In a decision sent down by Judge George R. Wright, truck stop owner John Trifillis was found in violation of state air pollution regulations for a period of two days and assessed a civil penalty of $2,000.

The Department had charged Trifillis with eight counts of open burning without a permit and one count of violating a cease and desist order after a fire involving an estimated 25,000

Kent Superior Court has ruled in tires burned from February 27 to March 6 of last year.

According to court records, Trifillis was burning weeds in a field next to the abandoned truck stop when the fire got out of control and spread to the tires. The fire was contained, but continued burning and smoldering. the Department issued a cease and desist order requiring that the fire be put out by March 5, and on March 6 Trifillis had the tires buried.

The judge accepted testimony that the defendant made a reasonable effort to extinguish the fire for approximately two of the eight days, but failed due to circumstances beyond his control.

Monday that all of the problems the city is experiencing with the railroad .. can be solved.

Those problems have generally fallen into three categories: 1) crossing gates that have not operated properly, 2) the noise of engines left idling for long periods in residential areas 3) a slow response to the "hot line" which connects Conrail and the local firehouse.

The problem with the crossing gates, which at times go down for long periods with no appraoching train in evidence, at others have been delayed until after the train is in the intersection, and at still others have gone up and down eratically like a maestro directing a musical score, Arnett said is a serious one which will take the most time to correct. ## Frederica and Felton elections are Monday

Monday, March 1, will see annual Town Council elections in both Felton and Frederica. In both communities Council members are elected at-large. Winners are the top vote getters. -Felton-

In Felton, three council seats are up for grabs. Running for another term are long-time Felton Mayor William Myers, Sr. and veteran Council member, Don Jacobs. Felton residents George Egler and John Hopkins are also seeking one of the two-year terms. Hopkins made an unsuccessful bid for a seat in 1981.

Election hours are 5-8 p.m. on Monday, March 1, in the fire hall. -Frederica-

In Frederica, the only person to file for any of the three positions is incumbent Council member Virginia Simpler who has served one term. Asa Fleming and Helen Powers did not file for re-election. Again, as in 1982, it appears the Frederica Council will be elected by write-in vote.

innocence

Thomas Steerman, arrested earlier this month on a charge of reckless endangering when he allegedly pulled a gun on a former tenant, is out of Delaware Correctional Center, Smyrna, after raising $7,500 in bond money. Steer man told The Journal last week he is innocent of the charge. The Harrington area landlord said he did, indeed, stop his former tenants, the Robert Warren, Jr. family on Commerce Street in Harrington in an effort to discus a civil dispute. However, he claims he did not pull a gun and in fact, had no gun of the type described in the complaint in his possession. He says he did have his son's unloaded rifle and 20 guage shotgun in his car at the time. In his pocket were several 12 guage shot gun shells which would fit neither weapon in the car at the time. In his pocket were several 12 guage shotgun shells which would fit neither weapon. Steerman said he was carrying the guns because he had promised to take his son target shooting.

Steerman said that the incident which occurred near Trinty Church caused a traffic tie-up through town when he leaned on his car horn in an effort to attract the attention of local police. He eventually got in his vehicle and left the scene.

Later that same day Steerman was arrested as he was on his way from a local bank to see his doctor. He was charged with one count of reckcless endangering plus two of criminal solicitation. He was committed to DCC in lieu of $45,000bond. That figure was subsequently lowered to $7,500.

Dear Ms. Short:

The January 19 letter from Mr. L. Stanley Crane, Chairman and Chief Operating Officer of Conrail, clearly shows that Conrail is not fully aware of the severity of the problems experienced by the citizens of Harrington. The excessive idling of engines, as well as the faulty crossing gates, are vitally important issues that must be thoroughly investigated. I am greatly concerned about this matter and will therefore send two of my staff members, Mr. Darry Carmine and Mr. Gregg Rummel, to the Public Hearing scheduled for Feb. 24, at 8:00 p.m. It is my understanding that represen-

The noisey engine complaint Arnett claimed, should already have been eradicated. ## LF grapplers upset Dover-

Tom Shaffer's Spartan varsity wrestling team finished its regular season in hair-raising style last Wednesday as Lake Forest upset Dove, 33-29. The final match was a cliff hanger in which local fans were kept on their feet ruary 4, the Spartan grapplers have through much of the last bout as Heavyweight Greg Bell took on an apparently heavier David Tunstill. The bout went to a 9-9 tie in the third period before Bell pinned tunstill to grab the 6 points that won the match. Going into the bout, the Spartans were trailing 27-29.

