

Richard Moretti gets new District Post

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
HARRINGTON. Richard Moretti who has been the assistant principal at Lake Forest High School since January 1978 will be the new Assistant for Administrative Services.
The position which Moretti fills is partially due to the retirement of Deputy Superintendent Mel Luff. Moretti will not assume Luff's job...completely, because the new job will have different duties and responsibilities than that handled by Luff. Moretti will assume direct responsibility for business office affairs. He will also have the responsibility of taking charge of the office of transportation, buildings and grounds and food service. The people who are at these positions will continue, but Moretti will be their new direct contact.

Moretti is a native of Latrobe, Pa., and yes he does see the golfing great Arnold Palmer from time to time when he returns home. He attended St. Vincent's College in Latrobe getting a B.S. in Physics in 1967. He began his teaching career...which he says he misses greatly...at Richland Senior H.S. in Pa. He taught there for 6 years. While there he received a Masters in secondary education where he did extensive graduate work in educational communications and technical aspects as well as audio visual media work. The work led to study in program instruction and computer instruction.

He became media coordinator at Glasgow H.S. next and stayed there for four and a half years. Then he came to Lake Forest.
He is currently enrolled in the Masters in Business Administration (MBA) program in Wilmington College.
Moretti feels that his skills lie in management, "...but most importantly I can relate effectively with all peoples on all levels. I like people", he said recently. "I have made a lot of friends here...and I like the area. I am very happy. And I am very happy that the School Board saw fit to select someone to fill this position from within the District. You don't know how much confidence that kind of decision generates...when made. It was good".

"The important thing now is to get the trust of co-workers...keep it. I can also look at teachers as colleagues. This will be most effective for the District."
Richard Moretti has lived a very active life. A former Boy Scout...and an Eagle Scout (which is the most prestigious award a Scout can receive), and a former Scoutmaster. He knows that he can deal effectively with children as well as adults.
"I am interested in seeing to it that the District grows...and that the potential for growth is always there", he said.

Harrington Little League Members make plans for 85

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
HARRINGTON. Dave Lawson, President of Harrington Little League, is starting out early this year hoping by doing so to make 1985 for Harrington's Little League the best ever. Like everything else costs are on the rise, but Lawson hopes with increased enrollment in the program, he can balance the budget.
Lawson reiterates the eligibility for Little League for any person...girl or boy from age 6 through 18. "I am sure there are many families who do not know that their little girl is eligible for this program. Not the case! They are very much, and we believe that early exposure to baseball helps many kids to overcome coordination problems", Lawson added. The other eligibility requirement important to know is that a person must be a resident of the "old Harrington School District", which is Killens Pond south to just north of Farmington and from Marvels Cross-Roads to the Maryland border (Whitelysburg-Burrsville areas).
The goal for the 1985 Little League is to sign up 220 players. "We also need to obtain finances to get the needed improvements for this year", said Lawson. The improvements Lawson refers to are a new lighting system for the Senior League field, "and we take the old lights from the Senior Field to the Little League field", added Lawson. There will also be improvements to all 3 fields which means regrading. "The physical layout of the fields must be redone, which means many man hours to pack the clay, roll the outfields...and resod them", said Lawson.

A new score board will go in right field of the Little League field. "This has been long over due. We just never got around to replacing the old one", said Lawson.
Lawson said that the League is also looking to make improvements on the equipment and team locker building which is currently the Little League office building.
Lawson says the support needed will come from fund raisers as has been the custom in the past. "But we need people now to step forward to volunteer for managers, coaches, umpires... and official score keepers...concession stand help...this sort of thing", said Lawson. "Saturday is work day so we need bodies out there on Saturdays if the work is to get done", he added. "There is a job there for any interested person", said Lawson.
The schedule of events are set for SIGN UP on Sat., Feb. 23rd and Sat., March 2nd between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. "Even if you played last year you still must come out and sign up", said

Lawson. "New players need birth certificates...and all signer ups are required to have $5.00 per player or $7.00 for family membership", said Lawson. The location will be Trinity Church Fellowship Hall in Harrington. On March 7th "...a Thursday...there will be a fund raiser to kick off the season at 7:00 p.m. at Chipman Cafeteria". Members of Little League will be selling candles from Nationwide Fund Raiser Committee. "They will be the Splendor Lights...which is a decorative reusable tin for $3.75. Just one item this year", said Lawson. The sale will be conducted from March 7th through the 16th. The Ladies Auxiliary again this year will conduct the drive with a goal of $4,000.

Kevin Murray wants to go to NBA

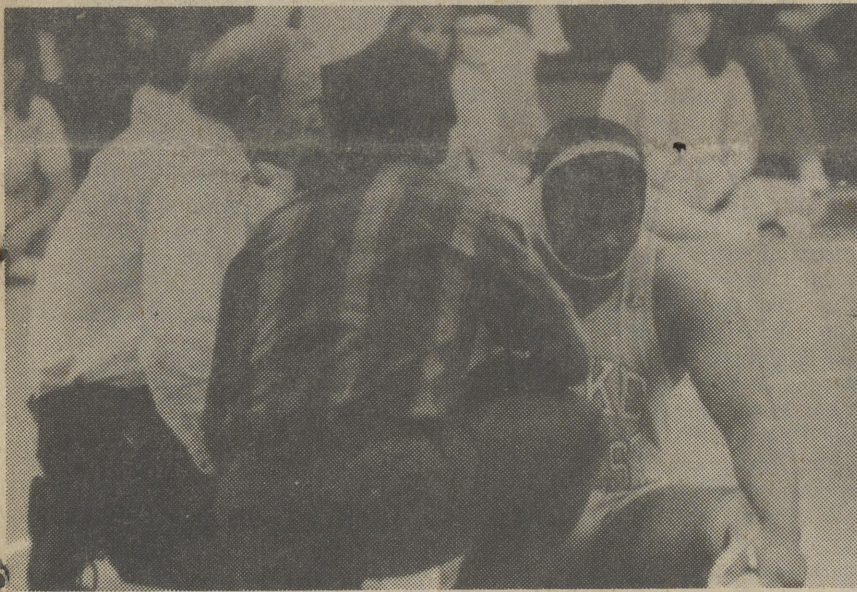

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
HARRINGTON. Kevin Murray comes back to his Alma Mater (Lake Forest) as often as possible...to visit his favorite person and coach...Bill Falasco.
It was Falasco who encouraged Murray to come out for basketball. The tall, lanky kid who showed up for Falasco's gym classes did well with the "B-ball", but just never showed any interest beyond that point.
"I guess it just sort of hit me all at once. I remember that I was in one of his (Falasco's) gym classes, and suddenly all the urging that he (Falasco) had been giving me to come out for basketball came to pass", said Murray on Saturday following a scrimmage with the varsity basketball team.

Murray, who is in his freshman year at Cecil Community College, hopes to get a scholarship to a larger college next year to play basketball. "I almost make basketball my full time effort. I want to play professional basketball some day in the NBA," said Murray.
"It takes a lot of hard work and dedication. Much more than most athletes realize...and much more than most want to give", said Falasco recently. "But Kevin...is one of those exceptions. I think he will make it, because he won't let anything stand in his way. He really wants it, and I

Biden announces Service Academy Nominations

Nominated as one of three principal nominees to the U.S. Naval Academy is David A. Lawson, of Holy Cross High School, son of Richard D. and Patricia Lawson, 1135 Charles Drive, Dover.
Principal nominees are the top candidates and will be offered an appointment if they meet all of the medical and physical requirements. Senator Biden is allowed to have five appointees in each of the military service academies at any one time.
The Senator's alternate nominee to the Military Academy from Harrington is Gary A. Price, son of Albert C. and Elma Price of Center St.

Sears acquires Greenwood Trust Stock

After much speculation, it is now final that Sears has acquired presumably all of the shares of Greenwood Trust Co. Assets of the Bank total $11 million. Title to the Bank was taken in the name of Allstate Enterprises, a member of the Sears Dean Witter Financial Services Group.
Norman C. Hamstead, formerly Chairman of the Board of Directors of the bank was named president and Richard Beauchamp, formerly cashier of the bank has been appointed vice president and head cashier. The purchase price of the shares was alleged to be about $1,500 per share.
The bank sold off the consumer loans to Mellon Bank to allow it to qualify as a consumer bank. Congressman Tom Carper of Delaware fought legislation to make it illegal for businesses to purchase banks in the manner Sears has done and the same with JCPenney Co. which purchased the 1st National Bank of Harrington. If the legislation to be introduced again becomes law, Sears and other businesses will be forced to divest themselves of interest in banks.
Sears said they were forced to do it to bring more services to their customers, which may suggest that banks are not performing that function.

