

Did toppled truck lead to rear end collision?

Two accidents - one which toppled a beer truck and a second which involved a Bridgeville resident and a Harrington resident in a rear end collision - happened hours apart, but may have been related. Both took place in the same area on U.S. 13 about 2 miles north of Harrington on Saturday morning, August 8.

In the first incident, which occurred about 2:20 a.m., James Cianci who was headed north of 13 with a tractor-trailer load of beer from a brewery in the Norfolk/Williamsburg area was forced to the side of the road when an unidentified vehicle passed him on the left and then cut in front of him. Cianci, of Staten Island, N.Y., swerved to the shoulder of the road where his truck traveled 144 feet before overturning on its right side. He suffered mild lacerations to the forehead.

State Police from Troop 3, who did not charge the truck driver in the incident, later speculated that the operator of the vehicle which cut in front of him may have been driving under the influence of alcohol.

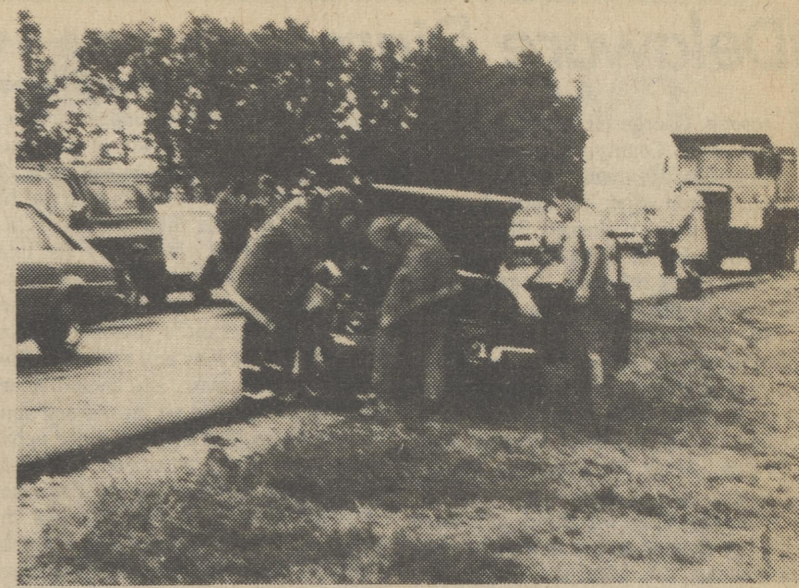

Cianci said the sharp drop off the edge or shoulder of the road prevented him from getting his vehicle back on the highway. There has been some road construction in the area, and there are uneven edges where the pavement and dirt shoulder join.

A crowd of spectators which later gathered at the scene, perhaps with the hope of scavenging some of the

Harrington Seniors Set Anniversary Open House

The Harrington Senior Center will celebrate fourteen years of service to senior citizens and to the community with an open house and a dedication service this Friday, August 14, beginning at 11 a.m.

Most of the festivities will be held in the outdoor area which includes the new parking lot provided by the city of Harrington through a HUD grant.

Ceremonies will begin with an invocation by the Rev. William Markley, a member of the Center's Board of Directors and pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church here. Following the invocation there will be presentations by the Center's Executive Director, Robert E. (Gene) Price, Jr.

After the presentations there will be a break during which lunch will be served inside the building to members of the center and their guests from senior centers in Milford, Seaford, and Frederica. The luncheon will be open to Harrington residents over 60 who make advance reservations.

Beginning at 1:15 p.m., entertainment will move outdoors with a performance by the Harrington Center's Jolly Timers Kitchen Band. This is to be followed by music and other surprises. Refreshments will be served and the center will be open to visitors during the afternoon.

The Harrington Senior Center embarked on its fifteenth year of service here on July 14. After organizing in March, 1967, it opened with an open house and ribbon cutting ceremonies in the Harrington New Century Club Building on July 14 of that year. Since then, it has acquired its own building at the present Fleming Street location. Parking facilities were completed this year.

The active center originated with the realization that there was a need for a local facility where senior citizens could

Pressley To Head Woodbridge District

The Woodbridge Board of Education Monday night announced the selection of Dr. James S. Pressley of Edenton, N.C. to be the district's new Superintendent of Schools. Dr. Pressley most recently served as assistant superintendent for the Edenton-Chowan County School District in North Carolina.

He succeeds Dr. William Griffin who served the Woodbridge School District for four years. Dr. Griffin left to accept a position as teacher and administrator at Eastern Nazarene College in Quincy, Massachusetts. Before going to Woodbridge as Superintendent, he was principal at Lake Forest High School.

