inserted each tie in the right spot. The machine in the center photo raised each rail as vibrations forced crushed stone under it. Then another was used to lift the rail so that men [right photo] could slip grooved metal plates between tie and track. This was followed by still another machine that lifted tie and rail together as it drove spikes through the holes in the grooved plates. In addition to machines employed, thirty-two men were hired for the operation.

Dr. Powell: There will be changes...

Next year, promised Lake Forest Superintendent of Schools Dr. Edward Powell, there will be some changes made. Powell is speaking of Lake Forest High School where he says absenteeism and tardiness are too high. There are also too many teacher referrals of students to the office for behavior problems.

He told the Lake Forest Board of Education Monday night that the faculty and administration at the high school are working to tighten up a lax attitude toward some things and to create a more positive atmosphere in the school.

Powell mentioned a few of the changes he has in mind.

A student who is late to class will get a detention the first time, his parents will get a call the second time. This is in contrast to the present policy which allows a student three tardies before he gets a detention. That makes it possible for him to be as late as many as fourteen times before getting three tardies in any one class.

Parents of students who are absent will get a phone call each time. Powell says the absentee rate is too high.

There will be no more three day vacations, more formally known as out of school suspensions. Instead there will be in school suspensions during which students will be assigned to a classroom for the entire day and accompanied to the cafeteria and to the bathroom. Federal block grant money will be used to pay for the necessary supervision.

There will be a self-contained unit for constantly disruptive students.

A number of teachers are now completing a summer workshop on positive behavior reinforcement.

On the positive side, Powell said this year's district California Achievement Test scores would show a marked improvement. As a matter of fact, he said, the CAT scores have been rising steadily over the past four years.

CAT scores will be made public at a later date.

Frederica gets new postmaster

Cleo Z. Adams has been appointed postmaster of Frederica, DE 19946, it was announced today by William F. Bolger, Postmaster General of the U.S. Postal Service.

Ms. Adams was one of the 17 postmasters appointed simultaneously in the states of Delaware, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The effective date of her appointment was May 29, 1982. These appointments add to the increasing number of postmasters named by the U.S. Postal Service under the non-political merit system established by the postal reorganization act of 1970.

Recommendations for appointments are made by sectional center managers/postmasters to the Postmaster General through appropriate management channels.

Mrs. Adams started her postal career in California in November of 1968. She moved to the East in 1975 and resumed her postal career in 1977 in Milton, DE. Mrs. Adams held such positions as officer-in-charge at Ellendale, Felton and Nassau, DE before becoming postmaster of Nassau in September of 1980. She held that position until her recent selection as postmaster of Frederica, DE. Cleo Adams is married and has three children and three grandchildren.

Truck drivers hold roдео by Judy Weller

The Eighth Annual Delaware Safe Truck Driver Rodeo was held on Saturday, June 19th, behind the Highway Administration Building in Dover.

This year's event was dedicated to the officers and personnel of the Delaware State Police in recognition of their continued support and efforts to promote safe driving and highway safety.

