

Survey for Community Organization Project

A survey on the needs of Harrington has been completed by Mrs. Eleanor Cain and Mrs. Jane Everline of Harrington and submitted to the City Council. Chief among the needs for the community was "something for the youth in the form of a youth center."

As a result of our survey through the business people and other adults of Harrington and asking the question, "What do you see as the major 'need' in the community?, our No. 1 reply was 'something for our youth such as a teen center.'"

We then went to W.T. Chipman Jr. High School where the average 7th and 8th grade student is between 12 and 14. We wanted to survey the 507 students to see if they supported this idea. This was done during our recent flu season when absenteeism was high. We did receive 342 replies back which is 67% of 507. 143 students from the Harrington area answered the survey which is 42% of the 342. On the survey the No. 1 question was, "Would you be interested in having a youth center in your community?" 134 students answered yes which is 93% 9 students or 7% answered no. Our No. 2 question was, "If you would like a youth center, please rate the following activities using the scale below."

1. I would attend regularly.
 2. I would attend occasionally.
 3. I would seldom attend.
 4. I would not attend.
- Arcade
 - Bowling
 - Non-Alcoholic Disco
 - Ping Pong
 - Movies
 - Shuffleboard
 - Skating Rink
 - Tournaments (Ping Pong, Bowling, etc.)
 - Other (please specify)
- Of the 93% who support a youth center, the following were the most desired:

42% would support skating rink; 54% on a regular basis. 41% would support movies; 46% on a regular basis. 38% would support arcade; 37% on a regular basis.

Other activities which would be supported to a lesser degree are: bowling, disco, ping pong, tournaments and shuffleboard.

Since such a center would draw from Felton and Frederica because of our combined school system, we also tallied the youths' results from these communities.

FELTON: 42% would support skating rink; 58% on a regular basis. 41% would support movies; 55% on a regular basis. 41% would support arcade; 59% on a regular basis.

FREDERICA: 46% would support skating rink; 66% on a regular basis. 45% would support movies; 53% on a regular basis. 41% would support arcade; 51% on a regular basis.

This concludes the teen survey.

On a Personal Note: Since this survey was taken, we have read an article in the Harrington Journal concerning the closing of the shirt factory. 90 people will be out of a job. It has been pointed out to us that the town of Harrington has not grown in population in the last several years. The current population of Harrington is 2407 and in 1972 was 2401. Six people in 13 years is very little growth.

If we are a community concerned with our young people, shouldn't we provide more job opportunities for them as well as a place for them to gather under proper supervision? Or, are we as one observer noted: Harrington is a small town; there's not much you can do to change it.

Addition of services for ambulance services

After 2 weeks the response for the ambulance club has only been fair. Approximately 100 patrons have taken advantage of the plan and their support is greatly appreciated.

The benefits of the plan are numerous and worth re-emphasizing. For a minimum contribution of $25.00 a family can subscribe to the plan and receive ambulance service for a period of 1 year for the immediate family living in their household. In addition, by subscribing now, you will actually get 2 months additional coverage at no additional cost. The greatest benefit of subscribing to the plan is the continuation of this service to the community.

At the present time, negotiations are ongoing with the adjacent ambulance companies to honor our club members in their ambulance plans if the service is needed while in their districts. The Harrington and Carlisle (Milford) Fire companies have already made this agreement.

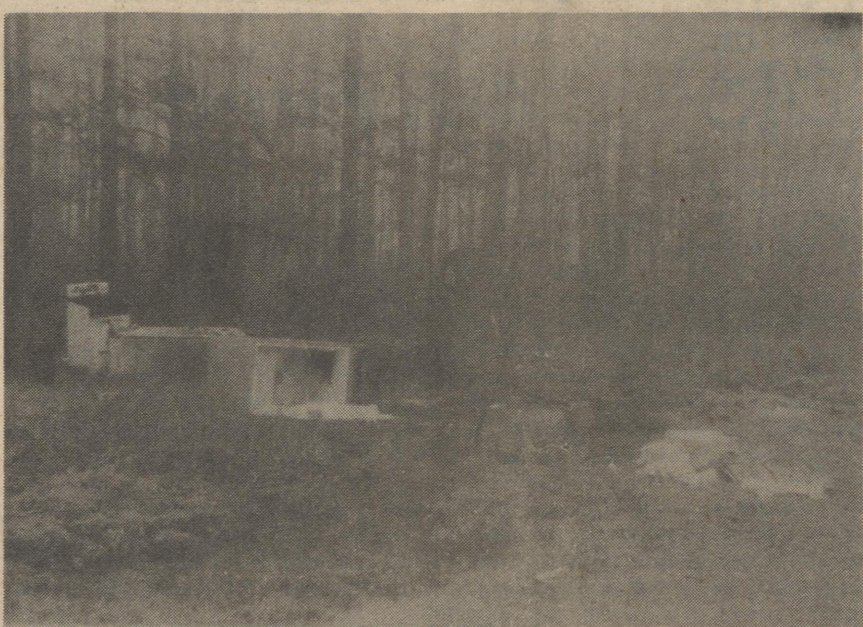

Please support your local Fire Company Ambulance Squad by subscribing to the plan today.

Bridgeville man kills intruder

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
BRIDGEVILLE — James E. Richards, 42, of Seaford, was shot and killed early Saturday morning when he entered the home of Graham Price of rural Bridgeville, who shot and killed Richards.

Richards had entered the Price home threatening to kill Lilly Richards, 39, his estranged wife. Lilly Richards had become separated from his wife about three months ago. She was in Price's house at the time of the killing.

Richards was shot in the chest. He was able to make it to his car in the driveway, but died in the car. From police reports issued, Richards had been charged with reckless endangering the lives of others when he threatened Price and Mrs. Richards with a gun within the last few weeks. Police reports indicated that Price has not been charged. At least three previous occasions during the last month indicate that Richards had threatened Price and Mrs. Richards.

Trash and debris is strewn along County Road 439, east of Harrington. This trash was thrown within 20 feet of a sign reading "No Dumping — fine $500." The sign is just out of this photo at the right. Photo HGF

Dumping on private property creates problem

by William T. Ficka
 Trash is being dumped along Kent 429 in Harrington and Amelia McSweeney is determined to do something about it. "This has happened in the past and we've never pressed charges. But lately it's really gotten out of control," said McSweeney.

McSweeney lives on Road 429, about one and a half miles southeast of the Highway 14 and U.S. 13 intersection. The problem has been particularly bad for about the past four years, since the closing of the landfill that served rural residents of Harrington, Houston and Milford, according to McSweeney.

