service in ASCS as community and county committeeperson. Homer Torbert, Vice-Chairperson, is a grain cy Feed Assistance Program (EFAP), and Compliance. The vacancies were filled by farmer-delegates who are newly-elected ASC community comittee-persons for 1984. Community committees assist the County Committee in farm program administration and help keep farmers informed of program provisions. As proof of the delegates being good representatives of the county, they turned out in-force for the convention. Eighteen of the twenty-one delegates of the community committees were present.

Concerning the price of natural gas, the company proposed the decrease because the company's supplier, TRANSCO, lowered its price to Delmarva Power. If approved, the bill of a customer using 12,000 cubic feet of natural gas (120CCF) per month would fall by $3.88, from $79.74 to $75.86, or 4.9% beginning January 1. ## Educational News series of articles on drug and alcohol use and abuse, mainly among teenagers. by William T. Ficks and David F. Coady

Most people have only the vaguest knowledge about drugs and the whole drug scene.

Editor's note: this is the seventh in a

Surprisingly, this ignorance of the drug culture is not confined to the odler generation.

Many young people, who have grown up in a drug-oriented society, have only the sketchiest of information on the chemicals that touch their everyday lives.

Many addicts themselves show the same ignorance of the substances, their effects and after-effects, that are destroying their very lives. We've looked at the alcohol and marijuana problems in previous articles in this series. Now let's look at some of the hard drugs.

The three main groups of drugs used and abused are: 1. Stimulants

2. Sedatives

3. Hallucinogens or "Psychedelics" Among the most commonly used stimulants are amphetamine (bennies), dextroamphetamine (dexies), methamphetamine (speed or crystal) and cocaine (coke, snow, flake or gold dust).

Drugs and what they do to you

Stimulants are usually taken by mouth in capsule or tablet form. Crystal methamphetamine and cocaine is often inhaled (sniffed or snorted) through the nose, and injected subcutaneously (skin-popping) or intravenously (mainlining).

Since the user develops a tolerance and withdrawal symptoms occur, amphetamines are considered physically addictive.

Withdrawal symptoms are tremors, anxiety, nausea, abdominal cramps and vomiting.

Delirium, delusions and hallucinatins sometimes last for days or even months.

Babies born to barbiturate-dependent mothers have shown withdrawal symptoms of their own.

Abrupt withdrawal can cause death. Barbiturates are swallowed or injected. The fact that they can be injected makes them popular among heroin users and "speed-freaks."

The most commonly abused nonbarbiturate drugs are Miltown, Doriden, Noludar, Sopor and Quaalude. These are all prescribed to help people sleep. The benzodiazepines such as Librum, Valium and Equanil are prescribed to relieve anxiety, but are commonly being abused at an alarming rate. Mixing these tranquilizers with alcohol is an especially dangerous practice which has resulted in many accidental deaths.

Hallucinogens or "psychedelics," the drugs in the third group, affect perception, emotion, self-awareness and sensation.

Depending on the dose and quality of the drug, delusions and hallucinations can be mild or overwhelming.

Lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD) is the best known and best studied of all the hallucinogens. Others are mescaline (from the peyote cactus). psilocybin (from a mushroom found in Mexico), morning glory seeds, DMT, DOM (STP), PMA and MDA.

Although it does not easily fit into any one category, PCP or "angel dust" is sometimes considered a hallucinogen. Harmful reactions to LSD and the other psychedelics are panic, anxiety and depression. Longtime users may experience a "break with reality" that can last from a few days to a few months.

Heavy users of LSD sometmes experience "flashbacks," which are recurrences of previous LSD experiences, weeks or months after the last dose.

Those who have gone through flashbacks say that they are frightening experiences that cause great anxiety. Heavy doses of LSD for long periods can cause impaired memory and attention span, mental confusion, difficulty with abstract thinking and other signs of organic brain damage.

Phencyclidine (PCP or angel dust) was developed as a surgical anesthetic for humans in the late 1950s, but when severe side effects developed, its use on humans was discontinued. It is now used as a veterinary anesthetic and tranquilizer.

