J.C. Penney seeks to purchase local bank

HARRINGTON, DE - The oldest bank in the community of Harrington, the First National Bank of Harrington incorporated in 1888, has been aproached by the national retailer, J.C. Penney, Inc. to purchase the are 21,000 outstanding shares. The most recent book value, sale of one $101 per share. The last time a new issue of stock was made in 1976. The bank gave a one for one stock dividend in July, and there was also a new issue sold in November of that year. Prior to own 80% of the stock. If they can not 1976 there was 5 for 1 stock split in 1972, and a new issue also in '72.

> J.C. Penney has 20,000,000 credit cards to process each month. They are the third largest retailer in the U.S. If Penney would locate here there would be a need for more jobs, because a credit card operation requires a collection department, approval of credit department, billing department, customer service department, computer operations, and computer programs.

J.C. Penney, Inc. contacted in New York this week said "...we are interested in pursuing the banking situation because of the need which we feel is necessary to provide more services to our customers." Right now J.C. Penney has an agreement, which, according to Lyons is a pilot program, with 1st Nationwide Savings & Loan of California where in five J.C. Penney stores in northern California, a family financial center has been established.

"We take about 1000 square feet of floor space in a store and set up the banking operations....the insurance and health benefits service which we Mr. T.J. Lyons, Executive V.P. of are into....as well as the credit card operation. It is still a test case, however". He went on to add that in today's world with two income family situations, people need to have the services you can provide made conveniently available to them.

Has DNREC assumed dictorial powers?

by David F. Coady

Natural Resources and Environmental Control (DNREC) has assumed powers must calling for the removal of those heads of departments within the DNREC new regulations just because you who are responsible for the usurpation already have an existing septic of the state constitution.

Seipp sites costs of between $4,000 If anything goes wrong with an and $15,000 for a septic system that existing system, you would be would meet the proposed DNREC regulations. Seipp gives as an example the procedure that would have to be the procedure that would have to be and have your system checked. If it followed when the new proposals are fails, the inspection, you would be progumated:

"First, a geologist and back-hoe operator would check the soil layers cost $150 to $300.

"Second, a soil analyst would do an extensive percolation test - cost, $150 to $300.

"Third, the above reports plus $50 would be submitted to Natural into law.

Resources, and they would specify Charging that the Department of which type of system must be used.' Seipp went on to explain that all this be done by state-licensed not granted by the constitution, Harry installers. "Who can afford to pay up to A. Seipp of Seaford is circulating a $15,000 for a septic system," Seipp petition throughout Sussex County asks. Seipp went on to explain that, "don't think you will be immune to the system.

> required, under the newregulations, to pay the $50 fee to Natural Resources required to install an alternate system. Seipp calls the alternate system, that DNRECis pushing, a miniature sewage plant. The system requires tow tanks, pump and a filter system. Seipp feels that DNREC is that DNREC is using selective reports on nitrate contamition to push the proposed regulations

"The Attorney General has entered into a conspiracy with the DNREC to usurp the state constitution" Seipp said. Siting facts and figures given by DNREC Seipp said "that telling the truth with ommisions is worse than a lie as more people will believe it". DNREC will not tell you but 100% of the septic systems would fail inspection if the new regulations are adopted.

"If nitrate contamination is dangerous to your health, why does the Food and Drug Administratin permit the use of nitrates as a preservative in food or why is chicken manure allowed as a mixture in cattle feed", Seipp asks. Seipp founded the Farmer, Builders and Homeowners Association two years ago to fight excesses of power in Planning and Zoning Boards. The association claimed a membership of 400 but since taking lead in fighting the new septic tank regulations the membership has grown to between 3,500 and 4,000.

Environmentalists tell realtors nitrates are there

DOVER, DE -Robert Zimmerman a alternatives. The highest concentrasupervisor in the Department of Natural Resources for water pollution told a full house at the regular meeting last Thursday night of the Kent County Board of Realtors that nitrates were going to pollute our drinking water. A film was shown whereby alternative systems were suggested to combat the nitrate problem The alternatives amounted to mini sewer plants, and the cost of installation ranged up to $15,000 on a minimum sized lot of one acre. The feeling of those present at the real estate meeting was that it would stop the sale and construction of new homes. "With used homes under these new regulations...if you were required to repair the septic system more likely than not you would have to put in a new system. According to Zimmerman around the state approximately 18% of the septic systems should be conventional and for high school graduation

The proposals, which would raise to 19 the minimum number of credits needed for a diploma, will be discussed at public hearings held by the State Department of Public Instruction in each county and will be considered for action by the State Board in July.

