Lt. John Butler was killed on D-Day

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

At this time it appears that 2nd Lt. John M. Butler was the lone casualty on D-Day from Harrington. Actually, Lt. Butler was born and raised at Andrewville.

He was a hero at Normandy on D-Day.

Lt. Butler was a member of the 38th Troop Carrier Squadron of the Glider Detachment of the Army Air Corps. He served for 2 years and 2 months. During the short time he was in the service he distinguished himself as one who was far ahead in is field. He was principally an outstanding leader.

Let us begin with the developments on D-Day. Lt. Butler had become a glider pilot. On D-Day shortly after daybreak C-47s towing the Waco gliders appeared over Normandy. The message of "So..Long" from the glider pilots to the towing plane started the invasion for the Glider Wing.

In the lead glider was Lt. John M. Butler together with the top brass of the Glider Wing. In the early morning hours, a heavy dew still laid on the grass in the rectangular plots at Normandy. These plots were usually surrounded by the "...infamous hedge-

The man who was the principal force behind the day-to-day operations at The Peoples Bank in Harrington, died on Wednesday at Milford Memorial Hospital following a heart attack. He had been hospitalized several days previously.

Mr. Wagner's principal duty was to The Peoples Bank where he had served in various capacities rising to the role of Executive Vice President and Cashier. He was associated with the bank for nearly 40 years. He had retired in January but became a Director of the Board while remaining at the bank with limited duties.

Along with this he served in various roles in the community. For over 30 years he had acted as the City's Treasurer. He was also the Treasurer of The Harrington Rotary Club and a Director of The Delaware State Fair. He was what some called "...and outstanding Methodist". Howard Wagner was a member of this community "....for as long as most of us can remember". In so many ways he came in contact with virtually everyone in this community. Many of us who live here, work here or serve here have Mr. Wagner to thank in many ways. He had a vital impact on the day to day doings in the community. For many of us he had been our "...Sunday School teacher...", our counselor and advisor, but for the most part, Mr. Wagner was there with a helping hand. His roots and ties go deep into the community. His loss will be greatly felt by those Milford High School's graduation ceremonies were held Friday night in Briggs Stadium as 199 students in the Class of '84 brought their high school careers to a close.

About 2,000 people crowded the home side of the stadium to witness the commencement exercises.

The ceremonies began at 6:15 p.m. with Claudia Daniels singing the National Anthem.

Art Aranilla was class valedictorian and Sharon Stachecki and Amy Chasanov shared salutatorian honors. Aranilla also won the history, foreign language, and science awards. Chasanov took the mathematics and leadership awards, and Stachecki walked off with the English award. Only a cat's whisker separated Aranilla from Stachecki and Chasanov pediatrics but hasn't reached a final

Harrington man makes his way as a judge

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. BRANDYWINE RACEWAY - Seven years ago at the tender age of 23, Norman Short, of Harrington, became an Associate Judge under the Delaware Harness Commission. He became the youngest judge in the country at Short since his graduation in 1972 from Lake Forest High School has been associated with the harness horse industry. He was 18 years old when he got a job in the program department at the track. "You might say that my education in this field started right from the ground up." Along with working at the track in some sort of administrative level, Short has worked as a groom, horse owner, and at one point held a "Q-tye" license. He explained that this type of license allows you to drive in qualifying races. These races are the type that are non-pari-mutual.

In the capacity as a groom, he worked for veteran horseman Olin Davis and J.D. Dennis, Sr. But when John "Tic" Wilcutts stepped down as a judge, Short was tapped. Later he joined forces with judges Austin "Ned" Galentine and Bobby Clark.

Not only has Short worked around horses he has also owned them. "My father (Chester Short) and I owned somewhere in the neighborhood of four horses at one time....but not at the same time. Couple made it to the races, and the other two never made it. We never won a race, but it was good experience," he said. He expanded his explanation to mean that all of his experiences around horses and the race track have been ways that has enabled him to broaden his knowledge of the field in which he worked. "I like my work. I take a real interest in it, and I try to the best of my ability to be just and fair," he added.

The job entails long hours. "Sometimes we come in at 8 a.m., work until noon - then come back at 5:30 to prepare for the night's races," he said. It makes for a long day, and it can be a confining sort of life. They usually work 50 to 55 hours a week. Even so, he claims many strong friendships have sprung up — mainly on the side we are on, that is the administrative end of it, for we are reviewing the drivers.

