Milford Board Drags Feet While Hurrying to Close Houston School

Members of an Appeals Committee representing the P.T.O. (Parent-Teacher Organization) of the West Elementary School in Houston who are fighting to keep the little school open, say the Milford Board of Education, and Superintendent Dr. Michael Woodall are "dragging their heels in supplying information requested by the Attorney General's Office about policies and procedures relating to the decision to close the school. But, they say, the District is making quick work in moving furniture and playground equipment to Milford schools.

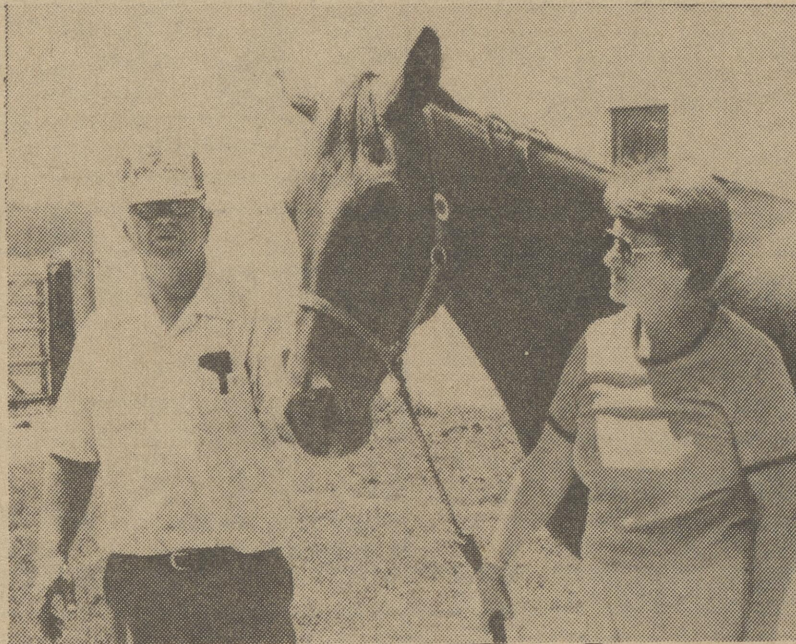

They are particularly incensed by the removal of the playground equipment, which, they say, Dr. Woodall promised would not be moved. Money raised by the local P.T.O. went to pay for part of the equipment and the volunteer efforts of a number of Houston men were involved in its installation and maintenance.

But the district seems in no hurry to supply information requested by the Deputy Attorney General relative to an appeal the committee has made to the State Board of Education protesting the Milford School Board's decision to close the school. A letter from Deputy Attorney General Roger Aiken, addressed to Dr. Woodall on July 8 asked for copies of Milford Board of Education regulations concerning hearings before the board and the procedures for closing schools. The letter also requested copies of the minutes of the Milford Board at which "the closing of the West Milford Elementary School was "Discussed and or acted upon" and any other relevant regulations or documents. So far, say the committee members, that information has not been supplied.

A letter addressed by the Committee to State Superintendent William Keene on July 29 expresses concern over the "lack of action by the Milford School Board in forwarding the information requested by (Aiken)".

The letter further reads: "Unfortunately, they are hastily taking action with our school. They are moving out all school (Continued on Page 3)

Olin and Ruth Davis spend a few moments with "Uncle Ford", better known around the Davis' stables as "George". "Uncle Ford" named for an elderly gentleman who was unofficial uncle to many racetrack children is a grandson of the prized "Quick Lady". When this picture was taken, he was "on vacation" from the racing circuit.

The Olin Davises Recall .....

[This is Part One of a Two Part story]

When they came to tell Ruth Davis her husband, Olin, had been injured on the race track at the fair, she said, "What next?" and kept on stirring the blackberry jelly.

The reaction is, perhaps, typical of the kind of "cool" that keeps a harness racing driver's wife "going when the going gets tough". The Davises had been involved in the business of racing harness horses since Olin, shortly after World War II, went to work for veteran trainer Elbert Saunders. By 1956, Davis was owner, trainer and driver in his own right, and for most of those years, Ruth Davis had been right beside him, supporting and helping.

But on that particular day, July 24, 1956, she had elected to stay home rather than go to the fair. Blackberries were ripe, and so was the opportunity to make jelly.