The ideas were advanced by a special committee of 46 persons named by the State Board last fall at Gov. du Pont's request. Committee chairman was Roger A. Akin, a Wilmington attorney and former counsel to the State Board, who was aided by Randall L. Broyles, assistant state superintendent for instruction.

As proposed by the committee, graduation requirements would include four credits in English; three in social studies; two each in math and science; President Reagan has proclaimed one in physical education; one-half in May 5th as a national day of prayer health; and six and a half in other electives.

Delaware students would have to skills would still be required. Local State minimal standards for science boards could impose credit require- should be defined ments beyond these, as many districts have done already. Of the state science requirements, one credit would be earned in biological studies and one in either physical or earth science. Science courses would include at least one laboratory period a week.

State may require more math and science

Mr. Akin said the committee also urges several other improvements: All high schools should offer a range of computer courses, and computer literacy should be taught by Grade 7. College-prep students should earn a third credit in math and science, three credits in foreign languages, and a half-credit in computer science, in addition to the state minimal requirements.

College-prep science courses should have at least two lab periods weekly. Writing should be assigned priority. DPI should review the methods districts use to certify that students have attained the 17 minimal performance requirements.

Vocational courses should be examined to see how their content relates to the state requirements in math and science.

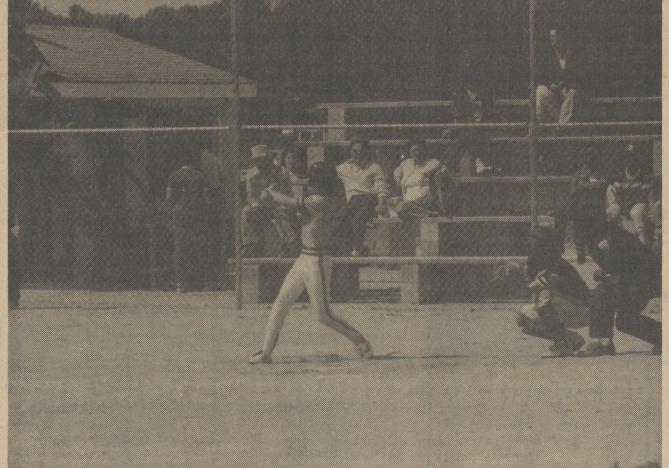

Citizenship education should be improved following the national guide adopted by the Council of Chief State School Officers tion of nitrates is west of Greenwood and around Selbyville. The charge is related to nitrates from the farming industry.

Although the nitrates are high in some areas, it was not proven at the meeting that nitrates are harmful. "It can cause what they call a blue baby", said Zimmerman. This is due to the nitrates when taken internally use up the oxygen in body. Still only four known cases have been reported in The U.S. since 1900. Zimmerman said ... this is because cases of this nature do not have to be reported". The debate is unending.

Zimmerman concluded by saying that the Director of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Health has the power to legislate into law the necessary regulations that would control septic tank systems. The current director is Jack Wilson.

Felton appoints police commissioner

by David F. Coady

At last Monday's meeting of the Felton Town Council, Councilman Clarence Hurd brought up the problem of the town's idle police car. He stated that the car should have a service and should be readied for when the town hires another policeman. Hurd also made note of the fact that there hasn't been a proper inventory of weapons and equipment issued to the town policeman.

The rest of the council responded by appointing Hurd Police Commissioner and instructed him to do whatever is necessary to have the police car readied and a proper inventory done on all equipment on charge to the police department.

In other business it was noted that all councilmen received a letter from the State Department of Health informing them that water tests were past due. Mayor William Myers informed the council that William DeLong is doing the necessary tests and will be forwarding the results to the health department.

The council voted to donate $25 to the Felton Little League and noted that the town supports the little league by paying the league's electric bills.