In humans it can cause muscle rigidity, loss of memory, delirium, convulsions, speech impairment and violent behavior.

According to researchers. PCP seems to scramble the brain's internal stimuli, often producing violent and bizarre behavior, even in people who have never exhibited such behavior. Violent actions often account for serious injuries or death.

A temporary psychosis lasting for weeks has occurred in even moderate users of the drug. Because of its bad street reputation, dealers often sell it as mescaline, THC, LSD, cocaine and amphetamine. -to be continued-

1983] If our children are to take their places as tomorrow's leaders, we must teach them the skills they need. If America is to offer greater economic opportunity to her citizens, if she's to defend our freedom, democracy, and keep the peace, then our children will need wisdom, courage and strength virtues beyond their reach without education. In the words of Thomas Jefferson: "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free...it expects what never was and never will be. And yet, today, some of our schools aren't doing the job they should. Of course, there are many fine schools and thousands of dedicated superintendents, principals and teachers. But from 1963 to 1980, Scholastic Aptitude Test scores showed a virtually unbroken decline. Science achievement scores of 17-year-olds have shown a steady fall. And, most shocking, today more than one-tenth of our 17-year-olds are functionally illiterate.

"More Money" isn't the Answer

Now, some insist there's only one answer: more money. But that's been tried. Total expenditures in our nation's schools this year, according to the National Center for Edu-

ago. So if money alone were the make certain that Ameri answer, the problem would have been are temples of learning, and not drug shrinking, now growing.

American schools don't need vast new sums of money as much as they need a ards. Today, 35 states require only one few fundamental reforms. I believe there are six that can and will turn our schools around.

First, we need to restore good old-fashioned discipline. In too many schools across the land, teachers can't teach because they lack the authority to make students take tests and hand in homework. Some don't even have the authority to quiet down their class. In some schools, teachers suffer verbal and physical abuse. I can't say it too forcefully. This must stop.

We need to write stricter discipline codes, then support our teachers when they enforce those codes. Back at the turn of the century, one education handbook told teachers that enforcing discipline — and I quote — "You have the law back of you. You have intelligent public sentiment back of you." We must make both those statements true once again.

Second, we must end the drug and alcohol abuse that plagues hundreds of thousands of our children. Chemical abuse by young people not only damages the lives of individual users, it dens.

Third, we must raise academic standyear of math for a high school diploma. Thirty-six require only one year of science.

Many exchange students from foreign countries - Japan, West Germany and others — are quick to point out that our academic standards are not as tough as theirs. They used to visit the Capitol in Sacramento every once in well, every year. And I would have the exchange students in. And as governor, I had one question I would ask them. And I would flinch a little, because I knew the answer. I would ask them how our schools compared to theirs and it would always be the same. There'd be kind of some sly exchanges of smiles and then they'd begin to giggle and then they would inform me how hard school was back where they came from and what a vacation this had been being here.

by Governor Pierre S. du Pont It's traditional at this time of the year to wish each other prosperity in the coming year. As we begin 1984, the prospects for good fortune for Delawareans are better than they have been in some time.

While the state has remained relatively well-off during the recession compared with other states, all of us have had to tighten our belts a little bit. But if the improvements we have seen in 1983 continue, we have good reason to hope for a much more prosperous year in 1984.

Delawareans made more money in 1983. Wages and salaries have been going up steadily, but in the past too much of people's income has been eaten up by inflation. In the past year, Delaware residents have seen their paychecks keep ahead of inflation, so the extra money they took home actually bought more.

Happy New Year!

Not only were people earning more money here--in real terms--in the past year, but more people were taking home paychecks. On the average, the number of people working in the state increased in 1983.

We have been fortunate in our efforts to bring businesses to the state, and as we find new ways to attract new employers, I expect more and more jobs to be created in Delaware.

The good news has not been limited to one county or one part of the state. Everyone -- in Sussex, Kent and New Castle counties -- shared in the prosperity.

