

Main Street in Felton was an icy ribbon under skies that seemed still to threaten in the wake of the "Blizzard of '83".

Blizzard of '83 will be remembered

by Barbara C. Brown

The "Blizzard of '83" that dumped 12 to 20 inches of snow on this area slowly disappears into a soft earth. The February sun is finishing the job begun by state and local highway crews in the dark hours of Friday.

All in all it seemed a relatively quiet storm not likely to be remembered in the blazing terms that characterized the last great February event. Then it was that firefighters battled cold, wind, snow and frustration as major fires virtually destroyed a Nanticoke Homes plant in Greenwood, did extensive damage to the Burris plant in Harrington and destroyed a fertilizer shed at Southern States near Bridgeville.

A Departure

But the Blizzard of '83 will be remembered, and with a special sense of sadness here in Harrington where 81 year old Ida Bloom was one of Delaware's three storm-related fatalities. Mrs. Bloom was discovered by members of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company outside her mobile home on County Route 275 four and a half miles west of Harrington on Saturday, February 12 at 1:47 p.m. When she was found, she was dead and partially covered by snow.

State Police and the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company reached Mrs. Bloom's home in four-wheel drive vehicles after her concerned son, Dwayne Bloom of Smyrna was unable to reach her by phone. She was transported to Milford Memorial Hospital by Delaware State Police helicopter where she was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. Dobson. State Police said no signs of foul play were discovered.

Among the two other Delaware fatalities apparently related to the storm was an unidentified man between 30 and 40 years old found near a Sussex County road five miles north of Georgetown by a passing motorist on Saturday afternoon. In Wilmington, a 71-year-old man suffered a fatal heart attack while shoveling snow.

And An Arrival

Young Ryan Allen Welch, who should be celebrating his fourth birthday on Saturday, does not remember the "Blizzard of '79". But his parents, Ed and Cheryl Welch of Harrington most certainly do. They will probably tell him the story (if they have not already done so). It took a bulldozer and a 4-wheel drive pick-up piloted by Dave Martin of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company to get Ryan's Mom to Milford Memorial Hospital in time for his arrival.

In future years, Ryan may get to compare stories with Jordan Robert Smith, newly arrived here February 12, 1983. Jordan's imminent arrival got his parents, Neal and Faye Smith of Harrington, up early on Saturday morning. The Smiths live off Rt. 14 east of Harrington, and again it was the Harrington Volunteer Fire Co. in a 4-wheel drive vehicle that transferred Faye Smith through the drifts to Delaware 14 and a waiting ambulance bound for Kent General Hospital. She arrived at 4:20 a.m. in good time for Jordan's arrival at 5:45 a.m. The newcomer weighed in at 9 lbs. 8 1/2 oz., to the delight of his Mom and Dad as well as his grandparents Dr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Harrington and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Neeman of Felton.

Mrs. Chris Hayward, Harrington Librarian and Harry G. Farrow, Jr., owner and publisher of The Harrington Journal and Raceweek go over the details of the "I love my library" fund raiser.

Harrington Journal kicks off library appreciation benefit

HARRINGTON, DE - The Harrington Journal founded in 1913 has continued publishing a newspaper each week since its inception, except for a brief closing during WWII. Now the Journal has launched into another community drive in its continued effort to inspire community togetherness. This time the attention is toward an effort to help fund the Harrington Public Library.

A spokesperson at the newspaper offices said that the theme of the drive is "The Harrington Journal Loves The Harrington Library. We love our library...we want you to do the same."

February traditionally is a month associated with love. This being Valentine's week when it is traditional for people to recite their tenderness, it seemed fitting to kick off this drive this week. In addition to that, this is also "I love to read week" in the library system.

The Harrington Journal will donate to the Friends of the Library one half of the revenues received from new subscription sales during the next month for The Harrington Journal and its sister newspaper, Raceweek. There will be other fund raisers which will be announced in this newspaper.

After long executive session, Harrington Council rehires city employees

by Barbara C. Brown

The routine business of rehiring city employees hit an apparent snag Monday night, throwing the Harrington City Council into a two-hour executive session. At the end of the session, all the city employees were rehired for the year. Their salaries are to be as listed in the budget adopted in October 1982.

The Council, by charter, must act on the status of city employees each year. The apparent snag came after an initial motion to rehire all present employees was brought to a standstill by a 2-2-2 voice vote. Earlier Council Member Ray Gagne had suggested the action be taken individual by individual. Harrington Mayor Al Mann thought it could be job by job.

Following the executive session the council acted on five separate motions to rehire all street employees, the two city clerks, the town librarian, the two employees at the wastewater treatment plant and the chief of police along with his four officers. The only motion to receive any opposition was the one to rehire the police force. It was approved 5-1 with Councilman Gagne casting the lone dissenting vote. No individual employee was mentioned by name. Salaries were set in a sixth and separate motion.

New City Solicitor

A new City Solicitor was among those officers appointed by either the Mayor or Council to serve in 1983. He is William J. Walls, Jr., a Dover attorney and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Walls, Sr. of Harrington. Walls replaces Harry K.F. Terry (or specifically the firm of Terry, Jackson, Terry and Wright) who previously served Harrington in this capacity. In November 1982, Terry was elected to the state legislature as Representative from the 33rd District.

