been in the beginning, but prevention of further spreading of the incident. It must be brought to an immediate halt. Although I too would not want any harm to fall on them - but they assume the risk...and are also compensated for it. It is an unwritten rule. The commission of this criminal act by the Iranians may have given others of similar political views a license to do the same thing - since nothing has been heard of an immediate halting thereof. Maybe violence in the beginning would have kicked off World War III, but in action in the alternative may touch off the same thing. We cannot theorize about those issues - we must learn to act...or in the alternative be on the ready. Certainly we had enough warning that affairs were not normal in Iran for quite some time.

The matter of returning the Shah to Iran to stand trial is something we cannot do - or cannot allow a precedent of that nature to be established. He is here for medical treatment - and not asylum. I feel we would accord the Ayatollah Khomeini the same privilege if he were sick.

In addition to all that was done and said, I feel that the action taken by our country with the Iranian students here was justified. I feel an economic blockage of the Iranian port, which would prevent oil from being sold elsewhere would have broken the Iranian economy immediately. It's in the sway now.

Let's profit from these experiences - and be ready the next time. The good of this experience is that it seemingly has pulled America together again. Maybe it is time we got tough - and stop being the nice guy when the rest of the world is not playing with the same rule book as we are.

narrowly misses being hit broadside by a pick-up that has turned left from the crossover that leads from the Frederica Road. Jennifer finally gets to the crossover, and after making sure there is no oncoming traffic and no one coming from the right up northbound U.S. 13, heads across the highway, she angles slightly left to connect with the Frederica Road. Half-way across, she glances right and is appalled to see an aging Ford aimed at her midsection. The other car has pulled out from the service station a few feet to the south of the intersection. Jennifer hits the gas and makes it across - this time.

Is this intersection hazardous to your health? Harringtonians and area residents who navigate it regularly, sometimes in fear and trembling, say "Yes". The Division of Highways, statistically speaking, says, "No". However, statistics, according to Safety Engineer Charles H. Workman, do not always tell the whole story.

Accidents at the intersection - the conjunction of five roads: U.S. 13 North, U.S. 13 South, Harrington's Delaware Avenue, Road 430 (the Jackson's Ditch Road) and Road 35 (the Frederica Road) - on two successive weekends early in November have caused some local rumbling. Promoted by that rumbling, the Journal over the past few days talked to several concerned residents and to officials in the Division of Highways of the State Department of Transportation. Five area citizens spoke out. All of them are concerned about safety at the intersection. They consider it dangerous.

Bob McCullough, owner of the Arco station just south of the intersection on northbound U.S. 13, is in a daily position to observe traffic there. The biggest problem, he says, is that people are never sure who has the right of way. He thinks a traffic light is needed, particularly to control the flow of vehicles across U.S. 13 to and from the Jackson's Ditch Road.

Another area resident acutely conscious of safety at the intersection is Ray Blanchette. Blanchette lives on the Frederica Road and heads that way every time he comes to Harrington or sets out for Dover or points south. Noting there have

Your Church And Mine

Harrington Baptist Church

WITNESSING:
When's the last time you talked to someone about Jesus? Have you invited someone to come with you to church lately? One of the surest ways of reviving a church is to be evangelistic, since the promise of our Lord is to be with those who are witnesses (Matt. 28: 19, 20).

Would you make an effort between now and Christmas to speak to someone new about the Lord? If you can't do that, would you invite them to come and sit under the gospel message? This is the best time of the year to tell someone about the Lord.
I shall be bringing some evangelistic messages for a few weeks before we get back to our study in the book of James. All we need is for people to be exposed to the invitations of the Lord for us to be blessed.

PRAYER:
Prayer is laying hold on God's willingness to bless His people. Make sure that you pray every day, if for no other reason than to tell Jesus that you love Him. Pray for wisdom and understanding. Confess sins in true repentance. If you can't do anything else when you first start in prayer, simply tell the Lord that you love Him.

Calvary Wesleyan

More than 200 attended the Hymn Sing this past Sunday evening at Calvary Wesleyan and enjoyed music and songs centered around the theme of, "A Festival of Praise."

The Senior Choir is rehearsing each week as they prepare for the Christmas Cantata. This special Christmas musical will be presented on Sunday evening, December 16 at 7:00.

Birthdays this week are: Lester Moore, November 26; Willie Cain, November 28; Mrs. Mary E. Howell, December 1; Madalene

Moore, December 2; Lois Pearson, December 2.

Mrs. Thelma Miller will direct the Girl's Choir and the Elementary Grades of the Sunday School in their Christmas program on Sunday morning, December 23 starting at 9:30 a.m. Teachers of the classes will be giving valuable assistance.

Ladies from the church are busy learning how to make Williamsburg type wreaths for church decorations and for their own use. They are meeting on Tuesday nights in the Fellowship Hall for the next two weeks.

The Holzmuller Gallery Holds reception

The Holzmuller Gallery of the Avenue United Methodist Church will host the paintings of K.M. Hammond of Hartly, Delaware during the month of December. A reception will be held on Sunday, December 2nd from 12:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.

K.M. (Katherine) paints landscapes, which reflect the love she has for the fields and woods of Delaware. The oils are executed with a painting knife, a method which insures more vibrant broken color. There will also be landscapes executed in pen and ink, and in pencil.

The Illinois born artist was educated in Delaware, followed by four years in New Jersey and correspondence courses from Art Instruction, Inc. and Cartoonists Exchange. She has taught many classes in Landscape, Portraiture and Still Life in oil; among them the Milford Adult Education program.

K.M. has paintings and murals in public and private collections in twenty states of the U.S. The mural, "The First Brooder House" is found at the main entrance at the Blue Hen Mall in Dover. Other murals hand in three Eastern Shore churches, Rock Hall, Chestertown, and Dover. She has exhibited widely in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, as well as Delmarva. Her most recent awards have been this year: 1st prize and award at the York, PA Art Association, Juried Show; Judges choice (1st prize) at the Dorchester Show. She is a member of various Delmarva art leagues in addition to the International Society of Artists.

The Holzmuller Gallery is open on Sundays from 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., and on weekdays during church office hours from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

There Is A Purpose....

by Nina Locardi

This weeks column concerns the placement of the Moon in Taurus and the effect of the Moon in the second division or House of the Birth-Chart. The Moons position shows the inward response of an individual to his early and his immediate environment.

Moon In Taurus

In this position the Moon is content, so to speak! It is a very strong placement and shows an individual who is strongly attached to his possessions and his material security. The personality is persistent and at most times placid. The love nature is quite strong with a great deal of patience! Moon in Taurus people are fond of good food and comfortable surroundings! These people can be quite obstinate but are capable of much generosity!

Moon In The Second House

As the second House rules possessions and material resources, the Moon here is indicative of a strong need for material security! This individuals well-being depends on the state of his finances! Successful occupations are ones in which the general public is served; such as foods, liquids and real estate. Money is a fluctuating resource for this person and for this, he possesses an ingenious and imaginative mind!

Next week the Moon In Gemini and the Moon In The Third House of the Birth-Chart.

Gabfest

by Pat Hatfield

My kitchen has taken on a new look this week. My old wall oven wore completely out; and, since I was never too happy with it, I did not grieve at its passing. We decided on a range with a small oven above and a large one below. It is now installed and looks mighty fine. I have been instructed by the family to "get with it" and turn out some cakes and pies and the baked things they have been hungering for. It takes time for us to get acquainted, this oven and me. The first thing I tried was apple pie. They turned out perfectly, and I thought this is a breeze. But the next thing was coffee cake and it burned black on the bottom. So far, the range has the upper hand, but eventually I shall master it.

