Felton Sets Referendum for Annexation of School Property

The Felton Town Council Monday night set Saturday, December 22, 1980, as the date of a referendum on the annexation of the property which is the location of Lake Forest North Elementary School. The town is already providing fire hydrants and police protections to the area which is still officially outside the town limits. The Council has received the approval of the Lake Forest Board of education for the annexation of the approximate 16 acres on which the school is located.

The next legal step is to take the matter to the residents Felton by referendum. On the referendum the school district as a unit will have one

Also included with the sixteen acreas to be annexed, would be both sides of Main Street (Del. Rt. 12) as it extends past the school to the light at the intersection with U.S. 13 and both sides of U.S. 13 as it borders the school. The jurisdiction would extend to the curbs only. No homes or private property are involved. Voting will be by machines. The location and hours are to be announc-Sewer Bids Are Out

Mayor William Myers told the Town Council that bids on the sewer construction tying Felton are some of the surrounding area into the Kent County system are out and are due back in the country engineer's office by December 14. After that, the bids returned will have to be scrutinized by the county engineer and the EPA. No date could be projected for the start of contruction.

Myers also said a hearing on the issue of whether the Perdue plant will be in or out of the new sewer district will probably be scheduled before the bids are returned. Earlier this year, Perdue asked to be excluded from the county sewer hook-up.

In reference to the patching of Rt. 12 (Main Street through town) the Mayor said the material now being used is apparently a temporary solution to remedy the situation until the sewer construction is complete. After sewer lines are down, the street will have to have some type of resurfacing.

Parking Warning Slips To Be Issued In response to a complaint related to parking a Felton resident, Mr. West, Police Chief Mike Olliver said the town police during the next two weeks will be issuing parking viola-tion warning slips. West had complained that vehicles were pulling out of the side street and following the curb in what is essentially a parking out of a side street and following the curb in what is essentially a parking zone before stopping near the bank. Olliver said there have been a number of parking complaints in recent weeks. The police will try the warning slips before taking further

At W.T. Chipman Mock election Gives Carter Big Win

While undecided adults were still making up their minds, future voters at the W.T. Chipman Junior School in Harrington were casting their ballots to give Jimmy Carter a whopping win a mock election held Monday. At Chipman, the Carter-Mondale ticket captured 53 percent of the vote to 37 percent for the Republican combination of Reagan-Bush. The actual count was 213-145.

John Anderson and running mate Patrick Lucey came in a distant third, tallying 8 percent (32 votes) of the student vote. Edward Clark and David Koch of the Libertarian Party, the Percy L. Greaves, Jr. and Frank Varnum of the American Party picked up one percent (4 votes) and a half percent (2 votes), respectively. Sponsors of the mock election were Chipman 8th grade social studies teachers Mrs. R. O'Neal and Mrs. A. Reed. Mrs. O'Neal's classes have been concentrating on the election process, and Mrs. Reed's students assisted in the election by tabulating the vote. The students were anxious to see whether the outcome at Chipman would turn out to be prophetic in the national election, or simply a consolation prize for Mr. Carter. They will also compare results in the state wide election.

Republican incumbent Thomas B. Evans was elected by Chipman voters, 259-117, over his Democratic challenger Robert L. MaxWell. Libertarian Lawrence D. Sullivan received 12 votes.

At the state level, Republican candidates, with one exception, swept all offices. The lone exception was Democratic incumbent Thomas R. Carper who fended off the Republican candidate H. Lynn Jankus in the race for State Treasurer. The vote was 187-133. 34 Chipman votes for state treasurer went to Libertarian Paul H. Nielson.

At the top state level. Gov. duPont eclipsed Democratic candidate William J. Gordy (300-82) in the mock election for governor and took along his running mate Mike Castle, who scored a 322 to 168 victory over

Morris Market----- since 1901----- and before

On a crisp afternoon early in There the wheels were added and the making plans to put up a woodstove in his market. But for the visitor, the addition of a woodstove seemed all that was necessary to re-create the atmosphere of another century.

