Five Candidates Vie for Harrington Council

Voters in Harrington's second and fourth wards will have five candidates to choose from in Tuesday's municipal election. In the second ward, Curtis Melvin, Jose F. "Frank" Soriano and Donald West have filed for the seat now occupied by Gary Harrington. Richard Henry and Shirley Corrin will vie for the fourth ward post to be left vacant by Harold Brode.

Election hours on Tuesday, January 12, are from 12 noon until 7 p.m. at the Fire Hall. Voters may have the opportunity to meet the candidates if they appear at Harrington's annual citizen's meeting which is set for this Friday, January 8 at 7 p.m. in the Fire Hall. There will be a regular council meeting on Monday, January 11 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall, and the annual Reorganization Meeting will be on Wednesday, January 13, also in City Hall at 7:30 p.m. At that time, the victors in the two council races will be sworn in.

Meet the Candidates

Over the past two days, the Journal spoke to each of the five candidates and discussed their reasons for seeking the city council seats.

Shirley Corrin

Shirley Corrin, who has filed for the Fourth Ward seat now held by Harold Brode, feels women should be represented on the Harrington City Council. Several others felt the same way and urged her to run for the post.

She has no particular beefs with the city government. And, as issues arise, she says she will carefully consider all sides, before taking a stand.

Of the recent hike in the budget and the consequent rise in taxes and fees, she says she had not realized it would [Continued on page 2]

Evening Courses Offered At Chipman School

The Terry Campus of Delaware Technical and Community College, Dover, in cooperation with the Lake Forest School district, will offer special interest courses in a location better suited to residents of lower Kent County beginning in January.

The William T. Chipman School, on Center Street in Harrington, will be open for Terry Campus special interest classes after the first of the year.

According to H. Earl Roberts, Terry Campus director of continuing education, there is a need to extend the campus' services to the southern part of Kent County. Roberts, himself of near Harrington, said he hopes that the people in the area will take advantage of the courses being offered close to their homes.

Charles Hoff, a former district principal, will coordinate the offerings.

A special registration for courses scheduled for the Chipman School will be on Thursday, Jan. 14, 1982, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the school.

The following is a listing of classes that will begin this winter: Fundamentals of Intelligent Investing, Sewing Techniques, Introduction to Photography and Charcoal Drawing all will begin on Thursday, Jan. 21.

Taught by Joseph McDaniels of Dean, Witter, Reynolds, the six-week investment course will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. and will cost $20.

Sewing Techniques, led by Lois Williams, formerly of the Singer Sewing Machine Co., will meet from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Cost is $25 per person.

The photography course, scheduled for eight sessions, will be from 7 to 10 p.m. and will cost $28.

Charcoal Drawing, taught by artist Peggy Kane, will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. Fee is $28.

Nature Study in Watercolor, an eight-week course with Joan DeRuggeris, will begin Tuesday, Jan. 19 and will cost $30.

Knitting Techniques will begin Tuesday, Jan. 26, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and will continue for four weeks. Course fee is $15.

Homeowners Cost Cutting Clinic, a free, one-night seminar designed to teach energy and money saving measures, will be on Thursday, Jan. 28, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Decorative Stenciling, a two-session course in the practice of a colonial American art, will meet Tuesday, Feb. 9 and 16, 7 to 10 p.m. and will cost $15 per person.

Explore Mind Reach, an audience participation course with hypnotist Diana Brubaker, will be a one-session workshop on Wednesday, Feb. 17. Fee is $5.

Preparation of Delaware and Federal Tax Returns will begin on Thursday, Feb. 18, from 7 to 10 p.m. The four-session course will cost $20.

Your Dream Home in the Country, on Wednesdays, March 3 and 10, will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. to plan those dreams. Cost is $4 per person.

As coordinator of this new venture for the campus, Hoff said he is willing to expand programs at the Chipman School to include credit courses if the community indicates it wants the services by its favorable response to the winter programs. Hoff claims that the people, their needs and interests, are the only limiting factor in this new project.

Felton Sewer Progress Slow

The holidays and some recent wet weather have kept recent progress on the sewer construction in Felton slow, according to Mayor William Myers who reported to the Town Council Monday night. However, he said, a large number of the main lines are down with only a few streets left to be completed. This does not include laterals to individual counties.

No hookups, he said, could be made until the pumping station is completed and accepted by the county. The target date for completion of the station is 300 days from the time of the bid acceptance. Myers estimated that almost 60 days of that time period has elapsed. Another pumping station has to be added in the Felton Heights area, but construction will probably not begin until spring.

