English Channel swimmer, Dr. Carey to kick off Readathon

Dr. Dennis Carey, the latest conqueror of the English Channel swin, has been designated to be this year's MS Readathon Chairman for Delaware.

Lake Forest North Elementary has been chosen as the elementary school to kick off the Readathon in lower Delaware. Youngsters in the Felton school will be going through the community soliciting sponsors who will donate money for MS depending on how many books the student will

February 9th at 10:00 A.M. has been selected as the time for the readathon to begin. The program will be conducted in the 3rd through the 6th grades of the LF North School

Dr. Carey, a member of Du Pont's cabinet recently gained celebrity standing when on Sept. 4th he swam the English Channel in 14 hours and 55 minutes. He departed France at Calais at 1:30 P.M. and arrived in Dover, ENgland, at 4:55 A.M. According to Dr. Carey "...it was a very gruelling swim. It was more difficult than I anticipated. We had a bad current and bad weather laced with high winds. I was blown off course by the heavy seas...which prevented me from swimming forward. I was forced to swim in a lateral direction for several miles. I trained for 27 miles, but actually swam for 38 miles. I was coated with grease, but was still stung by jellyfish. I weighed 170 lbs. while in training but had to reach 200 lbs. for the swim. When I arrived at the Dover beaches, I was in a semiconscious state suffering from hyperthermia, where the body temperature is reduced drastically. The water temperature during the swim was 52 degrees." Dr. Carey reported that there have been 3000 attempts. He was the 31st American to make it, and 219th person over all to do it. He said he felt that he had an advantage over the others who were attempting the swim at the same time. "I had an assisting wind which was a big advantage, but the high winds and rough seas turned against me. I felt that I was in good physical condition. I trained from 3 to 5 hours a day. Last spring I trained off the New England coast...Maine and Massachusetts to get used to the cold water. Then I swam all summer off Ocean City, N.J...my home grounds. I also used the U. of Del pool...three days on nautical weights.

Dr. Carey said that this had been his goal for some time "...and achieving it meant a great deal to me, and I hope that it serves as inspiration to school children who are participating in the MS readathon."

This mobile home located on the northbound lane of U.S. 13 across from the Harrington Tastee Freeze was destroyed by fire approximately 5:30 Saturday morning. Chipman students to get books explaining Comp. tests

During the past year Delaware Chipman Junior School will be tested citizens have been reading and hearing a great deal about state mimimal performance requirements for high school graduation. Simply stated, this means that in addition to courses and credits which Delaware students must complete in order to receive a diploma, there are now a series of minimum requirements in reading, writing, and mathematics. Prior to this school year testing for this purpose in the Lake Forest School District was done in the high school. This year, however, students at W.T.

on certain selected requrements. Other requirements will be tested in grades 5,6,9 or 10.

Chipman Principal Mrs. Marjorie Davis will be meeting with Chipman students in assembly programs this week to explain the requirements and testing procedures. The Department of Public Instruction has prepared a booklet entitled "What Are Minimal Performance Requirements", and each junior school student will receive a copy. In this booklet each

Frederica discusses trash options

Only a few citizens turned out last Monday, January 19, to discuss with the Frederica Town Council the various options for handling increased trash fees that have so far cost the town somewhere between $1500 and $1700 in excess of the current year's contract with Eastern Disposal for hauling the community's

The increase has come since the beginning of November when fees at the new Sandtown landfill have been assessed by the ton, rather than by the load. Eastern Disposal has not increased its price for hauling but has had to pass along to its customers the higher costs of dumping. So far, the town of Frederica has been absorbing that extra cost, but the money has come from other items in the budget, and the Town Council finds it necessary to recoup its losses. Mayor Dan Griffith said the town has only one practical option - that is to assess residents an extra charge for the increase during the last five months of the year (November through March) until the current contract is up. That would amount to an extra $1.00 per month (or a total of $5.00 for the entire period) for each residence. Getting final figures from the trash hauler and deciding whether to mail out the additional charge as a separate item or attach it to next year's trash bill were all that really remained to be decided. That decision will probably be made at Next Wednesday's regular meeting of

