

Felton embroiled in dispute over water & charter

Jefferson challenges the purity of the water and the legality of the charter

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

FELTON, DE - At Monday night's council meeting in Felton, Mrs. Joyce Jefferson challenged the purity of the drinking water in the Town of Felton and the legality of the Town's new charter recently enacted. According to Mrs. Jefferson, she presented letters from the State Board of Health stating the fact, the State has on file copies of letters to the Town Board of Commissioners concerning the purity of the drinking water for the Town. The earliest correspondence dates back to 1972, one letter in '73, one in '77, two in '79, and the most recent one in '82, which caused the National Guard to be brought in to aid the school children in being able to drink pure uncontaminated water. In the March meeting of the Town, the claim was that no letters had been received from the State. Mrs. Jefferson on Monday night presented copies of the letters.

Even with the letters, it does not say emphatically that the water should not be drunk. It might, in one, imply that a danger zone is being reached or that extra disinfectant should be used. The bacteria which shows up in the test samples when it does appear is apparently the same type "coliform...." which is the bacteria found in the feces of warm blooded animals", according to

Mrs. Jefferson's source of information. "I contend that the source of the contamination has not as yet been located", said Mrs. Jefferson. "I want to drink pure water", she continued.

Sewer rates big question

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

FELTON, DE - April 11th is the earliest that residents of the Town of Felton can hook up to the county sewer system. "Right now the 11th of this month is the target date for beginning installation of the residences in Felton to the sewer line. The residents, as it stands right now, have until the 11th of May to install before they start paying a monthly rate. After the 11th of May whether they are hooked up or not they will start getting a bill each month, for the next 18 months," said Mogan, the County Engineer. After that period has expired and the residents have failed to hook up to the central sewer system, the county will determine whether the Town does, in fact, have a water problem, and if so where is the source of the problem. In a mixed order of procedure of polling the councilmen present, it appeared that most agreed to a study, but Johnny Hopkins conditioned his on the cost of such a study. Don Jacobs was absent due to the fact that his letter was hook it for the resident at the cost to the County. If the residents are unable to pay for the installation, a lien will be placed against the property.

According to Mr. Mogan, the rates per month for the sewer have not as yet been fixed. The reason is that negotiations are still on-going with the Salisbury based Perdue operation whose building in Felton was practically totally damaged by fire. The operation has not been re-instituted. Although speculation has it that the value of the Perdue plant would preclude a long extended shut-down due to its proximity to the major metropolitan markets and the

Harrington charter proposal would do away with annual meeting

by Dave Coady

At its Monday night meeting on the city's new charter, Councilman Curtis Melvin proposed a change that would do away with the Annual Meeting of Electors. Melvin's change would be to have in its place an Annual Report to the Citizens. This meeting would be a Mayor's report on the "State of the City".

The meeting would be chaired by the Mayor or his appointee. Candidates for City Council would still be presented to the voters at this meeting. Melvin said "I want to stop turning this annual meeting into an unruly gripe session, which has been the case in the past". The City Council accepted Melvin's change.

The Council discussed at length the hiring procedure within the city government. It was agreed that the new city charter contain provisions for all applications for employment together with the recommendations of the Head of Department be forwarded to the Personnel Committee for consideration.

With the final t's crossed and i's dotted, Solicitor William Walls was asked to prepare a final draft of the City Charter for action by the Council.

Mayor supports City Hall move

by Dave Coady

At a Monday night meeting of the Harrington City Council, Mayor Al Mann gave his full support to move the city hall to the proposed new location at 110 Center Street. The Council heard a report presented by Councilman Curtis Melvin in which he stated, "the building can be purchased for $85,000."

He further reported that the building had just had a new roof built and that it has a twenty year guarantee. The Council discussed some of the alterations that would be necessary to the interior. Mayor Mann stated "there should be no move to the new location until all renovations are completed."