Short and other judges like him are bound by the rules set forth by the State Harness Commission and approval by the State Legislature, "We are bound by these rules, and we must interpret them to the best of our ability," he added. Asked about the rule most often called into play, and he explained that he felt it was "...the half in and half out rule," which is where the horse is neither in next to the rail Aranilla gave the valedictory address. Chasanov and Stachecki coordinated their salutatory address with Chasanov delivering the first half and Stachecki the second.

Father Charles Brown, pastor of St. John's Catholic Church in Milford. delivered the invocation.

"You are now ready to take on the world....but there is also a sadness.... friendships will fade....now you are on your own....but you are not alone.... we ask that God bless you and that you be peacemakers in the world," Brown told the graduates. When the graduates tossed their caps in the air, it signaled the end of the ceremonies, the end of one important phase of life, and the beginning of book entitled "Glider Gang" makes it hard to believe that anyone could survive the crash.

Two people did survive that crash and they were Lt. Col. Mike Murphy and Lt. May. Lt. Murphy's account goes as follows: "I spotted the railroad tracks that were only a half mile from our field. So I said "So Long" to the towplane and away we went. As we got down to glide speed and the noise of the slipstream dropped, we could hear the machine guns firing. The field I had selected was almost 1000 ft. long, but completely surrounded by 50 ft. trees. It looked easy because a fully loaded Waco can be stopped in 200 ft. with my wheels locked and the glider pushed up on the nose skid. But we skidded for over 800 feet on the wet grass and smashed into the trees as 50

In the crumpled wreckage lay the dead bodies of Gen. Pratt and Lt. Butler, but Lt. was miraculously unhurt. May's body was "...up to my belt outside the glider". May's legs were in a twisted steel tubing. When he got free and dropped to the ground he "...just fell because both legs were

May observed after the dust settled, a German tank just 15 feet from the gliders. The look of the wreckage caused the tank crew to move on, thinking there were no survivors.

Lt. Butler kept a diary. On June 3, 1944, he made what would be the final entry. On this day he concluded ..that this was the last day before D-Day. So I will put this away, and if anything happens maybe you'll get it. Closed with love". All of the notes by Lt. Butler were neatly typed and well

Lt. Butler enlisted as a private on January 7, 1942, and after completing his basic training at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, he became a Link Trainer Instructor at Luke Field.

On June 3, 1942, he began his career as a glider pilot at 29 Palms, California. He spent a short time at Amarillo, Texas, and as a glider pilot instructor at Aberdeen, S.C., he became final Army Check Rider at Pittsburg, Kan. on October 9, 1942.

Lt. Butler graduated in 15th place from the glider school in Texas, transferred to rdmore, Okla. where he was in charge of 13 instructors. Later he was in charge of 110 instructors at Bowman Field, Ky. Prior to going overseas, he was at Maxton and Camp

He was buried in Blosville Cemetery near Cherbourg, France. In May of 1948, his remains were returned to Harrington and he is buried in Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

His glider was the first glider of the Allied Forces to strike the Normady turf at the D-Day invasion.

He was the son of Willis Norman and Mary Margaret Butler of Andrewville, Delaware. He was 26 years old at the time of his death. He had one brother, Norman Franklin Butler and one son, Roger Butler who resides in Andrewville today.

Possum Point Players plan two plays

The Possum Point Players have chosen "Death of a Salesman" for the fall production, the first drama since the Players presented "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" in the fall of 1980.

Arthur Miller's award-winning play, scheduled for the weekend before Thanksgiving, will be only the third drama presented by the Players since the group was founded in 1973.

"Death of a Salesman" is about the last days of a failing salesman who seeks to learn, through a tragic series of revelations on his life and relationships with his wife, sons and business associates, where and how he has failed to win success and happiness. The play has been called "a thrilling work of deep and revealing beauty. The Players annual schedule includes a musical each spring, adult comedy or thriller in the summer, and either children's theater or drama in the fall. "Butterflies Are Free," the Players' summer champagne/dessert theater production, is scheduled for three performances at Del Tech Theater: Friday and Saturday, July 20 and 21 at 8 p.m., and Sunday, July 22 at 2 p.m. "Butterflies Are Free" is the story of a young bachelor in his first apartment, a pretty young actress who moves in next door, and how their relationship is affected by the young man's two handicaps - one of which is an over-protective mother. The Players will also present an original play by a local playwright as a Workshop production. "Abel's Closet," written by S. Joseph Fantl of Bay Vista near Rehoboth, is the story of a middle aged couple looking for a way to resolve the strains of their relation-"Abel's Closet" will be presented on Friday, June 29 at 8 p.m. at the Players' hall in Millsboro. The public is invited.

