Library Referendum Set

As an addendum to the special budget meeting Monday night, the Harrington City Council voted to hold a public opinion referendum on the future of the Harrington Public Library. The referendum will ask whether the citizens want the City of Harrington to fund the library through direct or indirect taxes. The actual question that Harrington citizens will be asked to consider could be re-phrased, "Do you want library services in Harrington to continue, and are you willing that any part of your tax dollars be used to pay for them?"

That does not mean that taxes will or will not be raised to fund the library. In fact, for the immediate future, it is almost certain that they will not. The proposed budget which Monday's Council meeting was called to consider includes a $4,500 appropriation for the library for fiscal year 1981. That budget, which has not yet been adopted, comes very close to being balanced. And it does not call for any kind of a tax raise.

The date of the referendum has been set for election day, Tuesday, November 4, from 12 noon to 7 p.m. The poll will be located at some place in the Fire Hall that will not legally conflict with the national election polling places.

The referendum is for the purpose of indicating public opinion, and is not legally binding upon Council members. However, one Council member, Dr. Vincent Lobo has promised that his vote on library support be determined by the results of the referendum. If the referendum turns out a margin in favor of the library, that would mean his "Yes" vote on questions of library support - both now and in the future. Not only would he vote for the proposed allocation this year, but would support funding the library in future years, even if it meant raising taxes.

Lobo took a similar stand on the referendum held this past May to determine public opinion on the rezoning of a portion of Dudley Willis' property near Peck Avenue to accommodate apartment housing for the elderly.

The results were better than 3-1 in favor of the housing, and he cast his vote in accordance.

Dr. Lobo said that he has so far backed the library, but that his continuing support would hinge upon the referendum.

Councilman Jack Wyatt, who pointed out that he had voted against the library, introduced the motion for a referendum on whether the city should "donate the $4,500" to the library. At the suggestion of another council member, the Reverend Ray Newman, the motion was re-written in more general terms.

The amended motion carried the Council 4-1, with Councilman Gary Harrington casting the only dissenting vote. Harrington urged that the referendum be couched in more positive terms. Another Council member, Harold Brode, was not present. The referendum motion came after an executive session called to discuss employee raises and a contractual matter. One citizen still present at the meeting, Carol Lamphier, questioned whether the timing of the referendum was appropriate or whether it should be received for when and if the tax question might come up. She also asked whether the petition recently circulated by library supporters might not serve the same purpose.

The state, which funded the Harrington library for the first two years, recently turned it over to the city of Harrington which had already appropriated funds to continue services to the end of this fiscal year. In addition the library has been promised $1,500 in revenue sharing funds from Kent County Levy Court, a portion of which has already been received.

Looking Back: 62 Years

by Bessie Austin Burdzyk

Many things began to change. Mr. Messner came to Harrington and introduced us to some semi-classical music, via the old oaken Victrola and records. This was called Music Appreciation Hour - I remember it well, and appreciate it more-and-more as time passes. The boys decided to play competitive baseball and then soccer, with neighboring schools. A little old wooden building was moved up behind the brick building and was made into a classroom called the Home Economics Room. Now - comes another saga.

In certain stages of weather, our school bus did not always make it to school in the normal time. None of our roads were paved. The ruts were deep and muddy and just plain impassable. In such cases, the boys all put on their old boots, which they carried and kept on the bus for that very purpose. The girls all got off and stood along the side of the road. The driver would run the motor - and the boys would push - and - if we were lucky - on such days - after eight or nine of such mud holes - we might arrive at school by 11:00 or even 11:30 - wet, cold - muddy and so hungry.

Well, that Home Economics Room became our have - the Eighth and Ninth Grade girls were being taught to cook and sew. Miss Thelma Buell of Greenwood had come to Harrington to teach this very special subject. Cocoa was three cents (3c) per cup and a platter of Creamed Dried Beef on Toast, or a Bowl of Homemade Soup could be bought for 7c - so if you had a dime - you had a big hot lunch. And -- off the record - there were times if someone didn't have a dime - he ate - and no one ever knew that he had not had a dime that day - no one, that is, except Miss Buell. (I used to wonder where the magic pocket was, in her smock - that could hold so many dimes coated with compassion and love.) The Home Ec Girls, as we called them, not only cooked lunches for the whole school, but during their limited time they learned to plan menus, cook planned meals, baby diets, and to sew. Miss Buell had them make little cotton dresses - and every Spring they had Open House and displayed their handicrafts - hanging them on the wall all around that

Callis/Thompson Retire

The Board of Directors of Callis-Thompson, Inc. has accepted the resignations of Joseph J. Callis, president, and George A. Thompson, secretary-treasurer. The following officers were elected: William G. Thompson, president; Robert D. Faw, vice president; Lewis R. Stretch, Jr., secretary; Christopher P. Brown, treasurer.

Joe Callis and George Thompson have served as officers since founding the corporation in 1953. They will continue in their capacities as directors and principal shareholders.

The newly elected officers have been actively involved in the daily management of the business for a number of years. No change in method of operation is anticipated.

Janecees Auction to Benefit Library

The Harrington Janecees, who have taken on the Harrington Public Library as a year-long project, have decided upon an auction as their next fund raising event. The auction will be held at Taylor and Messick on Saturday, October 18, beginning at 7 p.m. The proceeds will go to benefit the library. Anyone who has items or baked goods to donate can contact any member of the Janecees or call local president Becky McKnatt at 398-3228 for further information.

The clown dunk held during recent Heritage Day festivities as a beginning fund raiser has been termed a success.

-New Memberships Invited-
The Janecees welcome new members and are extending a special invitation to anyone between the ages of 18 and 35 who might be interested to attend a meeting on Monday, September 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Sue Ellen Dennis on Center Street Extended in Harrington Manor. Attending the meeting does not mean a commitment to join the Janecees, but an opportunity to observe a typical meeting and get acquainted.

-Tie A Yellow Ribbon-

The local Janecees will also be participating in National Freedom Week, October 11-18, with its emphasis on "Tie A Yellow Ribbon" to remember the American hostages in Iran.

Council Reviews Proposed Budget

The Harrington City Council Monday night made relatively few changes in proposed 1981 budget figures presented by Mayor Arthur Cahall. As presented, the budget was balanced. But after the changes, it may be a few dollars in the red.

