Eight Churches to Join in Union Thanksgiving Service

The congregations of eight Harrington churches will join in giving thanks as they gather for the annual community Union Thanksgiving Service to be held at Asbury United Methodist Church tomorrow evening, November 26, at 7 p.m.

The speaker this year will be the Reverend Rudolph Garnes, pastor of Metropolitan United Methodist Church. Five other Harrington ministers will also participate in leading the service. They are the Reverend Joseph Brame of St. Paul's AME Church, the Reverend Bruce Shortell of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, the Reverend William Miller of Calvary Wesleyan Church, the Reverend Richard A. Koning of the Church of the Nazarene and the Reverend C.J. Robinson of Asbury United Methodist Church.

Also joining in the service, which is open to the whole community, will be the Harrington Baptist Church (the Reverend W.P. Watson, pastor) and Trinity United Methodist Church (the Reverend William A. Markley, pastor).

Special music for the service is to be provided by the Cathedral Choir of Asbury United Methodist Church. The choir is directed by Jim Olson.

Those who come to celebrate the service of Thanksgiving have been invited to bring, as tangible evidence of their gratefulness and their concern, a gift of non-perishable food for the community Food Pantry. Canned fruit, spaghetti sauce, flour and sugar have been mentioned as items especially needed. The Food Pantry is stocked with items for use in emergencies for individuals and families in this area.

Chipman - Jones Properties Sold Hear

HARRINGTON. Three commercial properties were offered for sale on Saturday in Harrington. Two were purchased by Charles Paradee of Paradee Oil Co. There other one was not sold at the day of the sale. These were the properties once owned by Dr. W.T. Chipman, and they were the Harrington Restaurant and Newstand, located on Delaware Ave. Phillips 66 Service Station on the corner of Delaware Ave. and Clark St. and the Pensupreme Restaurant and Dairy located on Clark St. The current owner Suzanne Jones, daughter of the late Dr. W.T. Chipman and the widow of Kenneth R. Jones offered the properties for sale.

The Harrington Restaurant and Newstand is currently operated by William Smith who owned the business only. He will remain as a tenant of that building. The Harrington Rotary Club meets there each Monday night. The service station is operated by James Beene, and the Pensupreme building is operated by Penn Dairies of Lancaster Pa., and BJ Luncheonette.

Jr. Spartans On Parade.....

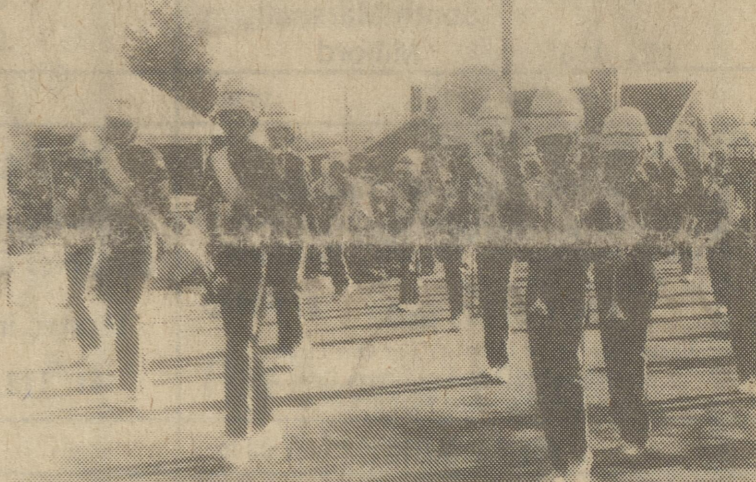

The W.T. Chipman Junior Band, under the direction of Alex B. Becton, took second place among the five junior bands in competition in the Seaford Christmas parade on Saturday. This was Chipman's fifth parade, but only its first competitive appearance, this year.

A Touch of Elegance - The white plumes worn by the flag and rifle corps and by a drum majorette are a part of the new look for the Chipman Band Front this year. In addition to Saturday's appearance in Seaford, the band has performed in the Dover Halloween parade, the Lake Forest homecoming parade, the Georgetown Returns Day parade and the Del State homecoming parade.