The yard is ankle-deep in leaves but some will not yet let go. Dad is waiting to run the mower through them and leave them chewed up for compost.

The days are slipping by fast this week, and when Thanksgiving Day arrives, we shall observe the tradition in the old poem, "Over the river and through the woods to grandmother's house we go", as the whole family journey's up to enjoy the holidays with Gary's family. I remember a couple of years ago it started to snow just about Harrisburg and it was just picture pretty the rest of the way up. That year I had my first taste of wild turkey which was served along with the barnyard variety. It was very good, and I also told Grandmother Bollinger last week how well I remember her delicious cauliflower with cheese sauce.

As I sat with an old friend over coffee this morning, we were going back over the times when we were little boys and girls. We spoke of rats being such a problem then, even as now, and they were catching my mother's young frying chickens. She purchased a big, wire trap with a funnel gadget in the middle. The rats could get in but could not find their way out. One morning there were eight big live rats in the trap. My mother was not a killer by nature, but remembering her chickens, she enjoyed drowning those rats.

Every farm around at that time had a milk house or dairy house. My grandparents had one a few steps from the back door. There were screened openings all around and a shelf for the butter, milk and foods. The floor was hard-packed dirt which grandfather kept dampened by pouring buckets of water on. In certain seasons it was here he kept his turtles alive. Grandfather loved turtle soup and he did not have to go to the Waldorf to get it. When I was sent to the milk house on an errand, I remember stepping fearfully around the foot ledge with my eyes following the movements of those turtles crawling in the mud.

On the other side of the house stood the smokehouse. We called it that but we did not smoke our meat, preferring it sugar-cured. I can see the ham and bacon hanging there now, and near the door, there was always a rather large barrel of salt trout, prepared in the spring when you could buy the fish, three bushels for a dollar! A salt brine was prepared that would "float an egg". It was carefully watched and if it became cloudy or bloody it was poured off and new added. This gave us fish for our winter meals and was a welcome change from pork.

In the winter, we baked ourselves by the wood and coal fires and then went to sleep in ice cold bedrooms with a hot brick wrapped in a towel to put our feet to. In the summer there was always plenty of food, but we survived with little or no refrigeration. A big block of ice was brought from Milford, three miles away to make homemade ice cream, and it sat on the back of the buggy, wrapped in burlap, and melting all the way.

We did not think of ourselves as under-privileged. Everyone around had the same life style. Now, we find everybody grabbing wood stoves and wood (and sometimes setting fire to their houses because they do not know how to handle it). We have come full circle. Thomas Wolfe said, "You can't go home again". But I think we'll have to!

The W.T. Chipman Jr. High School Band traveled to Seaford for the annual Christmas Parade on Saturday. The competition was stiff and the W.T. Chipman Band came through with a second place trophy. In the Junior Division for bands, the Wicomoco Jr. Band took first and the Woodbridge Junior Band took third. In the Senior Division; Dickerson was first, Milford was second, and Woodbridge was third. I have to disagree with the judges' decision in the Senior Division. The Milford High School Band looked to be an example of excellence as they came down the street. Their music was strong and played with excellence. The Band Front was perfect with the timing and execution of the flags and rifles an example of how it should be done. My congratulations goes to the W.T. Chipman Band and to the Milford Buccaneers.

On Saturday, November 24th, the Harrington Police responded to the Finkbinder residence where an unknown subject threw a lit flair in their garbage can (location of can - "sitting by their garage"). The contents caught fire, but the fire was extinguished by the Finkbinders with no real damage. The matter is under investigation by the Harrington Police Department.

On the 25th at 1:40 a.m., Harrington Police stopped a vehicle traveling at a high rate of speed on Rt. 14 in which a person was being taken to Milford Memorial Hospital because a Houston man was going into convulsions. The Harrington Police Department called for a Harrington ambulance to transport the subject safely and give proper care while transporting the subject.

Also on the 25th, the police responded to the Quillen's Shopping Center for a possible fight. When Harrington Police arrived there was a large group gathering which was quickly dispersed by the police. No arrests were made.

On Sunday, November 25, at 10:15 p.m. while on patrol, police found a broken window in the Chipman School field-house building, but after checking the rest of the building there was no further evidence of entry. Closer patrols by the Harrington Police Department will be made at the school.

On Wednesday the 21st the Harrington Police arrested four juveniles under the age of eleven after a spree of vehicle tires had been reported punctured. This was an act of malicious mischief, not a felony. The Harrington Police Department reports the case is pending in Family Court.

North Plans Christmas Fantasy

Students at Lake Forest North are whipping up a Christmas confection called "Fantasyland" for all those who look forward to the annual Yule extravaganza there. Featuring an original script by Jane Singleton and Maggie Drury and starring a cast of hundreds of students, the musical and dramatic production is set for Wednesday, December 12, in the gym at North in Felton. Students will get a full dress performance at 9 a.m. The evening show is set for 7:30 p.m. Parents, students and friends are encouraged to attend. However, no student under the ninth grade not accompanied by a parent or responsible adult will be admitted.

This year's fantasy takes off from a very real classroom situation - the impossibility of communicating anything so mundane as reading, writing and arithmetic to little minds already off on Christmas vacation. The classroom strategy turns to "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em", paving the way for a series of skits in which students fantasize what it's like to be a peppermint candy, a chocolate kiss, a reindeer or a musical note just before Christmas.

All this gives a lot of play for story and songs featuring the members of the Drama Club and the Fifth and Sixth Grade Glee Club. Also highlighted will be the first graders as reindeer and the second graders as peppermint candies.

Musical favorites included in the program are "Do You Hear What I Hear?", "Peace On Earth", "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree" (in song and dance), and the finale - "White Christmas".

Director Jane Singleton says the total student cast comes to something like four or five hundred. However, with a carol sing along, which has become an annual favorite, the entire audience gets into the act. And if attendance matches last year's level, that could mean a chorus of 1300 voices. Also scheduled to make a re-appearance is the famous (or infamous) Kazoo Symphony featuring the North faculty. And Santa, himself, is expected to put in an appearance.

Other faculty members involved in the production are Ed Gabrielson, Joyce Simmons, Rae Ann Redman and Robin Dean. Ms. Dean has designed the decorations and stage accessories which are being produced by the students.

Pianists for the production are Kathy Draper and Kathy Klees. Lighting and sound are being handled by Steve Clute.

Proceeds from musical and dramatic productions in past years have gone toward stage improvements. This year is to be no different. A couple of years ago, these funds made it possible to buy a new grand curtain. Now they are being saved for improvements in the lighting and the purchase of a back curtain.

Those who will want to put December 12 on their calendar should note the cost for the evening is 50c per student, $1.00 for adults, or $2.50 per family.

The funniest, the ugliest, the most original and the prettiest were on stage at Lake Forest South as winners in the annual pumpkin contest were selected. Which pumpkin head would you choose?

Dear Mrs. Conner,
My class is very excited about writing to your students.
No one in the class has ever been to the east coast, so your way of life would be so interesting to all of them and to me too.
Mead, NE is a very small town of about 450 people, surrounded by a large farming community. Most of our students are bused in. There are a total 135 of students in the Elementary school K-6. Our town is conveniently located west of Omaha 30 miles and north of Lincoln 28 miles, so we go to the cities to do most of our shopping and entertainment.
I have 21 students this year, 13 boys and 8 girls, and believe me the boys are 100% lively boys. The students go outside the classroom for Science, P.E., and Music. I have an aide for one of the students who is a Cerebral Palsy handicap. Jeremy is a fine student but needs help getting around.
I certainly hope our classes will have a fun year writing to each other.
Sincerely,
Ruth Oden

Chipman Band On Parade

First at Milford, second in Seaford, and impressive in the non-competitive Dover Halloween Parade - The W.T. Chipman Band has had a busy autumn. Pictured here, the percussion section lends support, and the color guard stands at attention as majorette Christi Wise does her knife twirling spectacular. This performance was at the half-time show at the Junior Spartan - CR game on Spirit Day. The Junior Band also joined the Lake Forest High School Band at half-time in the annual homecoming game.