As the Mayor foresees the 1981 picture, outgo (estimated at $300,000) will exceed income (est culated at $343,000). But a 1980 surplus of $77,000 as offset against a deficit of $34,780 (or $34,030 as later amended) would make up the difference.

1980 revenues which exceeded the estimates by $56,000 are largely responsible for the surplus. These include $18,000 in adjusted revenue sharing funds and $35,000

Dave Peterson

City Manager Resigns

Harrington City Manager Dave Peterson dropped a quiet bombshell at Monday night's special budget meeting when he announced that he would resign the post to take another job. He would not say where that was. His last full-time day for the city will be Friday, October 3. But Peterson did say he would return to the next regular Council meeting to answer any questions. That will be on October 13.

Peterson, who has been with the city as manager for nearly four years, has just recently returned from vacation. His departure will leave the city in limbo until a replacement can be hired. A suggestion Monday night that City Clerk Norma Short be appointed acting city manager for the interim was quietly turned aside when Mrs. Short reminded the Mayor and the Council that she does not have all the legal qualifications to hold the post.

The Council will advertise the job with closing date for applications set for October 16.

The resignation obviously took Mayor Arthur Cahall by surprise. The only other Councilman to react immediately was Gary Harrington who went on record to commend Peterson for the job he has done during his years as City Manager.

Drain Grant Street or?

One Harringtonian, Jim Carroll of Grant Street, has said his patience with the City Council is not wearing thin; it has disappeared altogether. Carroll has promised legal action if the city tackles any other drainage problem before addressing the situation on Grant Street that has sometimes kept his pump running five days and nights in a row.

As evidence, Carroll cites a motion recorded in the minutes of the Harrington City Council for February 19, 1973 (seven years ago) to take whatever steps were necessary to drain the water on Grant Street. Since then, Carroll says, little or nothing has been done. The state ran a nozzle into one of the drains to blow it out. But the nozzle got lost and is probably still in the drain, possibly contributing to the problem. He also said a nearby ditch has been cleaned out on occasion, but that did not solve the problem.

There is water under Carroll's house, and when it floods the yard after a heavy rain, it is impossible for his family to use their downstairs bathroom. Backed up water often runs over the sewer vents, and Carroll reports that the city has had to send men to raise manholes on the street when the water has gotten high.

He is especially perturbed about reports that the city has set aside $4,850 for drainage on North Street without coming to terms with the Grant Street problems.

Carroll's feelings were relayed to the City Council at a special meeting Monday night.

Boy Scouts Needed

A reorganized, revitalized Boy Scout Troop 76 is on the go in Harrington and is looking for young men ages 10½ or older to join its ranks. New Scout Master Melvin said "interested boys can join by attending a meeting." The next one is scheduled for this evening, Wednesday, September 24 at Asbury United Methodist Church on Weiner Avenue and Liberty Streets. The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. and will be held in Collins Hall.

Melvin also said the membership is growing, and there are already plans for an active schedule. A bike hike is set for Saturday, October 4, and there will be an overnight campout some weekend in the very near future. The troop plans to hold one campout per month throughout the year.

Along with Wayne Melvin, Ronnie Hughes and Joe Gannon have enlisted, both in the capacity of Assistant Scoutmaster. Parents of prospective scouts and any other interested adults are encouraged to participate.

Parents and boys interested and needing further information can call Scoutmaster Melvin at 398-8019 any evening after 5 p.m.

Fish For Fun Day At Killen's Pond

From coast to coast, whether it be in the salty surf or in a clear mountain stream, more people go fishing than participate in all other outdoor sports combined. In fact, each year millions of Americans, young and old, drive millions of miles and spend millions of dollars just to "catch the big one".

On Saturday, September 27th, in hosting their 1st Annual "Fish For Fun Day" the Delaware Recreation and Parks Society brings the fish to you!

Over 600 chunky rainbow trout, all sizes! Fun to catch and good to eat. All you need bring is pole and hook. DRPS provides the bait and the fish. You provide the fun!

At two locations. One at Canby

Pool in Wilmington and one at Killens Pond Pool in Felton from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

The price, 50c per hour or per fish for kids under 12 and $1.00 per hour or per fish for adults is modest, especially when you consider what a fresh rainbow trout dinner would cost you at a restaurant!

So, come on down or come on up, whatever the case may be and have some fun, catch some fish and enjoy a hot dog. Better yet, catch some fish and buy a T-shirt and the IOPS will throw in the hotdog for free. You might even win a special bonus prize!

"Fish For Fun Day" is sponsored solely by the DRPS. "Doing our best, to do it better, for you".

 The two biggest deficit items are a $6,000 cost overrun for the purchase of sewer and water supplies (chemicals, etc.) and a $5,600 to be spent for North Street drainage. The latter was cut from the 1980 budget. But the project was revived when area residents protested conditions there. The council later adjusted the North Street figure to $4,850, thereby reducing the deficit by $750.
 Raises for city employees, another item that was cut in the hassle of balancing last year's budget, are included in the proposed 1981 figures. After an executive session the Council slightly boosted several of the salary figures. The increase may put the adjusted budget over the balance line by a small amount. If the budget is adopted as suggested, the City will also pick up the employees' share of FICA (Social Security).
 The proposed budget will undergo further review before the Council adopts it.

Looking Back

little wooden building. By then, they had made little ruffled curtains - and painted the walls - and even had little plants growing on the window sills. At this point, I want to give special credit to those girls and their teacher; you see, there were no dishwashers - nor garbage disposals, nor plates. The cups were white enamel, and the plates were china, and the knives, spoons, forks were not throw away plastic - but permanent fixtures - and those girls were also responsible for hand washing all those dishes. AND - don't forget that all that cooking was done on little wick, kerosene-burning stoves.

Get Together and Talk With Our Neighbors

Greenwood

By Pat Hatfield 349-4255.

Report from Hickory Ridge C.M. Church: Saturday evening was a good time of fellowship for members. We welcome the newcomers who are now attending services.

We are beginning to get our Youth group organized and hope to have a weekend retreat for them sometime in the near future.

Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be at 7 p.m. each week. This is for everybody... adults or youth.

