

Felton Voters Select Two Councilmen

One hundred six Felton voters turned out Monday to select Fred Casper and Thomas Jenner to represent them on the Town Council for the next two years.

Chief among these would be the installation of the lines and facilities that will hook Felton into the Kent County sewage treatment system.

The third candidate in this year election, John Hopkins, received votes. Hopkins, a self-employed painter, has been an interested observer of Council meetings over the years.

meeting for outgoing member Mary Ann Stumpf, who has served the Felton Council as its treasurer. But Mrs. Stumpf, who elected not to run for a third term, says she will continue to take an active interest in the affairs of the community.

Vincent is Top Lottery Winner

Donald A. Vincent, of Felton, had frequently purchased lottery tickets, perhaps winning as much as $10. Until last week, that is. But last Thursday a $1 ticket he bought at the Harrington Restaurant and Newstand, where he usually lunches, got him Delaware's top lottery prize - $50,000.

Vincent was one of five finalists selected to compete for the state lottery grand prize. The $50,000 he netted in televised proceedings will come to him in $10,000 segments over the next five years. He walked off with the first $8,000 installment (IRS claimed the other $2,000 as its share) last Thursday.

The 49 year old bachelor lives on the family farm on the Harrington Felton road where he has spent most of his life. In addition to part-time farming, he is foreman of the 4:30 p.m. to midnight shift of the janitorial staff in Kent County offices.

The other finalists were Jeff Biden

(cousin of Senator Joseph Biden) - $5,000; Judy Cicaglione of Elsmere - $2,500; and Patricia Turner (a Nanticoke, Md. secretary) and John H. Bridgett (a Chrysler employee from Clifton Park), both receiving $1,000.

The 6 1/2 minute TV presentation during which Vincent and Biden competed for the grand prize, was aired over WHY-TV.

Rev. Shortell Honored

A reception was held in honor of the Reverend and Mrs. Bruce Shortell on Sunday, Feb. 22, at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Reverend and Mrs. Shortell moved to Atlanta recently, where Reverend Shortell is joining the staff of the Cathedral of St. Philip, as the Canon of Ministries.

A $1.00 ticket in Delaware's 7-11-21 instant lottery brought Donald A. Vincent of Felton $50,000 last week. The ticket, purchased last week in Harrington was the second big money winner to have been sold at the Harrington Restaurant and Newstand over a period of two years.

Frederica Drafts Dill & Griffith

By an odd sort of landslide, Frederica voters Monday night made it clear that they preferred Dan Griffith and Ezekiel Dill, two candidates who weren't even in the running, over anyone else to serve on the Town Council.

Despite the fact that there were no official contenders, it was mandated by law that the polls be open for at least an hour to give citizens the opportunity to write-in candidates of their choice. Between 6 and 7 p.m. Monday evening, fifty-one Frederica voters did just that.

served as Frederica's Mayor for the past year. Dill is also a former mayor as well as a town councilman.

The only other names written in were those of Guy Johnston (four votes) and Tom Wilmire and Larry Mantering (one vote each). Mantering served briefly on the Council last year, and Wilmire was an unsuccessful candidate for the Lake Forest Board of Education in the 1980 election.

Although they had previously stated their preference not to run again, both Dan Griffith and Ezekiel Dill assured the Journal that they would bow to the wishes of Frederica voters who virtually drafted them for another two years on the Council.

Griffith and Dill will be sworn in at the annual reorganization meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Frederica Town Hall tomorrow night, March 5. At that time, the Council will also select a mayor and other officers for the coming year.

Fire Blackens Area Skies

Black smoke from burning rubber darkened Peninsula skies last Friday and kept approximately 175 firefighters from a reported fourteen fire companies busy battling the blaze which erupted at a Sandtown tire dump.

Smoke from the fire was visible across the peninsula from the Delaware to the Chesapeake Bays, and was seen in such various locations as Dover, Lewes and Cordova, Md.

The Sandtown blaze, which turned a used tire dump on the site of the former Cherokee Truck Stop into a giant smudge pot, apparently was sparked by a grass fire started in a nearby field by land owner John Triffilis of Dover as he attempted to rid the area of dead grass. Triffilis was later arrested and released without bond on a charge of discharging air pollutants without a permit. State environmental protection laws label the black smoke emitted by burning rubber an air pollutant.

Firemen from the fourteen Delaware and Maryland companies used about 350,000 gallons of water and 800 gal. of foam to battle the blaze which continued throughout the night. Neither foam nor water had much effect on the fire which was eventually controlled by separating the burning tires from rubber not yet aflame. That job was accomplished by three bulldozers brought in for the purpose.

Although most of the volunteer firemen were able to go home early Saturday morning, a number from the Felton Volunteer Fire Company remained at the scene until 1 p.m., approximately 23 hours after the fire was initially reported.

Among the fourteen fire companies responding were Felton, Magnolia, Camden-Wyoming, Marydel, Greensboro, Goldsboro, Ridgely and Denton.

Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Shortell are joined by their family at their reception held at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Harrington. The affair marked the farewell for the Shortells at St. Stephen's.

Two File for Houston Seats

The upcoming Houston election, set for Saturday, March 28, will be "No Contest" as far as the Town Council is concerned. With last Saturday's filing date now history, only two candidates have indicated an interest in the two seats that will be available.

With the results of the election, a foregone conclusion, it would be possible to open the polls for just one hour on election day were it not for the fact that Houston plans to hold a referendum on the trash question at the same time. Houston Mayor Connie Morgan said that the referendum, which will ask voters to decide on a trash fee, a tax increase or some other alternative, might require that the polls be open the usual length of time. The election hours and the exact wording of the referendum are to be released later.

Meanwhile, the Houston Town Council has set this Thursday, March 5, as the date of a special meeting to bring information on the trash question up-to-date. Houston, like other area communities, has been faced with the problem of meeting large increases in the cost of trash disposal. To date, Houston has provided the service free to its residents. But Revenue Sharing funds will no longer enable the town to pick up the tab.

No, it's not a chorus line...!

No, it's not a chorus line, it's..... The unsuspecting visitor who happened to drop in at the W.T. Chipman gym in Harrington on Tuesday and Thursday evenings between the hours of 7 and 9 might get the impression that he had somehow happened on a rehearsal of the chorus line for some offway Broadway musical. The members of the chorus would come in various shapes and sizes and varying degrees of agility. But they would share one thing - the sense of having a good time. No pressure in the rehearsals for this musical.

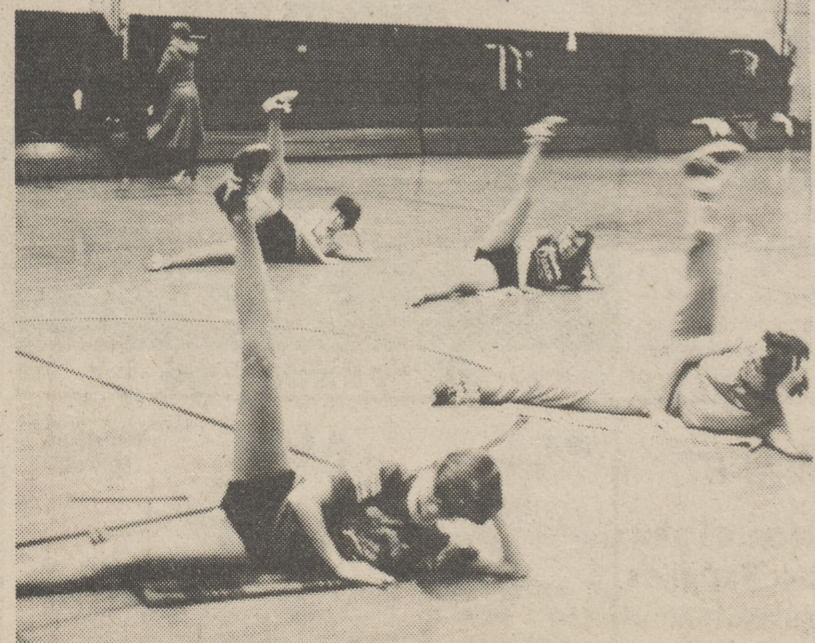

That's because the scene is not a rehearsal, and there's no musical involved. The participants are just enjoying a form of exercise for physical fitness - aerobic dancing - that happens to be a lot of fun.

The classes in the Chipman gym are offered under the office of the Kent County Parks and Recreation and under the specific guidance of agile and energetic Sandi Starcher. Classes at other locations throughout the county are also offered by the Dover YMCA.

According to Sandi, the word aerobic means "with oxygen" and aerobic dancing is an exercise program set to music and designed with cardio-vascular fitness in mind. As such, it is similar

An evening's aerobic dance session usually begins with some warm-up routines such as this leg-stretcher on the gym floor.

Firemen [left, foreground] survey the scene as clouds of black smoke boil from the gigantic smudge pot created when piles of discarded tires near Sandtown caught fire last Friday.

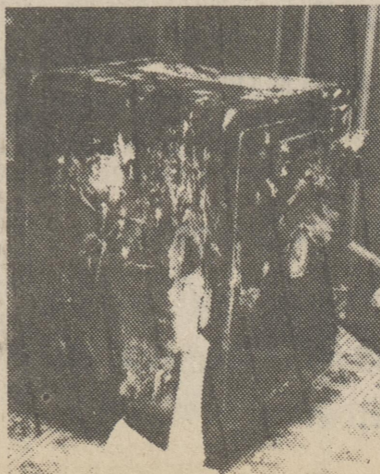

Police Foil Burris Buglars

An attempted burglary at Burris Foods over the weekend was foiled by Harrington Police who apprehended two men as they fled the scene after trying to break open a safe and a dollar bill changer.