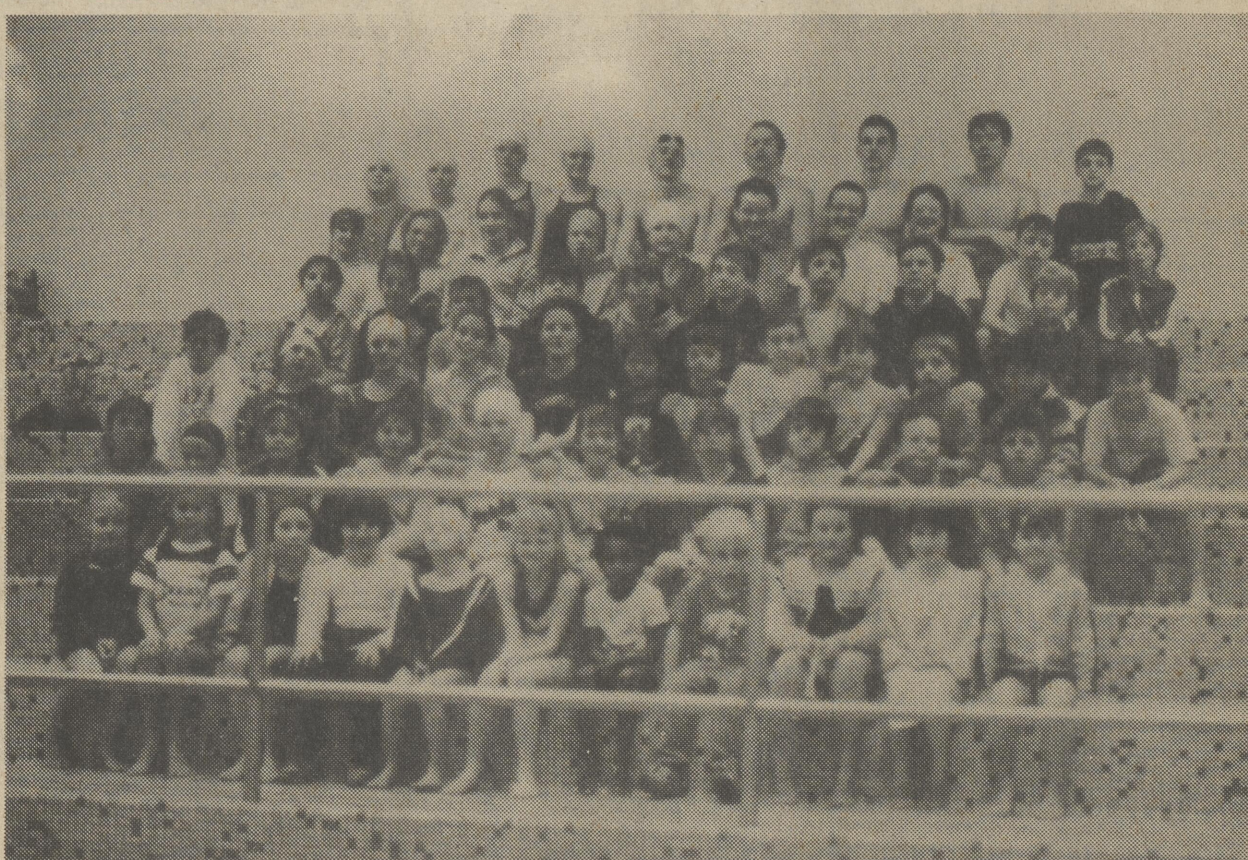

Row to Retire

Howard E. Row, a prominent Delaware school official for thirty years, retires from the State Department of Public Instruction March 30.
Dr. Row was assistant state superintendent from 1955 to 1981. He administered the phasing-out of the dual school systems in the middle 1960's and was chief architect of the 1968 Educational Advancement Act, which led to the statewide reorganization of districts.
He was founder of the James H. Groves Adult High School, which was the country's first free, statewide night school for adults. Some 17,000 students have been graduated from Groves since it opened in 1962.

Local drag racers cap '84 season with Gala

by Don Allen
U.S. 13 Dragway honored its stars of the 1984 season in a banquet held at the Delmar Fire Hall, Delmar, Del., Saturday, Jan. 19th. Those in attendance were treated to a fine roast beef and dumpling dinner following the JGRC Automotive Performance Center sponsored "happy hour".
The highlight of the evening, however, was the awards ceremony honoring the best of the best in the five cash classes and the two trophy classes that do battle on the Delmar asphalt. Emcee Charlie Cathell kicked off this portion of the event by awarding the Junior Division Trophy to Billy Groton of Seaford, Del. The Hot Rod Eliminator trophy was given next to Frank Lecates of Salisbury, Md. In the Pro Bike Division, the first of the "cash" division awarded, George Mosley was honored for his awesome victory. George, who hails from Cheswold, De., bested his closest challenger in the class by some 335 points; the largest win margin in any of the classes.
Steve Hitch and the Hitch Insurance Agency sponsored the trophies to honor the top eight drivers in the Street and Heavy Eliminator classes. Fred Neidlinger from Bridgeville, De.

captured the Street Division in the closest point battle of the season. He edged out Delmar, De.'s Leah Cordrey by a mere 20 points at their last meeting on the quarter-mile after she had led the points race all season.
Seaford, De.'s Bill Groton claimed the Heavy Division crown for his successful year behind the wheel of his "Crime Fighter" GTO. Bill is the father of Junior Division champ Billy Groton and his daughter Laurie also competes regularly at Delmar in the Hot Rod trophy division.
CARS (Custom Auto Racing Stores) sponsored the trophies for the two "muscle" divisions this year. In the Pro ranks Preston, Md.'s Dennis Larrimore, pilot of the "Hustler" Chevy took home that division's top honors besting the very stiff competition of second place finisher "Stormin'" Norman Layfield.
Karl Martel, driver for the Neely, Webb and Martel, North Dover Auto Imports, Super Pro Camaro, was the winner of the Super Pro division championship. This class was the most hotly contested of all the divisions in '84. Testament to this is the fact that in the top eight trophy recipients there Robby Reed of Lions-batting; Steven Coppick-catcher and Kevin Outten-pitcher, both of J.T.R.

Harrington Little League

Tryouts will be held on March 9th and March 16th "...both Saturdays between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Chipman Gym", said Lawson. The procedure follows last year's tryouts. "All new players must make at least one tryout or if you are moving up you must make one of the two tryouts", added Lawson. Physicals conducted on March 9th and 16th between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., "...but show up first in the Chipman Gym, and then we will go to Trinity for the physicals. Physicals are mandatory...at no cost to the players or their parents provided the physicals are done at the Little League times. "Otherwise the parents are responsible for their costs...and the evidence of the physicals will be required before a child can play or be drafted", added Lawson.
The Drafts will be conducted on March 18th by coaches and managers only for 9 to 12 year olds at Trinity Church from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. Senior League coaches and managers will conduct theirs from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the same location. Drafted players will be notified by a coach or manager.
Opening Day will be Saturday, May 4th with a parade beginning at 11:00 a.m. The teams and floats will assemble on Reese Avenue at 10:00 a.m. "All persons wanting to enter the parade may do so by just showing up", said Lawson. At 12:00 noon opening ceremonies will be held on the Senior League Field. At 1:00 p.m. games on all three fields will be held. Team pictures will be taken starting at 12:30 p.m.
Little League Sunday will be announced later. "This worked out real well last year where the players show up in uniform and all players who attend this function attend the same church", said Lawson.
Remember if you have never played before...or have played but did not come back the next year and are still under the age of 18, show up for the tryouts and you will be placed on a team.
For further information call Dave Lawson or any Little League parent. Lawson says there is a great need for mothers to get involved in Little League and support the Ladies Auxiliary "...which is the backbone of Little League". This year Hope Minner will be the new President of the Auxiliary. The duties of the Ladies Auxiliary are to take care of sign-ups, organize try-outs and physicals, become team mothers, charge of the concession stand operation where help is always needed, in charge of team pictures, and the fund raiser.
The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be Wednesday, Feb. 13th at Harrington Fire Co. in the upstairs hall at 7:30.

Delmarva Power announces refund

Delmarva Power and Light Company today announced before the Delaware Public Service Commission that it would voluntarily refund about $7.5 million to its Delaware retail electric customers because the Delaware economy, like the national economy, performed much better than anticipated in 1984.
In this strong economy, the company sold more electricity and thereby collected more money than expected.
For a residential customer using 750 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month, the refund will be about $20 or about 2.2% of 1984 billings. The refund will be mailed to customers in checks during March. A final audit of 1984 books is scheduled for completion during the second quarter. If more money is owed customers then, refunds will be credited on June bills.

