Finalists Compete In Contest

Seven finalists, selected from over thirty entries in semi-finals competition Sunday, appeared in the Delaware State Fair's Country Music Talent Contest last night at the conclusion of the grandstand show.

Results of the final competition were not available as the Journal went to press, but the finalists competing included three groups and four individuals.

The individuals were Craig Chandler and Joe Dawson of Laurel, Nina DeFilippi of Magnolia, and Barbara Foraker of Smyrna.

Groups appearing in the finals were "Pleasant Street" of New Castle, "Skypiece" of Dover and the "Whiskey River Band" of Princess Anne, Maryland.

The first place act could look forward to a six-hour recording session at Birch Studio in Secretary, MD and an appearance at tomorrow night's fair grandstand show with Tom Netherton of the Lawrence Welk T.V. Show in addition to a trophy and $300 in cash. Second and third place winners got $150 and $100, re-

Other local entries in semifinals competition Sunday were Margie Edwards of Felton, Bill McCleary of Greenwood and Linda Gray and "Past Tense", both of Milford.

WAFL's Dennis Hazzard was producer and emcee for the 4th Annual Country Music Talent Competition. Alan Haber served as judging coordinator, and Raymond Brown of Harrington was in charge of sound.

Lake Forest Not Happy With Murphy's Boundary

Woodbridge may be happy with the boundary line drawn up by surveyor Charles Murphy, but Lake Forest certainly is not. Albert Price, Lake Forest's representative in talks with Woodbridge and the Deputy Attorney General, told the local school board Monday night the district would stand to lose even more territory than that originally disputed if the Murphy line is

Price said at least in one instance the line assigns territory that had always been in the Lake Forest District to Woodbridge. At another point, the line makes an illogical sawtooth northward to follow the old boundaries of the Prospect and Powell School Districts. The attempt has been to define an old Harrington/Greenwood boundary line that the state board says is the right one.

Tractor pulling takes center stage at the Delaware State Fair in Harrington today starting at High Noon. Over 50 of the nations best will be on hand for the 4th annual Fair Pull and will compete for cash prizes, trophies, and points toward their end of the year Championship.

This year's Pull is sanctioned by the Pennsylvania Tractor Pullers Association, and is expected to draw tractors from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, New Jersey, Virginia, Delaware and possibly from North Carolina. The local Mar-Del Tractor & Pickup Pulling Association will handle entries and the actual running of the Pull.

Charges Leveled at Felton Home Owner

A charge of "endangering the welfare of an incompetent person" and other possible infractions of state health, safety, and sanitary regulations had Felton Convalescent Home owner Betty Fletcher in hot water last week.

Mrs. Fletcher was charged with endangering the welfare of Janet H. Davis, an 83-year-old patient who was discovered in a 6 by 12 foot room attached to Mrs. Fletcher's private home. The discovery was made by a health team from the State Department of Public Health and Felton Police Chief Mike Olliver.

According to Olliver, Mrs. Davis "...was sitting in a chair; she was urine soaked from the waist down. The smell of urine in the room was sickening; the bed was stained, and there were three months worth of cobwebs in the room." He also reported a portable commode overflowing with "more than 24 hours worth of human waste" was found in the room whose only door was from the outside.

Mrs. Davis, an incompetent who was unable to communicate with investigators, has apparently been living in the room for about two years, reportedly with no trips outside in recent months and with no visitors.

According to an official of the Denton National Bank, Mrs. Davis' financial guardian, arrangements were being made to move her to another location. James Harvey, director of the state's Health Facility Licensing office said the woman needs to be

Felton Police Car Wrecked

The Journal has learned that Felton's town police car was totaled during a high speed chase on Saturday night.

Felton's Police Chief Mike Olliver was at the wheel, and there were no serious personal injuries. Other than that, no details were available and Olliver could not be reached by phone.

Kelly Maloney: Volunteer Fireman

When the fire alarm went off at 4 a.m., Kelly Maloney lay there listening, half asleep and half awake, wondering why it bothered her. After all, she lived right across the street from the Houston Volunteer Fire Company, and the sound of the alarm was nothing new. Most of the time she didn't even notice it. So why should this one be different?