In 1956, harness racing was still a feature on several afternoons of what was then known as the Kent & Sussex Fair. That afternoon, during the 37th fair, Olin Davis was driving Bill Fleming's colt "Handsome Billy", and Jack Smith was behind "Adios Fancy", a mare owned by Frank Safford.

Smith and Davis, in that order, had finished first and second in the first heat of the two-year-old pace. Going around the first turn in the second heat, Davis had "dropped into the hole" behind "Adios Fancy" when the mare "stuck her toes in the ground" and went down. Davis and "Handsome Billy" were right into the downed horse and sulky, and Davis was thrown into the air. Coming down on the hub rail, he

LF Swim Team Wins 14 Ribbons

The newly formed Lake Forest Community Swim Team got its feet wet in a successful first competitive effort at the Kent Swim Invitational hosted by the Kent Swim Club of Dover on Saturday, August 2.

Competing in the Novice Division, the Lake Forest Team had 12 young swimmers attend the meet and brought home 14 ribbons and 2 "novice" meet records. Led by Danny Haines and Cathy Carlson the Lake Forest Swimmers had 3 individual champions, one runner-up, 2 third place finishers, 2 fourth placers, and a fifth place finisher. They also collected ribbons in 5 (Continued on Page Ten)

Felton Sewer Still Delayed

An engineering miscalculation has delayed progress on Felton's sewer system, and Mayor William Myers told the Felton Council Monday night, it is still not certain when the project will go to bid. His comments were in response to a question from a citizen, Dwight Stephens, who attended the meeting.

The Mayor said it had been discovered that at the intersection of lines leading from Felton to Frederica where the county's sewage disposal plant is located, the Frederica line was too small to accept the volume of sewage that would be coming from Felton. The engineers have to reroute the lines around Frederica to hook into the main vacuum lines leading to the disposal plant.

Myers also said he had tried unsuccessfully to contact Kent County's acting engineer, Henry Gunther, for word on the progress before Monday's meeting.

Bob Hemphill, Owl's Nest Tavern owner, expressed thanks to the Felton Council for their hearing and handling of recent complaints concerning the police departments. Hemphill said he hoped to remain friends with the Council and appreciated the difficulty of their job in trying to be responsive to the needs of all the citizens.

Woodbridge Budgets $189,300 For Energy Costs

The Woodbridge Board of Education Monday night approved a 1980-81 budget in which $189,300 had to be set aside for the year's energy costs, and according to Dr. William Griffin, Superintendent of Schools, no one knows for sure if even that will be enough.

$189,300 of those funds comes from a special Division II appropriation for energy costs from the state. This is the first year that there has been a separate energy category in the Division II funds. Beyond the special appropriation, the board had to add an approximate $20,000 to cover the foreseeable cost of fuel and other energy expenses.

The total of this year's Division

II funds for Woodbridge is $317,500.

In Division III, which supplies equalization funds supposed to offset the differences between richer and poorer school districts, the district will receive $159,565 this year. Of this, $135,875 is slotted to be added to the $155,000 that comes from local funds to make up the district's supplements to the state salaries paid to teachers and other personnel.

This year's budget for local funds comes to $259,642.

In addition to the budget figures accepted at Monday's meeting, there is a state supplied transportation budget which, Dr.

Locals Participate In All-Star Festivities

Eight young people from this area are participants in All-Star festivities leading up to the 25th Annual Delaware All-Star Football game to be played at the University of Delaware Stadium this Saturday, August 9th. "Blue Gold is Silver" is this year's emphasis as the event marks its silver anniversary year. But the continuing theme is "We play that they may learn," underscoring the game's purpose - raising funds for the benefit of the state's retarded children.

From Lake Forest, Drew Taylor and Kenny Clark have joined the 1980 All-Star Marching Band which will debut at Downtown Day activities tomorrow from 12-1:30 p.m. in Rodney Square and on the Mall in Wilmington. The band will also march in the All-Star parade in Newark Saturday morning and will perform during pre-game ceremonies and half-time activities in the afternoon. All students who tried out for the All State Symphony were invited to play in the All-Star Band.

This year's queens were selected at fashion shows held recently in Dover and Wilmington. The 1980 Gold Queen is Beth Myers of St. Mark's. Kathleen Eagan of Tower Hill will reign as Blue Queen. The respective runners-up Tanya Farrow of Newark High and Marguerite Coleman of Friends School.