The council voted to participate in the Kent County Tri-Centennial celebra-

SCA secures new administrator

Seaford Christian Academy has secured a new administrator, Mr. Carl Dennis. He comes to us from Indianapolis, Indiana. He has attended Penn State University and then Baptist Bible College, from which he graduated with a Bachelor of Religious Education. He then received a master of religious education in Christian School Administration from Tennessee Temple University, from which he graduated Magna Cum Laude (very high honors). Mr. Dennis has taught three years at the sixth grade level in New Jersey and has, for the last two years been the administrator of Broadway Christian School.

Mr. Dennis' experience has included the responsibility for the total ministry of the school, including supervision nd recruitment of staff. curriculum evaluation and development, budget management, athletics, and day to day operation. He has also upgraded curriculum, reorganized and expanded the testing program, and instituted a full, athletic program.

Mr. Dennis is married and the father of a $3^{1/2}$ year old daughter. They will be moving into the area in the very near future and assuming the responsibiliities of administrator June 1st.

On Thursday, March 31st, six lucky French students of Mr. James Boyd, French teacher at Lake Forest High School, went to New York City to board a Swissair Boeing 747 to begin an eight day tour of France, Switzerland, and Italy. The students were: Tracie Hensley, Lavonne Shockley, Lori Ann Bright, Paul Meding, April Testerman, and Linda Lee. Accompanying the students were Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Alice Cataldi, and Ms. Patsy Testerman of Roanoke, Va. (The Aunt of April Testerman). The group spent three days in Paris seeing the sights. Despite the large Easter weekend crowds there was not much the group missed seeing. They were able to slip into the Louvre for a quick visit to Mona Lisa", took a boat ride down the Seine, and visited all the major monuments and cathedrals. On Saturday afternoon, the group took a bus to visit the Chateau of Versailles, the famous palace of Louis XIV. On

by Carol Ann Porter

I just can't quite comprehend, why normal, happy folks, put their life in the hands of the "daily horoscopes. Now I know folks who hesitate to drink their morning brew, until they check their horoscope to see what they should do. I picked the paper up once or twice and thought I'd join the crowd. I flipped the pages with great hope, read my horoscope aloud. Now don't forget, I'm close to 40, married half my life, with no greater expectation than to be a mother and a wife. On Monday, I read Aries, it said, "don't trust your best friend." She's out to take your lover, on that you can depend. On Tuesday, it said "you're going on a trip and that's for sure." The only trip I took that week was to the grocery store. On Wednesday, it said "Romance may be in store for you." If my Mother's sign was Aries, would SHE find romance, TOO! Thursday's horoscope told me "I would be dating an old flame." It's obvious they don't care if I wind up dead or maimed. Friday, it said "Money is what you're gonna get." I've checked my mailbox every day and ain't seen nothin' yet. Now Saturday it told me "to avoid spreading tales." These guys have gone too far now, I'd rather walk on nails. Now Sunday really took the cake, it said to "fast all day" I might consider one hour, but one day, "no way, Jose' I think? that I WAS happy before the horoscopes I read. Now I've lost my friend and husband, I may as well be dead. I'm too old to be successful in a new career endeavor. And to get me on a plane or ship, you'd have to be quite clever. I think I am quite satisfied with my life as it has been. So I won't read today's horoscope, on that you can depend !!

> PREGNANCY AND DRUGS Anti arthritis medication, including aspirin, taken by a pregnant woman shortly before labor can cause her unborn baby's arteries and lungs to behave in a way that they would normally do only when the baby starts breathing after birth. When these changes take place before birth, the lung arteries become too thick, making it difficult for the baby to absorb enough oxygen after birth when first starting to breathe. In bad cases, the babies appear blue - some do not recover. Find out from your physician if any medicines taken regularly should be discontinued toward the end of pregnancy.

Beauty notches 13th straight

Set record

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

BRANDYWINE RACEWAY - Wilmington, Del. - It was a great night for racing, and Harrington's pride in feminine pulcritude dazzled a field of 10 horses....and stayed ear in the hearts of those who watched Perfect Beauty win her 13th straight victory in record time for 3 year old trotting filly on a 5/8's mile track. "She's a very smart young lady.....tries to please her owners, the trainer, driver, and those who wager on her", a close source to the family said. A beautiful piece of horse flesh with an unbelieveable stride (gait), are two things that go with her winning ways.