The Mayor said "I have been around long enough to see this sort of thing happen before. You pack your furniture and move with the idea of next year we will fix up this or that. We must first decide on what must be done, then obtain quotes for the necessary work and put this matter before the voters," the Mayor said.

Some of the alterations discussed were adding two bathrooms, more electrical outlets, florescent lighting, wheel chair ramps and emergency doors. The proposed location would house City Hall, council chambers, police department and the public library.

The only negative response came from Councilman Melvin. Melvin said, "I would oppose any design that would require the police to use the Center Street entrance". It was agreed that the Council should now decide on the alterations necessary and then obtain quotes before proceeding any further.

Delaware Music School

by William T. Ficka

Shakespeare said that the man who has no music in him is "fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils."

Students at the Delaware Music School (DMS) have no such worries.

Approximately 150 students are developing their inborn love and talent for music at the only school of its kind in Southern Delaware.

The school is located in the facilities of the Avenue Methodist Church on Church St. in Milford. The school is not affiliated with the church.

Thanks to the strenuous efforts of Mrs. Rachel Draper and Mrs. Linda Burris, the DMS opened its doors to the public in September, 1981.

The school is under the direction of a Board of Trustees, representing the people of Southern Delaware. Draper and Burris are chairman and vicechairman respectively.

The DMS is a nonprofit, tax exempt organization. In addition to its tuition fees it relies on funds from private benefactors and grants, such as the one received from the Delaware State Arts Council.

At present such funds are necessary in order to cover the school's operating and administrative expenses.

In one year the school tripled its student enrollment and quadrupled its available instruction.

"We are pleased. To think we started with only 35 students and now we have 150," Draper said.

Draper credits the school's rapid growth to "the acceptance and participation of residents throughout the community of Southern Delaware and the quality of the DMS experience."

Michelle Peters, a 25-year-old, 5-foot-one dynamo, is executive director of the DMS. She is also the school's violin instructor. She talks in an energetic voice with a rapid-fire delivery.

"We have some adult students, but most of the students are between the ages of 4 and 15. We teach virtually every instrument with the exception of the French horn. We also have voice study and music theory classes," she said.

"We have two branches in Dover and plan another one in Millsboro for next year. We are also thinking of opening a branch in Seaford. The locations would form the shape of a diamond. That way would be within easy reach of all of lower Delaware," she added.

Peters has a B.S. degree in music education from West Chester State College, West Chester, PA. She has performed with the Lancaster Symphony and the Delaware Repertory Orchestra, and is also co-founder and former conductor of the Delaware Youth Orchestra. In addition to her duties at the DMS, she is also violin instructor at the Wilmington Music School.

Co-founder Draper said, "We have an excellent faculty. Come to the faculty recital on May 1. You'll really enjoy it." Director Peters said that violin, piano, cello and viola are taught by both the traditional method and the "Suzuki Method."

Dr. Shinichi Suzuki, an 82-year-old Japanese violinist, introduced his method at the Music Educators National Conference in Philadelphia in 1964.

It is Suzuki's belief that children learn to play an instrument in the same way that they learn to talk — by listening, imitation and constant repetition.

The parents' enthusiasm, cooperation and encouragement are vital factors in the learning process, according to Suzuki.

Kites fly high at Lewes' annual event "Locals Shine"

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

CAPE HENLOPEN STATE PARK, Lewes, Friday, April 1 - There were many tight lines today on those high flying kites as Leonard Conover, President of The Greater Delaware Valley Kite Society, came to the Cape Henlopen State Park for the annual kite flying contest. The Society is based in Newfield, N.J. and it has been in existence for 2 years. But in that span of time, kiting has grown to extraordinary proportions. "We had over 2000 spectators, guests, and members here today. It is by far the best turnout we have had yet," said Conover, who mused "...these people are here for many reasons....and they have entered for many reasons, but the true kite enthusiasts arrived here this morning at 6 a.m. and will stay until dark."