Also discussed at last week's public meeting were methods of getting contractors for next year. The current contract is up at the end of March, and townspeople can antic ipate paying higher trash fees for 1981-82. In addition to the increased fees for dumping, trash haulers will be allowing for higher gasoline and [Continued on page three]

Woodbridge sets meeting on Basics plus school

In order that the public may be fully educated about the planned Basics Plus program in the Woodbridge School District and the potential changes that may occur, the Woodbridge Basics Plus Committee has designated February 2-13 as a period of public education. Open public meetings will be held in the Woodbridge High School cafeteria on February 2 and at North Bridgeville cafeteria on February 3 and at Greenwood cafeteria on February 4. All meetings will begin at 7:00 p.m.

Members of the Basics Plus Committee also welcome the opportunity to speak to civic organizations and to get together with small groups of people at private teas, home gatherings and discussion groups so that they might begin to answer specific questions and to fully define the goals of the program.

Anyone who would be willing to organize a small community group in their home or who wishes a presentation at any public forum, can call Nancy Cullen at 337-7600 to set up a time convenient to all.

Heat tape may be cause of Felton trailer fire

The wiring in a heat tape wrapped around a pipe to keep it from freezing apparently caused a fire that kept thirty Felton firefighters busy and did an estimated $1,500 worth of damage to the trailer home of Suzanne Hurd Sunday.

The fire was reported by Ms. Hurd about 1:52 p.m. after she returned to find her home, located behind Pointer's Motel off U.S. 13, filled with

According to Delaware Fire Marshal John M. Hurd, Jr., the fire probably originated in electrical heatthat had been wrapped around a water pipe to prevent freezing. From the tape, the fire spread to insulation under the trailer.

As a result of the fire, the trailer's electrical wiring was ruined, and its underside burned out.

Kenneth G. Beebe

Beebe cited by State Police award A Certificate of Appreciation was presented on Thursday Jan. 21st by the Delaware State Police to Kenneth G. Beebe, Jr., of R.D. 3, Box 234-A, Harrington. The award cited Beebe's outstanding courage and prompt and decisive action on December 4th when he rescued Thomas H. Schiller, of Milton, from the burning wreckage of a car on US Rt. 113 near Frederica. Schiller's car had overturned and caught fire with him inside. Although Thomas Schiller expired from his injuries a week after the crash, Kenneth Beebe's efforts removed the motorist from certain immediate death and give him his only chance for survival. The award, signed by Col. Norman V. Cochran, Delaware State Police Superintendent, commended Beebe for his rescue effort and his

Crowd turns out for meat seminar

By Jean Sarro

An overwhelming, standing-roomonly, crowd, turned out at the Harrington Food Rite, last Friday night for an informative seminar on

The seminar was primarily to instruct the public on how the bulk, "Cry-O-Vac," packages of beef available in the Food Rite meat counter, can be easily cut into serving portions in the home, or custom cut to your specifications by your Food Rite butcher. It was also noted that these large "Cry-O-Vac" packages, seemingly high in "price per pound," actually were a better buy when the "price-per-serving" was taken into consideration.

Other topics included were U.S. D.A. grading, yield, the various cuts of beef, and the difference between ground beef, ground chuck, and Volunteers from the audience, who participated in the actual cutting were awarded packages of bacon for their efforts.

The highlight of the evening was the drawing of prizes consisting of packages of meat which had been cut during the evening.

Refreshments were served afterward and Don Dadds, proprietor, announced that due to the large turn-out, future seminars will be scheduled on other meat topics.

DNRC sets deadline for waste handlers

February 18 is the deadline for the state's hazardous waste handlers to notify the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control of their activities, according to Thomas P. Eichler, director of the Division of Environmental Control.