Abandoned refrigerators, stoves, beer and soda bottles, food, disposable diapers and other debris are scattered over a one mile stretch alongside Road 429.

"I had an accident with one of those broken beer bottles and lost a lot of blood before I made it back to the house," said McSweeney.

"Disposal of rubbish and waste on our country roadsides is a health hazard. We need community support groups and volunteers to stop these people," she added.

Although "No Dumping — $500 Fine" signs are posted in the area, the dumping of assorted rubbish continues. McSweeney has reported the dumping to the Environmental Control Division and is waiting for a representative to come out and investigate the matter.

Meanwhile, she spends a good part of each day picking up trash in an attempt to keep the neighborhood clean.

Superintendent stonewalls re-seating of Williams

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY — Lake Forest District Superintendent Dr. Gerald Lysik blocked the re-seating of board member, Sara Williams, who had sent a letter last week canceling her resignation letter from the board.

It was a day late and a dollar short according to Dr. Lysik who referred to an earlier Attorney General's opinion on a "...school board member's resignation." That opinion clearly pointed out a situation where a district had been re-districted and eliminated a board member.

James Mancini, of near Harrington, who attended the meeting with his wife Frances as a concerned parent asked "...what is the status of Mrs. Williams, and how does that apply here in the Williams case." "That's all we have to go on," said Dr. Lysik. "That's like comparing apples to oranges," added Mancini.

Mrs. Williams did not take her seat at the Thursday meeting. She sat in the audience. She said she had received a letter from Dr. Lysik "delivered to me at my home from Mr. Saulsbury on the District's letterhead with my name crossed out." The District office has placed an advertisement in The Harrington Journal this week seeking applicants to fill Mrs. Williams' vacancy.

In other matters, the Advisory Committee reported on the proposed referendum. According to Bill Luff who chairs the committee, it was indicated that the written report due this week will show the need to have separate referendum for the revitalization of the buildings in the district and the salary equalization for the teachers.

The board also agrees to reimburse those people who paid 45 cents per copy for use of the copier in the District office, but no plan for reimbursement was reached.

The selection process to be used to choose a new high school principal will be accomplished through a committee appointed of both parents and students, who interview the applicants. Of those, the Superintendent will select five as finalists. The board will then select the person for the job.

The personnel secretary which has been proposed for use at the District office "has been pushed to the back burner," for the time being.

Harrington man held in Louisiana in Wyoming murder

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
WYOMING, DE — The body of William E. Thompson, age 40, was discovered at the home of Shane and Terri Carson on Friday evening. The death is being called a murder.

Thompson, a lifelong resident of the Viola area was house-sitting for the Carsons who are in Florida.

There are three youths being held in Lake Charles, La. for the killing of Thompson. They are Walter F. Marheka, Jr., 19 who lived with Thompson at the Viola residence, David J. Simpson, 17 of 108 Grant Street, Harrington and Lee Christa Bledsoe, 17, of 272 Gunning Bedford Drive, Dover. All three are being held on fugitive charges by the Louisiana police.

Bledsoe is listed as a runaway. The Delaware warrants charge each of the youths with first-degree murder, possession of a deadly weapon during the commission of a felony, first-degree robbery and first- and second-degree conspiracy.

The three youths were apprehended in Lake Charles, La. 4:00 p.m. on Saturday in Thompson's 1983 Chevrolet Blazer.

Thompson was an office worker at General Foods since the company came to Dover. The house, owned by the Carsons, is near Wyoming and Willow Grove.

On Tuesday morning the three youths waived extradition and will be returned to Delaware in the next couple of days.

Galloway new DSEA president

Due to the resignation of Wally Young, Mary Anne Galloway is the new president of the Delaware State Education Association.

Wally Young left DSEA for a position with NEA-Rhode Island. Ms. Galloway was the former vice-president.

An English teacher, she began teaching thirty years ago in Pennsylvania. She came to Delaware in 1962 where she taught at Brandywine High School, then Concord High School and, for the past ten years, at Brandywine High School again.

Her involvement with the National Education Association and DSEA began in 1978 when she became active in committee work of the New Castle County Education Association. She then went on to become vice-president of NCCEA and has been president of that association for four years, in addition to being DSEA's vice president.

Last year she worked on the State Mastery Testing Committee and is now a member of the State Evaluation Advisory Committee which is helping to develop a major program for the evaluation of classroom teachers.

A native of Springfield, PA, she holds two degrees in English, a bachelor of arts degree from Swarthmore College and a masters degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

With almost 6,000 members, DSEA represents the state's public school teachers and support personnel in the state's 160 schools in all nineteen districts. An affiliate of the National Educational Association, DSEA is meeting the challenge of improving the quality of Delaware's public schools.

No	82	57%
Undecided	31	21%
	144	100%

QUESTION #3

Question #3 - How do you feel about the functioning of the City Council?

Those in support of the council felt it was doing a good job. They are very active; the problems are complex; there are no easy solutions; they are solving water and street problems were the favorable comments.

Council does not function as a group for the betterment of the community of Harrington, but each member pursues his own individual interest or ward interest. There should be more cooperation and understanding among members and less petty arguing were the chief complaints. Elderly citizens are concerned about their tax increase and feel council is a poor money manager. Since council received their Revenue Sharing Monies, citizens expressed desire for this money to be used for a permanent City Hall and library. A study should be made as to which is most feasible - buy or build. Council should get their priorities in order. Council members stay in office too long but with the apathy in this town there's no other solution.

the functioning of the police department?

The police department is doing a good job especially since it is a complex problem concerning the budget. Too many people are meddling in police business, leave them alone so they can do their job.

The town can't support full time police protection. We need more foot patrol, more visibility, especially in the town itself. They do need a car, but not to patrol the highway. Several expressed the opinion that there was more done to protect the city a few years back with only two policemen than there is now with five or six. Senior citizens especially commented on the need to feel they are protected and how they feel that protection is lacking. If the budget is the main concern, many people expressed the idea that the small town does not need a chief administrator as such, but this position could be incorporated into the working force.

COMMENTS

Harrington is a nice town; there are nice people here and we don't want to see our long-standing businessmen ruined by too many competitive stores. Businesses that are needed are shoe and dress stores. Women say they don't like going to Dover or Milford to buy a pair of shoes or a dress.

More industry is definitely needed to provide jobs and tax base for our town.