The field got off to a flying start, and the youngster quickly got on top. She gave way to Arin Callico, the Asutrailian bred horse, who had the lead through the first half. Up the backstretch, Arin Callico went off stride. For a brief moment it seemed like Beauty was in trouble, but under the capable reinsmanship of Ross Hayter, she darted to the center of the racetrack....looking for racing room. It was time to leave the boys behind. She glided by the jumping Callico.

She carried the boys through the third quarter in 1:30:3. It appeared at the 3/4 pole that Smoker, a speedster. would be the new challenger. As Beauty played with the field and gradually pulled away from Smoker and the new player, Southampton Hope. The pressure built for Smoker and he desperately tried to keep up. But it was too much. He went off stride as Beauty glided through the fourth turn.....eating up the Brandywine turf. From there the Hayter/Beauty freight train got on track...hugging the rail as she beat down on the closing seconds for a track record. She beat Southampton Hope by 5 lengths. Hayter said afterwards, "she responded to my urging anywhere on the racetrack.

Perfect Beauty will be back at Brandywine this Friday. Tension mounts as does jealousy and envy when Beauty takes to that narrow strip of turf belonging to New Castle County. She will probably be in a 10 horse field, and one by one they will be out to run her down. She will give them all she has to win. If they play fair they might beat her", said one expert reinsman but in doing so they will have killed an American dream. It won't be a proud accomplishment when it happens to be sure, for it would mean beating the darling of the standard bred racing world. Those that would participate in methods like "....boxing in....parking her on the outside.....or just plain running her down will never make the Hall of Fame. On top of that it would warrant an F.B.I. Investigation. If you are going to beat her....do it fairly and and squarely.

Her owner Delbert Cain said this week "...I won't let them hurt her., She is still young yet, and we don't want to see her hurt. We love her very much". Cain was unable to get a race at Meadowlands for the remainder of this month due to conflicting race dates for him at other tracks. "It just doesn't suit", a source said.

Beauty waits for her chance at the "Big M" to show off her stuff before the New York crowds.

Lake Forest's girls track team possess a 7-0 record, with only Cape Henlopen standing between them and an un beatem season. The girls trounced Seaford and Caesar Rodney by almost identical scores of 96-36 and 97-;35.

Caritha Clarke and Carolyn Browne set new school marks for the victors. Clarke triple jumped 36 feet, 7 inches, which is the best mark, in Delaware this spring and is only 5 inches away from the state record. Browne was second, at 200 meters, but sliced 1/2 of a second off her school standard to record a 25.9.

Ann Irby, Clarke and Debbie Jester were 1-2-3, in the high hurdles. Jester (53.5) and Irby were first and second in the lows. Joann Smith, one of Delaware's top long jumpers, soared 17 feet to key a 1-2-3 sweep with Clarke and Christine Nichols.

Seaford's speedster won the 100 and 200 dashes and the 800 relay, but Coach 'Blades' loaded up his 400 relay and beat the Sussex Countians, in 51.57, with Smith, Browne, Anita Sherwood and Patti Drew. Drew did 4-10, to take the high jump. Pam Smith was a second to Clarke in the triple jump.

Sharon Burton spun the discus 112-feet 8 inches to win that event. She has a 113 plus toss, which is the second best, in Delaware, this spring. Burton trailed teammate Angie Akins, in the shot. Akins threw 35, 21/2 this time but has a 37-1, which is only 1¹/₄ inches away from 1983's best throw in the Diamond State.

Kelly Pelton, a freshman distance ace, recorded another double, at 1600 meters (5.52) and 3200 meters (13.03).

Pam Pierce (63.87) Donna Pardee (64) meters. Debbie Jester joined those ladies, for a victory, in the 1600 meter relay.

Carolyn Browne "Trackwoman of the Week" paced the Spartans, at C.R. Browne ran 12.1 for 100 meters, another school mark for her and on a dirt track yet!

