

Fly The Flag on the Fourth

Join your neighbors in displaying the flag on this Fourth of July and other days throughout the year.

A flag bracket permanently mounted on the front of your house makes it much simpler to put up and take down the flag. Metal brackets for this purpose are available in many hardware stores, as well as at flag supply shops in larger cities (look under Flags and Banners in the Yellow Pages). Flags and aluminum brackets are frequently sold as kits, ranging in price from about $11 for a lightweight cotton flag to $28 for a durable nylon banner.

Since the national flag is displayed not only on homes but also in places of business and at special gatherings, it is good to remember a few of the basic rules:

Display the flag only during daylight hours when the weather is good. Raise it briskly and lower it ceremoniously, never letting it touch the ground, and bring it inside if rain begins to fall. Let the flag hang freely; it must never be swagged or festooned. (for decorating, special red, white, and blue bunting should be used.)

When the flag is hung flat on a wall, either horizontally or vertically, the blue field should be at the upper left corner.

If the flag is to be displayed on a speaker's platform, hang it on the wall

Cline Says Farewell To Education

Retiring after 32 years, Lake Forest Superintendent William E. ("Ed") Cline said a quiet farewell to education this week. Most of those years he spent as a teacher or as an administrator—or both. But his record also includes two and a half years of military service.

Also stepping down this year is his wife, Rosalie Cline, a teacher for thirty years. She has taught kindergarten through eighth grade and concluded her teaching years with the past two spent teaching basic math at the W.T. Chipman Junior School in Harrington.

When Ed Cline started out, it was not all that unusual for a fair number of those who entered high school to drop out before graduation. And if the dropout had later regrets, at least he still had a reasonable chance to get and keep a job. Now, with an enormously complex technological society, a high school diploma seems to be the minimum requirement. Cline sees some of the problems in education today as related to the difference between the performance of a highly motivated few and the education of larger numbers of students with increasingly larger percentages of those who must remain in the classroom, like it or not.

Education has always had a high priority in his own life. But as the son of a Baltimore steelworker, Cline said the incentives to go beyond high school were not as great then as they would be today. As a matter of fact, it was his military service and the G.I. bill that made it possible for him to get a college education.

With the exception of about two years when his father was employed with Worth Steel near Claymont, Cline spent most of his early years around Baltimore and Sparrows Point where the elder Cline worked for Bethlehem Steel. Ed Cline eventually graduated from Sparrows Point High School and went right to work in the steel mill.

But World War II was in progress, and a nineteenth birthday present - his draft card - interrupted his work there. By April 27, 1943 he was in the U.S. Army and was sent to Fort Leonard Wood, N.J. for engineers' training. After he had learned to use a pick and a shovel, he was transferred to Yale University. All that was interrupted in 1944 when Private First Class Cline was shipped overseas to Italy with the 34th Infantry Division.

Although he did not know it, his 21st birthday was to be spent in less than festive circumstances - as a prisoner of war near Munich, Germany.

Cline was captured near Bologna, Italy south of the Po Valley on October 14, 1944 and taken immediately, via charcoal burning truck, to a P.O.W. holding camp south of the Alps. Later he, along with some fifty others, were herded into a box car for transport through the Brenner pass to Germany.

Of that trip Cline remembers that it took fifty-five hours and that the car was so densely packed that it was absolutely impossible to sit down. Sustenance was provided at several intervals when the box car door was opened and a bucket of ersatz coffee and a couple of loaves of bread were handed around for about fifteen minutes.

It was not exactly first class travel, but Cline felt luckier than another group he was later to assist. Those men spent seven straight days in similar circumstances.

Except for about seven weeks in Munich, most of his time in Germany was spent at Stalag 7A Mooseburg. The camp was unheated, and prison fare consisted of one 1000 calorie meal a day. The menu varied a little - four or five medium potatoes, a bowl of cabbage soup and a sixth of a loaf of bread. Losing weight was guaranteed, but the diet did little for vitality.