Still to come are the Harrington Christmas Parade on Saturday and the Milton Christmas Parade on December 5.

In addition to 94 musicians, the band is complemented by a front section featuring color guards, flag corps, rifle corps and majorettes. A pom-pom section is practicing for upcoming events.

"I'm thankful.....for a variety of reasons"

What causes you to pause and give thanks. Do you take the time? A group of fourth graders did, and the reasons they are thankful have surprise and variety. This group is in Mrs. Ellingsworth's class at Lake Forest South Elementary in Harrington.

I'm thankful for our country, liberty that is free. I'm thankful for the food and water that we drink. I'm thankful for the earth that goes around its orbit. I'm thankful for the rain that blisters down on the ground. I'm thankful for the sun that heats the earth and us. I'm thankful for everything.

by Michael Pardee

I'm thankful for a father who knows how to make the right decisions for me and the rest of my family. I'm thankful for a father that cares for me and takes me and my baby brother Roger on trips. He makes the money for us to build a new house and barn. My father is a lot to be thankful for. He loves my whole family.

My mother is a lot to be thankful for, too. She cooks the meals for me, she washes my clothes for me, and gets me up every morning for school. If it wasn't for my mother, I couldn't live because she teaches me things and gives me special care just like a mother should.

by Beth Collison

I'm thankful for my life, my family and my little kittens and their mothers.

Their names are Princess, Precious, Sylvester, Petey, Elvis, John Wayne, and K.C. for Kittie Cat. Two other cats names Smokey and Frances got run over by a car.

I'm also thankful for my three ponies. Their names are Dusty, Geronimo and Sugar. Sugar is dead now. She died a year ago. But I still remember her because she was very nice, for a horse.

by Tawnya Minner

My grandpa is still alive. He was born in 1901. He got out of the hospital 2 weeks ago. He had 7 heart attacks in one month. He was in the hospital for two months. But he is home now and eating. Well, he is just about the greatest man in the whole wide world.

I'm thankful I got Mrs. Ellingsworth for a teacher. She is the nicest teacher in the whole fourth grade.

by Jenny Ebelkorn

I have a home to live in, a mother that loves me and a brother. I'm thankful for the food I eat, the clothes I wear and the bed I sleep in. I'm thankful for the school I learn in. I'm especially thankful for the earth I live in.

by Russell Derrickson

I'm thankful that I have the people that are my friends. I'm thankful for the food I have to eat. I'm thankful that I have my parents, my sister, my grandmothers, grandfathers and mom-moms.

by David Dill

I'm thankful my parents are not sick or in the hospital because I love them. And without them it wouldn't be any fun. I wouldn't have any fun on Christmas.

My mommom Porter is still well. She is 60 and watches a baby everyday except Friday and cleans a house.

by Doug Trader

Sometimes I think of having a house, pretty and big and have all kinds of cars around it. And we would have flowers and stuff like that too. But when someone calls and said "so and so" got run out of her house of something like that because she didn't pay her bills, it makes me feel kind of sad, and it makes me feel that I wouldn't care if I lived in a pig pen. I wish all those things I wanted and I couldn't have.

by Nancy Childress

I'm thankful that half of my family didn't die or wasn't paralyzed. That's what I'm thankful for. Some of my grandpas died, but I'm thankful because all of them didn't die. That's what I'm thankful for and I hope you are too.

Thankyou for listening to this!

by Doris Garner

I'm thankful for a mother and father because some children don't have a father or mother to love and talk to. I'm thankful for a house because some people don't have one or live in shacks and I know that would be hard.

by Kathy Stubbs

I'm thankful for my parents and all my relatives. But most of all I'm thankful for my brother. His three speed bike broke and I let him ride mine and I rode my little bike. He thanked me.

by Dawn Lynn Collins

We were going to get a new house, but we could not get it. My father told me that we could not get the house. I was quite upset. My father and mother told me they would rather have me and my brother instead of that house any day. So I guess I would rather have my parents than a house.

by Lisa Trice

I'm thankful for Mrs. Gloria. Her oldest son was killed in a car accident and now she is alone with nobody to talk to until Flossie Polk and I went over to her house to keep her company. She was so surprised that we had come, she started to cry. We stayed for a while. Flossie bought her a little rabbit, Peter to keep company. Then one day Peter died. We cried for poor Peter the way we loved him. Flossie got a rabbit named Blacky and a cat killed it. We felt sorry again. Her brother took a hoe and hit the cat by the eye. I tried to stop him, but the cat is still alive.

by Shawn Thompson

I'm thankful for my life. I'm glad I have a lot of life to live. I am going to try to live to be a hundred. I might make it, too, because I don't smoke, drink or take drugs. I'm never going to do those three dumb things. I don't care what anybody ever says. I'm not going to smoke, drink or take drugs.

by Madeline Paige Parker

I'm thankful for the things God gave us - like some coits, cats and dogs. I thank God for everything. He is so nice to everyone. He gave us books, paper, things to eat and drink. I'm thankful for moms and dads, sisters and brothers, aunts and uncles. I'm thankful for cars and trucks.

I'm thankful for what I have now. I'm thankful for the clothes I wear everyday. I'm thankful for the good school I go to. I'm thankful for the mother and good house that I have and the food on the table. I am thankful for everything that I have.

by Freddie Murray

For having parents who care. I'm thankful that my family and I are healthy. I am thankful that I have food.

by April Bonniwell

I'm thankful for mothers, fathers, brother, and sister. I'm thankful for everything else except for school, but I thought I was lucky to have it.

by Donnie McCloskey

I wish that we could have some time to just sit down and think what we are thankful for. Or to just thank God for what we are thankful for.

I have a lot to be thankful for. There is my birthday to be thankful for and I won't forget Halloween candy and Thanksgiving and Christmas. But that's not all I'm thankful for. I'm thankful for the earth. Because if there were no earth, we wouldn't be here. And my family and friends.

by David Welch

When I was coming to school, I was thinking about corrections, books, papers and pencils. I thought I'd have math, reading and English. I was thinking: "Oh, I have so many corrections!" Then I saw a bus with retarded people in it. I stopped to think it must be terrible to be retarded. Gee, I'm thankful.

by Ronnie Farmer

I'm thankful for my house that I live in and that we have room for all of our cats to live in and that my parents have a job so we can have plenty of food to eat. I'm thankful that we have our four cats, our one dog. I'm thankful for my parents most of all.

by Julie Paskey

I'm thankful for all the glory in the state and all the news people bring into this world and everything people do each morning.

People live, people die. I'm thankful for a home to live in and I'm thankful for a mother and father and I'm thankful for food and water.

by Vincent Donoto

I'm thankful for all the gifts that people have been giving me and all of the pretty houses and flowers around, nature and my family staying healthy and our friends.

But most of all is the kindness and the food we eat and my family.

been quite a few accidents with people injured there, he says "You have to be very careful." His neighbors, he contends, have the same concern. They think there ought to be some sort of control.