Then she remembered. This one was for her. She, Kelly Maloney, aged 15 (or 16 almost) was a Volunteer Fireman. She had to get up, get dressed and go. the training activities. She

Yes, you read right. Kelly Maloney of Houston is a member of the Houston Volunteer Fire Company. And, no, we didn't mean to say the Ladies' Auxiliary (although we are certainly not knocking the Ladies Auxiliary). Her application for membership was accepted by vote in June, and she has been busy ever since. Not that being busy, or being a volunteer, or being interested in the fire company are anything new for Kelly. In fact, her main reason for wanting to be a fireman, she says, is the desire to do something to help others.

She has been active in helping others in a volunteer capacity as a Candy Striper at Milford Memorial Hospital where her mother, Helen Maloney, is employed. But this year, most of the Candy Stripers are younger than Kelly, and though her services are still needed and welcome, she felt ready to move on to something else. She also has a parttime job at a local Houston store this summer, and the hours there might conflict with the time she would be needed at the hospital.

A part of the reason is also just that extra feeling of excitement involved in being a fireman. Much of whatever is going on in a small town is likely to be going on at the fire hall. Since her home (at least for a good Yankee hurler) is no more than the proverbial stone's throw away, and since her two brothers Pat and Eric are volunteer firemen, Kelly has been on the edge of that excitement for some time. Now she's right in the middle. And she has a small scar to prove it.

Actually she is not yet allowed to hop on the back of the truck to go to fires, (that will come after she attends State Fire School this winter), Kelly does go in the rescue truck and assist. She has also been helping when the fire company is called on to fill pools this summer. And when the Houston Volunteer Fire Company recently conducted a controlled burning of an old house, Kelly went (this time on the back of the truck) and participated fully in

Citizens support Felton Police

It does not take many people to crowd the town hall at Felton, and it was definitely crowded Thursday night as about twenty persons attended a Council meeting to voice complaints, to indicate their support for the local police, or just to listen.

But if Thursday night's crowd was a representative sample, those who approve of what the Felton Police are doing have a leading edge over those who are unhappy with the current service.

The consensus among supporters seemed to be that, while no one was in favor of harassment of individuals or businesses by the police, most want the law enforced. This is particularly true of speeding laws and those aimed at cracking down on people who are DWI (driving while intoxicated). Several businessmen also said they were pleased by security checks the police are making on their businesses during after

Because of the checks, Jim Sleuter, who owns and operates J & R Gift Shop, said he now feels safe in putting expensive (stereo) units back in his windows. At one time Sleuter's business, then on Church St., was the site of a broken display window and a $500

Complaints were divided into those directed mainly at Felton Police Chief Mike Olliver and those asking correction of specific situations.

Bob Hemphill, who says his Felton tavern and other businesses have been hurt by the increased visibility of the police, returned to Thursday's meeting to make charges that Olliver is harassing patrons who leave the Owl's Nest and those who use its Apparently, Hemphill had agreed to let the local police sit in the lot and set up radar there. But, he claimed, the privilege is being used to watch his customers.

Felton Mayor William Myers leveled that issue with the decree: 'From now on, town police will not sit in your (Hemphill's) parking lot unless they are in pursuit.

The local police will no longer use the Owl's Nest parking lot to set up their radar. But they will be authorized to enter the lot if they are already in pursuit of someone, most probably a speeding motorist.

Hemphill also charged Olliver with using profane language in some of his dealings with the public and with speeding himself (on the way to court in Dover). He questioned Olliver's asking his son, Furniture Barn owner Bob Hemphill, Jr., for an I.D. The younger Hemphill and another man had been unloading furniture at the Furniture Barn late on Monday night, July 7, when the police chief stopped to check. The senior Hemphill thought the I.D. check was in retaliation for complaints he had voiced earlier that evening to the Town Council.

Councilman Don Jacobs and Olliver pointed out that this was just a part of the security checks local police were making for the protection of businesses. Olliver said he had not recognized Hemphill, Jr.

