

THE FACES OF HERITAGE DAY - Some were made up as the Harrington Janeces offered everyone the chance to "Be a Clown"....

...Others were serious as they took the time to demonstrate crafts such as corn husk weaving.....

.....And still others showed delight as a tune on an old time instrument, the dulcimer strikes a responsive chord with a youngster.

Heritage Day Draws A Crowd

Harrington's third annual Heritage Day was deemed a success by Greater Harrington Historical Society President, Ken McKnatt who said he was pleased with the results. No actual crowd count was made, but he estimated the festivities attracted about as many visitors as last year. This was despite competition from the climax of the Lewes 350th anniversary celebration and the Nanticoke Indian Pow Wow as well as other events throughout the state the same day. Profits realized by the Historical Society and other local organizations have yet to be totaled. Keynote speaker for this year's Heritage Day was Grace Welch whose address evoked a number of memories. For the benefit of those who have missed it, a copy of her speech "Do You Remember...." follows this article. Look for Heritage pictures on page 7.

Harrington City Budget - Anyone Concerned?

If any Harrington residents are concerned about how the city will spend the approximate $81,133 it expects to receive for the 1981-82 fiscal year, it was not evident at Monday night's council meeting. The first hour of the session had been designated as a public hearing on the use of the revenue sharing funds. But the only citizen to show was a Mrs. West who came with questions about the city's trash collection. With the end of the fiscal year approaching, the City Council has yet to approve a new budget. At least one more workshop session is planned before the next regular Council meeting which will be on Monday, October 12. That date has also been designated as a public hearing on the entire budget.

One budget question aroused the wrath of a Council member as it was mentioned that the Harrington Public Library would be about $300 over its $4500 budget before the end of the fiscal year. The Council voted to authorize City Manager Norma Short to spend the extra money, but not before some angry words from Ray Gagne who felt the library was being singled out for undue attention. Gagne pointed out the fact that the police department and city office are also over budget, by several thousand dollars and wondered why the Council should pick on the library.

The explanation that the library's $4500 had been made as a special limited appropriation did not satisfy him, and he cast the lone dissenting vote on the motion.

Lease Question

The Harrington City Council came prepared Monday night to sign another routine two-year lease with the fire company for use of the building which serves as City Hall. But a small surprise was in store for them. The two-year contract was dated to run from September until December 31, 1981, and it turned out that the words "two-year" and not the date were in error. When fire company secretary, Ray Blanchette, who turned up for the signing procedure, said he was sure the company intended to have the lease termination date December 31 of this year, the Council felt it might be getting a subtle message.

Blanchette said he was sure the fire company would give the Council adequate notice if it ever asked the city to move its headquarters.

But Council members decided it would be better to sit down with representatives of the fire company before signing anything. If the fire company plans any future expansion at its present location

WB Teachers Sign Contract

BRIDGEVILLE-It was announced at Monday night's regular meeting of the Woodbridge School Board that the teachers in the Woodbridge School District had accepted a two year contract with the District, which meant salary increases ranging from 12% to 47%, in some cases, for the teachers. The bargaining over contract covered a period of 6 months. According to Mrs. Pat Piassik, President of Woodbridge Education Assoc. (WEA) the teachers are happy with the terms and we got what we bargained for. The teachers got the money package of $202,000 overall, but each teacher will lose approximately $100 in order to hire one teacher back who was R.I.F.(ed) (Reduction In Force).

The teachers met with the administrators headed by David Winiski starting last school year meeting together during school hours. "I think this played a big part in coming to terms so easily," said Mrs. Piassik. Other points in the contract were a $5,000 life insurance policy, extra duty pay, which refers to coaching duties, three agriculture teachers received compensation for certain duties, personal days are unclarified and teacher evaluations are now the subject of complaint procedures, which comes under board policy as opposed to being written into the contract. On the other hand, teachers did not receive course reimbursement, "but everyone is happy...and the second year of the contract will continue with another 12% increase in salaries," said Mrs. Piassik.

The teachers were represented by chief negotiator Brian Bushwaller from Delaware State Education Association (DSEA), Walt Gilefski, Nora Waller, Pat Piassik, Kathy Boyd and Karen Hutchison.

Woodbridge Basics School Dedicated

After more than a year of controversy and hard work, the Woodbridge School District last Friday dedicated its new "Basics School" as Principal Nancy Cullen and new P.T.A. President Joyce Wilkinson presided over ribbon cutting ceremonies attended by the school's entire K-6 enrollment of 321 pupils as well as a host of parents and school officials.

In a brief address, Mrs. Cullen said the Woodbridge Basics School is based on a number of beliefs in children, their teachers and their parents. The school expects children to be good and to earn. It stresses a strict disciplined atmosphere and high academic expectations with promotions from grade to grade based on mastering minimum skills.

Mrs. Cullen said both parents and students have rights as well as responsibilities. Parents have the right to know what is going on at the school and with their children. For this reason, the program also emphasizes regular communications between home and school. All homework must be signed, homework folders go home every Monday and there is to be a special report to parents at three-week intervals. This is in addition to the regular report card.

But parents also are expected to assume a great deal of responsibility in the operation of the school, serving on committees to design policies and

The new playground at Woodbridge Basics School is already a hit with a future student. The school was dedicated in ceremonies Friday afternoon.