Unce the woodstoven was up, it was probably not long before a local crowd gathered around, dipping into the peanuts and swapping a story or two. And Jim Morris is not likely to want it otherwise.

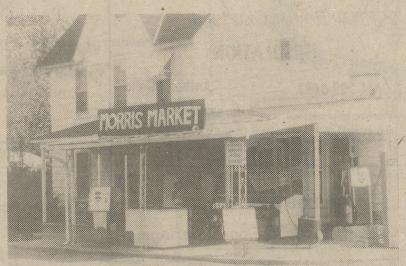

Morris is the third generation of his family to own and operate the little store with the welcoming atmosphere and varied merchandise. But its history as a place of business goes back beyond the generations of Morrises that have cared for it.

In the nineteenth century, the first floor was occupied by a hardware store. And the second and third floors-the sites of a carriage shop and a wheelwright business-were active too. The carriage tops were made on the third floor and lowered through a hole or trap door to the second floor.

October, Jim Morris of Frederica was carriage finished. Completed carriages went out wide doors down a dirt ramp from the second story to the ground.

second and third floors. But the second floor is a storage area for the store, while the third serves the same function for the adjoining Morris residence. The wide doors are also there-permanently closed now against the wall of the house. Those invited to venture up the precarious steps from the store to the second story can still see them and note the wide floor boards and mortice and peg construc tion, evidence of methods and materials of another time.

At one time, Patterson's blacksmith shop adjoined the hardware store. That was later converted and expanded to become a home for the Morris family.

Jim's grandmother, Elizabeth Morris, whose husband Alonzo was the local barber, was the first of the family to run the store. By that time the blacksmith shop had been converted to the Morris home, and Elizabeth would bring her pies and home baked goods into the store to sell.

In that day, business transactions were done by the barter system as often as not. Elizabeth's grandson, the present owner, Jim or "Buddy" Morris still has the ledgers to illustrate the fact. One series of entries in an old ledger shows that on August 6, 1908 Williad Sapp received $1.00 credit by potatoes, $3.10 credit by selling mellons and $7.10 credit by cash. A later entry credits Mr. Sapp with $1.50 "by taking us to the

Twenty Cents Per Copy

L F Referendum Passed by Wide Margin, 707-72

Last Tuesday a referendum was held by the Lake Forest Board of Education for approval to transfer fifteen cents per one hundred dollars of assessed valuation from the Debt Service Tax (used to retire bond and pay interest) to the Current Expense Tax (used for operating expenses such as textbooks, library books, laboratory and shop equipment, and student desks). The margin on the referendum was approximately 10-1 in favor of the transfer.

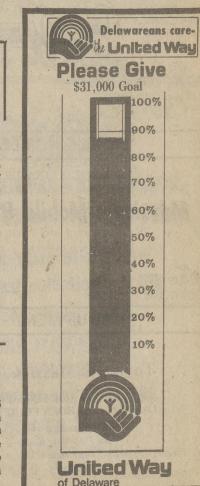

Commenting on the outcome of the referendum, Lake Forest Assistant Superintendent Melvin Luff said, "The fact that 779 voters turned out and voted 707 to 72 indicates that in spite of the many national problems that plague this Country, its citizens are still vitally interested in the education welfare in their children."

Voting —

Voters were going to the polls to register their preferences in the general election and on the Harrington library referendum as the Journal went to press yesterday. Results will be in next week's paper.

Rob White, General Chairman of the Bi-county United Way Campaign feels the campaign is in the bag and has had some very good reports this week. The campaign goal is $31.000 so far $27,145 or 87 percent of that has been realized.

Morris Market-----Frederica----

(Continued from Page one) present owner was born in the adjoining house which is still his home on January 22, 1928. Harrington's Dr. W.T. Chipman was in attend-

Then as now the store was a central part of his life. Jim Morris remembers helping shell corn and measure out molasses and vinegar for his father's customers. And he says getting a finger in that last drip of molasses was a good way to satisfy a sweet tooth. One of his earliest games was building a pyramid of canned goods, an activity that was to become a more serious occupation later on.