It was good to see Laura Friedel and Mrs. Evelyn Johnson in service on Sunday after their stay in Nanticoke Hospital. Little Johnny Webb, Jr. has had heart surgery which was successful and he was expected home soon. Mrs. Florence Lewis (Joye Bawel's grandmother) is a patient at St. Francis Hospital in Wilmington, following a stroke. Mrs. Kathryn Hayman's brother, Charlie Kenton, is in Milford Hospital, and her daughter, Kathleen Willey, is in John Hopkins in Baltimore. Shirley Everline's father, Maurice Finkbinder, will enter a Wilmington Hospital on Wednesday for surgery.

Please remember all these in your prayers as well as Carlisle Farrow, Lester Draper and Woodrow Draper who are confined at home. Mrs. Margaret Baker is back home after surgery and we hope to have her back in church soon.

Our prayers are with the family of Mr. Theodore Payne who passed away on Monday night. Mrs. Payne was just released from Milford Hospital on Saturday and is now at the Country Rest Home.

The Greenwood United Methodist Church is planning its 100th anniversary celebration in November. More about this later.

Attention: The Bethel United Methodist Church at Andrewsville is planning their Homecoming Service on September 28 at 2 p.m. The speaker will be the Rev. E.C. Thomas, former pastor of this charge. There will be special music and a social hour afterwards.

Greenwood Cheer Center News: September 29, Family Album at 11 a.m. Sept. 30, Jack Day Film, 11 a.m. October 1, Gladys Yeako, Crafts, salad bar at 11:30. October 2, shopping in Seaford, Lunch 11:30.

Forty members and friends of Greenwood Cheer toured the McCormick Tea Plant and the Inner Harbor area in Baltimore on September 15. The weather was beautiful and the array of shops and variety of foods served innumerable. An unexpected visit by Mrs. Reagan and Mrs. Bush delighted many visitors.

Our Lancaster trip planned for October 17 is nearing capacity for our bus. A few seats are still available upon assignment. Call Cheer 349-5237 for further information.

Get well wishes to some of our friends, Kathleen Willey, Matilda Smith and Carrie Andrews.

Charlotte Smith is attending Adult Day Care Center in Seaford. We wish her well.

We would like to extend belated Birthday Wishes to Eliza Foreman, our secretary, and staunch supporter of the Greenwood Cheer Center.

Menu for Sept. 29, baked pork chop, sweet potatoes, mixed vegetables, pears, bread, milk, ice cream. Sept. 30, meatballs with gravy, sweet potatoes, peas, bread, milk, pears.

Sorry, no menus available for October 1, 2 and 3.

Mrs. Lewis Smith entered Milford Hospital this week for surgery. We wish her well.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bollinger have returned from a short vacation trip to Virginia. While they were gone, Teddy Keith stayed with Mr. and Mrs. William Fidler, Hilary visited Mr. and Mrs. Gary Davis and Garith was the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hatfield.

One hundred and thirteen guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Anthony on Sunday afternoon to help them celebrate their 40th Wedding Anniversary. The lovely affair was sponsored by their children. The decorations were in ruby red. Wedding pictures were displayed in the sun room, also Elvora's white satin wedding gown. Many beautiful gifts were received by the happy couple and everyone admired and enjoyed the traditional wedding cake along with the sumptuous and delicious buffet.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hashman this week were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allman and son of North Carolina.

Other recent house guests of the Hashmans' were Mr. and Mrs. Tim Jewell of Columbus, Indiana.

Pat Hatfield, Elaine Hashman Barbara Baker and Ellen Bollinger attended Lincoln Bible Study on Wednesday morning.

Senior Center

by Dorothy Graham 398-3780.

Reverend Koning of the Nazarene Church of Harrington was leader of Bible Study at the Center Monday morning. He spoke on the psalms. He read from the Bible then discussed it with the many folks there. It is, I believe the Reverend's first trip here. He was truly enjoyed. Hymns were sung and finished as begun with a prayer.

Members meeting Monday afternoon. Was not there so can not report.

The Band played on and with seventeen present - it surely made enthralling sounds. Those Jolly Timers are such nice folks. Come on by and meet them. They are playing every Tuesday morning.

Birthday cards, owls, ice cream, cake, and lots and lots of people made the Birthday Party a very gala affair. Oh, yes and the ever popular singing. Let me tell you honey - you ain't heard nothing yet!

Wednesday was traveling day - chartered bus took a happy group of folks to Inner Harbor and Harbor Place. Some took tours, others went shopping or looking as their whims dictated. Food was good - trip was pleasant. So pleasant in fact another trip is planned for October 10th. So get in early if you want to go Senior Citizens. And speaking of good food reminds me of the R.S.V.P. awards dinner October 3rd. More details at the Center.

Ceramics, pool, dominoes, cards, conversation and of course always fine people to make it all come true. No exercising but saw and heard something on TV that made me sit up and take notice. Two men were exercising baby salmon and baby trout. Can you beat that? They said so many salmon were dying before they could reproduce and trout were becoming smaller. In telling you the age we live in is truly remarkable - sorta sad though to think that even just going fishing has gotten so complicated. Oh Me!! For a nice pan of brown trout and a big pan of cornbread, butter and some good perked coffee!!! Hold the vegetables. Well maybe fried potatoes.

Thursday was ceramics all over the place - every nook and corner. Christmas Bazaar is coming. Start making your list. Plan to lunch with a friend or two. Just don't forget the white elephant either.

Friday, over 40 folks from Harrington Center went to Seaford Center for a visit - Bingo, lunch and horse racing were enjoyed by all.

Best Wishes to all - Thank you volunteers. Be kind to each other and Smile! Remember - Happiness is not given but exchanged.

It is Fall! Now for Harvest Moon, Hunters Moon and then - well we will wait and see. Bye - see you at the Center.

Come what may, the deadlines arrive and no matter what else is on hand, you drop it all, get out the pencil and paper and prepare to attack the typewriter.

The weather man on the news tells us that it is not officially autumn, but "there's a kind of feel in the air", the roadside markets are colorful with piles of orange pumpkins and red and green apples. The dry rustle of fodder is heard under the blue skies with their fluffy white clouds and all along the country roadsides there is goldenrod and yards and yards of Brown-eyed Susans with their butter-yellow daisy faces. Spring is pink and white and lavender with the winsome beauty of a young girl, but autumn comes into her own with the deep primary colors. She is a gypsy and her music is set to scarlet, gold and orange. To each his own. And who's to say which is lovelier?