With the exception of the office of Police Commissioner, which was not filled, there were no other changes. Norma Short will again serve as City Manager; Anna Hampton, as Alderman; Lawrence Price, as Acting Alderman; Dr. Vincent Lobo, as Board of Health, and Council Member Jack Wyatt, as Street Commissioner.

Appointment of a new Police Commissioner was tabled until it can be discussed at the Council's February 28 workshop. Council Member Curtis Melvin, who said he wanted to relinquish the post in which he has served for the past year, will continue in the position until a new appointment can be made.

Council Member Richard Henry volunteered for the job and was appointed by the Mayor. But no one on Council moved to accept the appointment. A motion was made, instead to table the action.

The Police Commissioner, who is to be appointed by the Mayor and approved by the Council, must be a member of the Council. The policies of the Council with regard to the local police force are channeled through him to the Chief of Police and down to the officers who make up the department.

It is the Police Commissioner who acts upon the recommendations of the Chief of Police in hiring new officers. His further responsibility includes approving (or disapproving) rules for the conduct of the police department and presenting them to Council for adoption.

When a Police Chief takes disciplinary action against an officer under him, that officer (unless he is still on probation) has the right of appeal, first of all, to the Police Commissioner and later, to the Council itself.

The Council reserves that right to set the number of police officers to be hired and to determine their salaries.

Other Business

In other business the Harrington City Council, in part:

-approved a lease agreement through September 1983 with the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company to rent the building which serves as City Hall. The rent will remain at $100 per month.

-OK'd the purchase of a new submersible pump for the city's #2 well. Mayor Mann said the old one has been in service since 1943 and would cost $4,000 - $4,500 to repair if it broke down. He recommended getting a new one at $6,539 with some additional cost for a starter and installation.

-gave City Manager Norma Short authority to take out a short term loan up to $20,000 to cover city bills until new tax money starts coming in.

Alex's Story Part Three

Alex was on an apnea monitor from May 17 until September 30th. Another way to look at it is he was 3 weeks old when he went on the monitor and 5 1/2 months old when he was positively tested to come off the monitor.

The apnea monitor was hooked to Alex at all times unless he was awake, being fed, or being held and watched closely. The monitor sat beside his bed with three wires being connected to Alex - two through a foam rubber waist belt that wrapped around his chest, and one to his leg. The monitor had to be set to register his breathing rate and his heart rate.

Now think about a newborn baby - the ups and downs, no matter the hour of the day or night, with feedings, dirty diapers, and the need of just an old-fashioned hug. Add to that the tremendous constant strain of worry - do I dare take my eyes off of him long enough to rush out to the bathroom and get a wet washcloth?

At Delaware Division, Jane and Bill were rented a Healthdyne Home

Apnea Monitor. This monitor was a stationary monitor that registered heart rate and breathing rate. Monitors could also be rented that had tape and monitor printouts. The basic monitor rents for $235 a month. (Multiply that by the number of months that it had to be used; add to that the hospital and doctor expenses of just having a baby as well as the testing and final diagnosis of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome - can you even imagine the expense?)

Alex was tested six times before he came off the apnea monitor. The test was called a pneumogram. The pneumogram was set up through the apnea monitor by a 12 hour monitoring tape that registered breathing rate and heart rate. Only on completion of 2 successful test results would Alex be able to come off the monitor. In August during one pneumogram, the monitor continued to go off time and time again. It was found that as Alex was growing and getting stronger, his breathing was slowing down because of the deeper breaths he was taking, which consequently made his heart rate slow down. They didn't know it at the time, but finally, a good sign was beginning to appear.

For those who are concerned that babies like Alex and parents like Jane and Bill have available the help they need in this area, there is a way.

On Wednesday night, March 2 at Asbury United Methodist Church in Harrington from 5 until 7:30 p.m. the Harrington Jayceettes will be serving a homemade spaghetti dinner, including spaghetti and meatballs or meat sauce, salad, Italian bread, jello and beverage. It is all you can eat, served family style and the cost is $3.50 for adults and $2.00 for children under 12 years old. For advance tickets, contact Janet Rettig at 398-8476 or Cheryl Harrington at 398-8013.

Funds raised through the dinner will go toward the purchase of an apnea monitor for Milford Memorial Hospital.

NEXT WEEK - MEET ALEX!!

Mason is honored by Kent Conservation District

Harrington area resident Robert A. Mason, Jr. has been selected by the Board of Supervisors for the Kent Conservation District as Outstanding Cooperator for 1982.

A cooperator with the District for 26 years, Mason has assisted with the Marshyhope Creek Watershed drainage project and was an initiator of the Bright Haines Tax Ditch which has a 33 mile channel system and drains 5,858 acres. He is chairman for the ditch which runs directly behind his property and affects 247 landowners. On his farm he has practiced open drainage and has installed a pond.

Originally a truck farmer in New Jersey, Mason moved to the Harrington area with his wife Thelma in 1955. In Delaware, the Masons started as dairy farmers. Later they switched to small grains and hay and added two small farms, totaling about 300 acres to their operation.

Seaford Christian Academy receives land for new high school

The Seaford Christian Academy received an anonymous donation of 10 acres of land January 31 on which to build a new secondary school. The Academy, now in its 10th year, has been seeking land for this purpose since last May, according to the Rev. Roger L. Salomon, academy administrator.

The land, donated in a private meeting, lies east of Seaford 3 1/2 miles from U.S. 13. On it, the academy hopes to build a school capable of housing students in grades 7 through 12.