Reminders have been sent to some 800 Delaware companies that might qualify as generators, transporters, treaters, storers or disposers of hazardous wastes. Another 150 letters have been sent to the industries which have already complied with the federal requirement to notify the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

"All hazardous waste handlers are required to notify the Department on the State of Delaware form," Eichler said. "But we want to avoid extra (Continued on Page 3)

When John Sipple died his son Nathaniel was still a minor and when the lands were divided 8 October 1759 his widow Prudence Sipple deeded her dower property of 53 acres to Martinus, and he sold this parcel to Henry Peterson in November. YCC Summer jobs available firemen:

Delaware high school students who would like a chance for a summer job with the U.S. Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) have until March 15 to apply, John E. Wilson III, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control and state program agent for the YCC, announced today.

Forms are available at all public, parochial and private high schools in

The purpose of YCC is to offer youths between the ages of 15 and 18 outdoor jobs, environmental education and insights into human relationships. According to Wilson, more than 100 Delaware youth take part each year.

Plans for the 1981 YCC program call for five non-residential camps to be operated by the State Division of Parks and Recreation between June 29 and August 14 and one non residential camp to be operated by the U.S. Department of the Interior from June 22 to August 14.

Camp locations will be Luins Fond State Park near Kirkwood; Brandywine Creek State Park, north of Wilmington; Walter S. Carpenter, Jr. State Park near Newark; Killens Pond State Park, near Felton; and Trap Pond State Park, near Laurel. The federal camp will be at Bombay Hook Wildlife Refuge, near Smyrna, with a satellite camp at Prime Hook

Refuge in Sussex County. All Delaware youth who will be 15 by June 1 and not yet 19 by August 31 are eligible. John C. Cairns, state supervisor of science and environmental education is again YCC recruiter for Delaware.

Roadside dumping still a problem

Despite the hundreds of tons of trash that the new Sandtown landfill collects each day, roadside dumping is a growing problem in Kent County, according to officials at the Department of Natural Resurces and Enviornmental Control and the Delaware Solid Waste authority.

Highway crews are picking up moe plastic garbage bags along the back roads and the Department is getting more complaints about the eyesores than ever.

"Roadside dumping is illegal, unsightly and expensive to clean up," said Thomas P Eighler, director of the Division of Environmental Control. "We are cracking down." The Department, he said, is planning to increase its enforcement activities to prevent illegal dumping. And anyone observing illegal dumping is encouraged to aid the crack down by reporting it to the Solid Waste Management Branch at 736-4781, during working hours. Delaware law provides fines of $100 to $500 for each violation.

Individuals who were for years allowed to dump free at the recently closed Houston landfill must now pay $1 for a 200 pound load. There also are complaints about the inconvenience of the drive to Sandtown, which is in the southwestern part of Kent County, but the county operated three collection stations, at Kenton, Barkers landfill south of Dover Air Force Base, and Vernon, north of County Road 455, to alleviate the problem. (Transfer station hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday.)

Coming Events

The Greater Harrington Chamber of Commerce will hold a dinner meeting tomorrow evening, Thursday, Inuary 29, at 6:30 p.m. at the Fairgrounds Restaurant. Plans for the evening include a speaker, Linda Nowland of the Business Education Department at Lake Forest High School, who will talk about the cooperative program.

With the escalating cost of heating fuel, there are many people interested in cutting their home heating bills. Up to this time mosr effort has been concentrated on weatherstripping, insulating and turning down the thermostat. These energy conservation measures have rendered significant reductions, but there is also another area that can provide significant reductions with a short payback period--the heating system.

To deal with the problem of making home heating systems more energy efficient, the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service has scheduled a Residential Heating System Seminar on Thursday, February 12, 1981, at 7:00 P.M. at the Carlisle Fire Hall. The Fire Hall is located at Northwest Front St. in Milford.

Winterama, FAMLY ORIENTED FESTIVAL SPONSORED BY THE Delaware Nature Education Society (DNES) will be on Sunday, Feb. 1, noon to 4:30 p.m., at its Dover Environmental Education Center lo cated at Delaware Technical and Community College, Terry Campus, U.S. ROute 13 and Denney's Road,

Annes' Kitchen

Going along with my premise that good and tasty food need not break your food budget, I am giving you my recipe for "Bread Pudding." You can substitute the bread with any leftover breads, rolls, plain cake, or a combination of all of these items. You can add raisins, nuts, canned fruit, or a little of each. My family likes this Bread Pudding plain, as the recipe describes, served warm with a dollop of whipped cream.