There were many kites in the sky this warm and slightly gusty April day. According to Conover, "...the winds of April are great for flying kites". Steve Edeiken from Venice, California was on deck. He was finishing up a week at the Smithsonian Institute where the greatest kite festival of the year had just finished another successful conference. Edeiken is the one who has extended the Rainbow Stunt Kite into great prominence. He flew various ones today all of which commanded the two lines. One with six attached, each colored kite positioned in the exact slot of the rainbow....or what you see when you view through the prism. He is regarded as one of the top kite flyers in the country today, and at the Smithsonian last week he flew as many as 50 on the two lines at one time. It is remarkable how he could dive the sequence of "sept" kites dive to the surface of the earth only to halt them in their fall and then send them in a horizontal direction just slightly above the heads of two small boys as they ducked trying to dodge the look alike giant insect. The ones Edeiken flew today were the same kites used on the Peter Pan commercial recently.

Edeiken related that the stunt kites had been in existence for centuries "...but I have tried in my own way to improve on them...of course with a lot of help." Edeiken confided that he has followed the works of Paul Gerber, who is the curator of the Air & Space Museum at the Smithsonian Institute. Gerber, in his mid 80's now, is very ill, and missed last week's kite festival at the Smithsonian. It was Gerber who designed the first military target kite in WWII, which followers have fashioned after in order to perfect the stunt kite. The original target kite was made of rip-stop nylon as was the case of many kites flying there today.

George Fohs made the trip from Baltimore to show off his giant Sutton Flow Form kite which was approximately 16'x20', and hitched it to a 14" nylon cord with a test of 1200 lbs. He anchored it to the rear bumper of his car. It too was made of rip-stop nylon, and resembles, to a great deal the parafoil designed kite with huge pockets in which to capture air and keep it aloft. Alongside Fohs was another Marylander, Brooks Leffler who owns the Kites Aweigh Shop in Annapolis, sporting a small version of the Sutton....a Drogue Flow Form.

Another flyer, Bruce Kennington, featured box kites of many sizes. Kin Kan Hsieh and his daughter, Susan, from Taiwan, The Republic of China, featured Dragon kites. "The Dragon is a sign of good luck and protection from evil", said Susan. She and her father, a retired government worker in Taiwan build kites for resale in Taipei, Taiwan. Her father will head up the committee pool of skilled workers, many of whom still remain there unemployed.

Mogan did confirm on Tuesday that Perdue has agreed to pay for the pumping station, which is due to a previous agreement made with Perdue and the County when Perdue wanted to come into the sewer system. This was previous to the great fire. The area of further discussion and on-going negotiations has to do with certain areas involving Perdue where pipes had to be made larger that called for an extra distance which is what the County wants Perdue to pick up. This is the area of big question.

At Monday's Council meeting, Mayor Myers explained that old ceptic tanks cement in origin would have to be pumped out, a hole put in the bottom of them and totally filled in. "If the tank is one of those old metal ones, you will probably have to dig it up", said Myers.

In other matters, it was agreed to let Bill Tribbitt cut the grass for the Town again this year at a weekly rate of $20.

Mayor Myers also stated that the removal of snow from sidewalks was the responsibility of the land owners. The matter was brought to the forefront when the area between the School property and the church property on Main Street was affected by the last snowfall. That property is owned by Bill Berry according to Mayor Myers. According to the Mayor, the charter states that the snow removal is the obligation of the adjoining land owner.

received and read that he would resign from the Council, effective immediately.

The Mayor reasoned that there wasn't any cause for alarm that everything was under control at the present time. Mrs. Jefferson stated that the State by the letters had requested daily sampling of the water to be made, because of the present danger of contamination being in the water one day and maybe not the next. "You don't know right now...under the present conditions, because the source of the problem has not been determined," she concluded. The Mayor said that he "...practically lived in the pump house the entire time the State was there making the tests." He then asked Jenner repeatedly, "Where were you when I was there in the pump house? I never left the place. I was right there through all of it...and we corrected the problem. There was no cause for alarm", the Mayor added.