Construction of the school is tentatively scheduled to begin in the spring of 1984. Salomon said he hopes to see the school open by the beginning of the 1984-85 school year.

The Christian Academy now offers a traditional Christian education for 162 children in pre-kindergarten through grade nine. Next year, the academy will offer pre-kindergarten through grade 10 to a projected enrollment of 200 students.

The academy, in the words of Salomon, has "mushroomed" in the last few years. First opening in the 1972-73 school year with nine students and one full-time teacher, the academy has grown nearly one grade each year of its history.

In the past three years alone, the student enrollment has more than doubled, increasing from 76 to 162. Students come from towns throughout Sussex County and nearby Maryland areas.

The academy is accepting applications for the 1983-84 school year. Tuition for one student, in grades 1 - 10, is $800 per year. The cost for two children from the same family is $1400. The cost for children in pre-kindergarten and kindergarten is $450 and $600 respectively. Please call the school office at 629-7161 for an application and appointment to visit the school facilities.

Pilots on the '83 journey were Ed McCormick in his four-wheel drive and Dave Johnson and Doug Poore in the ambulance.

Cleanup & Rescue

State workers who fought to keep major arteries open through Friday were still on the cleanup job Monday night. The operation was estimated to cost the state $479,557 on top of the $505,221 already spent this year.

In Harrington, city workers under the guidance of Street Commissioner Jack Wyatt went to work early Friday and stayed on the job until close to midnight. They were at work again Saturday.

For all the storm's potential danger, Harrington Police Chief Carl McIlroy reported no incidents other than one (reported) snowball throwing and no accidents (at least not a state highway snowplow nudged Buck Hopkins' car going around the corner of Clark and Commerce Street on Monday afternoon). McIlroy said residents had been most cooperative about keeping parked cars off critical streets.

Ambulance crews from the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company were on call or standby for long hours. In addition to assisting the Neal Smith family, Ed McCormick reported transporting a girl with a fever from the Burrsville area to Dr. Lobo's office.

Neighbors helped neighbors and strangers dig out, get unstuck, get food and fuel. One young couple, Donna and Terry Calhoun of Horn's Corner just west of Harrington spent a good part of Saturday being good Samaritans with shovels. Their efforts mirrored those of many throughout the state.

As the blizzard approached, area markets experienced the usual run on supplies and for a time stocks of bread and milk were depleted.

Earl Quillen closed at an unprecedented 6 p.m. on Friday but did a bustling business for the rest of the weekend.

At Harrington Food Rite, Manager, Don Dadds and Meat Manager, Sheldon Butler kept the store open for those in need and advised emergency crews and police that food would be available for those in need. They both were invited to spend the night at the home of Harold E. Quillen which enabled them to have the store reopened at 6:00 a.m. Saturday.

Harrington banks, both Peoples and the First National, closed at a very unusual noon on Friday.

Hardees closed at 12:30 p.m. on Friday and 6 p.m. on Saturday. Hi-Grade dairy had an early 10 p.m. closing on Friday and remained officially closed on Saturday.

Three Lake Forest High School students, David Reirden, Scotty Dill and Rebecca Brown are members of the 9th Annual Delaware All State High School Jazz Ensemble to be presented in concert this Saturday, February 19 at Lake Forest High School. [See Community Calendar for details]. Scott has earned the singular honor of being selected to four state or county-wide musical groups. In addition to All State Jazz, he will perform with the 1983 All State Concert, and All State Orchestra as well as the Kent County Honors Band. David and Rebecca, along with several other Lake Forest students will be performing in other groups as well. These will be announced as their concert time approaches.

Susan Phillips and Matt Smith, two Sussex County 4-H'ers, were recently the guests of W.I.C.O. Radio to tell about their trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago. Susan, a member of Sycamore 4-H Club in Laurel, was one of just six winners in the County to be named a national winner. Susan's winning project area was photography. She has been a 4-H'er for eight years and is currently a senior at Laurel High School. She has worked with many 4-H'ers and local girl scout troop helping them with photography, and this past spring she presented a workshop "Pictures Without a Camera." Susan is recognized by Kodak as a national winner and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Phillips of Laurel.

Matt Smith, a member of Bridgeville Wildcats 4-H Club in Bridgeville, was named a regional winner in the 4-H gardening area. Matt has been in 4-H for seven years and is a junior at Woodbridge High School. Matt worked with his family farming operation which included garden crops as well as fruit crops. Matt grew sweet corn, watermelons and pumpkins for sale throughout the family business. Matt's trip was sponsored by the Delaware Grange and Ortho Chemicals. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Smith of Bridgeville.

Congratulations to these two as well as Sussex County's other four State Winners, Mark Allen, Dana Banks, Chris Majchczak and Jenny Smith, who also won a trip to Chicago.

Over The Backyard Fence

Senior Center

by Dorothy Graham

Smile! Laughter is the shortest distance between two people.

Reverend and Mrs. Watson of Baptist Church, Harrington, lead Bible Study Monday Morning at the Center.

The group sang several hymns after which Reverend Watson offered prayers to open the Inspirational Hour. He chose as his topic 1st Corinthians, chapter 13, verse 4, Exodus, 3rd chapter 4th verse, St. John 20th chapter, verse 26 thru 28, also, Job, chapter 42. The service was closed with a hymn and a prayer. Present for the very happy hour was Florence Minner, Kathleen Montague, Roxanne and Marion Brown, Etzel McCreedy, Annabel Morrow, Gladys Hill, Mammie Adams, Tony Perrone, Margarite Nachon, Frances Wright, Sallie Pleasanton, Mary Sapp, Thelma Legates, Catherine Donovan, Virginia Smith, Clara Judy, Mildred Vincent and Mary and Earl Nelson.