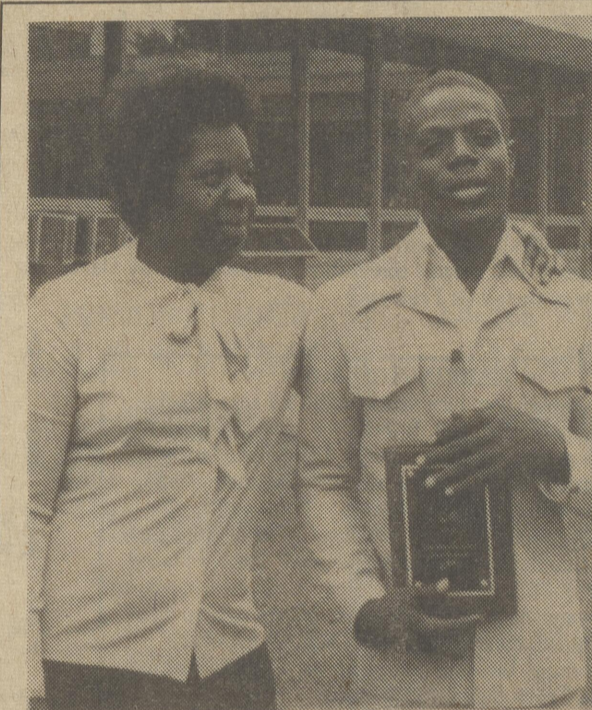

The contestants were allowed to compete in the roдео only if they had not been involved in anyway in an accident during the past year. As an example of the stringent enforcement of this rule, Earl Solloway, previous roдео and overall champion and member of the 1,000,000 mile safe driver group, was disqualified from this year's competition because he had been hit by another truck while trying to avoid the jack-knifing 18-wheeler.

Contestants were required to negotiate 6 events in the course-parallel parking, freight door, right turn, offset alley, straight line and stop line. The most skillful driver with the least time used would be the winner. Trophies were awarded for first, second and third place, best score by a first-time participant and best overall score.

Numerous truck-related exhibits were at the roдео. This included the Preston Company radar truck capable of warning a driver of unseen obstacles in his path. The computer device activates a yellow light to indicate a

A plaque and a $50 savings bond went to Frank Coverdale, son of Mrs. Margaret Coverdale [above, left]. The Rotary's Award for Most Outstanding Student went to Valerie Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Parker, Jr. Valerie [above right] received her plaque and $50 savings bond from Richard Johnson who made the presentations on behalf of the Rotary. During the graduation ceremonies, Chipman also topped two eighth graders nominated by the faculty as "Outstanding". This year they are Valerie Parker [far left] and Barry Chaffinch [left, center] son of Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Chaffinch.

Felton youth killed

Sixteen-year-old Roger L. Cole, of R.D. 2, Felton, was dead of massive internal injuries Sunday night after he was struck by a train south of Viola.

According to Delaware State Police at Troop 3, Cole was walking his bike from east to west across the tracks close to County Route 240 about three-tenths of a mile south of Viola when he apparently stumbled and fell. His fall left him in the path of a Conrail engine operated by Thomas P. Hales, of R.F.D. 4, Salisbury. On impact, the youth was thrown 39 feet, 5 inches.

Cole was transported to Kent General Hospital by State Police helicopter where he was pronounced dead at 11:30 p.m. by Dr. Baker. The accident occurred at 8:48 p.m.

Second Fatality

Cole was the second area youth to suffer fatal injuries on Sunday. Earlier seven-year-old Jeneen White of Dover became the state's fifty-first traffic fatality this year when she darted into the path of a Cadillac driven by Jay R. Hausler of Pennsylvania. She was pronounced dead at Kent General Hospital at 7:45 p.m. on Sunday. The accident occurred on U.S. 13 just south of Lakeview Avenue near Dover.

Chase starts in Felton, Md. youth jailed

Paul J. Cross, 18, of Denton, Maryland, was jailed last week after 13 1/2 mile chase that originated in Felton. Eventually the pursuit covered sections of U.S. 13 and 113 A and led to the wrecking of the brown 1972 Chevy station wagon driven by Cross who used it to ram two different police vehicles. In addition to Felton Police Chief Vincent, the Delaware State Police and the City of Dover Police were involved.

The Delaware State police furnished the following account:

At 10:50 a.m., June 15, Chief William Vincent of the Felton Police Department observed a vehicle being operated in a reckless manner on route 12 within the limits of Felton. Using the marked car's emergency warning equipment, Chief Vincent attempted to stop the violator. The operator accelerated the brown station wagon onto U.S. route 13 and fled northbound toward Dover.

Chief Vincent requested the assistance of the Delaware State Police. A plain-clothes member of the Delaware State Police, operating an unmarked police car, entered the pursuit ahead of the fleeing vehicle in an attempt to "box in" the car. The operator swerved from the left to the right lane, pulled alongside the unmarked state police car north of route 10, and intentionally rammed the right side of the police car. In the area of the Rodney Village Shopping Center, the police car was rammed a second time by the fleeing subject.