Olliver's language in dealing with the public was also a part of a complaint registered by Homer and Nancy Baird, of near Felton, whose son was arrested for consumption of alcohol under the legal age. Mrs. Baird said her son, who had "a couple of beers" graduation night, was called an epithet and told that his mother had received a traffic ticket. The Bairds protested both the language used and revealing information about the traffic citation to a minor.

Olliver said he was not the arresting officer in the incident and denied using such language in his official contracts.

The Bairds claimed kids are staying out of town and particularly away from Little League games because of harassment by the police.

This was echoed, in part, by Councilman Fred Casper, who said his customers at G & B Market have told him they are coming to the store themselves, rather than send their children on errands.

Olliver said he'd been asked by Norman Tribbet of the Little League to keep a check during games because of a problem with out-of-town juveniles harassing people in the concession stand.

Don Jacobs confirmed the request and the fact that there had been a problem, and said he felt better having his children attend the games, knowing there is police protection.

Olliver also denied any improper search of vehicles or stopping anyone without good reason for suspicion.

The police chief confessed that DWI's are a pet peeve of his, and said first offenders caught driving while intoxicated are likely to be arrested. But, he said, they are given the option of attending a school rather than getting a fine or other penalty

He also said his only interest in checking patrons of the local tavern would be of minors who might be served illegally.

As a case in point, he was questioned about stopping a young lady who had come to town "just to buy a bottle of soda" from a machine. Olliver replied that the giri (a minor) had entered the tavern and left, carrying a package. The package may have been cigarettes, but there was a bottle of booze under the car seat that the girl's companion said he had purchased earlier.

A number seemed to agree with Don Jacobs who said, "I am not in favor of harassment...but I am totally in favor of enforcing every speed law there is in town.

Several citizens had noticed some slowing down, even on Church Street, notorious for its speed violations. Church Street is the in-town extension of an open stretch of road leading to Viola.

Jacobs said he had observed a car with a load of youngsters going 60 on the Viola Road, but noted (with a chuckle) that they slowed down to 25 when they got to the Felton town limits.

Outspoken Joyce Jefferson said, contrary to reports that police presence is too heavy, "Police in Felton are scarcely visible at all." She referred to the speeding on Church Street and said local police are catching some, but not all. There are still those who "...go flat out all the way to Viola," where the speed crack down she claimed "...has made a believer out of my husband." Mrs. Jefferson would like to see the local police continue, but do more.

On hearing Mike Olliver is stern with DWI's, Mrs. Jefferson said, "If this man's pet peeve is drunk drivers...Hallelujah!"

She further contended being questioned by the police is not harassment saying, 'If you have nothing to hide, there is no reason you should object to being stopped."

Jim Sleuter, whose service with the fire company ambulance squad has given him graphic illustration of the effects of intoxicated driving, was likewise supportive of the strict handling of Several were also pleased with the calmiung influence police presence is havingon late night rowdiness that plagues Felton and other small towns, especially during the summer.

"This is the first summer I've been able to sleep at night." 'This is the first summer I've been able to raise a window and watch TV and not hear foul four letter words." "They've done a good job." - Such were the typical comments.

Joe Gannon said he has observed a marked decrease in the number of soda and beer bottles littering his lawn. He commended local police on their foot patrol, saying that this is the first time hes seen local officers out of the patrol car.

Gannon, in agreement with Mayor Myers, thought the business slow down was more the product of ecconomics (the recession) than police pressure. Mayor Myers had argued that businesses all over, not just in Felton, are experiencing drops of perhaps as much as 30%

Myers also said the speed enforcement would continue, and that a first priority for the town was looking out for its elderly

In the course of the discussion, the Felton Town Council dealt with two specific complaints:

John Hopkins, who brought a photo of bags of trash blocking a fire hydrant, was told the indiviual responsible had already been contacted and pressure would be applied to see the offense was not repeated.