We are beginning to get back into the routine of the fall season. The children are in school, the church activities are starting and the smell of oyster fritters will soon announce these good suppers put out by the fire companies and the various churches. This morning four of us, Barbara, Elaine, Ellen and myself enjoyed being with the Lincoln Bible Study group. The love and the fellowship and the teaching there is tremendous and we treasure it in our daily lives.

Our freezer is filling up and the empty canning jars are getting filled with tomatoes, peaches, pickles and what not. Dad is taking up his glad bulbs today. Then he will clean and dust them and store them for the winter. It is one of Life's richest miracles that the glory of those beautiful blooms could be wrapped up in that small bit of brown bulb.

The Japanese beetles ate up our roses in spite of all we could do. And now the green and black caterpillars are gorging themselves on my luscious clumps of parsley.

We have enjoyed small Garith for the last three days while her Mother and Dad got away on a mini-vacation. She was a real joy and it was a novelty to be getting a child off to school again. We are thankful that she is such a well-adjusted child and will stay with anyone cheerfully.

I thought my wire screen flyswatter would last out the season, but it has broken. In this age of plastics, do you know how hard it is to find an old-fashioned wire screen flyswatter? I hate the plastic kind. When I hit, I hit hard and the stick handles always break in two and the plastic flapper smashed them into a mess. These modern inconveniences!!

Way Stars As Spartans Defeat Vikings

by "Gabby"

John Way led the Lake Forest Spartans to a 3 to 2 victory over the Cape Henlopen in an Henlopen Conference soccer game Thursday on Lake Forest's home field. Way kicked two goals in the second half, one unassisted and one on a penalty kick. He also had an assist on a goal by Jimmy Schumann.

A corner kick by Cape's Skip Faust gave the Vikings a 1-0 lead at half-time, but in the second half the Spartans came out fired up. Both teams seemed to play as if it was for the conference championship.

Although they lost a shut-out both Lake Forest goal tenders played an outstanding game with Kevin Moehlenkamp having four saves, (two of which photos could have made "Sports Illustrated") in the first half and Walter Gygyrnyuk pulling off seven in the second half.

Notes from "Gabby": This was my first time ever for covering a sporting event and having soccer as my maiden voyage I learned a few things. First, you are never positioned where the action is for pictures, second, if you are in the right place, snap like crazy, third, well into the first half I thought the cheerleaders would outnumber the spectators in the stands.

Although few players receive recognition in newspaper writeups because scoring plays get top billing, everybody on the field did a bang-up job.

Chris Caskey [452] is one of the front runners at the top of the hill near the start of the J.V. "B" division of the Lake Forest Invitational Saturday at Killens Pond.

Three Spartans, Rob Manaraze [453], Ken Kline [450], and Warren Wright [454] finish the J.V. "B" heat of the Lake Forest Invitational Saturday at Killens Pond in close order.

Spartans 3rd. in Invitational Run

by Keith S. Burgess

The 23rd annual Lake Forest Cross-Country Invitational run was held at Killens Pond State Park Saturday.

Several hundred boys and girls competed as seven races were held.

Jim Blades' host Spartans, though decimated for graduation, still packed enough power to finish a close third in the 12 team "B" race for small schools. Dover, NJ, last in this race in 1979, won with a low total of 67 points. Oxford, PA, a team that has been coming here for several years, was second with 88 points, barely edging Lake Forest

Field Goal Gets Lake Forest Past Seaford

by "Gabby"

With professional baseball and football seasons overlapping, the score of a high school football game looked like a baseball score. However, on each play twenty-two players on the field knew that baseball was not the name of the game.

Lake Forest went to Seaford Friday night to play football. The Blue Jays knew they were coming. Not being that much of an expert, I think that both teams left the rule books in the lockerroom. If it were not for penalties on both sides, the score could have been quite different. Both teams were stopped on good drives by the old demon, the yellow flag.

Seaford had a scoring opportunity stopped by a penalty and a touchdown nullified by the same obstacle. Although the Spartans had their share of penalties a delay of game for five yards could have been the bug-a-boo. This happened on the Blue Jay's 3 yard line with 4th down and inches to go. Now it was 4th down and 5 yards and inches to go on the 8. Coach Fleming sent in Brian Gladden who split the uprights from the 15 yard line plus the end zone for a total of 25 yards resulting in the only score of the game. Lake Forest almost glommed a safety on the next to the last play of the game when the Blue Jay quarterback was almost sacked in his own end zone. He just managed to get rid of the ball for an incompletion before he hit the ground.

"Gabby" says: I am sorry there are no pictures of the Seaford game, but after shooting 25 shots I found out that some idiot had the camera set wrong. The Journal will strive to do better on future games. We would appreciate game comments and stats from coaches or any fans. Thanks in advance.

HERITAGE DAY

October 4, 1980

Supplement to
The Harrington Journal
September 24, 1980

Betty Myers to Keynote Heritage Day

Felton has chosen one of its own to keynote its first Heritage Day festivities. Betty L. Myers will be delivering the main address at the opening ceremonies set for the town's War Memorial Park. Taking her cue from some research she did while in college, she will be speaking on Felton's history in connection with the railroad and also placing special emphasis on education in the community. There have been a number of important changes as schools originated and grew in Felton, and Miss Myers will be chronicling some of them in her address.

Education as her theme is particularly appropriate because she is a teacher at Lake Forest South Elementary in Harrington where she has become well known to numbers of fifth graders over the past eight years.

A 1968 graduate of Felton High School, she continued her education at Delaware State College where she majored in elementary education, graduating in 1972.

A number of interests keep her busy when she is not in the classroom.

She is an active member of the Felton Alumni Association, serving as its president last year and presiding at the 1980 Alumni Banquet this past spring. She has also been first and second vice president and historian of the organization.

Crochet and aerobics (exercise and dancing) are among her interests as is swimming. In addition, she is an avid baseball fan and has her fingers crossed for the Phillies this year.