They set the cadence. - The percussion section is vitally important to any parade appearance.

Marching Music - On Saturday, the Chipman band aired its Christmas parade song for the first time this year. Three more parades are scheduled for the Christmas season.

Wendy.....a business, a class andtherapy

The class is therapy - for both students and teacher. And the subject matter - flower arranging - is also the basis for a business based on happy occasions. The business is Wendy's Flowers, located on the Killen's Pond Road near Harrington. The teacher is Wendy Aycoth who conducts a course in flower arranging for adults three nights a week at Kent Vo-Tech near Woodside.

One of the people most responsible for the interest that has led to both the class and the business is probably Evelyn Bullen, Wendy's mother. At home in Norfolk, England, Mrs. Bullen, who was active in the community flower club, kept urging her daughter to attend flower arranging classes with her. Wendy, who confesses that she had never so much as pulled a weed or a blade of grass, stubbornly refused, saying that flower arranging was just not her thing. But her mother persisted, and one evening when Christmas arrangements were to be done, she capitulated. From that time on she has been "Hooked", and her enthusiasm has been contagious.

Before she left England to come to this country in 1971, Wendy had progressed from student to substitute teacher to a regular teacher of classes in flower arranging.

Once she was here, it was about 1973 or 1974 before the interest became a business and before she once again started teaching.

Wendy and a friend, both of whom were wives of softball umpires, spent much of their waiting time talking about flower arranging. Their conversations eventually blossomed into a business, Occasions and Things, which concentrated on such happy occasions as weddings. The whole scope of planning, from floral arrangements to providing the wedding cake, was included in their service.

Since then, the business has become two. Wendy's friend has taken Occasions and Things to Smyrna, and Mrs. Aycoth has opened Wendy's Flowers, which she operates from her home.

The service she provides still concentrates on the coordination of happy occasions. Weddings play a big part. But she is also called upon to do other such special events as anniversaries or family reunions. Her service includes the flowers - and much more! Although she no longer provides the wedding cake, she will cut and serve it. She will also help with planning the whole occasion and be the cool head on the spot to handle any mini-crisis that may occur.

Over the years, and particularly with weddings, she can remember quite a few such crises. There have been the overawed young flower girls or ringbearers who needed a quiet guiding hand to the altar. And on the other hand, one ring bearer she recalls was not frightened, but very much indignant, when he learned, mid-ceremony, that the rings he so carefully carried were not the real ones at all.

Flower girls and ring bearers, scene-stealers though they may be, are not the only ones who can throw things into a tizzy. Wendy remembers one wedding at which she and the photographer were the only guests to appear (It was later discovered that the wrong date had been printed on the wedding invitations.) and another at which the photographer showed up without film in his camera. She had to assist in restaging the whole thing months later. And by that time the bride was an expectant mother.

Wendy is used to many of the minor mishaps that can unsettle a wedding or other special occasion. Consequently, she always comes equipped with an emergency kit ready to supply a safety pin or sew up a ripped gown on the floor at the reception.

Of course the heart of her business is providing the flowers - arrangements, hanging baskets or whatever is appropriate and desired. She does not stock flowers, but orders them fresh for each occasion.

Comparing her experiences in planning weddings here with those she remembers from her native England, Wendy notes a number of differences:

Aside from the bride and groom's interview with the minister at which the words of the ceremony are reviewed, an English wedding, she says, is completely unrehearsed. And it is a one time thing. Pictures might be taken during the ceremony, but afterwards they will only be done outdoors, perhaps with the wedding party framed in the doorway of the church. There will be no return to the altar to restage the wedding for the benefit of the photographer.

Prior to the wedding the banns must be read for three successive Sundays in both the bride's and the groom's churches, with the couple present to hear them.

When the wedding gets underway, the bride precedes her attendants down the aisle.

As a part of the ceremony and before the assembled guests, the couple must sign the church's register. Immediately following, the wedding party - the bride, groom, both their parents and usually the best man and maid of honor - proceeds to the sacristy where the

Those who cannot attend the wedding send telegrams which are read by the best man after the toasts at the reception.