Janette Reynolds who complained of firecrackers being thrown and of late night noise and rowdiness, was informed the landlord of the neighboring house from which a lot of the problem originates had promised the offending tenants would be moving out within a few days. If they do not move, Felton Mayor Myers said they will be placed under more restrictions. Firecrackers or any explosive divice, he told her, are in violation of a town ordinance, and the fine is

Ms. Reynolds was also unhappy about noise coming from the town's memorial park. But local police have allowed young people to congregate there as long as their behavior is within bounds.

-Bus Policy Amended-The Lake Forest School Board. Monday night approved a threeword ammendment or change to the bus accident policy accepted on the basis of a first reading in June. The change provides that a bus driver involved in an accident in which a child is injured be suspended "no later than" at the end of a run. This would give the bus contractor some discretion in allowing the driver to go on if the mishap is minor, or to employ a substitute if the accident is more serious or is one in which the driver is so upset as to be unable to drive. Such a suspension does not necessarily imply any fault on the part of the driver. It is simply a policy of procedure so that a -Pool Operating Costs Reviewed-Given a starting kitty of $14,000 last year, the swimming pool at Lake Forest High School spent $12,910 and took in $9,672.27. That leaves a difference of 3,237.73, some of which would be accounted for by startup expenses for equipment that should not have to be replaced for a number of years. The figures cited do not include the salary of Aquatics Coordinator Dennis Berry who is paid by one state schedule teaching unit plus a local supplement.

In addition to reviewing pool costs, the school board Monday night also granted pay raises to su h pool personnel as lifeguards ard instructors.

Tennis Court Progress-

The tennis courts under construction at Lake Forest High School await color coating and installation of nets and posts before they are ready for use.

Assistant superintendent Melvin Luff told the school board the awarding of the contract for the color coating has been held up until the low bidder, a Baltimore firm, can get a license to operate in Delaware. If that is not done within a reasonable time, the contract will have to go to the second low bidder. There is about a $200 difference. With the color coating finished, the tennis courts will have cost about $75,109 of the $120,000 envisioned for the project. Half of that money will come from the States Department of Parks and Recreation. The other half if to be provided by Lake Forest partially from monies left over from the LPW Federal Local Public Works) funds used for the high school athletic complex.

The remaining funds could be used for lighting, but that has not been decided.

In other business the Lake Forest School Board:

-approved a junk food policy that restricts the sale of candy, sodas, and other such items until after the final lunch period. This was a must to comply with requirements to get federal money for the lunch program.

-heard a report that summer school attendance figures show the percentage of those enrolled who are actually attending is up this year. However, attendance at Lake Forest North is still only about 66% of those who signed up. It was not sure whether the lack of air conditioning or some other factor is the reason

-heard that the school's liability insurance will not pay for jackets damaged by some substance while hanging in a cloakroom section of a classroom at North.

-tabled consideration of bus bids for transporting elementary fourth and sixth graders to the high school for swimming lessons until it can be learned why the figures are so desparate. The bids from four different contractors for the 180 trips involved are $2,070, $3,025.10, $5,201.46, and $5,993.60.

The Anatomical Wonder

Melvin Burkhart is 73 years old and still performing some of the most original acts in the carnival today. He drives nails up his nose to sticking ice picks in the side of his neck to all forms of magic including a trick with the dice that he has practiced for the past 45 years. 'I have tried to teach other magicians the trick...but they can't seem to pick it up. It has taken me 45 years to train my fingers for this trick", said Burkhart. He used to work a one ring circus in the winter time which put him into vaudeville. This is where he has developed his gift for gab. Burkhart performed in the Ripley show in New York on Broadway for many years and 1933 World's Fair as well as Ringling Bros. but he soon learned that with his many acts he could make more money in the carnival where he has worked for the past 24 years with the present show of Mrs. Elsie Sutton which contracts with the James E. Strates show.

On Saturday, several members of the Felton Volunteer Fire Co. entered their 1851 Gould Hand Pumper in an antique fire apparatus muster, which was put on by the Cambridge Rescue Fire Co. Those members who attended were Steve Childers, Glen Witt, Richard Harris and son Ricky, Peachy Rains, Randy Fisher and Rick Jenner Report from Hickory Ridge C.M. Church: We were pleased to have 90 present for our morning worship on Sunday, including several visitors.