Arrested were Edward Lee Rust, 29, of Houston, and Nathan David Rust, 23, of Harrington. Charged with burglary, criminal trespass, conspiracy and attempted theft, the two were taken to Court 7 in Dover and subsequently released on $10,000 bond pending trial in the Court of Common Pleas at a later date.

The burglary attempt occurred Saturday night, Feb. 28. Responding to an alarm called in at about 9 p.m., Harrington police arrived at Burris to find two suspects inside the building. The two, who had used an ax to try to break open a safe belonging to Burris

Foods and to break into a dollar bill changer in the canteen, were caught after they had left the building.

Entries Sought for Felton Pageant

Entries are presently being taken by the Felton United Methodist Church for contestants for the Miss Felton and Little Miss Felton Pageants. This event is to be held March 28, 1981 at the Lake Forest North Elementary School in Felton, Delaware.

Girls who are enrolled in high school between the ages of 15 and 17 and who will not be 18 before June, 1981, and who reside in the Felton area are eligible to compete for the title of Miss Felton. Girls living in the Felton area and who are between the ages of 4 and 5, but who will not be 6 before July, 1981 are eligible to compete for the title of Little Miss Felton. Both winners will represent Felton later in the year at the Miss and Little Miss Delmarva Pageants.

Entries for both pageants are to be submitted before March 10, 1981. Further details may be obtained by calling Doug Crouse (284-9170) or Connie Harrington (284-4084).

Would you believe - Pig Rustlers?

Cattle rustlers are an old story - familiar from the days of the wild and woolly western and, in modern reality, from recent incidents at the George Sullivan farm near Harrington where two incidents have occurred in recent months. But pig rustlers? Well, apparently those who like pork as well as beef have taken a cue from their burger-loving predecessors.

Last week, rustlers raided an unidentified Farmington farm, making off with some 35 Yorkshire pigs averaging 35 pounds each. All of the stolen pigs were white; all had their tails cut off, and some wore notches in their left and right ears.

The pork rustlers invaded the farm sometime between 5 p.m. last Wednesday and 8 a.m. last Thursday. The young porkers were hauled away in a pickup truck.

Feltonian is State's 9th Traffic Fatality

On Monday, Feb. 23, 33 year old Alvin E. Webb of R.D. 3, Box 478, Felton became Delaware's 9th traffic fatality for the year. The accident occurred at 2:15 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 21. Webb was southbound on Cty. Rt. 444, two and 7/10 miles west of Milford. He ran off the left side of the roadway and struck a tree with the left front of his pickup truck, then continued 29 feet before striking a second tree and coming to rest.

Following the alcohol-related accident, Webb was removed from the wreckage by Houston Fire Company, and transported by Carlisle Ambulance to Milford Memorial Hospital with a fractured right forearm.

On Monday, the 23rd, at 12:05 a.m.,

Alvin Webb went into seizures, then went into respiratory and cardiac arrest, and died at 2:20 a.m. This 9th death compares with 14 at this time a year ago.

Delaware Diamonds

By Joyce Jefferson

On Wednesday 26 June 1861 at 2 o'clock p.m. at the Hotel P.A. Hollis in Felton Sarah A. Moore daughter of Thomas J. Moore deceased bought from his estate, a farm or tract of land situated at the town of Felton on the Delaware Railroad adjoining lands of William M. Satterfield, lands of Jehu Clifton, the town of Felton and the line of said Delaware Railroad containing 103 acres...more or less. And all that tract of Woodland situated near the town of Felton, adjoining lands of Samuel Needles, lands of James C. Anderson heirs, and lands of Dr. Joseph Simpson containing 31 acres. Catherine Moore, widow of Thomas J. Moore, purchased from the estate a lot or piece of land situated in town of Felton at the corner of Main and Church Street containing 12,000 square feet, and whereon is erected a large three story dwelling house, granary, stables, carriage house and other improvements, which was then in the tenure of Catherine Moore. Another farm just outside of Felton containing 166 acres she claimed as her dower land. Nathaniel P. Luff husband of Mary C. (Moore) Luff purchased a lot situated at the town of Felton, adjoining lands of James B. Conner, lands of the Delaware Railroad and other lands containing 24,341 square feet of ground whereon is erected a two story dwelling house, store house, granary and two blocks of building lots in the town of Felton being lots, No. 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25. Lots laid out for sale by Thomas J. Moore deceased in his lifetime.

The surveyors drawing of this property shows the Berrytown to Frederica Road as Main Street, Church Street (The Methodist Church was shown on Byles Atlas 1859) extending approximately three blocks north, and Jefferson Street from Church street west to the Railroad. There is also a 10ft. alley intersecting the block between Main and Jefferson Streets.

In 1862 Sarah A. Moore sold to her brother Dr. John A. Moore a part of the farm she had purchased from their father's estate. The land was described as "All that portion of her farm or tract of land known as the Simpson Farm adjoining the Town of Felton which was heretofore separated from said farm for the purpose of being laid out into building and pasture lots, bounded as follows: Beginning at stone on the south side of a small ditch under the fence a corner for land of the heirs of Jehu Clifton deceased and from thence running north east to a corner in the outline of said whole tract for the portion of the same still to be retained by Sarah A. Moore, thence North.. west..to a corner at the intersection of a fifty foot street with the North line of the plot of the Felton lots; thence along the east line of said street south.. west..to the north line of a ten foot alley thence with North line of said alley south..east..to a corner at the North side of the said Alley in the line of a lot in the possession of James Keniser thence north..east..thence south..east..to the place beginning.. containing three acres..more or less. On 22 July 1865 Sarah A. Moore sold to Andrew Niles and William H. Herring of the town of Felton the farm and woodland she purchased at the sale of the lands of her father. (Andrew Niles was a physician and had lived in Sussex County before moving to Felton.) (To Be Continued)

TROOP 76 HARRINGTON GOES TO PHILADELPHIA TO SEE 76'ers

Boy Scout Troop 76 visited the Spectrum Sunday, Feb. 22nd to see "Dr. J." and the "76ers" beat the Atlanta Hawks. Eighteen boy scouts from Harrington and surrounding area were chaperoned by Kenny Garey, Walter Lekites, and Scout Master, Wayne Melvin.

"The Fleming House" located on the Vernon Road in Harrington is one of the early homes in Harrington. Built around the mid 1800's, it was the home of Ezekiel Fleming. It was also the first house in Harrington with electric lights. The sketch is by Gretchen Banks

Walter Messick and Co-workers [right] labor to unload four tractor-trailers of machinery fresh in from Waterloo, Iowa. Walter, his son Jimmy, Harry Raughley and Kenny Johnson left Waterloo on Saturday and, after a layover on Sunday, arrived back in Harrington on Monday afternoon.

Chamber of Commerce Hears Insurance Presentation

The focal point of the business meeting held by the Greater Harrington Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday, was an insurance presentation by Donald Claycomb.

Claycomb discussed hospital, medical and life insurance benefits which the small business man can offer to his employees. Mr. Mel Wyatt, Chamber President said if the business community is interested in learning about the insurance benefits program they can contact him or Ms. Kenna Adams, the Chamber's Executive Director.

Letter to the Editor and/or the Woodbridge School District

I am both sad and glad at the failing of the Basics Plus school idea. I would have loved to see if all the good things about it could have happened in real life and not just on paper, sounding good. With this failing, I am missing an opportunity to have a choice, something I have not had before. I went to Pierre S. du Pont school in Harrington for 1st thru 8th grades, then boarded by the state in Dover for the 9th grade, then bused to Dover for the 10th thru 12th grades at Wm. Henry High, while a high school was less than a mile from my house, but I couldn't "choose" to go to it.

This choice that the community has rejected is limited to most parents in the district since only a small amount of children can attend the school. I am a recruiter for the State Migrant Education Program, recruiting or signing up the Migrant children for summer school and the regular school in the Woodbridge district. I enrolled 61 school age children from H.P. Cannon & T.X. Smith's Camps last year to attend school in Sept. 1980. When they arrive this May, had the Basics Plus school been approved, their parents would have had no choice but to be bused to Greenwood for the traditional school.

What should not remain dead but kept alive is the way to put the Basics Plus school concepts to work to insure quality education for all children in the district.

A school that is not stressing academic excellence, discipline and parental involvement is not doing its job and is not much more than a "child sitting place" for parents to leave their children until after work. Maybe this is why the teachers turn over is so high at Woodbridge and the majority of students are satisfied with doing only "passing" work. I think and I continue to tell my children anyone who is capable of doing A or B work and does D work or just enough to pass is failing. For he is failing himself, his school, family and community.

Where was the black representation on the planning committee? It should have had the third percent also according to the ratio. Why does "someone" else have to always plan for me, shove it down my throat and think I should be happy about it?

This was evident last year; we were invited to a meeting to see if the parents wanted a P.T.A. for the high school students. After it was voted to have one, our by-laws were adopted and the planning committee presented the officers of the newly formed organization; elected, consenting to office and ready (2 weeks prior) for the business at hand, which was accepting the dues for the year, all without equal representation.

When a select few planned a private school to be run on public tax money, it is doomed to fail. When a majority work together for the majority's good, then it almost always is a success.

Sincerely,
Olivia Blackwell
Bridgeville

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

A LETTER TO THE HARRINGTON BUSINESS PEOPLE

I attended a meeting of the Harrington Chamber of Commerce, last Wednesday night, Feb. 25, 1981. I was looking forward to a tiresome business meeting, probably not very different from those I had attended many times in the past in my former community on Long Island.

What I discovered was a very pleasant surprise. Here in this comparatively small CITY OF HARRINGTON, is a group of business people truly interested in the betterment of the community. I am impressed with plans and goals under way to increase, improve, and encourage commerce in this FAIR CITY.