Watson Brown had a very beautiful still life print framed. He is working on raising the objects. Just plain gorgeous!

Larry Krommes was at the piano in the absence of Sylvia Meredith for the Jolly Timers practice hour. It was nice of Larry to take over for Sylvia. As always the Jolly Timers gave forth with lovely sounds. Present Tuesday morning was Elsie Neal, Lillie McBride, Marion Brown, Virginia Smith, Jo Burke, Ola Tildon, Mammie Adams, John McCreedy, Gladys Hill, Bertha Dean, Ella Golt, Andy Anderson, Tony Perrone, Mildred Vincent and Lewis Gerardi.

After lunch Larry and several folks gathered in the parlor and such a nice song fest ensued. It was glorious!! A small bus motored to Reading, PA with folks from the Center Tuesday. Chaperone was Kathryn Smith. A great time was reported. Several coats were purchased and lots of fun enjoyed by all participating.

Wednesday was card day at my home, and a splendid one it was too. Dessert was light but satisfying, pound cake, whipped cream with peach, hot coffee, nuts and snacks. Scores, terrible, though Ethel Rapp was holder of high score. That left Hazel Smith, Hazel Langrell, Kathryn Smith, Mary Nelson, Virginia Willey and Ruth Powell with just so-so scores.

Clint, our very efficient DAST Driver took several folks local shopping. There was a sale on bananas and several partook of the bargain.

Barbara Evans was here. The two Lorene-Lorine's from Dover were also here with crafts of all descriptions. If you have any ideas come on in and help for the Bazaar. You will have fun and a big help to the Center also.

Ceramics in full bloom, pool going strong, meals tasty, folks super friendly. Directors first class, staff and volunteers grand. Best game of the week of course was Bingo. Heaps of numbers, loads of laughs, a great time is always had by all.

February is "Black History month" and great people are being remembered. It is with pride we remember Martin Luther King among them!

Hope your Valentine Day was sooo nice!! Best wishes to all homebodies. Our prayers for those who are ill either in hospital or home. Thank all volunteers! Love you!! President Reagan declared 1983 year of "The Bible"! May 5th is "Day of Prayer", faith.

Poem by Samuel A. Short, Jr.

YOU WON'T FORGET
You won't forget the miles you've run, when you were a boy in bygone days. You won't forget the songs you've sung, with mixtures of melodies of many ways.

You won't forget your Mother and Dad, the things they used to do for you.

Their soft falling voices they always had, a reprimand for things you used to do.

You were then a mischevous child, thought you didn't need parental guide.

Though you were wrong as any other child, couldn't take advice nor in them confide.

But there's something in those days of old, you still remember, they linger yet.

The advice of the ones you loved we're told, coming from Mother and Dad you won't forget.

Gab Fest

by Pat Hatfield

February gave us Valentine early. The beautiful snow on Sunday was the kind that makes everything picture pretty. And then, came the rain and took it all away so it was not a bother. You can't have it better than that.

I like to look back through the records and see what winters of long ago brought to us. I have an old Almanac here dated 1902 (two years before I was born) and the February page says: "The aspects of this month are more numerous and more easily dispersed, and are such as to cause much wind and plenty of storms and deep drifts, and road-breaking will be in order." Also: "Many of the storms near the seacoast will incline to rain."

They say that in Scotland the farmer believes that a misty moon is a misfortune, and an old saying among them is: "If the moon shows like a silver shield, you need not be afraid to reap your field; but if she rises haloed round, soon we'll tread on deluged ground." Another is: "If mists in the new moon, rain in the old; if mists in the old, rain in the new." Another saying connected with the new moon says: "If you see the new moon in the arms of the old moon it is reckoned a sign of fair weather, and so is the turning up of the horns of the new moon. The moon is said to be holding water.

February is a good reading month and Tess and I were trying to catch up on some of the books we missed when they were published. We have just been reading Irving Stone's "Love is Eternal" which is a lovely story of the life and times of Mary Todd Lincoln and her famous husband, Abraham.

Beside the beautiful unfolding of their love story there are many customs mentioned which were a delight to us as we read. Especially the description of the preparing peaches for winter use. They coated them with gum arabic and then put on a thin coat of varnish. In the winter they just peeled off the thick coating and ate fresh peaches. This was new to me. They also mentioned that Mrs. Lincoln, in order to cheer up her husband would often make him his favorite sweet potato waffles. They did not give the recipe. Well, it always cheers up our Dad here when I make him his favorite sweet potato pie.

It's February! Who will be the first to hear the little Peepers?

Health Tip OF THE WEEK
ZINC FOR HEALTH
How zinc treatment was a major healing breakthrough in diseases involving narrowing of the arteries was described by Dr. Henry A. Schroeder to an international symposium at Brain Bio Center, Princeton, NJ. Zinc was helpful in dilating blood vessels - even those narrowed by hardening of the arteries - thereby restoring circulation. Zinc was credited with helping with Burgers disease, Raynaud's disease, and angina pectoris - also with cases of gangrene which usually call for amputation.