Myers also said the residents would have 18 months to hook up after the system is complete.

In other business, the Felton Town Council:

Police Beat

Harrington police at 10:50 a.m. on December 20 were called to the rescue after a brawl with a bloody ending. The altercation started at Oasis Place on Thorpe St., but local police were not called until a Ward Street resident answered a knock on the door and opened it to a man bleeding profusely who collapsed on the spot.

Harrington police were called and Edmund Benson was transported via ambulance to Milford Memorial Hospital where he underwent emergency surgery and was subsequently listed in stable condition. Benson's throat had been slit a ten inch gap from behind the left ear to the right side of the chin.

Investigation of the incident revealed that Benson had entered Oasis Place on Thorpe Street where he immediately became loud and abusive. The owner of the establishment, Jimmie L. Daniels

Powell Recommends Measures To Improve Schools

The Lake Forest Board of Education in December received a list of recommendations from Superintendent Dr. Edward M. Powell aimed at improving the overall educational program in the district's schools.

A number of the suggestions were specifically targeted at improving junior high and high school performance on the California Achievement tests administered state-wide each year. In large part his recommendations were an outgrowth of the conclusions of a monitoring team from the State Department of Public Instruction which visited the W.T. Chipman Junior School and Lake Forest High School during the week of September 28-October 2. The 13 member team came at Dr. Powell's request for the purpose of determining "areas of need in the instructional program" with particular emphasis on that program "as related to achievement in the basic skills areas of Reading, Writing and Mathematics."

CAT Test Scores

Performance levels on the 1981 CAT tests that were less than satisfactory in the seventh and eighth grades and the eleventh grade (the only high school class which takes the test) prompted Powell to ask for the DPI assessment.

1981 CAT test results show Lake Forest elementary students holding up well in comparison with other districts in the state. Fourth graders here led the state with percentile scores for the total battery of tests included in the CAT of 61.1 (meaning the districts fourth graders scored higher than 61.1% of the nation's fourth graders.) Lake Forest first grade students, fifth in the state, recorded a 62.1 percentile score, better than the state average of 61.8. Other elementary grades, with the exception of the third which was tenth in the state, placed well at fifth or sixth. And even the third graders scored 55.1, still above the national average.

A state-wide tendency for CAT scores to drop at the upper grade levels was in evidence at Lake Forest as seventh and eighth graders, still slightly above the national midpoint, were eleventh and twelfth in the state-wide comparison with percentile scores of 53.1 and 50.6, respectively. Eleventh graders here were twelfth in the state with a percentile score dipping below the national mean to 46. The state average for high school juniors was 54.9 for regular students.

DPI Commendations

The visiting DPI team had some good words for Lake Forest schools among its conclusions. Both the W.T. Chipman and Lake Forest High School were lauded for "the fine rapport that appears to exist between students and staff" and the "implementation of a 'firm but fair' discipline policy."

The junior high received kudos for its "clean, safe and well maintained facilities" and the receptive attitude of its principal and staff to suggestions for improvement.

The high school was cited for the initiation of letter awards to recognize student academic achievement, for a ratio of students to teachers that is "appropriate for the ability levels of the students" and for the opportunities for community involvement through the use of the swimming pool.

DPI Recommendations

The monitoring team's report, which included a specific assessment for each content (subject) area, culminated in a list of fourteen recommendations at the junior high and seventeen at the high school level for improving instructional programs.

Motivation, the attitude of both students and staff toward the California Achievement Test, and preparation in the basic skills which it assesses figured largely in the DPI recommendations.

The part played by student attitudes was most clearly shown by a report on student interviews conducted during the DPI visit. A sample of twelve students was selected at random at each school. Student feelings about the CAT tests as expressed by the sample group were summarized in the following statement:

"Students reported that when they took the California Achievement Tests, they saw it as something which had to be done, so they did it. They felt the tests were of no real value to them personally. Some students said that they had done their best, while others

A Renunion...Home At Last!

It was an anxious nine days. But "Frisky" and "Jenny" are back home again. They returned in good time to make the New Year's celebration for the Vogelien family of Harrington a whole lot brighter. And during the time of their disappearance, the Vogelien family learned a good deal about the concern a community can express - even for "two old dogs".

Frisky and Jenny, of course, are pets, both members of the family which includes Howard "Bean" and Gale and their two daughters Kate, 9, and Erin, 2½, and which loves them very much. The two dogs disappeared from their home just west of Harrington on December 20 and were not heard from until December 29 when Mrs. Ellwood Hunsberger called to say the duo had made it all the way to Sugar Hill Farm, the Greenwood home of the great harness horse and sire "Adios Harry".