Later, she annexed the 200 meters and topped off her day's work by overhauling C.R.'s anchor lady to pace her team to victory, in the 400 relay. Joann Smith, Sheri Durant and Patti Dew ran in that event with Browne. Caritha Clarke had another prolific day. Clarke took her specialty, the triple jump, with Pam Smith second and Chris Nichols third. Caritha also was the long jump winner, 1/2 inch ahead of teammate, Joann Smith. Clarke was edged by Spartan Ann Irby, in the 100 meter hurdles with Debbie Jester coming in third. Jester and Irby went 2-3 in the 300 hurdles, also. Pam Pierce annexed the 400 meters in 63.5, then ran the 800 meters, in 2.36.9, followed by Donna Pardee (2.40) and Shirlaine Goodman, in a personal best 2.40.5.

Pierce, Pardee, Carolyn Winder and Jester relayed 1600 meters in 4.35. Kelly Pelton won the 3200 meters in 13.07, after finishing second to C.R.'s Darryl Tolson, a first year runner with great natural talent, won an unpressed 800 meters in 2.08, then teamed with Marvin Parker, Sheldon Powell and Nelson Mosely to take the 1600 meter relay.

Seaford's Joey O'Donnell, a very good distance runner, was first, in the 1600 meters (4.35) and the 3200 meters (9.57) but Danny Donovan and Mike Melvin largely neutralized his great getting faster. He ran a fast 2.03.8, 800 running by coming in second and third. both times. Seaford's edge was only 12 points to 10 illustrating the value of having a deep squad, able to pile up the points in events a team can't always win.

Seaford, the Spartans enjoyed their the triple jump.

Jerome Harris (16.3 and 42.9) Tony Scott and diminutive Micah Parker swept both the 110 meter high hurdles and the 300 intermediates.

Parker's 44.6 in the 300 intermediates is an exceptional clocking for such a little dude. Hurdlers should be tall but Micah beats the odds.

Ralph Taylor was first at 100 meters and in the long jump, while uniting with Jay Harmon, Ralph Young and James Browne to take the 400 relay. Darrell Benson annexed the 200 meters, while Ralph Young tied a Rider for second. Benson, Harmon, Young and Marvin Parker relayed 800 meters in 1.34.4, a fast clocking for a dirt track.

The greatest high jumping display, in Lake Forest history occurred when James Browne and Jay Harmon both cleared 6 feet, 2 inches and Mark Goodman reached a new high of 6 feet. Lake Forest has another 6-2 jumper, in Tony Scott. Freshman Bruce Mosley got into the act by making 5-6. This year's Spartan team is showing what it's all about in this sport or any other sport. Older athlete's achieve to a high level, with promising freshmen and sophomore, paying their dues and waiting in the wings, for their chances at stardom.

Daryl Tolson is an exception to the above. This first year trackman keeps meter clocking, on a slow track, with Jerry Mosley next. Tolson, Marvin parker, Nelson Moseley and Sheldon Powell took the mile relay, in 3.36.6. Nelson Moseley and Powell were 1-2, at 400 meters. Tony Scott (45-21/2)

THOUGHTS FROM WASHINGTON

Two steps toward better trade

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

Two important events this past week should have a very positive effect on America's efforts to boost our international trade. Both events were tied to my efforts to expand our country's export markets and to deal with unfair trade practices by some of our trading partners.

I was delighted to learn that President Reagan has endorsed my legislation to create a Cabinet-level Department of Trade. I have been pushing for the creation of this Department for more than five years. As I noted in my weekly column a few weeks ago, this bill will not only help our farmers by more aggressively seeking foreign markets, but also will lead to new job opportunities. Our current trade policy -- or rather, the lack of one -- amounts to thousands of lost job opportunities for Americans. For every billion dollars of exports we can generate, 25,000 jobs are created. I think this new Department of Trade is an important step toward increasing our exports and boosting our economy.

By consolidating our vital trade functions into one office, we can also deal more effectively with unfair trade policies by our competitors. A good example of such policies -- one that has an adverse impact on Delaware -- is the erosion of our poultry market in the Middle East. Because foreign poultry growers are being subsidized by their government, they can undercut our farmers in the world market. So far, they have siphoned off more than 35 percent of our poultry exports to the Middle East. The fact that this case has been under investigation for almost two years, with no apparent relief in sight for American farmers, testifies to the need for a stronger organization in our country.

I intend to move ahead quickly with hearings in my Governmental Affairs Committee so that we can achieve a stronger organization that will make trade a number one national priority. This past week, I heard testimony from former U.S. Trade Representative Robert Strauss.