Saturday's festivities in Newark begin at 9:30 a.m. with the kick-off of the first annual Blue/Gold All-Star Classic, a 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) run held in cooperation with Marathon Athletic Shoes and the Delaware Sports Club. Registration for this event is still possible on the morning of the race from 8:45 to 9:15 at the University of Delaware Stadium, the starting point of the race. All entrants will receive a shirt and one ticket to the All-Star Game. Prizes will be awarded to winners and runners-up in these classes: under 29, 30-49, 40-49; Over 50.

Preceding the parade at 11 a.m., the Descent Skydiving Team of Newark will perform a free fall jump in wedge formation from 13,500 feet. Their target will be the Newark Shopping Center parking lot. After an 80 second free fall jump, the group will separate at 2,000 feet, open their streamers and display blue and gold streamers and smoke trails.

The skydivers' touchdown will signal the start of the All-Star Parade. More than 700 persons in 75 marching units scheduled to cover the mile-long route which terminates on the University of Delaware Campus.

Pre-game ceremonies are set for 1:30; the game is to begin at 2 p.m.

Honorary chairpersons for the 1980 Blue/Gold All-Star Game are Bob Carpenter, co-founder of the game, and Ellen Williams, widow of the other co-founder, Jim Williams. Williams and Carpenter, each the father of a

Mark Smith

Representing Lake Forest on the Gold Squad this year is Mark Smith of Harrington, a 1980 graduate who was chosen in February to receive this year's Most Outstanding Athlete from Kent & Sussex Counties Award at the Annual Lower Delaware Gridiron Club Dinner. Mark's young buddy in the "Hand in Hand" program which pairs All-Star participants with retarded children for the months of activities that lead up to the game is Thomas Hood of the Ennis School.

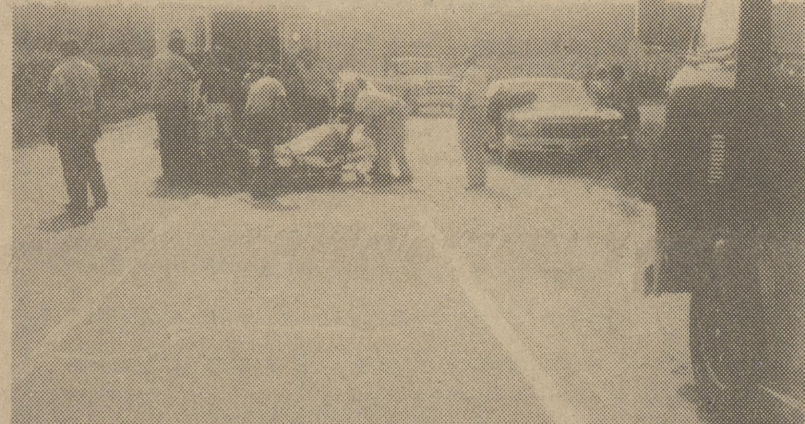

Gold Queen candidates from this area who will serve in the Court of Honor are Sharon Huttie of Lake Forest and Lisa Hamstead of Woodbridge. Lisa's "buddy" is Richard Jester of the Ennis School. Gold Queen candidates from each school are nominated by the player selected for the squad.

Tracy Oldham of Lake Forest and Laurie Barnes of Woodbridge are members of the 1980 Gold Cheerleader Squad. The two cheerleaders' "buddies" are Kathy Keeper and Connie Phillips respectively. Jan Turner of Lake Forest was also selected as a member or alternate of the Gold Cheerleaders.

Lions Have All Star Tickets

The Harrington Lions Club has purchased a block of 40 tickets to the Blue/Gold All Star Game set for the stadium at the University of Delaware in Newark this Saturday. The tickets are available, free, on a first come, first serve basis to anyone who calls for them. Information is available from Tom Peck at the Peck Brother Farm Supply Company (398-3654) or Leroy Calhoun at L & D Electronics (398-8297).

The All-Star game, which celebrates its 25th anniversary this year, raises funds for the benefit of the state's mentally retarded children. Each year the Harrington Lions Club has a block of tickets in support of the effort and in the hope that Harringtonians, especially Little Leaguers or members of the local football teams, would take advantage of the opportunity to attend the game.