There will be a wedding cake, but it will be fruit filled (much like our groom's cake) frosted with marzipan and royal icing in white with touches of silver.

Wendy was a teacher in England before she became a businesswoman in the United States. Since coming here, she has also returned to teaching. The suggestion of a young neighbor, Hal Brown, who was then taking horticulture at Kent Vo-Tech, that she show some of her work to his instructor, Lambert Foulk, provided the catalyst. She did show her work, and with the encouragement of Mr. Foulk, was later invited by the school to teach one evening class a week. That one has since grown to three classes with nearly a hundred students each week. Many return for a second session after the first 12-week course, and there is usually a waiting list of those anxious to join her class.

For some business, has been the reason for or the result of signing up for the class. Students in this area and across the country have gone from Wendy's classes into their own businesses. But for most, it is pure fun, a chance to be creative, to come up with something beautiful that is uniquely their own.

Beginning with the basic triangle, Wendy has her students do their own arrangements. They start with fresh flowers and proceed to dried arrangements. For the latter, they learn to select and preserve their own materials.

About the only "homework" Wendy assigns is scouring the woods and fields with a weather eye for the beautiful or the unusual. Thus, the lady who protested that she had never pulled a weed or a blade of grass has her students out looking for all sorts of weeds, leaves and grasses. And the assignment often turns into a kind of happy marriage therapy as husbands join wives in the scouting.

For individuals too, Wendy's classes have turned out to be literally just the therapy the doctor prescribed. And the teacher, herself, is not immune to the beneficial effects. She confesses that something happens in almost every class to give her a lift. Perhaps a 'blah' day is rescued or even an 'Excedrin' headache overcome. She says there are evenings she is tempted to stay home, but she is always glad she didn't.

Wendy cannot be pressed into saying which gives her more pleasure, her business or the classes she teaches. But if either stopped being fun, she would probably quit. That does not seem a likely prospect for the near future.

For Boaters Xmas Gifts

Now that the boating season is over for most of us and our boats have been put in storage for the winter, now is the time to start planning for putting them back in service.

Have you ever been asked, "What do you want for Christmas?" Now is the time to ask for these things that you intended to buy but never got around to purchasing. Examine the fire extinguisher that has become badly rusted from salt spray; the personal flotation devices that may have been snagged by fishing hooks and are no longer trustworthy; the paddle or oar that you lost overboard.

How about a small plastic whistle as a back-up for the mechanical horn that sometimes is barely audible and a spare box of fuses for all those extra accessories.

The CB radio that you rely on to call for assistance in time of emergency is not always monitored by the Coast Guard. There are relatively inexpensive VHF-FM radios available that you can install yourself that will give you a greater coverage. A set of distress flares for day and night use and a large orange distress flag for signaling should be onboard.

Other items such as bilge pumps, flashlights, boat book, compass, first aid kit, charts, tools, sun glasses, sunburn lotion and spare parts can add to more pleasure afloat.

The next meeting of Harrington Flotilla 12-08 U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Stephen's Church, Harrington, and the public is invited to attend.

Police Beat

Delaware State Police at Georgetown report that the first four bank robbers from the robbery at the First National Bank of Frankford yesterday has been apprehended. William Edward Mapp, 32 of Northrop Lane, Baltimore, Maryland, was apprehended at his resident by the FBI this morning when he returned home. Nine-hundred dollars of the money allegedly removed from the bank was recovered at the time of his arrest. This all followed the finding of his car in Berlin, Maryland, at 3 o'clock this morning, it being the car allegedly seen fleeing from the scene of the robbery. Charges are pending, and the other three believed involved remain at large.

Four Black males in their mid 20's entered the bank on Clayton St. in Frankford two wearing stocking masks. One armed with a double barreled sawed-off shotgun went to the teller furthest from the door and demanded her money. She pulled her cash from the drawer, and it was taken in hand by the four as they fled.