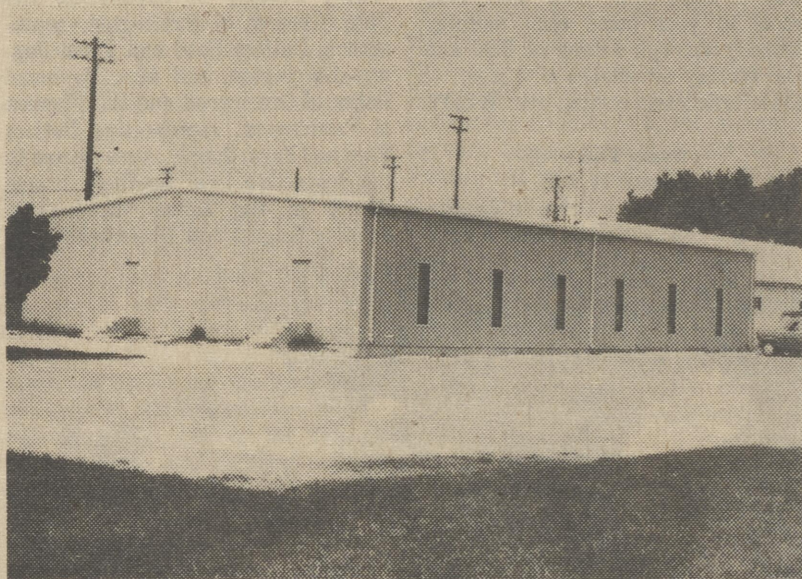

Suicide Investigated

Delaware State Police Monday were still investigating the apparent suicide of a member of the Pagans motorcycle gang at a private party on County Route 33 southwest of Milford Saturday afternoon. The incident left Clarence E. Darling, of River Road, Ridgely, Maryland dead of shotgun wounds, reportedly self-inflicted.

According to State Police, Darling had been dropped at the party by friends around 11:30 a.m. on Saturday. He had been drinking heavily and continued to do so. Around 4 p.m. he retired to a bedroom where he aimed a double barreled shotgun at his head.

Witnesses at the scene were able to give no motive for the shooting. A probe by the Criminal Investigation unit of the state police was continuing.

The Carlisle Fire Company was called to remove Darling's body from the premises, State Police from Troop 3 in Camden also assisted.

Harrington Moose Lodge 534 will open its spacious new building with a dance for its members on Saturday night. The 100 x 70' square foot addition boasts 100 x 50' of ballroom space plus a new kitchen. Formal dedication will be scheduled later.

Oliver Injured In Scuffle

Felton Police Chief Mike Olliver, who crossed verbal swords with Mayor William Myers on August 6, found himself in physical combat just two days later as he attempted to make an arrest. The upshot of the ensuing scuffle was that 31-year-old Edmund L. Cole, Jr. of Felton, sought by Harrington police on a traffic violation - no insurance - was charged with assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest and criminal mischief. Olliver, injured in the fray, underwent surgery Monday at St. Francis Hospital in Wilmington.

A spokesman for the hospital said Monday afternoon that surgery had been successfully completed and that Olliver was doing well.

The incident began last Wednesday afternoon when Olliver noticed Cole's car parked behind the Town Hall in Felton. Olliver notified Harrington Police telling them that he would make the arrest.

Cole had been arrested and placed in the back seat of Felton's police car when Olliver opened the door a crack to allow him to speak to a friend. At this point, Cole forced the door open and attempted to escape. He had gotten as far as his own vehicle when Olliver removed the keys from the ignition. In the struggle which followed, the two fell to the ground, with Cole reportedly falling on top of Olliver.

The Felton Police Chief managed to force Cole back into the police car before help, in the form of off duty Dover patrolman Larry Thompson, arrived. Later assistance came from Harrington, Little Creek and Delaware State Police from Troop 3.

A crowd of some 20 spectators who watched the incident offered no help at all.

Patrolman Thompson called Felton ambulance which took Oliver to Kent General Hospital in Dover. That night he was transferred to Milford Memorial Hospital. He was examined by a specialist in Wilmington on Thursday and admitted to St. Francis Hospital on Sunday to undergo surgery to damaged tendons and a chipped knee bone Monday.

Although he has been told he will be off active duty for three months, Olliver plans to do paperwork for the Felton police department at home. Meanwhile, Felton will be covered by a full-time officer, Ronald Fortin, and a part-time reserve officer, Roland Fortin.

Business Update - "The Loft"

Some imagination, a healthy dash of history and a market for jeans and other casual wear with a country and western flavor were just the ingredients which combined in the opening of a new business, "The Loft", this past spring in Harrington. Actually "The Loft" is the name of and extension of a new venture for a well-established business in the community - Welch's Seed Service.

Envisioned as a jeans store to supply the needs of Welch's farm customers as well as help fill the current demand for what might be described as the unofficial national uniform, "The Loft" has expanded into a family clothing store offering, according to Grace Welch, something for just about every age group except infants.

Owned by Grace and Carroll Welch and under the management of their daughter, Annette, "The Loft" opened in April in 1000 square feet of space on the second floor at Welch's Seed Service on Vernon Road.

Previously the area had been used for storage and had housed, among other things, two pieces of antique machinery - a cracked corn grader and a corn sheller - that have since taken up a residence at Messick's Museum, just across the way.