Mrs. Ruth Short of Goldsboro, Md, a passenger in a car driven by her daughter, Evelyn Short, is being transported here by Harrington Vol. Firemen to Milford Hospital late yesterday afternoon. Short collided with a pickup being driven by Max Orkin of Milford when she attempted to turn left off Rte. 14 west of Harrington and the intersection of Rte. 298 across from the Bob McNallys. Both were east bound. Orkin was trying to pass. Short was charged with failing to give a proper signal. Orkin with illegal passing at an intersection. - Cases are pending. Cpl. Groton, Troop 5 D.S.P. was the investigating officer.

The Olin Davises

After time spent in hospitals in Milford and Wilmington, Davis was back in action on the track. But he still bears evidence of the injury, a left arm that he cannot fully flex. Actually, the doctor gave him a choice - come back for an operation that would make it possible to bend the arm all the way up, or keep the stiff joint and the power needed to handle the reins. The decision was not easy, but it was, perhaps, inevitable. Racing was Davis' livelihood and his way of life. And the next year, when Olin Davis drove a bucking horse off the track at Rosecroft, other drivers knew he still had the power in that arm to control a harness horse.

Elbert Saunders-

The tough spirit that enabled Davis to continue was well exemplified in his early employer and mentor, that grand old man of the harness racing circuit, Elbert Saunders. Saunders drove harness horses until he was 86, even though he was seriously injured in a racing accident at 84. The accident occurred at Rosecroft when Saunders was behind Ray Holloway's "Miss Lawrence Tip Hanover". Coming around a turn, another horse and driver "went under him", throwing horse, driver and sulky up on the side. Saunders, Davis says, hit the track so hard you could hear him.

Now, while the old gentleman did not break any bones, it would be incorrect to say he jumped up off the track and got right back in the sulky. But he did return to racing, driving again on a number of occasions before his retirement at 86. He lived to be 91.

Olin Davis went to work for Saunders after World War II, much of which he spent in the Southwest Pacific. He was stationed in New Guinea and on the east coast of Australia around Melbourne and in the area of the Great Barrier Reef where he recalls the sharks were so thick the Aussie Navy had to use explosives to clear the water. The sharks would get tangled in and foul the propellers of the Liberty ships.

After the war, Olin Davis went to work for Saunders, who trained and drove horses for his uncle, J.M. (Med) Davis of Clayton, DE, as well as for several others. Davis started out chauffeuring Saunders, grooming horses and doing whatever else needed to be done around the stables. Eventually he was training and driving. Within a few years, he took over his uncle's horses and acquired some of his own.

Harness Racing at the Fair- Davis' personal experience, combined with the recollections of Saunders and other older drivers have shared with him, give a view of racing at the fair from its earliest days. Saunders, according to Davis, helped institute harness racing at the fair about 1921. From that time until more recent years when it has been limited to the Delaware Development Fund 2-year-old stakes held on the fair's preview night, harness racing was a regular feature on four or five afternoons.

In the early years, there was racing at a number of local fairs - Harrington, Cambridge, Pocomoke City, Reading, Trenton - making an informal round that old timers would label with such names as "Leaky Roof Circuit". Davis recalls hearing that Harrington, Reading and Pocomoke were on the "Tin Roof Circuit". Horses might be shipped from one place to another by railroad. But there were times when they were just hitched up and driven to the next fair.

When harness racing held sway at the fair in Harrington, races were run in heats, and colts and fillies were raced together. There were usually two, and sometimes three heats in each race. The winner could be the horse with the fastest time in two heats, or the best two out of three. On occasion, several heat winners would come back for a final match to determine the race.

Horses were classified then by the time in which they could go the course. There would be a 2:20 pace or a 2:30 trot. (Classification today by the total of the horse's winnings - with some qualifications - or in some parts of the country, by the old ABC system).

But the elite races at the Harrington (or the Kent & Sussex) Fair were the Free-for-all Trot and the Free-for-All Pace. As the name implied, any horse was eligible, whether he could go in 2:20, 2:30 or whatever. But only the best accepted the challenge. You didn't enter if you couldn't stand the heat. According to Olin Davis, the Free-for-All would be comparable to an Invitational today. There was also a Junior Free-for-All.

Harness racing has ceased to be a part of the daily "fare" at the Delaware State Fair, and Olin Davis offers the growth of the pari-mutual tracks as the main reason. The tracks could offer larger purses than the fair at which there was no (official) betting.