There is no question in my mind that business brings business, sort of a chain reaction type of syndrome, isn't that the whole concept of the shopping center? Well then...why not right here in HARRINGTON? Cars and trucks drive right thru the center of the business district all day long. Surely, if HARRINGTON could fill their needs they would stop, do their business here and come back again. It is my wish that each and every business person would ban together with the Chamber and give whole hearted support. You would find yourself among good company, and part of a group of which you can be proud.

The Harrington New Century Club held their regular meetings on Feb. 24th.

Mrs. Jean Cranston, Home Economist for Kent County Extension Service gave a very informative talk on "Consumer Concern" which the members enjoyed very much.

Mrs. Gardner Kersey, Chairman of the day and her committee, Mrs. John Curtis and Mrs. Jehu Camper served delicious dessert & coffee.

The next meeting will be the Prayer Breakfast which will be held on March 10th at 9:30 a.m. Members are urged to be present. The Avon Club of Felton will be our guests for this occasion.

Plans are being made for a "Salad-Dessert Card Party" on Thursday, March 19th at 12:30 at the club house. Donation is $2.00. If you need a ticket, contact 398-3339 or 398-8357. Come & bring your friends. All are invited.

PROSPECT GOOD NEWS CLUB

Prospect U.M. Church will be hosting a Good News Club beginning March 8th at 6 p.m. What are Good News Clubs? They are groups of boys and girls (ages 5 years through teens) meeting one hour a week to hear Bible stories, sing songs, and memorize Scripture. These clubs are affiliated with Child Evangelism Fellowship, an organization which is interdenominational and international in scope. Its outreach extends into all 50 states, Canada and 60 foreign countries. Each club is taught by a dedicated Christian who attends a weekly teacher training class. Parents are welcome to visit the club at any time. This first club at Prospect will be for 5 weeks and the topic is the Wordless Book. You are welcome to attend regardless of your church affiliation.

Felton UMC

The Council of Ministries of Felton Methodist Church will be sponsoring an Evening for Parents program 4 consecutive Sundays starting March 15th. Times will be 5:00 to 7:00 the first two Sundays and 4:00 to 6:00 the second two Sundays.

Evenings for Parents is a program designed to bring parents to a greater awareness of themselves and their children. It is an approach to help parents reflect upon their overall attitude toward being parents. The Evenings are a learning experience and an opportunity to gain and affirm one's confidence in being a parent. There is no preaching or instructing on "how to be parents."

The Evenings are open to all parents regardless of the ages of their children. Both parents should attend all 4 evenings. One parent alone can benefit from the program, but much more is gained by both attending. We invite any interested parents to contact Bonnie Blades at 335-5831 by March 8th. A nursery will be provided.

Get Together and Talk With Our Neighbors

Senior Center

By Dorothy Graham 398-3780

Coming to the Center by DAST, you observe the trees, yards, "For Sale" houses, new homes, renovations, cars of all kinds, children coming and going to school. Viewing Harrington every day, you might think there are no changes, but take a slow ride through town. Just on Calvin and North St. there are fourteen houses since we moved there. Count the changes on your street.

Monday morning, Rev. Markley of Trinity Methodist Church was leader of Bible Study. His topic was Matthew, Chap. 24. Discussion was long and interesting. The Lords Prayer and the song, "Beyond the Sunset" finished the time for Bible Study. Those present were Roxanne Brown, Kathleen Montague, Cecil & Sylvia Meredith, John McCready, Mamie Adams, Annabel Morrow, Florence Minner, Anna Mae Short, Lili McBride, Elizabeth Anthony, Marion Brown, Jo Burke, Clare Judy, Elwood Morris, Mildred Vincent, Florence Roe and Amy Price.

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart" is truly a song for all ages and when Sylvia and Cindy begin the song as a duet, with the kazoo's joining in next, then all other instruments come in, making a complete ensemble, and then to top it off, everyone sings the last chorus, it is positively beautiful. Present this week at practice were Essie Redden, Lili McBride, Annabel Morrow, Roxanne Brown, Julia Astfalk, Bertha Dean, Florence Minner, Ella Golt, Cecil Meredith, Pearl Hickman, John McCready, Andy Anderson, Ola Tilden, Elsie Neal, Elma Thorp, Mildred Vincent, Marion Brown, Mamie Adams Gladys Hill, and Jo Burke. Julia sang a solo and was backed up by the entire Jolly Timers humming. Sounded great! Miles Draper and Julia Astfalk sang a duet. What a great job!

Milford shopping was a plus for all that wanted to go.

Bingo was enjoyed this week with lots of happy faces and also Elizabeth Anthony calling. Bingo, checkers and dominos ranks along with pool and T.V. in recreation at the Center. Then, of course, there is always the spontaneous response of Sylvia at the organ, with others joining in singing or maybe Mamie sitting down to the piano and playing hymns while a group sings song after song.

Anna Mae is working on a rug, pretty as a picture. Gertrude Greenburg helped also.

Several turned books for Santas, still $15.00 a set. Anna Mae, Mamie, Lili and Edsel.

Gene, our executive director had his macramé class Thursday. The class started a new project, a broom. They were beautiful! Some were short, some long and all colors. Still some of the other classes are making hanging baskets.

Charlotte, our assistant director was chaperone of the bus of 30 folks that left the Center at 11:30 for the Ice Capades at Philadelphia. Everyone reported a glorious time. They said it was absolutely beautiful!

The tasty meals from Mana were well received Thursday. The English dinner was different. To top the day, George Gooedge presented slides on England. George spent the greater part of his life in England and he narrated as he projected the slides.

Velma Whitley, Jo Burke, Lilliam Pearson, Florence Minner, Mildred Minner and Kathleen Montague have been very busy at the ceramic table, getting ready for the bazaar, April 9, 1981. Thank all volunteers for everything! Best wishes to all homebounds. Take care. Be kind to each other. Remember, honey, come on around to the Center. You'll like it! Smile - Faith.

We extend sympathy to those in sorrow. To those in the hospital or ill at home, we want you to know we are thinking kindly of you and truly hope you will soon be better.

Mrs. Nellie Tyler was awarded the outstanding Black Woman Award at the Metropolitan U. M. Church last Sunday night. The church has been observing Black History month.

Mrs. Tyler is well-known around Harrington and other parts of Delaware for her work with and for the black and white. Mrs. Tyler has nine living children. Several came to see their Mother receive her plaque, flowers and honors. We here at the Center know Mrs. Tyler as a well-read woman who has always been civic minded. Education has always been uppermost in her mind for her children. Many of whom finished college and all are gainfully employed. We are proud of Nellie and so glad we know her.

Bowling Thursday at Milford Lanes.

Gabfest

February is still with us and the days are balmy and the sun is warm. This does not tie in at all with the poem that the Old Farmer's Almanac has chosen to head its February calendar. The poem is by E.E. Cummings and goes thusly: "What if a keen of a lean wind flays screaming hills with sleet and snow; Strangles valleys by ropes of things and stifles forests in white ago."

Everyone is reporting daffodil shoots thrusting up from the ground, but about the only thing in bloom yet are the crocus for those who are fortunate enough to have them. Tess says she has brought in branches of winter jasmine and it is lovely, bringing a breath of spring. Yellow is truly the color of spring. In my reading last evening I found a quotation that was new to me. It is from A. A. Milne. He says: "A house with daffodils in it is a house lit up whether or not the sun be shining outside. Daffodils in a green bowl...and let it snow if it will."

Speaking in the vernacular of today's world, I could reply, "Right on, good Buddy."

With all the wood stoves going this winter there should be a lot of wood ashes around. The Farmer's Almanac urges us to save them for our gardens. They are especially high in potash, phosphoric acid, and calcium (or lime). Gardeners say they are great for growing lettuce. We seldom bother with lettuce because we do not care much for the garden lettuce, and we have grown lovely iceberg lettuce. But it all comes mature at the same time and about one head a week is all we can use. So, it seems better to just buy what we need.

Before we leave the Almanac for February I'll share this small saying at the bottom of the February page: "The proof of a thing being right is that it has power over the heart, that it excites us, wins us, or helps us."

The Almanac says that the Snow Moon is full on the 18th. And so it was! Another word for Groundhog Day is Candlemas Day. It celebrates the annual blessing and distribution of candles. The lighted tapers are carried in solemn procession through the church. Holly that was used to deck the halls is taken down on this day lest bad luck befall the household.

This is interesting, too. St. Valentine who is associated with love is an erroneous connection. St. Valentine was tortured and beheaded in A.D. 270. The love connection comes from an older pagan festival. Well, live and learn.

No doubt I told you about representing the Lioness Club at their Dover District 22-D meeting, along with our president, Sue Collins, and secretary, Esther Scott. It was a beautiful evening and richly rewarding in fellowship. I found myself seated next to Mrs. Elsie Heller, wife of Lion Henry Heller of Dover, who is in charge of Lioness and Leo Clubs for our District. We quickly became friends and she asked me to mail her some copies of past columns, which I was glad to do.

Her thank you note says, "I wish you could see our Pussy Willows with all their silver catkins waving in the wind. We also have in our yard a wild rabbit that you could write about. We know him because sometime in the past he has lost part of one ear. He is so tame our German shepherd can go within two feet of him and when Sheba is not in her pen, he will drink from her water dish. We love all of God's creatures and try not to destroy anything beautiful."

Isn't she a beautiful person, and wouldn't a letter like that just make your day?

The Birthday Covered Dish Luncheon at the Adult Center was attended by 30 members and five guests. You should have seen the buffet table - Beautiful and delicious.