Saturday evening was a time of good fellowship and some nice surprises. Since it was a holiday weekend we did not expect too many to our covered dish supper, but a large number came out. It also happened to be the pastor's birthday, and a beautiful cake in the shape of an Open Bible was brought in while everyone sang "Happy Birthday". He is very grateful for this expression of your love and for your cards, gifts and prayers.

The movie, "Deceived" was shown and proved to be a teaching theme on the area of false prophets.

We are pleased to announce the birth of another son to Bob and Bonnie Smith, Brian Louis, born Tuesday, July 1 and weighing 8 pounds, four ounces. Brian was discharged from the hospital Sunday and made his first appearance at church that evening. Welcome to this newest addition to our church family.

Gabfest

by Pat Hatfield

A hot summer afternoon. While I'm waiting for the washer to get the laundry done, we will gab a bit. When the weather is this hot I cannot get myself into anything really constructive. Of course meals have to be prepared and the oven helps out with that. I can arrange everything and then vanish while the oven cooks. Baked ham goes very well with cold salads. While I am not doing anything world-shaking I do have to keep at it like all housewives the world over. So I arise early and get things done "in the cool of the morning" as my grandmother was wont to say. So, this morning I made a loaf of banana bread. Then I brushed and combed "Nicky", the Cocker. How in the world do you keep fleas off your pet? We have stuff from our doctor-vet and we put that on and spray his yard and by the next day he is scratching again. We have not gone into the flea collar so much used now, because a dear friend of ours had one on his dog and the dog bit and chewed it and became very ill from the medication. In fact they almost lost him. So, we hesitate.

I had a lovely surprise recently. Two nice ladies came to my door and identified themselves as readers of the column. One was from Masten's Corner and she brought her cousin from Brookhaven, PA, which is near Media. And you know I got so carried away visiting with them that I neglected to write down their names. Is my face red! But, we had a great time together discussing everything from our spiritual outlook to the price of potatoes. It just made my day.

This morning I have two kettles of beets boiling away on the stove. And, true to form, and in spite of my watchful care, one has just boiled over painting the burner with beet juice. I will be glad when it is all over. Now, if the heater man doesn't decide to take this morning to service the furnace for the winter coming, all will be well.

Have you noticed the spectacular beautiful sunsets we've been having lately? They are so flamered and their radiant glow sheds its glory everywhere. I can almost say with Thoreau: 'I may dream of no heaven but that which lies about me.

Dad has become very fond of one of our mockingbirds who keeps him company when he arises early, like 6 a.m. to get some garden work done while it is yet cool. This mocker perches on the roof of the shop and between stanzas of his morning song, he performs his dance. How many of you have seen this with the mockers? Suddenly in the middle of a song, he will leap straight up into the air, turn a somersault and settle back to continue his singing. Years ago when I first saw this performance it happened to be in the early spring and I supposed it was some kind of courtship ritual. But I know that they do it in all seasons. I guess he's just overflowing with the pure joy of being alive.

Sussex 4-H News

Once again Sussex County 4-H'ers staged a very successful 4-H Lewes Horse Show. The day was hot and dusty but thanks to refreshments served by the Sussex County Leaders and Sussex County Links Bake Sale, it was an enjoyable one. We would like to give a special note of thanks to the sponsors, patrons, leaders and especially the club members for their months of hard work and dedication in preparing such a successful event. The proceeds from our show will be used for various 4-H activities during the year such as Younger Member Weekend, Jr. Leader Weekend, and Exchange trips.

XXXXXXXX This is a very busy time of the year and 4-H'ers should pay close attention to dates, places, and times of events. This is especially true in the case of Fair exhibits. Remembers, all exhibits must be picked up from the State Fair on Sunday, July 27 between 1 and 4

DISAPPOINTMENTS CAN BE BLESSINGS IN DISGUISE

There is no disappointment we endure one half so great as that we are to ourselves.