"Since January 1982, the price of electricity in Delaware has increased less than 1% a year. In that three-year period, Delmarva Power's customers have benefitted from a rebounding economy, additional weather-related sales, and the company's programs to switch away from oil and reduce costs," said Paul S. Gerritsen, vice president, regulatory practice.

Smoke Free Day for Kent County High Schools

Approximately 5,000 students in five Kent County High Schools will celebrate Valentine's Day with a smoke-free day tomorrow.
The students pledged not to smoke as part of the Save A Sweet Heart (sash) program sponsored by the American Heart Association and Jobs for Delaware Graduates, Inc. Smokers pledged not to smoke on SASH Day and non-smokers pledged not to begin smoking within the next year.
Response to the program has been positive, according to J.D.G. Students running the event throughout Kent County.
"At first, some students didn't want to be involved," J.D.G. representatives said, "but as the week went on we've had more and more people pledge not to smoke. Even the smokers want to try quitting, at least for a day."
Students promoted the program by giving buttons that read "I'm Kissable, I Don't Smoke" to all students who make no-smoking pledges. Announcements promoting the program and tips to help students stop smoking were read on the public address system for the past 10 days in preparation for the program.
A set of five posters using the same tactics cigarette advertisers use to attract teenagers to smoking were hung throughout the school. The anti-smoking posters show happy, attractive non-smokers enjoying life while smokers look on.
The SASH program combats peer pressure to smoke and the effects of popular cigarette advertising, according to James Reber, local American Heart Association President.
"The program is entirely student-run, so students take pride in their success," Reber said. "Students can help each other stop smoking rather than pressuring each other to start. The anti-smoking posters remind students they don't have to smoke to enjoy life, contrary to what cigarette companies tell them."
Although smoking has declined since the mid-1970's, more than 54 million adults and three million teenagers continue to smoke. In 1979, 10.7 percent of boys and 12.7 percent of girls were regular smokers, the first time more girls than boys were reported smokers. Recent studies also show that an all-time high of 26 percent of females age 17-18 are smoking and 20 percent of all high school seniors are smokers.

believe he has a chance...I hope so for his sake," added Falasco.
It was Falasco who contributed so much to Murray getting in Cecil Community College...and it was Falasco who continued to urge him to come out for basketball. "Maybe not so much in that order," said Falasco.
Murray came out for basketball in his junior year at Lake. He averaged 15 points a game, made the Delaware All Star Team and ranked 8th in scoring in the conference. At Cecil he plays forward instead of center as he did at Lake. He is averaging 12.6 points a game at Cecil and 10 rebounds a game which is good enough for 6th in the conference in rebounding.
"Kevin is that kind of young man. He is only 6'3" which is not all that great, but again it is a testament to his ability and will to succeed. I think because of that he will make it", added Falasco.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I appreciate the support given me from the community in the matter concerning the religious book that I have been giving to all entering first graders in the Lake Forest School District.

It is my request that those of you who are contemplating a visit to the next Lake Forest School Board meeting on February 19th on my behalf refrain from doing so. The main reason for my request is that the situation is being handled peacefully according to the State rules barring distribution of any religious material in our schools. I intend to distribute the books each year, but I will do so in another manner. I will disclose that manner at a later time.

Again, I thank you for all the support given to me in this effort. God bless you all.

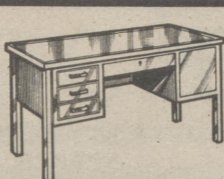

Sincerely,

EARL L. QUILLEN, JR.
Owner of Quillen's Market
Harrington, DE.

From the City Manager's Desk

by George Velenik, City Manager

Complaints have been received about the operation of 3 and 4 wheel "off the road" vehicles in Harrington.

The primary concern is that operating such vehicles on City alley-ways is a hazard to neighboring property owners and gravel and stone on the alleys is being thrown out on adjacent properties resulting in additional cost to the City.

Therefore, the following information is offered to both operators of such vehicles and their parents.

1. Under Delaware Traffic Law these vehicles shall not be driven on any roadway including alleys except under special registration provisions of the Motor Vehicle Laws.

2. Operators under the age of 19 must wear a helmet and eye protection, older operators must wear eye protection and have a helmet in their possession.

This information is offered in order to avoid hazard to property owners, especially those abutting on City alleys and to prevent undue cost to the City. It is also hoped that this information will eliminate the necessity for strict enforcement of the law against violation.

Additional information may be obtained from the Harrington Police Department or City Hall, 898-3530.

Gab Fest

by Pat Hatfield

Long, cold old January is about to pass into history. We will remember it with cold and snow and blustery winds, copying April with her flighty, changeable behavior. Not too often do we see thunder and lightning during a snowstorm!

The hot soups are having their day now in our kitchen. They are nourishing and comforting. We have run the gamut this month...beef, vegetable, bean, cream of asparagus and cream of broccoli. If there is no hot bread, cheese and crackers go nicely with this type of meal, with perhaps a fruit salad and a good dessert. One of our favorite salads is shredded cabbage with chopped apples and mandarin oranges. Grapes go in also if there are some in the kitchen and sometimes sliced or chopped bananas.

We cannot all have the same hobbies, of course, but I cannot feature anyone not liking to cook. It is so creative and so rewarding and it is not difficult either. Before I tried it, I used to think that homemade breads would have to be made by some expert in the cooking field. Not so! It is easy and simple and anybody can do it. And the results are worth it. Is there any fragrance in the world to compare with the aroma of bread baking in the oven. Better than Chanel #5 any day. Cheaper, too.

Speaking of breads, did you ever hear of Chocolate Yeast Rolls? I have a recipe to try and will report later. They would be nice with a big fruit salad on a summer day, wouldn't they?

Our birds have accepted the new feeder now. We were remarking the other day that we never see the Juncos or snowbirds any more. And that very day a neighbor said he had seen a flock of them at his friend's yard. We are all feeding the doves. Our neighbor says they take charge at his feeder and even fight off the Blue Jays. This surprises me because I thought doves were such meek little guys. Well, food when you are hungry can be a powerful stimulant.

We have a request from a Reader for a copy of the poem entitled "November" by Helen Hunt Jackson. I have searched through all my poetry books, my scrap books and my collection of old school Readers, but cannot find it. Some of it goes this way: "The leaves are fading and falling. The winds are rough and wild; The birds have ceased their calling. But let me tell you, my child; Though each day as it closes Doth darker and colder grow; the roots of the bright red roses are kept alive in the snow." Does anyone have this and would share it?

The really nice thing about the cold of winter is the warmth and comfort of our homes. So many of my friends and correspondents have spoken to me of this. Our house is a haven of peace, warmth, comfort and security as we view the outside world from the windows. I knew a carpenter once, a dear friend who has gone on, who would not consent to build a house unless the windows were put low enough that a child could see out. I think fondly of him as I look out my own windows and am thankful for them.

I see the great trees with their bare, black branches cracking in the bitter wind; I see the little Downy Woodpecker's bright red cap as he scurries up and down the old oak seeking his breakfast. At night I stand in awe of the great yellow moon shining through the branches. I look with love on the flock of doves on the ground underneath. They are little brown housewives, neat, and plump and domestic who have brought their husbands to partake of the food.

Remember last year I told you about the row of little gray sparrows sitting on the wire in front of the kitchen window? I shall probably never see this picture again, but it is etched forever on my memory. At supper time I watch the blazing glory of the sunsets, no two alike, almost frightening in their awesome majesty. And I say softly to myself... "What is Man that Thou are mindful of him."

Don't miss a moment of being alive.

Rotary Club News

At a recent meeting of Harrington Rotary, Mel Luff, past-president, gave a report of a holiday trip he and his wife made to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands where a son and his family live.

On their yacht, trips were made to other islands as well as a stay at Puerto Rico. Their stay was a memorable one, and they are looking forward to future trips now that he is retired as Deputy Superintendent for the Lake Forest School District.

The annual Shrove Tuesday pancake supper to be held at St. Stephens' Episcopal Church on Raughley-hill Road on February 19 is always looked forward to by club members. Plans are also in the preparatory stage for an inter-city meeting of Rotary clubs with the Harrington club acting as host. The time is tentatively scheduled for the end of March at the Colony Inn in Harrington.

The District Convention for Rotary District No. 763 is scheduled to be held on April 26, 27, and 28, at the Downingtown Inn. This should prove to be a very interesting experience for those who attend.

Harrington Rotary meets each Monday evening, throughout the year, at the Harrington Restaurant and Newsstand on Dorman Street, with Bill Smith as the current president. Membership is open to all who are interested in community service.

The Community Singers, Inc. to present "Annie"

"ANNIE RETURNS BY POPULAR DEMAND. When the Community Singers decided to present "Annie" last November, there was no doubt in their minds that this was the type of show for family entertainment.