Ash Wednesday Its meaning

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

This Wednesday, the world of Christians will enter churches of their respective faiths to celebrate Ash Wednesday. To all of Christendom, Ash Wednesday begins the first day of Lent, and extends for the next 40 days, excluding Sundays, ending on Easter Sunday. The term Lent comes from the Old English word lencten, which means springtime.

Ash Wednesday procedure for celebration is to have the palms from last year's Palm Sunday burned to ashes. With the ashes, the priest will mark a cross on the forehead of the worshipper and usually there is spoken by the priest the following: "Remember man, that dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return (Gen. 3:19). From Biblical times, sprinkling oneself with ashes has been a mark of sorrow for sin. To this meaning of penance, Ash Wednesday customs add a second lesson, a reminder of the need of preparation for a holy death.

Lent is part of the regular church year in the Eastern Orthodox, Lutheran, and Roman Catholic churches, and churches that belong to the Anglican Communion. Eastern Rite churches do not. Their Lent begins the preceding Monday. Many other churches hold religious services, meetings, or preaching missions to honor the Lenten season. Some churches prescribe a special book of devotions for Lent. In the Roman Catholic Church, as in the Episcopal Church, each day of Lent has its special mass proceedings.

How is Lent observed? Many Christians follow the procedure of fasting, giving alms, abstaining from amusements or not solemnizing marriages. How did Lent come about? It originated as a way of preparing to remember the death of Christ, who suffered, died on the cross for the sins of man, and was resurrected. The 40 days of Lent might mean the 40 days that Christ fasted in the wilderness.

Ash Wednesday is the beginning of Lent. Chiefly though, Lent is a time of confession, a confession of sin. And even though it doesn't appear to be a time of celebration, with death in the background, it is, for the worshiper celebrates the gift of salvation that God offers us through Jesus Christ. The gift of salvation is from sin. Therefore if we celebrate God's gift of salvation from our sins through our belief in Jesus Christ, then shouldn't we regularly confess our sins unto Him? Repentance is necessary for salvation, which means confessing the error and seeking a new life, a new direction.

Therefore for Christians, Ash Wednesday stands at the beginning of Lent. The celebration now takes on a new dimension, the Christian season for repenting of our sins, which also prepares us for the Easter celebration.

The chief point of this article, and I do not wish to portray myself as a man of the cloth, or one who is free of sin, is that whether we attend church services this Wednesday in observance of all the above, we nonetheless, with yours truly at the head of this crusade, should feel a need to get real serious about the reality of sin. In Jesus' Parable of the Pharisee and the Tax Collector where the Pharisee saw sin in others while the Tax Collector asked God for forgiveness of his sins, the lesson becomes clearer. So, it applies today with the reality of sin that each of us, whether we attend church this Wednesday or throughout Lent, should remember that "There, but for the grace of God, go I," and that we should be aware of the sin in each of us. Ash Wednesday, Lent, and Easter will have a real meaning for you if you seek the salvation from your sins through prayer and confession. I know it will for me. I shall try, won't you do the same! Remember those who have gone on ahead of us.

Spartan Pam Harris (#44, light uniform top), has led the Lake Forest girls in scoring during two recent games. In this instance she vied for a rebound with her opposite number from Woodbridge.

LF Boys Basketball

Spartans Lose in Overtime

The Lake Forest Spartans battled the Smyrna Eagles into overtime on February 4 only to lose by two points. The final score was 64-62.

Lake Forest led by three points after the first quarter only to have the Eagles pull abreast to tie the game 26-26 at the half. In the final two periods the situation was reversed with the Eagles ahead by three at the end of the third quarter only to have the Spartans even the score at 58-58 in the fourth. Smyrna's six points to Lake Forest's 4 in overtime spelled a victory for the Eagles.

Tony Scott's remarkable success at the foul line (he was six for six) kept Lake Forest up in the final period. Scott led all Spartan scorers with 18 points. Others were Jerome Harris, 12; Darryl Tolson, 10; Brian Gladden and Kermit Mosley, 7 each; Kevin Murray, 4, and Stanton Spencer and Robert May, 2 each.

Bluejays Defeat Spartans

Lake Forest trailed Seaford by just three points after the first quarter. But a 32 point second quarter for the Bluejays proved a devastating blow from which the Spartans did not recover. They ended up on the low side of a 65-92 score.

Darryl Tolson, with 16, and Kevin Murray, with 14, led Spartan scoring. They were the only Spartans in double figures. Other points were added by Stanton Spencer, 9; Jerome Harris, Vincent Thorpe and Kermit Mosley, 6 each; Parker, 3 and Brian Gladden, 2.

Tony Scott, one of the Spartan leaders in scoring, had an unusual evening in that he accounted for no points at all.