According to the discussion at Monday night's meeting, an alleged discussion was had between the State authorities and the Town officials concerning the posting of notices that the water was bad in the last episode in December. It was stated that if the State wanted to post notices that they could do it. It was told that Councilmen Jacobs and Jenner did in fact post notices.

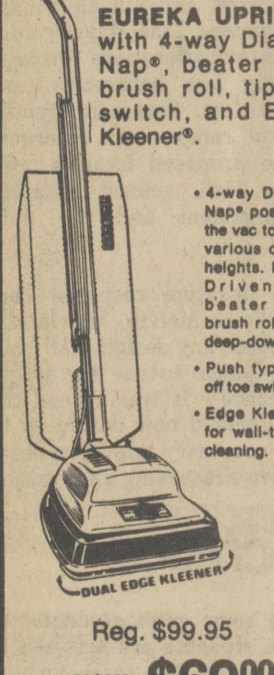

Both the Mayor and Mrs. Jefferson agreed that the more people you talk to at the State level, the more answers you get and not necessarily all in conformity with each other. Mrs. Jefferson said that at times "...I feel like a ping pong ball...bouncing from one government official to another. If only the government would work a little faster and also give us more help in this matter I would feel better", she said later.

which teaches a child to talk. They listen to the parents and imitate them. They keep repeating the same words," Peters explained.

"Actually, we teach them in three steps. First, we teach them by rote. Second, we have them listen to recordings again and again. This gives them the pitch and the rhythm. The third, which is very important, is the parent's help," she continued.

Each child receives a half-hour lesson every week and a group lesson every other week. The group lesson overcomes any fears the child may have of playing for others. The parent attends these lessons with the child and is encouraged to take notes on important points discussed in the lesson.

The parent is the home teacher. He or she is urged to supervise daily practice sessions and have the child listen to the recording daily.

The daily practice is another hallmark of the Suzuki method. Students find it hard to forget Dr. Suzuki's epigrammatic advice, "You don't have to practice every day, only on the days when you eat!"

Four student recitals are given each year along with one faculty recital. The next faculty performance will be given on May 1 at 2 p.m. All recitals are given at Fellowship Hall in Avenue Methodist Church.

The DMS is sponsoring the Delaware Youth Orchestra performance to be held April 17 at 2 p.m. at Milford High School.

Working in conjunction with the University of Delaware, the DMS offers five or six programs a year as part of its "Outreach Program."

These programs are offered in Kent and Sussex schools at various times throughout the school year. The DMS school year runs from September to June.

In these programs a few DMS students and their teachers give a 15 minute demonstration. This is followed by a 45 minute presentation by a professional musician or ensemble from the University of Delaware.

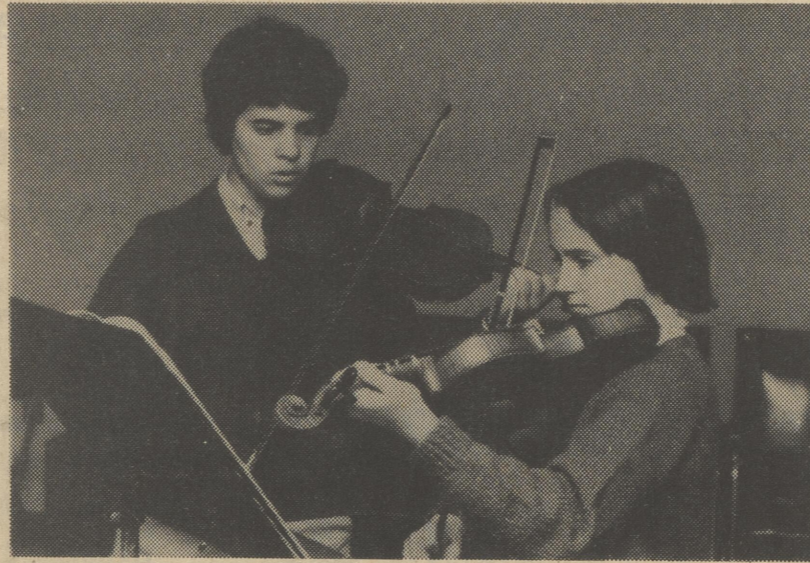

Featured are such performers as Leon Bates, world renowned concert pianist and faculty member at the university, and the internationally acclaimed Delos String Quartet, artists-in-residence at the university and winners of the 1981 Colmar International Quartet Competition in France.