People need to take a more active interest in our community affairs; especially, their heritage. We are all quick with our criticism, but what do we each do to improve our town or help those who carry the burdens and responsibilities of providing the necessary services for our community? When the community servants we have now give up for lack of support and enthusiasm from the people, who will take their place?

A face lifting of the town is definitely needed. Encourage property owners to upgrade their properties. Waste cans and pots of flowers could be placed uptown. Many things could be done to beautify the town that would not be costly. Housing is a major concern; especially for the elderly. Conrail and the asphalt plant are presenting big problems for the community and something must be done about them.

The mayor has good background and knowledge; willing worker of long hours. He has the interest of the city at heart; we need more like him.

The City Manager has been 200% good for the town. Council would project better through the city manager.

The Onizuka 4-H Fund

The Onizuka 4-H Fund for Excellence has been established as a national 4-H tribute to Lt. Col. Ellison S. Onizuka, a crew member of the ill-fated space shuttle Challenger. Announcement of the fund was made by Grant A. Shrum, president of the National 4-H Council. The fund will provide science and technology scholarships to 4-H members and support 4-H leadership development initiatives in the states.

Colonel Onizuka was a 4-H member and credited the youth program with giving him the values and character traits that helped him succeed in his professional and personal life. On his first space mission in January 1985 he took three 4-H flags aboard the shuttle. He presented one to Hawaii state 4-H program, another to the Texas state 4-H program, and was scheduled to present the third to the national 4-H leadership in February. He had recently participated in the production of a new 4-H educational television series, "Blue Sky Below My Feet - Adventures in Space Technology."

4-H is the youth program of the Cooperative Extension Service of the state land-grant universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Abraham Lincoln, Equality and the Constitution

by Harry V. Jaffa

Harry V. Jaffa is the Henry Salvatori Research Professor of Political Philosophy at Claremont McKenna College and Claremont Graduate School. He is author of "Crisis of the House Divided: An Interpretation of the Issues in the Lincoln-Douglas Debates" (University of Chicago Press.)

Editor's Note: Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday we celebrate on February 12, led the nation through the great tragedy of the Civil War. Throughout the war, as he had for years before it, Lincoln championed the view that the Constitution's principles were those of the Declaration of Independence. This meant, according to Lincoln, that there were limits on the power of governing majorities that could not be passed — for example, slavery was illegitimate. This was contrary to the view of Southerners, and of Northern men like Stephen A. Douglas, who believed that the Constitution did not restrain the power of a ruling majority. In this article, Professor Jaffa explains the foundation of Lincoln's constitutionalism.

In this temple
As in the hearts of the people
For whom he saved the Union
The Memory of Abraham Lincoln
Is enshrined forever.

These words are inscribed in the Lincoln Memorial, directly behind the statue of the Great Emancipator. What do they mean now to the American people who pay homage at this shrine? What ought they to mean to the citizens of the republic — and of the world — in the third century of the Constitution?

Lincoln did indeed save the Union. But the Union Lincoln saved was older than the Constitution. The Constitution was intended to form a "more perfect Union." When Lincoln began the Gettysburg Address with the magisterial "Fourscore and seven years ago..." he intended his listeners to understand that the birth date of the nation was 1776, not 1787, and that the principles of "government of the people, by the people, for the people" were those of the Declaration of Independence.

The Constitution was intended more perfectly to implement those principles than had been done by the Articles of Confederation. Lincoln at Gettysburg also intended his listeners — and the world — to know that there would be "a new birth of freedom" that would be accomplished by the Emancipation Proclamation, followed, as he intended that it would be, by the Thirteenth Amendment. (We may be confident that, had he lived, Lincoln would also have given his support to the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, as part of that same "new birth.")

To celebrate the bicentennial of the Constitution in connection with the name of Abraham Lincoln must mean, primarily and essentially, to celebrate the Constitution as an expression of the principles of the Declaration. To do this is to separate the interpretation of the Constitution from all forms of legal positivism, historicism, and moral relativism. That is to say, it is to separate the Constitution from all those

"...man cannot live by bread alone..." This well used biblical phrase was uttered by Jesus to Satan during a period of extreme fasting by Jesus in the desert.

There are many, many interpretations and meanings associated with this phrase which both laymen and scholars have offered. When Satan said to Jesus if you are the son of God then turn this stone into bread and ease your hunger, his answer of men cannot live by bread alone may have been an early version of "stone-walling." He may also have felt simply that the bread alone was not enough.

The events of recent weeks leading up to the latest in our school district with the resignation of board member Sara Williams...and then having her change her mind about that followed by a letter cancelling out the letter of resignation in some ways made me think of Jesus' words "...not by bread alone..."

The District Superintendent said the "first letter...that the resignation was final. Ended. Caput! Citing as authority an Attorney General's ruling in a case that did not have much application to the Williams' case."

It was a form of stone-walling or in the alternative a whole lot of bureaucratic nonsense.

It is clear horse-sense that where a letter of resignation is sent to the board president as Mrs. Williams did when she sent her letter to Mrs. Roberta O'Neal, who is president of the school board...that the letter became the province of the school board to act on by vote. When a follow-up letter was sent to Mrs. O'Neal cancelling out the first before the board had an opportunity to act on the first, the second letter takes precedent. It is basic teaching in the "contracts" course in law school of offer and acceptance.

That is the only logical way to interpret the situation. No ands, no ifs, and no buts.

Now reasonable minds better had prevail here, because here on out any mistakes made...particularly when you know the decision to be illogical...the consequences will be most grave.

If Mrs. Williams is illegally prevented from taking her seat, all acts that follow will be illegal, and the mess that will follow will take the combination of a Philadelphia and a New York lawyer to straighten out and a bishop to mend.

On the other hand, it is not worth running the risk of preventing Mrs. Williams from assuming her board seat for in the alternative, the forthcoming positive results are not commensurate with total risks involved, which are found at the bottom line.

Dr. Lysik, acting as secretary to the board offered the Attorney General's opinion...as law...or as advisory and persuasive opinion.

I don't know! Besides, he is not a board member. He is merely secretary to the board.

What's the bottom line? You can interpret the stone into bread to your liking and the only ones you will have to worry about are the religious scholars. But in interpreting the seating or not seating of Mrs. Williams must on the other hand be absolutely correct in law. There is no allowance for error here. So board members be right...absolutely right.

"...the role of an athlete is one of character building and role model..."

The recent developments surrounding the young Dover High School wrestling champion, whose name goes unmentioned here because it has been mentioned enough, seems to take on a never ending saga. The failure of those in authority to act and act properly...in the beginning...may have caused the young man far greater damage than facing the consequences of the crime in the beginning.