The public has been reading "Annie" comic strips, it seems like forever, and never was there a time that the story of Little Orphan Annie would fade. There seemed to be a message behind this story for many, many years, long before it hit the stage, where it was set to music. The lyrics, by Martin Charnin, have become part of life itself. You hear people everywhere singing "Tomorrow" wherever one travels. The public response to "Annie" last November told the Community Singers that the show was a success. Audiences were made up of all ages and came from miles around. With all this in mind the Singers decided to present three more performances of "Annie", giving you an opportunity to see this great musical play.

Annie is portrayed by Emily Almond, Warbucks by Don Dean, Grace by Trudy Ruehrmund, Miss Hannigan by Marge Bailey, Rooster by Bob Castro, Lily by Marsha Raque' Wilson, Drake by Paul Janiga, Bert Healy by David R. Thank All Volunteers! Smile! "I am wealthy in my friends". Shakespear. Like Shaky, we too at the Center are wealthy indeed to have friends to be proud of!! Happy Birthday February Folk!

Rev. Kyle Smith of Asbury United Methodist Church was leader of Bible Study Monday morning. Opening and closing prayers by Rev. Smith; he also read several poems pertaining to New Years. He took as the study Mark 10 verses 17-24. Those enjoying the service and piano music by Virginia Smith were Annabel Morrow, Mamie Adams, Jo Burke, Marion Brown, Gladys Hill, Sylvia Meredith, Elwood Morris, Mary Sapp, Frances Wright, Thelma Legates, Ola Tilden, Catherine Donovan and Etzel McCready.

Jolly Timers were on hand in spite of snow and cold to heat up the Center—for it is so nice to have them perform. The kitchen band puts a tap to your toe a sparkle to your eyes and a smile on your face. They are just plain lovely people to be around. Come on in and join in the fun! That's every Tuesday.

"Senior Sounds" are another group that brings joy to the Center every Wednesday. Sylvia Meredith directing, Virginia Smith at the piano. Participating were Julia Ashfolk, Catherine Stevens, Mildred Vincent, Sylvia, Cecil Meredith, Frances Wright, Virginia Smith, Mary Sapp, Mamie Adams, Etzel McCready, Elwood Morris, Gladys Hill, Ola Tilden, Amy Poynter and Thelma Legates.

Under Sixty Volunteer Salute was Wednesday afternoon. Our Director, Gene Price, gave those members that were here a welcome and a certificate and all you gave them a firm applause—Thank You!!!

Herbert Von Goerres gave a talk on First Aid. To say it was interesting and informative is putting it mildly, he gave it pleasantly—understandingly in plain old english—Great! Everyone truly were glad they had heard him. The pool room is alive and well. The men challenged each other in games. It is almost as much fun to listen to them as it is for them to play!

Several trips are in the making. Calendars were made up and mailed out. Kathryn Smith-Beauty Class-a delightful change. Come on in and see the results and help out if you are or have been a beautician. Bingo is always a first rate pastime at the Center.

If you have a poem you would like to share-why not recite it over the loud speaker before lunch. How about a duet by a couple of you men, before lunch. Put us in a pleasant frame of mind to enjoy the repast sent down by Modern Maturity Center which is always tasty and you don't have to cook it yourself. Isn't that a great part of sharing dinner time. It is so very fantastic to eat, talk and smile all at the same time at the Harrington Senior Center each and every day - five days a week.

The Center was open Thursday but I did not venture out. There were seventeen present for dinner tho and of course some of the homebouds were given their dinner.

This is my version of Thursday, January 31, 1985: The snow is softly drifting to the sidewalk and the road—

My neighbors homes are beautiful with snow piled yews and the pines. The roofs are gently outlined with a fluffy snowy load.

The Boyd's pretty pastel reminds me of a picture perfect card and Mr. Gleasens nestled in the pines is truly a sin to disturb, his is, the roof of the A Line. Take Rev. and Mrs. Watsons home, seems well protected by the towering TV antenna, the snow covered trees standing straight and tall in the front yard and the small evergreen holding the home close to the ground. I glanced out of my window to see my neighbor Smith.

Found to my surprise a graceful forsythia, slightly overgrown, but dripping with snow, looked for all the world like a fountain out of fairy land.

The two huge pines were no longer pines but gorgeous homes for birds and their families.

My neighbors Josie, Bill and Earl and Margaret homes looked like the "Night Before Christmas" when all thru the neighbor, they were all snuggled in, The Messicks and Purnells were an addition to the entire picture, of our neighborhood for as far as I could look from my front window and side door. The other homes were faint images in the beautiful falling snow, but O how glad you were there.

Sorry for those who had to brave the elements but just had to enjoy the gorgeous array, set before me all done, by Gods hand.

Best wishes to all. Be kind to each other. Remember there is shopping, bingo, pool, arts & crafts, ceramics, friends and lots of good humor! Faith.

Men's team wins Ames team Championship at Dover Downs

DOVER, DE—The men's team captured the team championship of the Ames Discount Department Stores All-Star Championship Series Driving Series Sunday afternoon (January 27) at Dover Downs in Dover, Delaware. They did it despite coming up short of the women's team in the win column two wins to one.

Linn Truitt drove Sail Forward to victory in the first race of the three race series to help the women's team gain a 65-44 point advantage.

The men totally dominated the second race with Joe Dugan, Jr. in the bike behind Mar Con Resister and grabbed the point lead 117-101.

Colby Hubble scored for the women's team in the final with Shore Mirado but second, third, fourth and fifth place finishes by the men prevented the women from closing the gap. The final score was 167-160. Competing with Dugan on the men's team were Whitey Moore, Walt Callahan and Robert Shahan. Women's team members were Truitt, Hubble, Kathy Boscher and Kay Gannon.

The featured $2,500 trot Sunday went to Hi Jennie (Ron Poore) in 2:04.3 while Keystone Smyrna (Roger Bot-sch) and Kajam Patrick (Robert Kinsey) won do-featured $2,000 paces.

Racing continues at Dover Downs through March 23. Post times are 8 p.m. Tuesday, Friday and Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday.

Sports Round-Up

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

JV Girls Basketball (Coach Amy Anderson)- The girls won both games this past week downing Cape 36-34 and Smyrna 31-29. "We were 6 points down in the 3rd quarter but had it cut to 3 by the end of that quarter...and we came on the fourth quarter to win it going away", said Anderson. Africa Bell who has led the team all year had 11 with Amy McClements and Melanie Pelton getting 8 each. Smyrna was the only team to bet the Spartans in conference play up until the game on Friday. "The entire team played well...it was a real team effort. Melanie Pelton scored 8 for me with Africa getting 7 and Denise Smith 6", said Anderson.

JV Boys Basketball (Coach Chester Scott)- The boys lost one game last week. The team is now weakened by the loss of Steve Sipple and Rickie Brown to two quarters because they have moved to the varsity level. "You might say we were out-personnelled in the Cape game (74-37). They just had to much depth for us. Stacey Bordley gave a real team effort and scored a high of 15 points as well as being the point guard", said Scott. Steve Sipple was held scoreless, "which hurt us because we can always depend on Steve...but they just shut him down inside", added Scott. In the Smyrna game, the Spartans rebounded to take Smyrna 39-37. "We just barely made it as Smyrna narrowed the margin in the fourth quarter. See...we loose Steve (Sipple) and Rickie (Brown) in the last two quarters. They play two quarters with the Varsity", said Scott. We were just evenly matched with Smyrna. Sipple was voted the Athlete of the month.

Varsity Girls Basketball (Pat Dyal)- The girls lost a heart breaker to Cape on Tuesday night (50-45). "We were just flat...I guess is the way you can sum it up. Our shooting was off very badly", according to Coach Dyal. The Spartans were never really out of it...outscored Cape in all quarters but one. The flow of the game seemed to make Cape out the big winner...which was not the case. The Spartans were still in it right up until the end. "We never really established a rhythm. They played us man to man and did a real good job on the inside of shutting us down", said Dyal. The Spartans also out-rebounded Cape "...but everyone seemed to have an off night", added Dyal. In the Smyrna game which Lake won 41-35, the shooting percentage again was "...horrible. We only shot 23% from the floor...we were 17 for 64, which is probably the very worst we have ever done...that I can remember", said Dyal. Teresa Taylor with 10 and Carolyn Browne with 19 lead the way for the Spartans, who face their stiffest test this week with Sussex Central.

Varsity Boys Basketball (Bill Falasco)- The boys lost both games this past week. Weakened from the loss of two players, the Spartans dropped games to Cape and Smyrna by lopsided scores. "We have a new team now...and we have to start building from scratch", said Falasco. "The Cape game was somewhat of

Used cars are sometimes the best bargain

FOR SALE: Winston Cup Grand National Chevrolet. A Daytona and Talladega winner. Never wrecked. Less than 10,000 miles. Call Waddell Wilson, Charlotte, N.C.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Would you buy a used car from Harry Ranier? Greg Sacks did. In fact, he bought two. Bill Venturini bought one. Larry McClure bought one.