The Possum Point Players members meet at 8 p.m. the first Friday of each month at Possum Hall, 205 Washington St., Millsboro. Anyone interested in participating in a Players production on stage or off is invited. For more information, call Mimi Dupont at 539-5102.

Services were Saturday at 2 p.m. from Asbury United Methodist Church where he had spent many hours of his life. He deeply loved his church. The viewing was held on Friday at the Church from 7 to 9 and on Saturday between 1 and 2 prior to the Church funeral. He was laid to rest at Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

A memorial fund has been set up for him. Contributions may be made to Howard S. Wagner Memorial Fund, Asbury United Methodist Church, 200 Avenue, Weiner Harrington, Delaware, 19952.

Howard Wagner will be long remembered in this community. When people used the name "Howard" in this community, everyone knew to whom

Probably the hardest part of his job is the length of time he spends away from his family. He is married and the father of an infant son. When he works at Harrington Raceway and Dover Downs, he commutes back and forth between home and job, but at Brandywine, he usually remains in that area until the day the track closes. While warming up before his first takes race ever, Limbo Joe hurt himself, "My colt threw a shoe in the middle of his last warm up mile and messed up his right front foot. I thought about scratching him, but I had the blacksmith but two Talbot (Red Ross) closed quickly for nails in his shoe and he was all right," said Procino after the victory.

bees this week with graduation plans. Again we have a graduate. Last year it was our Hilary and this year it is our Teddy, or David, Jr., which is his formal name. We are proud of his achievements, but there is always a bit of sadness when the young must leave the nest for the big world. It is a big challenge for them also. I was having a good chat with Teddy the other day, and he said that sometimes he wonders if he is ready for all this. I replied, "Yes, Teddy, it is time and if you cling to the things we have tried to teach you, all will be well. (My chance now to talk like a grandparent!) I said, "We have tried always to teach you good manners. That of course includes how to behave at the table, to know how to use the right fork, and so on, and that is important, so that you are equally at home at The Ritz or Hamburger Joe's. But there are manners and lifestyles that are far more important than this. If you can always remember to be kind, caring, helpful and courteous to all people, you may not have a dollar in your pocket, but you can walk with kings and all doors will be open to you."

Soon after graduation, Ted will be joining the "Wandering Wheels" for the cross-country bicycle trip sponsored by Taylor University in Upland, Ind. This will be a great experience for his readers a pep talk on weeds. Thusly: "The corn has come to the hoe, and there is no time to lose. Weeds grow fast. Watch them, or they are suce tohget ahead and make bad work. Keep them under from the first, and give them no chance to get out of hand. It does not pay to raise weeds. They take the heart out of the soil, and turn nothing into the crib in the fall. Make war upon them. Give them no quarter. It is a free fight, and to win is a duty.

I was much amused at the editor's column in the old Farmer's Almanac for the year 1896. He is giving

Keep a sharp eye on them."

The senior member of the family, Joe Delloso, is the head of security at Brandywine Raceway, and has been with that department at the Raceway since 1969. He is a first generation Italian who was born here and has made a name for himself in the field of law enforcement.

Son of Italian immigrant, he knew Rodney on Saturday, but Mark demonearly on what it takes to hang in there and give it your best. As a high schooler at Wilmington High School and later at Salesianum, he made a name for himself on the football field. "I was a member...a 60 minute man for the 1939 undefeated team at Salesianum. I feel that what I got out of sports...through my playing days as well as the impression my coaches have made on me....prepared me for life." said Joe Delloso. His coaches were Mike McCall and J. Harmen Donald-