There were also errands to run. And as a matter of fact, going on an errand to one particular house was made much more pleasant for the opportunity to catch a glimpse of a certain young lady who later became Mrs. James Morris.

All in all. Jim Morris has never wanted to go far from the store or from Frederica for too long..and he hasn't. Oh there were some camping trips with a a favorite Scoutmaster Ben Betts. And if you happen to be in Morris Market at the right time, you might get to hear a story or two about those adventures.

There was also a year, 1946, spent in Japan as a part of the 493rd MP Escort Guard. Jim was drafted toward the end of World War II. While still stationed at Fort McClellan he resisted a strong temptation to after a year of service. Jim Morris

Sometime after his return he married Earlene Webb, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webb. Her father who served for many years as engineer on the steamship Frederica while plied the waters of the Murderkill River and the Delaware Bay on its way to and from Philadelphia. Later Mr. Webb saw service on the tugboat Lizzie [Elizabeth] for the Interestate Oil Company.

The Morrises have three sons and a daughter. The oldest Michael is employed as a butcher at the Dover Warehouse Food Market; Dave a junior at Lake Forest High School shares his father's interest in woodcarving and shows signs of becoming the fourth generation of Morrises to be interested in operating Morris Market; Jim Morris III is a student in the eighth grade at W.T. Chipman and young Miss Earlene Morris, who will be six years old on November 11, just made her debut in the first grade at Lake Forest East Elementary.

The Morris family stays close to the store which still exhibits the variety and warmth that has characterized it over the years. But they do take a week's vacation each year. During that time the store is closed. But the customers, who are first of all their friends understand, and come back when the vacation is over.

One of the highlights of the emphasis on elections was a visit last Wednesday from Dee Mears, of the League of Women voters who spoke to combined eighth grade social studies classes on the importance of voting. Ms. Mears also explained the voting procedure and demonstrated a sample voting machine. In addition to her emphasis on voting, she suggested students increase their political understanding by getting involved as volunteers.

Presents

"Portraits of the Past"-100 Years of Fashion in Milford will be presented by the Milford Historical Society on Thursday, November 20 in the Milford High School Cafetorium at 7:30 p.m. Antique clothing from the Society's extensive Costume Collection will show the changes in styles from the 1880's to the present.

Among the more than 75 outfits to be shown are the "Gibson Girl" style and mourning dresses from the turnof-the-century, a man's automobile duster and knickers, a bathing dress and sheer, lacy lingerie dresses from the teens, beaded evening dresses and a wool knit tank bathing suit from the 1920's, bias-cut shiffon dresses from the 30's, a World War Two Red Cross uniform, the "New Look" of 1947, and paper dresses from the Sixties. One especially interesting garment is the dress Elizabeth Aldred McCready wore at her graduation from Milford High School in 1911. The show will begin with a taffeta bodice, skirt and mantle from 1880, and end with a Christmas 1980 bride dressed by Chandelier Fashions. An up-to-the minute fall outfit from Leggets will also be shown.

The Society has been collecting antique clothing since it was founded in 1961. The oldest garment in the collection is a striped style of bodice from 1840 which is dated by its distinctive pagoda sleeve style of that period. It is in excellent condition, but far too small for a modern women to wear. The clothin which will be modeled is also well preserved and will be shown with hats and other accessories of the appropriate period.

This is a fashion show which can be enjoyed by men as well as women. Dessert and coffee, included in the ticket price, will be served at 7:30 p.m. followed by the show. Proceeds from this event will be used in the restoration of the Parson Thorne Mansion. Tickets at $3.50 each are on advance sale only at Leggets and Chandelier Fashions in Milford, or call Joyce Dyer at 422-9593.

These older citizens on fixed incomes have been plagued by increasing food costs and have had to adjust their diets to their pocketbooks, but when it comes to their pets, there just is no adjustment.