Nanticokes plan Native American Festival

A variety of activities await visitors to the Nanticoke Indian Association's Native American Living Culture Festival to be held on Saturday, June 26, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Pavilion on the campus of Delaware Technical and Community College, Rt. 18, Georgetown. According to tribal spokesman, Chief Kenneth S. Clark, the Festival will reflect many different aspects of Native American culture as they have been passed from generation to generation and as they are practiced today.

Included in the scheduled events will be music and dance performances; a fashion show of Native dress featuring examples of older Nanticoke regalia; story-telling with sign language; an art and photographic show and sale; demonstrations, show and sale of traditional crafts; and two special workshops which require advance registration. A lunch menu of Fry Bread, Indian tacos, succotash and cold drink will also be available.

Highlighting the art show will be the work of several Nanticoke artists who have not previously shown their work locally. At the Pavilion, different styles of beadwork, yarn and dowel weaving, and possibly silversmithing and stone carving will be demonstrated.

Anyone interested in either or both of the workshops may register by contacting the Nanticoke Center at 945-3400 by 4 p.m. on Friday, June 25. The morning session, Yesterday and Tomorrow is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in Room 344-B opposite the college theater. The workshop will [Continued on page 2]

School board action in brief .....

At its special and regular sessions on June 15 and June 21 the Lake Forest School Board:

- approved the purchase of new telephone equipment for the high school and for the Lake Forest South - W.T. Chipman complex (which contains the central administrative offices for the district). Buying the phones and interval wiring will give the district a guaranteed rate for the next ten years. It will mean a minuscule .49 per month savings over the cost of renting equipment from the Diamond State Telephone Company. B ut at the end of the ten years, the district will own its telephone and that cost, some $600 per month, can be eliminated. The new system will also give the buildings three intercoms and a conference call capability that will not tie up outside lines. That means a principal in one part of the building can be in contact with a supervisor in another part without causing the phone lines coming into the school to give a busy signal.
- raised the superintendent's salary to $39,000 (or $37,000 plus $2,000 for expenses). Just over half the $5000 raise comes from state funds and is mandated by a raise given by the state.

The other portion comes from the local funds. Dr. Powell started with the district a year ago at $32,000 plus $2,000 for expenses.

•did an about face in the school calendar question. At the May 17 meeting the board had changed the first day of school, September 7, from a half-day for students to a full day. The change and the manner in which it was made had angered district teachers, many of whom showed up at last Tuesday's special board meeting only to be told they were not on the agenda. However, the board did hear them in an executive session (at their request). Monday night on a motion by Cliff Chambers, the board reversed its decision by a 3-2 vote. The first day of school this year will be a half day for pupils.

•rejected both bids for trash removal after high bidder All Rite of Felton protested low bidder Eastern Disposal had violated a technical specification by not submitting its bid on a company letterhead. However, Eastern Disposal bid was over $1000 lower than that of its competitor and the board decided to call for new ones. [Continued on page 2]

CLOWNS ON PARADE - Although rain threatened to douse the celebration, Felton went ahead with its street fair and parade on Saturday. Clowns and others lined up for the slightly damp march down Main Street, while fair booths moved into the fair hall. The morning wet weather failed to dampen spirits.

 explain how today's Native Americans function in two worlds - the traditional world of their tribal heritage and the modern world.
 The second workshop, Resources for Native American Studies will be held from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at the same location. Of special interest to teachers youth group leaders, librarians, etc. it will explore ways to include Native American studies in ongoing curriculum, especially in subject areas such as history, social studies, literature, music and art.