2 cups bread, cubed (stale is best) 2 cups sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt

1 2/3 cup evaporated milk

1 cup boiling water 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

1) Place the bread in a buttered baking pan (bread pan works well). 2) In a large bowl, beat the eggs, add the sugar, salt, and milk. 3) Stir in the water, add vanilla, then pour over bread. 4) Bake in 350 degree oven until set, about 45 minutes to one

On many occasions I have served this bread pudding for Sunday breakfast or brunch. When served as dessert you can expect about six servings. I'm sure you will agree it is tasty, nutritious, easy to prepare and gentle on the budget. Another thing that always is important to me in a recipe, is that the ingredients are usually items we have on hand(except the evaporated milk), and can prepare the recipe without any special shopping. ENJOY!

School lunch suffers major cut in Federal support

School lunch prices may soon go up five cents or more now that Delaware has suffered a cut in federal support for the program that amounts to nearly $500,000 this school year.

Robert L. John, supervisor of food services at the State Department of Public Instruction, said a bill enacted by Congress in December reduces federal aid in several categories, and most school districts here will probably have to raise their prices in order to recover the loss.

Delaware schools receive about $7 million a year in funds administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The new cuts amount to about seven per cent of that figure. School lunch now costs 75 cents in the New Castle County School District and it averages about 60 cents in the rest of the state. Congress has cut the cash and donated foods support by about five cents per meal, and other cuts affect breakfast and milk programs.

Major losses to the state occur in these areas:

,225,000 in support for regular school lunches, based on 4.5 cents for each of the five million meals estimated to be served between January 1 and the end of the school year $122,000 from a denial of increased support for milk served apart from the basic lunch ,$45,000 cut for school breakfasts, at three cents each for 1.5 million served annually ,$45,000 from a ten-cent decrease in federal support for lunches served at reduced price for children from needy families, based on the 450,000 such meals served from January through

Some changes are retroactive in effect to last October, and others take effect January 1.

Dinner will be simple here tonight, probably soup and crackers. After dinner we will be going down to have birthday dessert with our small Garith who just turned seven today. My how fast they grow up. On Friday evening we will join Hilary's group for her birthday dessert. Sweet Sixteen is such a special age in a girl's life, kind of a milestone in becoming an adult. With the help of a good friend and neighbor I was able to start my house cleaning yesterday. How is that for getting off to an early start? Of course it became complicated. What isn't? The washer started pouring water all over the utility room floor and when I ran to call repair service, the telephone was out of order. So most of day we struggled along with no laundry facilities and no phone

But at least I got the cleaning started, looking toward spring. I'm like the dear old mountain woman who always said, "I do like to get the housecleaning done, the garden started and the baby born before spring sets in!"

Independent Bible Fellowship Church

We invite you to listen to our 15 minute radio broadcast called the 'Rible Fellowship Hour" on radio station WAFL-AM at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday. The program is designed to encourage the saints, evangelize sinners, and exalt the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. Already we have received gifts designated for the cadio ministry for which we are so very thankful.

In our Sunday morning worship services, Paster Newman continued vith his series of messages entitled Remove Not the Ancient Landmarks." This past Sunday's message dealt with the doctrine of "Salvation by Grace through Faith" as revealed in Ephesians 2:5 "Even when we were dead in sins, God hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;)."

In our Sunday evening service, Pastor Newman continued the teaching on the Doctrine of Sin. We would enjoy having you join us in our services. Psalm 122:1 "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

We nave available a Calendar of Events for our Church activities for the month of February. Anyone who would like to, may have one to put up in your home so that you will be able to plan ahead and pray for the Church activities.

We wish to extend a "Happy Anniversary" to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright who will be married 16 years on January 31. They will be celebrating this happy event in Lancaster, Pa. Our sincere congratulations to them!

Biden Report

By Sen. Joseph Biden Jr.