Today, I can believe winter. The November skies are gray and the air has that peculiar, penetrating sharpness that makes you think snowflakes will start to fall any minute. The temperature was 28 degrees at Trail's End at seven o'clock this morning. I look across the north meadow and the cows are grazing quietly and peacefully in their field of rye. They probably like all this better than the heat of summer.

We did not get any response yet to the rest of the poem we requested about November. If we knew the author that would help. It did one thing for me, though. It motivated me to look for and collect other poems of about November. The following little gem I found in the Senior Citizens News. It is entitled "November", but there is no author given.

"O Dear old dull November! They don't speak well of you:

Thank You! Thank You! Thank You! A Big Smile and another Thank You for the support of the Bazaar!

Clara Judy was leader Monday Morning at Bible Study. Her subject was Hebrews One-The whole chapter. She read the Masters Voice, from Moody Monthly.

The hour was started and ended with a prayer and singing. Those present were Clara-Anna Mae-Mellie Mildred-Marion-Gertrude-Lili-Mamie Annabel-Bertha-Elma-Richard M. Pearl-Tony-Elwood-Theresa-Sallie-Ada L.

Donna Webb of Manna of Modern Maturity was here Mon. morning demonstrating a one dish meal. Donna pointed out that a one dish meal must be nutritious-Balanced-Facts that must also be considered-money-time-energy-knowledge-skill-was ability. The dish she served was Cabbage Beef-Noodles-Just delicious. In the afternoon Mabel Jean was here! "Springtime In the Rockies", was a favorite of many and was always an easy song to hum and sing. Ina was at the piano and band practice was off to a roaring start. There were 18 present.

This has been a most invigorating gala week-Believe me it has truly been a doozer!! To start the ball rolling-The Birthday Party with a beautiful luscious turkey decorated cake-Ice cream and cards. Owls for the Birthday people and the tables all looked lovely. George Godge presented a movie on Hawaii. Glad to see both the movie and George. The party was well attended Such chatt-

by Pat Hatfield

They say your winds are chilling; Your skies are never blue.

But O dear me, November! You're lots of pleasant things;

All though the month we're longing to taste your turkey wings!"

Also here is something to laugh about from the same source.

"Language specialists claim that five of the sweetest phrases in English are: "I love you!" "Dinner is served," "All is forgiven," "Sleep until noon," "Keep the change," and some would add to this "You've lot weight!"

How often we repeat the silly sayings we grow up with. At lunch-time I remarked to Dad, "My nose itches, we must be getting company." And I laughed and thought of other equally familiar. "If your left hand itches, you will get some money; if your right hand itches, you will shake hands with a stranger."

From my cousin's old scrapbook, I find many more. "In some parts of Delmarva, a farmer would take a bunch of hair from a cow he was selling in order to prevent this good luck from leaving him with a cow."

An old Delmarva cure for the rheumatism was to wear a brass ring. This one seems to have come down through the ages in a slightly different form. A customer in our shop told me last year in all sincerity that wearing a copper bracelet would cure arthritis.

Also I see by the scrapbook that "Rain water from Easter week is valued from rheumatism." Delmarvans used to say that "Long hair on a man indicated that he would lose his wife." That was before the long-haired males of today, I guess.

"Red spider tea was believed by many Delmarvans to be good for just about any ailment."

Also, many believe that a bird flying low to the ground indicated rain. Birds entered into a lot of superstitions. Many of my husband's family believes that a bird flying against the window pane was a sign of someone dying in the family. I do not know they rationalized it, when death did not occur! And of course you all know that if a whole herd of cows are all lying down in the meadow at the same time, it will surely rain.

At Grandmother's house if the old red rooster came up on the doorstep and crowed, grandma would hustle out to the kitchen and start baking up some pies, because surely company was coming for dinner.

Cashier-Annabel Marrow was busy and happy to see everyone. Ann Brennan was coffee girl and now you know who to give all the praise for such a good beverage at the luncheon of turkey salad sandwiches-Ham sandwiches, coconut, Pumpkin pie, and good old-soup beans (Navy Beans).