The crime of rape is what the law calls one of the exotic crimes...like murder and robbery...and rape makes the third type. They all imply force...except statutory rape (below the age of consent), but if the victim voluntarily reports this type of rape it could mean without consent.

Rape is a crime that shakes the foundations of a community. It invades and cuts right through the moral fibers of a community. To say this crime was committed this past summer when school was not in session and therefore not a school problem or one requiring the school's decision as a defense is a weak argument. For the accused to say that others who are engaged in sports at Dover and around the State have been arrested for crimes, and they weren't kicked off the team, is not acceptable because rape is a whole lot different than stealing a car or smoking or possessing pot.

Why do we have athletic programs for our youngsters? For the most part they

SBA: On the ropes again

by John Sloan

Over the last few years, the President's annual budget message has done little for morale in the Small Business Administration. As surely as night follows the day, so too does a call to kill the SBA follow presidential acknowledgement of an incredibly large deficit and the need for fiscal belt-tightening.

The SBA and its defenders can argue with some justice that its belt is already pretty snug. Even in its heyday, the agency's annual appropriations barely topped the billion dollar mark — mere pin money to Washington budgeters. In 1981, the agency was dropped from even this relatively low height by a 27 percent funding cut.

And, the budget reconciliation bill for Fiscal Year 1986 provides for additional cuts; of 60 percent.

One might suspect that, with the FY '86 reconciliation bill in place, the SBA's fiscal belt would be snug enough to satisfy its detractors. But some opponents of the agency are resolved to settle for nothing less than its total dismantlement.

The nation's largest organization of independent-business owners, the National Federation of Independent Business, has long been a critic of SBA programming and called for lower government spending. But the NFIB pulls us short of joining calls to kill the agency.

Instead, the NFIB has offered its own plan to reform the agency. As a first step, the NFIB plan calls on Congress to pass the FY '86 reconciliation bill, which includes many of the SBA reforms proposed last year by NFIB. This bill would save $2.5 billion dollars over the next three years, largely by paring back direct lending activities, increasing the fee charged for SBA loan guarantees and putting investment companies and other economic development programs of the SBA on a pay-as-you-go footing. For FY '87, NFIB proposes savings of an additional $700 million dollars in just two years. These extra savings would come primarily by proceeding further long the trails blazed by the reconciliation bill:

- wiping out the few remaining direct loan programs (savings: $150 million);
- moving all investment companies and community development programs to private funding sources (savings: $300 million);
- turning the loan-guarantee program into a self-financed program, much like Fannie Mae (savings: $200 million).

A key element of the NFIB proposal is the elevation of the SBA administrator to cabinet-level status. Though it would cost the Treasury nothing, such a change could assure small-business owners that their concerns would be heard loud and clear at the highest levels of government.

The most direct — and simplistic — route to lower federal spending is to "zero out" an entire agency. Unfortunately, this ham-fisted approach kills the good programs with the bad. Responsible budgeting requires a close look at each program's necessity, cost-effectiveness and potential for improvement.

Killing the SBA with a single flick of the accountant's wrist may seem a stroke of boldness. But killing off the good with the bad is intellectually lazy, economically harmful and politically naive.

John Sloan is President of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I would publicly like to express our thanks to all those who assist us in recycling aluminum cans for the benefit of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Delaware. This money was donated last year thanks to the kindness of our customers, (yes, it can be annoying to separate cans from plates upon leaving), and to those who dropped off bags of cans from their businesses.

We sincerely appreciate all the public support we've received and would like to continue to urge people to bring their cans to our Deli. It's for a great cause!

Sincerely,

Privi-What-ization?

By Edwin Feulner

In the coming months, there will be a bloody political battle in Washington over something most Americans have never heard of.

By and large, the story will be mangled and distorted—not necessarily because those doing the reporting will be biased, but because the "Spray Net" primadonnas of prime-time television won't know what they're talking about, and won't take the time to find out.

So instead of stories about an exciting new way of providing government services, we'll hear stories about shameless attempts to turn back the clock on social progress.

All of these stories will be part of a war of words—a war that will be fought over still another word: privatization.

Privatization is one of those rare Washington words that despite its cumbersome actually says what it means: the process of making private. Thanks to the efforts of Johns Hopkins University economics professor Steve Hanke, who helped develop the concept while a senior fellow at The Heritage Foundation, the word is now included in the newest editions of most dictionaries. And just in time—because privatization will be in the eye of the political storm when Congress takes up the fiscal year 1987 federal budget later this year.

So just what is privatization?

Newsweek magazine calls it a "current-but-cumbersome buzzword for spinning off government's nonessential and less efficient assets and functions to private industry." Indeed, Newsweek says, "the ultimate issue in privatization is the definition of government itself."

To its credit, Newsweek comes very close to the mark. The ultimate issue is the very definition of government. And "privatization" does involve spinning off government functions and assets to the private sector. But this does not just mean private industry. Under the plans developed by privatization pioneers Stuart Butler, Director of Domestic Policy Studies at The Heritage Foundation, Hanke, and Robert Poole, President of the Reason Foundation in Santa Barbara, California, some government assets might be "spun off" to charitable and other nonprofit organizations, and others sold to the general public through public stock offerings.

The best way to visualize the process is through specific examples. Here are three:

1) Currently, the federal government owns a national freight railroad, Conrail, and a national passenger railroad, Amtrak. The privatization of Conrail already is in process; the Department of Transportation has accepted a bid from Norfolk Southern to buy the freight system for $1.2 billion. The sale is awaiting Congressional approval. There is no reason the federal government should own and operate a railroad. And the same goes for Amtrak, which Butler has similarly proposed "privatizing," either by selling it—in whole or part—to an existing railroad, or by selling its routes and assets to the public and Amtrak employees through a stock offering.

2) The Post Office. I could start off with a joke, but just linking the words "postal" and "service" is joke enough. Butler does not propose selling off the U.S. Postal Service, but he does argue strongly for privatization through a process known as "contracting out"—more Washington talk for allowing private contractors to provide services now provided by over-priced postal service employees. Truck delivery, for example. Maintenance services, for another. Or perhaps even contracting with 7-11 or another convenience store chain to provide certain services now available only at the post office.