Jenny, the senior member of the canine section of the Vogelien household, is a brown and white Brittany spaniel who joined the family when nine-year-old Kate was little more than a month old. More properly named "Kate's Jenny", she took her family responsibilities seriously, becoming both protector and friend. Once when the Vogelien were Dover residents and Howard was taking evening college courses, Jenny surprised and frightened away an intruder.

Frisky, the younger dog, is a five-year old rust colored golden retriever with a reputation to match his name. During the dogs' disappearance, Frisky was a special source of concern. The golden retriever suffers from epileptic seizures and needs medication. The family, who feared such a seizure might be misinterpreted, had appealed to anyone finding the dog not to harm him, but to get help.

Ads, letters, posters and inquiries followed Frisky and Jenny for the nine days. So did the family's prayers.

The answer, a welcome phone call from Sugar Hill Farm came last Tuesday after Mrs. Hunsberger saw an ad in the Seaford Leader. She told Gale Vogelien the farm had sheltered the two runaways for two nights, but she had recently instructed a farm hand to turn them loose. As it happened, a daughter of the family came in during the phone conversation and reported that she had just done the job the farm hand had apparently forgotten. Thus, it turned out the dogs had been freed only moments before their owners were contacted. Both arrived home safe and sound, but reportedly kept mum about their adventures during the seven days before they showed up at Sugar Hill Farm.

There is another aspect to the story in the concern expressed by a number of people in this area who called the Vogelien family to inquire after the dogs. Gale Vogelien reports meeting via phone a variety of people including some who had experienced deep personal grief and others whose concern for stray animals is, they feel, their quiet mission in life. Many took the time to make a call. Others, in stores and on the streets, made inquiry.

There is also, according to Gale Vogelien, the sense of prayer answered by a power for whom no human concern is too mundane, not even the welfare of a part of family friends who happen to be merely canine.

I started school at Sunshine. It was a one-room school heated by a center stove with about 20 pupils. It seemed to me to be a long way to school, but if our toes and fingers pained us the older pupils rubbed our extremities and tried to solace us. Across a field from the school was a pond which furnished us with winter fun on the ice. Behind the school, near the rail tracks, in a woods was a lovely patch of arbutus and on a stream nearby were water striders and beetles whose ability to dart on water intrigued us.

We went to the Coolspring Presbyterian Church where my grandfather was an elder for many years. Grandmother's ancestor Josiah Martin was one of the founders. On the brick wall surrounding the graveyard shiny, iridescent lizards sunned themselves. In the graveyard lie many of my ancestors, Martins and Warringtons. The smell of boxwood scents the summer air there and in a branch nearby grow sweet bay, whose lovely, fragrant blossoms we collected to decorate the church for Children's Day. On these occasions, my older sister and I recited and sang. Early in my remembrance, the church had prayer benches. The sermons seemed long to a child, but we were expected to behave perfectly in church, with no talking. Sometimes the clothing of parishioners intrigued us, as did a cerise satin under black lace worn by Mrs. Robbins beautiful daughter-in-law. A surreptitious finger examined this beautiful fabric. (The Eli Robbins family were our dear neighbors.)

In 1913, my grandmother died suddenly, and in 1917 my grandfather rented his farm and moved to Rehoboth to live with his daughter who had married a local doctor. He died of pneumonia that winter. It was a terrible winter, when even the salt water froze and snow lay in deep drifts. Back of our place was an orchard with a variety of pear, cherry and apple trees as well as a long row of stately chestnut trees from whose branches hung the beautiful Orioles' nests. We had a garden of about half an acre, with three kinds of grapes, hops, Jerusalem artichokes, rhubarb, golden glow, horseradish and all kinds of vegetables which my father stored in an earth mound lined with straw. My sisters and I used to have to pick off potato bugs, a job we thoroughly disliked. We also hunted eggs and kept the woodbin filled.

I liked to see the teams of 6 mules pull three long loblolly logs along the road. They would flop their ears in unison as they bent their heads as they walked. They were driven without reins, but by voice signals from the driver who usually walked alongside, brandishing a long, braided whip, with an occasional crack.

The final meeting of the present (Harrington) City Council Wednesday night saw a brief, but turbulent agenda...The Council authorized a letter to Herbert Denney asking him to write a letter to the Council stating his complaint and if he thought he had a legitimate one. Denney, who owned woodland near the city dump northwest of town, told the Council Wednesday three acres of his land had been damaged by fire and that a lumber dealer estimated the loss at $50 per acre. However, it had not been established that fire from the dump was the cause.