Musser Rezoning Unopposed

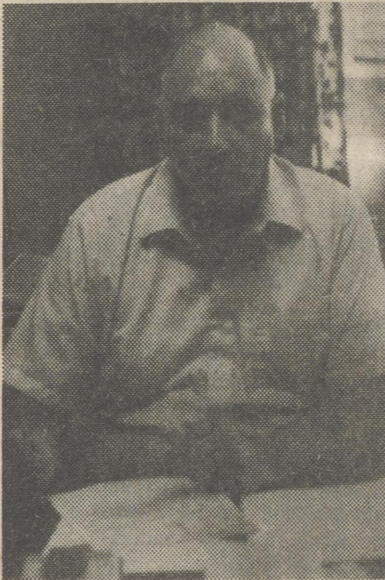

A public hearing Monday night on the subject of rezoning the property at 110 Center Street, Harrington from C3 (Service/Commercial) to R1 (Single Family Residential) was concluded almost as soon as it began. The request by the William Mussers to change the zoning was unopposed.

The long speaker was Harry Rhodes of the law firm of Brown, Shiels and Chasanov, representing the Mussers. Rhodes said the couple intend to use the property as their own residence. Briefly questioned by Council member Ray Gagne, Rhodes reaffirmed that stated intent. There were no further questions, and no one else spoke either in favor or in opposition. The rezoning has already received the favorable report of the Harrington's Planning and Zoning Commission.

The present zoning of the property (C3) allows a number of light commercial enterprises such as a bowling alley or an animal hospital to operate there. The proposed rezoning would restrict it to use as a single family dwelling.

Since Monday night was not scheduled as a regular Council meeting, no action on the rezoning was taken. The Council is expected to take formal action at its regular meeting on Monday July 13.

Outgoing - William E. Cline retired as Superintendent of Lake Forest Schools effective yesterday.

Incoming - Dr. Edward Powell assumes the post today.

Lake Forest Chooses Dr. Powell

The Lake Forest Board of Education last Thursday night made official its selection of Dr. Edward M. Powell to head the local district as Superintendent of Schools.

Dr. Powell comes to the Lake Forest School District after a year away from education during which he opened a Burger King Restaurant in Seaford. Prior to that, he spent eight years as Superintendent of the Capital School District in Dover.

He agreed to accept the Lake Forest post even though the $32,000 salary he will receive here represents a considerable reduction from the $42,000 he was paid in Dover.

Selected from among 21 applicants and later from six top candidates for the Lake Forest job, Powell confesses he returned to education because he was "bored" and "needed a challenge". And, he says, "Education is what I do best."

Lake Forest Board of Education President Cliff Chambers said Powell was selected because of all applicants, "...he was by far the best qualified."

One of eight brothers, Powell, 44, was born in Gibson City, Illinois, and graduated from University High Laboratory School at Illinois State University in Normal in 1955. That year he earned an Illinois Academic Scholarship and was named to the All-State Basketball Team.

Powell went on to earn a B.S. in Biological Science at Illinois State in 1959.

In 1964 he received an M.S. in biological science and, in 1970, a Ph.D. in Educational Administration, both at Purdue University at West Lafayette, Indiana. While there he received four National Science Foundation In-Service Grants and three NSF Fellowship Grants. He also was recipient of a President's Research Grant, was appointed to a Graduate Instructorship and as a West Lafayette Schools Administration Intern, was assigned as assistant to the Superintendent of Schools.

His teaching experience spans ten years at the secondary level (in Hammond Public Schools, Hammond, Indiana) and 18 years at the college level. Colleges and universities where he has taught include Purdue University, Indiana University, the University of Delaware, Delaware Technical and Community College, Delaware State College and Ancilla Domini College in Donaldson, Indiana.

For two years before coming to Delaware as Superintendent of the Capital School District in 1972, he served in the same position for the Polk-Lincoln School Corporation.