The YMCA is appealing for donations of dry or canned cat and dog food in sealed containers which can be brought to the YMCA any weekday between the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. or on Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at 1137 S. State Street, Dover.

This donated food will be stock-piled in a food pantry to be given to older citizens who find it difficult to manage to continue feeding their pets on their limited budgets and have no recourse but to dispose of their companion.

Is'nt the autumn foliage just beautiful? And the wind is really cold. As a favorite newscaster said last evening, "Winter is upon us!" But the leaves just cling to the trees and seem very reluctant to leave. Dad says we will see them let go when the first killing frost arrives. The Northeastern littered the yards with branches and many of the small golden oranges from the Trifoliate Orange shrub came off.

I went out this morning, October 28, and cut seven lovely roses, six pink Radiance, and one Peach. They seem especially precious with winter looming ahead. The shop protects them from the north winds. One very wild season, I cut the last one on December 6, but of course that doesn't happen often.

Teddy, my fifteen-year-old grandson, was here the other day and I enlisted his help in getting the screen down from the window over the kitchen sink. Then, he polished the glass inside and out. I told him that I did not know football players "did windows"! Now I have a clear view across the meadows. During the winter months this window becomes a large part of my world. I watch the ever-changing patterns of the sky and the birds. This morning the sky was slate blue with fluffy white clouds that bore just a smudge of gray. And the wind was tearing through the branches, telling of the coming storm.

A bunch of twigs from my sage, bush are dying on my window sill. Small Garith sniffed and said, "Grand mother, they smell like stuffing. And so they do". What is turkey stuffing without sage?

I am not having any success with my pot of parsley which I carefully troweled into a container, and set upon the western window sill. The row of parsley outside the shop is hound leaves boiled down to a strong tea and then the tea mixed with sugar and boiled into a syrup makes an excellent remedy for winter coughs and colds. We grew up on it. I do not know whether I have lost of art or not, but may try it.

Yes, it is cold. We had a lot of work to do in the shop this morning, unloading furniture from the van and we had to hunt up all the warm gloves in the house. That took care of the hands, but I never knew what to do about a cold nose, and my nose always suffers in the cold winter air.

By the way, I wish to ask another favor of my Readers. We are looking for the words of a poem about November which we hope to find for one of our Readers. We do not know the title, nor the author, but these are the lines that we remember.

Dear Harry,

I would like very much is you would put a few words in the Harrington Journal for me. I need to thank a lot of people in Harrington, Houston and Milford personally. They are too many to name but I just want people down home to know how grateful Raymond and I and the children are. We didn't know a lot of people really cared. It makes us feel good to think we come from such a beautiful town. When we get home I will put a note in the paper then but now I just want people to know how we feel.

Raymond is going to be up here along time. He went up yesterday and had some surgery on the front of his legs. They put pig skin on first and then Saturday they take him back up and do skin grafting. He had his up's and down's but that's to be expected. Just tell everyone to keep the cards coming and God Bless each and everyone.

Harry put in a special thankyou from Raymond and I to Callis-Thomson. All the people there have really been great.

You can send the cards and letters to: Crozer-Chester Medical Center Burn Center, 15th and Upland Ave. Upland Pa. 19013.

Inflation is getting worse and it begins to hit use where it hurts...I realize that prices must be some higher than they were---Beef, pork, lamb, veal, hamburger, chicken, turkeys, hot dogs, vegetables, and fruits are selling at more than twice their worth. Woodbridges Vernon Brown is 49second quarter miler who ran 500 miles this summer. This combination of speed and endurance, has made him one of lower Delaware's better cross-country runners. Lake Forest's hard-working Spartan's ended the dual meet campaign with a very respectable 6-3 mark, 23 seasons of hill-and-dale running here, have resulted in 23 winning teams. Boys and girls, in this school district, who have courage and are not carrying too much weight should consider competing in cross-country.

It should be noted that no one rides the bench, everyone gets to compete unlike other fall sports.