Vineyard Years - Part II

On the everyday level, Paul Vineyard was a consistently successful driver. On October 7, 1946, at Lexington, Kentucky, he drove Fred Greenly's pacer, Direct Express who was unbeaten both as a 3 and 4-year-old, to his record 1:59 1/4. The same day he took Morgan Hanover to a 2:00 record, putting both 3-year-old pacers on the two minute list. He trained "Mighty Tide" for the Confort brothers, Mike & John, after the horse was purchased by Black Shoe Stables for $16,600 when the high bidder ($17,500) failed to show. Mighty Tide won 11 of 19 races in 1961 and took the American Classic (Purse - $50,000) in 1962.

In addition to Direct Express and Mighty Tide, whose record was 1:57 and 1:55, Vineyard piloted a list of 2-minute pacers that included Bengazi. Hanover who left a record 1:57 3/5 and who won the $49,000 Roosevelt Futurity as a 2-year-old, and Hayes Hanover (1:59 3/5). The list of horses he trained and drove numbers over 1,000.

Bengazi Hanover, one of his best horses in later years, was the largest winning horse and Season's Champion both as a two- and as a three-year old. At four, he was Free-For-All Pacer, and as a five-year-old he was retired in August, 1965, to stand at stud at Lana Lobelle Farms in Hanover, Pa.

Vineyard was not with Fred Greenly's Direct Express when the horse dropped dead at Del Mar, Calif. But the death of the famous 4-year-old probably counts as one of the tragic events of the racing years. Not all times were happy, and Mrs. Vineyard says it often seemed that the things "on which you set your heart" turned out the wrong way. Vineyard once trained a horse he thought a likely prospect for the Hambletonian, the great-granddaddy and the most prestigious of all harness races, but came Hambletonian Day, the horse had contracted "shipping fever" and stood listless in its stall. The owner wanted to enter the race anyway, but Vineyard, fearing the racer would drop dead, scratched it. The horse recovered and went on to a fine racing career, but never in the Hambletonian. Vineyard himself raced in the Hambletonian and finished in the money. But he never won the race.

Whether times were good or bad, Elsie Vineyard was expected to be at the race with her husband. Once she remembers rebelling at the thought of another cold night in the grandstand. To her insistence that she wanted to stay home, Vineyard's repeated reply

Hit & Run Driver Sought

Delaware State Police at Troop 3 and an area family are looking for a hit and run driver following an incident on County Road 277 last Wednesday.

Victim of the accident, sixteen year old Theresa Strachar, was frightened but not injured. However, the car she was driving home after an evening of babysitting for the Jimmy Rouse family, was damaged.

Miss Strachar was traveling south on Route 277 near Masten's Corner when a pickup truck going in the opposite direction crossed the center line, sideswiping her car. The front left of Miss Strachar's car fender was damaged and the pickup caught the edge of the door on the driver's side, bending it back for several inches.

The offending driver never stopped. Miss Strachar gave chase but was unable to catch up. However, Mr. Rouse met the same driver a few moments later and was able to give the following description.

The hit and run vehicle was a 1966-69 white or white and green Ford pickup with left front damage and bearing a Delaware license plate.

The driver was estimated to be about 40 years old and described as unshaven wearing a cap and obviously inebriated.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of the truck is asked to call Delaware State Police, Troop 3 at 736-4863 or to call the Strachar residence at 284-4259 after 5:00. A reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person responsible.

Two of Three Sentenced to 37 Years

Two of three sentenced in bank hold up

Two of three men who robbed the First National Bank's Canterbury branch last December were sentenced Friday to 37 years in prison by Superior Court Judge George R. Wright.

The two were Charles Dale Craig of Lebanon and Ronald W. Johnson of near Camden.

The third man involved in the armed robbery is still missing as is most of the $14,000 taken.

The three entered the bank's Canterbury office a little after 3 p.m. on December 3, 1980 and shortly thereafter sped off with the money in an orange Dodge Colt that was found near Petersburg later. The car turned out to have been stolen from an employee at a Dover tavern.

The first arrest in the case came in January 1981 when Craig, arrested on an unrelated criminal mischief charge tried to use six of the stolen $20 bills to post bond.

A second arrest came in April when Johnson was picked up near Goldsboro.

The two will serve consecutive sentences of 25 years for first-degree robbery, five years for auto theft, five years for carrying a deadly weapon

Days of Our Years

-Thirty Years Ago- September 14, 1951

The teacher shortage is becoming more acute each year, over the nation as a whole, but particularly in Delaware where teacher's salaries are not high as they are in other states of comparable wealth.

.....That was the theme of Archie Feagan's talk before the Harrington Rotary Club Tuesday evening. "Here is an illustration," said Mr. Feagan: A teacher of scant experience and training is engaged at a salary of $2400 per year. Before the beginning of the year the teacher is offered a larger salary in some other field of endeavor and resigns. We scurry about trying to find another teacher of comparable training and experience, but you find none. We may find teachers of more training and experience who will not teach for $2400, but we can't pay them a cent more than that amount because our budget allows only that amount.

Symbol Chance paced the Kent & Sussex Raceway Track Tuesday night in 2:05.4 to lower his own record and establish the best time of the meet to date....the sidewheeler has certainly found the local track to her liking as she has won all three of her starts.