Everyone enjoyed the films - Plans are being made for a day at "The Three Little Bakers", in August. Dinner and a show "America on Ice". Reservations must be in this week with a $5 deposit. Call the Center if interested 385-5455.

Pete Rager A.E.T. of the Frederica Fire Co. was taking blood pressures at the Center, Thursday, the 25th. This will be a monthly service by our Fire Co., A.E.T.

Mr. & Mrs. Otis Isenhower of Hickory, South Carolina have been visiting Mr. Thomas Spurry, on Tuesday. They spent the day in Atlantic City, N.J.

Fifty members and three guests attended the monthly dinner meeting of the M.Y.A.F. at Trinity Church, Wednesday, February 25th.

Mary Johnston attended the monthly meeting of The Ladies Auxiliary of The Delaware Hospital for The Chronically Ill in Smyrna, and visited with Mrs. Dorothy Harrington. She was also the luncheon guest of Mrs. Florence Murgatroyd the Tolunteer Service Coordinator of D.H.C.I.

Saturday, February 28th, the telephone rang when I answered, I said "Duffy's Tavern-Duffy isn't here, Archie speaking", I received a laugh and a voice said, "Well, how about Mary Johnston, is she there?" A short pause and a quick reply, I said, "speaking." It was Billy Dawson on the other end, and she informed me they had two more tickets to the Ice Capades. Well, it took three phone calls, and I had that taken care of.

Old Mary or Toby whatever had passed the word on that it had been real cold the first night of the Ice Capades, in the Spectrum. Everyone went dressed for a cold reception. The weather moderated, and we were steaming.

Anyway, Mary Purnell, Ruth Pittard, Pearl Schmick, Stephanie Schmick, Frances Davidson; Irene Kirkman, Lois Davidson, Virginia Tatman, Angelica Moore, Lulu Wilkins, Diana Wilkins, Bradford Holiday and Dorothy, Helen Webb and Leslie, Ben and

The Jr. Girl Scout Troup 248 went on a skating party Wednesday, Feb. 25. It was the first time the girls visited the Dover Skating Center as a group. Scout leader, Ann Morrow told me Monica Armstrong, Pamela Cohee, Kelly Hurd, Kitty Jones, Kathy McQuede, Christine Moody, Heather Morton, Sherrie Rou, Tracy Scott, Melinda Washburn, Trese Wood, Kathy Carlson, Cindy Mulling, and chaperones, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Jones, had a very lovely time.

Remember, Girl Scout Week is March 8 thru March 14. Please help support your local girl scouts.

Happy Birthday to Darleen Dill on Feb. 19. It is late but Happy Birthday, Darleen.

If you have any social activities function, weddings, birth announcements, or birthday greetings please contact me, Nancy Baird at 284-9340.

Greenwood

Report from Hickory Ridge Congregational Methodist Church: "Love" was the topic of the service we shared with the congregation at Laws Mennonite Church on Sunday evening. The Mennonite people have demonstrated their love toward us (as they helped with the construction of our sanctuary, and other ways); and we appreciate their invitation to worship with them. Wanda Bawel recited from memory the 13th chapter of 1 Corinthians, which was also the pastor's text. Following the service we enjoyed a time of fellowship in the basement, where we were served delicious refreshments. We appreciate the good response from our congregation also. Our bus was well filled and driven by Allan Draper. Mrs. Mary Uhler and Mary Ann Linsey also contributed by singing solos.

Please mark your calendars now for the week of March 23-28 when we will be having Revival Service. Rev. Lincoln (Sonny) Benton, from Broomes Island, Md. will be our evangelist. Many of you will remember having heard Rev. Benton preach in our Revival Services before, as well as other churches on the Eastern Shore.

The pastor and wife, and Mrs. Clara Hinzman, one of our Youth leaders, have been attending a National Bus and Evangelism Conference in New Castle, Del. this week. We have heard some inspiring messages with the emphasis on soul-winning and growth from pastors of some of the largest churches in the country.

Mrs. Evelyn Johnson is a surgery patient at Kent General Hospital. Her husband, George, is improving though still confined at home.

ATTENTION: Trinity Evangelistic Church, (formerly Bridgeville Evangelistic Church) is now meeting at the building site of the new church on Woodenhawk Road, between Route 16 and Route 404, Greenwood, Del. On Sundays, Sunday School and Worship service will be at 10 a.m. Sunday and Wednesday evenings, Evangelistic services at 7:30 p.m. The pastor of this new church is the Rev. John L. Rittenhouse.

Pastor Jerry Marando of the Oakley Christian Fellowship Church wishes to thank the Lincoln Choir for their beautiful music and singing. Also thanks to Everett Warrington and son and Donna and Bruce Layton, and to Thelma Melvin for playing the auto-harp.

It was good to see the church filled with happy and spirit-filled people.

Pastor Jerry wishes to announce that on March 1, at 6:30, at the Sunday evening service, Bob Wheatley will be the speaker and the pianist will be Delema Smith.

Last Wednesday, February 18, the officers for the church were elected as follows: Elder, Joe Harris, Deacons, Leon Willey and Al Graebener, secretary, Helen Webb, treasurer, Nicky Marando.

Heidi Cannon, president of the Greenwood Alumni Association, announced: Renew acquaintances with classmates and friends by attending Greenwood High School Alumni Banquet on May 9.

Mrs. Jacob Hatfield was a Tuesday evening dinner guest of Mrs. Theresa Ottey.

Wednesday afternoon callers at the Jacob Hatfields were Mr. & Mrs. George Sevier of Delmar and Mrs. Jay Tilghman and daughter, Dawn, of Salisbury.

At their regular Tuesday dinner meeting, the Greenwood Lions Club welcomes the following guests on visitation, the Camden-Wyoming Club and the Milton Club.

On Tuesday, February 24, Brownie Troop 332 visited Bowers Maritime Museum, and collected shells from Bowers Beach. The girls are working on their "year of the coast" badge. Their trip to Bowers was part of their badge requirement. Those attending were Brownies, Thea Becton, Stacey Bennett, Mia Benson, Donna Faye Dennis, Chastity Emory, Stacy Frazier, Diane Hayward, Theresa Hill, Schneir Johnson, Dawn Minner, Jesse Perdue, Dawn Roberts, Sherri Rust, Dawn Schaffner, Lara Smith, Kate Voglielin, Lisa Wamsley, Sonya Wesells, and Brandi Winkler. Others who attended were Mrs. Debbie Bennett and Shannan, Mrs. Janice Dennis, Mrs. Gale Voglielin, Mrs. Linda Wamsley and Laura, Mrs. Janice Winkler and leader Mrs. Linda Rapp. Everyone enjoyed the afternoon.

Mr. Elmer Wyatt is still a patient in Milford Memorial Hospital, room 266. Wishing him a speedy recovery.

Get well wishes go to Mrs. Grace Sherwood who is also a patient in Milford Memorial Hospital, room 358.

Mr. Carroll Welch, Sr. is improving. His treatment is going well. He appreciates all the cards and letters he's received from home. Wishing him a speedy recovery.

Mr. & Mrs. Elmer Brown, Mr. Norman Wix and Mr. Marvin Wix visited with Mr. & Mrs. Willard Cornish on Thursday afternoon.

Houston

By Margaret Thistlewood 422-4944

The regular meeting of the Houston Town Council will be Thursday evening March 5th at 7:30 in the fire hall. Special public meeting at 7 o'clock, prior to regular meeting concerning trash collection fees and tax increased will be talked about.

Family style breakfast on Sunday morning March 8th from 8 till 11 a.m. will be served by the Houston Volunteer Fireman. Eggs, sausage, scrapple, pancakes, etc. Come out and enjoy a good breakfast.

On Thursday, Feb. 24th, Nichole and Holly Maroudas celebrated their ninth birthday. On Sat. 21, a family dinner was held and on Sat. 28th a party for their school friends was held to celebrate their birthday.

On Feb. 7th, Rhonda Kay Kenton, daughter of Herbert Kenton and the late Ruth Kenton and Raymond R. Martell of Burlington, Vermont were married in the First Southern Baptist Church in Dover by the Pastor Charles W. Adams. At present, they are living in Milford. Congratulations to you both.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Carole Sieber of Broad St. was given a surprise baby shower by her sister, Mrs. Darleen Coleman of Dover. Neighbors attending were Mrs. Florence Kane, Mrs. Garnet Sharp, Mrs. Linda Webb and Mrs. Margaret Thistlewood, also Mrs. Vicki Hollis of near town and other guests. Carole was surprised and received lots of nice gifts from friends and relatives attending.

Mrs. Jane Legates of Mill Street called and told me that her niece lost a child in a fire last week that destroyed their home in Dover. All donations for household items, and women's size clothes, 12 or 14 and children's size 10 or 12 for a girl would be greatly appreciated. They could be left at her home on Mill Street for her niece.

Anne's Kitchen

Several readers have requested a sugar free recipe. I will admit that I haven't found many where that tell tale after taste didn't come through. I do have one, however, and after having tested it several times, feel it is good enough to pass on. If you remember, I gave the regular recipe in my first column. The conversion is easy and will satisfy those on a restricted sugar diet, but it is by no means to be considered low calorie. If you are counting carbohydrates, or must restrict sugar intake, this one is for you. If you are counting calories, better reach for an apple.

"No Sugar Cheese Cake"

Butter, about 1 tablespoon
1/2 cup graham cracker crumbs
3 Eggs
3 - 8 oz. packages cream cheese
1 - pint sour cream
2 - teaspoons vanilla extract
6 - tablespoons Sugar Twin
3/4 cup sugar twin

Have ready: spring form pan well buttered and sprinkled with graham cracker crumbs. Shake graham cracker crumbs all around pan so as much as possible sticks to sides. Allow the rest to layer bottom.