Grace Welch reports that in redoing the interior of the second floor to create "The Loft" she had wanted to preserve the old walls intact and uncovered. However, comfort and practicality made that impossible. Paneling had to be installed. But several aspects of the historic building do remain in evidence, adding authentic touches to "The Loft's" country decor.

Visible across the ceiling is a 36 foot sill marked by huge notches where the pulleys or jack shafts which once were a part of the mill's operation were suspended. Supporting the sill, which was carved from one tree, are several 6" x 6" posts which are also originals. The latter display curleues at the top which may have been the mark if the millwright family which produced them. At the ends of the room there still are visible several of the large wooden pegs used in the mill's construction. Over the stairway leading to "The Loft" hangs a large wooden pulley wheel which was also an original used in the operation.

The business dates back to 1872 when Ezekiel Fleming, whose mansion stands nearby, started a sawmill on the premises. Eventually a spoke factory, a wagon works and a gristmill were added. When the Welches acquired the business in 1956 it was known as Harrington Milling Company. They changed it to Welch's Seed Service which most recently boasts "The Loft".

In the few months since its opening, "Loft" manager Annette Welch has seen the business grow. Earlier this year she planned and executed a fashion show for the Harrington Senior Center. She pressed Grace Welch into

City's "Alley" Move Reverses Decision

The Harrington City Council Monday night decided to repair two alleys in town. And in the process it reversed itself on a decision made earlier this year on the question of an alley running behind the home of Council member Jack Wyatt.

After hearing a protest by Wyatt's neighbors about the work on the alley which runs behind homes on the east side of Dickerson Street, the city council had voted to allow him to finish the section behind his house at his own expense. Since then the section of the alley behind his home has remained torn up and blocked by a pile of dirt. Wyatt has threatened a lawsuit against three individual Council members over the matter.

But it was not the threat of a lawsuit, but the question of repairs to a completely different alley that brought the question back into focus. At Monday night's council meeting five city residents including Kaye Sapp and Howard Crouse showed up to ask the city to do something about an alley running behind their homes between Liberty and Clark Streets. This alley opens on Dixon Street.

According to Crouse, the alley has potholes 14 inches deep. He said "If I drive my car through, the bottom drags."

Dust in the alley is also a problem for several residents including Kaye Sapp who said she does 18 loads of wash each week. The alley and the dust, she reported, are only 15 feet from her clothesline. Another resident said it gets so bad that she has to get up early

Leaky Water Tower Irks Frederica Council

The Frederica Town Council Monday night voted to call its consulting engineers, Edward H. Richardson Associates, on the red carpet. The Council is unhappy over a leak in the freshly cleaned and sealed water tower. Council members feel that Richardson's inspector should have noticed the problem when the tower was drained preparatory to the recent sandblasting and sealing. They agreed to schedule a meeting with a representative from the firm before going ahead with the repair. The leak was not so serious that it required immediate attention.

Meanwhile, the Council voted to pay

Corrosion Control Corporation for the work on the tower. But they may not be so prompt in settling accounts with their consulting engineers. The leak, which is in a seam where one of the legs of the tower joins the tank, will cost $600 to seal. And it will mean draining the tower once more. The whole process would take five days during which the town would have to bypass the tower and pump water almost continually. Council members are not so surprised that the aging tower could spring a leak. But they do feel the problem should have been discovered when it was drained earlier. And they wonder whether seams where the other three legs join the tank might not need attention also.

To top it all off, holes have rusted through the roof of the tower, and that repair job will cost another $600.

About $1000 remains unspent in the HUD account established to upgrade the community's water system.

Mayor Ezkiel Dill reported to the Council Monday night that it had taken about 40 minutes to refill the empty tower. With a tank capacity of 35,000 gallons, Dill said that meant the pump was putting out about 850 gallons per

Police Commissioner: Improper Firing Led To Rehiring

Harrington Police Commissioner Harold Brode said Monday night that his decision to rehire Patrolman Paul Yannucci within a week after he was fired was based on "the way it (the firing) was done." He said had the city not reinstated the officer in question, it could have been in for a lawsuit.

The letter firing Yannucci was written by Police Chief Carl McElroy on the basis of instructions he received from the City Council in an executive session. But by law, the Council can take no formal action in an executive session. Personnel questions may be discussed in closed session. But there must be a vote in open Council meeting before any action is taken. There was no such public motion after the executive session last month in which the complaint or complaints against the officer in question were discussed.

Brode also said that the proper procedure would have been suspension of the officer with intent to dismiss. The patrolman, he said, was entitled to a hearing.

Brode's statement came at the regular meeting of the Harrington City Council and was in response to a question raised by Frank Soriano, a city resident who had previously brought a complaint against Patrolman Yannucci, Soriano questioned the reason for the rehiring, wondering whether or not it had been on a technicality and also wondering whether one man should have the power to make that decision. Soriano said he could understand the decision to reinstate the officer if it were based on a technicality in the

Heritage Sunday

Harrington's Third Annual Heritage Day Celebration, planned for Saturday, September 12, will continue on Sunday, September 13 with a colonial service at Asbury United Methodist Church in the morning, and a free musical program, also at Asbury, that evening.