3) A third method of privatization is through the "voucher" system. A voucher is a slip of paper, like a coupon, which can be used to purchase a service. Right now the government spends billions of dollars every year to build and maintain subsidized public housing for low-income families. The results have been costly—and bad, as most housing projects rapidly turn into slums. Butler has proposed a double-whammy remedy. First, give public housing residents a choice by providing them with vouchers that they can use instead of cash to rent anywhere they want. He has also proposed turning public housing into low-income "co-ops," by selling the units to tenants at a great discount. Presumably, qualified tenants could even use their vouchers to pay the rent. Why is this good? First, because it will save the taxpayer lots of money in the long run. But more important, because it will give low-income families the same choices and the same stake in their communities that the rest of us have, changing them from slum tenants to homeowners.

Privatization is all of these things. But you will probably not hear it reported this way. Instead, you will see some $1-million-a-year TV anchor talking about U.S. conservatives wanting to end low-income housing construction. He won't tell you that the conservatives have a better idea: privatization.

Over The Backyard Fence

Gab Fest by Pat Hatfield

Snow, cold winds and icy roads becomes the forecast from Trail's End on this February 11. As one of my neighbors said, "Better now at the proper season than in the spring at planting time. So, now we are optimistically looking forward to an early spring."

One of my Readers suggested that I say something about Valentine's Day in the column this week. Well, in the twenty-five years of writing Gab Fests, I suspect I have covered that subject rather well.

I am glad to note that we seem to be getting back to the romantic side with the red hearts and the white paper lace, and the beautiful and sentimental poetry. I grew up in a time when there were a lot of those ugly paper sheets with awful pictures and a crude verse with sarcastic comments. They were not very funny (unless you had a warped sense of humor) and certainly not very kind.

Winter must have its season. We are grateful for the warmth and the shelter and the well-stocked pantry. Even so, the weather somewhat disturbs our plans. We had planned to attend a dinner tonight, but it had to be cancelled because of the road conditions. And, not to be outdone, the new water heater purchased in the autumn decided to leak on the kitchen floor. But our ever-faithful friend, the plumber, came and restored order.

Our friend, Alice, reports a cardinal and a robin at her feeder. You seldom see robins at the feeder in the winter, but I guess this one could not find what he needed in the wood. I believe my sister said that she had robins at her feeder in Claymont last winter.

Thanks to all the many Readers who call to inquire about the book of Gab Fests. Yes, I am spending two or three hours almost every day, editing and re-writing.

Well the weather just hasn't been cooperating with some of our plans at the Center. Our Sweetheart Dinner and our trip to the Ice Capades were both cancelled as people are a little skeptical about traveling right now. Back at the Center, the programs have been going on as scheduled for the most part. On Thursday, the 20th, Karen from Karen's Korner will be here to demonstrate "Arrangements with a personal touch." This will begin at 1:00 p.m. in the dining room. All day Thursday, the crafts department will be busy reading for the Annual Spring Bazaar, Saturday, March 22nd. On Friday,

We will be having tax assistance on a first come/first serve basis on Friday from 9:30 until 3 p.m. In the afternoon on Friday, we will be having Bridge Games and a "By George Party."

Can you guess what would go on at a "By George Party"? Well, you will just have to stop by and find out, this will begin at 1:00 p.m. On Monday the 24th in the afternoon, the Chorus will be going to the Seaford Health Center to

Sports

Basketball round up

The Spartan Girls' Basketball team lost to Laurel on Wednesday night while playing at home. Sloppy ball handling and much too many turnovers spelled the defeat for the Spartans. Teresa Taylor scored 13 points. Melanie Pelton chipped in 4 points while Kelli Pelton threw in 4 and Arlene May bagged 4 in a losing effort. The Spartans were outscored in each and every quarter. The Spartans scored 5 in the first 4 in the second quarter and 5 in the final frame.

On the other hand, the boys varsity kicked the daylight out of Laurel Bulldogs 62-53. The game was not as close as the score indicated.

Chuckie Bell tossed in the season high of 21 points to lead the Spartans to the win...their third of the year.

The Spartans made few mistakes and turnovers and remained consistent in their scoring through all four quarters. Laurel led in only one quarter...the third when they scored 16 to LF's 15.

Behind Bell in the scoring were Bordley with 2, James Mosley with 10, James Hicks with 14, Hammond with 2, Dixon and Tiggs with 4 and 9 respectively.

On Thursday night the Spartan girls played at Milford and the Bucs downed the Spartan girls 49-44 in overtime play. At the end of the first half of play it was Milford 19-16. But at the end of play in the third quarter it was tied at 30 all. At the end of the fourth quarter it was knotted again at 42 all...which was getting to be a high scoring contest.

The Spartans scored only 2 points in the overtime while the Bucs were scoring 7. Melanie Pelton had a hot hand tossing in 21 points to lead all scorers. Teresa Taylor dumped in 8 points...one of the few times this year this tall, lanky damsel has been held below the double figure mark...while Arlene May got her season high of 12 points and Tara Dixon threw in 3 missing three from the charity stripe.