Delloso was so good at football — or so say the old heads, that had they had an all-state team then...he would have made it hands down. However, these talents were passed on to son Michael, who was to become an all-state and all-conference nominee at football and basketball. He also excelled as a golfer. Son Michael, a former school teacher, has distinguished himself in the past 14 years as an agent with the FBI working directly in an area of organized crime. In the past year and a half he has been directly responsible for numerous arrests and convictions in this area of crime. Michael today appears in perfect condition like he is ready for the call back to his glories on the gridiron. The senior Delloso(e) blazed the way for his family. Styled in self respect and discipline, he took up the call to arms, enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps shortly after the "sneak attack" on Pearl Harbor. He spent four years in the Marines in the Pacific Theatre of warfare. While in California awaiting shipment to the Far East, he managed to play a few games of his favorite sport — football..."...with real good college and pro players," he added. "I guess I held my own. It was a lot of fun.....and I made some lasting friendships," he added. Later he was

Pettyjohn unstoppable at U.S. 13

Ed Pettyjohn added another victory till the end of the race, many times to his career total by winning the 20 lap Late Model feature at U.S. 13 Saturday. He has visited victory lane three previous times this season.

Lou Johnson nipped Joe Gaita at the finish line to finish second with Jeff Patilla finishing fourth and Bob Spence Gaita led the first two laps of the event as Pettyjohn began his strong charge from a tenth starting spot. As the field negotiated the third circuit #880 moved alongside the #83 of Gaita and effortlessly took the lead.

Pettyjohn then proceeded to give the fans a repeat performance of last week's win as he opened up a considerable lead and by the mid-point of the race began to lap the field.

The battle for second started to heat up on lap thirteen as Johnson, who had worked his way up from 11th, began to threaten Gaita's runner-up position.
Johnson and Gaita wrestled for second navigating the turns side-by-side.

It appeared as if the battle would end in a dead heat but as they came off the final turn heading for the checkered, Johnson pointed the nose of the Cropper's Pest Control #96 at the low groove and sliced under Gaita and cross the finish line in second.

Feature results: Pettyjohn, Johnson, Gaita, Patilla, Spence, Sam Meyers, Bret Givens, Bob Vickers, Deron Rust, Gerald Jester, John Snyder, Charles Wilkerson, Alex Beaumont, Harlen Williams, Duane Rust.

Budseiser sponsored #41 to victory once again in the Limited Late Model feature. This was Wells' second consecutive win in the 15 lap event and his third win this season.

Jeff Turpin was second followed by Preston Beach, Leon Johnson and Bud

Hendrickson and Hearne capture twin 35's at Wall

WALL TOWNSHIP - Before a large crowd, Robert Hendrickson and Gil Hearne captured the twin 35 lap modified features Saturday night at Wall.

Starting on the outside pole, Hendrickson fell into 2nd spot quickly behind Dick Heally. Numerous cautins slowed the pace as Heally continued to show the way up until lap 15 when he spun into the infield giving the lead to Hendrickson. The racing florist drove the race of his life as he held off four strong competitors on route to his first career feature win.

Coming in second was Ed Lilly as John Blewett of Lakewood was third, Jamie Tomaino fourth and Tom Mauser event as Tony Siscone ran a close second. Siscone fell victim to mechanical problems giving Hearne a comfortable lead. The five time track champ was never seriously challenged as he bested runnerup Tony Hirschman over a half a lap.

In the second thirty-five lap feature, the crafty veteran Gil Hearne started on the pole in the Durkin Racing #12 and easily won the event.

In for third was Blewett as Eddie Bohn was fourth and Lilly in for fifth. In the thirty lap sportsman feature, Don Ling Jr. recorded his third win of the season. Starting in tenth spot, Ling fell victim to some early accidents but recovered enough to come back and take the win.

Second spot went to Martin Truex as Bob Morris was third, Frank Winkler fourth and Rick Mauriello fifth.

Bob Haberstick recorded his first career win in the twenty five lap modern stock feature. Second spot went to Glenn Osborne as Bob Howard After three quick yellows, the paced was third, Harold Dauncey fourth and

With a week of rain taking its toll on other racetracks around the area, the big question was what kind of shape Piney Neck Speedway would be in for Milford Kart Club's races on Saturday night. The day had absorbed a lot of water and actually was quite dry early Racing action got underway with the Boys and Girls Class. Kevin Colburn returned to the speedway after a few weeks absence and did it in grand style as he picked up the feature win. It wasn't all that easy as Chris Robbins gave him a race but had to settle for second with Robert Scott in third.

