

Annual Citizen's Meeting hears Mann, Dennis and Gleason from Candidates and gets State of the Town

roll to Reagan Landslide

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

HARRINGTON. The annual citizens meeting was held for the first time at the present City Hall on Center Street. It began at 7:30 and was completed by 8:00 p.m.

Candidates Alfred G.B. Mann, for Mayor, Sue Ellen Dennis, and Joseph T. Gleason both seeking council seats were introduced. They were unopposed, and therefore the election slated for Tuesday was declared unnecessary. The three were declared winners for their respective offices.

Following the introduction of candidates and the report of the Chief of Police, the new City Manager George Volenick gave the State of the City Address. Among those things listed as being in the State of the City were listed rather prominently the accomplishments over the past year.

It was pointed out that the much needed repaving of Commerce St. was completed. There were also projects initiated for training of employees, which was greatly needed. The matter of the number of gallons of water pumped in '84 (183,768,000) versus that which was treated...being something more than 173,000,000 indicates to the City Manager that there are leaks in the system, which should be looked into. Three to four years ago the same problem was discussed during the term of then Mayor "Buck" Cahall when it was pointed out by the engineers for the City that surface water was probably leaking in through some holes in the old sewer line...as well as in and around the man-holes.

Surface water problems, long a problem on Milby, Mispillion and West Streets was corrected. Other areas such as Coleman and Franklin as well as East Streets were solved as well.

Another important project to the City is the UDAG (Urban Development Action Group) designed to help bring businesses to the community and finance their efforts to locate here. This would be in cases where a business wishing to relocate has some means of financing...but maybe overall lacks the ability to close. The City then under this federal program might be able to advance the funds, and recoup the loaned funds through interest and other means. The shopping center now being proposed by Dover realtor and developer Jim McGinnis could very well qualify under this program. No figures have been let to the City as to the cost of the McGinnis shopping center just south of the Hardee's Restaurant.

The City Manager, George Volenick called attention to the need for future direction for future programs for the regular maintenance for sewer lines, storm sewers, sign maintenance, fire hydrant maintenance as well as the need to raise man-holes in certain areas.

Volenick also called for the importance of budgeting the cost of capital programs which would address themselves to equipment replacement, and the utilization of a computer for City records, billings, etc.

HARRINGTON. Mayor Alfred G.B. Mann, and Councilwoman Sue Ellen Dennis were returned to office in Tuesday's election. Mayor Mann won his 3rd term as Mayor while Dennis will begin to serve her first full term as a councilperson. Dennis was first elected to the post January 1984. Then councilman Curtis Melvin had indicated that he would resign his council seat with one year remaining on his term. He later withdrew his resignation. He died during a speech at the Fire Hall at the annual citizen's meeting held each election on the Friday prior to the Tuesday election. Dennis ran unopposed and got the victory. She now will serve a two year term. During the past year she served on the building committee for the new City Hall. Dennis comes from the 2nd district.

New comer to Harrington, Joseph T. Gleason, ran unopposed in the 2nd District. This was the District which William W. Shaw, Jr. had filled following the resignation of Richard Henry about six months ago. Henry was suffering with heart problems at the time of his resignation. Shaw chose not to run. Gleason is head of the 7th grade math department at the W.T. Chipman School. He is in his 10th year of teaching. A native of Phoenixville, Pa and a graduate of Kutztown State College now makes his home on North St. in Harrington having moved to the community following the sale of his house near Masten's Corner. Gleason said "...a number of people kept coming by and talking to me about various things while I was building this house. I guess an "A-frame" in Harrington was something of a topic to be discussed. Through all of that the matter of running for Council kept coming up. So...I filed". He also said "...I feel that I can contribute to Council and the community. I feel the town has a great deal of potential. I also like this community. I know quite a number of people here, but I would like to get to know more".

Gleason lists as hobbies construction...or just hard work. He has recently taken several construction courses at Vo-Tech which have enabled him to develop into a house builder. "I also have done several repair jobs...and add ons", he said. Gleason has plenty of time during the summer with three months off from the teaching job. Gleason probably has enough expertise to build a new City Hall.

Gleason will also serve a two year term.

G. Franklin Taylor dies

by Harry G. Farrow
BALTIMORE, Md. — G. Franklin Taylor a descendant of the Franklin family, died on December 14th, 1984. Mr. Taylor was a descendant of the Franklin family which did much to settle Harrington in the late 1800's. The Franklin Brothers had a basket-mill, general store, and built houses. The Franklin family lived in the house presently occupied by Miss Oda and Miss Heba Baker on the corner of Hanley and Milby Streets in Harrington. One of the factories they ran was located on Franklin St. across from the water tower. The Franklin Brothers it is known built the house which Mayor and Mrs. Alfred G. B. Mann presently reside.

The Franklin family was a prominent family in the 1800's in Harrington. G. Franklin Taylor was born and raised on the farm presently owned by Charles and Frannie Pitts on the Harrington to Frederica Road. He attended Powell school which was located on the southwest corner of the crossroads which leads to Killen's Pond...and the Frederica Road. Mr. Taylor later attended Harrington School and graduated it is believed about 1927.

His brother William "Bill" Taylor owned and operated Taylor Marine and at one time operated a canvas and awning business here in Harrington.

Lake Forest gets approval for Building Program from State

The State Board of Education at their regular monthly meeting held on December 20th approved a request for a "Certificate of Necessity" regarding the proposed building program for the District. The Certificate of Necessity...was needed first before the District could proceed with the proposed referendum.

The building program estimated to be between $4.5 million and $5.4 million will be used to upgrade buildings, the roof at the High School, and addition to East for new classrooms. According to Gerald Lysik, the District Superintendent, "the program might cost a lot less than originally anticipated".

At the last Board meeting at the end of December, the contracts for building principals, assistant principals and supervisors were approved. All received the same percentage of increase across the board.

Fires caused by frozen gas lines

As many as one dozen fires have occurred recently in our state due to freezing rain sealing the vent hole on liquified propane gas (LPG) regulators. Sealing of the vent hole renders the regulator inoperative, allowing excessive pressure and gas to enter the home, creating an imminent potential for fire. All persons using LPG as a fuel should immediately check the regulator, normally located adjacent to the valve on the LPG cylinder to determine if it is properly protected. Most important is to determine whether it is iced over. If the regulator is covered with ice, the ice must be removed prior to protecting it.