 Throughout the day, representatives of Video Production Company of Snow Hill, MD will be filming the activities to be included in a new video-tape on the Nanticoke, which will be available to schools, libraries, TV stations and organizations in the spring of 1983. Both the Festival and the videotape are being partially funded by grants from the Delaware Humanities Forum, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Police chase

 two City of Dover police units had established a roadblock. The 1972 Chevrolet wagon moved to its right around the roadblock, continuing north on U.S. route 13.
 At the intersection with U.S. route 113A, the subject stopped in traffic for a red traffic light. Pursuing police units "boxed in" the car, and officers approached it on foot. Chief Vincent and Dover Police Officer Cook broke the driver's side window in an attempt to shut off the car's engine, and remove the ignition key. When the traffic signal turned to green, the teenager driver accelerated southbound on U.S. route 113A toward Moore's Lake, throwing Chief Vincent and Officer Cook away from the vehicle.
 The pursuit then led southbound on U.S. route 113A until the subject made a u-turn at the Moore's Lake 7 Eleven convenience store. The Chevy wagon then headed north on U.S. route 113A ramming a Dover Police car, operated by Officer Beauchamp, head-on. The fleeing car turned right onto U.S. route 13 northbound and stopped in front of Winner Ford. Chief Vincent, who had initiated the pursuit, and TFC Lester Johnson attempted to apprehend the subject who had fled on foot from his disabled car. Both police officers were assaulted before the man, who continued to resist, was subdued.

 Orsso was charged with five counts of reckless endangering first degree, two counts of assault, three charges of reckless driving, one count each of assault by motor vehicle, resisting arrest, and failure to stop at the command of a police officer, and other related traffic charges. Mr. Orsso was arraigned at Magistrate Court 7, Dover, later that day. He is being held on $13,800 bond at Delaware Correctional Center, Smyrna.
 All injuries sustained by those police officers involved were minor, and each officer refused medical treatment.
 The pursuit covered 13 1/2 miles and lasted twenty minutes.

Councilman Melvin answers his public

Councilman Curtis Melvin of Harrington's 2nd Ward recently received a letter complaining about the dirty condition of city streets. According to the letter, gutters filled with litter are a particular problem. The letter was signed only "The People of Your Community Who Care". Since there were no personal signatures, the letter cannot be printed. However, Councilman Melvin did furnish the following reply.

To The People Who Care:
 If you would please sign your name or names to this letter I could explain to you in person the actions I have been taking to clean up this problem.

Thank You,
 Curtis W. Melvin
 Councilman 2nd Ward

JULY 3 & 4 - The Mid-Del Archers will host their 10th Annual Delaware Bay Tournament Archery Shoot on July 3 & 4 at the Fox Hunters Club in Vernon. One of the highlights of the event is a Pig Roast held on Saturday night for the shooters and their families. Door prizes, donated by participating merchants, will be given on Sunday afternoon along with a Cake Auction and Awards.
 Guest shooters and Spectators are welcome. For details call 398-8817.

Editor's Note:
 Two fatal accidents involving area young people have brighted the beginning of summer. The deaths of sixteen year old Roger Cole of Felton and seven-year-old Jeneen White of Dover on Sunday are reminders of the sometimes tragic consequences of the increased freedom the season brings.
 While there is no blame to be placed in the deaths of these two children, perhaps a word of extreme caution is in order.
 To our young people - Enjoy your summer, but please observe all safety rules. We want to have you with us at seasons end. We expect to keep you with us for a long time and to put the future in your hands.
 To all adult drivers and others - Take care, take care, take very great care. All lives are precious. We cannot afford to waste one.

EDITOR'S NOTE - When it comes to signed and unsigned letters, we always wonder what sort of impact the Declaration of Independence would have had if it had been signed "Concerned Citizens of the British Colonies, Names withheld upon request."