Steve Hudson turned in his last performance this year in stock light as he handily won the heat, but an early race spin while running with the leaders cost him a chance of victory in the feature. Brian Murphy once again wove his magic as he came out of the five hole and roared to victory. As convincing as Murphy's win was, the run turned in by the runnerup can't go unnoticed. Starting in the twelfth spot and finishing 2nd in a masterful drive this hard fought race was Millie Bunting.

Junior Stock saw a good field of fast and talented young drivers battle it out for the win. Chad Marvel running the low groove warded off the many second and Charlie Lutz in third. This race was definitely anybody's race. A more just waiting for a shot at the lead, but for Keith Mitchell, Cindy Hurley, Larry Reed and Dale Elben, it'll have to be next week.

was Stock Heavy. The man to beat, winner of all six features to date, Larry set the track ablaze. This should be a Holding drew a bad starting number to very exciting show.

begin the heat race from the twelfth starting spot. By the end of the heat, Holding was all the way up to the number five position. At the green for the feature, Alan Anderson was showing the way. As the race wore on and time was running out, Holding was still running fifth. Ahead of him, leading the pack was Mike Mason. Behind Mason and in front of Holding were Alan Anderson, Donald Lings, and Mike Passwaters. Then with only five laps remaining, Holding got by Lings, then Passwaters and finally Anderson to move into second with two laps remaining. As the white flag was unfurled, Holding was less than a kart length behind Mason. Going down the backstretch on the final lap, Holding tried Mason, but to no avail as they passed under the checkered with only inches between their bumpers and Mason out front. Holding comes home second and Alan Anderson third. Truly a great race to watch!

The Limited Modifieds were in race form as anyone in the entire field could have been the winner this night. The was Jim Boone. Coming home third in early pace was set by Kevin Darling and Kenny Marvel but midway of the race, they tangled, going through turns one and two and have to go to the rear of the field. Taking advantage of their misfortune and roaring to victory was David Wingate. Following David challenges of Chris Davis to take the in the second spot was Mike Coverdale checkered first followed by Davis in and battling back to wind up third was Kenny Marvel.

Stock Yamaha saw Paul Lathbury right behind these three were four outrun Larry Bunting for the win. Following Paul and Larry under the wire to finish third was Steve West.

Remember, this Saturday night, in addition to the regular racing card at The race that had them all hollering Piney Neck, the touring group of Unlimited Modifieds will be on hand to

Foolish Pleasure at U.S. 13

John Kozak drove his Foolish Pleasure Racing #31 to a hard-fought victory in the 30-lap Modified feature at U.S. 13 Speedway Saturday night. This was the first time that John has visited victory circle since his win in the MODCAR event on May fifth.

Kozak held off the charges of Richard Jarvis, who finished second. Billy Towers was third ahead of Bob Toreky and Harold Bunting.

He took the green in the seventh off the fourth turn to complete the first lap he moved into second behind race leader Ron Keys in his Keys Trucking Co. #39. Lap three saw Kozak put Keys behind him, but before the #31 could open any appreciable lead, the caution disabled off the fourth turn. The field took the green once again and last week's feature winner Harold Bunting turned up the heat. Moving from his tenth starting spot to threaten Kozak's lead, he was followed by Towers.

As the tenth lap went into the record books it was Kozak, Towers and Jarvis in the first three spots with Bob Toreky running a close fourth. Toreky sporting a new engine, had come from scratch spot at the start to challenge

On lap twelve, Jarvis, who had been moving steadily through the pack, began to pick off the leaders. The Ocean City, Md. driver took fourth from Toreky on lap twelve and moved around Bunting to take third the very next lap. Towers was the next man on Jarvis' list and as the field was given the half-way sign, he was dropped to Kozak and Jarvis then proceeded to set the track afire with a two car duel to the finish. Jarvis took the lead on starting spot and as the field shuffled the 19th circuit, but he was unable to shake Kozak from his rear bumper.

The leaders began to encounter lap traffic on lap 22 and as they exited turn four, Kozak took the low groove, parking Jarvis behind a lap car in the high groove and regained flag flew for Walt Breeding as he sat

The Mills Brothers Markets #31 then just seemed to get stronger with each lap and held onto the lead till the checkered flew.