Councilman Don Jacobs and others pointed out that the business was indeed outside town limits. Fred Casper said the situation was "not right" and hoped something could be worked out.

However, Mayor William Myers, was angered by the incident and said he felt the failure to respond to the call was simply an act of revenge on the part of Police Chief Mike Olliver. It was not clear whether the decision had come directly from Olliver, who is still on the disabled list, but Myers felt it was improper for him to have responded in any event. The decision, he said should have come from Patrolman Ronald Fortin.

McNeal's charred body was found in the ruins of a burned out shack on Kent County 311 near Farmington. The shack burned Dec. 12, 1970.

was home base. He retired in 1975, but for the past nine years has spent every morning from 3 to 8:30 on the road with a paper delivery route for the Wilmington Morning News. He likes being on the road in time for sunrise which he says is the best part of the day.

Curtis Melvin
Curtis Melvin, candidate for City Council in the Second Ward, opted to run for the post because now he has the time to give. As a long time resident, active in many civic affairs he has a definite concern for the welfare of the community.

Current problems with Conrail and keeping city expenses down are his two major concerns at the moment.

Melvin says that he realized that some of the city's expenses are those that cannot be avoided. He cited the rising costs of trash collection and the money necessary to pay for the updated sewage treatment facility as examples. He would like to have seen a different solution to the sewage treatment problem, but that decision, he says, is in the past, and the Town has no choice but to foot its share of the bill.

Melvin would also like to see a little more harmony between the city and its employees.

He sees a lot of changes that have occurred in the community and a number of things that could be desired. But he thinks the city must take things step-by-step as it has the funds.

A resident of this area for the past 38 years, Melvin was born in Goldsboro, Md. His family moved here in 1934.

A graduate of Harrington High School he served with the Navy - mostly in the Pacific during World War II and was called back for a year during the Korean War.

Now retired from the Diamond State Telephone Co. where he was an outside plant department engineer, Melvin has a long history of involvement in civic affairs.

He is a lifetime member and past president of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Co. He is still active in responding to daytime emergency calls.

In 1961 and again in 1973 he served as president of the Harrington Lions Club. His past activities include membership in the American Legion and the Harrington Moose.

Donald J. West
Donald West, who has filed for a Second Ward seat on the Harrington City Council, is making the effort because of his concern for the community which he adopted ten or twelve years ago. He was also asked, by several of his neighbors to be a candidate.

He calls Harrington a "beautiful" community which he intends to make his permanent home even into retirement.

But he does have some concerns. These include increasing costs especially for trash service which, he says, is not all that good. He is also opposed to raising taxes.

How much effect one council member can make, he is not sure. But he says, at least I can give them my two cents. Originally from Towanda, Pennsylvania, he moved here about 10 or 12 years ago after a son-in-law opened a florist shop in Milford.

His history includes years spent as an electrician, a farmer and an auto mechanic. He served in the Army for six years (1939-1945) during World War II when he spent three years in Panama and later went to France and Germany. He left with the rank of Staff Sergeant.

Some years ago he owned and operated a small dairy farm in Pennsylvania and, at the same time, worked as an auto mechanic. Later he became interested in electronics and eventually made that his career. He traveled for about 15 years as an electrician, working in various kinds of construction.

He is currently employed at W.L. Wheatley (owned by Campbell Soup) a firm which processes a variety of frozen food products.

Also he has been a member of a union for 20 years and is a 32nd degree Mason.

Jose F. Soriano
Frank Soriano, who is seeking the Harrington Council seat in the Fourth Ward, is taking that step because of his concern for the community which he has made home for the past two years and where he intends to stay. He further has a past history of involvement in public affairs, and feels that he has some governmental know-how that could be of value to the city.

During a previous residence in Pontiac, Michigan, Soriano served as a member of the Police Board, handling citizen complaints. For several years, he was also one of the trustees of the Pontiac General Hospital. He is especially concerned with the local police force and feels he can bring a fresh outlook to the local council where police problems have given some concern.

The way certain things are passed by the City Council, is another area in which he sees a need for change. Too often, he feels, the Council makes up its mind in executive session or workshop, leaving the action on the matter a mere formality. This, he feels, discourages citizen attendance at council meetings. Although he hears many complaints, he says, few people ever show up.

He was not happy with the way which the budget and rate increases were passed in October. There was no publication of the budget prior to its passage, and Soriano feels the council "dropped the ball" on that one.