So, as the new year begins, and all of us look forward to a better year, I would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a prosperous and happy New Year.

in Delaware Community Systems and Services, Inc., has been selected by the Department of Health and Social Services to operate four group homes for the developmentally disabled. CSS was selected after the review of several agencies which had submitted proposals for the operation of the homes. Each of the homes will have eight residents, most of whom are now at Stockley Center near Georgetown. CSS, working with the State's Division of Mental Retardation, will help select sites for the homes and will develop a program for the ongoing care and supervision of the residents. All of the homes will open in the spring of 1984. In addition to these four homes, DHSS has a contract with Ken-Crest Centers, Inc., for the operation of four other homes, two of which opened

November 14 near St. Georges. CSS operates a long-term facility for mentally disabled adults located in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. The corporation, well known for its consulting services in the field of human services, has assisted DHSS in several projects, including the development of community-based residential treatment centers for emotionally disturbed adolescents.

Virginia firm to operate health program

Nancy Weiss, M.S.W., who will be the agency's project director for the four homes, has worked in Rhode Island and Virginia developing community-based intermediate care programs for developmentally disabled individuals.

She assisted Rhode Island in its establishment of groups homes for the mentally retarded and developed the first small community-based Intermediate Care Facility/Mentally Retarded in Virginia.

CSS will develop advisory councils for the homes from among the neighbors living nearby. The staff will be recruited from Delaware. Hiring priority will be given to any current employee of the Stockley Center who applies for a position in any of the homes.

'I am very pleased that CSS has been selected to operate four of the group homes for the mentally retarded in Delaware," said DHSS Secretary Pa-tricia C. Schramm. "The agency's background and experience both as a consultant and provider of human service programs should assure a high quality program for the residents.'

Commonwealth Construction Company, a general contractor from Wilmington, in a joint venture with Delaware Securities and Investments, has been selected to develop the four homes. Commonwealth will find and recommend sites to CSS. These sites will have to be approved by the Department. Commonwealth will then construct each home, built to the Department's specifications. Each completed home will be leased to CSS for 10 years.

The development of group homes is part of the Department's efforts to establish a community-based service system to prevent the institutionalization of developmentally disabled persons. As homes are opened, cottages at Stockley will be closed and the number of residents there will be reduced. Since each home will be licensed and certified by the Medicaid Program, 50% of the cost will be reimbursed by the Federal Government.

The father sent a telegram from Louisville, "The horse is on its way." The boy was overwhelmed with joy. Two days later a horse van pulled into the driveway and unloaded a foul

Alexander moves to NASCAR Grand National in 88 car

NASHVILLE, TN - At the 1983 Winston Racing Series National Awards Banquet, Mike Alexander was honored as the NASCAR Winston Racing Series National Champion. As "America's Best" Alexander received over $40,000 in total cash prizes, with $36,600 coming from the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. The awards and trophies were presented by Miss Winston, Margret Claud. In addition to his Winston Racing Series National Championship title, which came from his 31 victories in 56 starts, Alexander was also the Winston Racing Series Southeast Regional Champion, the Winston Racing Series Track Champion at Birmingham International Raceway, and the 1983 NASCAR Grand American Divisional Champion. The 1983 Winston Racing Series National Awards Banquet was held at the exclusive Opryland Hotel on Sunday, December 18, 1983. Winston Racing Series Photo by David Allio.

FRANKLIN, Tenn. - Mike Alexan-der, the 1983 Winston Racing Series national champion, faced little of the on-track drama which confronted hometown friend Darrell Waltrip in his bid for the NASCAR Winston Cup title this fall.

The 26-year-old Alexander led the chase for the $25,000 champion's check in the $325,000 Winston Racing Series short track point fund virtually throughout the season. He had mathematically eliminated runner-up Richie Evans of Rome, N.Y., weeks before the NASCAR season finale at Martinsville, Va., on Oct. 30 and was hundreds of miles away at another event.

But, measuring his short-term successes against his long-term goals, Alexander insists that the suspense for him is just beginning.

"To win the Winston Racing Series national championship is to earn the highest award a short-track driver can win right now," said Alexander, a 10-year veteran who also boasts 20 Grand National events on his racing resume

"But I've said all year we had other goals in mind besides the bonus checks and the championships. The other goals include returning to Grand National racing. I hope the national title will help us.