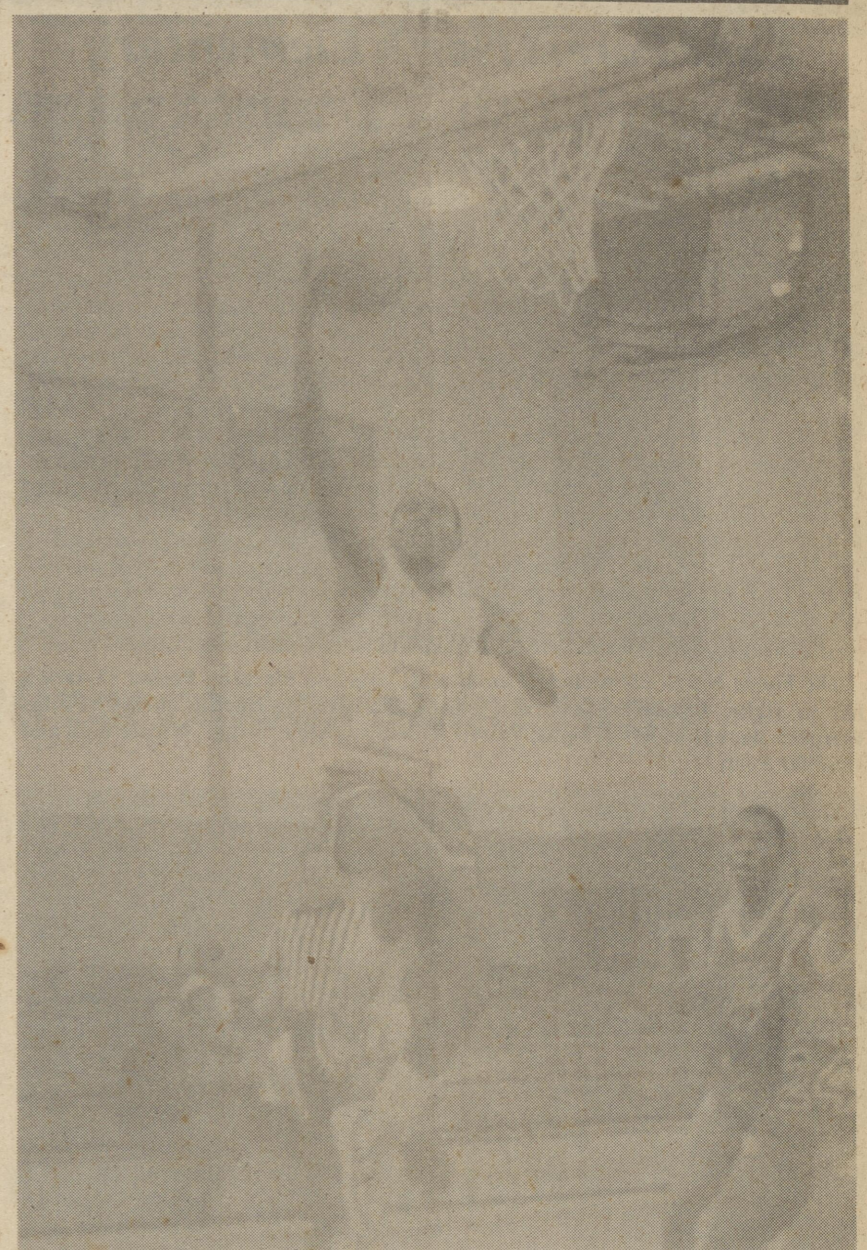

The Varsity boys team on the other hand dropped their game to the Milford Bucs 55-38. Even though the team seems to be playing more consistently in recent games following personnel changes...inconsistency spelled the difference. The Spartans got in a hole in the first quarter when they scored only 3 points. They never recovered from that cold period. They picked up in the second period outscoring the Bucs 15 to 12. They stayed almost even with the Bucs in the third quarter but again fell way behind in the fourth quarter.

Chuckie Bell and James Hicks each threw in 10 points followed by Bordley with 1, Mosley with 6, Dixon with 7 and James Tiggs with 4.

The girls varsity now stands at 6-8 in Conference and 8-10 overall while the boys' record went to 2-11 in conference and 3-15 overall.

Outten, Gygyryuk and Fleming score mat win

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.

Scotty Fleming, one of the most celebrated all-around athletes from Lake Forest High School ended the varsity wrestling season last Wednesday with a pin in 2:18 (second period). It ended his season 11-0. "It wasn't even a close one for at that point Scott was leading 10-0. He is just so strong and dedicated to winning that it is unbelievable," added Coach Tom Shaffer.

IN the 128 pound class, Ken Outten brought home the first win against Dover by decisioning his opponent 12-2. "Ken was in control of the whole match. He had the man on his back three times but just could not pin him," said Shaffer. That brought his record to 9-1-1.

Mike Gygyryuk got a big win...a pin in 5:21 of his match. "With time running out Mike caught the kid in a cradle and pinned him," said Shaffer. "Mike was in control of the entire match and had a good lead when he registered the pin," added Shaffer.

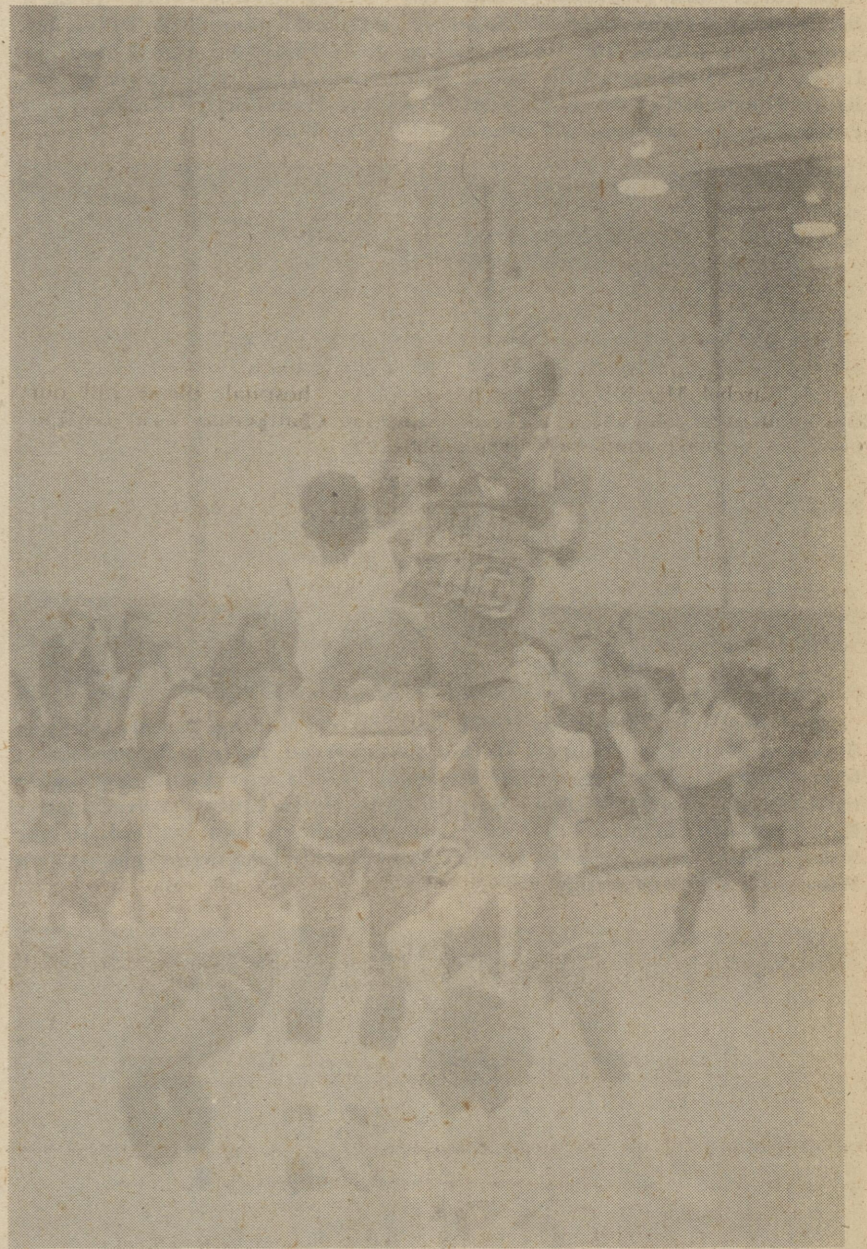

In the other matches, Steve Porter lost by a pin "...to a real good wrestler...that's all there is to it." We forfeited the 100 pound and 114 pound class. "Derik Dill lost 17-9, but the match was close on the mat as opposed to the score," said Shaffer. "But you can see that both kids were scoring. Derik did a real good job with a pretty good wrestler. Derik was wrestling a to guy in the Conference," added Shaffer.