Dr. Powell and his wife Ruth have seven daughters: Kim, Kelly, Jill, Jackie, Jennifer, Heather and Heidi. The family currently resides in Seaford.

Powell officially assumed duties here as of today, but he will be on vacation for a few days before settling down to the full time job.

Accidents Involve Four Residents

As a result of three separate incidents over the weekend, two Harrington residents are charged with serious traffic violations, and two others are counting themselves lucky to be unharmed and the damage to their vehicle not as bad as it might be.

On Sunday afternoon, Faye Trader of Harrington, her son, Doug and her sister, Debbie Smith were traveling south on U.S. 13 near Rodney Village when they were struck from the rear by a vehicle apparently traveling far in excess of the speed limit. Mrs. Trader's car was forced up on the two left wheels, and driven for a considerable distance. It was possibly only the presence of Trader's sister, Debbie Smith, that saved the day. Mrs. Smith grabbed the steering wheel and pulled it to the right, preventing the car from overturning.

The incident occurred about 4:30 p.m. when there were a number of witnesses in the nearby shopping center. Several persons reported that the car in question was an "army green" Pontiac Catalina that was literally smoking down the highway. After striking Mrs. Trader's red Chevette, the other vehicle made a U-turn and headed back thru the area past the Dover Brunswick Bowling Lanes. Witnesses did not get a license number. However, state police were on the lookout for a car of that description. Although Mrs. Trader's car was damaged in the rear, she and her sister consider themselves extremely fortunate to have come through the incident shaken, but unharmed.

On Sunday, Harrington Patrolman Paul Yannucci chased a car driven by Jane Stubbs, 21, of Harrington down Commerce St. The vehicle, a brown Oldsmobile was travelling at 54 mph in a 25 mile zone. The pursuit continued onto the Whitleysburg Road where Ms. Stubbs overturned near the Rash Trailer Court. She was ejected from the vehicle which was demolished. Stubbs was later charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, failure to stop on command and speeding.

On Monday morning, Joseph Grey, also of Harrington, overturned his car Northbound U.S. 13 opposite the Harrington Motor Company. Grey ended up in a field owned by Gayle Smith of Harrington. He was subsequently charged by state police with driving under the influence of alcohol.

A total loss! This car, now at rest at Buck's Auto Repair was overturned by Jane Stubbs after a high speed chase through Harrington Sunday.

Horses & Riders In Training

Quarter horses and their riders were in training last week at Ho-Barly-Kew Farm near Sandtown for the Summer Sun Circuit which opens at the fairgrounds in Harrington on July 13. The Circuit which will continue through July 19, features seven registered quarter horse shows, four of them sponsored by the Delaware Quarter Horse Association and three by individual farms.

The clinic at Ho-Barly-Kew Farm was conducted by Lynn Williams who completed last spring a year of training at Findlay College in Findlay, Ohio, where she studied under Charley Bradley, one of the country's leading trainers. Miss Williams is now building her own business-breaking and training horses and giving lessons. During the clinic she worked with young riders of several ages at improving both showmanship and horsemanship.

Participants in the clinic included Carole and Nikki White of Viola. Lori Senos of Bridgeville, Jackie Roy of Sandtown and Jennifer Kling of Petersburg. Seven-year-old Jennifer, aboard her quarter pony (half quarter horse and half pony) has been a student of Lynn's for a little over a year. She will not be involved in the Summer Sun Circuit, but was busy preparing for her own round of shows including the Delaware State Fair.

The quarter horses, who bear the legacy of "Smokey the Cow Pony" of literary fame, were originally bred for speed at a short distance - a quarter mile, hence their name. Over the quarter mile they could outrace a thoroughbred. Now they are bred for their versatility, good looks, ease of handling and personality. According to Lynn's Mom, Marjorie Williams, they are "not as hyper as a thoroughbred, but not as docile as an Arabian."