"We had no use for them," said Wilson. "Might as well sell 'em."

Ranier's winning stable of Chevrolets became expendable when he, crew chief Wilson and driver Cale Yarborough signed a lucrative three-year deal with Ford for the 1985 season.

"It's expensive, but it's a way of getting a proven car," says Sacks, a middle-of-the-pack man in 1984 who hopes the ex-Yarborough cars move him into the front ranks in 1985. "I know I'm driving a car that can win a race. Trouble is, Cale doesn't come with the deal, so we have to see if Greg Sacks can win."

It will be the same situation for Joe Ruttman, who drives for McClure in the Folger's Coffee Chevrolet. And Venturini will be trying for his first ARCA Superspeedway victory in one.

The four Chevrolets are among the legion of "ex" cars still on the tracks. If a slick-looking Chevrolet shows up in an ARCA race, it may be an ex-Darrell Waltrip machine, or the Ford in a Grand National race may have been a good buy from the Bill Elliott stable of used cars.

As the top teams build new equipment for the new year, of change brands, the old race cars go on the block.

Many end up running in the Automobile Club of America series, as the rules are similar.

"Our guys can buy a Grand National car that's three years old and still have three years of eligibility left with it," says official Ron Drager. "Usually, it's cheaper to buy an ex-Grand National car than build a new one, and you're getting a proven quantity."

"The going rate ranges from $10-20,000. That's a pretty good deal."

When the ARCA 200 lines up on February 10 for the annual Daytona show, the field will include:

-- A Yarborough Chevrolet in the hands of Venturini, whose Chicago car wash apparently was profitable enough to allow him to plunk out a reported $22,000 to make the buy.

-- A former Ron Bouchard Buick for Dennis Devea of Joliet, Ill.

-- Two ex-Roger Hamby Grand National cars, one for Scott Stovall and the other for Richard Hampton.

-- One of Bill Elliott's 1982 Ford Thunderbirds for former Grand National driver Ralph Jones of Upton, Ky.

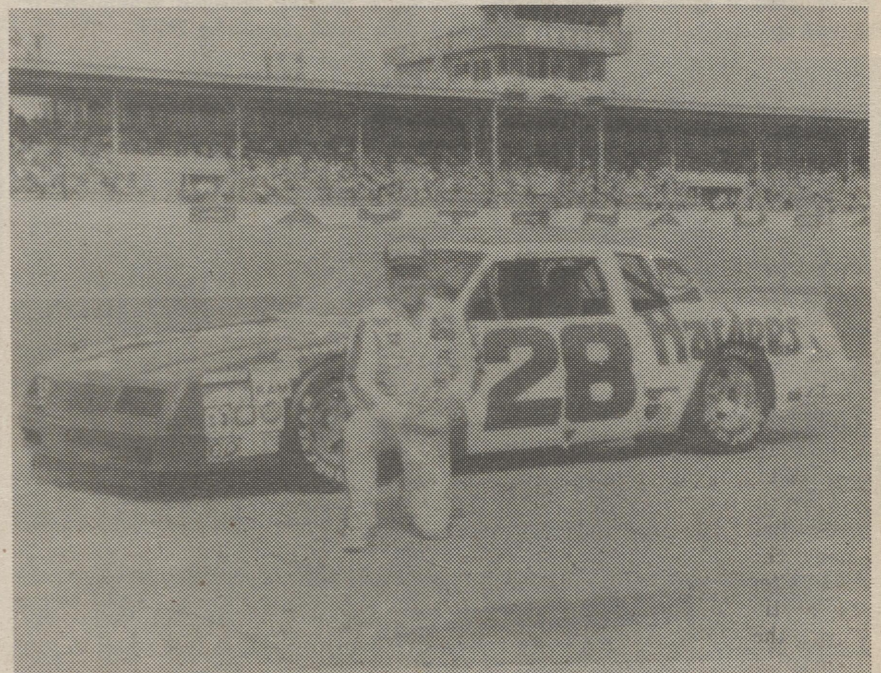

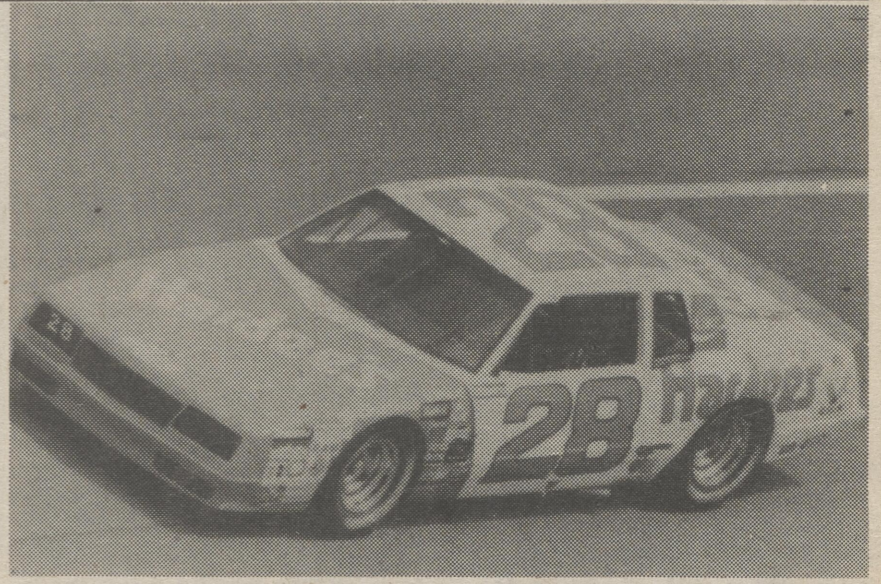

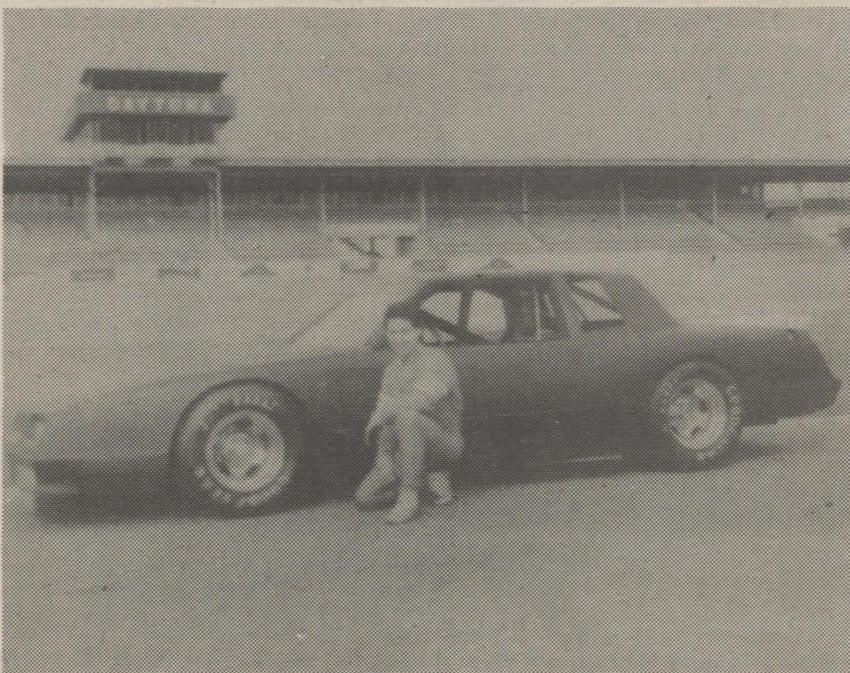

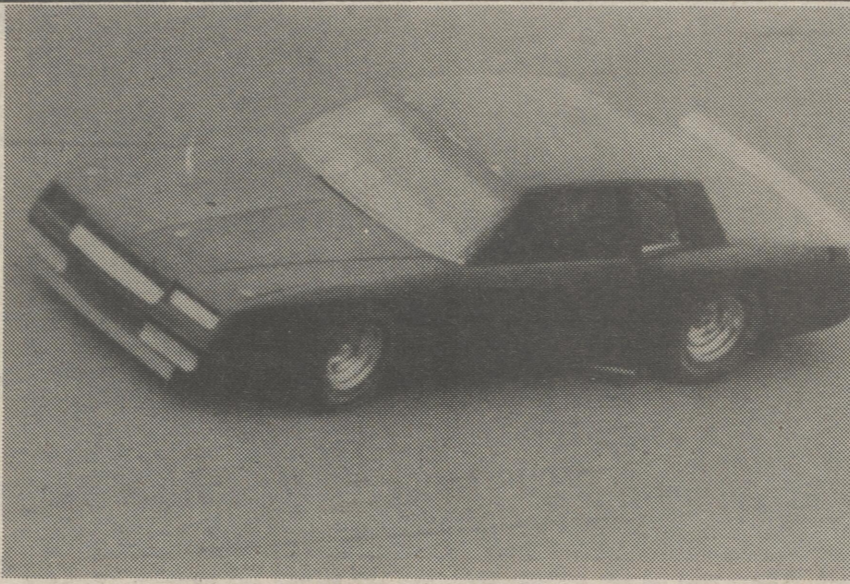

-- ARCA champion Bob Dotter in a 1981 Pontiac that Bobby Allison once drove for the DiGard team.