Over the past 14 months, I have become very close to the Persinger family of Seaford. Now that Marine Sgt. Gregory A Persinger has been freed from the agonizingly cruel imprisonment he suffered for 444 days at the hands of Iranian fanatics, I feel intense relief and happiness for them all.

The entire family warrants our admiration and honor for the ideals and character they hold and for which we all strive-the Persinger family for their fortitude and loyalty and to Gregory for his patriotism and faith. His release along with that of the other 51 hostages was a happy day for this nation which had suffered through the entire ordeal.

Our warm welcome of this brave young man, our wish to pay tribute, to look at him, perhaps to touch him, as with any national hero, should not mar the homecoming, the re-acquaintance of the family. They deserve the opportunity to have their quiet moments, their privacy. Show them honor, but show them respect. They have earned every consideration for having suffered, simply because they were Americans in a bizarre world of revolution and degradation.

The nightmare has ended well for the Persinger family, for the Nation, and particularly for the new Administration which has a responsibility to and for 226 million Americans. They can now assume that responsibility without the spectre of the hostage situation haunting them as it did the Carter

The United States government, of course, will now review our past, current and future relations with Iran. It's a task that could easily turn into a lynching. We must carefully scrutinize the entire ordeal in a nonpartisan, competent, judicious manner keeping in mind the outrages as well as the strategic importance of Iran in regard to the Mideast oilfields and Soviet Union's potential access to them via Iran.

But most importantly, I believe, we must not be so overcome with personal and national outrage that we foreget that we are a nation of laws. We must respect and be consistent with domestic and international laws even though Iran was not. We must have firm resolve to take action to avoid future situations such as we have just endured but we must not make the critical mistake of sacrificing our national integrity by reneging on a deal which involved so many other nations.

The agreement that we made with Iran concerning the release of the hostages was sponsored and proposed by Algeria. The successful as well as the many previously attempted negotiations to settle the dispute were carried out with the assistance of other foreign nations too. If we want that type of assistance in the future in any type of crisis, our word must be respected and believed.

As we review the Iranian situation we can recoup some of our dignity in rememebering that we paid no ransom, in fact we have returned to Iran only $3 billion of the $12 billion in assets that President Carter froze after the taking of the hostages, the Iranian economy has been ruined by war and trade sanctions, the Iranian government has been isolated by the international community, and our fellow Americans are home.

We need not forgive nor forget the agony of the 14 months, we should not forget that that eight Americans died in an abortive attempt to release the hostages. We will perhaps never forget the images of fanatics burning our flag while cursing our Nation. But we should not overlook the cooperation we from nations often perceived as hostile towards us and certainly we must remember the American character, the strength, dignity and laws of our land. Virtually all of President Reagan's nominees to cabinet positions within his Administration have been confirmed by the Senate. Involved deeply in committee hearings on three of the nominees and floor action on all of them, I found it necessary to vote no on only one nomination.

The criteria I used in making a judgement on the fitness of the nominees for the cabinet level positions was basic. They were carefully scrutinized in a nonpartisan manner for competence, character, and commitment to uphold and intent of the law under their jurisc While I went into the confirmation hearings of Alexander Haig with great reservation, nothing came to light during the hearings that would disqualify him for the role of Secretary of State. He has pledged to adhere to existing legislative provisions governing the conduct of national security policy and to work with, rather than against, Congress. I am satisfied above all else that General Haig is a man who values his word. Though I had and still have reservations regarding his predisposition for obedience over independent judgement, he will, I believe, accurately reflect the new Administration's policies. The same holds true for William French Smith as Attorney General and William Casey as Director of the CIA.

I could not, however, vote for the confirmation of ames G. Watt for Secretary of the Interior. As chief environmental officer of the United States, the Secretary of Interior is the conservator, trustee and steward of our vast public lands and natural resources, while at the same time expected to promote reasonable and efficient use of the same lands. His decisions, once implemented, could irreparably alter or destroy the environment of America's open spaces and wilderness areas.