Early on the match looked like a downer for Lake Forest as the Spartans dropped the first four bouts with three decisions (including two superior) and a forfeit. When Kenny Kline battled his Senator opponent to a 6-6 draw, Lake Forest made it to the scoreboard, but was way behind 21-2.

With senior Charles Jones' superior decision over Dover's Steve Polo (13-1) the match seemed to turn around. The next three Spartan wrestlers - Dave Lapinsky, David Wilson and Hershel Harmon - recorded pins, and Glenn Collison held for a 2-2 draw. All this put the Spartans ahead 27-23. However, a forfeit in the 185 pound class put the Senators back on top, leaving it for Greg Bell to do the heavy work

Under the guidance of head coach Tom Shaffer and his assistant Steve Smith, the Spartans have overcome what looked like a very disappointing season at its outset. CIGAR INHALERS When a smoker inhales, a dangerous compound called carboxyhemoglobin forms in the blood. It interferes with the blood's ability to carry oxygen to the body's cells - and it induces hardening of the arteries. At the Tampa V.A. Hospital, doctors found that inhaling cigar smokers had almost twice as much carboxyhemoglobin in the blood as cigarette smokers - and eight times as much as the normal level among non-smokers.

SMILE! Cheerfulness is a state of mind. Let us try to keep our life in focus and sorta bypass all the unpleasant trials out of our day to day living. Want to say a few special words to the Homebounds and those that are ill this week as the last sheet of my newsletter was left on my kitchen table. In it, we at the Center wished you the best and pray that you will soon be able to attend the Center. Know you will enjoy being with friends and chatting. And isn't it nice to eat away from home sometimes also!! It's a treat, really! Also wanted to tell you of the plaque that was mentioned for deceased members. A grand idea, for it was those first brave folks who started the whole thing in Harrington and vicinity! Center being closed Monday, there was no Bible Study of course, sorta messes up the week doesn't it? But then came Tuesday morning and Sylvia called the Jolly Timers together with a few bars of a little tune! Mildred Vincent was not present, so did not get those present. Hope hereafter someone else will report to me who is playing and a few of the songs they played. As I am writing from home now. Two young girls from Lake Forest

High School came to describe some rug in progress. Anna Mae Short gets help the Center might be able to give to it out every once in a while and some a project they had in mind Tuesday morning also.

Tuesday afternoon was happy, happy birthday time. The table was completely surrounded with smiling faces. D.C. and vicinity Tuesday. # The Invitations to Your Wedding Choosing the right invitation style for your wedding is among the most important tasks a couple must undertake before their wedding.

Order invitations three months before your weddin day to allow time for printing, addressing, and mailing. Be sure to request a sample check for mistakes before your order is printed.

Inviting your favorite people to celebrate your wedding is a big part of the day's fun. If you're having a larger wedding (100 or more guests) you'll want to send formal wedding invitations.

Word formal invitations the traditional way. And do write out what you want before you order. Or ask your printer to show you personalized versions. If all your guests are being invited to both ceremony and reception, consider the "combination" invitation, below:

Mr. and Mrs. John Sampson request the honour of your presence at the Marriage of their Daughter Teresa Dawn to

Mr. Darrell Charles Tucker on Saturday, the Fourth of August at Four O'Clock St. James Church Mt. Prospect, Illinois and Afterwards at Old Orchard Country Club

Request replies with an R.S.V.P., Kindly Respond, or Please Respond in the lower left corner, and make it easy for guests to mail them. Printed reply cards do make it easy for guests.