White Elephant and Flowers were a fine addition to the Bazaar. Mamie Adams-Anna Mae Short-Nellie Tyler thanks the folks for the great response they received. Catherine Stevens-Nita McClain-Lili McBride, spread of all kinds of Needlework was spectacular. Something for everyone! They to want to say a special thanks for all the tedious hours in all the works presented.

THANK GOD FOR ALL THE BLESSINGS IN YOUR LIFE

Ay, call it holy ground,
The soil where first they trod!
They have left unstained what there they found -
Freedom to worship God.
- Felicia Dorothea Hemans

When you think of the good times you're able to share
When the good things of life give you cause to rejoice,
With your friends or your neighbors or people who care,
Be thankful.
And whatever good health has been keeping you there,
So for all of your blessings, we'd like to suggest:
Be thankful.
For the freedom that's given the sound of your voice,
At the place where you worship with all of the rest,
Plus the right to observe any faith of your choice;
To your heavenly Father by Whom you've been blessed,
Be thankful!
- Gloria Nowak

Trinity United Methodist Church

Trinity Methodist Church, the former Methodist Protestant Church of Harrington will celebrate its organization on December 7, 1980 with special services to which the public is invited. It was organized in the old Harrington school house by a lay preacher, the Rev. J.E. Nicholson. In addition to organizing churches, he operated a grocery store in Seaford.

Delaware. Trinity church, along with Greenwood, became what was then known as the Milford Mission. The years have shown a steady growth in numbers with the addition of increased facilities. The latest addition was a modern educational facility added in 1960. The anniversary will feature special displays of church and local historical interest. Several members have created banners and anniversary sary needlework. An anniversary sermon will be preached on December 7 at 11:00 a.m. by the Pastor, Rev. William Markley. The Rev. Nelson B. Benjamin, pastor from 1959-1960, will be the anniversary speaker at the 2:00 p.m. service. The anniversary will conclude with a fellowship meal following this afternoon service.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Storus of Harrington were honor guests at a dinner party Monday when friends and associates gathered at Seaford Country Club to wish him well upon his retirement from Delmarva Power and Light Company.

At a ceremony conducted at the Air Force recruiting office in Dover, Miss Kitty L. Burgess, daughter of Mrs. Louise Marie Burgess and W.C. Burgess of Harrington was commissioned an officer in the Air Force Nurse Corp.

It was a proud moment, indeed, as Albert Mason of Harrington accepted a gold safety hat on behalf of 107 Delmarva Power and Light Company employees in Kent and Sussex counties. The gold safety hat is a symbol indicating a perfect record for everyone for an entire year. It means that no employee has had an accident resulting in "lost-time" from his job.

Farm economists and statistics are verifying something that farmers are well aware of; that is that net farm income is declining. The primary reason for this farm is that with increased production costs, farmers are keeping less of each sales dollar. Although the figures are not finalized U.S.D.A. economists expect net farm income of U.S. farmers to skid to a three year low of $23-25 billion. That's down about 25 percent from 1979's estimated $31 billion.

The 12 percent rise in expenses in 1980 follows an 18 percent rise in 1979, which really accentuates the profit margin crisis that all farmers face.

The main farm problems in the eighties will be the ever increasing production cost that leave little margin from the prices farmers receive. If it were not for a strong export market, the margin in 1980 would be even less.

It is ironic that in a year in which Iran boycotted all U.S. sales and the U.S. suspended grain trade with Russia, that exports, would reach an all-time high. The increase is reflected in dollars and volume. The $40 billion figure is 25 percent over 1979's $32 billion. Volume rose about 18 percent as well.

Why did these exports increase when all indications were for a pessimistic outlook? The most important reason were disappointing harvests in several nations. Weather factors such as drought and early frost harvests in Russia, China, Canada, and elsewhere, which in turn spurred demand. The Soviets had to turn to new markets to meet their needs, which in turn opened up the world market channel of grain for U.S. supplies. This indicates, that boycott or no boycott, where there is a demand, that demand will be met when the price is right. This statement implies nothing illegal or dishonest but simply reflects the working of a supply and demand situation. Simply, put, Russia needed grain and oilseeds and bought them from European and South American sources. These sources in turn used U.S. supplies to fill their demands. Also, other customers turned to the U.S. when they could not fill their needs from their traditional sources. When Argentina sold most of its wheat crop to the U.S.S.R. China bought its needs from the United States.