The ice may be removed by cautiously using a hair dryer. The regulator can be temporarily protected by cutting a plastic milk jug in half, slitting two sides of the bottom half, and placing it over the regulator in such a manner so that the slits slide over the piping on each side of the regulator.

This is only a temporary solution. As soon as possible, proper protection should be installed. Protective devices can be purchased thru most LPG and mobile home dealers.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Farrow:

It was a pleasure to receive the Harrington Journal's recent contribution to Camp Barnes. As you know, Camp Barnes operates on funds obtained solely from private donations and fund raising projects. From the amount of your contribution, it is apparent that your subscription campaign was met with success.

Furthermore, it is apparent that your telephone solicitation was conducted in a courteous and professional manner. However, due to the increase in fraudulent crimes in which the telephone is used, telephone solicitations for Camp Barnes contributions can no longer be implemented. The adverse effect that illegitimate solicitations have on legitimate solicitations is most unfortunate.

On behalf of the Camp Barnes Board of Directors, I commend you on the success of the campaign and thank the Harrington Journal for such a generous contribution. I can assure you that the contribution will greatly benefit Camp Barnes.

Very truly yours,

American Heart Association's "New Year's Resolution"

Do yourself a favor. Make a New Year's resolution that will help keep you healthier.

Have a regular blood pressure check-up. Improve your eating habits. Quit smoking.

One in six Delawareans has high blood pressure. The American Heart Association of Delaware offers regular blood pressure screenings for area residents.

A healthy diet can help lower your risk of heart disease. Cutting back on the amount of fat, cholesterol, and salt in your diet is a good place to start. The Heart Association offers Culinary Hearts Kitchen cooking courses that can help you develop better eating habits.

Cigarette smoking is a major risk factor of heart disease. Smokers have an increased chance of developing hardening of the arteries and of suffering a heart attack. The Heart Association offers a "Calling It Quits" packet for those trying to quit smoking. Copies of the packet are available by contacting the local office of the American Heart Association in Dover, 734-9321; or Georgetown, 856-7386. Have a healthy 1985!

Leo Cotnoir

Delaware Extension honors Cotnoir

University of Delaware soil scientist Leo Cotnoir has received the Friend of Extension award for his untiring support of extension programs over the past 30 years. The award was announced during the recent annual conference of the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service in Rehoboth Beach. Cotnoir is director of the university's soil science laboratory.

In presenting the award, extension director Dr. Richard Fowler noted that Cotnoir has supported extension crop and garden programs so willingly for so long that some agents and specialists he works with have been surprised to learn this was a strictly voluntary commitment.

For a number of years Cotnoir was the guiding force behind a series of soils-related workshops for extension personnel. And he played a leading role in assembling research data and updating the university's fertilizer recommendations in order to help financially hard-pressed farmers reduce production costs. He is presently a member of the College of Agricultural Sciences' Soybean Task Force, a joint research/extension effort aimed at identifying key yield limiting factors for this crop in Delaware.

Also at the Rehoboth conference, two extension professionals—entomologist

Mark Graustein and urban home economist Mary Alice Morris—received Outstanding Program Accomplishment awards.

Since 1980 Morris, who works out of Delaware State College but is stationed in Wilmington, has established a wide range of educational programs designed to meet the needs of urban residents. Her clients include inmates of the women's prison, handicapped adults in the city's Independent Living Program, patients at the Mental Health Day Center and 18-year-old foster children from the Division of Social Services who are setting up housekeeping on their own.

Because many of those she works with are financially hard pressed, Morris has developed a budget counseling program. She also works closely with the Human Services Information Exchange, a support network for human service workers in Wilmington which is co-sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and United Way.

Graustein was recognized for the successful pest management programs he developed during his ten-year tenure as pest management specialist and which he now helps implement as extension entomologist.

Combining the research findings of entomologists at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station with practical information generated in his own field trials, Graustein developed programs which farmers can use to control the Colorado potato beetle, European corn borer, wheat sawfly, slugs and other insects. By knowing what pests to look for, when and where, farmers have prevented thousands of dollars worth of crop damage. By knowing when to apply or withhold pesticides, they have saved even more money.

To get this information to producers, Graustein used conventional methods such as field demonstrations, farm visits, meetings, fact sheets and news releases. In addition, to speed the delivery of field survey results and other pest activity data during the growing season, he established a "Pest Hotline" with an 800 number which can be reached night or day.

At the extension conference it is also customary to recognize an employee who provides essential support services for extension professionals. This year the Outstanding Staff award went to Sussex County senior secretary Mabel Hough.

The awards program is sponsored by the Delaware chapter of Epsilon Sigma Phi, the national honorary extension fraternity.

Tax changes farmers should know about

A number of changes in procedures for calculating their 1984 federal income taxes can affect farmers. University of Delaware extension farm management specialist Dr. Don Tilmon has drawn up the following list of which producers should be aware:

1984 Tax Rate: 5 percent under 1983; about 4 percent over 1985.

Zero-Bracket Amount for Those Who Choose Not to Itemize Deductions: Single taxpayers-- $2,300 in 1984 and $2,390 in 1985. Married, filing jointly-- $3,400 in 1984 and $3,540 in 1985.

Charitable Contributions for Taxpayers Who Choose Not to Itemize: The maximum deduction is 25 percent of up to $300 in 1984, or $75. In 1985 and 1986 the maximum will be 50 percent of an unlimited amount of direct charitable contributions.

Income Averaging: 1984 taxable income must be $3,000 more than 140 percent of the average of the past three years.

Capital Gains: The new six-month holding period for capital gains benefits does not apply to dairy cattle or other livestock.

Section 179 Expense: This deduction remains at $5,000 per year through 1987.

New 18-Year ACRS Class: This new depreciation class must be used for multipurpose barns, toolsheds, tenant houses for hired help and other general purpose farm buildings placed in service after March 15, 1984.

Contemporaneous Records: To qualify for a mileage allowance beginning in 1985, IRS requires that a log be kept on a daily basis, listing mileage, date, place and purpose of travel. After-the-fact estimates will no longer qualify.