1. Separate yolks from whites of eggs
2. Beat whites stiff and set aside.
3. In another bowl, (not necessary to wash beaters) beat cream cheese with 3/4 cup sugar twin till smooth.
4. Add yolks, one at a time beating after each addition.
5. Fold egg whites into cream cheese mixture.
6. Pour cream cheese mixture into pan and bake at 325 degrees in pre-heated oven 20 minutes.
7. Meanwhile, beat sour cream with vanilla and 6 tablespoons Sugar Twin.
8. When cream cheese has baked 20 minutes, pull out over rack; do not remove cake; pour sour cream mixture over top of cream cheese in a pinwheel fashion; slide rack back into oven; increase temperature to 450 degrees and bake an additional 10 minutes.

When cake is done, it must go directly from oven to refrigerator. It is best to make room ahead of time and place a board or magazine in refrigerator upon which to place the hot pan. Refrigerate at least 8 hours, or overnight. Remove from pan just before serving. Cake will be the texture of soft ice cream when served.

ENJOY!

We want to remind you of our Radio Broadcast on Sunday mornings at 9:45 a.m. on WAFL radio station. This past Sunday in our morning worship service Pastor Newman brought a message titled, "Set Thine House in Order," from II Kings 20:1. When Hezekiah, King of Judah was sick unto death, the prophet Isaiah came to him with a message from the Lord saying, "Set thine house in order; for thou shalt die, and not live." We are to make provisions for our families so that our loved ones will be provided for in the event of our death, but more importantly is for this house that we dwell in, the tabernacle of flesh with mind, soul and body, be set in order spiritually for when we meet God. In our Sunday evening service, Pastor Newman has begun a new series of messages about the purpose and meaning of the twelve gates at Jerusalem. Our next meeting of the Ladies' Fellowship will be held on March 17, at the home of Sandi Parrott. Bring with you an idea for a project for the Stockley Home. Congratulations are extended to Gary and Pat Harris on the birth of a boy—a big boy—on February 26, at Nanticoke Memorial Hospital in Seaford. Psalm 34:3 says, "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together." Worship with us this Sunday.

SPORTS

Kevin Moehlenkamp [44] leaps into the air to shoot for the Spartans, with much opposition from Middletown's [15].

Spartans Lose to Middletown

During Friday night's game, the Spartans came out strong in the first quarter, leading Middletown, 19-8, but something happened, and the Spartans slowed down.

In the second quarter, they were outscored 20-11.

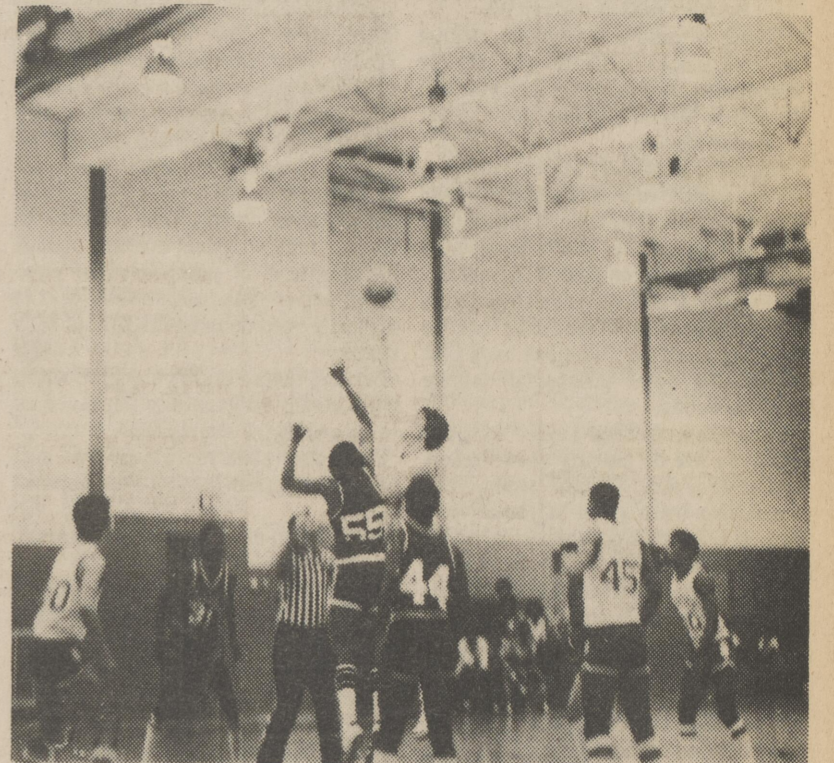

The Spartans' problem was fouls. Most of the starting line was in danger of being taken out of the rest of the game if they fouled Middletown one or more times.

stayed behind Middletown 4-6 points. No matter how hard they tried, or how many times they scored, Middletown kept ahead of the Spartans.

High scorers for Lake Forest were Dale Benson, 26 points and Kevin Moehlenkamp, 21 points.

Lake Forest will meet a runnerup, Brandywine at 4 p.m. at Dover, Saturday in the State Tourney opener. The girls' alumni game was cancelled due to lack of participation from the alumni members.

Rosecroft Raceway

OXON HILL, MD-- Rosecroft Raceway, located in Oxon Hill, Maryland, has been designated the fastest half-mile harness racing track in the nation, outside the state of New York, announced the United States Trotting Association (USTA).

Rosecroft, fresh off celebrating the earliest opening in their 33-year history on Feb. 26, has been declared the fourth fastest track overall by USTA. Using a Comparative Speed Rating, Rosecroft Raceway--with a 2.03 2/5. The Comparative Speed Ratings, established by the USTA for extended pari-mutual and Grand Circuit tracks, are determined by comparisons of individual times made by a broad sample of horses at one track compared with those same horses' times at other tracks during comparable seasons of the year, over fast tracks, without breaks or park outs, and at the standard mile distance.

"The excellent speed curvature of the turns, the gradual slope of the track and the top-echelon of horses we attract are all factors in our first class speed rating," commented Pete Shaw, the general manager of Rosecroft.

"Much of the credit has to go to Gerald Moreau, Director of Facilities, who keeps the track as fast as possible. Moreau is a seasoned veteran when it comes to harness racing. Before coming to Rosecroft in 1980, he spent 15 years at Saratoga Raceway, driving, training and even owning standard-breds."

Earle Palmer Brown, president of Rosecroft, has made a firm commitment to maintain, and even improve upon the speed rating. "More than $100,000 has been spent on backstretch improvements, including reshaping the racing track to its original contours, which required the application and grading of more than 2,300 tons of bluestone dust," Brown recently announced.

With the track as fast as it is this year--and the high caliber of racing stock on the premises, it's quite possible we may see several of Rosecroft's track records broken. Funny-man's Lashout--owned by Joseph Leshinsky, trained by Mary Ann Callahan, driven by Vic White--holds the pacing track record for the standard one-mile distance with a time of 1:58, set last year on May 31. The 2:01.1 trotting mark set by Crockett back in 1966, may also be challenged.

The 1981 season will continue nightly, except Sundays, through June 6, rain or clear. Post time is 8:00 p.m.

Admission to the Clubhouse is $4.00. Grandstand admission is $2.00. Parking is $1.00. Valet parking available.

Girls Varsity Cheerleaders, Bottom, Carolyn Winder, Robin Kemp, Denise Huttie and Dercia Parker. Top, Linda Smack, Karen Temple, Nancy Badman and Cheryl Manaraze.

Colonel Lank to Appear on WAFL'S "Perspective", Sunday, March 8th

Delaware's new adjutant general, retired Army Colonel Joseph P. Lank, will appear on "Perspective" on Sunday, March 8th at the same times listed above.

Col. Lank, a Milford native, will discuss his 28-year military career, as well as his memories of growing up in the Milford area.

The highly-decorated officer has won the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Clusters (twice), the Department of Defense Meritorious Service Medal, Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Clusters and Valor Device, Air Medal and Army Commendation Medal, among others. Among his past positions is a post with the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He retired from the military in July 1980 and was nominated by Governor duPont to replace Major General Francis Ianni and later confirmed by the state senate.

in intent to jogging, running and swimming.

In addition to expanding a participant's heart-lung capacity, the aerobic dance program helps to tone up muscles and burn up calories. It can also be relaxing and can result in increased energy to devote to normal everyday activities. Several of the class members in attendance at the Chipman sessions testify that, rather than being exhausted following a class, they are keyed up and ready for something active when they get home.

The aerobic dance idea originated with Jacki Sorenson of the Baltimore, Md. area. Taking a cue from her husband who was involved in the Air Force aerobic program, Jacki combined its basics with her own skill and knowledge as a dancer to design an exercise program that might be attractive to women. The program she came up with involved a set of dance routines, simple steps set to music.

Since Mrs. Sorenson started, a number of others have followed suit. The particular program that is offered by Kent County Parks and Recreation was originated by the Aerobic Dance Company created by Jo Ann Vickers, formerly of Dover, but currently of Annandale, Virginia. The copyrighted routines are mastered at clinics given to Parks and Recreation instructors who pass them onto students who pay about $20 per ten week session to participate. Each class meets for two separate hours each week. Once one ten-week session is ended, another one is begun. Several local ladies are enthusiasts who have been participants for several sessions or several years.

Each class session begins with slower paced routines that act as a warm-up exercise. After the warm-up, the progress is to fast paced, more complex routines set to lively music. Old routines are practiced and new ones are presented during the sessions. As the pace becomes more vigorous, class members are as to monitor their pulse rates. This check continues into the slow-down exercises which conclude the hour. Most of the routines have class members up on their feet and dancing. But a few, notably the warm-up leg stretchers and the famous or infamous "Fire Hydrant" used to slow down are performed in a reclining or sitting position on the floor.