"It was tough after running the Winston Cup circuit in 1981, being where the best are and then knowing you have to go back, take a few steps down the ladder and come back up again.

There's never any guarantee of anything in racing but we've had two good seasons and won most of what we went after each year. Now, we wait."

Alexander's return to short track racing two years ago followed a solid, if troubled debut in NASCAR Winston Cup competition in the Rogers Leasing (Greenville, S.C.) Grand National ride during the middle of the 1981 season. A strong Late Model Sportsman performer during his formative years at Nashville International Raceway, Alexander placed well (average finish - 12th) in the nine races his car finished in 1981.

But the team experienced mechanical and philosophical problems late in the year and Alexander was replaced by then-rookie Tim Richmond in the car in September.

"We were so low after 1981 that we could have climbed under an anthill," said Alexander. "The 1982 season was good for us, though, because we just went out and ran a lot of different races. And we won a lot of races.

"In 1982, we tried to win the race on the first lap. This year, the philosophy was different because we had to pace ourselves more and keep the long-term goals in mind."

And after a sixth-place finish in the Winston Racing Series Southeast region in 1982, Alexander swept past runner-up Herman Smith for the 1983 regional and Grand American divisional titles.

In 56 NASCAR starts, Alexander won 31 times and finished out of the top five in only seven events. He dropped out of just two feature events, only one because of mechanical failure.

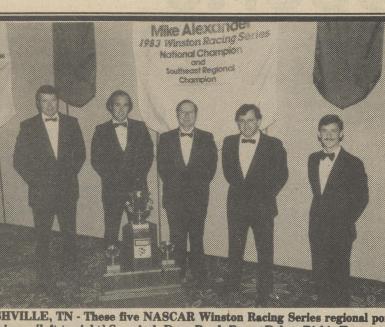

For a one-month period in August, Alexander won 10 races in 12 starts at four different tracks, including Nashville, Huntsville (Ala.), Birmingham (Ala.) and Five Flags Speedway in Pensacola, Fla.

In the past two NASCAR seasons, Alexander has won 42 of 85 starts in the Action Vans/KZ Country Firebird owned and engineered by Birmingham native Bobby Ray Jones. "We made it interesting for ourselves this year with our race strategy because we had to rely more on how long the car would last as much as how fast it would go," said Alexander. "We ran a lot of races faster on the last lap than we did on the first lap."

With his track, regional, divisional and national titles, Alexander will collect $36,600 in bonus checks from R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. at the Winston Racing Series national awards banquet in Nashville on Dec. 18. He will be honored for winning four championships on four different levels of NASCAR competition.

NASHVILLE, TN - These five NASCAR Winston Racing Series regional point champions - [left to right] Sam Ard, Dave Byrd, Roger Dolan, Richie Evans, and Mike Alexander - were honored as "America's Best" in 1983. Each was presented with prizes and trophies, as well as $10,000 from the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company for winning their respective regional competition. Sam Ard repeated as the winner of the Mid-Atlantic region. Dave Byrd won the Pacific Coast region. Roger Dolan represented the Central region. Richie Evans returned from the Northeast region. And, Mike Alexander won the Southeast regional competition. In addition, Alexander's 31 victories earned him the 1983 NASCAR Winston Racing Series National Championship. ## Teo Fabi - Auto Racing Analysis' Driver of the Year

The auto racing publication Auto Racing Analysis is pleased to announce the winner of its first annual Driver of the Year Award: Teo Fabi.

The ARA Driver of the Year Award is an OBJECTIVE measurement of the racing performance of the top drivers in three major racing series: The CART Indy Car championship. NAS-CAR Grand National, and World Championship Formula One racing. The top six drivers in each series as determined by the international ninepoint scoring system (9-6-4-3-2-1 for first through sixth place finishes) are eligible for the award. Each of the 18 drivers is then ranked in ten performance categories based on victories, finishing positions, pole positions, qual-ifying positions, reliability, and accident involvement. The top six drivers in each category are awarded points by DAYTONA BEACH, FLA - The National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing has announced a tentative schedule for the 1984 Winston Cup Grand National season.