Harringtonian Gary Homewood thinks "...it's an extremely hazardous intersection." He points to the confusion that can and does result from "...too many movements that can be taking place at the same time." The five roads with the two crossovers make for a complicated situation. But, says Homewood, "a traffic light wouldn't help." He thinks a complete restructuring of the intersection is needed and suggests that it might be done in such a way that traffic is channeled away from the point at the Bank's Store. Homewood is for a bypass that would take traffic from the bridge on Delaware Avenue behind the store to a point further south on 13. The same sort of thing might be done for vehicles coming from the other direction on the Frederica Road so that traffic meeting U.S. 13 could enter at a point farther north. Traffic leaving U.S. 13 from either direction could use the present intersection. All this would be expensive and would require action by the state legislature. Homewood is surprised that more area residents have not pressured their representatives about the problem.

Harold Brode, a Harrington resident who also serves on the City Council, says the intersection is "...bad," and would like to see some sort of traffic control device installed. Brode thinks either a flashing red light or a stop and go signal could be effective if combined with some restructuring of the intersection. He thinks the current situation in which two crossovers are located within a few feet of each other is part of the problem. Brode suggests that a single, wider crossover with a left hand turning lane might be the answer. He encourages others concerned, as he is about safety at the intersection, to write their representatives and put on the pressure.

Harrington Police Chief Carl McIlroy concurs with the others. He says the angle of the intersection of Delaware Avenue with U.S. 13 and the number of people using it at times create the biggest problem. McIlroy is for the installation of a traffic light or lights at the intersection.

State officials in the Division of Highways take a different viewpoint. Information Officer Paul Welsh explains the division uses a "severity index" to compare traffic safety at intersections throughout the state. That index is figured by a complex mathematical formula which takes into account the number of accidents and their severity in terms of the cost in human life, personal injury and property damage. Welsh cited statistics for the intersection from 1976 through April 1979. Its rating on that index ranged from 2.13 for seven accidents with two minor injuries in 1977 to 8.8 for six accidents with one major injury and seven minor ones in 1978. The intersections ranking, in terms of danger in 1978, was 128th in the state.

By contrast the intersection rated most dangerous had a "severity index of 673.73 with 67 accidents in the course of a year.

By the numbers, which tell the story of what has happened, rather than what almost happened or what might happen, the intersection is relatively innocuous. Thus it is not very high on the priority lists of those who have to justify where Federal safety funds and other monies are spent.

However, numbers do not always tell the story, and Charles H. Workman at the Division of Highways, says that individual drivers are in a position to give state officials valuable information which might otherwise be overlooked. He points to the recent situation at Whiteleysburg where concerned residents proved a point and got action. Until a tragic double fatality this year, the intersection had had no accidents for seven years. But one area man who was observant got his neighbors concerned. The result of their petition was a study and the installation of more and bigger traffic signs.

Individual and/or groups concerned can write to Director of Highways Richard Bewick, Information Officer Paul Welsh, or Safety Engineer Charles H. Workman. All get their mail the Division of Highways, P.O. Box 778, Dover, DE.

Another recourse is an approach to state legislators. State Senator Nancy Cook told the Journal this was the first she's heard of any worries about the Harrington intersection. But she says, "I'd be glad to work with any person or group concerned." Citizens might also contact Representative Ronnie Darling.

Wood stove safety problem increases with popularity

Thousands of home owners have discovered that the sturdy-looking wood burning stoves they bought to keep cozy and save money also can cause devastating home fires if safety rules aren't followed.

The Insurance Information Institute warns that the biggest hazards are improper installation and maintenance. Moreover, the problem is spreading nationwide as wood stoves become more and more popular.

Sales are growing each year. In 1978, an estimated 700,000 stoves were purchased and another 900,000 will be purchased by the end of this year.

Stove manufacturers expect to sell 1.25 million more in 1980.

Fire prevention officials, stove manufacturers, the Consumer Product Safety Commission and the insurance industry agree that the improper installation and use of these stoves are resulting in a growing number of home fires, injuries and deaths.

They also agree that the overwhelming number of such fires could be prevented if a few simple rules are observed.

The institute suggests the following list of do's and don'ts:

DO - make sure there is the proper clearance between the stove and any combustible material (wall, ceiling, furniture, newspapers, or other inflammable objects).

DO - place the stove on a fireproof base.

DO - consult a detailed safety manual to be sure the stove pipe and flue meet safety requirements.

DO - make sure your stove is made of sturdy, suitable material, such as cast iron or steel. Look for stoves listed by Underwriters Laboratories (UL) or other recognized testing laboratories.

DO - remember, if you purchase a used stove, to check it carefully for cracks or other defects. The legs, hinges, grates and draft louvers also should be checked carefully.

DO NOT - ever burn anything but seasoned, dry hardwood in the stove.

DO NOT - ever use gasoline, kerosene or any inflammable liquid (including lighter fluid) to start a fire. Start a fire by using small strips of paper and twigs.

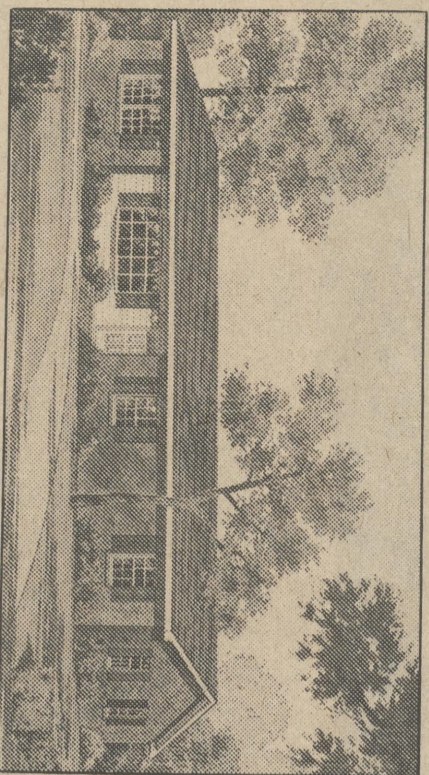

DO NOT - treat the stove as a garbage can.

DO NOT - let a wood fire burn unattended or overnight.

chimney.

A pamphlet outlining wood stove safety requirements can be obtained from the Insurance Information Institute, 626 National Press Building, Washington, DC 20045, at no cost.

Woodpiles attract unwelcome guests

Nothing attracts guests on a frosty day like the warm, inviting glow of a fireplace or woodstove.

But sometimes your woodpile attracts unwanted company: long-horned wood borers, metallic wood borers, bark beetles, ants, wood roaches, and several other species that normally pass the winter under loose bark or in the wood of fallen or cut trees.

These insects often find their way into the home with fireplace wood, says Delaware extension pest management specialist Frank E. Boys.

When this wood remains in the warm house for several days, the insects seem to conclude that winter is over, often becoming active.

In most cases, says Boys, these insects are merely a nuisance. Only rarely do any of the wood-boring beetles attack furniture or flooring.

The best control is to bring in only the amount of firewood you will burn in two or three hours. This will prevent most of the insects from warming up sufficiently to leave the wood.

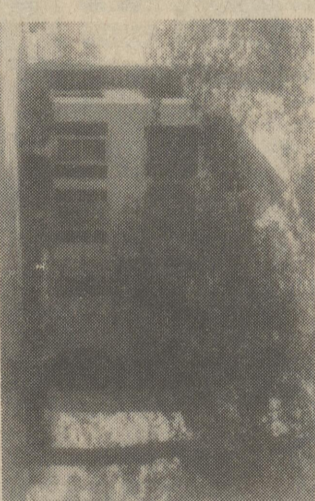

Don't bother trying to treat the logs with an insecticide, as there are no effective products for this purpose, according to the specialist.