-- And two ex-Ron Benfield team cars, once sponsored by Levi Garrett and now bearing the paint of Rose Racing (for Howard Rose) and Race Glaze (Bob Brevak).

"The Late Model Sportsman division used to be full of ex-Grand National cars, but the rules changed and that isn't the case anymore," says NASCAR's Andy Hall.

Still, with the growth of stock car racing, there's still a good market for last year's cars.

But there are few around like Cale's Chevrolets.

SAME CAR, DIFFERENT FACES...It's the same car in the same place, but at very different times. The top panels show Cale Yarborough wheeling the Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS to a Daytona International Speedway qualifying record of 201.848 miles per hour in February and then posing with the Busch pole winner before a Daytona crowd. At left, Greg Sacks tests at Daytona recently, then poses before empty grandstands. Sacks purchased the car from Yarborough's team in the off-season.

Bobby Allison's illustrious career races into third decade

This is the second installment in a three-part series on the career of Bobby Allison. The legendary race driver will mark his 30th year behind the wheel of a race car when he competes in the Feb. 17 Daytona 500.

Bobby Allison and his family had just relocated from Florida to Hueytown, Ala. The young driver was beginning to make a name for himself on tracks throughout the Southeast. Racing was undergoing a major transformation as tracks were changing and cars were becoming more sophisticated. Allison was at the forefront of the changes and, to many people, he was the man to beat.

"During the early sixties, several of the superspeedways were built and many of the short tracks were changing," said Allison. "Dirt tracks were changing to asphalt and by the late sixties, it appeared that the modifieds that Red Farmer, Donnie (Allison) and I had been racing in the Hueytown area would be replaced on the local level by the late-model-type cars. We won the national level title for the modifieds in 1964 and 1965, but knew if we wanted to continue to advance in this sport, we had to focus our efforts on the Grand Nationals."

Allison first attempted Grand National racing in 1961 at Daytona when he piloted Ralph Stark's 1960 Chevrolet to a 31st-place finish from a 39th place start. He entered two other Grand National events that year, but never made it to the top 10 in any of them. He collected a mere $650.

Allison won the 1962 and 1963 Modified Special Championships and then claimed the 1964 and 1965

National Modified titles. He returned to the Grand National scene in 1965 and drove his Ed Partin/Robert Harper backed 1964 Ford in eight races. He had three top-10 finishes and won $4,780.

"I was determined to make it in the Grand Nationals," said Allison. "I knew it was the future and I was already used to all the traveling from our runs at the modified championships. I figured I might as well go full-time into the Grand Nationals."

Allison started in 34 events during the 1966 season -- his first full year on the circuit. He started the season driving a 1966 Ford backed by Betty Lilly and prepared in the Hueytown shop with the help of his brothers. He finally broke into the win column at Oxford Plains, Maine, later that year behind the wheel of a new 1964 Chevelle. Driving the Chevelle, Allison went on to add two more wins that season. He won four pole positions and had 14 top-10 finishes, picking up $21,850.

"Being able to show the people involved in the sport that I was a capable driver and a winner was probably more important than the satisfaction of winning races," said Allison. "It was necessary for my career."

His success gave Allison the opportunity to drive for other owners. For the next four years, in addition to driving his own cars in 78 races (posting six wins and 50 top 10 finishes), Allison drove for such notable car owners as Cotton Owens, Bud Moore, Nord Krauskopf, Holman-Moody, Bill Ellis and Mario Rossi. He won 10 races and placed in the top 10 more than 60 times.

"It was definitely a learning process for me," said Allison. "It allowed me to create some good relationships along the way."