She has been supportive of many activities at the Felton United Methodist Church where she is helping with the celebration which will mark the 200th anniversary of Sunday schools. That celebration is set for Sunday, October 5.

For the past two years she has also organized and run an old-fashioned spelling bee for the Harrington Heritage Day celebration.

Betty L. Myers is the daughter of Mayor and Mrs. William Myers of Felton.

-Heritage Committee-

The plans for Heritage Day in Felton are not the result of spontaneous combustion. They are the work of some very dedicated people. Many of the community's citizens have been involved in the preparation. But there are five who deserve special mention. These have made up an informal Heritage Committee responsible for the organization of the day's activities. The five are -

Mrs. Lola M. O'Day: A lifelong Delawarean, Mrs. O'Day has spent the past 33 years in the Felton area.

She was born in New Castle County where she spent her first 34 years. She is presently employed by the state's Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs and serves as a guide in the Johnson Memorial

-On the Cover-

Building at the Delaware State Museum on Governors Avenue and Banks Lane in Dover.

Edie Hemphill, a Felton resident and property owner, is Kent County Clerk of the Peace. She is also the author and compiler of the town's bicentennial history - Felton, Delaware, 1856-1976 - excerpts of which appear in this supplement.

Mary Ann Stumpf, who is serving her second term on the Felton Town Council, also functions as the town's treasurer. In addition she is a member of the staff of The Harrington Journal. Mrs. Stumpf and her husband, Ronald, are Felton residents and property owners who make their home on High Street.

They have one son, Scott, a student at Lake Forest North Elementary (Continued on Page 6)

The Felton Town Crest was chosen and officially adopted by the Felton Town Council on March 19, 1976. A crest contest was sponsored by the Felton Town Council in cooperation with the Bicentennial Committee to obtain a design. The first place winner was Dolores Kubulka.

The crest symbolizes the heritage of our community. The Blue Hen represents the chicken industry and the Blue Hen Chickens from Barberr's Berry, the farm of Captain John Caldwell, a native of Felton. The Blue Hen was used again and again in the history of our country as a symbol of the fighting men of Delaware. It is now officially the State Bird; the train symbolizes our outstanding community fire company and the peach blossom reminds us of our beautiful orchards that helped Delaware get the reputation of the "Peach State." The peach blossom was adopted as the state flower on May 9, 1895.

Samuel Morse Felton-

railroad accomplishment was in 1841 when he constructed the Fresh Pond Railroad, designed to carry ice into Boston. In 1843 he began the construction of the Fitchburg Railroad. He became superintendent of this road in 1845. From that time on he was continuously affiliated with railroad management in this country.

In 1851 he went to Philadelphia to become president of the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad.

With the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore became of great strategic importance. It was over this railroad that Lincoln made his entrance into Washington at the risk of his life. Felton changed President Lincoln's advertised route to the capital, arranging for his secret passage from Harrisburg to Washington the night before he was expected, and therefore saved him from the Baltimore mob which attacked the train supposed to be carrying him. The services he rendered in the transportation of Union troops during the Civil War can scarcely be overlooked. For his endeavors in getting General Butler's troops to Annapolis and in preparing plans for the cooperation of all railroads centering in Philadelphia, the telegraph lines and Adams Express Company, he received the official thanks of the War Department. But the stinging criticisms he received while performing the almost super-human duties involved in the task were too much for him. He suffered a stroke of paralysis in 1864, forcing him to retire from active work. A year later he had sufficiently recovered to assume the presidency of the Pennsylvania Steel Company engaged in the manufacture of steel rails. Although he devoted much time to this project in the later years of his life, he never gave up his railroad interests. Even during his illness he had retained the presidency of the Delaware Railroad, a small road which he had developed in his earlier years with the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore. From 1873 to 1883 he took an important part in the development of the Pennsylvania Railroad, of which he was a director. He was also one of the organizers and later a director of the Northern Pacific Railroad. In addition to these activities he served as a commissioner of the Hoosac Tunnel from 1862 to 1865 and was for some time managing director of the Lehigh Navigation Company.

Mr. Felton was married first in 1836 to Eleanor Stetson who died in 1847. In 1850 he married Maria Low Lippitt. He died January 24, 1889. The Pennsylvania Railroad built a steamboat in 1865 and named it Samuel M. Felton after one of their versities between the people living on the west side of the railroad who called it Berrytown Station, in honor of the village of Berrytown, and the people on the east side who referred to it as Johnny Cake Station for Johnny Cake Landing. It was the closest point from which Frederica could ship goods.

One day, a farmer on his way to the market with a basket of eggs was stopped by several citizens who were involved in an argument on the subject. The farmer was asked for a suggestion that might solve the problem to the satisfaction of all concerned. He replied, "Why not call it Felton and make it a namesake of Samuel Felton, director and president of the railroad." Since then the community has been known as Felton.

One cannot go very far into the history of Felton without realizing that the town had its earliest beginning in Berrytown before the advent of the railroad. About one-half mile west of Felton, lying on the north side of the road leading to Whiteleysburg was a track of 369 acres called "Bear Garden" owned by John Grier. The first record we have of it is in 1767 when Preston Berry purchased one half acre, part of Bear Garden. Preston Berry built a house and blacksmith shop, Peter Lowbar kept a tavern there, and in 1774, Timothy Caldwell kept a store.

In 1775, Preston Berry purchased two and one half acres more. There was at one time five dwellings, two stores, a tavern, a blacksmith shop, and a hotel in the village. The hotel was kept as late as 1811 by William Anderson. A post office was opened in 1836, closed in 1844 and reopened in 1852. It was moved into Felton in 1856. Today there exists only two dwellings on the site of Berrytown, the other buildings having been torn down or moved into Felton.

Jackson's Hotel was moved from Berrytown into Felton across from the train station. Jackson operated a hotel and livery stable, where horses and carriages were available for rent and salesmen could make their calls to the neighboring communities. He

According to Felton's Mayor William Myers, one of its past owners, The Roe House once had a swimming pool on the third floor. He also said that, on a clear day, the town of Frederica could be seen from the top of the building which was one of Felton's tallest. The last owners of the Victorian structure were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stumpf and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winger. It has since been demolished. But Mr. and Mrs. Stumpf still have the stained glass windows which were another of its unique features. It was located on the present site of "The Depot", owned and operated by Gary Gay.

house town offices. It is also anticipated that the building will soon be named to the National Register of Historic Buildings. On Heritage Day 1980, the station will be the site of displays of Felton memorabilia and history.

later traded his business to Mr. Rattray at McCauley's Pond. Mr. Rattray operated the hotel until 1925 when he sold to Oia and Estella Brittingham, who operated a hotel, lunchroom and taxi service until 1934. The original Jackson Hotel is still the residence of the Brittings.