LF Girls Basketball

Lake Forest Edges Smyrna

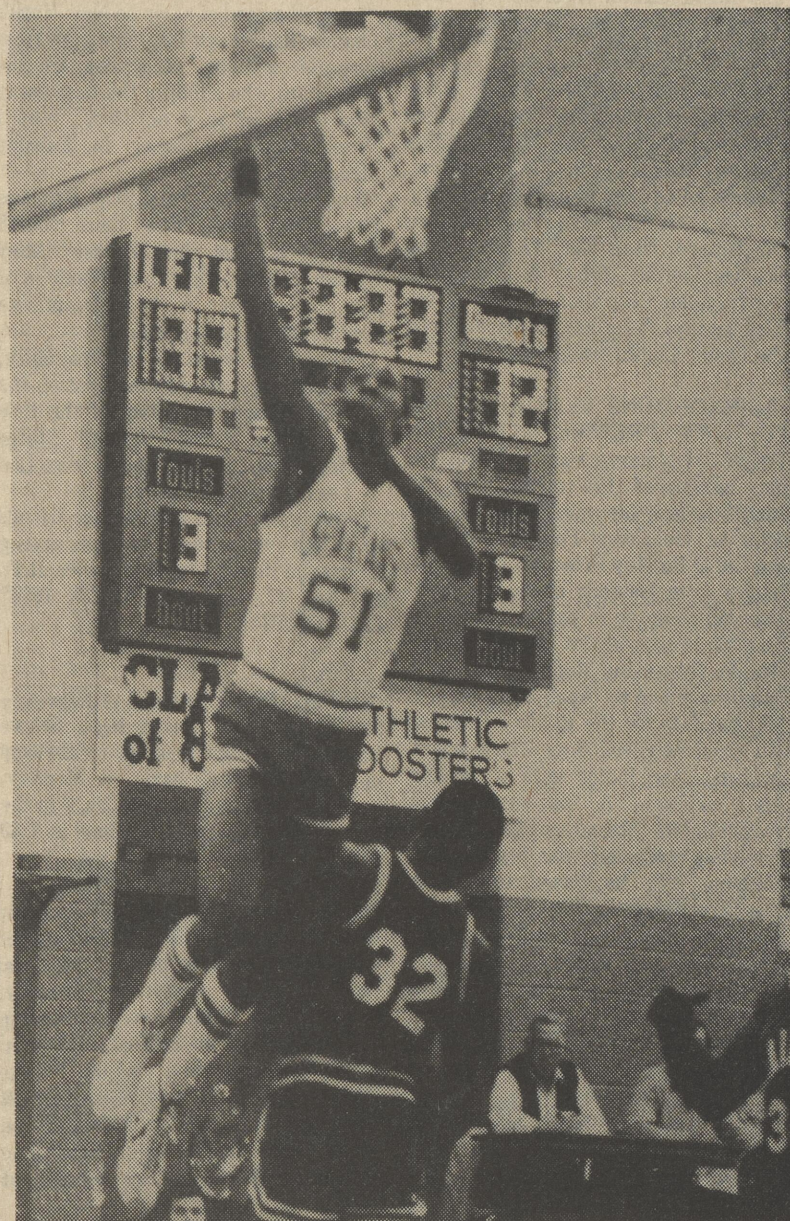

Pam Harris went to the foul line to pull out a victory for the Spartans as Lake Forest edged Smyrna 39-38 on February 4. Just seconds before that, Harris had scored the tying two points. Her successful foul shot, thrown after time had run out on the clock, forestalled a Spartan-Eagle overtime.

Harris and Dee Dee White led Lake Forest in scoring with 11 points each. Other Spartan scores come from Stephanie Tolson, 8; Anita Sherwood, 4; Pam Pierce, 3, and Carolyn Browne, 2.

Spartans Defeat Bluejays

Pam Harris led three of her teammates in double figures as the Spartans stayed comfortably ahead in all four quarters to defeat Seaford's Bluejays on February 8. Harris led 19 points. Close behind her was Pam Pierce with 17 who was followed by Stephanie Tolson, 13, and Dee Dee White, 11. Anita Sherwood contributed 4.

The final score was 64-55 as the Spartans tallied their ninth win in the conference season.

Tony Scott (#51) goes for a layup. In a recent game against Delmar, Scott was top Spartan scorer and had a perfect night at the foul line.

O'Donnell breaks $$ record again

COLUMBUS, OHIO - Bill O'Donnell once again smashed the money-winning standard for harness drivers in 1982, as the horses he drove earned a total of $5,876,028.

The 34-year-old native of Canada had become harness racing's first "$4 Million Man" in 1981, when he rolled up a total of $4,065,608, but he bettered that total by almost 40 percent in easily defeating John Campbell, who was second with $4,326,495 (which would have been a new standard for the sport except for O'Donnell's amazing year).

In all, 47 drivers topped the magic $1 million figure in earnings, a new one-season high for harness racing. Fourteen of those horsemen posted figures in excess of $2 million.

Drivers who base their operations in the metropolitan New York/New Jersey area swept seven of the top ten earnings positions. The exceptions were Ron Waples, who races primarily in Toronto; Bill Haughton, a veteran Grand Circuit horseman; and Chicago driving ace Dave Magee.

1982's top twenty money-winners are listed below:

1. William O'Donnell $5,876,028
2. John Campbell 4,326,495
3. Herve Filion 3,580,746
4. Ron Waples 2,964,500
5. Carmine Abbatiello 2,858,481
6. Catello Manzi 2,804,208
7. William Gilmour 2,684,027
8. William Haughton 2,534,151
9. John Patterson, Jr. 2,411,835
10. David Magee 2,382,740
11. James Marohn 2,202,619
12. Ted Wing 2,158,789
13. James Doherty 2,073,091
14. Doug Brown 2,026,834
15. Mickey McNichol 1,967,965
16. Glen Garnsey 1,932,324
17. Michel LaChance 1,881,384
18. Tom Haughton 1,785,829
19. Eldon Harner 1,695,732
20. Rejean Daigneault 1,685,499

Garnsey elected to Hall of Fame

COLUMBUS, OHIO - Glen G. Garnsey, one of harness racing's premier trainer/drivers, has been elected to harness racing's Living Hall of Fame. The balloting was conducted among members of the United States Harness Writers' Association.