Rotate the woodpile whenever possible, and don't store wood in the garage or too close to the house.

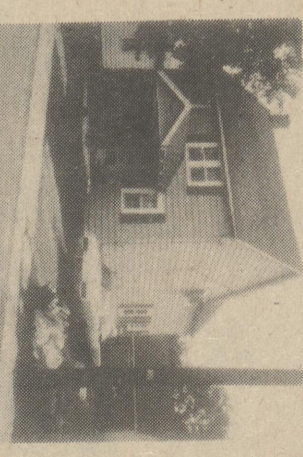

These practices will help keep the unwelcome guests out of your living room.

Light ideas for a dark room ceiling that would wash your walls and provide a pleasant level of illumination. Use reflective materials in your furnishings, too, for maximum light — choosing from materials such as glass, chrome, brass and mirror.

An interesting and intriguing idea is offered by Bill Marley, director of color and design for GAF floor products. Marley turned a tiny, dark space in a 60-year-old divided townhouse into a bright, airy and very contemporary dining room. The space had only one small window that opened onto an air shaft.

Marley screened the old cracked and peeling plaster walls with sheets of translucent frosted vinyl set on the bias and positioned in moldings at the floor and ceiling. Behind the panels, warm fluorescent lights were installed.

Tubes were recessed behind the floor molding so that their light would be diffused as it washed up the walls. Stainless steel angles sold in lengths at building supply stores hold the vinyl panels in position.

A feeling of sculptural weightlessness is seen in the ceiling-hung lighting fixtures which floats like a pleated paper cloud over the dining table. The original wood floor needed replacing and so Marley installed Gafstar's "Lace Circles" with self-stick back and a white with light brown snowflake design.

Q. I'd like to cover my bedroom lampshades with a new fabric I'm using for my bedspread and a table skirt. Do you know where to go for directions on how to pleat your own lampshades? — T.P.

A. Try the Simplicity pattern book. Directions are given for lampshades among other decorative items for the home. In fact, it's surprising how many good ideas to inspire our do-it-yourself instincts are carried in the pattern books.

Q. We have a casual lifestyle and like to have buffets. I rather have a problem when entertaining because I like traditional designs and very comfortable upholstered pieces but our rooms are not large. Do you have any ideas for increasing seating especially for casual entertaining?

work and the kids split for school. It must be known when the youngsters return from school and when the weary workers return to home base. It's even noted when the TV is usually turned off and family members migrate from living room to bedroom areas.

All this and other input is fed into a computer, which in turn faithfully controls heating and cooling of the home — achieving maximum efficiency an energy conservation.

For example, during winter months the temperature in the home is automatically lowered to a predetermined level after the family retires. In the morning, the bedroom area is warmed first, ready for the inhabitants when they bounce out of bed. Then the kitchen is warmed.

When the family departs for their daily activities, the temperature is lowered. But when they return in the afternoon, their home will be comfortably warm, thanks to their ever-diligent computer friend.

We have a small sofa in our room, a pair of small basket chairs and a lounge chair. I might have room for some additional seating but not too much. What would you suggest? — S.V.

A. Your problem confronts just about all of us who are finding home spaces shrinking yet our desire to entertain increasing.

Have you ever considered a square coffee table with four upholstered ottomans slipped underneath? I think they provide great flexibility for everyday living as well as entertaining. When space is an everyday problem they can be compactly stowed under the table and when the party gets underway, the little stools or ottomans are ready for a guest.

Or, if you have space for a long narrow table in your room to use as a buffet or library table or sofa-back table, you could slip nicely upholstered little benches under it to press into entertaining service.

home's heating and cooling system. However, before the computer programming takes place, the resident family will be interviewed. It will be noted what time they drag out of bed in the morning and retire at night.

They will be asked what time breakfast preparation is started and when the breakfast dishes are cleared away. Also when the breadwinner(s) leave for

Q. We have a very dark dining room in our older home and I'd like to lighten the room with paint and new floor. Now the room is an avocado green and the carpeting which matches the living room's is sea green. However, many spills on the dining room carpeting and its hard wear make me feel I would like to remove the carpet entirely and start over.

I like modern designs, although the room at this time has no personality because we are using an old hand-me-down table and chairs. I'd like to replace.