Sandi Starcher, of Kent County Parks and Recreation, leads her class through a fast-paced routine.

Rowe Designs 1981 Migratory Waterfowl Stamp

Charles Rowe, a Wilmington resident, came up a winner on Thursday night when his print was chosen by a panel of five judges as the piece of art that will illustrate the 1981 Delaware Migratory Waterfowl Stamp.

Rowe's winning entry features two snow geese in flight and was chosen from over 50 entries. Rowe, who has been an artist for 27 years, is an art professor at the University of Delaware and is well known for his paintings of North American big game. The winning entry will now adorn the face of the 1981 Delaware Duck Stamp which is required of all licensed hunters in order to hunt waterfowl within the state. Proceeds from the sale of the stamp, which costs five dollars, is used for habitat improvement within Delaware and on nesting areas in Canada. Over 13,000 of the 1960 stamps were sold, providing approximately $65,000 for waterfowl related projects.

Although the winning artist receives no direct cash award or proceeds from the sale of the stamp, the win should mean plenty of green, the spending kind, for Rowe.

The artist retains the rights to the original piece of art which will be reproduced in a signed and numbered limited edition. The market for those limited edition prints is a national one and the demand for the prints can best be described as brisk. The prints have proven to be one of the best investments available, with their value escalating, far outstripping the inflation rate.

Judges for this year's contest were George Sandstrom, a noted Pennsylvania artist; Fred Carspecken, owner of Carspecken and Scott Gallery in Wilmington; Cy Lesser, an entomologist for the State of Maryland; Frank Carfioli, a salesman for Franz Lithographic's in Pennsylvania and Ned Mayne, last year's winning artist.

Prints that made it to the final round of judging were Lois Butler's Canada geese, Pete Carey's three mallards in flight, and Joseph Pankowski's green winged teal.

The stamps and limited edition prints should be available for sale sometime during June of this year.

HARRINGTON 4-H NEWS

There is quite a few events coming up this month. You should try to schedule these events so that you will be able to attend the ones you choose.

Reddy Foods

The date: Saturday, March 7, 1981 Place: Allen Frear Elementary School Time: You got your time in the mail. If you did not get this, get in touch with Mrs. MacDonald or your 4-H leader. Be sure you can set your silverware, plates, glasses, and especially how to fold your napkins. There has been a lot of marking down because of folding napkins wrong.

After you have been judged for your dish, you will be judging Food Preservation & Foods. Please study your sheets that were given to you a while back at a Reddy Foods meeting.

Camp Scholarships

Ruritans - The Ruritans of Burrsville is going to give scholarships to go to state 4-H camp. They will pay your way to camp for one week. You only have to put together a small book about your record from the 4-H past years. It should include pictures. Look in your mail for more information.

University of Delaware

The University of Delaware is going to give away about two, maybe three $10.00 scholarships for camp. You will read more about what to do for this in your 4-H news.

Mini Demonstrations

Mini Demonstrations is coming up very soon. As a matter of fact, March get your demonstration ready. It will be held at Prospect Church from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. March 26 is when you will go to county. More information in your mail.

Woodworking judging is coming up in April sometime. A definite date is not certain.

Dress review is coming up in April. You will hear more about this in your mail this month and next month.

Bobby Vincent, Kirk Ryan, and Dawn McIlroy have bank clean-up this month with Mrs. Ryan.

Refreshments next month are Sherry and Terry Freer. Don't forget.

Cost is $3 per person pre-registered, $5 on the day of the clinic. Luncheon may be purchased for an additional $2.50.

To pre-register for the clinic, contact the State 4-H Office (738-2509) or Cr. C.M. Reitnour (738-2523). Both offices are located in Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del., 19711.

-Northeast Farm Market Prices-

NORTHEAST FARM MARKET PRICES VARIED:

NEW YORK, NY--Northeast farm market prices generally varied during the week ending February 27th, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Livestock and meat prices were lower. The egg and poultry report was unavailable. Fruit and vegetable prices were mixed. Eastern milk production continued to increase.

FLUID DAIRY PRODUCTS

Eastern milk production continued to increase slowly. Class I milk was excessive of needs. The volume of surplus milk was heavier than normal for this time of year. Bottlers were more active late this week for the normally good demand the first of each month.

Cottage cheese orders and production were steady to generally improved as we near the Lenten season.

Condensed skim movement was still sluggish but showing signs of improvement.

Fluid cream offerings remained heavier than desired.

Spot buying interest increased slightly with best interest in upstate New York and New England. Although sales were improved, prices did not advance noticeably.

The warmer spring-like weather coupled with some active retail features on half gallons have improved ice cream movement. Most ice cream plants have increased production to replenish their freezers or they were building inventories for the anticipated warm weather demand.

Sour cream and cream cheese production were about steady.

Churning activity was still heavy but slowing in a few areas where cream sales or utilization improved.

LIVESTOCK & MEAT PRODUCTS

Northeastern livestock and meat prices were generally lower this past week. Weekly trends on trading at 16 New York auctions and at Lancaster, Vintage, and New Holland, Pennsylvania auctions were as follows: Slaughter steers were 50 to 75 cents higher; Utility and commercial cows trended steady to 50 cents higher; Choice veal calves were $1 to $2 lower; and Good and Choice vealers held $2 to $7 lower. Slaughter barrows and gilts at Pennsylvania sold $2.75 to $3 lower. At Omaha slaughter steers trended steady and barrows and gilts were $1.75 lower.

Choice 2 to 4 slaughter steers of 965 to 1350 pounds at Northeastern auctions ranged from $60.25 to $65.75 per hundred weight and at Omaha were $61 to $62. Utility and commercial 1 to 3 cows in the northeast sold from $42 to $48.50 with a few sales to $49.50.

Choice veal calves of 150 to 320 pounds brought $83 to $106.50. U.S. 1 to 2 barrows and gilts of 200 to 250 pounds ranged from $43 to $44 at Pennsylvania auctions and from $41.50 to $42 at Omaha.

East coast dressed carlot trade on boneless cow beef 90 percent chemical lean was $1 to $2 lower and 85 percent chemical lean was $3 to $5 lower. Prime special fed carcass veal, hide on, was generally steady in limited test and Good and Choice veal, hide on, mostly steady to $2 lower; Lamb of 55 pounds on down was steady.

Delivered prices per hundred weight on boneless cow beef 90 percent chemical lean sold from $124 to $125 and 85 percent chemical lean cleared $112 to $116. Prime special fed veal, hide on, of 180 to 225 pounds sold at $175. Good and Choice veal, hide on, of 44 pounds on down brought $80 to $86 and 45 pounds on up brought $84 to $92. Lamb of 55 pounds on down brought $128.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Northeastern trading for onions and apples was fairly active while cabbage and potatoes were light. Prices for potatoes and cabbage were about steady, while apples and onions were slightly higher.

Hudson Valley, N.Y. apples demand was steady with the market slightly higher. Cartons of 12-3 pound bag of U.S. fancy or better, 2 1/4 inch minimum and up, McIntosh in controlled-atmosphere (CA) storage, brought $6 to $8. Lake Champlain-Mohawk Valley, N. Y. apple demand was moderate and the market was about steady. Cartons of 12 3-pound bags of U.S. Fancy or better, 2 1/4 inch minimum and up, McIntosh (CA) sold at $6.25 to $6.75 and mostly $6.50 to $6.75. Cartoned cell-packs of U.S. Extra Fancy and Fancy or better in 80 to 100's moved at $9.50 to $9.75; 120's brought $9.25 to $9.50.

Orange County, N.Y. dry onion demand was moderate and the market was slightly lower. U.S. One, 70 percent or more 2 inches and larger, Yellows went at $8.50 to $8.60 a 50-pound sack. Sacks and cartons of 15-3 pound bags brought $9.25 to $9.75, while sacks of 20 2-pound bags cleared at $8.65 to $9. Sacks of 16 3-pound bags moved at $9.70 to $10.40.

Western and central N.Y. apple demand was fairly good and the market was about steady. Cartons of 12-3 pound film bags of U.S. Fancy, 2 1/4 inch minimum, regular storage, McIntosh sold at $6 to $6.25.

Cabbage demand was fairly light and the market about steady. Danish in 14 to 16's sold at $3.75 and occasionally higher in a 50-pound sack; 8 to 10's went for $3.75 to $4; Red in 10 to 12's at $5 to $5.50. Cartons of 16 to 20's brought $6 to $6.50.

Onion demand was fairly good for a steady yellow market and an about steady Red market. U.S. One Yellow Globes in 50-pound new sacks with 70 percent 2 inches and larger sold at $8 to $8.50. Three inches and larger brought $9 to $9.25. Master containers (3 pounds) went at 58 to 66 cents, mostly 60 to 63 cents; 2-pound bags brought 40 to 46 cents and occasionally higher. Red Globe in 25 pound sacks 2 1/4 inches and up brought $3.50 to $4; 3 inch minimum and up yielded $4 to $4.50.

Potato demand was fairly light and the market was about steady. U.S. One Size A round whites, washed paper loose 10-pound sacks sold at $1.50. Fifty-pound sacks cleared at $7 to $7.55.

Long Island potato demand was light and the market about steady. Round whites, U.S. one Size A, washed or brushed, mostly brushed in open window paper sacks brought $1.37 to $1.42 1/2 (10 pound baled.) Film bags went at $1.35 to $1.40, while 10-pound loose sold at $1.32 to $1.35. Baled 5-pound film bags cleared at 75 to 77 3/4 cents; 50-pound, including plain paper, at $6 to $6.25.