Feature results: Kozak, Jarvis, Towers, Toreky, Bunting, Clifford Todd, Hal Browning, Charlie Moore, Gary Trice, Sammy Davis, David Trice, Lacey Lafferty, John Richards, Jack Sapp, Steve Way, Dave Betts, Ron Keys, Tom McGrane, Walt Breed-

The heat races went to Billy Towers and Richard Jarvis with Jack Sapp winning the consi.

Most go-cart and stock car racing fans have a pretty good idea of what it takes to perform well on a half-mile dirt oval such as Harrington's: 4 good tires, the right chassis, a powerful motor and a decent driver. Motorcycle racing so far over on their sides that the requires more.

Picture this - take a bunch of daring professional motorcycle stars, seat them atop a tubular frame without any protection such as seat belts or roll bars and with only 2 wheels. Put a super-charged 750cc motor in the bottom of the frame and turn a dozen or more signal of a green light.

In all likelihood you will see speeds and daring like you have never seen before. 100 mph chases down the straightaways and 60 mph handlebar-to-handlebar banging in the turns with bikes pitched racers' knees will actually touch the track.

The average motorcycle race fan knows what to expect, but for those that have never been to a professional race, it's enough to take your breath away until you get used to the action and realize the riders know exactly what they reach the top of the class.... loose from a standing start at the they're doing — and love every minute of the challenge.

Motorcycle racers know the risks they have to take if they're going to share in the pot of gold that awaits them after every AMA race on the circuit. Harrington's purse alone will exceed $27,000, and you can bet that each of the 50 to 60 riders that show up for the race will be ready to risk it all to capture the checkered flag and points toward the year-end National Champion-

Camel Pro Racing: Versatility in demand

Since Joe Leonard won the AMA's first Grand National Championship in 1954, the AMA's No. 1 number plate has become the most coveted award in American motorcycle racing.

Four types of dirt tracks, as well as paved road courses, are included in the 1984 series. In recent years, only a select group of riders has competed regularly both on dirt and pavement. But, just as in the early days of the series, dirt track riders have to come to grips with quarter-mile tracks, TT steeplechase courses, half-mile ovals, and high-speed mile ovals. Following are brief descriptions of the types of racing featured in the AMA Camel Pro

DIRT TRACK

Mile and Half-Miles Flat track racing is the backbone of AMA Camel Pro Series racing. The term applies to both mile and half-mile ovals, where top speeds approach 130 and 100 mph respectively.

The biggest difference between halfmile and mile track events is the importance of drafting techniques on the miles. Just as NASCAR Winston Cup stars use slipstreaming to their advantage on the superspeedways of the south, Camel Pro Series competitors take full advantage of the vacuum created by the first machine in a multi-bike pack.

In 1982, Ricky Graham ran the fastest 25 laps in AMA history, averaging a blazing 101.8 mph on the mile track at the Illinois State Fairgrounds. Heady use of the draft played a key role in Graham's record-setting ride.

accelerate off corners onto the relatively short straightaways is of prime importance. State of the art Camel Pro flat track machines develop in excess of 90 horsepower. Mechanical preparation and rider finesse are the keys to transferring that power to the ground. On both mile and half-mile tracks, the classic three-point broadslide remains the fast way around. Entering corners, checkered flag.

tion of throttle control and front wheel

Flat track racing remains popular throughout the country and is one of the most exciting forms of two-wheeled sport. In recent years, this form of racing has been dominated by Vee-twin engines displacing 750cc. Harley-Davidson and Honda are the top manufacturers involved in the sport. TT STEEPLECHASE

No one is sure how the European term "Tourist Trophy" ended up as a tag to the most demanding form of Camel Pro Series racing. Years ago, someone borrowed the term TT and it remains the handle of a specialized and rigorous form of dirt track racing.

No two TT steeplechase tracks are alike, but they do share common attributes. Unlike flat tracks, where the racer's credo is "Turn left and gas it." TT tracks include both right- and left-hand corners. One or more jumps are usually used as well.

A premium is placed on handling and suspension, as well as low-end power needed to accelerate off tight turns.

Camel Pro Series riders unanimously agree that TT events are the most difficult physically. TT racing is both unpredictable and spectacular, and is seen in premier sporting facilities including the Houston Astrodome.