Over The Backyard Fence

Gab Fest by Pat Hatfield

Happy New Year! The canvas for a new beginning is in front of everyone of us. What picture will we paint? My personal prayer is that I may carefully choose and use the right materials. For our paints if we can use love, friendship, fellowship, compassion and concern our picture cannot help but be beautiful as we work with it day by day and month by month. It will have the mystic beauty of the early dawn with its challenge. If we use the love and the caring and the sharing with other artists along the road it will depict life in its greatest moments; it will have the miracle of the rainbow after the storm. It will have the blazing glory of the sunsets as we stand in awe and pray that another dawn and another day will give us an opportunity to be better artists than we were the day before.

I do not make New Year's resolutions. I just plod along and try to do the best I can each day...and I fail miserably many times. But I was born under the sign of Capricorn, the goat and I just keep butting my stubborn head against the problem until I achieve. (This is all in fun, you understand). We all know that our help does not come from horoscopes, but from God.

As a teen-ager, my pastor from Milford, who, at that time, was the Rev. Disston Jacobs, used to tell me that I was a real "Method-ist". I like my life and times to be planned and sorted and filed by method. I am materially at ease when the cupboards, the files, the clippings and the scrapbooks are neatly in their own cubbyholes. So, one thing I do in January is to try to make this come to pass. I reorganize. I sort and I get everything under control. Soon my recipe file will be in order. Then it will be fun to cook again. I have several new pound cake recipes to try and I am going to try all the sweet potato biscuit recipes to see which one is the favorite. I wish to do this for cornbread, too. But Dad turns an evil eye on the cornbread. He says that we will never find a cornbread that is more delicious than the Custard Skillet Corn Bread we usually serve, so why try something different. It's my pioneer spirit, I guess.

By the way I promised to share the Oatmeal Yeast Rolls that need no kneading; in a large bowl stir together 3/4 cup boiling water, 4 tablesp. butter, 2 tablesp. sugar, 1 teaspoon salt until butter melts. Cool. Measure 1/2 cup warm water and sprinkle on it 1 envelope yeast. Stir to dissolve. Add this to the butter mixture with 2 cups of flour and 1 cup of quick oatmeal and 1 large egg. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a stiff batter.

Cover and let set in warm place until doubled in size (about 2 hrs.). Stir batter down and generously butter 18 muffin tins, filling about 2/3 full of batter. Let rise uncovered until nearly double in size (about 20 min). Bake in pre-heated oven 375° until cake tester comes out clean. Brush with melted butter and remove to wire rack. Serve warm or reheated.

Senior Center by Dorothy Graham

Smile! Thank all volunteers—may your New Year be peaceful and healthy!

When a man can't find peace within himself it is no use to seek elsewhere.

Hope one New Years resolution you made was "Visit Harrington Senior Center as often as I possibly can." You will be glad, ask anyone who attends. You see a friend—be a friend—meet a friend—make a friend, anyway you put it Harrington Senior Center is a friendly spot. Food from Manna at Modern Maturity Center, Dover, brings the tasty meals to us. For instance today we had tender roast beef, mashed potatoes, gravy or not, string beans with mushrooms, swiss roll cake, bread and butter and a beverage of your choice. And enjoying the chit-chat of the Center, so much nicer than eating alone.

Christmas from most reports was pleasant. Delightful presents, decorations, everyone ate too much—glad to see guests—weather, well, Florida had nothing on us, games, family get-togethers, phone calls, and, of course, the real reason we have Christmas—celebrate the birth of Jesus.

New Years celebration was done in various ways—some went out to dinner—some entertained at home with games, singing and lots and lots of goodies, along with noise makers, hats, the works! Happy New Year!

The New Years Party at the Center was a success. The baby pictures, or I should say the young pictures of some of the members, was a game of guessing. Match the picture with the name. Mary Dobraski and Amy Poynter matched all of them. It was fun seeing those sweet, cute little kids—Good Sports! Good looking too! Gene Price, our Director, opened the party with wishing everyone a Happy New Year and explaining the days activities. Troy Dennis (a summer worker) stopped by and wished everyone a healthy, Happy New Year and expressed his feelings toward the folk of Harrington Senior Center. Refreshments were delicious—a punch was colorful as well as delectable cookies—all homemade—tasty as could be! They were made by Marge Phillips, Debbie Hastings and Emma Price. Thanks to everyone for making the Center a very Happy Christmas and New Year. For the decorating, singing, music, food, friends, cards—for everything to everyone we say a great big thank you. Our Christmas has been better because of Harrington Senior Center!

Bible Study Dec. 31 was with Clara Jody and Sylvia Meredith. The study was a meditation on the meaning of Christmas. All sang "Silent Night", "Away in the Manger". Cecil and Sylvia sang "There is Plenty of Time." Matthew-Chapter 2 was read.

Closed with Christmas Prayer by Clara Jody.

Those present were Mamie Adams, Martha Porter, Catherine Donovan, Thelma Legates, Mary Sapp, Annel Morrow, Amy Poynter, Etzel McCready, Gladys Hill, Ethel Holden, Ola Tilden, Elwood Morris, Cecil Meredith and Marion Brown.

A member brought in something very unusual or I thought it was—it was several leather postcards put together. One was a picture of a deer and it had a cute line, something like "You are a deer". Several were (could be considered) romantic. Anyway they were interesting! Old post cards are fascinating and when you see the postage on a leather card of one cent or one and one half cent, goodness, times have changed even from the sweet little post card! See you next week. In the meantime, be kind to each other. Best wishes to all homebounds and those who are ill at home or in the hospital. A special prayer for those in deep sorrow. Faith.

Spartan Varsity basketball team turns back Laurel

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL — The varsity was never behind on Friday night as the big team downed Laurel 50-41. It was a big win for the team which is 2-4 overall...with three losses to the powerful Dover Senators. Lake Forest is 1-1 in the Henlopen Conference Southern Division.

"The Laurel team slowed the pace down. They would get the ball and run down the clock," said Coach Bill Falasco. "I think they did this because they were short a couple players plus our team had the height advantage," added the coach. "The key to the win was our boys did not get over anxious," said Falasco. "We just took our time...picked the shots and capitalized on their mistakes."

