Delaware State Fair opens Friday

With its 64th annual opening mere hours away, officials at the Delaware State Fair in Harrington are preparing for what they feel will be record breaking crowds. The record was set in 1981 when just over 177,000 fairgoers came through the gates and based on advance ticket sales, Fair people are confident that they will easily outdistance that mark. Ticket sales are reported to be double what they were at the same time during that record breaking year.

Although the Fair won't officially open until Friday night, July 22nd, a free preview is scheduled for Thursday, July 21. Featured entertainment will be two-year-old Delaware Show will return for a two show

Delaware leads nation in no-till acreage

Delaware may trail other states when it comes to the number and size of its farms. But when it comes to adopting innovative conservation tillage practices, Delaware heads the list.

According to a new survey released by the Conservation Tillage Center, Delaware leads the nation in the percentage of cropland acres planted using no-till and other conservation tillage methods. In 1982, no-till was used on 31 percent of Delaware's cropland. It was followed by Maryland with 28 percent.

Conservation tillage, which includes no-till and other methods that allow some soil disturbance, was used on 79 percent of Delaware's cropland. Next were Maryland, 69 percent; Tennessee, 55 percent; and Iowa, 53

Figures for the survey were provided by U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Extension SErvice, and state soil conservation agency offices.

Fred Mott, SCS district conservationist, attributes the success of no-till and conservation tillage in Delaware to a number of factors. "Soils are one reason," says Mott. "The light, sandy soils on the Delmarva Peninsula are particularly suitable for no-till. And, Delaware has progressive farmers, who are willing to try new techniques." We also have very close cooperation between the county agents, Conservation Districts, Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service personnel in Delaware who work together assisting our farmers. While fuel savings, moisture conservation and increased production resulting from double-cropping were the primary motivating factors for most farmers, Mott predicts that soil conservation will become a more important deciding factor in the future.

"There's mounting concerning about the effect of wind and water erosion on production. It's becoming more common to see fields where the topsoil has been either washed or blown away completely. It costs the farmer more to grow a crop on subsoil than on good, fertile topsoil," Mott says. While no-till and conservation tillage can reduce erosion significantly, they shouldn't be viewed as a panacea, Mott warns. "Farmers who are using no-till on sandy on sloping land may find the gullies and rills are still forming. Other conservation practices such as grassed waterways, terraces or diversions may Modeled after successful efforts throughout the country, Crime Stoppers pays up to $1,000 cash for information that leads to the arrest and indictment of serious criminals. Since callers need not use their name, there is no chance of retaliation.

To work, Crime Stoppers needs support from police, media, businesses and community. It is a non-profit corporation that publicizes a Crime of the Week, usually a serious felony. Callers providing anonymous tips on that crime, or any other felony, are given a code number. If the information proves valuable, the Board of Directors of the corporation pays up to $1,000 cash.

The first Crime of the Week began April 4. Each Monday, a new crime will be publicized throughout Delaware. Former Governor Elbert N. Carvel and former Senator J. Caleb Boggs, are honorary co-chairmen for Crime Stoppers. Mr. Norman Powell was recently appointed Board Chairman.

NOTES FROM CHARLIE BROWN -I think I am finally over the jet lag! I had no problem going the other way, but it's taken a week to get my body clock back on Eastern Daylight Time. Needless to say, I had a marvelous vacation and was able to experience many cultures and the uniqueness of many peoples. Everyone was very friendly and helpful. We'd just get accustomed to the using a few words in a language and learning the money exchange when we'd move on to a new country and have to start all over again. Thank you for your prayers and good wishes and for your hospitality to the visiting priests. All of them enjoyed their stay. When I got the slides together I'll have a showing. Meanwhile, enjoy the summer.

Baked goods such as cookies, brownies, cakes and pies are also needed. There will be someone downstairs 1:00 - 3:00 p.m. on July 29 and at the sale until 5 p.m. to receive your donations.

Tables can also be rented for your own use for $5.00. For more information, call 422-7661 Monday, Wednesday, or Friday between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Saturday night U.S. 13 Speedway held a Pro Show for their popular late model division. Although the winner supported a wing the 35 lapper proved they weren't necessary as only three cars had wings in the top 10 finishers. Jim McBee of Gettysburg, Pa. came home the winner but second place Eddie Pettyjohn never let him out of his sights and became a serious threat McBee took the checkered followed by Pettyjohn, Cagle, D. Hill and S. Hill. Joe Gaita finished 6th with Lou Johnson, Bob Vickers, Todd Richardson and Harlen Williams following.

Frank McKinney nosed out front while the rest of the field fought in the limited late models feature. A third lap mishap took out 7 time winner Mel Joseph as he and Curt Slaughter got together. McKinney stayed on top although his purple #17 was going sour.

By lap 9 there were a six car battle for the lead and Jeff Turpin took the hot seat one lap later. McKinney and Macklin tangled on lap 11 and both dropped two spots. Turpin lost hope of his first victory when he got a flat and Gerald Jester became the one to beat. With only 3 laps to go Macklin took the lead and Phil Wells moved into 2nd, Johnny Snyder 4th and J.V. Wells 5th. Does a kid ever forget a week spent at a summer camp?