An addition to the Heritage celebration here the evening musical program will feature songs of the past particularly "The Story of The Victorian Parlor Ballads" which reflect the century in which Harrington had its beginnings. Some old, old favorites of the period include "When You and I Were Young, Maggie", "Man on the Flying Trapeze", and "Grandfather's Clock".

Bringing the performance to life will be Lillian R. Balick, music historian, teacher, pianist, lecturer and former faculty member at the Temple University College of Music, who will narrate the Joseph George of Murderkill Hundred, Kent County, died intestate 25 April 1794. He owned a Plantation or tract of land adjoining lands of Joseph Barrett, heirs of Garrett Sipple, John Orrell, heirs of John Chambers containing about 197 acres. At the time of his death his heirs were his widow, Patience George and five children; Rachel George (who later married John Saxton and died without issue after she was 21 years old), Margaret George who married Soloman Wilson, John George, Mary George and Newell George.

When the estate was divided Patience George claimed as her dower the area containing the Mansion house. The house was on the west side of the road from Frederica to Dover and south of the road from Canterbury to the Landing.

John George, eldest son of Joseph George purchased the remainder of the land from the other heirs and then sold it to Ezekiel Hunn of Camden.

Governor's Register 1674-1851

1848 May 4: At the late April Term of the Court of General Sessions and etc. in and for Sussex County Lewis S. Jefferson was convicted of having passed counterfeit money, and upon such conviction it was adjudged by the Court that he should forfeit and pay to the State a fine of five hundred dollars, and should pay the costs of prosecution; that on Saturday the sixth day of May then next between the hours of 10 o'clock A.M. and five o'clock P.M. should be set on the pillory for one hour; that he should suffer imprisonment in solitary confinement for the term of three months commencing on the sixth day of May and ending on the sixth day of August, and should wear the letter F. at least six inches long and two inches wide of a scarlet color upon the outside of the outermost garment on the back between the shoulders so as at all times to be fully exposed to view, as a badge of his crime for a period of two years after his discharge from prison.

The Governor this day granted to the said Lewis S. Jefferson a full pardon of the said crime and sentence.

This pardon was earnestly sought by a very large number of the most respectable citizens of Sussex County. Indeed, the entire population of the County seemed to be moved with an interest in behalf of the prisoner. But the controlling consideration upon which the Governor acted was the fact, disclosed in a written statement signed by nine members of the Jury who tried the case, that up to the rendering of the verdict the Jury did not and could not agree upon the guilt of the accused, but that the verdict was the result of an agreement to recommend him to Executive Clemency. The Governor considered it to be the constitutional right of every accused person that he shall not be punished for crime until his guilt is established to the satisfaction of twelve Jurors of the County; and as the Jurors who tried Jefferson were not upon their own statement, all convinced of his guilt, as the verdict was not in fact founded upon any such conviction, but upon a compromise arising out of their inability to agree upon his guilt, the Governor felt bound to interfere upon this consideration alone.

every Sunday morning to wash her car so that she can go to church. "And," she said, "I'm getting too old to do that."

Crouse said the problems in the alley are longstanding and claimed the city has scraped it only once in the past 15 years. Residents of the area think something more than scraping is needed. They had referred the matter to their Councilman, Jack Wyatt. But Wyatt, miffed over the council's earlier decision, had reportedly told them nothing would be done to any alley in town until his was taken care of.

But the city has since repaired several alleys including two that run behind properties on Commerce Street. The reason given for selecting these was that they are ones where trash is picked up.

Crouse said it might be wise for city residents in his area to put their trash in the alley instead of on Liberty Street, especially if that might encourage the city to fix the alley.

Another factor in the final decision dat this weekend. It has the honor of being the first drive-in theatre to be built in Kent County. It was built in 1949 by W. Courtney Evans, builder of radio station WDOV, the first radio station to be built in Dover.

minute. With that knowledge, he said, the town might be able to monitor its water usage by installing a timer rather than a more costly meter.

The Council has also learned that it cannot isolate the tower by installing a valve in the riser. This would have to be done through a check valve between the pump and the well.

Town officials were pleased with the cooperation from the community during the recent work on the tower and felt the project, once initial problems were worked out, went smoothly.

In other business, the Frederica Town Council:

-Decided to send letters to various property owners whose grass has not seen a mower for some time. They will be given ten days to get their property trimmed and cleaned before the town does the job and sends them the bill.

-Gave Council member Dan Griffith permission to contact the town solicitor on a variety of matters including proper procedures for changing water rates and taxes. Griffith, who serves as liaison between the Council and the Planning and Zoning Commission, also gave a brief report on the work of the commission. He said the commission had received some large aerial maps from Kent County and was planning to make smaller scale copies for use as it seeks to compile the information needed before a comprehensive community plan can be developed.