Another aspect of harness racing that has dwindled, if not disappeared, is the practice of running the races in two or more heats. Today's trot or pace is more likely to be decided in one "dash". Again, the enormous growth of harness racing is offered as a reason. There are a lot more horses competing than there used to be. The Davises can remember when George Enslin almost had to recruit entries to fill the local racing card. Today there are too many entries to justify races run in several heats. And the horses are faster, perhaps putting in more effort in that one dash.

-Stake Races-

Instead of the daily harness racing, the Delaware State Fair now offers the Delaware Development Fund 2 year-old stakes, really a separate event from the fair, but usually scheduled on its preview night. There is a 3-year-old stake race later in the season at Dover Downs and 2 and 3-year-old stakes at Brandywine. Purses in the stake races can be attractive because the entries must make several payments in advance and put up a sizable entry fee. An owner who has a promising filly will make the first payment on the 15th of December before she is a 2-year-old. If she continues to "promise", he will complete the payment series and put up the entry fee. If not, he drops out, but his filly can still be eligible for a stake race if he picks up the payments and she seems to be more ready as a 3-year-old.

Purses accumulated in this manor can be quite high, and the Davises say there is an upcoming stake race at the Meadowlands in New Jersey where the purse will be a million dollars. But each owner will have at least $12,000 or $13,000 invested in his horse (just for that race) by the day of the race. The entry fee along is $5,000 or $6,000.

The stake race will be run even if there is only one entry left. That horse will be termed a "walkover" and will be eligible for the purse. Olin Davis, himself, had a "walkover" with "Performance" in the 3-year-old Abbe Dale stakes some years ago.

[To be continued next week as the Davises discuss "good horses" and "fast horses".]

This was the scene last Tuesday night at Smyrna as water rushed from Lake Como, left, over the washed out roadway going up into the town of Smyrna. Traffic was resumed the next day on U.S. 13 opposite the washed out area. Jack Short of Harrington, an employee of the Highway Department, was one of the men detailed to the disaster area.

Gabrielson

[Continued from page one] to strike back if the U.S. were a victim of a first attack) and verification (if we stick with the SALT agreements the MX missile can be identified and verified).

Vice President Walter Mondale, said Gabrielson, was also impressive on the economy. On platform issues, Gabrielson thinks there should be no wage and price control, and has changed his mind on decontrol of oil, which compared to other areas that have been decontrolled, is "the way to go" for private enterprise.

On the platform, Gabrielson foresees some convention fighting and a lot of work to be done. He also thinks there will be some compromise with the minority reports. He says there is disagreement not on what should be done (what programs are needed), but how it should be accomplished. The "Party of the People", he adds, has to stick with programs - social, health welfare - intended for the people. On the question of inflation and its relation to government spending, Gabrielson points to the inconsistency, especially among economists, in pinpointing the causes of inflation and said that he thinks programs already instituted for its control have not really had time to work.

Gabrielson is also strong on the strength of a second-term president, free of many of the political considerations involved in running for another term, can have in making decisions for the country.

After the day of briefings at the Washington Sheraton, Gabrielson joined the 600 other delegates in attendance for a reception at the White House where they were personally greeted by the President who spoke to them for about a half hour. He said that as the President began to speak, a spontaneous "Four more years!", broke out and continued for several minutes.

The Journal also asked Ed Gabrielson for his comments on the President's Monday night press conference on the Billy Carter controversy. Again, he was impressed with Carter's performance, saying "He did the job. He cleared the air." He said that listening to the President, "...You have to believe he's an honest man" and that he thought there was no comparison to Watergate.

Pigeon Club Holds First Show

African owls, archangels, Jacobins, Vienna shortfaces and Danzig high flyers were all in attendance as a fledgling organization, the Delmarva Pigeon Club, put on its first show Saturday, August 2, at the home of Ray Bange, near Greenwood.

For the uninitiated, the African owls, as well as the others mentioned above, are all names of some of the 25 breeds of pigeon represented in about 200 individual entries at Saturday's show. Bohemian pouters, English trumpeters, English and Indian fan-tails and Slow Kings were just a few of the others.

There are some 200 known breeds of pigeon in existence. Although Saturday's show was a first for a new organization on Delmarva, pigeons have been bred, raised and shown for generations for centuries. And the interest is worldwide.

Brian Wallington, formerly of England, but currently of New Hampshire, was the judge for the event which was limited strictly to show birds. There are pigeon fanciers who raise birds for performance competition - the homing pigeon and others. But appearance was the key on Saturday. The various breeds were judged on their color, their particular markings as set against standard for their breed, their overall condition, their carriage and their eye.