Not if he spent the week at Camp Barnes.

Tucked into a small corner of southeastern Sussex County near Bayard, Camp Barnes is an oasis of sylvan beauty, peace and tranquility. The only sounds are the happy shrieks and joyous shouts of about 75 youngsters enjoying a fun-filled week at camp.

And it doesn't cost them or their parents a penny.

Sponsored by the Delaware Association of Chiefs of Police (DACP), the camp is administered by a Board of Directors, headed by Colonel Daniel L. Simpson, Superintendent of State Police.

Located on Miller Creek, next to the Assawoman Wildlife Area on property once owned by the Delaware Fish and Game Commission, the camp occupies 10 acres of clear ground in addition to 99 acres of shoreline. In the late forties the DACP paid the state $1 for a 99-year lease on the land.

Every year deserving youths from throughout the state are recommended by state and local police officers, school nurses, social service agencies and DACP members.

The camp operates on a 12-week season starting approximately June 1, It is open to boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 13. Girls occupy the camp for four weeks, as do the boys. Two weeks are spent at the camp by 4-H club members. Youngsters from the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley are also provided a two-week camping experience.

There are 12 cabins at the camp, with each cabin housing 12 youths. One counselor is assigned to each camp. Most of the counselors are college students.

Saddled with the responsibility for the efficient operation of this vast undertaking is Shirley Beebe, camp director.

She lives at the camp site year round with her husband Donald, a retired Delaware State Police captain. He retired in 1978 as Dover troop commander.

The Beebes have lived at the camp site for the past 10 years. Their own children, David Randall, 22, a University of Delaware graduate and Carol, 20, a junior at Wake Forest College, spent their formative years at the camp.

"I often tell my wife," Beebe said,
"when I see the trouble kids get into,
I'm so glad we moved down here."
Mrs. Beebe, who is a registered nurse, ministers to the inevitable
bumps, bruises, cuts and scratches incurred at the camp.

"Some of the kids come back to visit us each year until they're about 18 or

19 " she said

Looking at a group of youngsters romping about as if they were lifelong friends, she said, "They get off the bus on Monday and don't know anyone. Look at them now."

"You should see how quiet it is on a Saturday," she added. (The children arrive on Monday and leave on Saturday.)

Ronnie Fitzgerald, an 11-year-old Harrington boy is spending his second year at the camp. Asked if he would like to come again next year, he replied with a big smile, "Yeah, I sure would." Last week there were about 25 boys from the Harrington, Milford and Felton areas enjoying their week at the camp.

While there the kids have a full, busy schedule.

The morning hours are spent in class learning such skills as archery, canoeing, swimming and arts and crafts.

After lunch they have free time in which they can choose from a variety of recreational activities.

recreational activities.

The camp has a swimming pool, a baseball diamond, soccer, volley ball and badminton.

And, of course, there is Miller Creek for crabbing, canoeing and pedal boating.

Rainy days are spent in the recreation hall playing ping pong and various games.

Vespers are held each evening before taking the flag down.

After dinner in the mess hall, the kids gather around the campfire every night for songs, stunts and stories.

On Wednesday night everyone enjoys an outdoor barbeque.

"If you want to see something, you should see these kids eat," laughed

Mrs. Beebe.
"When I was on the force," said Mr. Beebe, "I'd see some of the kids a few years later. I didn't always recognize them. They had grown so big. But they usually recognized me."

The camp was established in 1948. It was named after Colonel Herbert A. Barnes, who was Superintendent of State Police at the time. Barnes worked hard and long to raise the necessary funds and to gather the volunteer help to make the camp a reality.

There is no charge to stay at the

In 1948 only 40 campers enjoyed the recreational facilities at Camp Barnes. In 1982 more than 1,100 children shared that opportunity.

Funds to maintain and operate the camp come solely from private donations and various fund-raising projects such as stock car races, a fishing tournament and a golf tournament.

In 1982 it cost more than $73,000 to operate the camp, which has a staff of 21 persons to manage the camp during its 12-week season each summer.

Many state and local policemen put in untold hours of volunteer work to provide thousands of youngsters with a summer vacation they might not otherwise get to enjoy.