Kevin Benson, the big 6'6" junior, led all scorers with 19 points. The sophomore sensation Victor Hill (6'4") was next with 11 points for the Spartans. Byron Daniels was high for Laurel with 14.

The Spartans opened up the game in the 4th quarter outscoring the Laurel Bulldogs 22-11. The Spartans used the 2-3 zone and half court zone press to try to pick up the tempo. Laurel still slowed the game down.

The Spartans were 16 for 22 at the line for 73% and 17 for 32 from the floor. Laurel was 7 for 18 at the line and 18 for 31 from the floor. "Neither team shot that much, which really hurt too," said Falasco.

Brown leads Spartan girls by Laurel

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL — Senior guard, Carolyn Brown, scored 19 points on Friday night to lead the Lake Forest girls to victory over an out-matched Laurel team. The Spartans won 62 to Laurel's 28. "It was a real blow-out," said head coach Pat Dyal. "They were to rely on their fast break and we just simply dust them off in the first quarter, and shut them down," added Dyal. "After that the Laurel team was not in the game," she said.

The Laurel team tried to break the press "...which they could not do, and the game was over by the end of the 1st quarter," said Dyal. "Everyone got a chance to play, which was good," add Dyal.

The Spartans are 4-2 overall and 2-0 in the conference.

"Carolyn (Brown) came off the bench and did a great job. She got most of her points with steals which she turned over," said Dyal.

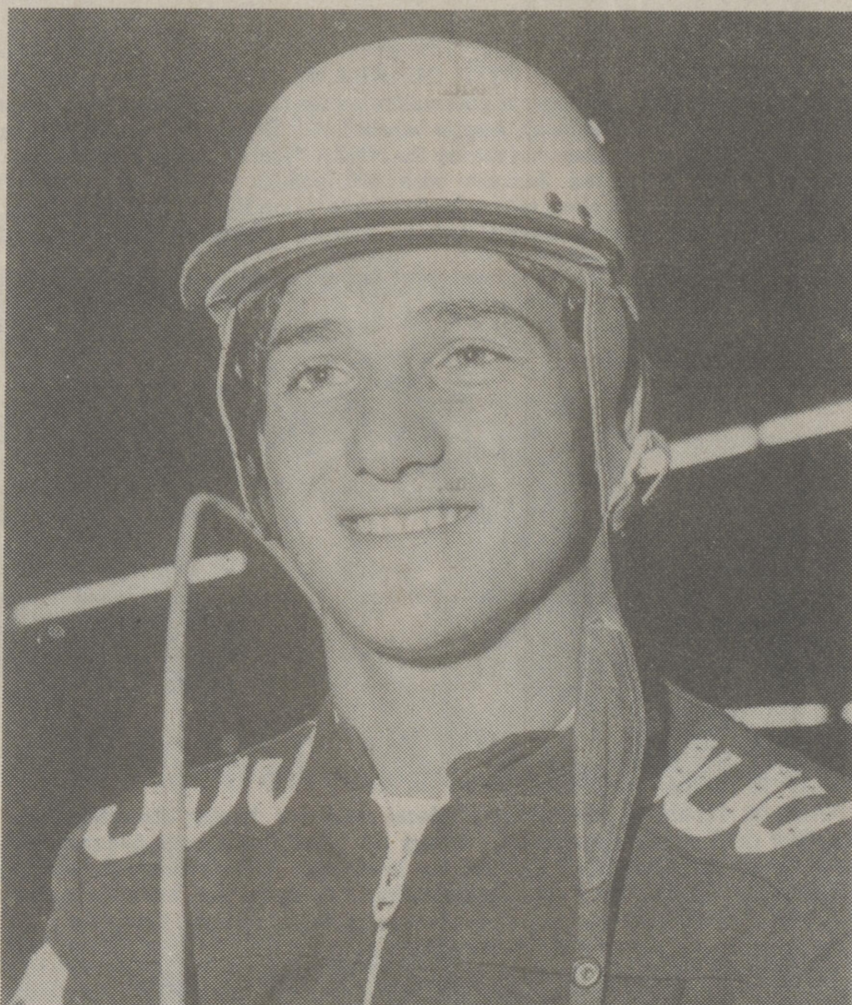

Severa Harris, a 5'11" forward, who is very powerful under the board scored 9 points in a winning way against Laurel.

New Wall Goes Up — The new concrete wall, between Darlington Raceway's grandstand and pit area on the frontstretch, starts to take shape. The new wall is 1,764 feet long and will be completed prior to the running of the Transouth 500 April 14.

New Walls at Darlington

DARLINGTON, S.C.—One of stock car racing's most enduring landmarks is gone.

But it won't be forgotten by some of the sport's top stars, including Richard Petty and Hall of Famer Fred Lorenzen. This isn't to suggest, however, that it'll be missed.

No longer a part of the landscape at Darlington Raceway, the concrete barrier, which extended 1,052 feet down the home straightaway of the storied 1.366-mile track, has been replaced by an even longer wall of 1,764 feet.

The new structure is part of a program undertaken by Speedway officials to upgrade the Darlington facility, with emphasis on improved safety and competition.

Both Petty and Lorenzen experienced violent tangles with the old wall, accidents which put the two in the hospital and which subsequently have been rated the worst of their tremendous NASCAR Winston Cup Series careers.

Petty, the all-time Grand National Division victory leader with 200 triumphs, wrecked in 1970. Speeding through turn four in the Southern 500, Petty suddenly swerved into the outside wall, then his Plymouth careened across the track and hit the old inside wall at an angle. The latter impact, so forceful that it sounded like a mighty clap of thunder, sent Petty's machine bouncing into the air where it was to roll seven times before slamming to the asphalt track upside down, right in the racing groove.

Petty, unconscious, hung from his shoulder harnesses. He was freed and pulled from the car by crewmen of two other teams, Buck Brigance and Francis Allen. Petty regained consciousness in the infield care center and was taken to a Florence hospital for treatment of a broken shoulder.

Lorenzen, attempting a comeback after retiring from his "Golden Boy" glory years that produced 26 grand national victories, crashed in 1971.

Practicing in the Wood Brothers Mercury, Lorenzen hit the outside wall fronting the fourth turn grandstands at almost the same point struck by Petty. His car, too, angled across the track like a billiard ball, hurtling into the inside wall.