Since the founding of Felton in 1856, the village of Berrytown may be said to cease to have an existence. The first railroad agent was Robert W. Reynolds, who with his brother opened a general store. About this same time Mr. Hering built a hotel and named it the Fountain House, later Smoots Hotel.

In 1859, the Felton Directory revealed the following business places: J.W. Carter, dealer in fruit and produce; Luff and Moore, Reynolds & Brother, Simpson and Creadick, and P.J. Both merchants; James Simpson and L.D. Jackson physicians; P.A. Jobe, manager of Fountain House; L.N. Hammon, Felton Hotel; James B. Conner, station agent; George McBride, carpenter and builder; C.P. Crouch, wheelwright; Kersey and Nickerson, steam sawmill; Stanton and Lindale, foundry and machine shop; J & J Kensler, brick yard (next to Methodist Episcopal Church); Bostwick and Schilling, blacksmiths, Lewis Seaman, steam sawmill.

(During the latter part of the nineteenth century, many "hand-some" Victorian residences were built. Several of them are still standing today.)

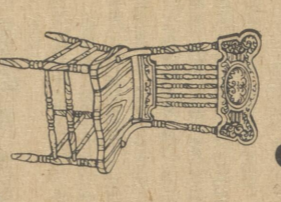

Note: The above history, the information on the blue hen on page five and the story of Samuel Morse and Felton, which begins on page four, are all excerpts, reprinted with permission from Felton, Delaware 1856-1976, published in April 1976 in "commemoration of the American Revolution Bicentennial". The book was written and compiled by Eddie Hemphill. Proceeds from the book went toward the completion of Felton's War Memorial Park at which Heritage Day opening ceremonies are to be held.

Samuel Morse Felton

-Samuel Morse Felton-

Samuel Morse Felton, for whom the town was named, was the son of Cornelius Conway and Anna Morse Felton, and brother of Cornelius Conway Felton. He was born on July 17, 1809 at Newbury, Massachusetts. His father was a chaise maker by trade and lost his property during Samuel's youth and moved the family to Saugus where they knew severe poverty. At the age of fourteen Samuel went into Boston to be clerk and general errand boy at a wholesale grocery store. He earned his living in this way for four years and studied during every spare moment in order to prepare himself for high school. During this time he worked himself up to the position of clerk and bookkeeper thus putting himself through the Livingston County High School at Geneseo, New York, of which his brother was principal, and saved enough money to enable him to enter Harvard in 1830 where he supported himself by teaching. After his graduation in 1834 he spent two years teaching in a private school and then entered upon his engineering career with Loammi Baldwin, Jr., of Boston. Felton attained the business after the death of Mr. Baldwin in 1838. His first moment in order to prepare himself

-Jim Havelow-

Anyone seeing Grace Havelow's smile now would never guess that her initial reaction to the first miniature train her husband Jim bought and brought home was less than joy. In fact, Jim says the purchase caused trouble at home. But the storm has long since blown over, and both Havelows are enthusiastic about the hobby that has gotten them involved with a railroad club in Baltimore - The Chesapeake and Allegheny, Living Steamers - and made them many friends in several states. The hobby has also gladdened the hearts of children of varying ages over several years. The first train was actually just some cars and a part of a track. Jim Havelow had seen it at a sale and bid on it, but he said the man who bought the train then started bidding "where I left off." But eventually the man decided he really didn't want the train at all, and agreed to sell it to Havelow. That's when he brought home the surprise for his wife.

Grace Havelow is now happily reconciled to her husband's hobby, and the Havelows own a total of three trains. The first one was sold sometime after Jim Havelow finished it, building the engine himself and equipping it with a 2 h.p. Briggs & Stratton gasoline engine. The second train he bought was located in Brewer, Maine, and brought home in a van on a perilous winter journey over snow covered roads. Havelow says he slid part of the way, but made it home safely. This train, a steamer, also had to be finished. Havelow started in 1968 and completed the job some time in 1971. He also owns a larger steam-powered train which is too big to make the curve on the tracks he has laid at his Walnut Street home. The big engine he bought just last year from a museum in Yorklyn, Delaware.

The Havelows' interest in miniature railroads has taken them far afield. Jim remembers particularly an annual invitation he used to receive from a Jack West in Oxford, Maryland. West, a train owner himself who had his small train floor in from California, would send out invitations to a three-day get-together at his home. Sometimes as many as 500 would attend many of them bringing their own trains to circle the track laid out on West's property. And he would feed the whole lot - for free.

Havelow was not born in Delaware. But his father was a native of the Milford area where he was born and raised on a farm. In 1928, the elder Havelow moved his family back to Delaware where they took up residence on a Hollandsville farm. Later, he went back to his profession

-Ben Porter-

The dictionary defines "calligraphy" as (1) handwriting and (2) beautiful handwriting. For Ben Porter, as for others who practice it as an art, the second definition applies.

Ben, a free lance calligrapher will have his work on display during Heritage Day in Felton. Included in the display will be a beautiful rendition of Irons "The Blue Hen's Chickens", illustrated with a color drawing of the Delaware state bird. He will have items for sale and will be willing to take orders for others.

Currently a resident of Felton, he hails from New York state where he was born in Watertown in 1961. He lived in Albany for about fifteen years before moving to Dover, Delaware. He is a 1980 graduate of Dover High School.

His interest in calligraphy stems from an art course taken with Mr. Evans at Kent Vo-Tech. The class was assigned a certificate using the fancy writing known as calligraphy. That was a beginning. Ben says he didn't do so well on that first certificate, but liked it enough to pursue the subject. He eventually took a calligraphy course at Delaware State College and got into styles other than the italics with which he started. These include Roman, Old English, Carolingian and free style. He also began using decorative borders as well as incorporating some color illustration into his work.