Because it was a first effort and was held at a private location, the show was limited to members of the Delmarva Pigeon Club. But club officials hope that it will grow and that they will be able to hold another show, open to the public and to competition from outside, in the near future.

The Delmarva Pigeon Club was organized this past March, and has met monthly since then with an active membership growing in a short period to more than 20 members. Its officers are Art Thompson of Laurel (president), Claus Twisselmann of Felton (vice president), Steven Underhill of Dover (secretary treasurer) and Kenneth Workman of Bridgeville (publicity director).

Interested persons on Delmarva, whether pigeon owners or not, have been invited to find out more about the organization and its activities by calling any of the officers.

This unusual Vienna shortface, owned by Claus Twisselmann is a prize-winner. The bird's special beak makes it unable to feed its young who have to be fed by human "parents". Because of this, the shortface could probably not propagate in the wild.

Houston Appeals Committee

The letter, signed by fifteen Houston residents points out the Appeals Committee has "followed all the procedures for a re-hearing and appealed to the State Board in good faith". The committee is asking the State Board request "the cooperation of the Milford Board in delaying the closing of the West School until such time as final resolution can be made."

Travel Expenditures Questioned-

The cost of operating the Houston School (about $17,000) has been the major reason cited by the Milford Board in its decision to close. In looking at ways in which the district might find that money without raising taxes, members of the Appeals Committee have examined district expenditures in a number of areas.

One such area in question is the travel expenses for a total of eight trips (made by Dr. Woodall and six board members) to two conventions in California. The cost of these trips in 1980 has totaled $11,509.95, which is $4,973.90 more than the $6,536.05 spent for travel in 1979. Dr. Woodall attended an ASA convention in Anaheim, and he and six board members went to the National Schoolboard Association Convention in San Francisco in April.

With expenses for eight trips coming out of the $11,000, the average spent per member per trip was $1,375.

When the Appeals Committee asked for details of trip expenditures, they were finally told that the Board's Attorney James Griffin had advised the denial of this information.

However, the Committee was able to obtain these figures from state sources, and although detailed information was not made available, it was reported at least two well-known Milford board members averaged $26 per meal during the convention junketing.

The Appeals Committee questions an excess if this kind of expenditure when quality education in the district is at stake.

In a further development it was announced that Houston's newly formed TIE (Taxpayers Interested In Education) has affiliated itself with the National Committee for Citizens in Education, a 200,000 member organization in 45 states. "The national organization is committed to improving the education of America's children by increasing parent and citizen participation in public schools."

Thoughts From Washington

By U.S. Senator Bill Roth

"A UNIQUE GENERATION....."

"We are a unique generation. We have lived history that was often disheartening, but never dull....."

These words summarize the life and times of Mrs. Agnes Mae Turley of Dover, who served in my office during two recent weeks as part of the U.S. Senate's annual senior intern program. Because of the sensitivity of her ideas about her generation - 65 years of age and older - her thoughts will be featured in this week's column:

"We have lived through two major wars and a great depression when four million men walked the streets looking for work. We made our victory gardens, joined Civil Defense, stood in line for sugar and coffee and we learned to roll our own cigarettes. We bought Liberty Bonds in World War I, Civil Defense Bonds in World War II.

"We cheered FDR when the Prohibition Act was repealed so workers could go back to their jobs. We went to church on D Day and prayed all day, cried over our lost boys and lauded our heroes.

"We knitted socks and rolled bandages. We watched the progression of aviation from the barnstorming days through the jet age. We were wild with joy when Charles Lindburgh made his historic flight. We read our kids' comic books and wondered about it all when man walked on the moon.

"I am truly grateful to have been born into this age. Never has there been such dramatic progress as during this generation.

"We made history and lived it with suffering, hard work, much love and more laughter - often in a creed which says, 'Lord, help me to change those things I can change, accept those I cannot change and the wisdom to know the difference.' "

Independent Bible Fellowship Church

The Independent Bible Fellowship is happy to bring to Harrington THE ACADEMY OF ARTS Christian Drama Team which will appear at the New Century Club on Friday, August 8, in the Biblical drama, David the King. The hour-long production is the moving story of the rejection of King Saul and the beginning of David's ascension to the throne. The Drama Team will perform in full costume and make-up, and will utilize professional stage lights and sound.