Spel out everything on formal invitations--the wedding date, time, and all numerals, and names. No abbreviations, initials or nicknames are used--except Mr., Oe., Mrs., and Jr. Traditionally, only the bride's first and middle names are printed. But if you're a doctor or military officer, you can add your title and full name below the phrase, their daughter. You may or may not want to add Mr. before your fiance's name.

Begin your invitations with the name of the person(s) sponsoring the wedding. The name at the top of an invitation is not supposed to tell your guests who's paying the bills, so whether you live at home or not, your parents' names should head the invitations. You might also include the groom's parents names below his on the invitation....John North Fleming-son of-Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fleming...if your parents are deceased, your guardian, a relative, or a friend can host the wedding. Or you two can be your own sponsors. If your parents are divorced, the parent who raised you usually does the inviting. If that's your mother, and she's remarried, she uses your step-father's name, inserts the phrase at the marriage of her daughter, than adds your full name. Divorced but friendly parents can issue a joint invitation.

Have your formal invitations printed in black script on the top page of a double sheet of paper in pale ivory or white. It can be paneled or plain. The most popular size,  $4^{1}/4$ " x  $5^{3}/4$ " fits into an envelope without folding. A larger size,  $5^{1}/4$ " x  $7^{1}/4$ " is folded once for mailing. It's for very formal weddings.

Add more "personality" to your invitations by choosing a translucent (parchment perhaps) or shiny paper in a pretty pastel or an earthy tone. Use colorful ink, or even a photograph of the two of you. [See ads on pages 12 & 16]

Choosing Your Flowers

Here are a few aspects to consider when you choose the flowers for your wedding:

The size and the kind of room you plan to decorate. A large, lavishly furnished room requires fewer flowers than a small, bare room.

The basic color scheme you have used throughout your wedding. Your flowers should coordinate somehow with the colors and style of the clothes for your wedding party.

The time of year in which you plan to get married. Find out from your florist what kinds of flowers are in season then; they are usually much less expensive than out-of-season flowers. Also be sure to find out which flowers will remain fresh the longest at that time of year. You don't want your blooms to wilt halfways through the ceremony! The kind of lighting--natural or artificial--that will characterize your weddings. This affects how your flowers will look and how long they'll stay fresh. [See ads on pages 4 & 12]

Say It With Flowers

From the style of the bridal gown to the music for the ceremony, your wedding should express your devotion to one another to the fullest. And, when it comes to the flowers, enhance each arrangement by choosing flowers with inner significance, and create the perfect composition that will truly depict your own special kind of love.

ABC's of Selecting Your Ring Are 4 C's

The engagement ring is not as easy to select as it is to wear, and though each stone may seem luxurious and elegant to the inexperienced shopper, each diamond is actually different. Because diamonds vary in quality, you should purchase yours from a reputable jeweler who can offer expert advice. But, it is equally essential that you know the "four C's" as they are referred to by jewelers -- cut, color, clarity and carat weight which will help you judge the quality of the gem.

Cut refers both to the shape of the diamond -- be it the popular, round brilliant, the rectangular emerald, pear, heart, oval, or boat-shaped marquise -- and to the skill and precision of the cutting. To release maximum brilliance, a diamond must be cut according to strict standards. A full cut diamond has 58 facets: A perfect cut refers not to the number of facets, but to their angles and the proportions of the stone.

Color is thought by some to be the most important determinant of diamond value. The ideal diamond is crystal clear as a raindrop. But, such stones are rare. Most are tinged with yellow or brown. And, while this tinge might detract from nd whe diamond's value, it usually doesn't diminish the stone's spectacular sparkle.

Clarity refers to the diamond's internal quality. A flawless diamond shows no "inclusions" when viewed under ten power magnification. Ninety-nine per cent of diamonds over half a carat have some flaws. Like a slight tinge of color, inclusions lessen a diamond's value but seldom detract from their beauty. Carat, of course, is the measure of the weight of the diamond. A carat equals 1/42nd of an ounce, or two hundred milligrams. Each carat is divided into 100 points, thus a 1/2 carat diamond weighs 50 points. The word "carat" comes from the carob seed which was so uniform in weight that it was used to weigh diamonds. ## A Wedding Offers Photos to Remember

Although the bride and groom are the center of attraction on their wedding day, many "behind-the-scenes" activities can bring additional joy to the important occasion if there's an instant camera on hand.