TALL SHIPS ON THE SHORELINE

On the morning June 16, 1982, there were 24 Feltonians motoring to Delaware City to see the Tall Ships of 82, on the Shoreline. These magnificent sailing vessels were visible along the entire Delaware River Coastline. Our viewpoint was at Pea Patch Island at Fort Delaware where we had access by boat from Delaware City. Hundreds of individuals throughout the state joined together to see and celebrate, by bringing along their cameras, binoculars, suntan lotion, picnic lunches, blankets and umbrellas. Many people took their boats out into the Delaware to welcome the Tall Ships. The first ones in view were "Welcome", U.S. sailing vessel, "Pride of Baltimore", this vessel was hand-built in the city's revitalized Inner Harbor, a Topsail Schooner, "Esmeralda," one of the largest Navy training ships on earth from Chile, "Eagle", the United States Coast Guard, officers, crew and trainees. Her original large carved eagle, figurhead was donated to the Marine Museum at Mystic Seaport. "Gloria", one of the world's newest training ships and is able to remain at sea for 60 days without replenishing. "Our Svanen", United Kingdom, under charter to the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets. "Simon Bolivar," the world's newest tall ship, "Venezuela", named in honor of "The Great Liberator," Simon Bolivar. "Providence", she was built as a Bicentennial project for the State of Rhode Island. "Elinor", this vessel is used as a training ship in the Baltic during summer and West Indies in passenger charter traffic during winter. The salute by cannon fire from the tall ships, congeniality of other individuals, Hank Sperka's appearance, Channel 6 Chopper, Action News, helicopters, picnic lunches, talking with the guards of the Fort, visiting the museum as entertainment between ships, bringing home a nice wind-burn, were all part of the days pleasure. Tall Ship's return at Delaware City will welcome several of these sailing vessels, June 25, 26, 27. For reservations call 834-7442.

Drive carefully in town for the summer vacation for school children is now here. Be alert for the children.

tional value of squash, especially the yellow variety.

1. Butter a square or rectangular baking dish.
2. Slice squash approx. 1/4" thick and put one layer in pan.
3. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, bread crumbs and Italian grated cheese. Dot with butter.
4. Continue layers till pan is full. End with bread crumbs, cheese and butter.
5. Bake till squash is tender and topping is lightly browned.

ENJOY!

The cabbage is also ready with its crisp green heads fairly bursting with Vitamin C and all that good stuff. I do a batch for the freezer every day. The beets are not coming fast. They're slightly retarded due to the bunnies eating them and stunting their growth.

We had new potatoes on our dinner table last evening, buttered and parsleyed and tasting of the good earth, being freshly dug.

I am informed by the head gardener that baby squash, wee cucumbers and tomatoes are soon to be ready.

Garth's little bird, "Fred, the Second", is thriving under her care. He now sits on her finger and takes off for small flights.

Tess tells me about her Catbird that comes down from the trees to visit her almost every time she goes out in the yard. She talks to him and he "mews" joyously in return. He seems as tame as the mockers and the robins.

Salads are the order of the day when summer comes. I love them, I'm also a firm believer in at least one hot dish every day during the hot weather for your stomach's sake. I enjoy a bowl of hot soup on the hottest day. Last summer my friend, Tess was with me when we stopped for lunch and ordered hot soup, on an extremely hot day. Our poor waitress looked as though she might faint and was sure that she had misunderstood the order. No hot soup was available, so I guess she is still shaking her head over the weird ones in this world.

Watch for picnic in July! Local shopping. Ceramics, bowling, pool, song fest, crafts if you like.

The Birthday Party was a joy. Several were at the special table. The band gave them a short concert and we all sang a birthday greeting. Lots of cards, best wishes, ice cream, cake and beginning a new year. Birthday gifts this year, a mug, monogrammed with H.S.C. Something to remember us by! Perhaps to use as a soup mug. You will be happy with yours. Come on in and get yours.

Lots of folks from the Center went to see the "Tall Ships" Saturday.

Irene Legates brought in beautiful lacy baby breath for several vases. Nellie Tyler brought me a gorgeous long stemmed red rose. My, it has a precious odor and absolutely a Beauty!

Nell is doing a very special piece of needlepoint. Dolores is doing ceramics in place of all crocheting. Florence is busy with ceramics as is Jo and Mary and Dot.

Bridge, well honey, come on around and join us. You will have fun.

Best wishes to all who are homebound or ill either in the hospital or home. Thinking of you and a prayer for those in sorrow!

It is better to be wise and not seem so, then to see wise, and not be so. Love you. Faith.