(From Frederica) John E. McBride was accompanied by Dick Gordon, of town, and George Maris of Dover, when they motored to Philadelphia Saturday to see the baseball game between Boston and the Athletics.

In August 1936, a school bus route contract was awarded to the husband of a Frederica woman, now a widow. She has successfully carried on under its terms during the intervening years.... Six months after procuring the contract, Feb. 20, 1937, (Ira) Langrell died, and his widow Mrs. Lennora Lengrell assumed the responsibility.

-Twenty Years Ago- September 15, 1961

Henry J. Clukey, 74, husband of Bessie Galentine Clukey, died in Monticello Hospital, Monticello, N.Y. Tuesday after a lingering illness. Mr. Clukey was a famous harness horse driver. He was the owner of the Clukey Stables where he trained and raced harness horses.

The Fall and Winter Fashion Show presented by Emanuel's of Dover and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Harrington included the following local models: Linda Humes, Kenna Jo McKnatt, Claudia Neuman, Sylvia J. Outten, Carol Ann Moore, Sue Perry, and Janie Phillips.

There are no mosquitoes in Southern California, at least in the portion in which John S. Harrington, eastwile local resident resides.

-Ten Years Ago- September 16, 1971

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quillen on Simmons Street was damaged by a fire in which a fireman was injured Tuesday morning. The fire was discovered by a passerby, Mrs. Buck Thompson, who warned Quillen when she saw smoke pouring from a ventilator at the east end of the house...The injured fireman was Robert Taylor who was straddling a ridge pole on the roof where it gave way.

When a state trooper stopped a man on Delaware 14 in Harrington Saturday afternoon for suspicion of driving under the influence of alcohol, the man (John Henry May of Goldsboro) resisted, became abusive and bit the trooper (Clifford G. Lee of Laurel).

Do You Remember?

hope to inspire you to become speakers. I'm going to talk to you today about memories. Someone has said that memories are like pictures hung in a gallery neatly labeled so we can recall the pleasant ones at will.

Many of you today have memories or a knowledge of some facet of Harrington's history which only you can know or tell. You may think you haven't lived long enough to make history. Do you know that what we do here today will be history tomorrow? We can never undo it or change it. Our grandchildren will remember today as part of the "good old days". But unless it is all recorded in some way it will surely have parts of it lost forever except in someone's memory.

Let me give you some examples. How many of you remember the charcoal industry here? Mr. Jehu Camper was a boy of 6 years old when he used to lie in bed at night and gaze in a northeast direction towards his father's farm where the coal kilns were burning. He told me all he could recall, then he found a man in Milford, DE who worked in these kilns in Sussex County. We went to see him and he told us all about the construction of the kilns and even allowed us to reproduce a picture of the process.

This was a money crop in the early 1900's, just like corn and soybeans are today. Forests were plentiful, especially pines. When the charcoal was finished, it was hauled to the train depot on ox carts and then shoveled into boxcars. Shipped to the city, it was used for many things. The most popular use was for jewelry work as it burned with a white hot flame and no residue or smoke.

How many of you remember the sorghum mills? Many farmers grew sorghum, but only a few processed it. It was squeezed through a press and the resulting juice cooked until a sweet tasting syrup remained. Too little cooking made it bitter, and over-cooking made a burned taste. Just as in the flour mills, the miller worked on the toll system, maybe 3 gallons for the customer and one for the miller. This was used by many for sweetening coffee or on pancakes. Mr. Russell Ranum at 5 Points makes this.

In the early 1900's almost every farm had its own brick kiln, peach and apple orchard, raised their own vegetables, meat, and doctored their own animals and family. If a doctor or hospital was needed, it was a rare occasion. Hospitals were located in Philadelphia and Baltimore and often meant that both patient and local doctor went by train to them.)

Doll House to be Displayed

A doll house replica of Woodburn, the Governor's House, will be on display at the Medieval Fair in Dover at the Governor's Mansion on Saturday, September 26th from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

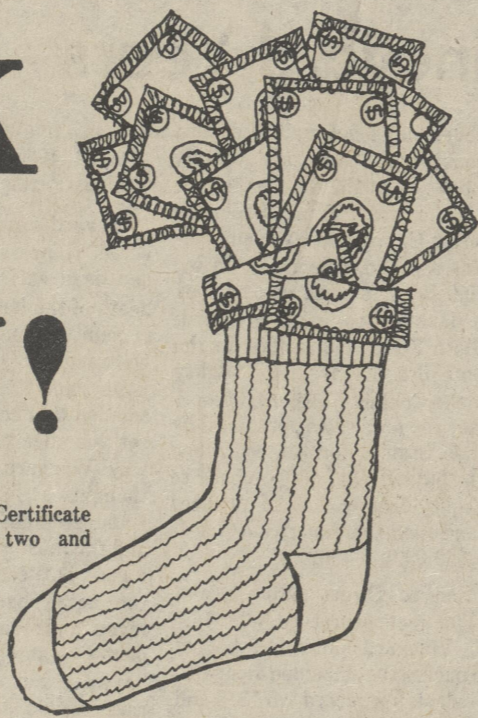

The miniature mansion was commissioned by the Delaware Association of Lawyer's Wives and was built by William Byerly. The house is 30 inches deep, 41 inches tall, and 36 inches wide. The windows, doors and stairway inside are of hand-carved pine. The brick-like exterior was created by hand-carving mahogany, then painting it. Hinges on the front, back and roof allow access to the inside.