-Discussed the fee for hooking into the town's water lines. The current tapping charge is $75. But the Council is looking into the way other communities handle the procedure before updating its fee.

-Made it known that it will now issue a form which can be displayed rather than simply writing a letter when it issues business licenses within the town. The Council is also looking to update this procedure. In some other communities the business license is an annual permit which serves as a means of monitoring business in town as well as providing a source of income. In Frederica, at present, the town's business license is a one time thing. The current charge is $5.

process by which it was carried out. The Police Commissioner stated that his decision was based on just such a technicality.

Nancy Soriano asked the Council whether there was a set policy or procedure for dealing with such matters.

Mayor Alfred Man said the correct way to handle such a situation is to have the employee's supervisor, in this case the Police Chief, handle the firing. But after that, the officer would have the right of appeal, first to the Police Commissioner and then to the City Council if he were not satisfied. The buck would presumably stop at the Council table unless there were reason for the matter to go to court.

In this case, according to Brode, because of the improper way in which the directive from the Council to the Police Chief was handed down, there could have been reason for Officer Yannucci to take it to court. Pointing out the fact that it was very possible for the appeal process to stop with the Police Commissioner (as it did in this case), Frank Soriano questioned the wisdom of having one man with that much power. Soriano also suggested the fact that Brode is a member of the Delaware State Police might be considered a conflict of interest with the authority he wields as city police commissioner.

Brode pointed out that he was simply following the procedure dictated by City Council for dealing with such situations. He said he did not want that kind of authority, but would exercise it so long as the council made it policy. As far as any question about his attitude in dealing with a "brother" police officer was concerned, Brode stated, "If somebody's wrong, they're going to get what they deserve; if they're not, they're going to get taken care of."

Council Member Ray Gagne asked to go on record as stating that the Police Commissioner's decision to reinstate Patrolman Yannucci was made unilaterally. The Yannucci situation is not the first in which the Harrington City Council has encountered confusion in trying to establish a proper chain of command. Much discussion Monday night centered on the frustration felt in getting action on particular directives and in providing proper supervision for city employees. The Mayor and more than one Council member stressed the need for job descriptions which would both define the qualifications for and the responsibilities of each city post and clearly answer the question, "Who's boss?"

The event is scheduled for October 10, 1981 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Mirror Lake, Lookerman Street near Legislative Hall in Dover. Proceeds benefit the visually impaired.

Artists are being registered at this time. To register please call or write Judy Hallett, 422 S. Governors Ave., Dover, DE 19901, phone 734-3330. 4X8 sections of space are being rented for $10.00 per section.

The committee which under the auspices of the Delaware State Arts Council is planning the first annual Governor's Awards for the Arts ceremony announces the commissioning of a sculpture to be presented to the recipients of the Governor's Award. Three identical free-standing metal sculptures, in the round or in relief, placed on bases will be purchased from a Delaware artist.

Size of the work is to be a minimum of five inches and a maximum of fifteen inches. All pieces must be delivered by November 16, 1981. The range of the commission is $3000 to $4500, depending upon final size and materials used. Professional artists who are residents of Delaware are asked to submit maquettes and/or sketches of the work they propose to create and a written description, including materials and process to be used, production cost estimates, and other pertinent information about the proposed piece. Proposals must be delivered to the Delaware State Arts Council office by September 23, 1981.

WINTERTHUR, De.--The Colonial Revival in America is the theme for the twenty-fourth Wintertthur Conference, to be held at the Wintertthur Museum on November 13 and 14, 1981. The conference represents the first major examination of a topic crucial to understanding museums, historic sites, and villages.

Nearly two dozen speakers will discuss and interpret the impact of changing visions of the American colonial past on such examples of American culture as the home, home furnishings, and antiques collecting. Topics will include landscape, architecture, furnishings, paintings, historical novels, and even dance.

Plans are now under way for the Somerset County Art Association's Annual Arts and Crafts Festival held in conjunction with the 34th Annual National Hard Crab Derby and Fair, Labor Day Weekend, Sept. 4, 5, and 6, 1981.

Last year's festival was such a success it will again be held indoors where weather will not be a factor. The location of the festival is the Todd Bldg., Main St., Crisfield which is located a little more than a block from the Derby grounds, easily accessible to foot traffic.

The festival is open to all artists and craftsmen, amateur and professional, 18 years old and up. It is a non-juried show--no judging, awards, commissions, or sales charge. Last year's show attracted over 5,000 visitors.

The hours for the festival will be: Friday, Sept. 4, 1:00-6:00 p.m.; Sat. and Sun., Sept. 5 and 6, 10:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. An entry blank will be furnished by request. For further information contact Bee Muir, 651-1929 or write to Bee Muir, Rt. 3 Box 333, Princess Anne, Md. 21853.

Julian Borris is the founder co-producer/director of the Candlelight Theatre, Arden, Delaware. Harley Hastings is the current Director of the Newark Symphony Orchestra.

"Sunrise, Sunset," "Matchmaker" and "If I Were A Rich Man" are a few of the many songs in the production. Yes! "Fiddler" is coming back to Dover, Delaware again!