At present, he is employed in creative stitchery with C & P Fabrics of Camden (formerly C & P Chain Stitch of Felton). Eventually, he hopes to go into business for himself and to make his art more a full-time profession.

Ben Porter is just one of the artists, craftsmen or collectors who will be a part of Felton Heritage Day.

The Havelows have two children, a son and a daughter, seven grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

Jim Havelow is among the many participants who will add something special to Felton's celebration of Heritage Day.

The Blue Hen's Chickens

*You've heard of th' chicks of th' old blue hen
And how they got their name and when.*

Know they were bred in County Kent;

For tis beyond all argument

That Kent's the nest of th' old blue hen,

The home of Caldwell's fighting men.

For they heroes proved in Country's need,

For they were of true blue-hen breed;

In Delaware they lived content,

And free indeed in County Kent;

For fathers crossed the stormy sea,

That here their children might be free

We know them English in descent

By names of Dover, Camden, Kent.

Don Jacobs, another veteran member of the Felton Town Council, has most recently been involved in so far successful efforts to have the railroad station named to the National Register of Historic Buildings. The town bought the station last summer and is in the process of renovating the interior for use as offices and restoring the exterior to its original appearance. Jacobs is employed at National Cup Company of Dover. He and his wife, Barbara, make their home on Main Street in Felton.
Jeanne Wood, the former Jeanne Poynter, is a lifelong resident of Felton. Currently she works in the State Auditor's office in Dover. Her husband, Dave, is associated with the state's highway department. The Woods have one son.

By October 4, Heritage Day plans will have been in the making for about two months. It all got started when a group of interested persons met at the Town Hall on the evening of August 6. On that date the group discussed what could be done and began listing persons who could contribute or participate in some way.

By August 13, two representatives from the Kent County Department of Parks and Recreation were in town to accompany Mrs. O'Day on a picture-taking tour of historic homes, businesses and other buildings for a slide presentation. That same evening, the group met again to discuss the pictures and to line up arts and crafts and entertainment.

By late in August, the program had begun to firm up, and by September 3, a keynote speaker had been selected.