Single cylinder machines fielded by the likes of Honda, Can-Am and Harley-Davidson have begun to dominate TT races in recent seasons, ending a long reign by 750cc twins.

SHORT TRACK

Camel Pro Series short track races On half-mile ovals, the ability to are held on tight oval dirt tracks measuring about a quarter-mile around Due to the shortness of straightaways, top speeds are well below those posted on mile and half-mile dirt tracks.

There is no such thing as pacing in a short track race. Short tracks are full-tilt war from the drop of the green flag to the unfurling of the traditional

All forms of motorcycle racing reward finesse, skill, and excellence in machine design. In short track, a large dose of daring also goes a long way. This year, Busch Stadium in St. Louis has been added as a short track venue.

ROAD RACE

Fewer than 20 years ago, the only big difference between road race and dirt track events was the use of paved courses for the road races. Riders would compete in a dirt track race one day, change tires and race the same machine on pavement the next day.

Today, road racing has become the most sophisticated form of AMA Camel Pro Series racing, and the machines used bear little resemblance to the bikes of the 1950s and '60s.

From the famed high banks of Daytona International Speedway to tight, twisty Bryar Motorsport Park in New Hampshire, Camel Pro racers will visit eight road race courses for Formula One National events in 1984. Road racing machines are streamlined for maximum speed. Riders literally scrape their knees against the pavement as they round corners at dizzying

Most riders following the Formula One road racing series in 1984 will be pavement specialists. But, you can look for selected dirt track stars to make occasional appearances in road races. In the past four seasons, the overall Camel Pro Series championship has been decided at the final race of the year. Dirt track riders are fully aware that even a handful of points earned in road races could mean the difference between winning and losing the covet-

According to Gary Simpson, the event's ticket sales manager, sales are brisk and are running 20% ahead of last year's sales at this same period of time prior to the race. He also said that last year there were a little over 5,000 fans in attendance and that he expects this year's attendance to well exceed that figure by the way his ticket sales are

The AMA Camel Pro motorcycle racers who compete annually at the fairgrounds in Harrington are a conglomerate of all the elite motorcycle racers from across the nation. They are seen a couple of times a year on ABC's Wide World of Sports and even more on many of the newer cable networks. This in turn generates more interest in the sport and in all likelihood contributes to the ever-increasing pop-

Even though many of the spectators in attendance do not own motorcycles, their interest has been piqued by the challenging aspect of the sport and they become rabid fans.

This year's two Camel Pro point leaders Randy Goss, the current national champion from the Harley-Davidson racing team and Ricky Graham of the Honda racing camp will without a doubt keep the battle going for the point championship in Delaware. But then again, there are two obstacles at Harrington that both will have to overcome before worrying about each other.

One of those obstacles is the formidable Jay Springsteen, the all-time AMA winner and the other is Steve Moorehead. Springsteen has won the Harrington race 4 times out of the 8 times the race has been run and finished 2nd another 3 times. Fortunately for the other riders, he missed of Findley, Ohio has won it twice. The other two events were won by Corkey Keener (now retired from racing) and Ted Boody of Lansing, Michigan.

Other standouts in AMA racing who have already pre-entered for Harrington's race include Bubba Shobert of Lubbock, Texas, currently standing 2nd in national point; Steve Eklund of San Jose, California, a former national champion; Tony Pitcock of Richmond, Virginia and Scott Parker of Flint Michigan who was the fastest qualifier last year at Harrington. Also entered among the 47 riders is Delaware's lone entry, Eric Rausch of Middletown. Rausch is believed to be the only Delawarean to have ever achieved the "expert" rating needed to compete on the national level.

The fun all starts in Harrington at noon on June 9th. The national will come off at 3:00 p.m.

How riders score Camel Pro

WESTERVILLE, Ohio - Over the past four seasons, the American Motorcyclist Association (AMA) Camel Pro Series has been the most competitive motorsports series in the world. Since 1980, successive series championships have been determined in the final race of the year by margins of one, five, two and eight points. After winning Camel Pro titles by one point in 1980 and eight points in 1983, Randy Goss of Hartland, Michigan, fully realizes the importance of running competitively every week, and never giving up. "Even when things are going bad and you don't feel 100 percent, you have to hang in there and get as many points as possible." Goss says. "You never know when a 14thplace finish early in the year could end up being the difference between win-