I will continue to gather information from trade experts and from the Administration to develop the new Trade Department.

Another important event which will further our trade efforts was the President's decision to negotiate a new long-term agreement to sell American grain to the Soviet Union. Just last week, I co-sponsored a resolution urging this action so the United States can once again be considered a reliable source of goods.

The achievement of a new long-term agreement with the Soviet Union is an important step toward reducing the grain surpluses that burden our farmers. I applaud the President's action. I hope the United States will be able to recover a good portion of the market we lost as a result of the 1980 grain embargo.

The two things we need most to meet the challenge of the 1980s and 1990s -- to secure a strong, growing economy for ourselves and our children -- are increased productivity and increased trade. In a nutshell, we must begin to produce the best possible products in the most efficient way, and we must find places to sell them. A Cabinet-level Department of Trade is, I think, a big first step toward that goal.

bakery, came to this country in 1968. It was in that year in New York City that he started to learn his pizza-making trade. He has been perfecting his knowledge of the restaurant business ever since.

> He opened his first pizza shop in 1978 in the Rodney Village Shopping Center in Dover.

> Otto Dekom, the fastidious food critic of the News-Journal papers, made a grand tour of most of the pizza shops from Wilmington to the Maryland border. He gave three stars, his highest rating, to only four shops.

Attilio's Pizza in Dover was one of them.

Any shop that can satisfy the epicurean palate of Mr. Dekom must be doing something right.

The same pizza is yours for the asking at Attilio's in Milford, which DeMeo opened in March of this year.

The restaurant has a homey atmosphere with an attractive decor. It has a seating capacity of 86. The service is fast, friendly and efficient.

All pizzas are made with home-made dough on a $6,000 Hobart dough machine. Subs are made with fresh meats, sliced daily.

The kitchen is as spotless as a shelled hardboiled egg.

After introducing John and Gino, his two assistant chefs, DiMeo said, "They're real professionals. You don't pay them minimum wage.'

"The food business is very sophisticated. Ten years ago every retired factory worker opened a pizzeria. They all failed. They were good factory workers, but they didn't know anything about the food business," DiMeo added. He said they make over 200 pizzas each day on weekends.

"Business is good. It should be even better when the new phone books come out. Our ad in the yellow pages should help our take-out business,' he said. The feeling here is that when the new phone books come out, DiMeo will have to hire another assistant - just to answer the telephone.

C & D Canal designated historic landmark

On May 7, 1983, the Delaware Section of the American Society of Civil Engineers will dedicate a bronze plaque designating the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal as a Delaware Historic Civil Engineering Landmark.

Begun in 1824, the 14-mile canal was opened in 1829 as a toll canal. It had three locks and was operated in this manner until 1919. At that time, it was purchased by the Army Corps of Engineers which converted it to a sea level canal over a six year period ending in 1927.

Built as part of Secretary of the Treasury Albert Gallatin's National consumers throughout the country, are Improvements Program, the canal shortened the passage from Baltimore to Philadelphia by approximately 480 miles and played a major role in the economic growth of the mid-Atlantic states. It stands alone today as the only canal built during the early 1800's which is still a major commercial shipping route.

The plaque will be dedicated at 4:00 in Battery Park at Delaware City, where it will be mounted on the remains of one of the original locks. The public is invited. Rain date will be May 14. Mother's Day - Wearing A Carnation?

by Barbara Brown

Those who wear carnations on Mother's Day this year will echo a tradition started by Anna Jarvis of Grafton, West Virginia. Miss Jarvis gets the credit for the fact that Mother's Day is a national institution. In 1907, she launched a campaign for a nationwide observance of Mother's Day. She also started the custom of wearing a carnation by wearing one in honor of her mother.

The carnations have continued to be a symbol of Mother's Day. Some churches bestow them on the mothers in their congregations. Many still observe the tradition that wearing a colored carnation honors a living parent; wearing a white flower is in memory of one deceased.