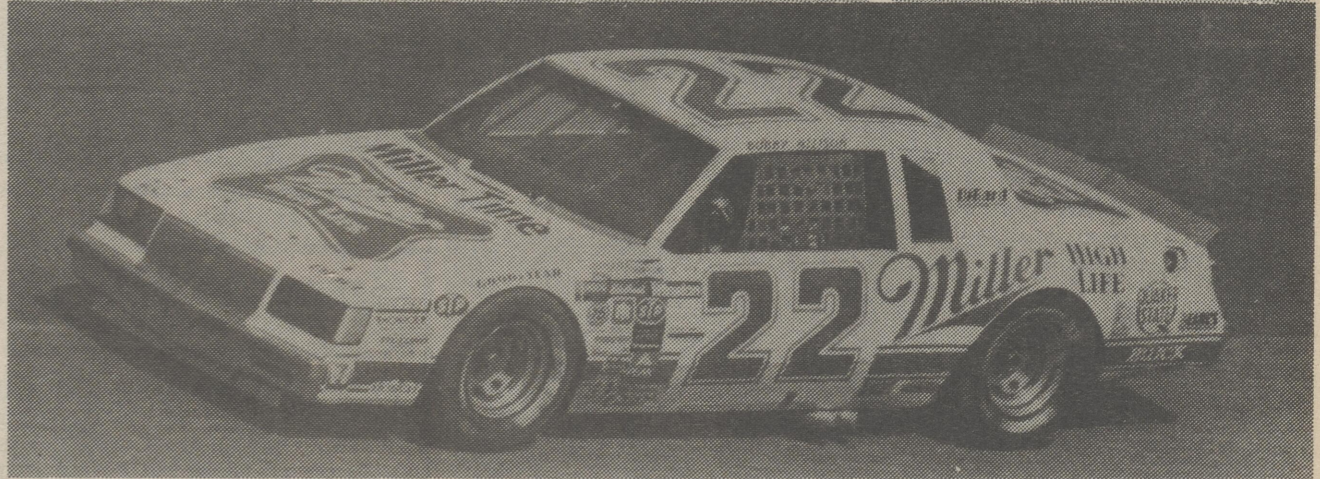

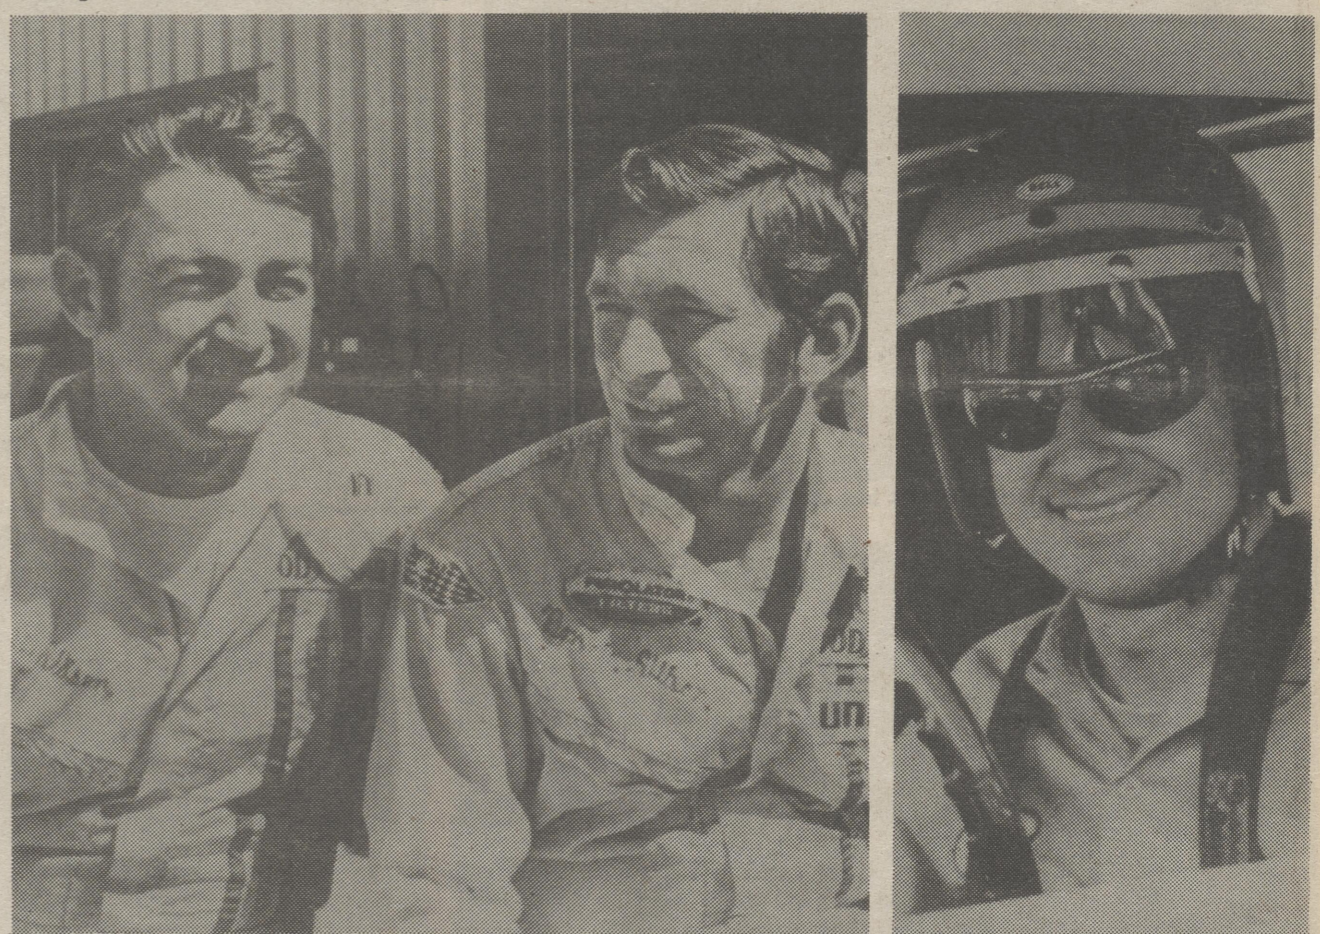

Among the relationships was a strong one with John Holman and Ralph Moody. "We had teamed for four races before the 1971 season and had an incredible record," said Allison. "We won three of the four and finished in the top five in all of them. Back during that time, if you won more than $20,000 in only four races, you had accomplished a miracle...and that's what we did."

The team was looking for a driver who could produce and they found it in Allison. He ran the Holman-Moody Mercury in 22 races during the 1971 season. He won eight races and finished in the top 10 an incredible 19 times. This success, coupled with two wins in his own Dodge, produced Allison's first $200,000 season. It was also a season in which he earned the first of six Most Popular Driver awards for his exemplary behavior on and off the track.

Allison ran all 31 NASCAR Winston Cup races in 1972 in the Junior Johnson-prepared Coca-Cola Chevrolet. Many racing enthusiasts refer to that season as the most successful ever for any team. Allison drove to 10 wins, 11 pole positions, 25 top-five finishes and 27 top-10 finishes. Team winnings totaled $271,395, almost $50,000 ahead of Richard Petty, who edged Allison for the national driving championship that year.

"Junior and I, despite the success, just couldn't communicate and that is the main reason we separated after the 1972 season," said Allison. "Our relationship just didn't gel like previous relationships with other owners had, and I think we both knew it was best if we parted ways."

Unable to develop a full-time ride with an existing team for the 1973 season, Allison fielded his own car for 27 races on the Winston Cup circuit. In addition, he spent much of his free time with his successful short-track racing operation. In spite of having to be on his own, Allison went on to win two Grand National events and more than $100,000.

Bobby Allison, driver of the Miller High Life/DiGard Buick, celebrates 30-years behind the wheel of a race car with the February 17 running of the Daytona 500. Allison, who began his racing career using an alias to avoid letting his parents know, has won 81 NASCAR races and over $5 million in his career.

[Allison's career had reached another valley. From a winning combination with Holman-Moody and Junior Johnson to running his own cars, Allison's career was still winding along the bumpy road. The next installment deals with his progress through the seventies and into the eighties.]

a disaster, but the Smyrna game...we outscored them in the second half. We missed easy shots and we turned the ball over 32 times in the game...which you just can't do and win", added Falasco. From the two games Falasco says that "...the new players like James Hicks...who is a real accurate shooter...and Bruce Mosley, who can handle the ball have to get a little more confidence, and the team concept of working together."

Varsity Wrestling (Coach Tom Shaffer) - The team is now 5-4 overall and 4-4 in the conference. "But this is the best team I have ever coached as far as standout players go. There are more good individuals on this team than any other I have coached", he said. Heavyweight Kermit Mosley is now 9-0, Frank Wilson 8-1, with 7 pins, Kenny Outten 8-1-1, Mark Wilson at 155 is 5-3 with all three losses very, very close, "...and are ones he can potentially beat in the Conference championships, Scott Fleming at 8-1 with his only loss to State defending champ Lance Minor of CR, "...and again Scott has had 7 pins, Steve Sheline at 93 pounds...considerably lower than the class suggests at 98." "But he will move up next year...he will be bigger and stronger...as well as more experienced. I am proud of him". Derek Dill has moved up two classes this year after wrestling 98 last year. He gets out-muscled to be sure...but one of these days it is all going to come together for him...and that height, which can be a real advantage when rolling an opponent over. He will get it yet. Mike can be a knee operation and he is just behind everyone. But he will catch up hopefully by the conference championships. The operation set him back to be sure. Kevin Wix is a freshman...and as such usually what befalls the freshman...even though Kevin is strong...is that they get outmuscled by the upper classmen, which is what is happening to Kevin. Coming up from the JV for next year...we have Pat Sullivan who is undefeated and David Dix who has lost only one bout. "Overall this is a fine bunch of young men. They are easy to coach...they are good students...and it is a pleasure to have them on the team", added Shaffer.

were two ties, one for second and third between the Ennis and Bastianelli Racing Teams, and for sixth and seventh between Harrison and Johnson Racing and the team of Truitt and Willard.

Following the trophy presentations the champs of the five "cash" classes were called on once again to be given their personalized Firestone/Centerville racing jackets. Jack Harrison and J & S Automotive also awarded all the champs with personalized, satin Dragway Jackets. D&L Photos of Seaford, De. honored the seven champions with desk sets to commemorate their victories.

Two practice periods will be held at the great Nazareth Raceway on Sat.,

Immediately after the awards ceremonies Dave Bishop of Competition Photos treated the crowd to an excellent slide show highlighting the '84 season at U.S. 13. Dave also aired his video "A Day At The Races" that he shot at the Delmar speedplant over the course of the season.

For the remainder of the evening the celebrants were entertained by the refined rock stylings of "The Venturas" featuring Ron Payne and Doug Westfall. The Snow Hill, Md. based group's mixture of late '60's and early '70's rock, contemporary rock and a dash of country added the perfect finishing touch to a champions' event.

Maintenance and Care of Equipment

The servicing and repair of furnaces usually require the attention of a serviceman. Homeowners can do some regular servicing and maintenance to keep the system operating efficiently. For safety, always keep the area around the furnace free of flammable material. Things the homeowner should check regularly are:

Air Filters. Check the air filters of hot air heating systems every 6 weeks during the heating and cooling season. Clogged filters reduce airflow. This reduces effectiveness and increases energy bills. Some filters may be washed. Others must be replaced.

Electric Motors. Follow the manufacturer's instructions for lubricating motor and blower bearings. Some bearings are permanently sealed and need no lubrication. Others need three to six drops of light motor oil every six months. Over oiling can damage a motor. Be sure oil holes are capped to keep dirt out. Wipe off excess oil or grease. Use clean rags to wipe dirt off the motor and clean ventilation

Buying Wood

Amount

Buying wood is not always a simple matter. Either you buy your wood from a dealer that you trust implicitly or you must become an educated consumer either by choice or by trial and error. Let's assume that you would prefer not to "get burned" before the wood gets into your stove and begin your education here. Five choices present themselves when buying wood: the amount of wood, the species, the moisture content, the degree of preparation, and finally, the price.

Standard Cord

Wood is sold by standard units of measurement. A standard or full cord is a volume of 128 cubic feet, measured as a pile 8 feet long, 4 feet high, and 4 feet wide. Actually, there are only about 80-90 cubic feet of wood in such a pile; the rest is air space. A full cord will weigh about 3,000 pounds when dry or over two tons when wet.

Face or Short Cord

A face cord is a pile of wood 8 feet long, 4 feet high, and as wide as the lengths of the wood cut, usually 12, 16 or 24 inches. A face cord is always less than a full cord and should be priced less. A face cord of 24-inch logs is half the volume of a full cord, a 16-inch face cord is one third the volume, and a 12-inch face cord is only one fourth the volume.

A "Truck load" is a vague term dependin on hou big the dealer's truck is. A standard pickup will only hold one-third to one-half of a full cord. Beware of what the dealer claims to be "about" a cord, delivered in a half-ton pickup truck! If you have doubts about its real volume, stack the wood before you pay.