The tentative schedule shows 30 events at 15 tracks during 1984, with only tow changes from the 1983 Winston Cup schedule. The Valleydale 500 at Bristol (Tenn.) International Raceway will be held Sunday, April 1, while the Champion Spark Plug 400 at fying and the Busch Clash of '84 are Michigan International Raceway is Monday.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. - The 1984 Winston International Hot Rod Association season will feature a revolutionary format change and a new national race.

An eighth national event - the Summer Nationals, Aug. 3-5 at Edge-water Sports Park in Cincinnati, Ohio -- has been added to the schedule. The season opens with the Zoom Winter Nationals, March 23-25 in Darlington, S.C., and ends with the U.S. Open Nationals, Sept. 21-23 in Rockingham, N.C.

The biggest change on the IHRA-Winston World Challenge Series is the race format itself. No longer will the long, low Top Fuel Pro Dragsters be on the scene. The Pro Dragster category has been dropped from the program entirely with significant increases in the Pro Funny Car show making up for the absence of the traditional dragsters.

Sixteen Pro Funny Cars will qualify for all eight national events with the winner of each race collecting a minimum of $12,000. The Winston Spring Nationals, June 1-3 at Bristol International Dragway, will be worth standings. $30.000.

But the biggest financial prize will be Firenza Funny Car being built by the $75,000 check awarded to the 1984 Raymond Beadle's "Blue Max" shop in IHRA/Winston world Pro Funny Car Dallas, Texas. champion from R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. That compares to the $40,000 Mark Oswald got for winning his first Winston world Pro Funny Car title in be one of the most unusual drag racers

"Our surveys show the Pro Funny Cars are the most popular and the fans want to see more of them," said IHRA president Larry Carrier in announcing the format change. "The popularity of the Pro Dragster has decreased in recent years. At the same time, the interest in the Pro Funny Cars had steadily increased.

"It's only a matter of time until the Pro Dragster will be history."

Joe Amato of Old Forge, Pa., is among a handful of Pro Dragster drivers known to be preparing a Pro Funny Car to run in 1984. Amato won the World Nationals in Norwalk, Ohio, and the Fall Nationals in finishing second to Richard Tharp in the 1983 IHRA-Winston Pro Dragster point

The tentative schedule shows the 1984 Winston Cup season ending Sunday, November 18, with the Winston Western 500 at Riverside (Calif.) International Raceway.

The 1983 Winston Cup season saw 12 different drivers winning at least one event each, a modern-day record, as the series had posted awards in excess of $9.1 million, keeping it as the richest and most competitive motorsports series in the world.

But now he has a new Oldsmobile

Amato, who also finished runner-up in next season.

He will have his new Pro Funny Car for IHRA competition, but plans on running his Top Fuel car in NHRA events as well. He'll have a new 18-wheeler to haul both cars.

"I started in alcohol Funny Cars, so I've got a lot of experience in Funny Cars," Amato said. "Driving them is a lot different than Top Fuel cars, and the engine's definitely different. Setting up everything will be a little different, so we'll spend a lot of time experimenting, trying to sort the new Funny Car out.

"I just wish the IHRA had awaited another year to make the switch, but we'll make the most of it. We'll definitely be trying to win Winston world championships in both series."

ENERGY SAVER. You can live in the comfort of the country in this very luxurious 3 bedroom home complete with all the conveniences. A beautiful brick fireplace decorates the living room while an efficient wood stove for the family room saves you money on the heating bills. According to the lady of the house "... the heat from the wood stove never allows us to turn on the electric heat. We never need it." The two baths gives that extra luxury. The finished basement allows the men of the house that seclusion so often needed. The family room is decorated with old ship-lap siding topped off with beautiful tongue and groove pine boards stained to their natural color. The two and a half car garage gives the man of the house that extra room for the work bench as well as a place to store those much desired trail-bikes. All of this on one and a half acres of land. Make an appointment to see it today. You will fall in love with it.