Currently a Specialist in Migrant Education with the State Department of Public Instruction, Soriano is originally from Michigan. He spent four and a half years in the Navy and later worked in an auto factory while going to college. He holds a B.A. from Michigan State and an M.A. from Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan.

As an educator, he has long been involved in migrant education in Florida where he worked with the State Department and in Michigan where he was an administrator with responsibility for developing programs for migrant children.

indicated that they had simply done it because it was required."

Realists of the immediately practical, students know the CAT tests do not affect their grades (as tomorrow's math quiz most certainly will) or their promotion (as the district competencies which determine the achievement of senior status do.)

Teach attitude toward the CAT tests was also considered a factor. According to the DPI report, "The teachers at the junior high school who administer the tests have little personal interest in the results. They see it only as a job which must be done."

The relationship of the tests to what is being taught in the classroom has further effect. The team report said:

"Test results have little or no impact on what is being taught in the classroom. Teachers at the high school level report that they do not know what objectives are included in the test, they have not seen samples of the test, and they do not know if there is a correlation between the test and the objectives being taught in their own courses." The team's overall conclusion was that the objectives in the various subject areas are not all matched to those on the CAT test, i.e. "What's being tested is not necessarily what's being taught."

Therefore two DPI recommendations were that "a strong effort be made to develop a more positive attitude among staff and students regarding the CAT" and that "a closer match be made between and among curricular objectives, district competencies, and the objectives of the...CAT".

Among the other recommendations, were a parent-teacher-administrator committee to study the schools philosophy, goals and policies; the formation of curriculum advisory councils for teachers input; written job descriptions for all staff; raising expectations for student achievement; more display of students' successful work and more recognition for outstanding teachers; procedures designed for homework and for parent involvement; an annual survey of students' backgrounds and interests, and use of inservice time to help teachers include reinforcement of basic skills in their content areas (the teaching of reading or science, etc.).

Dr. Powell's Recommendations
Many of the DPI recommendations were reflected in the plan of action outlined by Dr. Powell for the Lake Forest School Board.

Looking specifically at performance on the California Achievement tests, Powell said department heads, teachers and administrators would review the test results with an eye to locating weaker skills that can be reinforced.

$500, he said, would be requested to buy student and teacher versions of the booklet "Scoring High on the CAT". A team from DPI would meet with principals and department heads in the basic skills areas (language, arts, math) to make plans to use the material during the month of February. In addition to this, the DPI Research and Development staff would prepare a list of materials on making and administering tests. These would be bought and added to Lake Forest libraries for teacher use.

Dr. Powell himself promised to meet with all district seventh and eighth grades by visiting their English classes to emphasize the importance of the CAT test and explain how it relates to them. At the high school level, he said he would recommend students who score significantly higher than the national average be excused from mid term and final exams in their senior year.

A team from DPI Powell reported, would meet with the two principals to enhance and improve the administration of the CAT.

In the form of a more general motivation for students, Powell suggested providing each new freshman at the high school a Study Skills Package to consist of the high school handbook and discipline guide, a dictionary and a thesaurus, How to Study and Word Power Made Easy (all in paperback.) These would be for students to keep and use. The $1,500 to $1,900 cost would come from basic skills funds (from the state).

Another $2,000 in basic skills funds would be used to encourage reading and attendance at the junior high school level. Each seventh and eighth grader at Chipman would be allowed to choose a paperback book from scholastic newspapers to keep for his own. He would get another for each 25 days of perfect attendance.

About $40,000, Powell said, would be spent to update the Chipman and high school libraries. This is in addition to some $34,000 already reserved through the tax transfer referendum last year. A list of books most selected by junior high school students would be prepared by DPI and the books bought for the Chipman library. DPI would also assist in weeding out obsolete material and selecting new teachers would also be surveyed for their requests.

Some of Powell's recommendations dealt with establishing goals, raising standards and incorporating basic skills objectives in almost every course of study.

A major innovation would be the formation of a Curriculum Advisory Council at each district school. The Council would meet regularly to give teachers the chance to evaluate and improve the instructional program. Each council would be given a budget to administer and teachers could submit proposals to use the money to reinforce basic skills in their classes. Approval would be by the council in each local school. A district total of $16,000 would be set aside for the council budgets.

The Curriculum Advisory Councils and administrators in each school would emphasize the use of spelling lists and drill, vocabulary development and appropriate outside reading assignments in all classes.