The story begins with a warning by Samuel, the prophet, to King Saul and all the people of Israel to fear God and obey his voice. Because of a series of incidents demonstrating stubbornness and disobedience, Saul is rejected from being king and David is secretly anointed by Samuel.

In a frightening night scene, the Spirit of God departs from the stubborn king and an evil spirit moves in to trouble him. The climax of his rejection is seen in his battle tent, where David's faith in God and Saul's powerlessness are contrasted against the backdrop of a giant's threats.

The program begins at 7:30 p.m. The New Century Club is located on Dorman Street in Harrington, and an offering will be received.

THE ACADEMY OF ARTS Drama Teams are pioneers in the area of Christian drama and give more than 200 productions in 28 states each year. Pastors and Christian School administrators are cordially invited to attend to learn more about the unique ministry.

Bill Roth

Senator Bill Roth today disclosed that the Department of Housing and Urban Development awarded the Delaware State Housing Authority an additional 85 section 8 new construction housing units for fiscal year 1980.

"This allocation in the amount of $490,000 represents a 50% increase beyond the State's fair share of fiscal year 80 funds for new construction. The allotment comes from the Secretary's discretionary fund. In April, I met with Secretary Landrieu in my office in an effort to secure these additional units for Delaware," said Sen. Roth.

"I am very pleased that the Secretary made this allocation to Delaware under this extremely competitive program where only 3,000 units were available nationwide for State Housing Authorities," Roth said. "The Delaware State Housing Authority will utilize the units according to their own priorities based on the established rules and guidelines under the program."

Yard Sale Signs Subject to Law

"Signs advertising yard sales, fund raisers, produce stands and barbecues are subject to Delaware's Outdoor Advertising laws," says Secretary of the Department of Transportation Kermit Justice.

Illegal outdoor advertising involves any sign, poster or billboard unlawfully placed in any highway-related area, including utility poles, highway directional signs, and traffic signals. Even though temporary in nature, political campaign signs and stickers are not exempt from the rules and regulations governing all other signs.

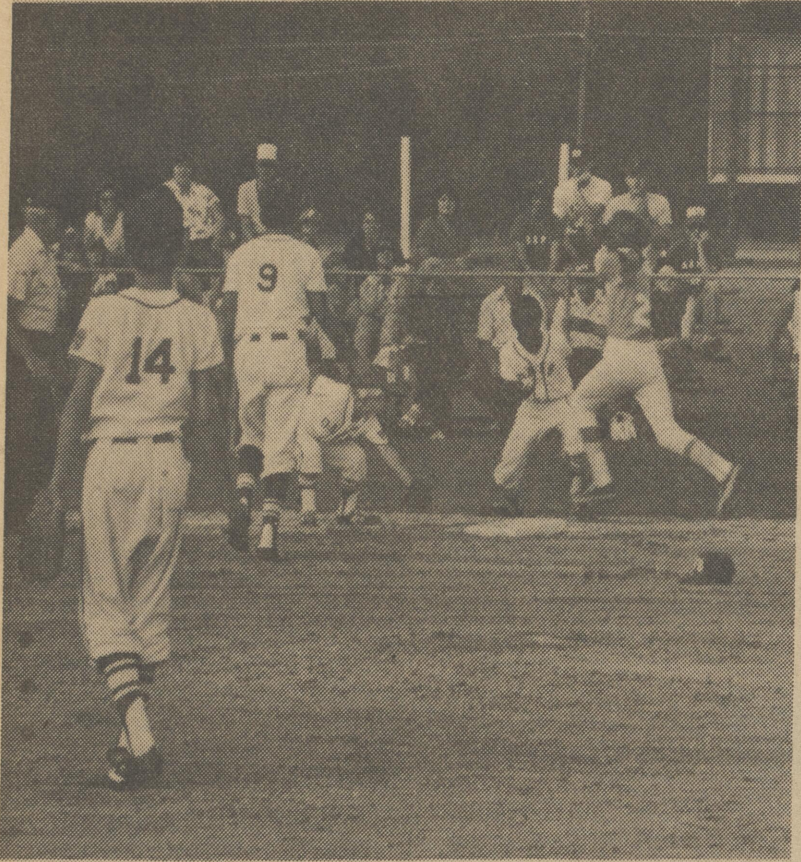

Some exceptions include designated nonconforming signs or those which have existed before right of way requirements came into effect, designated "on premises" signs, and signs which denote areas containing natural scenic or historic attractions, beautification projects, and landscaping projects donated and/or maintained by the general public.