Area workshops are sponsored by the school along with field trips to the Grand Opera House in Wilmington. Many such activities are planned for the future.

In a testimonial to the DMS, Gov. Pierre S. duPont said, "I am delighted that a school that emphasizes the importance of musical creativity has developed in Sussex and Kent Counties. All Delawareans will surely benefit from the school's commitment to the arts."

Oscar Hammerstein II gave us an unforgettable lyric that said "The hills are alive with the sound of music."

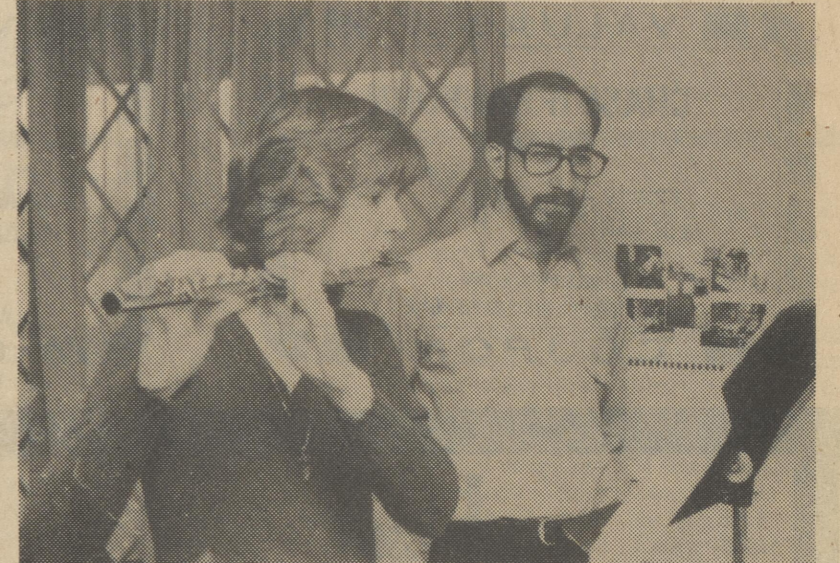

And if they aren't, they will be -- if a small bundle of energy named Michelle Peters has anything to say about it.

Summer jobs offered

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will host two non-residential Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) Camps this summer, employing a total of 20 youths, it was announced today by Refuge Manager Don R. Perkuchin. Ten youths will be employed at each of the National Wildlife Refuges in Delaware, Bombay Hook near Smyrna and Prime Hook near Milton.

Both camps will be non-residential with youths living at home and commuting daily to the refuge. The camps will be operated for eight weeks starting in June and ending in August.

The YCC program is designed to provide meaningful summer employment for young people and to accomplish needed conservation work on public land. Participants in this youth program will perform a variety of refuge work projects outdoors.

YCC is open to youths from 15 through 18 years old. Application forms may be obtained from local high schools or directly from the refuges. Application forms must be returned to the refuge where employment is desired by April 15, 1983.

Four Chipman students take part in tournament

by Cathy Gregory

On Saturday, March 26th the annual Delaware State Speech Tournament was held at Dover High School. Participating in this tournament were approximately forty students from 5 Delaware schools. One of these schools was Chipman Junior High School from Harrington. This was the first time that a junior high school participated in this annual event.

Participation in this tournament was a culmination of weeks of practice and hard work for Dede Castro, Lisa Luckenbach, Denise Gregory and Mark Scarborough.