Brett Mitchell of Woodbridge was fourth in the season finale, but Maurice Coverdale, George Barnet, John Green and Larry Guessford, occupies the next four spots, to give the Spartans the victory.

The world-wide need for more food is always increasing. This leads to increasing world demand for fertilizer. U.S. exports of fertilizer materials have increased in recent years. This certainly indicates that we do not have an unlimited supply of

The increasing demand for fertilizer and increasing cost of the imputs required to produce fertilizer has dramtically increased fertilizer prices during the past decade. This has been especially true of nitrogen fertilizer which requires large amounts of natural gas in the production process. Over production of some fertilizer elements have helped keep cost lower than they could be. However, this over-production cycle is ending and prices will move upward. Fortunately there are many ways for the individual crop producer to cope with this

Fertilizer must be used more efficiently than before. Soil testing is the best techinique to determine the nutrient status of soils and develop a fertilizer program for specific crops and fields. In conjunction with a good soil tests are the resultant recommendations. The recommendations should be based on good, solid evidence obtained from research and practical experience that the recommendation will increase crop yield economically. For example, 70 percent of the soil samples tested at Delaware indicate that no additional crop yield can be expected from the application of more phosphorus. Another example is eliminating or reducing the application of minor elements by proper liming practices. The soil test can give the proper pH (usually 5.8-6.3 in Delaware) and provide recommendations for lime.

The use of legume cover crops is an old technology that is coming back into vogue. Crops such as crimson clover, hairy vetch, or Austrian winter peas will provide approximately 100 pounds of nitrogen in that crop year. Farm manures in another time honored fertilizer source. Each ton of poultry manure will supply 20 lbs. of nitrogen, 7 lbs. of phosphorus and 6 lbs. of potassium as well as serving as an excellent source of many minor elements.

In these times of small profit margin in agriculture, it is critical to take advantage of all resources available to you and to use them efficiently. The next column will deal with efficient techniques of fertilizer

Interest Rate lowered on CCC Farm Storage Facility Loans

Interest rates for farm storage and dryer loans made through the U.S. Department of Agriculture will be reduced by 1/2 percent--to 12-1/2 percent--effective for loans made on or after September 29, according to James S. Metz, of the Kent ASC County Committee.

Farm facility loans help farmers purchase and install needed farm storage and drying equipment, Metz said. The reduction is a result of continual review of interest rates charged farmers.

The interest rate for storage facility and drying equipment loans is based on the Commodity Credit Corporation's cost of borrowing money from the U.S. Treasury and was last changed on April 15 when it was set at 13 percent.

Explore Housing Needs Before You Buy

As your family changes, so do your housing needs. The single family ome that was appropriate when you family was expanding may no longer on eneded if your children have left home, points out Delaware extension amily living agent Mary Alice Morris.

Personal needs, preferences, and affordability are all factors that affect lousing choices. To make the right choice, take a close look at your wants

Where you'll locate and how much space you'll need will depend on the omposition of your family. You may prefer to be close to educational ecreational, and medical facilities; your place of work, shopping; church

d/or public transportation lines.

Families have differend housing values, points out the family living ent. For example, you may value privacy and security above all, while meone else may prize comfort and economy. Still others may be willing to y extra for a beautiful home that friends and neighbors will admire. When selecting a home, it's also important to look for a design and layout suit your family. Traffic patterns should be direct and convenient. Look to suit your family. Traflic patterns should be direct and convenient. Look for separate living, sleeping, and working areas. The placement of rooms should be logical--for instance, the dining area should adjoin the kitchen. Elderly couples may desire one-level housing for convenience and accessibility, Morris adds. Couples will limited time should look for housing that doesn't require a great deal of maintenance.

Your household income will help determine the amount you can afford to spend on housing. High educational or medical costs can reduce the amount of money available for housing. But once you've determined your housing budget stay within that amount. Don't over-settend worresile. udget, stay within that amount. Don't over-extend yourself.