At face value, Mr. Watt possesses several attributes suited for cabinet service. He knows his field, he speaks out on his views and he performs his work with avid zeal and dedication. What I worry about is whether his record of zeal and unyielding dedication to promotion of public lads will be adequately tempered with a dedication to moderation in the use of those lands; whether he will find an adequate middle ground between the developmental interests which he has so forcefully advocated and the equally valid goals of environmentalists whom he has labeled "extremists".

Mr. Watts' record of performance, especially as president of the Mountain States Legal Foundation, shows him to be seriously mismatched with the very duties, tasks, and abilities required of the Secretary of the Interior. His one-sided and single-minded advocacy for developmental interests go to the very heart of the job he will assume. He has not only vigorously attacked the environmentalists and conservationists whose interests he must preserve, he has made a career of challenging many of the same laws he is sworn to

I believe the rich coastal resources of Delaware may be placed in dire jeopardy if the secretary of Interior does not uphold the intent of the law and therefore I could not support his nomination.

Keeping In Touch

Wih Tom Evans

I am sure all Delawareans join me in heartfelt thanks that the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran are finally free. We can all feel expecially joyful that the long period of anxiety for Marine Sergeant Gregory Persinger and his family in Seaford has come to end. It was moment of pure beauty to see him stepping off the plane from Iran with the 51 other Americans.

These feelings of happiness are nevertheless matched by outrage at the despicable actions of the Iranian captors. The former hostages' reports of mistreatment and abuse can only underline the obvious fact that our citizens were cruelly used by a band of lawless barbarians. Their sadistic behavior toward the hostages was evident in the stories of deprivation of food, sleep and sunlight, and the cruel lie told to one captive that his mother had died and then letting him live with that falsehood for months. All of this should enforce our determination never to condone such behavior or bend to the

The release of the hostages does many things for America, but probably the most significant aspect of their freedom is the rekindling effect it has on our national spirit. Their freedom has lifted an entire Nation and can mark the beginning of a new period of achievement and optimism for America. For too long we have been accepting the imposition of limits on our expectations and doubt in our national character. I believe the virtues of strength, courage and dignity embodied in the hostages can be adopted by our new government and our entire Nation. Let us look at this proud and strong group of Americans as an example to us all.

THOUGHTS FROM DOVER

By Gov. Pierre S. DuPont

Several new members have joined the Cabinet in recent weeks, bringing a lot of fresh ideas and concepts about how to improve State government. Their broad experience in Delaware and other states, will, I believe, add a new dimension to State government.

Dennis Sullivan was recently confirmed as the new Finance Secretary, replacing Pete Nellius, who retired from the government to go into private business. Mr. Sullivan has worked at all levels of government in New York and New Jersey, was an administrator at a university, and studied in England. He brings the kind of financial skills needed to maintain Delaware's improved financial stability.

Another new member of the Administration is Don Lynch of Selbyville, who some of you might remember as a member of the town council in Fenwick Island and a member of the Legislature for several years. Don will be the new Secretary of Agriculture and he has many years of experience in agricultural business and in State government. He is a keen administrator and one who has many friends in the farming community Milford's Joe Lank, who recently retired as a Colonel in the Army, will return to Delaware to lead the National Guard as the Adjutant General. Joe, as you may remember, was an outstanding athlete at Milford and the University of Delaware. He later went on to a distinguished military career, serving in all corners of the world. He brings new ideas to the Guard and a desire to make the Guard into an outstanding unit.

Another Delaware resident is returning to work here. Marna Whittington, who lives in Yorklyn, but works in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, as an official in the Education Department, will be the new Secretary of Administrative Services. This department serves the other agencies of State government and Ms. Whittington has a strong background in computer and building management that will help improve our States's efficiency.