The Association plans to sell $1 chances on the house, the proceeds of which will be used for a scholarship loan program for law students from Delaware.

Basics School

procedures and a volunteer to help in regular activities.

A number of Woodbridge parents joined teachers over the summer in both planning sessions as committees gave shape to the new school program and physical labor as the building and grounds were given a new look. Rooms in the building which formerly housed the North Bridgeville Elementary school have been given a facelift in bright colors of paint and in the hallways, hanging plants are suspended from skylights.

On the outside parents labored to refurbish the playground adding a variety of new homemade equipment including hobby horses, balance beams, a maypole, tire tree, climbing tower and tables.

The value of the over 463 hours of labor they have put plus materials donated by individuals and businesses amounts to over $6,077 thus far. It is hoped that this total can be matched with an equal amount of federal dollars to further improve the playground.

Those cited at Friday's dedication ceremony included 21 donors for the playground, ten for the building and some 40 volunteer workers.

The opening of the school has meant a reorganization of the entire district. All Woodbridge elementary children who are not enrolled in the Basics School now attend Bridgeville Elementary, the building which last year housed the junior high school and the Greenwood elementary school. Junior high students are located in the same building as the high school. Last year elementary students occupied those classrooms.

The reorganization has required extensive busing arrangements which remained the one apparent hitch in the program as students adjust to the shuttle system.

Their good deed for Heritage Day was offering a cool drink as contestants in the 10K run paced out the long 6.2 miles. They are Junior girl scouts in Troop 686 of Harrington.

Harrington City Council

-A Reminder to Conrail-

Council member, Ray Gagne, asked the city to send a letter to Conrail trainmaster, Joe Morris, questioning what he described as a substantial increase in the number of engines left idling for long periods in the center of town. Gagne said there are times when as many as five engines left idling for as long as an hour to an hour and a half at night. The fumes and the noise are annoying. Phone calls to Gary Harrington, the Council's liaison with the railroad, brought results. But the problem recurs. Gagne said "I don't want to get hard nosed with the railroad. We live together in the town-(but) I want them to give me the same consideration as they expect from me."

The Council also discussed sending a letter to State Senator Nancy Cook and/or Representative Ronnie Darling requesting the state to appropriate funds to repair the railroad crossing on Clark Street. It was also suggested that the state be asked to reroute heavy truck traffic through town until the repairs are made.

-Planning & Zoning-

The Council set aside a letter from Dr. Zosimo Buendia of Harrington pertaining to a possible zoning change because Dr. Buendia did not come to the meeting to clarify his intentions.

But Council members agreed to sit down with Mark B. Carp of the Baltimore firm of Mark B. Carp & Company to discuss the latter's plans for the Dudley Willis Peck Avenue property on which Carp took an option last year. Rezoning of the land to accommodate an apartment complex for the elderly reverted to the previous industrial classification when the year was up in June and no work begun. Carp has apparently had problems getting the HUD funds for the project. Rezoning of the land plunged the Council in a year-long controversy before a referendum and the decision to rezone last June.

Flu Vaccine Available To Srs.

Influenza vaccine for senior citizens and persons with chronic diseases is now available from public health clinics.

The vaccine is recommended for everyone over age 60, as well as for persons under 60 who have: diabetes; chronic heart, lung or kidney diseases; chronic severe anemia, or other conditions which weaken the immune system.

This year's influenza vaccine will protect against three flu viruses expected to be prevalent this year--A/Brazil-78, A/Bangkok/79 and B/Singapore/79.

Open Letter To Harrington

To the Town of Harrington, I would like to take this time to give special thanks to the people who made the Harrington Heritage Day 10K Run a success.

1. To the police department: I have never seen a better patrol of a race. The job you did controlling traffic, insuring safety, and leading the runners was excellent! Enough cannot be said for a job well done!

2. To the ambulance crews: Another excellent job! The services you rendered were appreciated by all runners also. Thanks for the medical aid.

3. To Girl Scout Jr. Troop 686: Thanks for supplying the much needed water at the watering stations. It's nice to see young people getting involved and eagerly wanting to help in a public activity.

4. To Harrington Merchants: Thanks for supporting the run by providing random prizes. It was a nice way to end the race festivities.

5. To all race official volunteers: Another job well done. Thanks for keeping the race organized and for smoothing over some of the rough spots.

With great appreciation,
Brad Morris

Get Together and Talk With Our Neighbors

Senior Center

By Dorothy Graham 398-3780

"Smile." Monday was Labor Day of 1981. The Center was closed and most everyone celebrated in their own particular way, some with cook-outs, cook-ins, visits, going to the beach or just relaxing at home.

"It's a Small World After All." The Jolly Timers gave a final rehearsal before Heritage Day, September 12, 1981. Julia Astfal's solo, "Battle Hymn of The Aged". Also at practice was Ina Hughes, Andy Anderson, Laurence Kates, Ella Golt, Pearl Hickman, Lili McBride, Essie Redden, Tony Perrone, Florence Minner, Mildred Vincent, Sylvia & Cecil Meredith, Bertha Dean, Marion Brown, Mammie Adams, Elsie Neal, Ola Tilden and Jo Burke.