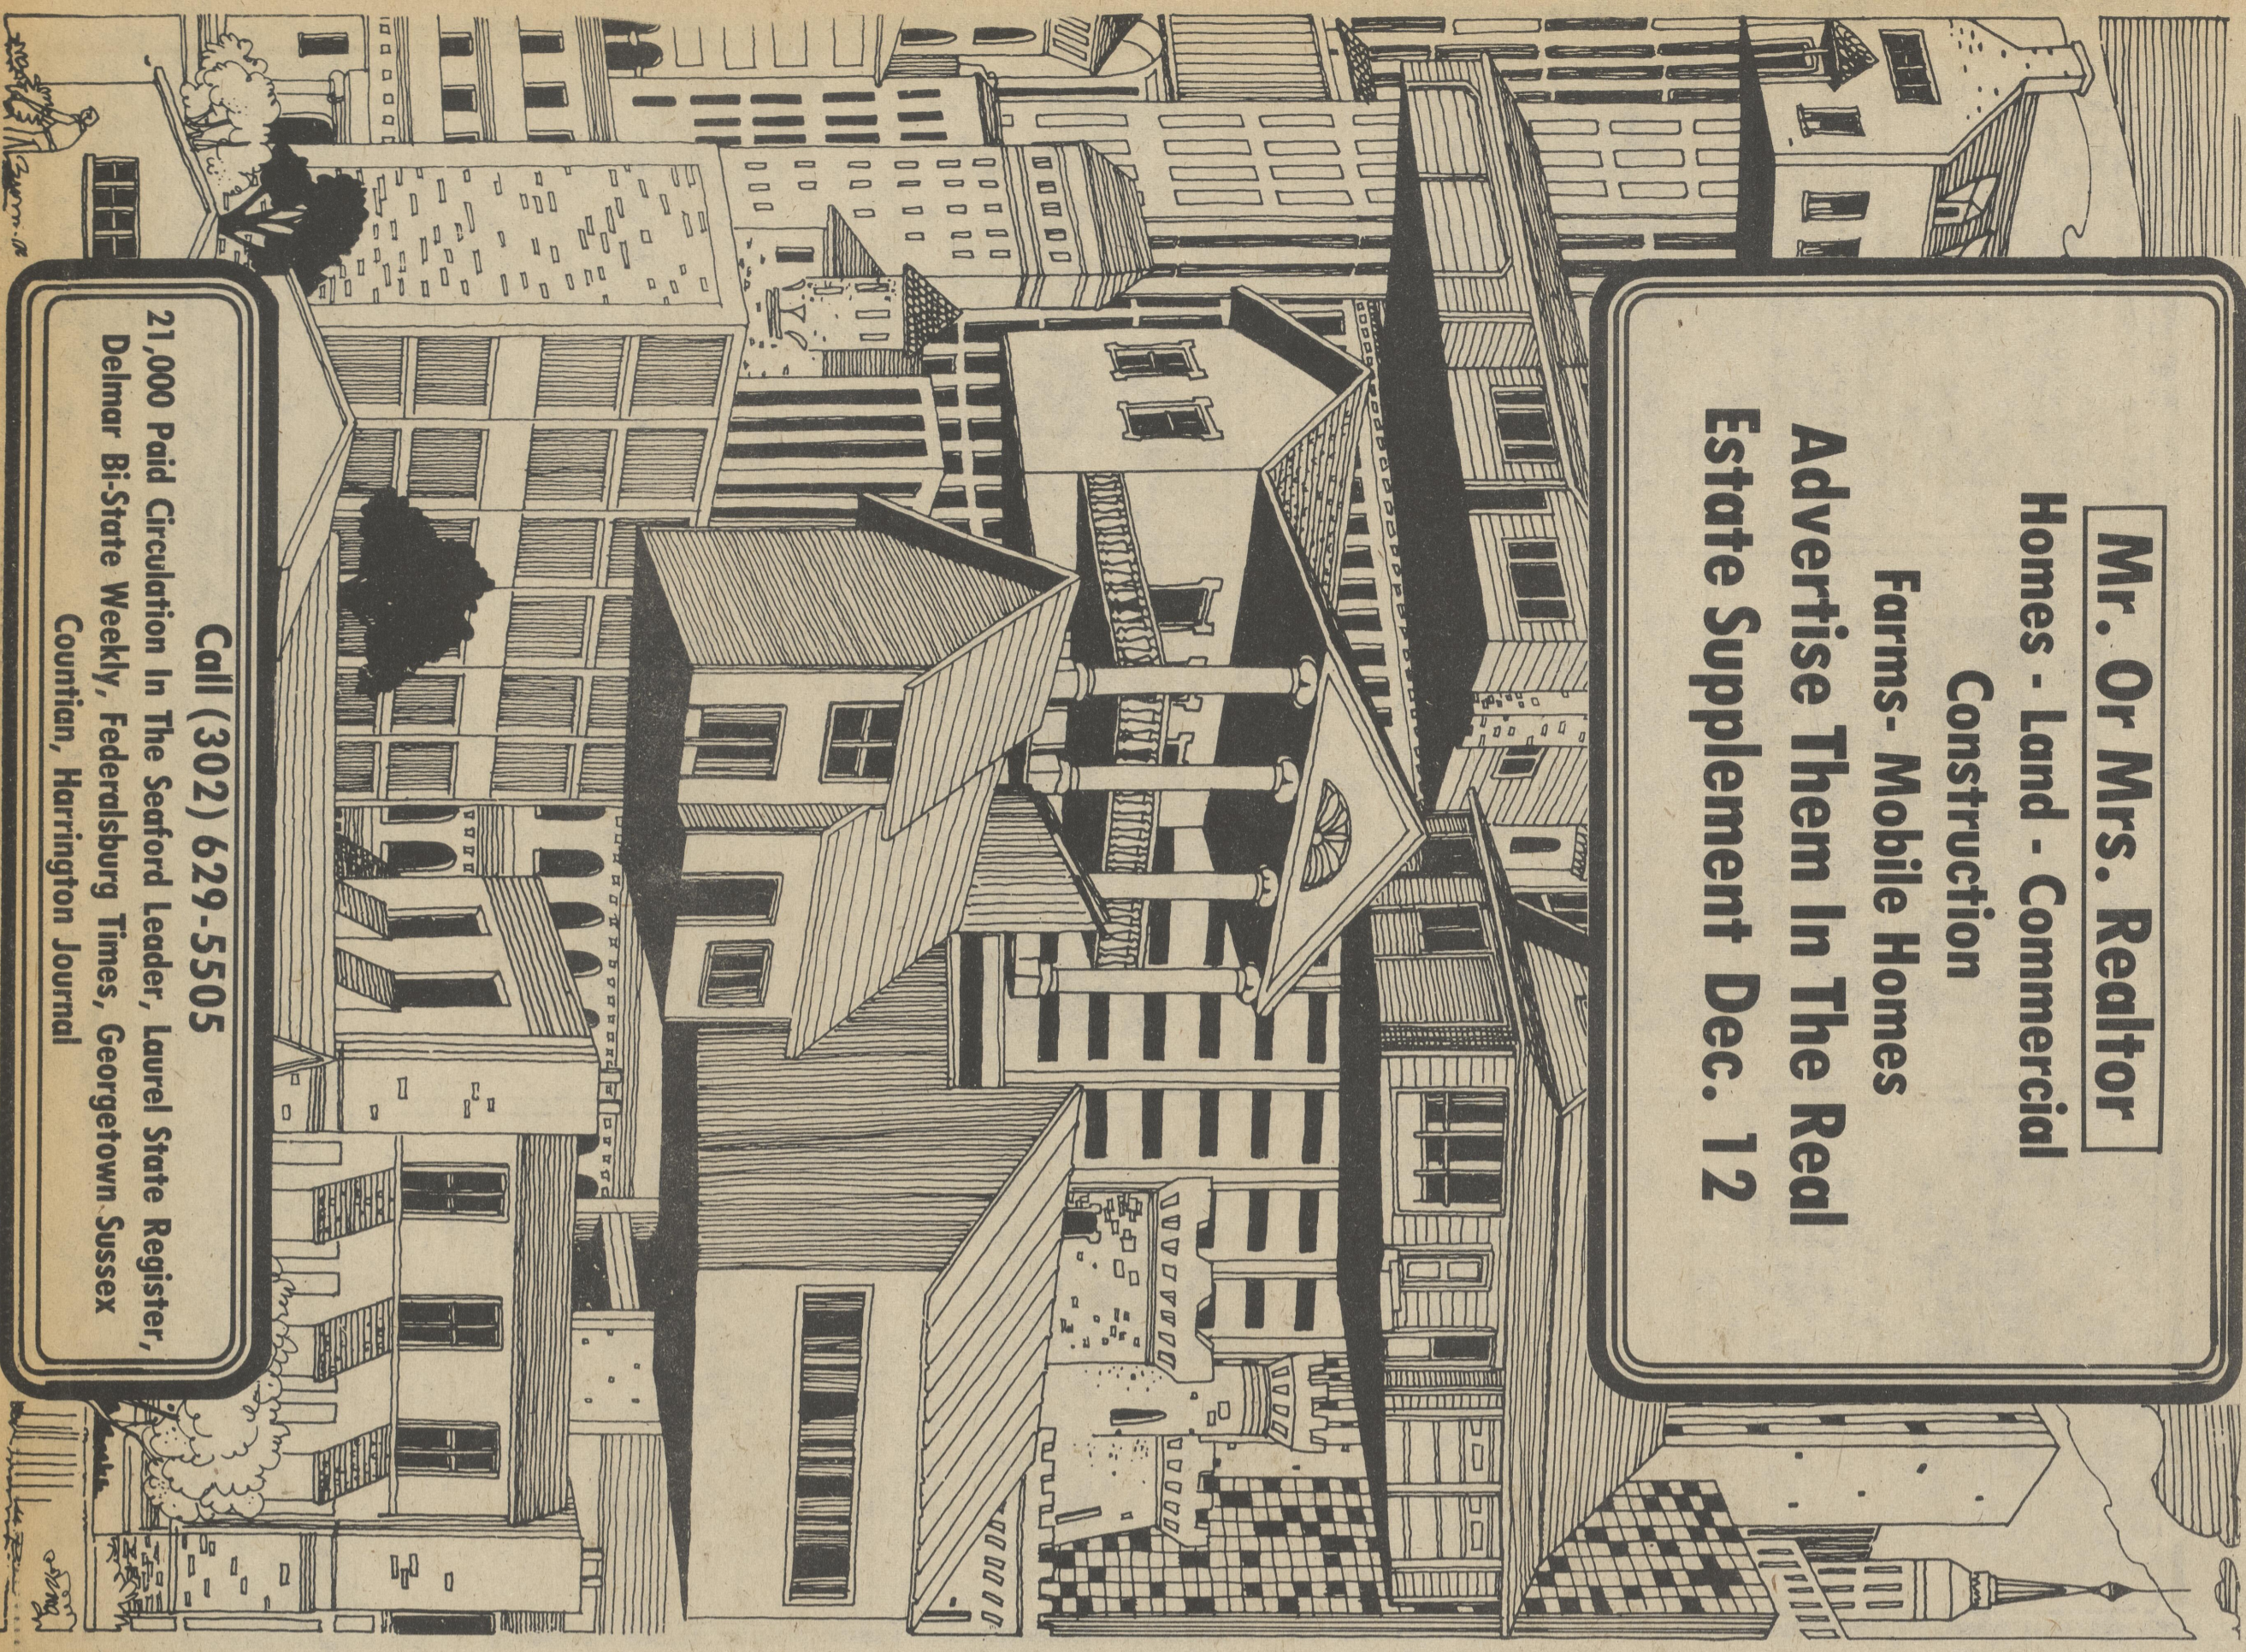

Please suggest some ideas for improving the looks of this room. — T.P.

A. Certainly light colors will enlarge your room and make it seem lighter. Avocado green can be pretty dark when there is no or little artificial light in the room.

If you wish to create all the light you can, perhaps a foil wallpaper would reflect light from a large, imposing chandelier or wall lights. Or you might consider installing spots of light in the

Firewood gathering chainsaws cause thousands of injuries

With rapidly increasing fuel costs, many home owners are installing wood stoves and cutting their own wood. Many people are buying chain saws who have never operated them before. In 1976, chain saws were responsible for 76,000 reported accidents ranging from cut fingers to sudden death, points out Delaware extension safety specialist Ronald C. Jester.

To give you some idea of the power of a chain saw, he says, some chain saw engines can drive the chain up to 24 mph with 1,100 pounds of thrust and a potential kickback speed seven and one-half times faster than the reaction time of a human being.

In order to handle a chain saw safely, you must be well trained. Start by becoming familiar with the information in the saw manufacturer's operations manual.

Observe an experienced chain saw operator in action before actually operating one. Only when you have gained a thorough knowledge of the saw and its safe operation should you attempt to operate the saw without a more experienced person's supervision.

In fact, a chain saw operator should never work alone. A well-stocked first aid kit and a person qualified to give first aid should always be available in case of an accident.

Always keep the following in mind:

- Be sure the chain and bar are well lubricated and the oil tank is full.
- Allow the saw to cool before refueling and clean up any spilled fuel.
- Clean the air filter, cooling fins and sprocket daily with mineral spirits. (Don't use gasoline!)
- Always be sure that the chain is moving before contacting wood.
- The space around the area of use should be clear - always clear a path of retreat at a 45-degree angle to the line of fall.
- Have secure footing, and hold the chain saw firmly in both hands.
- Use personal protective equipment - eye and ear protection, gloves, hard hat, safety shoes.
- Always be sure the chain stops when the throttle trigger is released.
- Never change locations with the engine running.

Here's How

Sound barrier needed

by Gene Gary,
Copley News Service

Q. Can you offer a suggestion as to how to combat noise along a freeway. We live in a mobile home park near the freeway. We have tried a bamboo-type shade which we let down at the side of the patio, but no good. Would shrubs help? — Mrs. R.A.

A. Adequate sound barriers are needed to reduce transmission of outdoor noises into a house. Some effect will result from solid fences of suitable height, particularly fences of stone or brick. Thick, dense hedges also have some effect.