The Summer Sun Circuit has grown over the past six or seven years to an event that attracts entries from all

During the seven weeks in Munich, he fared a little better. His captors needed stronger prisoners to do the work of clearing rubble after Allied bombings, consequently, he got three meals a day.

Meanwhile, he was suffering from frostbitten feet (a result of riding in unheated box cars) and infected flea bites (on both legs). Medical treatment was available, but it meant a hike from the center of Munich (a city the size of Baltimore) to the outskirts where P.O.W. doctors in a hospital could give treatment. Bandages would be unwrapped, soaked in antiseptic and reapplied. There were no fresh bandages available. Then Cline remembers being dismissed with the good advice, "Stay off your feet."

Actually, the fleabites, which became festering sores, did not heal until after his liberation when his diet returned to normal. The diet of a P.O.W. just did not contain what was necessary for the body to carry on the healing process.

Despite the conditions and the relative ease of escape, Ed Cline remembers that not a great many prisoners made the attempt. First of all, the POW's were very visible. Unshaven and unwashed (except for showers on entry and exit, bathing facilities were not available) and dressed in a motley collection of clothing (at one time he remembers wearing a French overcoat, Canadian shirt and trousers and wooden shoes), they were easy to spot. In the second place, once they got to the border, there was no place to go. It was well known that the Swiss border was patrolled by dogs, and everywhere else, by that time was the front line of battle. Germany was virtually surrounded. Thirdly the prisoners were mostly too weak to try.

Cline recalls little animosity on the part of the prisoners toward their German guards. Most of the latter, he says, were older men in their 50's or 60's. Prisoners would even hold their rifles and give them a helping hand onto the box cars that transported the work groups.

Liberation came in May 1945 via General Patton's army. Cline remembers that it was 200 days after his capture because he received $200 in compensation for all the GI rations (at a dollar a day) he missed while he was a prisoner.

He completed his military service at Camp Landing in Florida where he was a cadre involved in training troops. All that ended on December 2, 1945.

LF Superintendent Cline Retires

By January 1946 he was back at work at Bethlehem Steel. But with the GI bill he was able to go onto college. He attended Towson State for two years and ultimately graduated from Western Maryland in 1950 with a B.A. in history and a minor in English. Plans for obtaining a Master's in history were interrupted after a semester at the University of Pennsylvania when the Korean war broke out and funds ran out.

By that time he was married and his wife, Rosalie was teaching. Cline went to work for two months at Household Finance and for nine more months at A & P.

In February of 1952, he started teaching a combined fifth and sixth grades in a four room school at Cedar Brook, N.J. He went on to teach sixth grades at Barrington and seventh grade at Pine Hill before leaving New Jersey to come to Delaware.

By that time, the Clines had three children and had decided that a rural atmosphere was a better place to raise a family. With the help of Assistant State Superintendent, Dr. King, they were offered teaching positions in either Claymont or Milton. They opted for Milton as being the more rural.

Ed Cline taught in Milton for five years; his wife went on to a teaching post in Lincoln after two or three. The next move, for both, was to Dover where he spent two years. Mrs. Cline transferred to Frederica after the first year.

Then from 1961-1963 he was a teaching principal in the sixth grade and taught English in seventh and ninth grades for one year.

From Felton, he moved to Frederica where he was supervising principal with his own school board before the Lake Forest School District was formed in 1969. After consolidation he remained as principal at Frederica for one year before coming to Lake Forest South Elementary. He served as principal at South until his selection as Lake Forest Superintendent, succeeding Albert Adams, in 1977.

During his years as a teacher, he accumulated a number of credits in education and earned a Masters Degree in Administration at the University of Delaware.

In the past, he has been active in education associations, serving as president of the Milton Education Association for two years, as president of pre-integration Council of black and white teachers in Sussex County, and as President for one year of the Sussex County Education Association. At the state level, he was Chairman of the Legislative Committee, Vice President and President of DSEA. Currently he is a member of DASA (The Delaware Association of School Administrators).