What is really interesting about all this is that no matter how complex and sophisticated the International Grain Market seems to become it really goes back to the weather. Poor growin seasons in one or several food producing regions of the world stimulate grain prices and override a lot of political situations. This is supply and demand at work. And this has a direct effect on the prices on each individual farmer and in turn effect the profit margin of each grower.

Can Reagan Fulfill Promises Via Action, or Only on Paper?

By JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR
WASHINGTON -- President-elect Ronald Reagan will face some grim prospects on the economic front when he moves into the White House in January. It won't be easy for him to keep his campaign promises to cut taxes, increase defense spending and balance the budget, all at the same time.

Government economists have told us he could juggle the books. He could transfer some programs so they no longer appear on the budget, which would give it the appearance, on paper, of being more balanced. But the actual expenditures would be unaffected, and the federal deficit would continue to grow.

We have no reason to believe Reagan intends to use sleight-of-hand to fulfill his campaign pledges, but in another two months, he'll try to stand up against the onrushing tide.

He wants to reduce the 12 percent inflation rate that is eroding the average American's purchasing power. But Reagan also wants to abandon the voluntary wage-price guidelines. This would unleash the labor unions.

It's a safe bet the unions would try to catch up with inflation by demanding wage increases, which could create an updraft effect. The inflation rate could soar like a hot-air balloon.

an even bigger threat. President Carter has already ordered the decontrol of oil in phases. Each new phase gives the inflation rate another boost.

We have seen some of the working papers developed by the Council on Wage and Price Stability. These papers, intended for official eyes only, predict that rising energy prices will account for 25 to 50 percent of next year's increase in the Consumer Price Index.

Can Reagan stem the tide? His aides tell us he will sure try.

PAMPERING BABY DOC: American television viewers recently saw the Bahamian police engage in a scene of stark brutality. They viciously clubbed defenseless refugees from Haiti, loaded them aboard a ship and sent them home -- probably to a horrible fate.

But that's not the worst of it. There's a story behind that blood-curdling episode. The desperate Haitians were trying to escape the repressive regime of dictator "Baby Doc" Duvalier when their leaky boats gave out. In the past, the U.S. Coast Guard has plucked Haitian refugees from their pitifully small boats and delivered them safely to Miami.

But this time, the Coast Guard refused to rescue them. They barely made it to a barren island in the Bahamas.

Why did the Coast Guard stand by so heartlessly? We have seen a confidential State Department cable which may explain it. The cable reports on a meeting last month between the Haitian dictator and a high-level U.S. delegation.

According to the documents, Duvalier accused an American firm, Gulf and Western, of encouraging the boat people to leave Haiti for higher wages. The company, Baby Doc charged, "attracts illegal migrants to work on its sugar cane plantations in the Dominican Republic. Here, the Haitians earn enough money to be transported to Miami."

Baby Doc hotly accused the U.S. Coast Guard of being "part of the process" because "the Coast Guard picks up the Haitians from small boats and helps them complete the journey to Florida."

Evidently, someone in Washington wanted to appease Baby Doc. The Coast Guard was advised by the State Department that it would be "incorrect" to enter Bahamian territory to pick up the Haitian boat people.

That's why the Coast Guard stood by while those pathetic Haitians almost drowned, then were clubbed into submission, and finally shipped home to Baby Doc.

LIMITED BENEFIT: Ronald Reagan has said he wants to end the so-called "earnings limitation" of the Social Security System. This is a rule which limits the amount of outside income that retired beneficiaries can earn. But according to an internal study by Social Security Administration experts, abolishing the rule won't really help too many people. The data reveals that only 6 percent of the nation's elderly now earn more outside income than the rule allows.