While Lorenzen did not get airborne, the force of the crash was violent enough to send chunks of concrete flying a considerable distance into the garage area. Lorenzen suffered lacerations and a dislocated shoulder, which essentially aborted his comeback effort.

Many other well-known competitors have had run-ins with the old wall, including Richard Childress, Lennie Pond and Elmo Langley. Kyle Petty popped it a fearsome lick in practice for the Southern 500 just last fall.

In addition to being longer, extending from the scoring stand in turn four to victory lane in turn one, the new structure is four feet high, a foot wide and has a footing of 2 1/2 feet. Pit road has been widened by 11 feet and the old pipe railing that separated it from the waiting crewman and equipment has been replaced by a wall 28 inches high and a foot thick.

Pit Notes

Short takes

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

Dale Earnhardt's strategy for The Winston, which will include only the previous year's WGN champion and any race winners: "I'll just win all 30 races and run that race all by myself in 1986."

Winston's contest for the Most Popular Driver drew an astounding 82,108 entries, noteworthy because it didn't get started until mid-season and required effort on the part of the voter. It will continue next year and Winston's Bob Moore said he wouldn't be surprised if there were a quarter-million votes. Bill Elliott won the $20,000 award for 1984 with 23,459 votes, followed by Terry Labonte with 14,502. In all, 66 drivers received votes.

For those who were wondering if Kyle Petty and the Wood Brothers could get up to speed, consider that they ran over 196 miles per hour in their first hour of testing at Daytona.

When Piedmont Airlines President Bill Howard says all 12,000 employees are behind their man Labonte, he isn't kidding. The Piedmont computer system carries updated information on Terry Labonte at each event, from qualifying through the finish. "Everyone looks at the computer at some point and it's fun to see how Labonte did," said a stewardess. "And we hear he's cute, too." And Labonte returns the favor whenever Piedmont is mentioned: "They flew us to the top of the world this year," he said.

The February 2-3 SunBank 24 at Daytona should have an all-star entry list. At least eight former LeMans winners are expected, as well as almost every ex-24 winner who's still active, the current Winston Cup champion (Labonte and car owner Billy Hagan are expected back) and ex-Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt.

Car owner Junie Donlavey will team up with driver Kenny Schrader in 1985. Schrader ran a few events in 1984, and they may aim at the '85 rookie title. That leaves Dick Brooks ride-hunting for the moment.

Darrell Waltrip on 1984: "I don't know what happened. I thought all I had to do was finish ahead of Bobby Allison to win the championship. I did, and I finished fifth (Allison was sixth)."

Look for a prominent figure from another sport being named Grand Marshal for the Transouth 500 at Darlington.

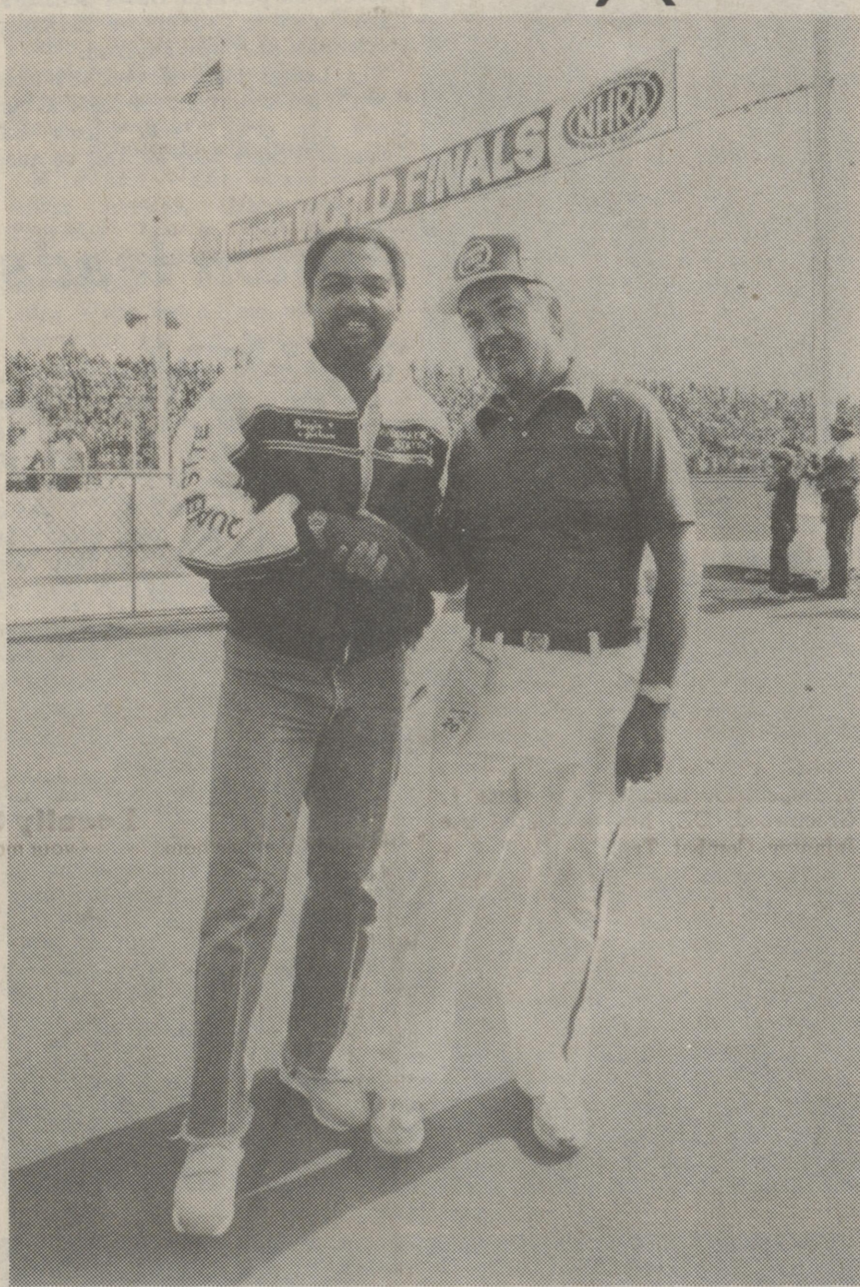

Former Petty and RahMoc crew chief Rob Pemberton will assume the chief's duties for the DiGard (Bobby Allison) team, with Gary Nelson being elevated to handle more research and development.