His contributions to libraries, especially school libraries, have been among his proudest accomplishments. For these he was recognized with several state-wide awards this spring. While principal at Frederica he was responsible for organizing a school library for which he and the board were able to come up with $10,000 or $12,000 in funding.

With all their activity in education the Clines have also raised a family of seven - one son and six daughters, in order they are as follows:

Karen Lee - a graduate of the University of Delaware with a degree in math and expertise in computer programing. Karen is now a housewife and mother of one. She lives in Salt Lake City.

Christine - After graduating from Delaware State College, Christine taught school in Arizona. Now she is a housewife in Craig, Colorado.

Penelope - "Penny" attended college for one year and is now working in Craig, Colorado.

Billy - After completing four years in the U.S. Navy, Billy is employed at Dover Datsun.

Elizabeth - Liz is now a student at the University of Maryland with a minor in psychology. But she is continuing her piano study.

Melanie - a student at Randolph Macon.

Jennifer - The Clines' youngest daughter will be a senior this fall at Lake Forest High School.

Now that they have "retired", the Clines are busy managing the Frederica Package Store. Ed Cline also serves on Frederica's newly organized Planning and Zoning Commission. In addition, they have plans to travel and he plans to go back to gardening.

GEORGETOWN FIELD DAY SET FOR AUGUST 12

Plans are well under way for the University of Delaware's 37th annual Farm and Home Field Day at the Georgetown Agricultural Substation. This event, set for August 12, 1981, gives farmers and non-farmers alike a chance to see what the University's Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service are doing for the people of Delaware.

Activities will begin at 9:30 a.m. During the morning, there will be special wagon and bus tours of corn, soybean, vegetable, and poultry projects around the Substation, as well as tours of the University swine facilities. Some of the tours are designed to present an intensive look at the University's research plots for farmers and others with specialized interests, while other tours are designed to provide a general overview for the curious non-farmer.

Field Day will feature a plant clinic where farmers and home gardeners can bring plant problems for diagnosis by a panel of University experts. There will also be numerous educational exhibits and programs for farmers and consumers in the grove.

Tickets will be available at the door for a fried chicken luncheon to be held in the grove at noon.

The afternoon activities will feature remarks by visiting dignitaries and a continuation of the tours, programs, and exhibits. The day will conclude at 3:30 with a free watermelon break.

July 4th Celebration - Slaughter Beach, De; Platters served at Firehouse starting at noon. Hot dogs, hamburgers also available. Fireworks at dusk.

Fly the Flag

above and behind the podium. If displayed on a staff, it should occupy the place of honor, at the speaker's right.

The national flag is always at the highest point in a display; when used as part of a grouping of flags, no other flag should fly above it. The national flag should be at the center of the group.

If the United States flag is crossed with a state or local flag, the national banner should be on the left side, with its staff in front.

Common sense and respect should prevail when the flag is flown; no frivolous uses should be permitted. When the flag begins to look worn, dispose of it respectfully, preferably by burning.

Group Visits

One of the group, Virginia Wiley, is a descendant of Robert Morris, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Morris prayed all night in a Watch Night Service at St. George's on December 31, 1777 that people might respond to his plea for money to assist General Washington and his starving troops at Valley Forge. Morris is buried in the churchyard at Christ Church where the group visited later.

Get Together and Talk With Our Neighbors

Senior Center

By Dorothy Graham 398-3780

Have you ever noticed how the time goes so slow during the winter, and how fast it goes during the spring and summer. We have another addition to our outside. The flag pole and flag that the members donated has been placed. Out thanks to Elbert Stevens and Maurice Adams for that job.