The students, on their own, arranged their schedules, made provisions for transportation and reorganized their homework and study regime so that they could meet every Tuesday night from 6:30 to 8:00 at the home of Frank Gregory, a forensic coach. At first tentative, the students soon were bitten by forensic fever.

After a general introduction to public speaking Dede, Denise, Lisa and Mark each selected a separate category to compete in. Dede Castro read and evaluated many poems before she settled on "The Highwayman" by Alfred Noyes. Once the selection was made the task of oral practice was begun.

Lisa Luckenbach also had a difficult task when she chose the category of prose interpretation. In her selection of Lisa, Bright and Dark she had to develop three different and distinct characters.

Mark Scarborough and Denise Gregory turned their attention to the area of original oratory. In this event the speaker must write an original speech of approximately 8-10 minutes. Denise chose to inform the audience of the effects of videogame playing on today's young people, while Mark's speech was to persuade the audience that there is a need to increase government spending in the field of space exploration and technology. Each of these speeches had to be substantiated with facts, and statistics that were a result of hours of research.

The Lake Forest School District has a right to be proud of these four young people. They were able to remain competitive against Dover High School, Archmere Academy, Sussex Central High School and Caesar Rodney High School. In fact, their competitive peers paid them the ultimate compliment when they commented "Lake Forest is going to be awesome in a few years." They then invited Dede, Lisa, Denise and Mark to join them for lunch.

Gab Fest

by Pat Hatfield

This cold spell is a little hard to take after those warm spring days. A friend told me another old-time saying that was new to me. "If a thunderstorm occurs during a snowstorm (which happened just the other day), then we may expect a frost in May. So anything can happen and probably will. I remember when I was about our Garth's age we had a bad frost late in May and it blackened our rows of vegetables just getting their first baby leaves. My mother cried, but we had to replant and carry on.

Isn't it a beautiful part of our world where people share the things they have learned? Just a few weeks ago in our column I was asking, "Who are the little peepers?" And you know that a few days ago the answer came in the form of a letter from a dear lady in Landenberg, PA, who was a former resident of Greenwood and much loved by all who know her. She is 95 years old, but she has taken time out from her reading and her patchwork to share this about the little peepers. I quote from her letter: "There are excerpts from an article on 'Peepers' by Harry Middleton which appeared in the April-May issue of Wildlife.

Peepers are experts in judging weather. They will not give up their winter hibernation until daytime temperatures are above 50' and stay there for sometime. Cold nights do not bother them as long as the days are warm.

The spring peeper is officially known as Hyla Crucifis. Hyla refers to tree frog in general, crufisis to the dark cross on its back. While most tree frogs sing in a trill pitch, the spring peepers' song sounds like the tinkling of bells at a distance.

Ranging widely in color from rans to an assortment of dull oranges and reddish browns, the peeper is common in many of the country's wetlands, bogs, marshes, ponds and ditches. As frogs go, it is small, usually measuring from three quarters to an inch to one and a half inches in length. It's feet are equipped with large pads on the ends of its toes and is one of nature's most incredible leapers, estimated to jump twenty times its body length.

The female peeper deposits her sticky eggs in shallow water and they will adhere to plant stems and grasses until warming temperatures induce hatching. The minute tadpoles begin feeding on algae and the metamorphosis is completed during the summer months. The emerging peepers are no bigger than a ladybug. They soon leave the water and feed upon mosquitoes, gnats and other insects, growing daily until the first cold north winds drive them into the warm need to hibernate until spring.

April is the Peeper's month and its song is neither symbol or myth nor theory. Rather it is the reassurance of a promise fulfilled-the promise of spring."

Isn't that a joy to know? Thank you, dear Mrs. Lena Taylor, for caring enough to share this with us.

Jim Blades' Lake Forest Spartans downed boys and girls teams from Dover High for the first time ever in each case.

The Spartan boys won 81-60, while their female counterparts had a 87-45 romp.