Whether you are a family member or friend, you can spark this extra fun. Such instances as "decorating" the couple's car, throwing the rice, and laughing with old friends are just a few by the many moments that can be captured instantly on film.

The best advice is to keep a sharp lookout for subjects that would make good storytelling pictures, and keep an instant camera on hand to record the memorable scenes.

Of course, weddings deserve the best in photographic coverage and a professional photographer should be on hand to document the formalities. In addition to the pictures the professional will supply, your candid prints will help round out the picture story.

You may even want to give the couple one or two of the best instant pictures as an "instant thank you" for the invitation and before they leave the reception for their honeymoon. It would we a thoughtful and timely gesture. [See ad on page 3]

THREE MONTHS BEFORE THE WEDDING

-Order your invitations, personal stationary and note paper.

-Make plans for your honeymoon destination.

The bridal couple always receives best wishes and congratulations. The father of the bride always receives sympathy and tea, or maybe something stronger from the father of a former bride. Because it's Dad who pays the bills with pride and pleasure, then with astonishment and exasperation. But also with plenty of company. Here are all those who help meet the expenses of a modern wedding.

THE BRIDE

1. Her trouseau.

- 2. Wedding ring for her bridegroom,
- 3. Wedding gift for her groom (optional).
- 4. Presents for her attendants.
- 5. Accomodations for her attendants.

6. Personal stationery and calling cards.

7. Her medical examination.

8. If she is financially independent, the bride may assume any other of her family's traditional responsibilities.

Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue...ever wonder where many of our wedding customs originated?

If you're planning an old-fashioned wedding, replete with grandmother's dress and the traditional ceremony--read up on the following customs--you'll be amazed and amused at the tradition that stands behind each and every wedding ceremony.

THE BRIDAL SHOWER

At one time, marriage was a business proposition between parents of the bride and groom. Love was not important. What was? The price the groom's family paid for the bride. And the size of the bride's dowry. The first shower? A poor dutch miller fell in love with a maiden whose father forbade the match and refused to provide a dowry. The miller's friends came to the rescue and showered the bride-to-be with enough gifts to start housekeeping.

THE BRIDE'S HANDKERCHIEF

Early farmers thought a bride's wedding day tears were lucky and brought rain for their crops. Later, a crying bride meant that she'd never shed another tear about her marriage. Why not start your own bridal tradition. Embroider your initials and wedding date on a hanky, then give it to the next woman in your family to marry; she can do the same for another bride. Or maybe even do two hankies--one for your mother, another for his...wedding day keepsakes for their tears of joy.

ATTENDANTS' attire

Ever notice that the maids, ushers, and entire bridal party dress very much like the bride and groom? It was once common for bride, groom and all their friends to talk together to the church. Afriad that someone--maybe a rejected suitor--would spot the happy couple and put a curse on them, the groom's friends wore clothes almost identical to his--and the women custumed themselves like the bride. These "disguises" tricked evil-wishers into letting the real bride and groom live happily ever after. The tradition of having beautifully dressed attendants is still with us. But today it's fine for you to vary the looks.

Wedding Customs

OVER THE THRESHOLD

Because ancient man stole his bride, he carried her over the threshold kicking and shouting. Struggling is still a Greek threshold ritual, but no one remembers why. Now for everyone it's another happy custom!

BOUQUET AND BOUTONNIÈRES

Early bridesmaids' bouquets were made of pungent herbs like thyme and garlic--not flowers. The smell was supposed to scare away any bad fairies eyeing the bridal party. Even the groom wore a few sprigs. Your groom, though, will sport white stephanotis in his lapel, or a flower from your bouquet. And you will carry the traditional flowers. Why not adopt another old idea. Tuck one non-flowering thing in your bridal bouquet to plant--maybe some myrtle or ivy.