Elizabeth Anthony called B-1, etc., until all the cards were filled, people laughing and scores counted Tuesday afternoon. Treat was ice cream for all winners and losers alike.

Chartered bus pulled away from the Center Wednesday morning bound for St. Michaels. The boat tour was enjoyed; the town strolls were interesting and food was um-um-delicious!

Mammie, Anna Mae, Lili, Pearl, Catherine and Thelma are turning books for Mr. & Mrs. Santa. Yes, up to that again. While they do books, the plaited rug sits quietly in the ladies' restroom.

Velma, Florence, Hazel, and Jo worked on ceramics Thursday. Lillian, Mildred, Helen, Francis and Mary worked on those dolls, beautiful dolls. Bowling at Milford Lanes. David McCracken was high scorer Thursday afternoon.

It was a very pleasant sight watching Miles Draper and Anna Mae Short pot flowers for sale. They were mostly already well-rooted; brought in by Gladys, Florence and Irene.

Want to know about all the pets owned by the folks at the Center; know there must be many. I know of a few - there is Melissa, Troubles and of course, Simon. Melissa being my favorite cat in Harrington and she belongs to Clare Richardson. "Lissie" puts up with a lot, again she has it good too. Maybe Clare will write us about them. How about you and your favorite animal, either living or passed on to animal Heaven.

Thank you volunteers so very much for all the work in the kitchen and otherwise.

Hope you had a lovely Heritage Day and saw a friend you haven't seen in many a day. Take care and be kind to each other.

Best Wishes to all who are ill and to all homebonds. A prayer for those in sorrow. Remember, you wonder what the younger generation is going to do. Well, they are going to wonder what the younger generation is going to do. Faith.

Gabfest

By Pat Hatfield 349-4255

I've always got time to lay aside the bean hulling and the corn husking to read and enjoy someone's beautiful thoughts about the seasons. Shirley Harvey of Barre, Vermont, makes us a fine poem which she calls "September": "I'd like to fill a treasure chest with September--I'd take: the warmth of late summer sun, the brightness of marigolds, the smell of drying maple leaves, the color of the hillsides, the taste of a McIntosh apple, the thrill of finding a red ear of corn, the fun of riding in a yellow school bus, the stiffness of the pumpkins waiting for Halloween and the security of another harvest. I'd seal the chest carefully--and not peek, 'til the coldest day in January."

Well, at the present time, my little poem about September would go about like this: September sheds its bounty. All around my kitchen door; There are grapes and red tomatoes, Green lima beans galore. But this will soon be over, a ray of hope doth gleam. Then they bring the onions in to freeze, And they wonder why I scream!!

The grass is such a lovely emerald green and will likely remain so for many weeks yet to come. Most of us love the long autumn season here in Delmarva, but, in our family, the ones who push the lawn mowers do not agree with me. I look hopefully at the kitchen window screens and begin to persuade myself I can do without them now. I love the fresh air, but the screens dim my view of the outdoors.

Now, I'm beginning to feel the urge to scurry around like the squirrels and pike stuff up for the winter. I am like my mother in this respect. She loved to "lay in" a goodly supply of food stuffs for the coming winter. It gives one a warm and cozy feeling of security. I must get over to the factory store and get some cases of things such as baby carrots and peas. We never can grow enough peas.

Why is it we never quite realize our dreams? All winter long we pore over the seed catalogs and plan and dream of perfect gardens and beautiful flowers. We never see the weeds until they confront us some spring day. We never think of the hard work either, or the hot sun or the spells of dry weather.

Then when we are coping with what we planned all winter the summer brings us dreams of long winter evenings by the fireplace and a good book. Some of this does come to pass, but somehow these long winter days vanish like snow in a February thaw. Right now I'm planning on three things for winter...cooking, sewing, and reading "up a storm" as they say in the south.

Anne's Kitchen

While my family and myself are admittedly partial to Italian foods I wouldn't want you to get the impression that we are adverse to other foods. You might say we enjoy well prepared and well presented foods of all kinds. The simple potato pancake recipe following is one of them. No matter how good a recipe idea is, if it is thrown together without any care to presentation a lot will be lost. I think the potato pancake recipe which follows is worthy of your efforts:

POTATO PANCAKES

4 Medium potatoes peeled and raw
1 small onion

1 large egg

2 tablespoons flour

salt and pepper to taste

Cooking oil or shortening for frying

1. Grate peeled raw potatoes and onion into a large bowl. Drain off any liquid, pressing with a spoon to release all of it.

2. Add the egg, flour, salt and pepper and mix well.

3. Heat enough oil or shortening in a heavy skillet to grease surface well.

4. Drop tablespoons full of the mixture into the fat and fry till browned. Turn over with a spatula and brown on the other side. More fat or oil may be needed as you go along.

5. Serve hot with apple sauce as an accompaniment to roast pork, pork chops or sausage.

ENJOY!

Nanticoke Pow Wow 1981 by Grace Welch

Out of the ashes like the ancient Phoenix Bird of Indian Legend they are arisen. They have a quiet sense of pride which has helped to maintain their dignity all these years. In 1881 they were finally recognized for what they are...neither white or black, but a separate people, The Nanticoke Indian Tribe.