Gabfest

I look at the calendar and realize, with a start, that August is with us once again. The Indians called it the month of the Full Sturgeon Moon. In looking over some poems I wrote about Delaware years ago I had said that "August moonlight tends to weave a spell". Indeed it does, but moonlight in any month is beautiful and unreal.

August is the time to sit and dream in the yard chairs, a time to wonder at the haze across the meadows, a time to reflect on the gift of this glorious time, a time to repeat softly as you muse, "And all over upland and lowland, the charm of the goldenrod, some of us call it autumn, but others call it God". This is a time to think deeply about the cold days to come. I believe the mockingbird is doing this. He has almost stopped his gymnastics on the roof top, and he does not sing so much. Occasionally there is a burst of song or a few liquid notes as if to tell me he has not forgotten how. Now I do not hear the robins at all. No doubt they, too, think soberly of the winter and have perhaps gone to the woodland to select a warm spot to snuggle down for the winter. Sometimes there are a few who come in to the feeder, but mostly we do not see flocks of them until late February or early March.

As far as housework goes, I've always thought that March and August are the two worst months to get through. The house just seems to go to seed. It is too early in March to do up the summer curtains and in August it is too early to get out the winter ones. But these in between months give us other things to compensate. In March the red-winged blackbirds will be back and their soft "oak-ka-lee" is everywhere. The daffodils are up then and the killdeer's haunting cry is heard over the fields as she seeks a spot to pull together her crude little nest.

Now August is giving us her best. The cool nights, good for sleeping, the wet, dewy mornings, with a hint of autumn in the air, the unusual brilliance of the late blooming flowers, big, red tomatoes, green lima beans, and piles of yellow sweet corn grace the table. Yes, August gives us much. Never mind the housework, as Scarlett O'Hara would say, "We'll worry about that tomorrow."

While I am writing this, the kitchen is filled with the fragrance of two cherry pies baking in the oven. I no longer dread to do fruit pies, because my dear friend, Faye, (Grandma Bollinger) gave me last year for Christmas, two of those aluminum pie sheets to catch all the drips. Then you just wash them in the sink, and your oven remains clean. Bless the person who invented these. If you don't have them, do get some.

Due to our illness we did not get our sunflowers planted this year, so we will have to buy the seeds at the store. We usually leave one or two stalks standing in the garden, and one winter morning we watched four cardinals perched on one flower, busily eating their breakfast.

Smile - Doubtless the world is quite right in a million ways; but you have to be kicked about a little to convince you of the fact (crabbed age and youth).

George Holden has taken on the role of flag tender at Harrington Center, and a good job he does too. George arrives early and raises the flag, comes before the Center closes to lower it. If it rains he gets to the Center early.

Anne's Kitchen

This recipe idea isn't a family tradition. It's as new as cake mixes and instant pudding but good none the less. It turns a cake mix into a gourmet delight. Use a bundt pan for best results, but a tube pan will work well, too. If you feel the need you may top with a chocolate glaze, but I prefer to serve plain, aged about one day.

"PISTACHIO CAKE"

1 package yellow cake mix (approx. 18 1/2 oz.)
4 eggs
1 cup orange juice
1/2 cup cooking oil
1 teaspoon almond or pistachio extract
1 package instant pistachio pudding Mix (3 1/2 oz.)
6 oz. semi sweet chocolate, melted

1. In a large bowl, combine cake mix, eggs, orange juice, oil, and pudding mix. Blend at low speed for 1 minute.

2. Add extract and beat at high speed, 3 minutes.
3. Pour 2/3 of the batter into well-greased and floured 12 cup bundt pan.
4. Add melted chocolate to remaining 1/3 of the batter mix at medium speed till well blended.
5. Pour over batter in pan and marbleize by cutting through batter with a knife.
6. Bake at 350 degrees for about 1 hour. Test at 55 minutes and watch carefully. Do not overbake lest cake will dry out.
7. Cool in pan 10-15 minutes. Allow cake to finish cooling on wire rack. When completely cool, store in covered cake dish or tightly wrap and allow to age one day. If your family has a birthday person this week, as does mine, you couldn't ask for a nicer way to say Happy Birthday. Many happy returns of the day, Bobbie.
ENJOY!

Unidentified witnesses at the scene said Ms. Yours car may have slowed, possibly because of the gathering of people at the site. It was at this point that the Melvin car hit the other vehicle, driving it 150 feet north on U.S. 13. Ms. Melvin's car traveled about 35 feet in the same direction.

New Wave Names Most Valuable Swimmers

Coaches Dennis Berry, Pat Dyal and Cathy Monroe announced this week the selection of ten young swimmers, members of the "New Wave", the Lake Forest Community Swim Team, as most valuable swimmers for the summer season in competition in the Delmarva Swim Association.