Sprinter Andy Lasalle and weightman Rob Prutzman were double winners for the boys. Lasalle and Ray DeShields went 1-2, in both the 100 and 200 meters, probably an unprecedented feat, in Spartan-Senator dual meets.

This pair then joined Jay Harmon and Ralph Young to take the 400 meter relay in 45.27.

Prutzman tossed the 12 pound shot 48 feet, 6 3/4 inches and spun the discus 133 feet. Barry Chaffinch, brother of a former Spartan discus recordholder was third. Barry is young enough to return that mark to the Chaffinch family someday.

Jerome Harris set to a new school record in the 110 meter high hurdles, dropping his own mark from 14.9 to 14.8. Tony Scott was third in a personal best of 15.2. Scott then won the 300 intermediate hurdles in 41.4, with Harris running third in a personal best 42.1. Scott was second in the triple jump with Mike Briggs third.

James Browne, shorter than most high jumpers, cleared six feet, to win the high jump. Mark Goodman and Jay Harmon tied for third. Marvin Parker, Daryl Tolson, Sheldon Powell and Nelson Mosley captured the mile relay in a near-record 3:34.4. This was accomplished with both Powell and Mosley feeling below par. Despite this, Mosley was second and Powell third, at 400 meters, with Mosley tying Powell's Spartan record of 52.4.

Dan Donovan, Jerry Mosley and Mike Melvin scored points in distance races, as did Ralph Taylor and Maurice Parker, in the long jump and Ken Hutchins and Josh Howerin, in the pole vault.

The Spartan girls were led by versatile athletes Caritha Clarke and Pam Pierce, with 13 points each.

Clarke improved her school record, in the triple jump, to 35 feet, 5 inches, won the 100 meter hurdles, a new event for her in 17.1, then finished second to Joanne Smith, in the long jump, with Christine Nichols completing the 1-2-3 sweep.

Pierce also tried a new event in taking the high jump, then was first in the 800 meters, in 2:38.4, and second to Donna Pardee, at 400 meters. Pardee was runnerup at 800 meters.

A rising freshman star, Kelly Pelton was a close second in the 1600 meters in 6:05, then easily annexed the 3200 meters, in 13:19. Caroleathea Smith, another novice, took the discus over teammates Sharon Burton and Angie Akins.

Akins and Burton were second and third, in the shot. Sophomore Debbie Jester won the 300 meter hurdles, was third in the 100 hurdles and ran a strong leg, in the mile relay.

Carla Davis, Sheri Durant, Patti Drew and Anita Sherwood made up the winning 400 meter relay foursome. Tara Gladden scored in the 1600 and 3200 meter runs while Ann Irby did the same in both hurdle events.

Caritha Clarke set a new meet record, in the triple jump to record the best leap, in the girls division of the Diamond State Relays, held at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium, Saturday. Clarke's 35-5 is her second such effort. Athletes from four states competed.

Lake Forest's athletes brought home a grand total of 32 medals. Rob Prutzman was a close second, in the discus, as he spun the platter 139 feet, 7 1/2 inches, to break his Lake Forest School record. Tony Scott was third, with Harris running third in a personal in a near-record 3:34.4. This was the Spartan boys two mile relay quartet were first in their heat with 8.43. These were Jerry Mosley, Nelson Mosley, Daryl Tolson and Dan Donovan. Jay Harmon, Ralph Young, Ray DeShields and Andy LaSalle ran second in their heat of the 400 meter relay.

In the girls two mile relay Lake Forest won its heat, in 10:56, very close to the school mark. Debbie Jester, newcomer Denise Donato, Pam Pierce and Debbie Pardee formed the quartet.

Joanne Smith leaped 17 feet, 1 inch for fourth place in a large field of jumpers and broke her school mark (16-9 1/2). Joanne, Anita Sherwood, Patti Drew and Carolyn Browne won their heat of the 400 meter relay, in 53.1. Sheri Durant ran for Joanne Smith, in the 800 meter relay, with the other three girls, in yet another heat victory (1:52.9).