Two inservice days per year would be planned for all teachers (elementary through senior high) to meet in basic skills areas and each teacher would be asked to prepare a course syllabus for the 1981-82 year. DPI would be asked to help in providing examples and inservice workshops.

The district's Supervisor of Curriculum (Dr. Arthur Gilbert) would be asked to spend one hour in a language arts classroom and one in a math classroom somewhere in the district each week. The purpose would be to

Gabfest

Once again Christmas is over, on the calendar, but let's pledge ourselves that it will never be over in our hearts. Let's remember it in the thunderstorms of July; let's remember it in the hot, humid days of next August, and let's hold close that feeling of spiritual uplift, the warmth of human friendships and the glory of the beauty of nature in its many seasons. Now, the tinsel is just tinsel, the turkey has ended up in soup, and the leftover cookies look forlorn and strangely unappetizing. We have been on the mountain top of experience, and it is not easy to come down from that "high" and walk in the valley below. It usually takes me about two days to unwind, "get back to the salt mines" and face reality.

So far we're not having the stark beauty of the winter wonderland of snow, but on the other hand, we are not having to cope with the side issues it brings. Our roads are clear and the weather is easy on our heating systems. It seems that probably ninety-five percent of the population are burning wood stoves in one form or another. We have come full circle and we are finding every day that our main concern is back to basics...food, clothing and shelter.

This winter I'm going to have a special little friend in the bird world. One of the mockingbirds comes to my doorstep and is not at all afraid. Dad says he must be the one he watched perform his acrobatics on the roof top all summer and he more he talked to him the more anxious he was to perform.

My friend, Tess, reported that she was out with her dog on a recent morning and saw more wild geese than she has ever seen at one time. The sky was dark with them. And they were heading South! Maybe the guy in the corner of the "V" lost his road map!

The wild horses of the wind are galloping across the meadows at Trail's End this morning. It makes us doubly grateful for the hearth fire. You have heard me say before that when January passes and it always seems twice as long as it is) then I start looking for spring. We'll get a February thaw with a balmy wind, and I'll persuade myself that I can already smell the lilacs. Shelley said it fine... "O Wind, If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?"

The Rev. and Mrs. William Fleischauer spent Christmas evening with Mrs. Helen Workman.

Christmas guests of Mrs. Alice McIlvaine were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wiseman and son, Mark, of Chesapeake, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hatfield and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bollinger entertained fifty-five guests at the Bollinger home to a buffet dinner on Christmas Eve. Joining the group for the entire holidays were Mr. and Mrs. William Bollinger and their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Bollinger and daughter, Wendy, of Lewisburg, Pa.

On the day after Christmas, Mrs. William Bollinger entertained to luncheon in Dover, Mrs. Ellen Bollinger, Mrs. William Bollinger, Mrs. Jacob Hatfield, Teddy Keith and his friend, Brett.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hatfield spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs.

Allen Whitelock.

Mrs. Alice McIlvaine and Mrs. Theresa Ottey were afternoon callers at Trail's End this week. They also visited Miss Mary Morris at The Country Rest Home.

Miss Annette Whitelock of Deal Island was a weekend visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Whitelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDowell entertained to Christmas Eve and Christmas dinner for all their children and families. Their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor of Plymouth, N. Carolina joined the group, and also Mr. McDowell's sister, Miss Margaret McDowell. Also house guests Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Hutchinson of Lancaster, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. James McDowell and family entertained members of their respective families on New Year's Eve according to their annual custom.

Senior sounds with Sylvia Meredith as leader. Those making the songs come alive were Mildred Vincent, John McCready, Tony Perrone, Francis Wright, Florence Minner, Laurence Kates, Ola Tilden and Anna Mae Short.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anthony called the last Bingo game of 1981 and a grand time was had by all. Mrs. Juanita McLain was the winner of the cup. Ice cream and cookies was passed around.

Clint our DAST driver took those who wanted to go, local shopping.

Anna Mae has started another plaited rug. Really pretty, too, lots of red so far, love red.

Welcome to our new members from Wilmington and other places, hope you will be contented and gloriously happy with us.

The new monthly letters were so easy to get out this month, just peel and stick. Get more modern every day!! But they are still finding tuffles the old fashion way.

Thank you, volunteers! Best wishes to all who are ill or in sorrow. Our prayers are with you. Come to the Center. Faith.

Smile!! It's nice to greet you - in the New Year.

Everyone seemed to have a very prosperous Happy Christmas. Saw lots of beaming faces in pictures. Especially like the smiles on the young faces. They seem so full of energy and get up and go. Bless them all.