-Philip James Bailey

rom childhood, we have all experienced the bitter taste of disappointment. For you, it may have been the toy you didn't get for Christmas, then the party you weren't invited to. Later, it was the test you flunked, the job or promotion you didn't get, the broken romance or the friend who let you down. Any or all of these things made you wonder how life could be so cruel to you. However, let your Church remind you that they all happened for the best; that sooner or later you were destined to get an even better job, find someone truly worthy of your love, or learn not to depend too heavily on others. Disappointments can indeed be blessings, for they develop character and often pave the way for something much better for you in the long run.

Oak Ridge Boys Close Out Fair

Soaring harmonies, fancy footwork and driving up-tempo numbers categorize the show that will close-out this year's Delaware State Fair in Harrington. And from the words of The Oak Ridge Boys themselves, "We're going to get to a crowd regardless of what it takes.'

Such is the philosophy of the group that spent over 30 years "getting to" gospel music fans... they were at the top of the gospel circuit. By 1977 though, they realized they had reached the end of the line with the gospel establishment and turned their vast energies into the lucrative area of contemporary country music.

Their breakthrough came singing backup on Paul Simon's single "Slip Slidin' Away". After that it was five straight No. 1 country hits, including "Ya'll Come Back Saloon", "You're The One", "I'll Be True To You", "Sail Away", and "Dream On". Their current chart topper, "Trying To Love Two Women" further entrenches the Oaks as one of the leading groups on the country music scene.

In the Fall of 1978, the Oak Ridge Boys ended the Statler Brothers six-year reign as the Country Music Association's Vocal Group of the Year. In the Spring of '79 they were doubly honored when the Academy of Country Music bestowed their Vocal Group of the Year award on the singers, then handed the Oaks still another victory with the trophy for Album of the Year. But industry tributes haven't stopped there. Billboard Magazine, Cash Box, Record World and Radio & Records have all declared the Oak Ridge Boys the Number One Country Music Group.

The Oak Ridge Boys are thrilled with their new country/ pop image. 'The quick success of "Ya'll Come Back Saloon" really turned the corner for us," says group member, Bill Golden, who remembers lean years and numerous disappointments before reaching such a high plateau with their records, appearances and primetime television guestings.

Delaware State Fair officials are hoping the trend continues for them. Heavy advance ticket sales are reported and it looks like The Oak Ridge Boys concert there Saturday night should set a few records of it's own. Show times are set at 7:15 and 9:00 p.m. A fireworks display follows the 9:00 p.m. show.

Groom Killed At Brandywine Raceway

A private property motor vehicle accident at 1:30 a.m. today at the Brandywine Raceway took the life of a North Carolina man. Raymond A. McLellan, 25, of Box 1482, Southern Pines, North Carolina, was the passenger in a 1976 Chevrolet Malibu driven by James Mullen, 23, of 6019 Grant Avenue, Philadelphia, PA. The two were leaving the Brandywine Raceway, having just dropped off another man. As Mr. Mullen drove toward the main or route 202 entrance he lost control of his vehicle, struck a large boulder at the right edge of the road, and then struck a sign. The Chevrolet rolled over one time coming to rest on its wheels. The operator, Mr. Mullen, crawled out of the vehicle and around to the passenger side where he pulled Mr. McLellan from the car. Mr. Mullen then crawled to the stable gate and notified raceway security personnel.

The Talleyville Fire Company was dispatched and took both men to the Delaware Division Hospital. Mr. Mullen was treated for facial and arm lacerations and sity of Delaware Agricultural

Experiment Station researcher

Dr. William Liebhardt has shown

it to be safe and effective on field crops as long as it's applied at

Kent county has been spreading terested farmers' land. But since many farmers have expressed interest in using the sludge for vegetable rather than field crop production, Liebhardt is now released. Mr. McLellan expired at 3:22 a.m. of multiple internal and external injuries.

James Mullen will be arraigned later this morning at Magistrate Court 15, Philadelphia Pike, on a charge of criminally negligent homicide.

Both men are employed as grooms by the Gary Cameron stables. The victim, Raymond McLellan, was living in tack room 110 at the Brandywine Raceway. James Mullen lives in tack room

This accident is being termed a death by motor vehicle and not a highway fatality. Therefore, the total deaths on Delaware highways for 1980 remain at 71.