Berry said the selection was made on the basis of the total number of points contributed by each swimmer to the team effort in competition: Those chosen are as follows:

- Boys - Jason Monroe
- 10 & Under
- Girls - Kelly Rawding
- Boys - Greg Reed
- 12 & Under
- Girls - Kristin Reid
- Boys - Robbie Burgholzer
- 14 & Under

- Each will receive a swim pin which can be picked up at the pool.

"New Wave" Finishes 4 - 4 Season

"We're very pleased. We never thought it would end this way," said head coach Dennis Berry after the Lake Forest Community Swim Team ("New Wave") capped its first season with a smashing victory over Maple Dale Country Club last Tuesday, August 4. The score was 355-168.

Lake Forest's 187 point advantage was compiled against a team just about as new and inexperienced as the local swim club. As a matter of fact, the Maple Dale group had not yet joined the Delmarva Swim Association. But the triumph nevertheless gave "New Wave" a 4 - 4 season with dual meet competition. This was a first year accomplishment which made coaches, parents and swimmers alike very, very proud.

Looking back over the season, Berry said, "The kids worked hard. We went from meet to meet, having fun and trying to improve each individual." In the end, it counted up - for the individuals and for their team. "New Wave" is nowhere near the experienced Seaford Swim Club, leaders in the Delmarva Swim Association. But neither are its enthusiastic young swimmers to be scorned.

In competition against Maple Dale last week "New Wave" accumulated a string of first place ribbons in both individual and relay events. These were earned by the following swimmers.

28 Swimmers to Championships

The Lake Forest Community Swim Team sent 28 contestants (a little over half of its number) to championship competition held at Ocean Pines, Berlin, Md. over the weekend. The meet was postponed until Sunday because of Saturday's rain.

The Lake Forest Swim Team finished in 10th place out of 14 teams entered and 12 in actual competition. The Seaford Swim Club took first place with 555 points. Lake Forest competitors earned 79.

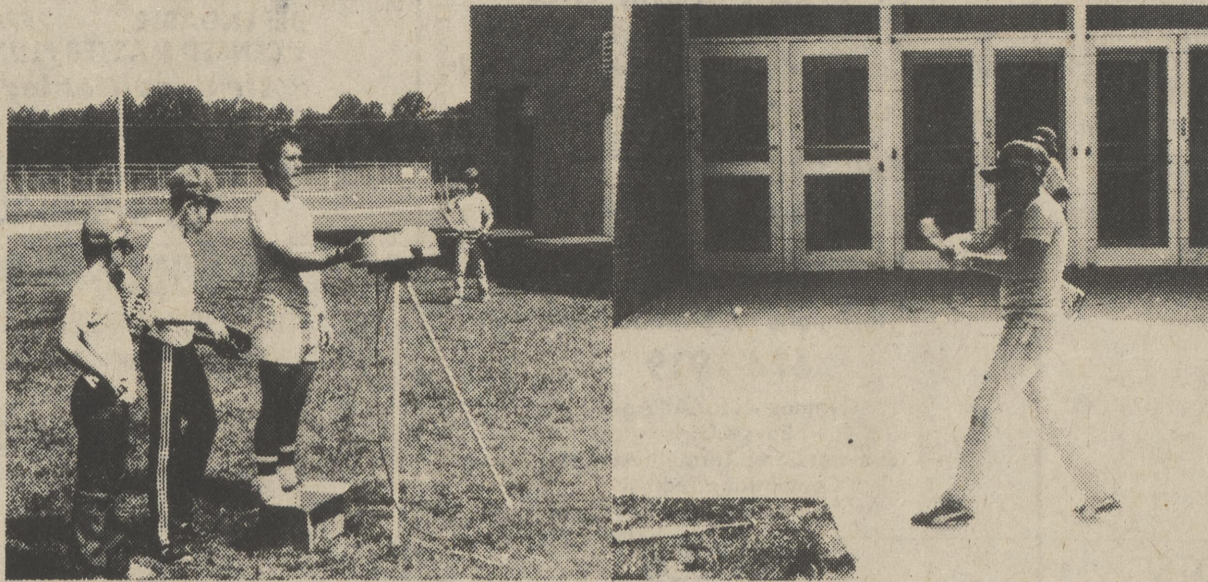

Of the 28 local swimmers who entered the championships, 14 individuals brought home a total of 24 ribbons. These went to the following swimmers or relay teams.

Athletic Physicals For LF

Athletic Physicals for Lake Forest School District grades 7 thru 12 will be given on Thursday, August 20, beginning at 8:00 A.M., at Lake Forest High School for all students planning to participate in sports at W.T. Chipman or Lake Forest High School. Students must have the Physical/Parent Permission Form parts A thru E completed and signed prior to the examination. This form can be picked up at the W.T. Chipman or Lake Forest High School offices. Cost for the physical is $3.00.

A coach feeds the machine which spits out balls to help young batters sharpen their skills as area kids participate in the baseball camp held at Lake Forest High School last week.

Kent County P & R Baseball At LF

"It looks as though I'm training kids to come back and haunt me during my regular baseball season," said Bill Falasco last week. But he didn't look too disgruntled by the idea. In fact, he gave every appearance of enjoying what he was doing.