On September 12, & 13, 1981, they celebrated their 4th annual Pow Wow and a triple centennial at the same time. It was the anniversary of the founding of their beloved Indian Mission Church, a center of the community; it was the birthday (100 yrs.) of the oldest member of the tribe, Mr. Walter B. Wright; and most important of all the anniversary of the recognition of the Nanticoke Indian Association.

After celebrating Harrington's Heritage Day on Saturday, Sept. 12, I decided that it would be nice to attend the Pow Wow and see what happened there. As a child I had often seen the Indians at Oak Orchard, but could not remember ever attending any such an affair.

Sunday's program had Jean Norwood as Mistress of ceremonies up to the point where they turned it over to their friend from Canada, TSONAKWA. There were addresses from Chief Clark, Dr. Frank Wright of the Maryland Indian Affairs Office and others. Chief Clark made the statement that there were only about 450 true Nanticoke.

The Nanticoke Language is no longer known, however there were two phrases remembered among the older members. These have been incorporated into a song and was sung as the Women did a Toe Dance. Mrs. Patience Harmon, 86 years young, assisted by her granddaughter led this routine. Their costumes were brilliant with color and looked very authentic.

After watching many of the dances, we decided to move on to the vendors booths. We found many beautiful beaded items as well as silver and turquoise. Of course there were also leather goods. One young man named Clark had some lovely sketches for sale, and we thought we heard him say he was a cartoonist also. We bought some of their fried bread, picked up souvenir books, and headed home. The thought in our mind was: Here is a people who has reason to celebrate and be proud of their Heritage. The Nanticoke were here when the first white settlers came from Europe. They tried peaceful co-existence, but were driven away from their lands. Eventually they traveled north and south and west, leaving only a handful in this area. That is the true Nanticoke of today.

Did you know the Nanticoke men fought for the Continental United States in both the Civil and the Revolutionary War? In the latter, they were promised the entire State of Delaware for a reward for service...a promise that was never meant to be kept.

Dr. C.A. Weslager has done extensive research on the Nanticoke and has, I am sure, influenced many to be sympathetic to their cause. In his book, "Delaware's forgotten Folk", he says: "The little eye people are decedents of Samuel Norwood, who died in 1907." (This defect is a problem with the muscles in the eye lids which are not developed or strong enough to open them all the way, making it necessary for the person to hold the head back in order to see.) According to Dr. Weslager, Mr. Norwood was married twice. It seems the children of the first marriage always saw everything he did and must have caused him some aggravation. Legend has it that he wished his children had little eyes so they would see less. And so, when his second family was born, they had this problem.

Upon our arrival at the Pow Wow, this was one of the first things I saw. She was beautiful woman, but her eyelids were drooping, making me wonder if she was a Norwood descendant.

There were Indians of all sizes and shapes and shades. They ranged from the lithe ebony-colored Tuscarora brave to the lovely burnished copper tones of the lovely Jean Norwood. They were regaled in everything from feathers and animal skins to Gitano blue jeans. Some were easy to identify because of the shape of the face or the smooth black hair...though there were some of the participants who were fair-haired and light skinned. This was due to inter-marriages with other peoples, I'm sure. Nevertheless they still have the Indian Heritage to be proud of.

As we stood under the trees in the grove, the sunlight warming us, I began to relax and feel at one with this ceremony. I guess I still think of Indians as I saw them in my Grammar School books, stalwart and brave and filling me with awe of their background and their struggle with life. Standing there, listening to the chanting of the songs and the beat of the drum, I felt at peace with the World and almost as though I was living in another time and place.

INCREDIBLE but true...

Pat Gratton of WWON and Mike Barbara of Lee's Pharmacy toast with a glass of aloé.

(Woonsocket, R.I.) — These are the words of PAT GRATTON of Radio Station WWON in Woonsocket R.I. "It started out with a friend telling me that she had gotten pain relief of arthritis by drinking "Pure Aloé Gel." says Pat. "I mentioned it on my radio show because I found out Lee's Pharmacy was selling the pure aloé gel. from The General Aloé Corp." People started asking about it, then using it, now my show has turned into the "ALOE HOUR" Over 100 people from Lee's Pharmacy are using the product. Anna of Woonsocket said, "Pat, I had pains in my back, and my husband had pains in his legs. We're on our 2nd bottle and we feel great. I feel so much livelier." Mrs. O.C. (known as Oreo Cookie) told Pat "I'm on my 8th bottle. I have a slight case of colitis and I feel so much relief. I ran out of product and went 3 weeks without the product and I felt miserable. I also use the Aloé Lotion. Mrs. C.P. says "I'm on my 2nd bottle. I wasn't able to put weight on my right knee, now I feel great. I take the product in a shot glass and it tastes like a lime rickey," laughed Mrs. C.P. "My left foot was so swollen from arthritis that the doctor was going to operate on a burr that formed, now the swelling is gone and I feel great. I also used to take a package of Alka Seltzer (18 tablets) a week. Now I take none. The Aloé helps me inside as well as outside." MIKE BARBARIA of Lee's Pharmacy is astounded. "In all my years as a pharmacist, I've never seen anything like it." We have sold over 400 bottles since May 1st and it hasn't stopped yet. I feel good about recommending the product because the company gives a 100% guarantee to the customer to return the product if they feel it did not help them. I've never seen so many happy faces, and all because of a "Little Plant." Directions for Aloé Vera Juice. 1 oz. AL-O-JEL™ added to 7 oz. water makes a delicious 8 oz. glass of aloé juice. 32 oz. bottle of AL-O-JEL™ makes two (2) gallons of 100% Aloé Juice. Products available at these locations:

Leonard - Hearns Fight To Be Aired At Dover Downs - Tonight

The undisputed Welterweight Championship of the World will be on the line when Sugar Ray Leonard meets Thomas Hearns in a 15-round title showdown tonight, September 16, at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nev.