New Practices Being Used

Eighty local farmers had a first-hand look at some of the new practices being used on agronomic and vegetable crops in the area. They took part in the recent Kent County Crops Tour, sponsored by the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension Service and the agribusiness community.

First stop on the tour was Lake Forest High School, where the FFA chapter, working with the Extension Service, had prepared replicated plots featuring various treatments on no-till and conventional corn and soybeans.

At the Winkler Brothers Farm near Harrington, which features no-till corn and soybeans and irrigation, growers paid special attention to the no-till planter equipped with a squeeze pump. It is used to apply a dribble application of Poly-N starter fertilizer along the sides of rows.

At his farm near Williamsville, Robert Minner uses drip irrigation with cantaloupes. He also uses the drip system to apply nitrogen fertilizer.

Moving on to the Kent County Water Treatment Plant, county agricultural agent Dave Woodresearching the effects of sludge on vegetable crops at the University's Georgetown Substation. The last farm on the tour belongs to Charles Postles, Milford. There the group looked at drip irrigation under plastic for peppers, cantaloupes, and honeydew melons.

About half the group ended the day by joining farmer Vance Morris and his sons on their boat, the Tradewinds, for a trout fishing expedition.

Can't pay hospital bills?

The Hill-Burton Act, a federal law, requires all hospitals in Sussex and Kent Counties, some hospitals in New Castle County and Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury to give a certain amount of free or reduced cost medical care each year. If you or anyone in your family has hospital bills which you cannot afford to pay, contact the hospital immediately to see if you qualify for this help. If you have any questions about your eligibility, contact the billing office at the hospital or call the Legal Aid Society at 856-0038 in Sussex County, 674-8500 in Kent County or 546-5511 in Maryland.

For two and a half years he was always late for his job feeling various pains in his body and generally discontented with his career. He came back to radio, but this time he went to Pennsylvania...and West Chester and worked for a radio station there for 7 years before returning to this area.

Hazzard is not a musician, but loves music of "...all kinds, and I am sorry now that I didn't take up a musical instrument of some kind early in my life. I really regret that", said Hazzard. He added that he has a feel for music and ...I do it by association, for I have a good ear for music. So we develop along that line.

Hazzard along with Tom Draper, station owner, is involved with B.I. Tours which is designed to take groups to country musical festivals in Nashville as well as musicals in New York City "...or just plain sightseeing".

So Dennis Hazzard is another person doing his part in making the Delaware State Fair the success that it is. A man who thrives on detail and organization and is superably conscious of always doing nothing short of the best effort. We salute Dennis and his silver voice.

Dear Editor:

A LOT OF JAPANESE YOUNG PEOPLE WISH FOR PEN PALS FROM YOUR COUNTRY!!

78 Cars in Fair's Antique Show

On Sunday, July 20th, over 78 cars appeared on the Delaware State Fairgrounds for a showing of antique cars. The Brandywine Club is a member of The American Automobile Club of America (AACA). They have shown at the Fair for the past 20 years. There were 16 cars from the New Jersey Club representing a region of AACA.

Two of the oldest cars there were the 1910 Kelsy and 1915 Speedster Model "T" owned by the recently departed Mr. Kemp of Milford. A 1930 vintage Packard touring car was part of the NJ group and was valued at between $40,000 and $50,000.

purpose was to contribute to the peace of the world. This is the organization to promote international friendship and understanding of different customs, ways of life among young people of the world through exchange of letters. I believe it is one of the best ways to strengthen the ties of friendship among people all over the world.

A lot of Japanese English teachers of junior and senior high schools take part in this organization, and as they advise their students on international correspondence, it produces satisfactory results. I would like to recommend young people to correspond in English in order to promote the better relations between your country and Japan.

The people who are over twelve years old and would like to get a pen pal from Japan write to our club. Of course you don't need money to take part in it. Please print your name, age, sex, and full address clearly in your letter and send it addressed to the following.