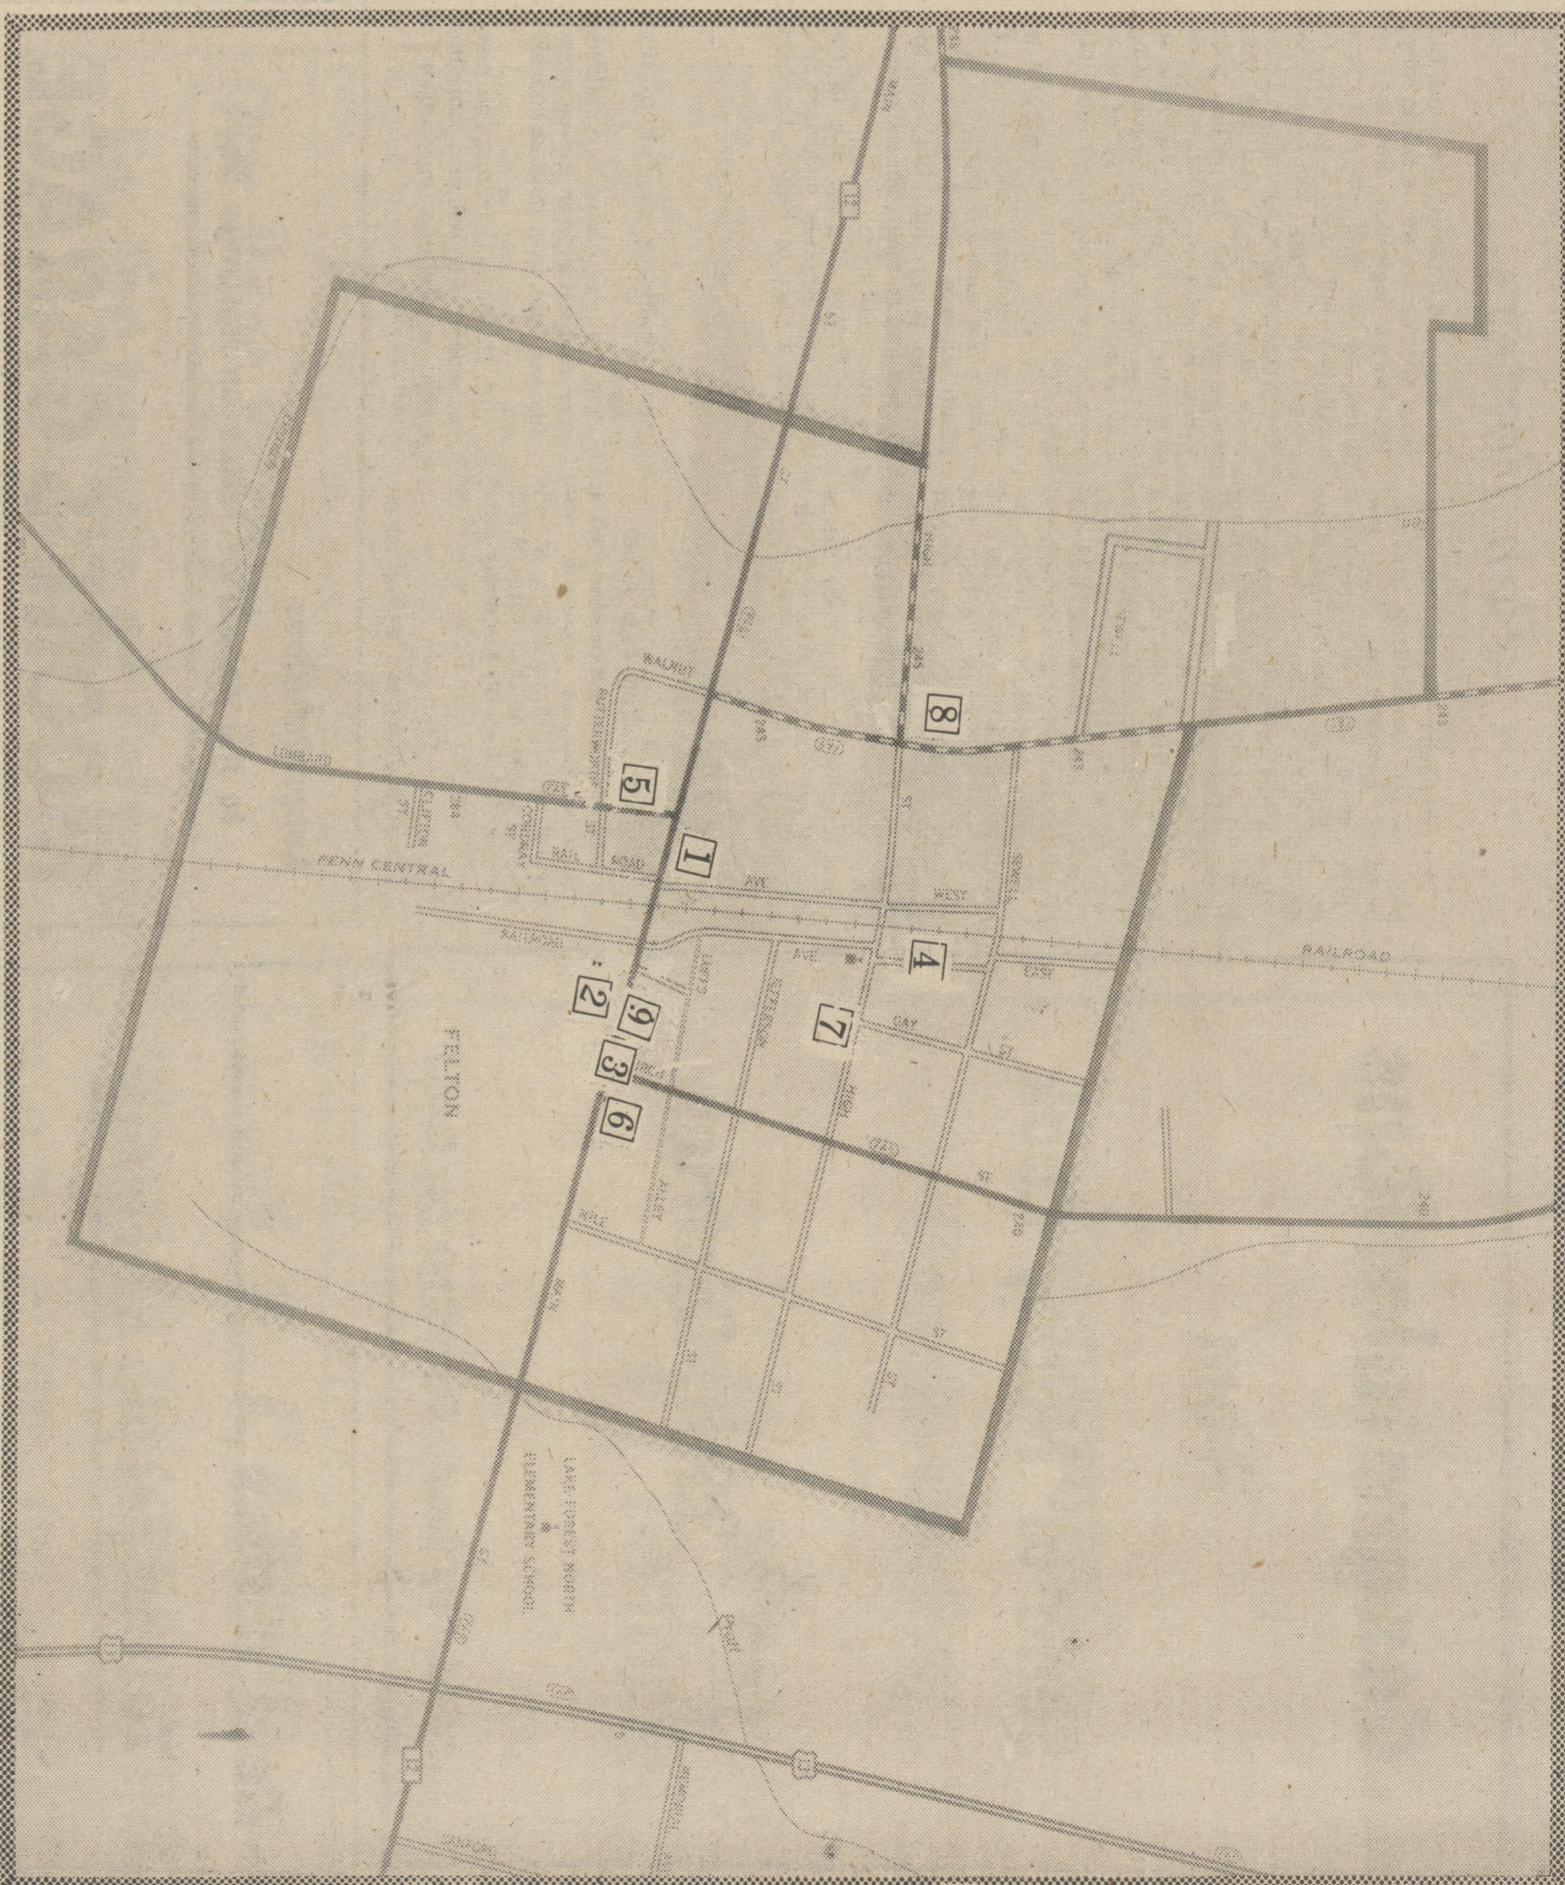

On Wednesday, September 17, a preview of the slides was given at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Ronald Stumpf. On hand were the committee members plus a number of other interested citizens who assisted in providing information for the taping. Not previously mentioned are two individuals who have also been instrumental in the preparations. They are Joan Burritt and Bob Keen of Kent County Parks and Recreation who have served as photographer and coordinator of the proceedings. In addition to the assistance from Kent County Parks and Recreation, the program is also partially funded by a grant from the directors. This railroad dominated the Wilmington-Philadelphia line with their fast steamboat. The Samuel M. Felton, until 1882 when competition came from the Wilson Line. Ill fortune struck the Felton in 1885 when a laborer left explosive material near her boiler and the steamer blew up at her pier. The Felton was later rebuilt and sold for excursion service on the Chesapeake Bay.