Angie Akins was second, in the shotput with a throw of 33-8.

A Spartan mile relay unit of Carolyn Wynder, Sylvia Hicks, Pam Pierce and Donna Pardee were second in their heat, in 4:28.8.

In the medley relay Pam Pierce, Donna Pardee, Tara Gladden and Kelly Pelton were third with fine efforts from each.

Patti Drew may be back in form, in the high jump. She finally missed at five feet, which is excellent leaping, for early April.

It appears that Lake Forest will be ably represented, in both boys and girls track, this spring.

Hunting and Fishing on Delmarva

by David F. Coady

FINFISH: The latest in the continuing saga of "will Delaware ever enforce finfish law", continues still. Chancellor Grove C. Brown has issued a temporary restraining order to stop the state from enforcing laws banning net fishing. Apparently he felt that Good Friday is not a good day to start enforcing the law.

Maybe the good Chancellor should be reminded that nearly 2,000 years ago the death penalty was upheld on what has become known as Good Friday. Let us hope that this session of the State Legislature can settle the finfish issue once and for all. And the courts upheld the right of the legislative branch of government to pass laws and have those laws enforced.

TROUT SEASON: The 1983 trout season got off to a good start. It just might be a record season both in numbers of fishermen and their catch. But look out for those 12 year old criminals. They are fishing without their trout stamps. Every effort is being made to bring these lawbreakers to justice.

Maybe they should get in touch with the Commercial Netters. Get a restraining order against Fish and Wildlife from enforcing the law. It seems that we are living with selected enforcement of laws. Twelve year olds can't vote and don't seem to have a very powerful lobby in Dover.

WILDLIFE SHOWS: Wildfowl carvers from all over the country will compete in the 13th Annual Ward Foundation World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition on April 23 and 24 at the Convention Hall in Ocean City, Maryland. Over 1,000 carvers are expected to compete in this year's competition.

There is an $18,000 1st prize. If you can't make it to the competition, then plan on visiting the North American Wildfowl Art Museum at Salisbury State College, Salisbury, Maryland. Phone (301) 742-4988 for more information.

The Bombay Hook National Wildlife Refuge has opened the doors to its new Visitor Center. Local wildlife artists are invited to display their own work in the refuge auditorium on weekends from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Interested artists should contact Ed Britton at the refuge office. The center is open from sunrise to sunset daily. It will close on June 1.

FISHING PUBLICATIONS: There are twelve free publications available from the University of Delaware on fishing. They are:

1. The University of Delaware's Marine Advisory Service.
2. Jellyfish - Regular Summer Visitors to Delaware Shores.
3. Weakfish - Catch a Queen for Dinner
4. Delaware vs. the Sea - Are We Losing the Battle?
5. Common Seashells of Delaware.
6. The Horseshoe Crab - A Reminder of Delaware's Past.

8. To Build a Better Flytrap

Dancer's Crown, Fortune Teller top-ranked in 1983 season

COLUMBUS - Dancer's Crown, a trotter, and Fortune Teller, a pacer, both of whom set money-winning records for their respective gaits last year as two-year-olds, have been top-ranked for their three-year-old seasons in the 1983 Experimental Championship Ratings. Ranked ninth on the list of trotters is Perfect Beauty, the Harrington filly who earned a perfect record last year.

The Experimentals are an annual ranking of the season's three-year-old harness horses produced by the U.S. Trotting Association. They are designed to predict the fastest winning times for the horses ranked on the list.

Dancer's Crown, who had a 1983 record of 1:58 is rated to go in 1:54 as a three year old. For Perfect Beauty, the 1983 forecast is 1:56. She went in 1:57 3/5 for her best time last year.

In the ranks of the pacers, Fortune Teller is predicted to better his top 1982 time of 1:55 3/4 by going in 1:52 1/5.