THE BLUE SATIN GARTER

Why "Something Blue"? In ancient Israel, brides wore a blue ribbon to signify fidelity. The garter-throwing itself derives from a bawdy ritual called "flinging the stocking." In Britain the guests invaded the bridal chamber. The ushers grabbed the bride's stockings; the maids, the groom's. They took turns sitting at the foot of the bed flinging the stocking over their heads. Whosever stocking landed on the bride's or groom's nose would be the next to wed. Now, before you change into your going-away clothes, your groom will remove your garter and you'll toss it -- just after you throw your bouquet, of course. And who's going to be the next groom? The lucky bachelor who catches the garter.

THE WEDDING RING

The circle shape symbolizes eternal love. But in ancient Egypt before coins were minted, gold rings were used as currency. To show he trusted his wife with his money, the Egyptian husband placed one of these rings on her finger. The ancients thought that love traveled to the heart in the vein of the third finger, left hand--just where you'll wear your ring.

TOSSING RICE

In the days when people lived off the land, their existence depended upon having a good harvest and enough children to help with all the work. Primitive people believed the bride and groom spread good luck on their wedding day. Anyone or anything that touched them would also be lucky. So they showered the couple with ripe grain or nuts, wishing a large harvest for themselves--and a large family for the newlyweds. Wedding guests still throw rice--wheat, rose petals, confetti too. Surprise your guests with individual packets of birdseed as favors. They'll have fun throwing it. The birds and chipmunks will enjoy eating it!

THE HONEYMOON

The first marriages were by capture, not choice. When early man felt it was time to take a bride, he carried off an unwilling woman to a secret place where relatives wouldn't find them. While the moon went through all its phases--about 30 days--they hid from the searchers and drank brew from honey. Hence we get the word honeymoon, now meaning a romantic trip like the one you and your groom will take after your wedding.

THE WEDDING CAKE

Early Roman brides and grooms weren't legally wed until they ate together. A priest broke a flat wheat loaf over the bride's head. Then everyone shared the crumbs. Why? It's the old belief of passing luck and fertility back and forth between newlyweds and guests. Elizabethans piled up little cakes, over which bride and groom had to kiss without the stack falling. When it did, the guests pelted them with the cakes, then ate the pieces. The modern tiered wedding cake came into existence when a very creative baker decided to ice the stack of cakes. Now the cake--and something wonderfully bubbly to toast with--are the only two ingredients required to make a wedding reception...a wedding reception.

Planning Your Honeymoon

Important things to consider about choosing a honeymoon spot are the amount of time and money you have.

Once you choose your destination, it is the groom's responsibility to make hotel reservations. Be sure to keep your deposit receipt as proof of your reservation.

If you are flying, be sure to pick up and immediately check your tickets well in advance of your wedding day. This will allow time in case of error or needed adjustment.

Estimate how much money you will need and purchase travelers' checks. Be sure to allow for shopping, meals, and hotel bills. You might want to add an extra amount for unexpected expenses.

If you plan to use credit cards, make sure they are accepted where you are going. Take small bills for tips.

If traveling outside the U.S., check proof of citizenship and customs requirements.

An organized and well-planned honeymoon is sure to be as happy and memorable as the day it follows.

THE GROOM SHOULD:

Buy engagement ring.

-Draw up wedding guest list and have your family make out theirs. Indicate who should be seated in reserved pews.

-Invite friends to be best man and ushers in the wedding. -Visit the formal wear specialist with your bride and select outfits for you and the men.

-Choose gifts for the best man and ushers, to be given at the bachelor dinner or wedding rehearsal.

-Choose bride's wedding present. Something personal, such as a watch or other piece of fine jewelry is traditional.

-Select the wedding ring. This is chosen with the bride and should be engraved on the inside--"D.L.P. to C.J.R."--with the groom's initials first and the date.

-Plan the honeymoon. This should be done with the bride, in time to assure getting reservations.

-The bride's bouquet: traditionally, the groom pays for the bride's bouquet, going-away corsage, corsages for both mothers and other close women relatives on either side, plus boutonnieres for himself and the men.

-Get the marriage license. Check state rules about the time required. It should be obtained several weeks before the wedding, and given to the best man the day of the wedding.