Why break up a good combination? The teams of 1-2 finishers Terry Labonte and Harry Gant will stay the same in '85.

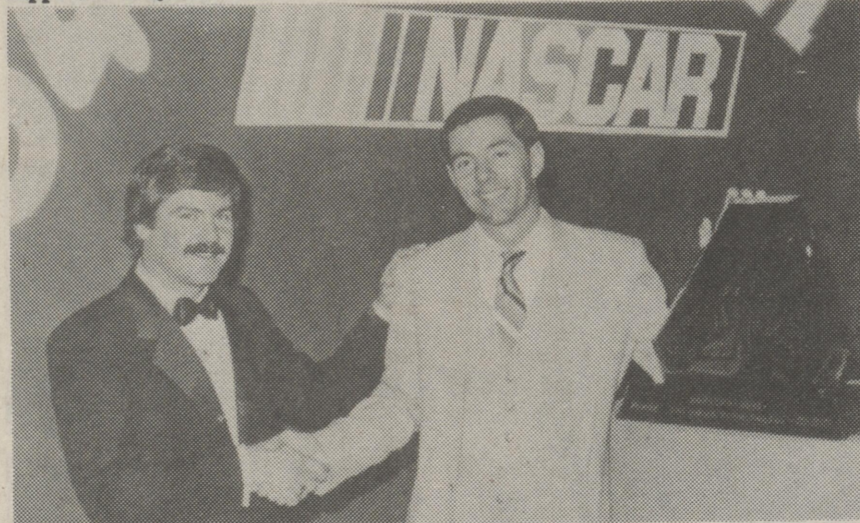

When Richard Petty picked up a Winston check for over $16,000 as his reward for finishing 10th in points, he commented, "I've won the championship and didn't get this much."

Former Daytona 200 motorcycle winner Dale Singleton is aiming at a 4-wheel career, and is lining up a ride for the Feb. 10 ARCA 200 at Daytona.

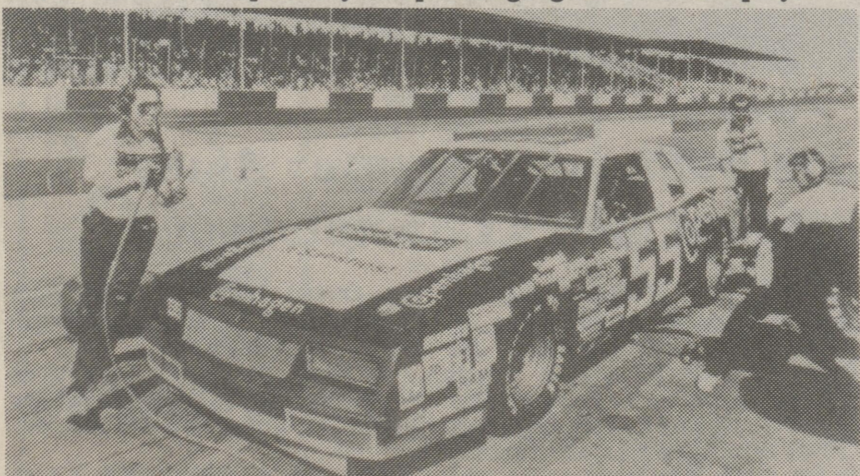

Petty Enterprises is 95 percent certain to have a full team ready for the Daytona 500. No driver yet, but Maurice Petty tested the car at Daytona thanks to Tim Richmond, who stayed over an extra day to lend his services.

REGGIE JACKSON A HIT WITH QUAKER STATE — Quaker State Oil Refining Corporation's manager of automotive performance activities, Bud Lyons [right], congratulates California Angels baseball star Reggie Jackson on hitting his record 500th career homerun during the NHRA World Final in Pomona, CA. Quaker State presented Jackson with 500 gallons of its QX 20W/50 Performance Motor Oil, along with a Quaker State "Main Event" jacket. Jackson, an avid race fan, owns numerous antique sports automobiles and is a loyal supporter of Quaker State.

NASCAR CHAMPS—1984 Grand National stock car driving champion Terry Labonte [left] shared the spotlight during the NASCAR awards banquet with crew chief Cliff Champion, who led his team with driver Benny Parsons to NASCAR's National Pit Crew Championship. Champion and his crew earned $37,000 of the $75,000 posted by the sponsoring Ingersoll-Rand Company.

WINNING STYLE—Driver Benny Parsons' Copenhagen Racing Team, led by crew chief Cliff Champion [left], is NASCAR's 1984 National Pit Crew Champion. The Ingersoll-Rand Company, manufacturers of the 30,000-r.p.m. air wrenches used to change tires so fast during pit stops, sponsors the 10-race competition which rewards the crews whose cars spend the least total time in the pits.

Speedweek '85 at Volusia County Speedway a Gigantic Affair

by Bill Hill

BARBERVILLE, FLA....Question: What can be bigger and better than the Volusia County Speedway, Speedweek '84? Answer: Volusia County Speedway, Speedweek '85, of course.

A total of 13 nights of racing is on tap for the tricky half-mile dirt oval, 7 sprint and 6 late model and eastern modifieds. It's all being sponsored by HOWELL RACING FUEL and GAMBLER CHASSIS.

The sprint cars open with a qualifying program on February 2 followed by a $5,000 to win show on the 3rd. Then the sprinters go again on Feb. 6-10 with the finale paying $20,000 to win over a 35lap distance.

Modifieds will run on February 11, late models on February 12; then the two groups combine for the programs of February 13-16. On the final night each winner will receive $5,000.

Point standings will be kept in each class with the top five automatically qualifying for the big championship features.

A real array of headliners have already entered including Jack Hewitt, Troy, OH; Frank Kerr, Bensalem, PA; Bobby Davis, Jr., Memphis, TN; Randy Wolfe, Mechanicsburg, PA; Doug Wolfgang, Sioux Falls, SD; and Brad Doty, Orrville, Ohio in the sprint cars. Two of the nation's greatest modified drivers, Doug Hoffman, Allentown, Pa and Doug Ingalls, Longview, TX are entered, plus reigning STARS titlist John Mason, Millersburg, OH; Freddy Smith, Kings Mountain, NC; and Jerry Inmon, Bruce, MISS; in the late models. Hundreds more are expected.