What he, and three other coaches were doing last week, was conducting a baseball camp for Kent County Parks and Recreation at Lake Forest High School. The camp, which covers every phase of the game as it is played at the Little League level, is designed for youngsters ages 9 through 12. This is the third year in operation in the county, but the very first at Lake Forest. Previously, it has been held at the Del Tech Terry campus.

The new location, according to Falasco, makes the camp more accessible to youngsters from lower Kent County. And not the least of its attractions is the swimming pool of which this year's participants have taken advantage every day.

What may have disturbed Falasco just a little is the fact that out of the approximately 50 kids taking part, only about 25 percent are from the Lake Forest District, and no one is from Milford. So it looks like a number of those competitors coming back to haunt him in future years will be from Dover, CR and Smyrna. Falasco, a teacher at Lake Forest High School, coaches the Spartan baseball team each spring. He would like to see future team members taking advantage of the opportunity to learn skills they can use now and later. But most of all, he and the other three coaches - Tom Leonard, John Newman and Robert Paddy - would like to see more kids from Kent County in the program.

Each day's session at the baseball camp began with about two hours of concentration on individual offensive and defensive skills with Bill Falasco concentrating on catching and hitting; Tom Leonard, on outfield; John Newman, on infield, and Robert Paddy, on pitching.

The morning's session was capped off by an hour's swim in the Lake Forest community pool before lunch break.

After lunch there were baseball films followed by discussion, and then it was, "Play Ball" until 3:30 when the coaches gathered their young charges together for final comments at the day's end.

With the number of participants enrolled, there were enough players to make up four teams. There was also adequate staff to give the twelve year olds some advanced help. These are the youngsters who are likely to be moving from Little League to Senior League next year.

The cost of the camp, which went from around 8:30 to 4 p.m. for five days, was $35. Bus transportation, with pick-ups along the way, was available from Harrington, Milford and Smyrna for an additional $7. Although the camp has so far been held for just one week, Bill Falasco said if there were enough interest it might be possible to hold it for two in the future. It is funded through Kent County Levy Court and is a project of the county department Parks and Recreation.

Hands go up as Bill Falasco questions baseball camp participants on baseball pointers learned at last week's camp sponsored by Kent County Parks and Recreation.

USTA - Fan Hanover Tops For July

COLUMBUS, Ohio--The U.S. Trotting Assn. has selected Fan Hanover as the top standardbred performer for July. The 3-year-old pacer captured four of five races, and earned $164,117 last month. The daughter of Albatross won three stakes--the Lady Maud, the Fleur Delys, and the Battle of Saratoga.

Fan Hanover, a $16,000 yearling purchase in 1979, has now won 25 of 30 races during her career for owner Dr. J. Glen Brown of Brampton, Ont. The winner of $466,349 is trained by Glen Garnsey, who was behind the filly when she scored her fastest win ever at The Meadowlands on July 16. Fan Hanover paced in 1:55 2/5 in taking an elimination of the Mistletoe Shalee Pace.

Brothers Compete In Charity

Under rainy skies, an estimated 260 runners competed in the Annual All Star 10K Race held in Newark this past Saturday. The race, which preceded the Blue-Gold Football game, benefits the Retarded Children of Delaware.

Brad Morris of Harrington finished in thirty-first position and a new personal record by 24 seconds with a time of 37:33. This bettered last year's performance by almost 9 minutes.

Nick Morris placed 121st, with a comeback time of 47:56. Just last week he placed 32nd in a field of 120 runners in the Ocean Pines Trot.

All runners ran the race so that someday the special children in this state will win theirs.

Deer Hunting Rules Set

Deer hunting during the archery, muzzleloader and shotgun hunting seasons will again be allowed by special permit on the Prime Hook National Wildlife Refuge this year, it was announced by Refuge Manager Don R. Perkuhn.

Hunters planning to hunt on the refuge must pass a weapons qualification test for the weapon or weapons they want to use prior to obtaining a free permit to hunt on the refuge. The test is valid for a period of three years, however, hunters must apply for a permit each year. Persons who qualified in 1978 must requalify this year to be eligible to hunt.

Qualifications testing will be conducted on Saturday, August 29, 1981, at the Broadkill Sportsmen Club near Milton, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Testing for archery, muzzleloaders and shotguns will be conducted with the cooperation of members of the Broadkill Sportsmens Club and Mid-Del Archers Club. Qualification tests are also valid for hunting at the Bombay Hook Wildlife Refuge near Smyrna; however, separate permits are required at Bombay Hook.

Archery testing will also be conducted at Bombay Hook on August 29 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Shotgun and muzzleloader hunters may also qualify for hunting at either refuge on September 12 and October 24 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Dover Air Force Base firing range.

For hunting permits or additional information call: Bombay Hook National Wildlife Refuge (302) 653-9345 or Prime Hook National Wildlife Refuge (302) 684-8419.