Reverend Markley of Trinity and Prospect Church of Harrington and vicinity was leader at Bible Study, Monday morning. His topic was 5th chapter St. John. An hour of inspiration and testament ended happily. Present were Essie Redden, Florence Minner, Tony Perrone, Thelma LeGates, Roxanne and Marion Brown, Ruth Bradley, Francis Wright, Mildred Vincent, Anna Mae Short, Laurence Kates, Elizabeth Anthony, John McCready and Mrs. Fortney. The songs they sang were "Brighten the Corner Where You are," "Tis So Sweet To Trust in Jesus," closing hymn - "In the Garden," which in my estimation is a beautiful hymn.

Sylvia Meredith played, "Church in the Wildwood", "Whispering", "When I Grow to Old to Dream", "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree with Anyone Else But Me", and many more goodies Tuesday morning at band practice when the Jolly Timers rallied forth, Andy Anderson, Mildred Vincent,

Anne's Kitchen

Spark up your next dinner with a "Frittata" and surprise your family with a nutritious, low-cost taste delight. Anyone who can turn out a respectable omelet will have no trouble with a "Frittata". It's a meal in itself, can be made in short order and will not burden your food budget.

You can use any one of several variations for the vegetable such as chopped broccoli, cauliflower, asparagus, or artichoke hearts. This recipe calls for chopped spinach. I prefer to use fresh whenever possible, but if you like you may use frozen. Should you decide to go with the latter, skip the cooking steps and instead just thaw and drain well.

"FRITTATA"
2 cups cooked, chopped well-drained spinach.

1 clove garlic minced
1/3 cup Italian grated cheese
8 eggs, beaten
Salt and pepper to taste
Approx. 4 tablespoons olive oil.

1. In a large bowl, beat eggs, add all other ingredients except olive oil.
2. Heat olive oil in a large skillet. Add egg and spinach mixture and allow to set. Gently loosen sides and allow liquid to drain under.
3. When Frittata looks fairly well set, put a plate over the skillet and invert the Frittata into it.
4. Add more oil if needed and slide Frittata back into skillet to finish cooking. Slide or invert onto plate again and serve by cutting into wedges.

ENJOY!

Your Area Church News
Harrington Baptist Church

Invitation: As a Bible believing church, we issue an invitation to make a public profession of faith and trust in the Lord at the conclusion of each message. The reason we do this is to give an opportunity to make a trust and surrender public: "Whoever therefore shall confess me before men, I will confess him before my Father which is in Heaven." Matthew 10:32. When you come forward, you make a stand for Jesus and promise to obey

Him for the rest of your life, beginning with the ordinance of baptism (immersion). There is no such thing as a silent Believer: "I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak." II Cor. 4:13. Two more nights are left for you to attend the Mid-Winter Bible Conference starting at 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. tonight and Thursday. A class for every age. Sat., 10:30 a.m., WMU Council at the church. Layman's Day will be Sunday, Jan. 31. A breakfast at 8 a.m. will begin the day. Dow Wood will be the morning speaker and Deacon Munis Mall will speak at the evening service. Happy Birthday wishes go out to the following persons born in January, Helen and Tag Gammon, Fred Bailey, Jr., James Brownlee, Richard Hayes, Sr., and James Phillippi.

Reformation Lutheran Church

The Sunday School classes will be celebrating Epiphany on January 10. Epiphany (Jan. 6 or twelve days after Christmas) is celebrated as the time when the Wise Men (Magi) brought their special gifts to the Christ Child. In many European and Spanish speaking countries, Epiphany is the day that gifts are given, instead of Dec. 25, which is a day for family and going to Church.

For our Epiphany celebration we will be sharing our individual gifts. If you play an instrument bring it with you to share, if you draw bring a picture, if you like to write bring a story or poem or thoughts. Bring anything that you do that is special to you. EVERYONE TO JOIN IN WITH SINGING! Come, help us celebrate the special gift of Epiphany and you might encounter the Wise Men.

Part Time Secretary Proposed
The Council has approved and the proposed budget reflects the hiring of a part-time secretary for the Church. The time involved would be from 9-12 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The job would involve typing and running of the mimeograph machine, filing and record keeping. The salary proposed is $4.00 an hour. If you know of someone who would be interested in seeing the job description, please see Pastor Ranney.