-Check to be certain you and the bride have all the necessary papers, blood tests, birth certificates, baptismal certificate's, etc.

-Make insurance provisions for your new status. This should include life, personal property, household, and fire insurance for you and your bride.

-Give bachelor dinner several days before the wedding. Often the best man and ushers prefer to give this for the groom.

-Notify your attendants of the hour and place for the wedding rehearsal and take part in it.

-Provide the clergyman's fee which is given to the best man the day of the wedding either in the form of crisp bills or a check in a white envelope. The fee is generally $10 to $50 or more, depending on custom, size of wedding, and groom's circumstances.

-Be sure you and your bride sign the wedding certificate and see that it is safely put away before leaving on your honeymoon.

THE BEST MAN SHOULD:

-Take charge of the ushers, brief them on special seating arrangements during the rehearsal.

-Get the wedding ring and guard it with his life the day of the wedding. If there's a ring bearer, the best man sees that he carries out his instructions properly.

-Have marriage license and minister's fee the day of the wedding.

-Help the groom get ready for the wedding, making sure that his bags are packed. The best man usually takes the luggage of both bride and groom.

-Check for tickets, reservations, train connections, etc., for the honeymoon and be sure tickets are in the groom's pocket. -Call for and accompany the groom to the wedding. They should be there at least fifteen minutes before the ceremony begins. The best man may choose to present the chergyman's fees during this waiting time, or just after the ceremony. Following the ceremony, he sees that the members of the wedding party leave in the proper cars.

-Be toastmaster and time-keeper at the bridal table during the reception. Help couple get away.

The smart bride will schedule a timetable for herself--to make sure everything goes as planned as so she looks her loveliest on her wedding day.

THE WEEK BEFORE

First, gather everything together--clothing, jewelry, cosmetics, beauty needs. Most brides are too excited on their big day to go hunting for that stray lipstick or hair setter, so it's wise to have those things in a prearranged place. Keep them in a separate place just for that day.

Next, set aside a day to give yourself a wedding day dress rehearsal. Time yourself. See how long it takes to apply your makeup, set your hair.

Get the feel of your wedding dress--walk around in it, sit down in it, learn how to manage the train and those billowing sleeves. And don't forget to break in your wedding shoes. Wear them for a few minutes every day, and be sure to practice climbing up and down stairs. After all, you wouldn't want the fun of the receiving line to be spoiled by pinched toes and aching arches! You've probably gathered your wedding outfit together already for the final fitting of your dress, or for your bridal portrait. But now's the time to double-check every last detail. Do you need a firmer bra, a smoother slip, dress shieldsWould smaller earrings be more delicateAs your makeup flattering in all kinds of lightAt's nice to know you've still got the time to make any changes!

Sometime during this last week, give yourself a head-to-toe beauty workover. Tweeze your eyebrows, shave your legs and underarms, get a manicure and pedicure. And for a truly radiant wedding glow, eat a well-balanced diet and keep up on eight hours of sleep a night.

IT'S YOUR WEDDING DAY!

Start the day off in a warm, scented bath or refreshing shower.

Smooth on body lotion, use deodorant and talc.

Apply frangrance to pulse points--temples, in front of ears, inside wrists, in your clevage.

4-5 HOURS TO GO

Get your hair done at a salon. Or give yourself a shampoo and set at home. (Again, don't use any shampoo, creme rinse or conditioner that you haven't tried before.) Touch up your manicure and pedicure.

2-3 HOURS TO GO

Snack on a light meal-tea and crackers, a small sandwich, yogurt.

Lie down and relax for 30 minutes. 1-2 HOURS TO GO

Wash and moisturize your face.

Apply your makeup-foundation, blusher, eyeshadow, mascara.

1 HOUR AHEAD

Get into your dress (how-to's, below)

Put on your earrings and necklace (always after you're dressed, so they won't snag), switch your engagement ring to your right hand.

Step into your shoes.