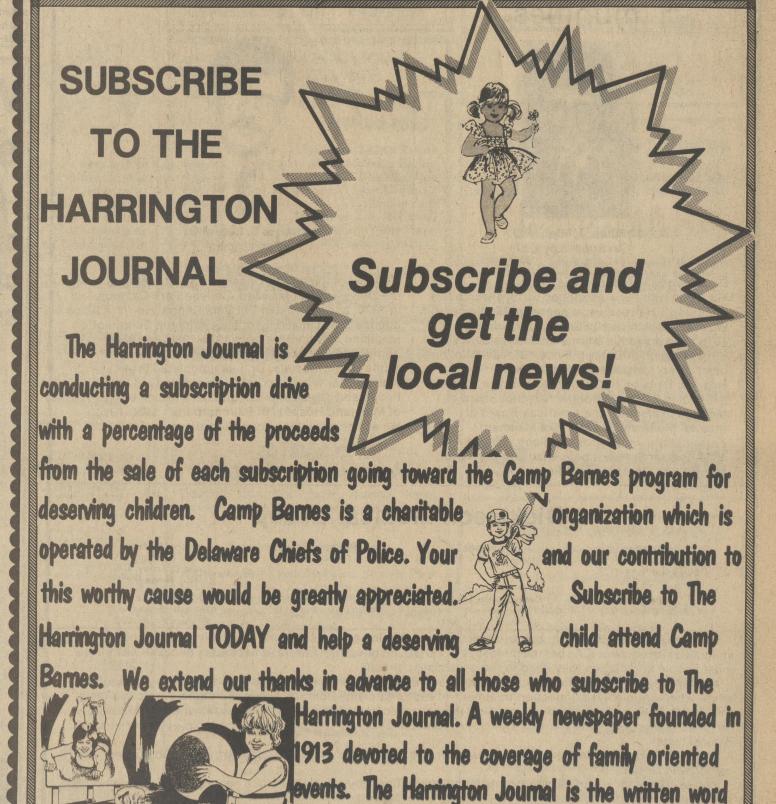

It's only one week in a kid's life. But it provides enough memories to last a lifetime.

Letters to the Editor

The recent Delaware Supreme Court decision concerning Delaware Blue Cross & Blue Shield versus myself as Insurance Commissioner is one that I believe the public should be aware of. The favorable decision to the Delaware Insurance Department was a victory for the consumers of Delaware, and will be very helpful to the Delaware Insurance Department as we monitor health insurance rates in our State.

Primarily, the Delaware Supreme Court reaffirmed a decision that was handed down approximately 3 years ago when the court stated that the Insurance Commissioner has the right to disapprove a Blue Cross/Blue Shield rate filing when an initial review indicates the filing is deficient, faulty or does not meet the required guidelines of the Delaware Insurance Department. The Supreme Court indicated that the Insurance Commissioner is not required to wait for an appeal process or other action that could be taken by an insurance company to be exhausted, which could extend in time up to one year.

The ability of the Insurance Department to take quick action is a safeguard that will be a great advantage in preventing excessive and/or improper insurance rates from being used in our State. This decision is very helpful to the Delaware Insurance Department in the regulation of all insurance filings that the Department is required to monitor and regulate.

I would like to caution the consumers of Delaware that although this decision was very favorable to the Insurance Department, the Department still lacks the adequate regulatory authority to carry out its function regarding the public's, interest concerning health insurance. The present law permits an insurance company to file a rate with the Department and immediately start charging the consumers or subscribers the new rate before the Insurance Department has rendered a decision or had adequate time to monitor or thoroughly analyze the rate filing in Legislation pending in the General Assembly, Senate Bill 81, is very much needed to protect the consumers' interest and to help the Insurance Department to monitor health insurance rates. This legislation specifically would require all health insurance companies to file an insurance rate request 90 days in advance of the effective date. The 90 days would give the Insurance

In the second 20, George Kostelansky put a small block sportsman racer on top at the start of this main. By the time the second lap was in the book, Kline had moved by Menzel for the runnerup slot. Kline worked by Kostelansky for the lead.

Kostelansky continued to turn ina phenominal performance holding onto 2nd, until 5 laps were remaining. At that time Billy Pauch took the high outside groove to wrestle the bridesmaid role from Kostelansky. By this time Kline was enjoying a very convincing full straightaway margin and continued on the rest of the way, to take an impressive second win of the season. Pauch finished second, followed by Nick Schlauch, Carman and Kostelansky, ending an outstanding ride in fifth.

In the third 20, Ploski moved into the top spot right at the drop of the green: When a broken axle sidelined second place running Fritz Epright one lapbefore the halfway mark, and enabled Hager to move into that spot, Ploski was enjoying a full straightaway

With six to go, Freyer was able to work under Hager to claim the runnerup slot. This was short-lived, though, as three laps later Hager regained that position.

Hager held on for second, followed by Kline, Freyer and Schlauch.

Department adequate time to review the filing and make a decision. It would also provide that if the Insurance Department disapproves such a filing, it would remain disapproved. Presently, an insurance company can implement the increased rate based upon a certified actuary's recommendation as being inappropriate, excessive or improper.

This legislation is not unfair to any insurance companies, although several are lobbying against this important legislation. The legislation is very similar to what is already in effect in 35 other states. This is a bill that is long overdue, and the public needs to be aware of its benefits.

Senate Bill 81 is a consumer piece of legislation which needs the support of every consumer in Delaware. The success of this legislation greatly depends upon consumers communicating with Delaware legislators to encourage its passage.

I am pleased with the decision of the Delaware Supreme Court, and I am optimistic that when Senate Bill 81 or similar legislation is passed, your State Insurance Department will become more effective in regulating health insurance rates affecting Delawareans.