Actually, Miss Jarvis was not the first to propose a Mother's Day observance. Many years ago in England there was a she held annual Mother's Day meetings "Mothering Sunday" observed in mid-Lent. Yugoslavia and other Sunday" observed in in Boston.

countries had similar days. In this country, Julia Ward Howe, intrepid social reformer who battled for women's suffrage and peace and who is best known as the author of Battle Hymn of the Republic, was the first one known to have proposed a Mother's Day. In 1872 she suggested June 2 as a day in honor of mothers and dedicated to peace. For several years

Sasseen, a Kentucky school teacher, conducted Mother's Day celebrations in 1887. In 1904, Frank E. Hering, of South Bend, Indiana, launched his own campaign for an observance of Mother's Day.

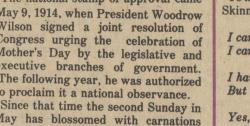

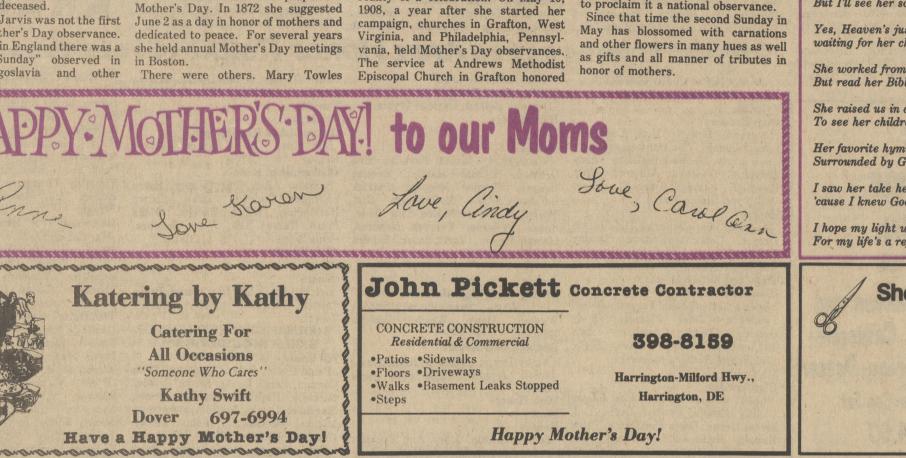

It took Anna Jarvis' efforts to bring the sentiment shared by many to the reality of a celebration. On May 10, The service at Andrews Methodist national celebration gained momentum in 1912 when a delegation from Anna Jarvis' home church presented a resolution at the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Minneapolis, Minnesota, recognizing her as the founder Mother's Day and suggesting the celebration each year be on the second Sunday in May.

The national stamp of approval came May 9, 1914, when President Woodrow Wilson signed a joint resolution of Congress urging the celebration of Mother's Day by the legislative and executive branches of government. The following year, he was authorized to proclaim it a national observance. Since that time the second Sunday in May has blossomed with carnations and other flowers in many hues as well

Dedicated With Love

To my dear departed Mother, Eva G. Skinner, from her daughter Genevieve Skinner Moore (written by her granddaughter, Carol Ann Porter].

I can almost see that halfway grin and that twinkle in her eyes. I can almost see that double chin, I can almost hear her sighs.

I have missed her in a way that many daughters understand, But I'll see her soon and chat with her in God's Great Promised Land.

Yes, Heaven's just a glimpse away, and that's where my dear Mother's waiting for her children and her sisters and her brothers.

She worked from dawn to dusk in a world with small reward, But read her Bible every night, prayed daily to the Lord.

She raised us in a Christian home that her reward might be, To see her children's faces in the Land beyond the Sea.

Her favorite hymn was "In the Garden", and I'm sure that's where she'll be, Surrounded by God's flowers, underneath an olive tree.

I saw her take her last breath, and I fought the tears away, cause I knew God had something better planned for her that day.

I hope my light will shine to others as her light shone to me. For my life's a reflection of my Mother's love for Thee.

DP & L announces quartley earnings

Delmarva Power & Light Company today reported that earnings for three months ended March 31 were $16.7 million or 57 cents a share compared with $17.3 million or 62 cents per share for the same period last year.

"This decrease in earnings is due primarily to lower sales, increased shares outstanding, and increased operating expenses not totally offset by increases in ratttes," said Robert D. Weimer, chairman of Delmarva Power's Board of Directors.

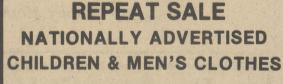

Earnings for the twelve months ended March 31, 1983 increased 6% to $2.09 per share primarily due to increased rates over the entire period.