Monday morning seemed a little strange around here. Bible study was cancelled because the jolly timers band had to have a rehearsal before that afternoon. They had been asked to go to the Kent Convalescent Center near Smyrna to entertain. They really sounded very good around here and we heard that the people at the Kent Center really enjoyed them and they even had a couple of the women up dancing. When the members go to the different nursing homes they really are ambassadors of good will and love. They enjoy the visits because they can see how much the people appreciate them.

Tuesday morning everyone was arriving with their hats, bags, and even some with shorts. It was a day at Rehoboth Beach. We left the center at about ten in the morning and returned at four. While there our group had two "hot spots" and they were the Avenue Restaurant and Dollies for the Caramel Corn. Everyone seemed to have a nice time and the weatherman surely blessed us with a wonderful day. I was able to go with the group and believe me, there is not another group that is as fun as these members here. I really had an enjoyable day.

Thursday we had several board guests, Jeannette Legates, Elizabeth Anthony, Gertrude Morgan, Rev. Markley (Mrs. Markley) and Reynolds Kates. It is so nice to have the board members attend.

On Friday, Mabel Dempsey and Kathryn Masten entertained Gladys Hill and Becky Deemer for their birthday. Also in the party was Mary Jane Bell, Mary Wright, and Viola Hill. Becky was treated to a kiss by Jim Vaughn. This dinner was at the Wayside Inn in Smyrna. Everyone reported a good time.

I wasn't at the Center on Friday so I really can't report on the news from that day.

We have some interesting trips coming up during the month of July. Lancaster County and Inner Harbor are among them. Also we will be celebrating our 16th anniversary with an open house on July 15th. There will be more news on this later.

Thank you to all the volunteers and to all the homebonds a speedy recovery.

Hello to Dorothy. Hurry back. The Harrington Senior Center is open five days a week from 9 to 4 for those persons over sixty regardless of sex, creed, national origin, or handicap. There is a hot meal served at noon daily.

Gabfest

By Pat Hatfield 349-4255

I cannot believe that it is July already. The summer is slipping away so fast. I am reminded that the 15th of July will be St. Swithin's Day. The Almanac gives the old rhyme thusly: "St. Swithin's Day, if thou be fair, for forty days 'twill rain nae mair." I was brought up with the old tradition stated the opposite way... "If it rains on St. Swithin's Day, it will rain for forty more days." One year I saw this come true. It poured raining all day on July 15, and it did, actually, rain for some part of every day for around the next forty days.

July is long known as the month of the Buck Moon, when the deer grow antlers, and summer arrives in most all areas. In our own little state, it is the season for wild blueberries and blackberries, August lillies and hydrangeas.

At the top of the Almanac for July they have chosen a little poem by Joel Barlow which goes: "Slow springs the blade, while check'd by chilling rains, Ere yet the sun the seat of Caesar gains; But when his fiercest fires emblaze the land, Then start the juices, then the roots expand." To me, that sounds like early spring rather than summer. But in another place, I found a small verse by New England's minister-poet, Ralph Waldo Emerson: The south-wind brings Life, sunshine and desire; And on every mount and meadow, Breathes aromatic fire."

The Old Farmer's Almanac chooses to add to its weather predictions small rhymes which are fun to read. For July, as the days go by, they have opposite their forecasts little gems like these: "Tempest-tossed, star crossed... sun seems lost"; Thunder storming, then warming. Hot and brassy, showers are sassy; golden summer days, morning haze; Need foul weather gear, that's clear; Head needs a sunbonnet on it; cool, wet breeze from the seas; hot and stocky, downright sticky; shady, my lady; hang out at the pool, then cool." I wonder who makes up all these little goodies. The forecaster has to have a sense of humor.

I'm fascinated by the interesting little facts they have put in for our pleasure. It says here that on "July 4, 1882 there were traces of snow in Newton, N.J. And on July 9, 1882, ice was found in the streets of Wyoming. I wonder if 1882 was the famous year that was called "the year without a summer"? I've heard my grandparents speak of that, saying that it was so cold in the summer men had to work in the fields in their overcoats to harvest what little they could grow. There is an entry for July 31, "Cornscateous air...good for corn, bad for people".