30 MINUTES AHEAD

Put the finishing touches on your hair. Attach your headpiece (have mother help). Cover your dress and apply lipstick, gloss. AT THE LAST MINUTE

Dust a little powder on your face. Sprinkle on a few more drops of scent. Take your flowers and smile--it's your day! [See ads on pages 3,4,6,12]

Shower Them With Gifts, but Make Them Practical, Please!!

What to give a couple for their bridal shower has always been a problem.

Here are some simple rules to remember when shopping for bridal shower gifts.

1. Don't select anything in a color that might not go with the decor. Neutral shades are best for towels or table cloths, unless you know the couple's color scheme for their new home.

2. Unless you know precisely what type of bed they'll have, don't select bed linens.

3. Don't buy anything that comes in sizes. Curtains, for example, make poor gifts.

4. Don't select a gift that can only be used by either the bride or the groom.

5. Most shower gifts should be practical gifts, items that can be used frequently.

6. Don't select holiday gifts such as Christmas figurines. Make marriage a little easier on your newlywed friends with a handy appliance that takes over some time-consuming job.

Dual Purpose Furnishings

Chances are that living quarters for you, the new Mr. and Mrs., will be rather small, perhaps even as cramped as a single apartment, while you save or look for that dream house.

If space is at a premium in your new home, experts agree that you should consider furnishing it with items that are dual-purpose.

Fortunately, there are many furnishings now available that help solve space problems, efficiently and fashionably.

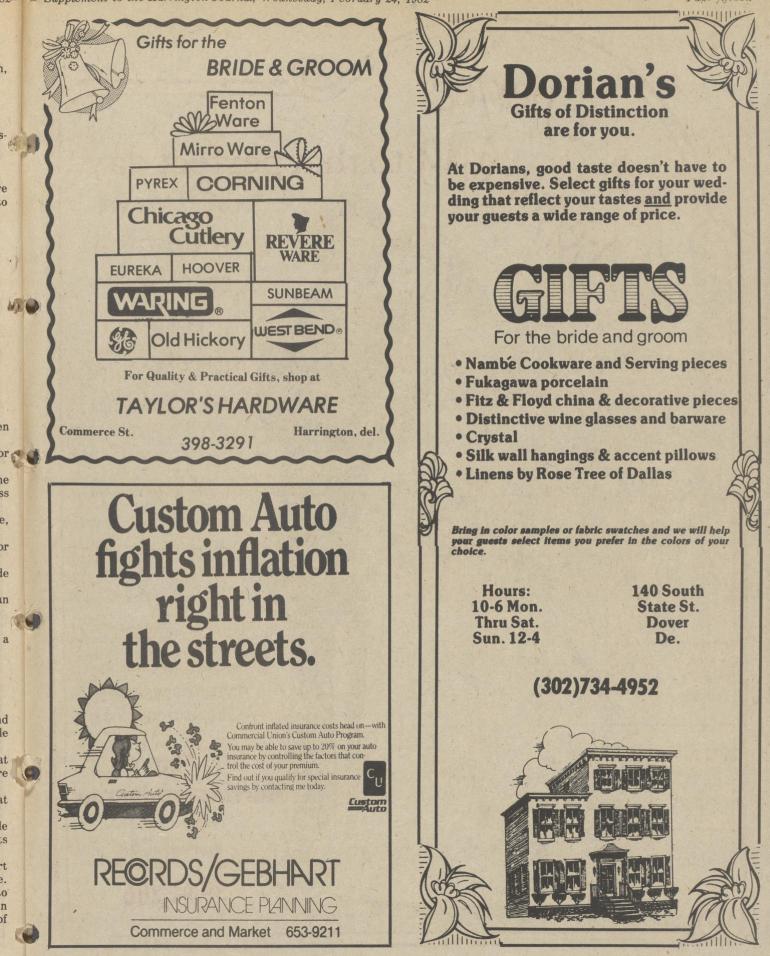

Sleep-sofas, for instance, provide attractive seating while entertaining, convert into comfortable beds when guests depart.

Modular wall shelves, drawers, and cabinets provide a smart solution to storage problems when you're cramped for space. These units have the added advantage to being adaptable to any room. What may serve as a decorative storage system in your living room today, may be put to use in the bedroom of your future home.