Local boxing fans and sports enthusiasts will be able to watch this dramatic welterweight confrontation live on closed-circuit television at Dover Downs. Tickets for the championship card, which begins at 9 p.m., are priced at $20, and may be purchased at the Dover Downs ticket office, Route 13, Dover, and Bag and Baggage, 228, W. 9th Street, Wilmington.

An 18 ft. by 24 ft. television screen will be installed on top of the tote board normally used for paramutuel harness racing. The large screen should allow excellent viewing from all seats within the Dover Downs complex.

Leonard, who recently scored a ninth-round knockout of Ayub Kalule to capture the WBA Junior Middleweight title, will be seeking to unify the welterweight division with a victory over Hearns. The 25-year-old Sugar Ray defeated Wilfred Benitez on Nov. 30, 1979 to win his share of the crown, and later split two bouts with Roberto Duran losing the title on June 20, 1980 and regaining it in November. Leonard's most recent welterweight defense was a 10th round KO of Larry Bonds in Syracuse, N.Y. in March.

With eight straight knockouts, including three title defenses, the 22-year-old Hearns will provide Leonard with a most worthy adversary. Hearns' fights have lasted an average of less than five rounds, and the 6'1" puncher is devastating with either hand.

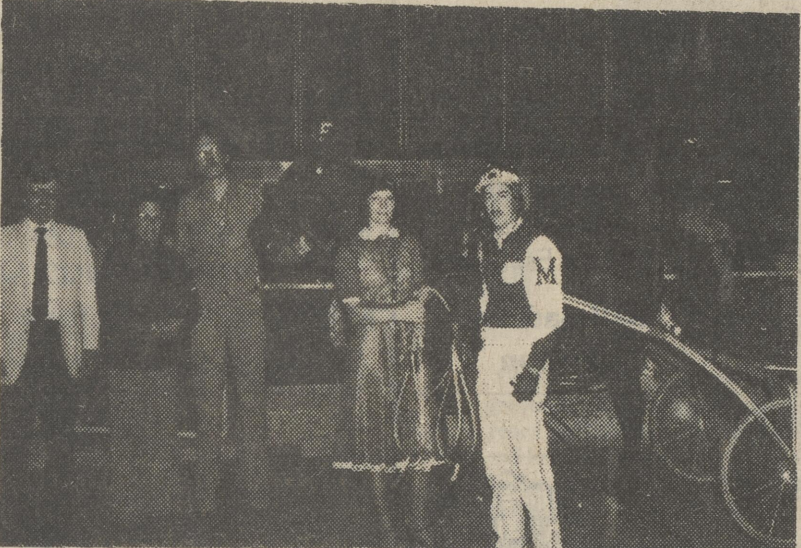

The Leonard-Hearns showdown will feature contrasting ring styles, as well as physical makeup. At 6'1" Hearns stands three inches above his opponent and will enjoy a four-inch reach advantage. Leonard is a highly-talented boxer-puncher with blazing hand and foot speed, while Hearns carries the trademark of an awesome power hitter who destroys the opposition with deadly precision.

Both fighters came up through the amateur ranks, with each achieving great success. Leonard's Olympic boxing feats are well documented, and he finished his amateur career with a 145-5 record and a Gold Medal at the 1975 Pan American Games. Hearns was voted the 1977 Amateur Boxer of the Year for winning both the National AAU and Golden Gloves Championships.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning teams for the 1981 baseball season.

Gallo's tried desperately to beat Cavallo's but could not get past that defense, however, they came back the next night and held on to beat Veppo in 10 innings. That young Taylor & Messick Team with terrific plays at short stop by Coug, Collins smothered Harrington Merchants.

1st Annual Heritage Day 10K A Success

On September 12th, 58 runners lined up at Chipman Jr. School to begin the first annual Harrington Heritage Day 10K (6.2 mile) run. At the sound of the bell, the runners were on their way up the Harrington-Felton road, towards Mastens Corner, back around and down Weiner Avenue to finish at the school.

The day's high temperatures took its toll on all the runners, creating slow times and some heat exhaustion. Of the 58 runners, 56 completed the race.

Dennis Hermann of Rock Hall, Md., was the overall winner of the race with a time of 36:16. Chuck Perdue of Salisbury, Md. was second with a time of 37:02.

Dianne Dulin of Oxford, Md., took top female honors with a time of 41:47 and placed 14th. Barbara Kelly of Smyrna was, "You'd better come on and go" When she demanded "why", his answer was "...to pick up the pieces." She didn't ask again. And there were many times she was there to pick up the pieces.