Finally, I turned to two people already serving in my Administration to fill key slots. Dennis Carey, who was my Assistant for Education, will move over to become Labor Secretary. He has a strong government background and holds a doctorate in public administration. He is also a fine ahtelete and last Fall became the first Delawarean to swim the English Channel. The other side named was John Dillman to be the Personnel Director. He has served in a variety of posts in the government in the past decade, mostly as a personnel

These six individuals will join the rest of the Cabinet who have served so ably over the past four years. It takes a strong team effort to make government work efficiently. These new people will continue in the tradition

Sen. Thurman Adams Jr. I am supset along with other Delaware Co-op customers about hikes in our electric bills from the Delaware Electric Cooperative. It's hard for me to believe that it's just coincidence that the General Assembly last year passed legislation removing the electric co-op from the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission effective in December and the rates went up immediately after that. I'm contacting the PSC to see if there is justification for the increase and if not, I plan to introduce legislation whereby they will be regulated again by the Public Service Commission. The so-called "pill bill" to provide financial assistance to the needy elderly in paying their prescription drug costs (SB 1(probably will be considered by the

The bill, sponsored by Sen. David McBride and Sen. Harris B. McDowell III, would authorize the state to pay pharmacists all but the first $2 of prescription drugs for chronic illness such as diabetes or heart disease. Persons aged 62 or older would be eligible if they weren't covered by Medicaid, Medicare, or some other health insurance covering drug costs and had an annual income of less that $7,500 a year (single(or $9,000 a year

Similar legislation passed the General Assembly last year but was vetoed by the Governor because the bill did not contain an appropriation to pay the estimated $2.6 million annual cost of the program.

Since nearly every legislator has endorsed the principle of the "pill bill," the only roadblock to passage this year again appears to be the appropriation of the funds to pay for it. Along those lines, a bill (SB 38(has been introduced in the Senate to boost the tax on a pack of cigarettes by two cents and hike the tax on alcoholic beverages by 15 percent to pay for the drug assistance program if it is approved.

Last week I introduced two pieces of legislation (SB 43 and SB 44(aimed at eliminating some of the bad experiences of salvage yard owners over the past 12 months which generated some of my heaviest mail of last session. SB 43 would elimate the present requirement that the Division of Motor Vehicles issue a title on a junk car before it can be turned over to a salvage SB 44 brings Delaware's present outmoded salvage vehicle laws more in line with those of other states and eliminate some of the present requirements which have caused all kind of problems. The bills have the support of the Motor Vehicle Division, the Delaware State Police auto theft unit, and the salvage yard operators I've contacted.

Take mattress vour seriously. A lumpy or a worn-out mattress that does not give proper support can make it impossible for your sleep to be restful.

Get into the habit of periodic mattress inspection. Be sure that your mattress gives proper support to your shoulders, hips, and lower back. If you sink down into the mattress, it's probably not giving you the proper support and optimum comfort that encourages truly restful sleep.

Years of sleeping in the same, familiar bed often prevents people from recognizing that the bed is wearing out. If you're not sure whether you are getting proper support, pay a visit to a bedding store and test the feel of a new mattress. If you feel a difference, its probably time to replace "old faithful."

close to President Ronald Reagan expect him to deregulate domestic oil prices very soon. The paperwork is ready. It's marked "top secret" and runs about 200 pages. Only three copies are said to exist.

This sensitive report was prepared by Reagan's energy transition team and handed over to the new energy secretary, Jim Edwards. Some sections were delivered to President Reagan himself.

The report presents three options. The first calls for immediate decontrol. The second allows a slower decontrol process over a few months. The third option simply holds to the Carter administration's schedule, which calls for decontrol in October

The transition team clearly favored immediate decontrol. Under the other two options, the move would be anticipated months before it happened, and the experts don't believe this would have a healthy impact on the market. The preparations might also be thrown off by some imponderable like the Iraq-Iran war.

Right now, the report argues, crude oil stocks are high. This would minimize the impact of immediate decontrol. The increase in gasoline prices should be

Thoughts From Washington

By U.S. Senator Bill Roth

January 20, 1981 will probably be remembered as one of the most historical days in our history. The prayers of a nation were answered with the release of our 52 hostages from Iran, and we inaugurated the 40th President of the United States. Some day!

The entire nation breathed a sigh of relief when final word came that the hostages were clear of Iranian airspace, an event that came only minutes after Ronald Reagan received the oath as our new President.