However, the best barriers to stop noise from entering through windows are storm sashes, installed tightly with felt strips at the edges, double-glass windows, felt weather stripping for all windows and heavy drapes.

Q. In our bathroom we have faucets called "bathroom jewelry." One is of antique gold color and has developed a green deposit. The other is a pewter finish and has a whitish deposit on the base where water settles. I am afraid to use the ordinary cleaner for fear it might be too harsh. Do you have any suggestions? — Mrs. V.L.

A. Try washing the faucets with white vinegar, mixed with as much salt as will dissolve. If the deposits are caused from hard water, often a paste of kerosene and scratchless cleanser will work. The discoloration can often be removed by wiping the surface with household ammonia. Dilute this half and half with water. As much of the plumbing and cleaning problems in your area are due to hard water, a water softener helps.

Q. Our problem is a strange one. We put a plastic-type dresser scarf or runner on both our solid oak dressers. Well, to our amazement, the runners stuck and left a lumpy surface. Evidently, some type of "waxy" stuff was on the back of the runners and is all over the top of the dressers. We haven't dared try to get it off, except to use lemon oil, without results.

We realize it may need a solvent of some kind, but that might mean a refinishing job of the top surface and one could never match the stain. I'm sure. Please help. — Mrs. Ed McE.

A. A plastic film, often from tablecloths, dories, or wood under placentals, may cling to wood under certain conditions of heat, humidity and pressure.

If the wood is well finished, you may be able to remove the film with a dry, soap-filled steel wool pad, rubbed very gently over the affected area.

If this doesn't work, try liquid sandpaper, but use with caution, going over the surface very lightly. If neither of these work, the only other remedy I know is a refinishing job.

Q. Since taking a wood-refinishing class, I have started stripping things in my house and keeping them natural. One was my fireplace mantel but now the brick and the flagstone hearth look very dingy.

How can I get them back into shape? I have heard you use muriatic acid, but do not know how to dilute it. Would appreciate any help you can give me. — Mae H., Torrance, Calif.

A. Muriatic acid is used mostly to remove mortar or cement splashes from brick, but it is difficult to use inside the house and I doubt that is what you need for cleaning your fireplace brick and flagstone. If used, the dilution is one part muriatic acid to nine parts of water. This is a dangerous acid, so sure to use rubber gloves, wear goggles and use with care.

Another cleaning solution for masonry consists of trisodium phosphate, one cup to one gallon of water. There are also good commercial cleaning products for masonry on the market.

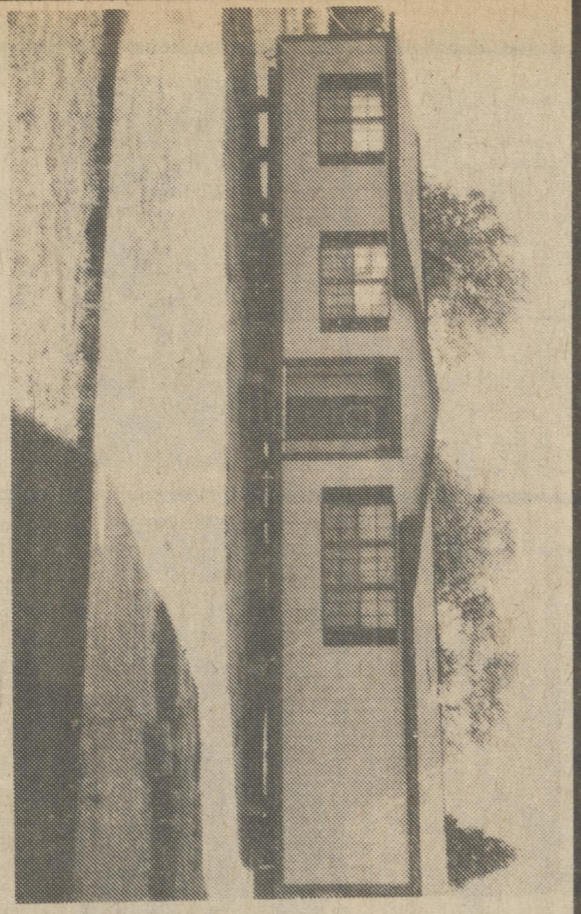

When the brick and flagstone are cleaned, a good sealer will improve the appearance. Consult your local paint store or masonry supply dealer for a good sealer.