Independent Bible Fellowship

This past Sunday was the fifth anniversary Sunday for Independent Bible Fellowship Church. The congregation always looks forward to this day of remembering the past years and fellowshiping together for the noon meal and an afternoon service. Throughout the day, photos and newspaper articles were displayed depicting the conception, organization, and activities of the church from June, 1976 until the present time.

our members is for the Lord Jesus Christ to be exalted in every service, in every activity, and in every outreach of our ministry in Harrington. After the morning worship service, the members and guests of the church gathered at the Century Club for a covered dish meal. The abundance of delicious food reminded us of the abundance of blessings from our Great God to us in the past five years. After the meal and fellowship, we made our way back to the church for at 2:30 p.m. service of congregational singing, choir specials, solos, testimonies, and a sermon message, "God Led Them" by Pastor Newman. This afternoon service was an especially joyous one because of the "mortgage burning" ceremony. Independent Bible Fellowship Church now owns the existing church building and property, plus 18 acres of land on the Milford Harrington Highway. We are debt free! Praise God from Whom ALL Blessings Flow! Happy Birthday wishes for the month of June are extended to: Wayne Lloyd, Pastor Ray Newman, Amber Hitchens, Carin Newman, and Abby Wright.

Group Visits Historic St. George's Church

A small group from Asbury United Methodist Church, Harrington, traveled to Philadelphia on Sunday to worship at historic St. George's Church and to visit its museum. While in Philadelphia the group also stopped at Christ Church (where George Washington, Ben Franklin, Betsy Ross and others worshipped and in whose church yard and cemetery seven signers of the Declaration of Independence are buried) and St. Peter and Paul Basilica.

St. George's Church was of special interest to the group since it is the oldest United Methodist Church in continuous service in the world. The building was erected in 1763 by the Lutheran congregation. However, its upkeep proved too costly, and they eventually sold it. It was acquired by a Methodist Society and dedicated on the evening of November 24, 1769 when one of John Wesley's first itinerant ministers, the Reverend Joseph Pilmoor, preached the dedicatory sermon there. Sunday services have been held continuously since then.

St. George's is also known as "the church that moved a bridge". Original plans for the Benjamin Franklin Bridge over the Delaware River would have placed it where the church is now. But prayer and the efforts of church leaders resulted in a court order mandating the bridge be built no closer than 14 feet to the church. Today the bridge passes just fourteen feet from St. George's. The efforts of the Methodist also helped to save a Catholic Church, St. Augustine's, directly across the street.

This group visited Old St. George's Church on Sunday.

Welcomed by the pastor, the Reverend Dr. Robert L. Curry, and members of the congregation at St. George's was the following group from the peninsula: Marlene Jarrell, Mary E. Nelson, Clara Judy, Mrs. Elbert Stevens, Virginia Willey, Amanda Quillen, Naomi Tattman, Jean Harrington, Pauline Hopkins, Gail Voglein, Barbara Brown (all of Harrington) and Doris Covington, (of Ridely).

The Phillies team celebrated the end of a spectacular season Sunday, with a picnic at Killens Pond State Park. After a covered dish barbecue picnic, team members played moms, dads, brothers and sisters in a softball game. Each team member was presented with a trophy and booklet that included a collection of newspaper write-ups about the seasons games.

On behalf of the Phillies, team queen Becky Chambers presented Coach C. P. "Honey" Voshell and Manager Ron Voshell with plaques and thanked them for time and effort spent with and for the team.

A trip to the pool wound up the day. What a great way to end a super season!

Dear friends,
It is important for husbands and wives to share information on savings and checking accounts, life insurance policies, stock and bond certificates - all investment matters, pension plans and death benefits owing. The surviving widow can be in deep financial trouble unless she knows of all such assets and benefits she must apply for.

Respectfully,
William C. Berry, Jr.