Previous efforts to eliminate the problem of illegally placed signs on medians and inside right-of-way on roadways, include suits against violators to remove illegal signs, and repayment of monies expended by the Department for past removal of illegal signs.

A Federally-sponsored survey to update current outdoor advertising laws and to redefine the State's junkyard laws, is presently being conducted by the Department.

Revisions to the sign permit fee to cover the high annual operational costs amounting to $50,000 is also in progress.

Lake Forest Swim Team

According to Aquatics Coordinator Denny Berry, the venture, an experiment with age group swim teams by the Lake Forest Community Swimming Pool in conjunction with the Lake Forest Aquatics Programs, was "a great success". After being approached by the Kent Swim Club of Dover, DE, Berry, decided to enter a team of age group swimmers into the Invitational Swim Meet after being informed that Lake Forest Swimmers would be considered "Novice" swimmers. A "novice" swimmer is a swimmer with limited swimming experience and with this in mind, the first "swim team" to represent the Lake Forest Community Pool was begun.

Parents of pool members were informally notified that anyone 6 to 18 was invited to compete for the Lake Forest Community Swim Team in the designated age groups for this particular meet. The swimming program at the Lake Forest High School has only been in operation for some 10 months at this point and many of the "competitive" swimmers were fresh from "learn to swim" and for some, "pre-school" swim programs run during the year at the pool.

Several parents of the swimmers volunteered to serve as coaches for the team and with Denny Berry, Jack and Carol Sieber and Jane Carlson the young swimmers who would represent Lake Forest began one week of light practices in preparation for this past Saturday's Kent Swim Club Invitational.

Of the 9 Swim Associations participating in the Invitational, the Lake Forest Team was the only team from Delaware below Dover.

The Lake Forest Aquatic Programs have tentatively scheduled an age group swim team for pool members set to begin in the late fall and early winter. Those interested should contact Denny Berry at the Lake Forest High School Pool.

[See next weeks Journal for the complete results of the Lake Forest Swim Team].

Delaware State Police Say

Validity of K-55 Radar Not in Question

Concerning this morning's story in the Morning News, there has been the interpretation by some news agencies that the reliability of the K-55 Radar is in question. That is not the case. The K-55 has been shown to be a viable and reliable device for accurately determining target vehicle speed, and this has been established in a number of courts. The position of the Delaware State Police is to continue employing the K-55 radar in both the stationary and moving modes for speed enforcement. The Edwards case is being appealed by the State of Delaware, and events have occurred since the Edwards decision which continue to reaffirm the viability of radar as a speed enforcement tool. Every major court which has heard radar testimony has affirmed its continued use.

The issue here is not the reliability of the radar, but rather that precedence has not been established in the Delaware Superior Court upon which the magistrates may base their decisions. Eight persons charged with speeding through the use of the K-55 in the moving mode have, however, been indicted in the State Superior Court, and the first of these go on trial August 13th.

The closest high court decision on the K-55 moving target radar was in the Wojtkowiak case in the New Jersey State Superior Court, Appellate Division, in which a three judge panel affirmed the validity and reliability of radar for speed enforcement. In addition, the National Bureau of Standards has just recently completed its three year study on radar systems currently in use, and they also confirmed the reliability of radar.

Until a test case can be heard, the Delaware State Police will continue to prosecute speed cases on the magistrate and Court of Common Pleas levels, including those involving moving mode radar. The judge in contested moving mode cases, after hearing evidence, can then dismiss the case if he feels sufficient evidence has not been presented to insure the credibility of the K-55 unit.

Harrington Volunteer Firemen responded to a fire on Weiner Avenue on Monday around 6 p.m. It was the former office of Dr. Addis. It is believed the cause was electrical possibly starting from a faulty motor in an electric fan. No one was in the house at the time of the fire.

Dear friends,
Youngsters, like adults, need to accept and express their grief in times of tragedy. Children are more vulnerable to loss, particularly the death of a parent. Because of their complete dependence on adults, they consider it a form of punishment for misbehavior. Children should be encouraged to express their feelings by talking about the death - to realize that death is natural and inevitable.
Respectfully,