Street stocks and Cyclones will also be run on certain days.

Starting time every night is 7:30 p.m. Only the sprint cars will qualify.

Volusia County Speedway is located 15 miles west of Ormand Beach on Highway 40. Phone number is 904/255-2243.

World 600 at CMS honored as "Top 100" event

HARRISBURG, N.C.—The World 600 Winston Cup stock car race at Charlotte Motor Speedway has been designated as one of the "Top 100 Events in North America For 1985" by the American Bus Association, which compiles the annual listing.

The announcement of CMS' prestigious selection was jointly made by Charles Heatherly, director of the North Carolina Division of Travel and Tourism, and the American Bus Association.

"This continues to solidify our standing for holding some of the most entertaining events in the country right here at Charlotte Motor Speedway and right here in North Carolina," said H.A. "Humpty" Wheeler, president and general manager at CMS. "We are extremely proud of this latest recognition for our World 600 and will work doubly hard to make this May's event the best and most entertaining ever."

"We also salute the other 99 events and, especially, the other two North Carolina events that were recognized by the American Bus Association."

Along with the World 600, Christmas at Biltmore House (located just a few miles south of Asheville) and the 50th Anniversary Celebration of the famed Blue Ridge Parkway in western North Carolina made the "Top 100" list.

Representing what ABA describes as "a rich diversity of travel opportunities offering a wide variety of attractions," each year's "Top 100" selections are heavily promoted as choice destinations for motorcoach tour groups. This can mean a boon to the local economy where each event is hosted.

The 1984 World 600 drew 149,000 fans, the second-largest crowd for a sporting event in the country.

The ABA "Top 100" designations are based on nominations by state and provincial travel directors in the United States and Canada. The 1985 list features events in 46 states, the District of Columbia and seven Canadian provinces.

New pole record expected for Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — With three drivers already topping 200 miles per hour in testing, the battle for the Daytona 500 pole position is heating up even though the fastest won't be determined for another 45 days.

Bill Elliott and Benny Parsons went over 200 at Talladega and Terry Labonte did it at Daytona during December testing.

"I've read predictions that up to 10 drivers will be over 200 on pole day," said Daytona International Speedway general manager John Riddle. "We were looking over the 1985 roster and there are at least 10 teams with the potential."

"Terry was surprised to hit 200 on his first day of testing. That should give others the encouragement that it can be done."

Until two years ago, 200 mph was an unbroken barrier at Daytona but then Cale Yarborough managed it on his first qualifying lap. He tried a second lap and that was a nightmare, with his car flipping.

Yarborough came back in 1984 to post an official 200-plus lap—it was 201.848 and Labonte also went over 200.

"There's a certain psychological barrier," said seven-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty, who never has logged an official 200-plus lap. "Your car doesn't know about it, but somewhere between your brain and your foot something happens."

Pole position day will be Saturday, Feb. 9, with up to 80 cars attempting to qualify. Each may run two laps with the quickest counting. The fastest two will make up the front row for the million-dollar-plus Daytona 500 on Feb. 17.

Foyt not retiring

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Once again, it's official. A.J. Foyt isn't retiring.

"This seems to come up every year, and every year I tell people I'll let them know but not to expect me to retire any time soon," says the Texas veteran. "I'll just keep entering races. That should be a good enough answer."

Workshops to cover farm respiratory health hazards

Farmers are exposed to toxic fumes and other respiratory health hazards during the performance of many necessary chores. To alert producers to these dangers and provide information on how to minimize or prevent exposure, the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service is offering a series of respiratory health hazard workshops during January, 1985.

The meetings will identify respiratory hazards on the farm, describe the extent of the problem, give medical aspects of the hazards faced, and recommend proper safety equipment.

There will be discussions on grain dust, gases associated with confinement housing, silo gases, mold spores, welding fumes and pesticides as potential respiratory hazards. The workshops are scheduled as follows:

★ January 22—University of Delaware substation, Rt. 9, Georgetown;

★ January 24—Clayton Fire Hall, Railroad Ave., Clayton; ★ January 30—Felton Fire Hall, Main St., Felton.

All three workshops will start at 7 p.m. Free breathing tests will be given from 6:00-7:00 p.m. at each location.

The word blackball comes from a practice in ancient Greece of casting ballots with metal balls—white meaning innocent, black meaning guilty.

Welder's Flu - Result of toxic fumes

Farmers are spending a lot of time in their shops now, repairing, modifying and sometimes even making equipment. Much of this work involves welding—and the risk of poisoning from the fumes.

"Welder's Flu" is a common complaint among workers who cut or weld coated bolts and metal. According to University of Delaware extension safety specialist Ron Jester, the symptoms may include high fever and upset stomach, which usually disappear after a day or so. Other effects are more serious and may involve permanent damage to vital organs.

The problem occurs when the heat from cutting or welding burns off zinc or cadmium surface coatings. Cadmium fumes can also cause a delayed reaction, as the lungs fill with fluid over a period of four to ten hours after exposure. Long-term exposure to cadmium fumes can also cause kidney damage, Jester says.

Burning off old lead paint or welding lead-painted steel releases fumes that can cause lead poisoning. Symptoms include loss of appetite, fatigue, and stomach upset. Long-term exposure to lead can cause blood, kidney, and nerve disorders.

Exposure to lead-painted steel releases fumes that can cause lead poisoning. Symptoms include loss of appetite, fatigue, and stomach upset. Long-term exposure to lead can cause blood, kidney, and nerve disorders.

Epoxy coatings can also cause problems during welding and cutting. Irritation of the eyes, nose, and chest are common complaints. Because of the hazards posed by toxic fumes, Jester advises farmers and others who do shopwork to follow certain basic precautions when welding or flame-cutting coated metals.

★ Cut or weld coated metals outdoors or in well ventilated areas.

★ Where ventilation is inadequate to draw away fumes, use exhaust fans and ducts. Or wear a properly fitted, NIOSH-approved high-efficiency fume respirator. Such equipment is available from most safety equipment distributors.

★ In confined areas, it may be necessary to use supplied air respirators.