It looks like a bountiful crop of squash this year. I have already enjoyed a few varieties from generous friends and neighbors. Naturally there are many delicious ways to prepare them and new ideas are always welcomed. Following is a recipe I dreamed up myself. It works well with most any type of squash and is very tasty. Since it must go into the oven it is a good idea to make it along with some oven-type main course since temperature isn't too important. Don't discount the nutri-

Gab Fest

by Pat Hatfield

One thing we can say about the cold, rainy weather is, that it's been good for the pea patch. These are very busy times. The strawberry season was not quite over when along came the peas. They are just about my favorite vegetable, and I like to shell them, but, after you have spent several evenings in front of the television, shelling peas steadily from six or seven o'clock in the evening until one-thirty or two in the morning, it gets to be a bit much. We learn a little something from each day however. After shelling many thousands of them I know that the old adage, "As alike as two peas in a pod" was not true at all. Some were round, some oval and some very fat ones had flattened their sides trying to find room in the pod. It brought to my mind a funny family story. My grandmother told me that when my twin uncles were born, a dear old lady in the neighborhood came to admire the new babies and said, "Now, Maggie, they are just as alike as two peas in a pod, but that's the prettiest one."

I have informed the family that when these peas are safely in the freezer, I intend to go sit in a corner with my face to the wall, put a pea vine around my neck and have a nervous breakdown! I've been planning one of these for years, but never seemed to have time to get around to it.

As in the past, we will have our Sunday School at 10 a.m. and our Morning Worship Service at 11 a.m. At approximately 12:30 p.m. we will have a fellowship meal at the Century Club in Harrington. The King's Travellers is made up of the Stamps family members. John Stamps, the manager of the group, sings Baritone, and his wife, Nancy sings alto and plays the piano. They are joined by their three children; Sandra sings lead; Tony sings bass and accompanies on the guitar and the harmonica; and Donna sings a high harmony. As their name indicates, they are travelling for the Lord Jesus Christ, the King of kings and Lord of lords. Each person in the group is a born-again Christian who desire to serve Christ and to witness for Him through the medium of music. In a recent letter, John Stamps wrote: "Our goal for 1982 is to reach as many families as we can for Jesus Christ and to encourage them to accept Him as their own Savior and make Him the Lord of their life."

In seeking to serve Christ, the King's Travellers have travelled all over the easter seaboard from New York to Georgia singing in numerous churches for revivals, banquets, rallies, Sunday School activities, camp programs and Gospel sings.

Service Time Change - The time for our Wednesday prayer service has been changed from 7:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. This change will become effective July 7, the first Wednesday of July.

ROUGHAGE VS. CANCER

"To avoid cancer of the colon or rectum, doctors are switching patients from a bland, refined diet to high roughage (lettuce, bran cereal, etc.), says Dr. H.M. Pollard of U. of Michigan. "In countries with high roughage diets you find the lowest incidence of cancer of the colon. They have good bowel activity." He recommends whole grain cereals and raw vegetables - avoid refined white flour and puddings.

Beneficial Insects - Nature's Pest Control

As mankind's ecological mistakes become more apparent, it's reassuring to know that nature has its own ways of preventing some destructive insects from overpopulating the environment. By maintaining conditions favorable to insect predators and parasites, farmers and homeowners can help these beneficial insects be more effective as pest control agents.

Some of the most important beneficial insects native to this area are ladybird beetles (ladybugs), lacewings, ground beetles, praying mantids, dragonflies, wasps, syrphid flies (flower flies), ant lions (doodlebugs) and lightning bugs. In order to take full advantage of these helpful insects, one must be able to recognize them and protect them from indiscriminate pesticide use. Except in cases of a severe outbreak, many crop pests can be effectively controlled by natural predators, if these are present.