Vineyard

Once Vineyard was involved in a 7-horse pile up from which he walked away and in which no one, neither horse nor driver, was injured. Other times, he was not so lucky. He hobbled away from a pile up at Agwam, N.Y. concerned about the fate of his horse. The horse was all right, and Vineyard insisted nothing was wrong with him. But he couldn't bear weight on one leg, and it was discovered the next day that he had a broken leg, the bone splintered rather than displaced. During the recovery period, he appeared at the stables every day where he sat in an open doorway to prove his original point.

His worst accident may have been on the very first night of night racing at Harrington Raceway when his ankle was mashed. He had been driving behind an older man, Elbert Saunders who was well known and known never to drive a straight line down the track. Saunders would cut in or out whenever someone tried to pass him on either side. Vineyard knew that and bided his time, giving the elder driver room until his horse would tire. But when Vineyard started his move, his sulky was bumped and he was thrown out. His foot, however, remained in the stirrup and the ankle was crushed.

Dr. Smith, filling in in the absence of Dr. W. T. Chipman, the track doctor, was called. He attempted to follow Vineyard's wishes and set the ankle without anesthesia. But that proved impossible, and Vineyard finally consented to being put to sleep for the operation.

All of the bones in the ankle were broken, and Dr. Smith warned Vineyard that the joint would be permanently stiff. A visit to a doctor equipped with a lot of electronic gadgetry provided temporary relief. But Vineyard, unnerved by the session in which a bulb held by his wife was caused to glow without benefit of any apparent electrical connection, refused to return for treatment. The ankle restiffened and remained that way until a colt Vineyard was leading out, took off in a run with him in tow. He tore the ligaments in the ankle and eventually wore the rough edges of the unevenly set bone. In time he regained full use of the ankle. Wasn't it painful? --"Yes", says his wife, "but what's pain"--especially for a man who as a boy set out tomato plants the same day a runaway horse had wrapped him around a pole, breaking several of his ribs. He held onto the horse and went back to work that day, never telling his father of his injury. Then and later, he put on a tough act, giving little or no quarter to pain.

There were also good times to be remembered. Mrs. Vineyard insists that the early racing years were more fun than the later ones after the advent of pari mutuel betting. She says the drivers and their wives, despite the competition on the track, maintained close friendships. She also feels racing fans today are less interested in the horses and more in their $2 bet.

For eleven years she worked in the box office at Goshen, N.Y. where she and her husband attended every Hambletonian until the race was moved to DuQuoin, Ill. She recalls the lavish teas which followed the afternoon race.

These were given by Mr. and Mrs. William Cain, for the racing community and everyone dressed up "like Lady Astor's pet horse" to attend.

She was also in the box office the day it was nearly stormed by an angry crowd when the Hambletonian was rained out. That was the only race for which ticket money would not be refunded.

Her husband remembered horses, she recalls people. There was Mahlon Haines, the "Shoe Wizard" who made his money by developing and selling a good work shoe at a reasonable price. He also owned horses and would appear at the track usually bareheaded and constantly tossing a baseball. It was Mr. Haines' habit to offer any young man he saw with a cigarette $50 if he would stop smoking until he was 21. One who took him up on the offer was Delvin Miller, the present owner of the Meadowlands stock farms.

There is also the story of a freak accident at Roosevelt Raceway on June 13, 1947 when driver Clint Hodgins, up behind Scranonian, was tossed from his seat into the lap of Daryl Maher who was driving Dutch Harbor. The two drivers finished the race in one sulky, coming in fourth. Maher was reported as saying he could have finished higher in the money if his horse hadn't been carrying double. He told Hodgins, "I ought to toss you off..." Hodgins' reply: "You just hit the horse and keep going."

The Vineyards came to Harrington around 1945 at the behest of Fred Greenly. But it was about a year before they established the home that was to serve them for nearly 30 years and where Elsie Vineyard still resides. When they arrived here, harness racing was mostly limited to the Kent & Sussex Fair. It was just a few years before regular harness meets were started at the fairgrounds track. Vineyard went on to become an institution on Harrington turf where he broke and trained many colts, including the aforementioned Direct Express and Bengazi Hanover.

Many of Mrs. Vineyard's racing recollections are Harrington based.

A driver familiar to Harrington was Jack Brown whose horse "Silent Fox" who wouldn't go reined up and who always looked like a nag as he paraded to the post. The horse and driver were subjected to disparaging remarks by racing fans who usually suggested the "Fox belonged back at the barns. When he crossed the finish line first, the mockers were the silent ones.

Mrs. Vineyard has these stories and more to tell as she leafs through two enormous scrapbooks filled with the memorabilia of a lifetime of racing. In one of those scrap books is a 1947 Life photo story on the hobbies of racing drivers. According to the story, Paul Vineyard had a penchant for repairing radios in his spare time. That, she says, was a complete set-up. Her husband knew nothing about the working of a radio. Harness horses were his only hobby, his one occupation and his lifetime obsession.

The Harrington Journal is deeply indebted to Mrs. Paul Vineyard for taking the time to share her memories and to correct our errors.

Charles "C.D." Thomas worked as a groom for Paul Vineyard for some 28 years [depending on who's counting and how]. He remembers Mr. Vineyard as "an honest man" and says his first horse was "Direct Express."