It is reasonable to expect small variations in the size of wood piles. Remember that usually a dealer measures and stacks the wood in the forest, and once it is cut, split, and restacked it may pack into slightly less volume. Most dealers are local people who have a reputation to protect and will correct substantial shortages. It is, however, illegal to deliver less wood than is advertised and paid for. Your state consumer protection agency enforces laws to protect you against unscrupulous dealers. Call them if you think you have been cheated.

Species

The most important species characteristic that we should be concerned with is the heating value. Certain species of wood are denser, and when burned give off more heat; consequently these are more desirable. Generally wood is either characterized into hardwoods or softwoods, but there is a wide range of heating values among all types of wood. Buyers should note the relative heating values and pay less for species with lower values. Most wood dealers do not take time to segregate the wood grades. It is usually cut and piled as it falls. It is to your benefit to recognize fire wood by the bark so you can determine the value of the wood. A cord with a good mix of wood grades is not a bad buy; it is handy to have some of the lower quality wood on hand for use as kindling, and for heating on warmer days.

Moisture Content

Wood is usually advertised as green or seasoned. Seasoned or dry wood will give you more heat and start burning more easily, so it is preferred.

Wood that has been thoroughly dried in an oven and burned under laboratory conditions yields a heating value of about 8600 BTU per pound. But wood never dries that well naturally, and wood that is wet has a reduced heating value because a certain amount of energy is required to evaporate the moisture before the wood will burn. The greater the amount of moisture in the wood, the more heat is lost in the evaporation process when the wood is burned.

Well seasoned or air-dry wood can have a moisture content as low as 25 percent. At this moisture level 4 percent of the energy is lost in the evaporation process (as compared with over-dried wood). Green wood typically has a moisture content of at least 80 percent. At this moisture level over 15 percent of the heating value is lost! Obviously, you will get more energy out of your wood if you burn it after it has been well seasoned.

"Seasoned" is a vague term, so be sure and pin down how long it has been since the wood has been cut. It should have been seasoned at least six months. Many people buy their wood in the spring or early summer to be sure it will get the proper seasoning before winter, and because they are buying in the off season they usually get a lower price to boot.

Degree of Preparation

Preparing wood is labor intensive, and the price is largely dependent on how much work you are willing to do yourself. If you want to have your firewood split into fine pieces and stacked near your doorstep, expect to openings. An accumulation of dust and dirt on the motor acts as insulation and may cause overheating.

Fan Belt. A fan belt that's too tight causes excessive wear on the bearings. If it is too loose, it will slip, increasing belt wear and reducing blower efficiency. Allow a 3/4-inch depression in the belt for each foot of distance between shaft pulleys when the belt is pressed with a finger midway between the pulleys. Check belt tension and alignment every 6 weeks when the air filters are inspected. If a new belt is needed, purchase the proper size and length. When installing a new belt, release the takeup adjustment on the motor and do not roll the belt onto the pulley. Check the vanes on the fan and remove accumulated dirt.

Helpful Hints on Saving Energy

Weather-strip and caulk around all entrance doors and windows to limit air filtration which could account for 15 to 30 percent of space-conditioning energy requirements.

Locate the heating thermostat on the inside wall and away from windows and doors. Cold drafts will cause the thermostat to keep the system running even when the rest of the house is warm enough.

Set the heating thermostat as low as comfort permits. Each degree over 68F can add three percent to the amount of energy needed for heating; each degree below 68F can save about the same.

Close heating vents and radiator valves in unused rooms. Consider making one of the new microwave ovens your next major appliance purchase. Microwave ovens draw only about half the power of their counterparts in standard electric ranges and for a much shorter period of time.

Locate water heaters as close to the points of hot water use as possible. The reason for this is that any hot water that remains in a supply pipe after a tap or valve is closed, eventually cools off and is wasted. The longer the supply pipe, the more heat lost.

Letting the water run while shaving or when washing dishes by hand is a needless waste. Avoid this by using sink stoppers and dishpans.

Have your furnace checked once a year to make sure the unit is as efficient as possible.

Don't set the thermostat at a warmer setting than normal when you first turn the heat up; the house will not warm up faster.

Close the damper when you're not using the fireplace so that warm room air does not escape up the chimney.

Install glass doors on your fireplace to reduce heat loss up the chimney. You can still enjoy the warmth of the fire.

Buying Wood

pay a premium price. If you want to go the cheapest route, cut the wood yourself from standing trees. Wood can be bought in almost any stage between these extremes.

It is fairly common to buy wood in 4- or 16-foot lengths and do some of the cutting and splitting yourself. Wood delivered in this form usually costs about half that of wood cut and split, but involves about 8 hours of hard work. There are no real "deals" in buying wood, just exchange of your sweat for the dealer's sweat. But, if you enjoy cutting and splitting wood as many people do, you can be paid handsomely for your recreation. Other sources of wood may include scavenging the local tree dump, picking up windfalls on the roadside, buying broken pallets at a local mill or warehouse, purchasing ends, slabs and other waste from a local sawmill, buying cutting rights from a private landowner (many times done as shares—one cord for you and one for him), and cutting wood on State and Federal lands under the "Cut a Cord Program." The possibilities are endless. The only determinant is one's ambition and resourcefulness.

To find out about opportunities in your area, call the local office of your state forester.

Prices for the same types of wood vary from place to place according to the labor costs, transportation costs, and supply, and the demand. Shop around, try to buy when the demand is low and be sure you understand exactly what you are buying.

A rule of thumb for determining the comparison between wood and oil: Hardwood fuel should be no higher (in dollars per cord) than 1 1/4 times the price of oil (in cents per gallon). Thus wood at $120 per cord equates with oil at 80 cents per gallon.

Lower Temperatures and Save $$$

Providing hot water for your home consumes a lot of electricity. In fact, for a family of four, an electric water heater consumes about 600 kilowatt-hours monthly, making it the largest user of power...if you don't have electric heat.

Saving hot water then, especially for a family with children, is serious business.

As with anything else, the best way to save energy is simply to use less. An of course, insure that what you do use is not inadvertently wasted.

Here are some of the best ideas when it comes to saving hot water.

Is Your Hot Water Too Hot?

The temperature of the water in your home may be in excess of what you actually need.

It is hard to pinpoint what the temperature should be for each family but here are some general guidelines on temperature.

For homes with dishwashers we recommend 140 degrees. [Check dishwasher manufacturer specifications.]

For families without a dishwasher, we recommend 120 degrees.

Showers can use a lot of hot water. Besides simply taking shorter showers, however, there's a simple and effective way to reduce your consumption of both water and energy.

With all the cold-water detergents on the market these days, it'll pay you to give them a try. But even if you don't switch to cold-water detergents...here are some facts that may encourage you to take a second look at how you use that washing machine. An average load of laundry consumes about 4.2 kilowatt-hours for a hot water wash and a warm water rinse. If you switch to a warm water wash and a warm water rinse, you can cut that use by 1/3. If you go with a warm water wash with a cold rinse, that'll cut use by almost 2/3rds.

There are some amazing cases where a great deal of electricity was going down the drain because of a leaky faucet. Consult a good handyman manual for how to change washers, etc. Keep in mind that a hot water leak of only 60 drops per minute will waste 192 gallons of water and 49 kilowatt-hours per month!

Don't Forget Safety with Kerosene Heaters

As days and nights grow cooler, sales of Kerosene heaters are booming once again. These appliances are dangerous when used carelessly, reminds Delaware extension garden and home improvement agent, Dr. Willie G. Adams, so keep the following points in mind:

* Keep the carton your heater comes in for out-of-season storage. Or use a large, vinyl household trash can to protect it from dust and dirt.

* Read and follow the manufacturer's guidelines for the care and operation of your heater.

* Remember that good fuel means good performance. Use only K-1 Kerosene.

* Store kerosene in a cool, dry place, away from direct sunlight and out of children's reach.

* Never add fuel while your heater is operating or hot.

* When filling the heater, never set the kerosene can lower than the heating tank.

* The wick is the most critical part of the heater. Follow the owner's manual for specific care instructions.

* Never trim a fiberglass wick.

* Never place your heater within 3 feet of combustible material such as furniture, draperies or clothing.

* Never leave the heater burning unattended. Turn it off before leaving the house or going to sleep.

* Always use the heater in a well ventilated area to avoid risk of asphyxiation.

* Never allow children to operate or refuel the heater.

* Don't use the heater as a dryer.

* Never use a portable kerosene heater in a moving vehicle.

For further information on kerosene heater safety, contact the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service at the following locations: the University of Delaware in Newark; Delaware State College; Frear Federal Building in Dover; University of Delaware Substation in Georgetown.