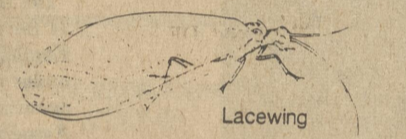

Here is some information to help you make the most of the beneficial insects in your yard or fields:

Ladybird beetle

LADYBIRD BEETLES OR LADYBUGS. These small, bright orange-red (or yellow) beetles with their black (or white) wing spots are familiar to almost everyone. But many people are not familiar with the immature or larval stage of the insect, which is just as important as the adult in keeping down the "bad guys." The larvae of most ladybug species are blue-black and orange and they're alligator-shaped. Eggs of the beetle are yellowish-orange and spindle-shaped. Females lay anywhere from 300 to 1500 eggs during their lifetime, depositing the eggs in compact clusters on foliage or ground litter.

Both adults and larvae feed chiefly on aphids, but they also eat scale insects, mealybugs, spider mites and small egg masses of other insects. A few even eat mildews. A single beetle may consume more than 5,000 aphids during its lifetime.

Lacewing

LACEWINGS. Named for its gauzy green (sometimes brown) lace wings, this insect has jewel-like gold eyes and produces aphid-devouring larvae. The grayish-brown larvae are about three-eighths of an inch long, with sharp curved jaws that extend beyond their head. They feed on aphids, scales, mealybugs, thrips, mites and insect eggs. The larvae's appetite seems to increase with each pest consumed, says Boys. It can eat a hundred or more insects a day.

Praying mantis

PRAYING MANTIDS. These exotic-looking insects feed on a variety of insects. They wait to ambush their prey with front legs held in the raised position that gives them their name. They're also cannibalistic. If food isn't plentiful, they will eat each other until only one remains. Though the mantis has been observed on field and garden crops, Boys says its value as a predator appears to be more in control of harmful meadow and pasture insects such as crickets and grasshoppers.

Other beneficial insects that farmers and gardeners should try to protect are syrphid flies, ground beetles, dragonflies, wasps, ant lions and lightning bugs.

DRAGONFLIES. These large insect dart and soar over ponds and streams with a freedom the most daredevil of pilots might envy. Dragonflies catch and eat their prey in flight. Mosquitoes and other flies make up a large part of their diet.

BRACONIDS AND OTHER WASPS. There are many species of parasitic wasps, some so tiny they're seldom seen. They lay their eggs in the bodies of other insects, including caterpillars, aphids, thrips and borers. Once hatched, the larvae feed on the inner body fluids of the hosts. Some of the most common of these wasps parasitize sphinx moth larvae like the tobacco and tomato hornworms.

SYRPHID FLIES. Commonly called flower flies, these may be brightly colored and many resemble wasps and bees hovering over flowers. However, the flies do not sting. Larvae of most species are predaceous, feeding on aphids. They may also feed on the young of termites, ants or bees.

ANT LIONS. Also called doodlebugs, these queer-looking creatures have long, sickle-shaped mouthparts. They're more common in the south and southwest, but a few species are found locally. The larvae hide in the burrows in the ground, waiting for ants to stumble in. Once inside, the ants are quickly gobbled up.

GROUND BEETLES. This beetle family contains hundreds of species. Though they differ in size, shape and color, most are somewhat flattened, dark and shiny. Look for ground beetles under stones, logs, bark, debris, or just running about on the ground. Most hide during the day and feed at night. Nearly all prey on other insects. Some also feed on snails.

LIGHTNING BUGS. During the early summer, adults of this insect are a familiar sight as they fly about in the evening, flashing their yellow lights. Most larvae are luminescent, too—the name, "glow worm." The larvae feed on various small insects and snails.

Buying Beneficial Insects?

Some predatory insects such as ladybird beetles and praying mantids are available for sale for use in the control of plant pests. Does it pay to buy these beneficial insects for release on your own property? Probably not.

Ladybugs bought in the spring were probably collected somewhere else during their winter hibernation. When released, they're quite likely to fly to other crop plantings some distance away. Or they may stop feeding and exist only on stored body fat, once they're turned loose.

Plant growers will be better satisfied with natural controls if they try to conserve the beneficial insects already present in the area through careful use of insecticides and through the recognition of eggs and immature stages of beneficial species. In home gardens he also recommends removing ants that tend aphids, scales and mealybugs, since the ants interfere with the work of the natural enemies of these pests.