THOUGHTS FROM DOVER

By Gov. Pierre S. duPont

President Reagan, along with his top advisors and cabinet officers, met last week with the nation's governors during our annual conference in Washington to outline the tax and budget policies he has advocated.

While many of the budget cuts proposed by the President will place additional burdens on the states in such areas as CETA and Medicaid, I believe the President is on the right track. Reducing the rates of inflation and unemployment are more important. We must seize the opportunity we now have to restructure the budget policies of the federal government.

Moreover, I believe the tax cut he proposed, as modeled after the proposal of our Senator Bill Roth, is a good one and necessary to improve the economy. I hope that the Congress will back the President on this proposal.

Also in Washington last week, I met with our State's Congressional delegation. Sen. Biden, Sen. Roth and Rep. Evans and I met to discuss ways to encourage the Coast Guard to locate its training facility in Lewes near the University of Delaware's Center for Marine Studies. All of us are working together to bring this important facility to Sussex County.

The Reagan proposal is important because it will retard the growth of government. There is no question that some of the specifics will cause problems for the states and local governments, such as the proposed reduction in the CETA program and the aid to cities.

The reduction of federal aid in some areas will be partially offset by increased flexibility over the ways in which states can spend the federal dollars. Budget Director David Stockman promised the governors more discretion in the use of federal aid. For example, the governors believe that a reduction of perhaps 10 percent in highway funds from the federal government could be offset by less regulation.

The governors are generally supportive of the Reagan proposals. And while there is justifiable concern over what these cuts will mean, the governors believe that it is time to make fundamental changes in the way the federal government spends money. Combined with the tax cut, we are hopeful that the economy can improve this year.

Thoughts From Washington

By U.S. Senator Bill Roth

WASHINGTON--One of the most recurring complaints I hear from the people of Delaware is that government is cold, unresponsive and too complex. Almost daily, I am asked by frustrated people to help them solve a problem with government. I can fully appreciate the frustration felt by anyone who has to deal with the federal government today. The confusing, chaotic system we have now has almost become a barrier to services.

There is a growing feeling among people in Delaware and across the nation that their government, on all three levels, has become a jumbled, tangled mess. The system we have now resembles a giant marble cake rather than the orderly layer cake it was intended to be.

It's time we looked at all three levels of the government bureaucracy and tried to re-establish lines of authority and areas of responsibility. The bottom line is that no one really knows who is in charge of what programs and the taxpayer doesn't know who to hold accountable for mistakes.

The first bill I introduced in the Senate this year was to establish an 18 member citizens commission to thoroughly review all government policies and activities. The legislation would create a "Citizens Commission on More Effective Government" to conduct an exhaustive study of government at all three levels. Based on this study, the commission would make recommendations to help streamline and improve government efficiency.

I realize the last thing the American people want to hear about is the establishment of another commission. And, I certainly wouldn't propose such a commission if I didn't think it would be a valuable tool in cutting away some of the unnecessary bureaucracy already in existence.

There are some startling indicators of the need to clean out the federal bureaucracy. For example, in the 70's, 430 new agencies sprang to life, while only 157 existing agencies were eliminated or combined with other agencies. It is this kind of growth that has led to the excessive red tape and inefficiency that the federal government is known for today.

The proposed Citizens Commission on More Effective Government is modeled after the Hoover Commissions of the 1940's and 1950's, which is the last time a complete study of the government was conducted. In addition to reorganizing government operations, the commission would review the function of government in our present society and economy. It would explore the extent to which the government should be involved in our lives.

When I spoke to President Reagan about this proposal, he agreed that a broad study of government is needed. As Chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee in the Senate, I hope to hold hearings soon to examine further the value of this modern-day Hoover Commission. I am optimistic that the Citizens Commission can serve as a blueprint to help us reorganize and improve our government so it can work more effectively for everyone and in the long run, provide better services for all.

From Dover by Sen. Thurman Adams, Jr.

Even though the General Assembly is in recess for budget hearings, there always seems to be plenty for a legislator to do.

Last week I attended three meetings of special interest to residents of Kent and Sussex Counties, two in Georgetown and one in the Nation's Capital.

On Monday I attended the meeting of the Delaware Electric Cooperative, which serves some 28,000 customers in the lower two counties. There was an overflow crowd at the auditorium of Deltech in Georgetown, and they obviously were there because of their concern about rising electric rates and the recent enactment of legislation I co-sponsored to return the co-op to the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission.

It appears to me that both the cooperative and its customers will feel more comfortable with rates that are regulated by PSC and established only after detailed public hearings into whether or not they are really justified. There should be no repeat of the sudden and drastic rate hike imposed by the co-op in January only days after it was deregulated.

Wednesday I attended the General Assembly's Joint Finance Committee hearing in Georgetown on the proposed budget for the Department of Agriculture in the fiscal year which begins this coming July 1.

One thing that concerns me is the fact that there is no money in the current year's budget to continue the cloud-seeding experiment launched three years ago but there is money proposed for next fiscal year.

The U.S. Interior Department already has expressed an interest in participating in the Delaware experimental program, and it seems unwise to allow a gap of a year. The Interior Department is particularly impressed with the quality of data from previous years and the way it has been assembled by the University of Delaware.

I intend to introduce a supplemental appropriation bill when the General Assembly reconvenes to fund the program for the coming summer so there will be no interruption in the data which might prove to be of significance to the whole country.

Finally, Thursday I traveled with members of the Delaware Farm Bureau to Washington, D.C., to discuss concerns we have about Delaware agriculture. We met with the three members of Delaware's Congressional delegation, met and had a brief discussion with the new Agriculture Secretary, John Block, and sat down with representatives of the American Farm Bureau to discuss the overall problems of agriculture and the concerns which Delaware's farm community have.

It was a very worthwhile trip, but of course we won't know for sure what's in the future until Congress acts on President Reagan's economic package.

Biden Report

By Sen. Joseph Biden Jr.

The abandonment of rail lines on the Delmarva Peninsula, as proposed in a preliminary report issued by the United States Railway Association (USRA), and threatened by the Reagan Administration's budget proposal, could be a disastrous blow to the economic well-being of the Eastern Shore.

Our economy is tied to the rail lines now but, I believe, to an even greater extent in the future our economy will depend on a viable rail system...but we may not have a railroad operating south of Harrington.

The USRA report which recommends the paring of some 5,200 miles of trackage refers to light density lines or those that don't generate a significant return on investment. The report was not prepared by Conrail, the operator of the railroad, but USRA is Conrail's legislatively authorized banker and watchdog. Neither Conrail nor USRA can eliminate any rail lines, they can only recommend since abandonment is a regulatory procedure which must be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. But if their federal subsidies are eliminated, abandonment will surely follow.

Congress required that USRA, Conrail and the Department of Transportation submit separate and final reports and recommendations on Conrail's funding requirements and activities by April 1. Those reports will be reviewed and either approved or rejected by Congress. Even if approved, however, Conrail has the option of seeking abandonment on all of or part of lines recommended for abandonment.

Conrail would, of course, prefer to eliminate some of the light density lines, such as those on Delmarva below Harrington, which don't carry as much rail traffic as others. The Delmarva line is essentially a one-way operation. Many commodities arrive by rail but very few leave that way. The reasons for that could fill a chapter and should be discussed along with the many other facets of the current threat. The fact is, however, that empty rail cars don't earn money and Conrail wants to do what it can to operate in the black.

The issue of non-profitable lines was raised six years ago when Penn Central filed for bankruptcy and the rail link between Wilmington and Norfolk was threatened with abandonment. Conrail was created, acquired the Penn Central line and all of the horrors of a dilapidated rail system. But since Conrail didn't want the peninsula system in the first place, they were initially extremely uncooperative in improving the efficiency of the system and downright counterproductive in operating to our advantage.

Potential shippers were discouraged from using the Delmarva line but recently Conrail poured $15 million into the system to upgrade the rails. A seven-day trip from near Harrisburg, PA to Pocomoke, MD was reduced to just 25 hours. Derailments, caused by severely deteriorated railbeds, have been sharply curtailed. Conrail is now helping market the Delmarva line as a viable through route, which indicates that someone has confidence in it.

In light of that, I believe that I can make a reasonably convincing argument to Conrail that they seek alternatives to abandonment -- alternatives which Congress provided in the Staggers Rail Act of 1980. Prior to the Act Conrail could not, but now can, raise rates in specific zones and place surcharges on specific commodities without going through the Interstate Commerce Commission. That is a valuable tool for a beleaguered railroad and one which should be used.

There is also something that we government leaders, residents, business and industry representatives and shippers must do to help ourselves. We must sell the viability of the Delmarva line by not only pointing out but increasing the lucrative aspect of the rail use.

One fairly lucrative import is coal for the Delmarva Power and Light plant on Indian River. There is going to be a lot more of that coal used and there are real possibilities that coal could be delivered to the Eastern Shore for export to Europe. If a coal export facility is located along the coast, there will be a great deal more rail traffic.

That is, however, a big "if." We in the tri-state area must work diligently to provide USRA and Conrail with something more than an "if." Conrail executives don't live here; they are, in fact, far removed from our socio-economic structure. We have to sell them what is obvious to us--this can be a profitable operation and we need it.

Six years ago we pulled the resources of local and state government, railroad workers, local industry and the Congressional delegation from the tri-state region together. We need to do that again, but not to muscle Conrail into continuing the operation for time uncertain. We need to co-ordinate the economic development and transportation of our states to make the railroads profitable. But we do have a new problem, another threat.

While Congress has attempted to wean Conrail from federal subsidies, the new Reagan administration, in making budget cuts, will cut all subsidies to Conrail by mid 1982 which means substantial abandonment of rail lines. Those who consider the railroad as an integral component of our regional economy as I do, can perhaps understand why I will oppose hasty budget cuts which seriously jeopardize the well-being of our economy.