Q. I want to know how to remove the cement residue after I have taken off plastic the hallway up the wall of my kitchen and bathroom. I want to recover the whole wall. — Amy N.

A. If possible, find out what specific cement or adhesive was used in installing the plastic tile and the solvent recommended by the manufacturer for that adhesive. Solvents vary according to the particular cement.

Otherwise try steel wooling with naphtha, or better yet, sand it off with an electric sander, since you are going to recover the wall anyway.

Questions on building, home maintenance and repair may be sent to Here's How, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Dover Downs.....

a season
preview

supplement to the Harrington Journal Newspaper

November 28, 1979

Stinging Yankee one of the Milby Stable youngsters who will be making her debut at Dover Downs in the start of the winter campaign of harness racing.

Herve Filion will be driving in the opening day race. Post time for the first race is 1:00 p.m.

Have Filion to kick off 79-80 season at Dover

When Dover Downs opens its 1979-80 season on Sunday, December 2nd, it will do so with the presence of harness racing's only legitimate superstar, Herve Filion.

The 38 year-old holder of almost every single one of harness racing's driving records will possibly be bringing in some of his own stable to compete as well as taking on the role of catch driver as he has done in his prior appearances at Dover Downs.

Last year, Filion drove in ten races on November 19th and won four of them. On opening day of the 1977-78 meet, he was victorious five times in eleven trips to the post. As good as that might seem, Filion will be seeking to do better as he finds himself in the unusual situation of not being North America's leading dash winner.

The United States Trotting Association's Statistics Department announced that as of November 12th, Filion trailed in the standings with 387 wins to Ron Waples' 360 wins. Herve led this category most of the year, but was hurt twice in recent months in spills at the New York metropolitan area tracks, Yonkers and Roosevelt raceways. He is reported to have recuperated and the fans who see him racing now will see him at his most competitive. He has to catch Waples and time is running short. Filion has lost the North American Driving Championship only once in the last 11 years and that was in 1976 when he decided to slow down the frantic pace he was keeping.

Probably the best way to sum up Filion's talent and awesome domination of other drivers is that no driver has ever won more races in one day (7), no driver has ever won more races in one year (637), and no driver has ever won more races in his career (6,705 through the beginning of 1979). Only thoroughbred jockey, Willie Shoemaker has guided more horses to victory in his career, having won 7,598 races prior to 1979. And you just know it won't be long before the amazing Mr. Filion overtakes Shoemaker.

Post time for Herve Filion Day at Dover Downs on Sunday, December 2nd, is 1 p.m.

Many newcomers and veterans plan a Dover return

Dover Downs has had 31 stables set up in its barn area and more are arriving daily.

Many newcomers to the Delaware racing scene are on hand, as well as those familiar faces who have raced regularly at the Kent County oval for the past several years. New to the local scene is Ed Morgan, the trainer-driver for a strong stable that has just finished campaigning successfully at Vernon Downs, located in western New York.

Also from New York came Joe Danosky, via Saratoga Raceway, with 12 head, and M.J. Leibowitz of Monticello Raceway with six in his stable. Though he is not a newcomer, Frank Abbott has been absent for a number of years while plying his trade at Northfield Park in Ohio, until his recent return to Harrington Raceway. His stable is mine strong, including 8 year-old Just Now (a winner in 2:02 1/5 this year) and top trotter Saw Bits.

Director of Racing, Ted Leonard has scheduled a late closing series for horses that are non-winners of $10,000 in 1979 who have started at least 10 times. The first two events will be raced on the Sundays of December 9th and 16th for $3,500 purses with the final event (for the top eight money winners of the first two legs) scheduled for Saturday, December 22nd for $6,000 added. This series should be the setting for some fine, young, "green" pacers who, although not having won $10,000 this year, demonstrated superior ability.

But, the chief subject of discussion on the grounds continues to be racing surface. It's been rebuilt, regraded and banked higher on the turns for speed and safety. Of the horsemen who had been over the track and were available for comment, the result was unanimous: they couldn't fault the track in any way. Nationally ranked driver, Eddie Davis, who has competed on some of the best tracks in the country, mentioned that it was the best track he had been on all year.

Harness racing at Dover Downs starts on Sunday, December 2, with a 1 p.m. post. Nightly post times Tuesday through Saturday will be at 8 p.m.

The Franklin Milbys: carrying on a long tradition

What Franklin Milby started in harness racing 12 years ago, sons Don and Dale are carrying on since their father passed away two and a half years ago. Franklin Milby rose to championship fame in harness racing on the strength of two champions Miss Annie Adios and To Ri Boy.

The Milbys have campaigned from Maryland tracks to the bright lights of Yonkers and Roosevelt raceways in New York winning races, recognition and fame.

The father sold his dairy herd to get into harness racing. "One of the first horses we owned was named 'T-Bone', but Franklin always said if we had kept him much longer we couldn't have afforded spare ribs," said Ethel Ann Milby, the widow of Franklin Milby.

Although Franklin Milby started very slowly in the harness horse field, he soon moved along when Miss Annie Adios and To Ri Boy began to hit their stride. Each horse had lifetime earnings in excess of $350,000. A pretty good sum of money for the soft spoken but very determined Franklin Milby who with his wife started out as "just plain farmers". Ethel Ann Milby said recently at her farm outside of Cordova "...Franklin came home one day and said he had put a $100 deposit down on the purchase of a farm." I just thought that was terrible because at the time we only had about $25 in the bank account. Somehow we made it. I worked right along with him in the fields and together we worked for what we got.

Franklin Milby in addition to developing one of the all time money winning and fastest fillies Miss Annie Adios, he also introduced a few training ideas to the harness horse sport. Many have not accepted these ideas even now despite the fact they worked for him. "Franklin never believed in walking a horse ... or cooling him out as we say...following a race. He always said that after you have run a distance you don't feel like walking anymore. So a half hour after Miss Annie raced they had her in the trailer and headed home. I guess Franklin was one of the first to truck his horses in and out. He felt they did better if they would be turned loose in the field each day rather than left at the track in a stall all cooped up. But one night at Liberty Bell, the judges came over and let Franklin know they were upset with this kind of training practice. After he explained to them why he did it, they understood him and they also knew he loved his horses... and they excused him," said Mrs. Milby.

This same training technique is followed today by Don and Dale Milby as well as their brother-in-law Nick Callahan, who is married to the only Milby daughter, Dolly.

Recently Mrs. Milby and daughter Dolly purchased a two year old filly at the Harrisburg sale by the name of Horse'n Around by Entrepreneur. They also have a filly by Most Happy Fella out of Miss Annie Adios by name of To Ri Tara. "She even looks like Miss Annie," said Mrs. Milby.

Don Milby said he looks forward to Dover Downs opening. "...because they have an all new surrace this year...and you will see faster times, plus we like that big track up there. The bigger track gives me more stretch to work with". The Milby's are looking to a young filly for good results. The filly is Stingy Yankee. Two other young horses that might see action at Dover are To Ri Frankie and the only colt on the farm To Ri Deon. The Milby stable ran into a lot of bad luck last year "...we don't know what really happened. Just one of those things...horses came up lame. We had six or seven years in which everything went our way now it's going the other way for us...but maybe things will change this year", said Don Milby.