In his inaugural address, President Reagan called for a new beginning, together. I don't think anything quite echoed those words as much as the feeling of joy that swept across the nation when it became official that the hostages were free. The families of the hostages and all Americans welcome them home. The release of the hostages has special meaning to Delawareans. Gregory Persinger of Seaford has been a captive for 444 days, and he will be coming home soon. I look forward to joining his family and friends, and all Delawareans, in celebrating his safe return.

President Reagan also made January 20th an historical day for all of us. He stated clearly that he had no intentions of backing down on his promise for a much needed tax cut for working people. Mr. Reagan said he would not compromise on this issue. That's good news. It means we can expect quick movement on the President's part in pushing the Roth-Kemp tax cut proposal. The sooner tax cuts are enacted, the better it will be for working families because they will again gain control over more of their own dollars rather than pumping them back into government.

President Reagan made another important point in his speech. He warned that our economic nightmare will not end overnight. Our problems are huge. They can't be solved by a simple wave of a magic wand.

I agree with the President that we still have to take several doses of castor oil before our economy will improve. But I feel that at least now we have a beginning toward solving those problems. As Mr. Reagan said, together, we can make it happen.

Watching children learn and grow is one of the most fascinating and fulfilling parts of being a parent -- or a teacher. Sharing the learning experience gives us a chance to help our children achieve a sense of themselves. Each child develops special interests and talents which we can encourage at school and at home.

The suggestions below are designed to help parents take an active role in their children's education. A brochure of fun, simple tips for helping your child at home is available from the Delaware State Education Association, 335 Martin Sreet, Dover, Delaware 19901.

1. Give your child practical experience using mathematics at home. Mention the size of containers, such as pints of cream and half gallons of mild, Encourage help when you bake, lay carpet or tile, or seed or fertilize the lawn, and allow your child to actually measure ingredients. areas or quantities of material. Use the metric system of measurement to increase the child's knowledge of and proficiency in the use of the metric

2. Before a shopping trip, have your child read newspaper ads and price the cost of items to be purchased. Encourage comparison of prices and quantities marked on containers to determine the best buys. Allow the child to purchase an item and figure out the change to be received. Other ways to help children apply their growing knowledge of mathematics to practical situations are: letting them double check the addition on grocery tapes, manage allowance, read thermometers, barometers or even stop watches. Let them calculate age, weight, height and dimensions, or figure gas purchases and mileage. tolls and other trip expenses. Encourage again the use of the metric system.

3. Bingo, dominoes, toy telephones, card games, board games, calendars and clocks with large numbers all can help familiarize your child with the world of numbers.

4. Put your preschool child's counting ability to work. In preparation for meals, let the child count out forks for the table, dinner napkins, pieces of cake, or any other quantity.

5. If your child is having difficulty with multiplication tables, buy or make flash cards and use them on a regular basis. Children will enjoy giving answers they know and will learn more complex problems through drill. Let your child explain themath papers brought home from school, and take time to help with correction and understanding of mis-

6. Above all ask and listen to your child's daily experiences. Communication is the key to successful

REMEMBER! Listen with interest, encourage and ask questions, be generous with priase, enthusiasm and sympathy. You can bridge the gap between home and school and make learning fun for both you and your

NOW....Is The Time

Think of it as a savings account with scenery.

There are all kinds of checks, you know.

Plain checks. Fancy checks. Beige checks. Blue checks. Even checks with palm trees and other pretty pictures.

Now, we love palm trees. But in these inflationary times, we think the prettiest pictures around are portraits. Of guys like George and Abe and good old Andy Jackson.

That's the reason for our new NOW account, the checking account that pays you for putting your money in it.

Of course, to keep it working like a checking account but earning interest like a savings account isn't duck soup. It takes some fancy figuring and special conditions. Things like minimum balance, average balance, and number of transactions.

So it makes more than a little sense to go to the people with the most practice. Us. We're A Full Service Bank, the home of modern checking, and we've got it down to a science. Isn't that beautiful?

Look for this symbol. We've got the answers.