Darryl Cherry lost by a pinning in the second period. At the time of the pin the score was 7-4 in Dover's favor. "He caught Darryl in a cradle and got him. Dover likes the cradle...we practiced against it all week, but they have been practicing it all season," said Shaffer. Pat Sullivan lost by a pin, "...which is the first pinning of Pat this year," added Shaffer. "Pat did not wrestle cautious...he went out there right after the kid. Pat reversed him once and rode him as well...but just couldn't get anything going," added Shaffer.

Greg Gillie lost his match 10-5. "This was another close match. Greg had him on his back twice. He had Greg in the cradle 4 times...and one time he got lucky and caught Greg," said Shaffer.

Kevin Wix wrestling varsity for the first time this season "...was called for stalling and forfeited the match. Kevin is trying to work back into shape once again," said Shaffer.

Manfred Hanover January Horse of the Month

COLUMBUS — Manfred Hanover, one of the most durable standardbreds of modern times and the dominant free-for-all trotter thus far in 1986, has been selected by the U.S. Trotting Association as its January Harness Horse of the Month.

A six-year-old son of Super bowl, Manfred Hanover earned only $18,490 in his first four years of existence — hardly the bankroll of a champion horse. Trainer Walter Szczepanski, who co-owns Manfred with his own son John under the name Equinox Farms, evidently found the key to Manfred last season (maybe it's the Gatorade the horse loves to drink). The squaregaiter earned $456,905 in 1985, facing the starting gate a staggering 46 times against to-flight competition while winning on 24 occasions.

Manfred Hanover has shown no signs of letting up in 1986 either, winning four straight races in dominant fashion while earning his Horse of the Month title. His first two outings were vintage Manfred — he overcame post eight and a parked-the-mile journey to win in 2:00 at Yonkers on January 10, and then came back on just two days rest to crush a top field in 2:00, last quarter 27 2/5, at The Meadowlands.

The last two weeks Manfred has taken the first two legs of the Su Mac Lad Trotting Series at The Meadowlands against the best trotters in training. He won in 1:58 over a good track on January 20 — the equivalent of a sub-1:55 mile in mid-summer, according to observers — and then tallied in 1:57 1/5 during a snowfall on January 27.

Talent search program in progress

A Talent Search (Title IV) program has been approved for implementation at the Terry Campus by the U.S. Department of Education for three years and is receiving $78,500 for this project year which started September 1, 1985. Through this program the Campus hopes to encourage 600 high school students each year to complete high school and to pursue post-secondary education at a college or trade school.

Bodine Glides to Daytona 500 win

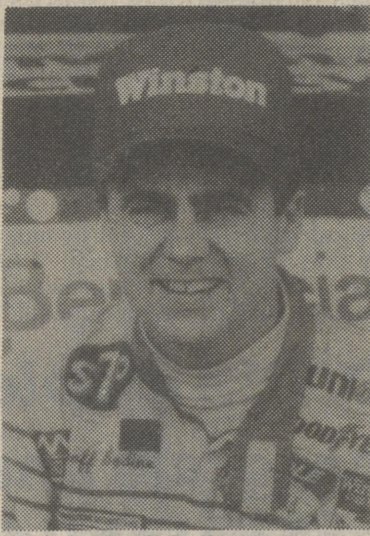

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — He has been that far before and won some and lost some when he got closer and closer to the checkered flag, but on Sunday in the running of the Daytona 500, former Modified Champion Geoff Bodine found himself with the big slice of the Daytona pie.

He won the 1986 version of the Daytona 500 for the first time in his very young NASCAR career.

The winner of over 1000 modified races in the northeast, Bodine ran a close tug-of-war with arch rival Dale Earnhardt before Earnhardt was forced to the pits for gas.

"When I saw him dive in the pits I knew he must be out of gas...and I just breathed a sigh of relief knowing that it was in my grasp," said a teary-eyed Geoff Bodine in the winner's circle.

Dale Earnhardt emerged a tough contender when the wreck by Neil Bonnett caused many race cars to retire from the race. Yarborough was one and Elliott another, suffered heavy sheet metal damage as well as front end damages. Bonnett and Baker also went out. Earnhardt pulled back on the speedway following the pit stop for gas and soon after entering the speed lanes the engines blew. HE said later that they sprayed ether in the carburetor which might have caused the hot engine to blow up. The bad luck forced Earnhardt to 14th place in the order of finish. The guy had had one super week during Speedweeks with a win in the Busch Clash and another win in the second 125 milers. He just couldn't pull off the win in the 500.

Bodine raced by Earnhardt on lap 167 with just 33 laps left in the race. He won a record $192,715 which broke Elliott's last year's record.

Second place finisher Terry Labonte finished 11.26 seconds behind Elliott. Elliott said following the race that Bodine and Earnhardt blew his Ford away.

Other drivers who were taken out by Bonnett were Gant, Ruttman, Speed, Kyle Petty, Tommy Ellis and Phil Parsons.

Bodine averaged 148.124 mph.

Georgetown adds record point fund '86

REHOBOTH BEACH, DE — First State Promotions, Inc. and ten Southern Delaware businesses have joined forces to produce an unprecedented $15,000 points fund for the 1986 stock car racing season at the Georgetown Speedway. The announcement of this record awards program was made by speedway director Tony Donofrio before the SRO crowd at the facility's annual award banquet to honor their 1985 champions held at the Rehoboth Beach Convention Center January 18th.

Never before in the rich history of Delmarva Motorsports has such a handsome guaranteed season payout been offered to local competitors. Donofrio stated that the speedway hopes to add more to the fund during the season through contingencies and additional sponsors. As it stands at present $2,500 of the fund is earmarked for the Modified points champion with $500 going to the Limited Late model champ and $300 for the Street Modified champ. The rest will be divided among the rest of the top ten in each of the three classes.