SECURITY SCARE: The National Park Service, General Services Administration and the Navy are renovating the utility systems at the White House. This means that several master plans of the underground utility network at the White House are floating around. And that frankly worries those whose job it is to protect the president.

BRIEF OBITUARY: The Cost Accounting Standards Board was created in 1971 to crack down on profiteering among contractors during the Vietnam War. In its short life, the board saved the taxpayers more than $360 million. Yet it cost only $20 million to operate it over that same period. Last year, the agency's budget was cut in half, and this year Congress voted to disband it -- a sad event for the beleaguered American taxpayer.

Spartans Drop "Game of the Bell" to Milford

The Lake Forest Spartans missed a chance for a break even season Friday night before a disappointingly small crowd of home fans. Nate Floyd lit the fire of hope midway in the first quarter with a 13 yard scoring run. The Spartan defense containing the Bucs very well during the first half, holding them scoreless. Brian Moreau intercepted Crouch's pass to set up the scoring drive.

In the second quarter, another Brian, this time Gladden, intercepted crouch again to start a drive from mid-field. Billy Scott hit Dale Benson for 34 yards. In four more plays the Spartans moved the ball to the one foot line. From there Nate Floyd punched it over. Brian Gladden then kicked the extra point to send Lake Forest into the dressing room with a 13-0 lead.

The second half started on a note of gloom as Clarence Bailey returned Brian Gladden's kick-off 80 yards to put Milford on the scoreboard. With just over 12 minutes remaining in the third quarter, Bailey again scored with a one yard plunge after setting it up with a 40 yard run to the Spartan's 34. Bailey then added 2 extra points within a run to put the Bucs ahead 14-13.

In the fourth quarter Billy Scott was intercepted by Allen Hinton on the Spartan 47. After two long gained by Bailey put the ball on the Spartan 7 Crouch hit Ricky Johnson for a leaping catch in the end-zone to put Milford ahead 20-13. Lake Forest made a valient effort late in the final period. After marching 70 yards down field they were stopped on the Bucs 7 by Milford and the clock as time ran out.

Dale Benson [88] snags a 34 yard pass from Billy Scott to set up Nate Floyd's second TD.

Something to Kick About

Frederica and is a junior.

What they kick about is a soccer ball. They both play on or have played on the Spartans soccer team, both varsity and junior varsity. What makes a girl participate in what is normally a male sport? When asked this question, the girls responded: Diane-"I played on the girls soccer team in Milford during Junior High School. Since transferring to Lake Forest which has no girls team I tried out for the boys team and won a playing spot.

Dawn-"My brother played soccer and I used to practice with him at home. Since, I liked the sport and was encouraged by the soccer cheerleaders, I tried out and won a berth.

Question #2: How were you accepted and treated by the boys on the team?

Diane-"I feel that I was well accepted by my team mates. Dawn was the first girl on the team so when I came along they were used to it." Dawn-"My first year was the first time girls were allowed to play on boys teams so there was a little resistance. In my second year it was O.K. In fact I was the captain of the JV team. I was injured mid-way through last years season and had surgery which prevented me from playing this year."

Question #3: In the course of play did it seem to you that the opposition took it easy on you or was the physical contact harder than usual?

Diane-"It seemed to me that the contact during a game was much harder than that of my own teammates during practice sessions." Dawn-"Some of the guys seemed to hit hard but others kind of laid off. But the hit took when my leg was injured seemed very hard."

Question #4: Do you feel that you received a fair amount of playing time from the coach?

Diane-"I feel I could have had more time but my position changed to where I played three different positions. If I had played the same position all the time I think I would be treated fairly."

Dawn-"I was out all this year and half of last year but before my injury I started every game."

Question #5: Do you intend to try out again next year?

Diane-"I graduate this year but I hope to go to college and if there is a team I will try for it."

Dawn-"Yes, I will go out for the team again next year, if I am able." Coach Dave Buck said he was pleased with the girls performance and he wished that some of the boys could read the play and the game as well as the girls.