The 50-year-old Garnsey, a native of Clayton, N.Y. who now lives in Lake Worth, Florida, got his start working for his father Garland, who raced primarily in upstate New York. Glen excelled as a raceway trainer/driver for years, primarily at Vernon Downs, before focusing on developing Grand Circuit-calibre horses.

Garnsey has developed two Horses of the Year, Abercrombie (1978) and Fan Hanover (1981), in addition to such stars as Colonial Charm, Noble Florie, Incredible Nevele, and Bruce Gimble. In 1982, Garnsey campaigned three horses who were recognized as the best in their respective divisions: Fan Hanover (Aged Pacing Mare of the Year), Armbro Blush (Two-Year-Old Trotting Filly of the Year), and Delmegan (Aged Trotting Mare of the Year), as well as Armbro Aussie, who in a race posted a 1:51.4 winning time, second fastest in harness racing history.

Garnsey becomes the 33rd person to be voted into the Hall of Fame. Formal induction ceremonies honoring Garnsey will be held on July 3, 1983 at the Hall of Fame of the Trotter in Goshen, N.Y.

Home video tips available

WILMINGTON, DE - The United States is in the midst of a home entertainment revolution...video tape recorders, large-screen television and video games are readily available to consumers at reasonable prices. The Better Business Bureau of Delaware has a new booklet to help consumers sort out the various home video systems, what each does, how it does it, and how each dovetails into the other.

"Tips on Home Video Systems" provides basic buying information on video tape recorders, programs and tapes. A special section covers increasingly popular video games. Consumers should get information about the warranty and servicing arrangements before purchasing, advises the BBB. "If you are in doubt about the retailer where you will buy the equipment, call your local Better Business Bureau for a reliability report," notes BBB President James E. Stalls, Jr.

The new booklet has been added to the Better Business Bureau Consumer Information Series which offers helpful tips on over 65 topics of consumer interest. For a copy of the booklet, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Better Business Bureau of Delaware, Inc., P.O. Box 4085, Wilmington, DE 19807.

Runaway car? - Mrs. Evelyn Lecates of 207 Hanley Street, Harrington, was not in her car when it backed around and hit the side of a building at 2 Mechanic Street and Railroad Avenue. Mrs. Lecates had stopped briefly to put something in another car and thought she had her vehicle in "park". - Here Buck Hopkins and Billy Joe Porter of Buck's Auto Repair help to get the wayward vehicle back on the straight and narrow. Harrington Police said there was about $100 in damage to the building and "reportable" damage to the car.

Hogan, Storms, Hammer take 1982 UDRS crowns

COLUMBUS, Ohio - The United States Trotting Association has announced the winners in the three categories of competition for the UDRS (Universal Driver Rating System) championship. The UDRS is comparable to a baseball player's "batting average" and the competition is divided based on the number of drives in a year.

John Hogan narrowly edged out Keith Linton to take the crown in the "500 or more drives" category. The king of New England harness racing over the last few years, Hogan posted a percentage of .412 to narrowly defeat the British Columbia-based Linton, a former national UDRS champion, who had a .411 figure.

Christ Storms, who competes primarily in Ontario, took top honors in the "300 to 499" drives" category. Storms earned a rating of .429 for 1982, with Robert Coulter second at .400. Roger Hammer won his second consecutive title in the "100 to 299 drives" category by compiling a fantastic rating of .536, one of the highest in the sport's history. Tom Graham was second in this category at .495.

Roger Hammer won his second consecutive title in the "100 to 299 drives" category by compiling a fantastic rating of .536, one of the highest in the sport's history. Tom Graham was second in this category at .495.

Interestingly, the Hammer family has taken the title in the "100 to 299 drives" category for four of the last five years now, as Roger's dad Clay won the championship in 1978 and 1979. Clay, who like his son is based in Bedford, PA, finished ninth this year with a .439 figure in the 3rd category.

Adjust thermostat to save money

Adjusting the thermostat is one of the easiest ways to save energy in the home. It's a conservation measure that doesn't require special equipment and takes seconds to do.

Permanently setting back a thermostat from 72 to 68 degrees F in winter will save approximately 12 percent on a home heating bill, says University of Delaware extension agricultural engineer Ernest Walpole. On an annual fuel bill of $500, this amounts to about $60.

A nighttime setback from 68 to 55 degrees F over eight hours offers additional savings of about 13 percent, or $65 on a $500 bill. "If no one is home during the day, you can save another 11 percent or $55 by turning the thermostat down from 68 to 55 degrees for an additional eight hours," Walpole says. Take all three steps and you can save approximately $180 on a $500 bill.

There are two ways to accomplish temperature setback. Either adjust the thermostat manually at the proper times, or install a device that makes these adjustments automatically. Automatic control devices are sold in many hardware and department stores. In time the initial investment will be recovered in energy savings as well as convenience.

What about comfort at these lower temperatures? Is it possible to adjust without feeling chilled? Walpole says setbacks are usually easier to adjust at night than in the daytime. An electric blanket will help. It will cost about $12 to operate for an entire heating season. Some people prefer thick comforters.