Many of us have worked long and hard to convince Conrail that the Delmarva lines are vital to the economy of the peninsula, to convince Conrail to provide freight service, to convince Conrail to make improvements in the service on Delmarva. I am not about to roll over and play dead because USRA has published a preliminary report suggesting that the rail lines from Harrington to Pocomoke as well as the lines running through Georgetown down to Snow Hill be abandoned, or because new budget proposals don't find subsidies as important as tobacco subsidies.

But I will need ammunition to fight the abandonment of Delmarva's rail lines regardless of whether the three reports to Congress recommend abandonment. But while we establish the support and evidence needed to sustain the rail lines, we must coordinate our economic development with our transportation needs.

The rail lines are an important component of our regional economy (some refer to it as our lifeline) and indications are that they will become even more important in the future. I will be working to demonstrate that importance in terms Conrail understand--a chance to recoup their investment.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON - President Reagan has sworn to cut waste in the federal government, but some of his budget officials have the impression he means only waste in the social services. They scrutinize every detail of a $50,000 anti-poverty project and approve a $50 million Pentagon proposal with few questions asked.

It's true the president has called for more defense spending. But White House sources say he wants to guard carefully against waste in the military budget. Here is a word of advice: Some of the most prodigal spendthrifts in the federal government can be found in the Pentagon. The fact that they wrap themselves in the flag doesn't make their extravagance any less disgraceful.

The brass hats have spent staggering amounts on armaments that should never have been ordered. They have lavished the taxpayers' money on pet weapons that have turned out to be impractical. They have rushed ahead with new weapons before they have been proven.

They have a weakness for loading down military equipment with sophisticated gadgetry that not only is enormously expensive but reduces its combat efficiency. The weapons become so complex that they won't function under combat conditions.

The military's misspending amounts to untold millions. Here are two small examples:

--The Defense Department gave a contractor $132,000 to prepare a projection of artillery requirements for our NATO forces. Shortly after the study was completed, it was junked. It seems the Army's field artillery school didn't like it.

--Another private consultant was retained to analyze equal employment opportunity training in the Defense Department. In less than a year, the contract price jumped from $90,000 to $137,000. Meanwhile, the information the contractor was paid to dig up was already on hand in the Pentagon.

SOUTH AMERICAN SOJOURNS: Members of the idle rich usually spend their winters in the Sunshine Belt. It is their money and they can do what they wish with it.

But there is another class of Americans who can escape the snow and ice at the taxpayers' expense. We are referring to members of Congress. If they play their committee assignments right, they can pack up their wives and assistants and head for the sunny climes of Latin America.

During the months of January and February, by our count, at least five congressional delegations -- over 100 people in total -- took junkets to such sunny spots as Argentina, Brazil, Costa Rica, Jamaica, Panama and Peru. For some reason, the need to check out the conditions in these countries always seems to arise when the weather is at its worst in Washington.

Imagine, for a moment, that you are the American ambassador in Peru. In the five-week period between January 8 and February 12, you would have had to interrupt your work to greet and entertain these congressional delegations:

-- Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and 15 additional House members, wives and assistants. They traveled to Peru to "review political developments."

-- Rep. Jim Santini, D-NeV., chairman of a House subcommittee on mining, and a retinue of 18 colleagues and aides. They were there to "look into the energy and mineral resources of Latin America."

-- Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of a House banking subcommittee and 30 other people. They were interested in Peruvian banking.

-- Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, and a party of 18. They simply wanted to see what the State Department was up to.

-- Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., and a delegation of 20. They were in such a hurry to see the sights that they skipped some of the appointments that they flew all the way to Peru to obtain. They seemed primarily interested in buying local products at bargain prices.

In short, when members of Congress talk about going to the ends of the earth to serve their constituents, they are being all too literal.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: The federal government now has more than 130 million troy ounces of silver vaulted away--about $2 billion worth. It's part of the strategic stockpile...A secret Justice Department report says the International Longshoremen's Association has "a long history of organized crime influence" and is, in fact, dominated by the mob...President Reagan's choice for the human rights seat at the State Department is a member of the all-male Cosmos Club in downtown Washington...Out of $519 billion collected by the Internal Revenue Service last year, 84 percent came from individuals. Only 14 percent of the taxes were paid by corporations...Quote from a top-secret Pentagon report: "Soviet advisors or military personnel can be found in some 30 countries adhering formally to the neutral and non-aligned movement. In addition, Cuban military forces and advisors now number in the thousands and are found in over 20 countries."

WANTED: A MORATORIUM OR A NEW WORD

By: Barbara C. Brown

On entering our office one day last week, I was struck by an unusual quiet punctuated by the equally unusual sound of sobbing.

Our typesetter's flying fingers had come to a standstill; our paste-up people were glued to the spot; the office gossip was slack-jawed, and even the telephones had stopped ringing.

But there, huddled over his machine, was our headline writer, Snappy Leeds, his tears threatening to rust out the keyboard and upset the chemical balance of the photographic paper.

Now Snappy is usually a cheerful little guy who gets along pretty well with everyone. Admittedly, he's got something of a pot belly and is a trifle shiny on top. But the clever twinkle (or should I say, evil gleam?) in his eye makes up for it all. Of course, we do have to curtail his creativity on occasion. For instance, just a few weeks ago I had to tell him that "Purdue Wants to Stay in Felton Sewer" simply was not an acceptable headline.

But he takes it all in good grace. So I was somewhat startled to find him in tears, especially since it wasn't even Tuesday.

It took a little while, but we eventually backed him away from the headliner, wiped off the keys and reduced his level of incoherence. Then, in great gulps and sobs, the whole story came out.

"You...you said that was the end. You said I wouldn't have to do it anymore." Snappy's voice was an accusation.

"Uh...do what, Snappy?" I wondered what rash promise in my foggy moments, I had made and obviously broken.

"Do you realize," he said, "there are ten letters in that word?"

(The light began to dawn.)

"First Woodbridge had one," he went on. "Then it was Harrington and Lake Forest. Then the city of Harrington (bless the city of Harrington) scheduled two more, and Felton had to slip one in between. But you said (and here Snappy waved a line gauge wildly in my direction)...you said that was the end...And what do I read here (He snatched up a sheet of copy and shoved it under my nose)...Houston plans to hold a...plans to hold a (It was plainly difficult for him to utter the offensive word.) a referendum." He shuddered. "Do you realize how hard it is to fit that word into a headline?"

It wasn't really a question, and I stepped back in self-defense.

"Have you ever tried to fit it into a single column? Have you ever tried to find a verb that will fit on the same line? It's my job to be catchy, original, inventive...even with words like XGH?P#? But this makes seven of these things in one year. And every time there's a before and after story, at least. There's a limit to human endurance. My reputation, my career is at stake. But if I have to write "referendum" one more time..." His voice headed for a new level of hysteria.

"Now...now, Snappy, I'll think of something."

"Oh...you can write something better?"

"Uh...well...I didn't really mean...What I meant was...maybe we could ask our readers to come up with a new word for "referendum"...something short and...uh...snappy. We might even offer a year's free subscription to the editorial page for the best suggestion."

Snappy was skeptical. "And what if that doesn't work?"

"Well, perhaps we could appeal to the local town councils and school boards for a two year moratorium on referendums."

"A what...??? Snappy's voice hit hysteria again.

"A moratorium on referendums."

"You...and this time the glint in his eye was cold and steel and calculating!...You can write that headline."

Keeping In Touch

With Tom Evans

The House of Representatives has passed the Cash Discount Act, an excellent starting point for Congressional action on President Reagan's comprehensive economic package. By passing a bill which eliminates some of the most restrictive regulations of the Federal Reserve Board, and helps to lower prices to the American consumer, the House has established a good precedent for the consideration of the President's revitalization program.

The Cash Discount Act, which I managed on the House floor, is the first bill to receive the approval of the House since President Reagan's speech to the Joint Session of Congress.

This legislation eliminates a provision of existing law which prohibits merchants from offering more than a five-percent discount to consumers who choose to pay for purchases with cash.

Under the newly available discounts, consumers could obtain a lower price on an item by choosing to pay with cash. Merchants would also benefit from this arrangement by increasing their cash flow and avoiding the delayed payments associated with the use of credit cards.

The bill will also eliminate the excessive regulations of the Federal Reserve Board which are restricting the ability of merchants to offer cash discounts. As I noted on the House floor, consumers are more than able to determine the best deal--cash or credit.

As a member of the House Banking Committee, I pushed a more balanced approach which protects the consumer through a disclosure requirement, at the same time it allows merchants to exercise complete discretion in establishing the size of the cash discount. This seemingly modest accomplishment symbolizes the attitude of the House toward the numerous Federal regulations which are unnecessarily costing consumers billions of dollars each year.

The anti-inflationary and anti-regulatory efforts of the Cash Discount Act fully justify the decision of the House leadership to make this bill the first measure considered by the 97th Congress.

The House passed the Cash Discount Act by a vote of 372 to 4. A companion measure has been introduced in the Senate and is expected to be considered promptly.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS
Recommended Stocks Up 150%
At the University of Pennsylvania, two students - the youngest financial advisers sanctioned in the history of the Securities and Exchange Commission - joined forces to create the Talisman Report on stocks.
In the first year of the report, the recommended stocks resulted in a net gain of 150 percent.
The success of students, Matthew Evans and Robert Olins, has led to an interview on the Today Show and scheduled interviews with Playboy Magazine and the Associated Press.
Penn's Business College, The Wharton School, is among the three top graduate schools of business, and is the number one undergraduate business school.