Calvary Wesleyan News

Children's Choir and CYC resumes this Wednesday evening starting at 6:00. The Children's Choir presented a wonderful Christmas musical and have already started work on "Down By The Creek Bank" a musical written by Dottie Rambo. The Youth meetings resume also on Wednesday night at 7 p.m. & the Adults will meet for a Missionary Meeting at the same hour. A full schedule of Sunday services will be conducted with Sunday School convening at 9:30. The Morning Worship Hour at 10:40 and the Evening

Gospel hour at 7:00. The Senior Choir rehearsals are on Sunday evening at 6:00. Bible studies on the Book of James will start again on Wednesday evening, Jan. 13th. A Clean Sweep For Fan Hanover COLUMBUS, OHIO-Fan Hanover, the first female pacer voted Harness Horse of the year in the U.S. Trotting Association's annual polling of North American harness writers and race secretaries, was also named "Pacer of the Year" and "3-Year-Old Filly Pacer of the Year" for 1981.

Dr. J. Glen Brown of Brampton, Ont., owns the daughter of Albatross, who was trained and driven by Glen Garnsey. Fan Hanover, on her way to seasonal winnings of $497,717, also became the first of her sex to win the prestigious Little Brown Jug. Overall, she won 17 of 23 races, including 12 stakes, and set a pair of world records. The career winner of $698,891 will return to the races in 1982. Dr. Brown purchased Fan Hanover for $20,000 in 1979.

Other winners in the various pacing categories included McKinzie Almahurst, Three Diamonds, Seahawk Hanover, Royce, and Toy Poodle. McKinzie Almahurst, the leading money winning standardbred of 1981 with $936,110 was named "2-Year-Old Pacing Colt of the Year." The Five Guys and Me Stable's pacer was named on half of the 248 ballots received in defeating Temujin and Icarus Lobell. Three Diamonds was tabbed the top freshman pacing filly after a season which included a world record over a mile track (1: 56), victories in all but one of her 10 starts, and earnings of $293,275 for owner George Segal, Highland Park, Ill.

The consistent Seahawk Hanover won "3-Year-Old Pacing Colt of the Year" honors after winning five stakes and $574,900 this year for owners David Harris, Marilyn Schragger, Jane Rosenbloom, and Sam (Skip) Lewis, who also trained Seahawk Hanover. Other leading vote getters in this category were Conquered and Eastern Skipper.

Royce and Toy Poodle were tabbed as the top aged pacers in the horse and mare categories respectively. Royce, who was the runner-up in Pacer of the Year voting, won $352,100 in 1981 for owners James and Pauline Crane, and Allen and Connie Skolnick. Bandelier and Rambling Willie were the next highest vote getters.

Toy Poodle was the only pacer to capture year-end honors for the second consecutive year. The multiple world record holder and seasonal money winner of $186,330 was voted "3-Year-Old Filly Pacer of 1980." She is owned by James S. Michael, Bucyrus, Ohio.

Lake Forest Schools

assure the implementation of the district's math curriculum and prepare for the second year (which will emphasize language arts) in the Lake Forest Five Year Curriculum Development plan.

Workshops on teaching reading in science would be planned for W.T. Chipman. Similar workshops in other areas would be scheduled whenever possible.

Department heads would work with a

DPI team to "establish acceptable standards in the senior and junior high school". Inservice workshops in this area are all planned for January 25 and Feb. 15.

Teachers would have their lesson plan books checked weekly by their principals who would also meet once a month with each teacher to discuss what is being taught in the classroom and how it is being done.

Summer seminars on student/teacher attitude would be planned on a workshop on Assertive Discipline planned for the 1981-82 school year.

Dr. Powell also outlined steps to decrease paperwork and increase classroom instruction time for special ed teachers.

Discipline

In a recent interview with the Journal the Lake Forest superintendent also said the district is cracking down on students who pose severe disciplinary problems. Fighting, in particular, is a target. Dr. Powell said there have been too many suspensions for students fighting in school and that suspension was not proving an effective method of handling the problem. He reported parents are now being called in the first time students are involved in fighting. Depending upon individual circumstances, a board hearing and expulsion for the remainder of the year could follow a second offense. Several students have been expelled this academic year.

of Webb's Lane, Dover, slipped up behind Benson concealing a kitchen paring knife. At this point Benson turned, saw Daniels and allegedly grabbed him. Daniels, apparently frightened by Benson's large size, reacted by cutting his assailant's throat.

After dragging Daniels outside, Benson reportedly collapsed because of the loss of blood. Getting to his feet, he managed to make it to 5 Ward Street where he fell through the door when his knock was answered.

Daniels was arrested and charged with first degree assault. Free on a $25,000 secured bond, he awaits arraignment and trial in Delaware Superior Court.