"Lowering daytime temperatures gradually may help you get used to the change - especially if you're active," the engineer says. Well insulated, draft free houses feel more comfortable at lower temperatures. And in the long run, it will cost less to add an extra layer of clothing than to turn up the thermostat. Natural fiber clothing such as cotton or wool is warmer than synthetics. An afghan or comforter bag can keep you cozy while reading or watching TV.

Air conditioner thermostat adjustments can also save considerable amounts of energy. By raising the house temperature from 72 to 78 degrees F in summer, you should save from 12 to 40 percent in cooling costs, depending on the outside temperature.

Creosote buildup causes chimney fires

Increased use of wood stoves and fireplaces to cut winter heating bills has caused a dramatic rise in the number of dangerous chimney fires.

University of Delaware extension safety specialist Ron Jester says thousands of these fires occur in the U.S. every year, accounting for more than $25 million worth of damage. Many could have been prevented by better chimney maintenance, Jester says. Creosote causes most of the trouble.

Wood changes chemically when it burns, releasing gases and tiny droplets of tar and water as smoke. The heat generated as these gases burn accounts for much of the wood's total heat output. But they won't ignite at less than 1,100 degrees F.

Since wood combustion is never complete, smoke going up a chimney always contains unburned gases and tars. When a chimney's inner surface is cooler than the smoke -- as it almost always is -- some gases condense as creosote.

It's impossible to prevent the formation of creosote, Jester says, but the amount can be kept to a minimum by avoiding smoldering fires, burning seasoned hardwoods and using well designed chimneys.

Cracks in a chimney or clean-out doors may let in cold air which reduces stack temperatures, thus increasing creosote buildup. For safety as well as heat efficiency, Jester advises homeowners to check chimneys carefully for cracks or leaks.

Since creosote condenses from flue gases when stack temperature drops below 250 degrees F, the specialist says inside or insulated chimneys which allow less heat to escape are best, especially for airtight wood stoves. Most creosote fires are associated with poor chimneys that have low draft, cold walls and a very low burning rate.

To determine whether your chimney or smokestack has a problem, inspect the inside. If the creosote is more than a quarter-inch thick or has raised bumps, it's time to clean. Also be alert for backdrafting and smoking when you load the stove. If the connector pipe radiates less heat, suspect a creosote buildup, since this material is an excellent insulator.

A chimney fire is a frightening and potentially dangerous experience. But with proper installation and regular maintenance, chances of having one are remote, Jester says. "Prevention is your best protection."

If, in spite of all precautions, your chimney does catch fire, here are the signs to look for.

*A distinct crackling noise in the chimney or stovepipe.

*The sucking sound of air being drawn into the stove or chimney. This may increase to a loud roar.

*The stovepipe may shake. (Be aware that it could fall apart, spilling flaming creosote.)

*The stovepipe may glow red-hot.

*Sparks and flames may shoot out of the top of the chimney or stovepipe. In this case, you may get a call from the neighbors.

In the event of a chimney fire, Jester recommends taking prompt action.

*Call the fire department. You may not need them, but it's better to be safe than sorry.

*Assemble all building occupants and prepare to vacate if conditions worsen.

*Cut off air to the fire. Close the draft and damper controls of a wood stove. In case of a fireplace fire, cover the opening with any rigid, nonflammable material, but beware of strong suction caused by the fire. Do not close the fireplace damper, as smoke will then enter the room.

*Use a fire extinguisher. A flare-like unit designed specifically for chimney fires is best. Ignite this like a road flare and put it inside the stove or fireplace. Regular CO2 extinguishers also will work.

*Don't pour or spray water directly into the chimney. The sudden cooling may cause tiles to contract rapidly and break.

*Continue to check the outer surface of the chimney and inner walls near it for excessive heat -- even after you think the fire is out.

*Check outside to see if sparks and embers blown from the chimney have ignited the roof or nearby brush.

*When the fire is out, sweep the chimney and check for damage.

*Resolve to clean your chimney more often.

For further information on the safe use of wood-burning stoves and fireplaces, contact your local volunteer fire company, or the county extension office in Newark (738-2506), Dover (736-1448) or Georgetown (856-5250).

"39 And Holding"

While reading the star's birthdays in last Sunday's news. I discovered an amazing fact that left me with the blues. Ali McGraw is 41 on her day of celebration. No one 41 can look that good without an operation. Now every night I go to bed with a miracle in mind, That when I wake, a whole new slender body I will find. Now is it fair that Olivia Newton John is 37? She's so slim and youthful, she barely looks 11. Annette Funicello, I'm sure you will agree, Is 39 and holding, but not hanging on like me. Now religiously I aerobicize while looking at TV, But I'm still on leg lift 6, when they're on 23.

I stick those little diet signs on the front of my fridge door.

But when I reach for more ice cream, I knock them on the floor.

I promise every Monday, a diet I will start, But when they break the candy out, I haven't got the heart.

I haven't got much time to lose those saddlebags for summer.

So if I start my diet now, they won't feel like foam rubber.

Now if you want to be my friend, don't tease me with your treats.

Cause I am just a pushover, when it comes to sweets.

Remind me of Oliva when you see me munch, And break my arm and hide my spoon when it's time for lunch.

I'm gonna start my diet Monday, if it is God's will, And pray that I don't have to take that dreaded "Diet Pill".

Why a Spider?

Don't be surprised to find a spider in your weekly newspaper. The spider is merely looking to see which of the town's merchants is not advertising. He will then go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace!