★ Secondary exposures from smoking materials or food contaminated with lead or cadmium pose an additional hazard for people who weld. Do not eat or smoke in work areas, and wash hands before eating or smoking.

If respiratory problems develop as a result of exposure to toxic fumes from cutting or welding coated metal, consult a doctor. Be sure to describe the exposure conditions. Jester says workers with diagnostic respiratory or kidney disorders should ask their doctors about the effects of welding fumes before doing any welding.

For more information on toxic fumes and other respiratory health hazards on the farm, plan to attend one of the Respiratory Health Hazard Workshops which will be offered by the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service during January, 1985. Check local papers for dates and locations.

Winter survival for home gardeners

Once the holidays are over, winter can seem long and dreary—especially for active gardeners as they sit shut up indoors, waiting for spring. Glenn Layton, extension county agent for Delaware State College, has some suggestions which can make winter more enjoyable for these restless plant lovers.

"Start planning your garden now for fun and profit," he advises. Most seed companies have published their 1985 spring catalogs by now. Some offer discounts for early orders.

This is also a good time of year to gather information which will lead to a more successful gardening season. "Contact your county extension office for gardening fact sheets," Layton advises. "Learn about succession planting, liming and fertilizing, plus facts about individual vegetables."

Consider starting some of this year's vegetable plants indoors. Tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, cabbages, broccoli and cauliflower are all traditionally started in greenhouses, rather than directly in the garden. To be successful in this venture, you need sufficient light, warmth (75 degrees F) for germination, and a good soil mix. Again, Layton advises contacting your local extension office for details on soil requirements and planting dates for individual crops.

Once seed catalogs arrive, take time to compare varieties. There are big differences among hybrids in growth habit, fruiting characteristics and disease resistance. Look for varieties which are relatively pest-free and well-adapted to local growing conditions.

"If gardening has become routine for you, consider growing a wider range of plants," the county agent suggests. "For example, include some herbs in the vegetable plot, or use them in your landscape scheme. Ornamental gourds are easy to grow from seed and can be planted after peas, beans, broccoli and other early crops."

Half the fun of gardening can be in the planning, so take time this winter to look ahead to spring, try some new ideas, then reap the benefits this summer.

A Christmas Gift To The Harrington Senior Center Members

by Gene Price

For many a job is bothersome, a bore and not a treat,
They hate to rise in the morning,
wanting to stay between their sheets;
For me, my job is like no other, its not a chore or cheat,
For me, my job is most unusual, its one that can't be beat.

For you see God has favored me, with people so special and so true,
For you see God has favored me, with not just one but EACH of you.

Sure we've had our ups and downs,
what family could say different,
But a love for each other has grown,
its a fact its heaven sent.

I often stop and ponder, of the luck I have endured,
Almost five years at this job, of one thing I am assured,
No matter what each of our futures
hold in sight,
God has favored us all with friendships that we hold most tight.

We've lost some of our center family,
and sometimes I quietly shed a tear,
But my memories are both bright and beautiful, my memories I'll forever hold dear.

So if I do or say a little something, that doesn't set just right, Please try to forgive me, it is not on purpose and Believe me, I don't want to fight.

Just try to remember the message in this poem, and as I walk by grab me and ask to talk;
I may be busy or seem in a hurry, but for your continued love and guidance,
I will not squawk.

You've given me so very much, I just hope a little I can return,
I don't have the years and I am not as wise, from you I have a lot to learn.

So you see I have a Christmas
Message, included in my lines,
I love you all very dearly, and I hope that you're new year will be just fine.

Greenwood Kiwanis Club Report

Greenwood Kiwanis Clubs first meeting of the New Year was held in the Fire Hall on Thursday evening. After a delicious meal served by Mary Wiseman, the regular meeting was called to order by President Tommy Tucker.

After taking care of the business of the regular meeting, such as the reading of several letters of appreciation for the Christmas baskets and the use of Kwanis medical equipment, the Directors meeting was opened. The minutes of the meeting as well as the financial report was read by our temporary Secretary and Treasurer, Doris Mills, who has volunteered her time to our club while the regular Secretary and Treasurer Alvin Mills is recuperating from his recent illness.

A generous donation was voted on for Milford Memorial Hospitals Nursery for the purchase of clothes, for the discharged babies that the parents could ill afford.

With a final heartfelt verbal appreciation expressed to Doris, President Tommy closed the meeting.

"Hazards of Snow Shoveling"

Many people experience injuries ranging from muscle soreness to sudden death as a result of shoveling snow in the winter months.

For individuals who attempt this work, attention should be paid to several things. If you know you are at risk or have had a history of heart disease, this activity should be avoided if possible. Because the small muscles of the arms are being used, blood pressure rises more quickly than when using large muscle groups. For people at risk this unnoticed rise in blood pressure may prove very hazardous for them. If shoveling can't be avoided, try to do more pushing of snow than lifting and throwing. Use the legs more than the arms if possible.

For people who are not at risk for heart disease, this activity can be invigorating exercise. Understand that if you have not exercised the muscles in your arms and shoulders recently, you will encounter soreness as a result of this. This may be reduced if you adequately stretch these muscles before you begin, start slowly and warm into it; and stretch adequately afterward.

Concerning dress, it must be understood that your body can generate copious amounts of heat when exercising. To avoid an imbalance in body heating, it is recommended that you wear a few light layers of clothing rather than one heavy bulky jacket. This allows you to avoid the choice of either gross overheating or becoming too cold by removing your only coat. By wearing a few light articles of clothing, you may peel off layers as you heat up from the exercise until you reach a steady state temperature level that is commensurate with your shoveling exercise level.

Tax changes

Installation Sales: For sales after June 6, 1984, the amount of gain to be recaptured as ordinary income (that is, gain equal to depreciation and Section 179 expense) is fully taxed in the year of sale, whether or not the money is actually received then.

Installation sales contracts between related parties should specify interest at no less than 6 percent on land and 9 percent on buildings, machinery and livestock, Tilmon says. These figures apply to family sales of less than $1 million.

Investment Credit: The limit is $1,000 on the business share of a car or light-duty truck purchased after June 18, 1984. When business use is 50 percent or less, no investment credit is allowed and depreciation must be straight-line over a five-year life.