Sponsoring the Georgetown Speedway 1986 points fund are Joe's Paint and Body Shop, Georgetown, Delaware National Bank, Harrington's Equipment, Milford, Rusty Rudder Restaurant/Ritter Farms, Dewey Beach and Lewes, Smith's Apparel, Selbyville, C.P. Townsend Farms, Dagsboro, Bodie's Dairy Markets, Georgetown, Floyd Megee Motors, Georgetown, Taylor & Messick Farm Equipment, Harrington and Banks Co., Inc. of Frankford.

The three divisions will begin their duel for a piece of this "pot of gold" on Friday, May 9th at a special event commemorating the start of Georgetown's third season under the First State Promotions banner.

Milford Fertilizer raises point fund

GEORGETOWN — "A lot of our customers are interested in racing and we feel that this is the fairest way to support motorsports." This is how Bobby Fisher of the Milford Fertilizer Company in Milford, Delaware, summed up the motives behind his firm's contribution to the Georgetown Speedway's 1986 Points Fund. Milford's investment brought Georgetown's guaranteed fund to a record $16,000. These monies and any more added throughout the season, will be divided among the top ten race teams in the Modified, Limited Late Model and Street Modified divisions at the close of the '86 season.

Milford Fertilizer and Bobby Fisher are not strangers to the local motorsports scene. Their sponsorship has appeared on racecraft of all types, from Street Modifieds and Modifieds on the local dirt tracks to a NASCAR Winston Cup mount at the Dover Downs and Pocono International Raceways. Fisher feels that his firm's sales have benefited from this association and he speculates that supporting the concept of a Points Fund will be doubly beneficial because it offers something for all the competitors to strive for.

D.I.R.T. roundup

J. Johnson wins Fla opener

Jumpin' Jack Johnson piloted his B.R. Dewitt 12A to victory in the first leg of the CLM Lubricants Modified Winter Tour at Volusia County Speedway. The win in the 30 lap main event was worth $1,500.

Jimmy Horton was the early leader as he jumped out in front at the drop of the green. Johnson followed close behind with Will Cagle running third. For Cagle it was his first night out following his serious leg injury last summer.

Johnson took the lead on lap 5 and Billy Pauch joined in the hunt by taking third away from Cagle. Pauch put the heat on Johnson for several laps before getting wide in turn four and giving second back to Horton.

The top three remained the same until Doug Hoffman put the Leon Conklin #125 into third on lap 22. While Johnson had the field in check, Hoffman pressured Horton for second.

When the checkered flag fell it was Johnson taking the win followed by Horton who held off Hoffman for second. Pauch came home fourth followed by Cagle finishing a strong fifth. Kenny Tremont, Alan Johnson, Don McGinnis, Danny Johnson and John Birosch rounded out the top ten.

FLORIDA NOTES: Johnson, the defending Miller Beer Mr. DIRT Champ picked up where he left off in 1985 with his win in the Schaefer Light Eastern States 200...Bob McCreddie had his problems all night long and finished well off the pace...Danny Rizzardo never made it out having problems in warmups while Maynard Forrette blew a motor in the heat.

A. Johnson wins 2nd feature

Alan Johnson went wire to wire to capture the win on the second night of the CLM Lubricants Modified Winter Tour at Volusia County Speedway. Johnson in '86 Show Car, started on the pole by virtue of winning the first heat and never looked back on his way to the $1,500 win.

Doug Hoffman, Jimmy Horton, and Bob McCreddie staged a battle royale as they raced for the number two spot. McCreddie's bid ended on the 18th lap when a flat tire forced him to the pits.

As the race continued, Horton managed to pull away from Hoffman and set his sights on the high flying Johnson. A restart on the 26th lap bunched the field together giving Horton one last shot at A.J. but Johnson was just too strong and held on for the win.

Horton wound up second with Hoffman third, Danny Johnson fourth and Don McGinnis making a strong charge to finish fifth. Kenny Tremont, John Birosch, Maynard Forrette, Kenny Brightbill and Will Cagle rounded out the top ten.

FLORIDA NOTES: Jimmy Horton was second each night. Doug Hoffman was third each night and Kenny Tremont was sixth each night...Jack Johnson had his troubles all night and finished 11th...Tire wear was heavy as many cars, including Alan Johnson, were right down to the threads.

Horton wins 3rd feature

Jimmy Horton became the 3rd winner in as many nights in the DIRT Florida tour at Volusia County Speedway.

Horton took the lead on the 25th lap with a super move against Doug Hoffman. Bill Pauch squeezed by Hoffman on lap 27 to take the second spot. Hoffman finished in the third position, a spot he's held all three nights of racing. Maynard Forrette finished 4th. Jack Johnson rounded out the top five.

Heat race checkers went to John Pinter of New Castle, Delaware, Donnie Wetmore and Dan Rizzardo of Canada. Davey Wenger of New Jersey was the winner of the consolation event.

In all, 29 cars took the green flag on the start of the 30 lap feature event. The DIRT series cars will take Thursday night off and return to action on Friday evening.

FLORIDA NOTES: Bob McCreddie continues to have problems sorting out his new Kneisel car...Jack Johnson blew a right rear tire on the fourth turn of the last lap while running fourth and lost one spot while limping across the finish line...Donnie Wetmore, running sixth also lost a tire with one lap to go and finished 20th...Pole sitter John Pinter of New Castle, Delaware was an early dropout and finished 29th...The only Ford powered product on the tour, John Birosch has been in the top 10 all three nights of racing. Bobby Wilkins finished 5th in the Consi and 13th in the Feature.

Camel Pro near $2 million

WESTERVILLE, OHIO — R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. has announced a record point fund of $275,000 for the 1986 AMA Camel Pro Series. Combined with purses of $787,000 for dirt track and $737,000 for road race events, series awards total $1,819,000 — over a 20% increase from 1985. Separate Camel Pro championship series will be offered for dirt track and road racing.

The Camel Pro Dirt Track Championship Series of 23 events will offer a rider point fund of $150,000. AMA road racers will compete in a record 10 nationals for a $100,000 Camel Pro road racing point fund. The Camel Challenge Cup will award a prize of $25,000 to the rider who earns the most combined points in both series.

In Camel Pro road racing, riders may compete in Formula I and/or Superbike classes to gain points toward the championship. For riders competing in both classes, championship points can only be earned in one class per national event.

The newly-created Camel Challenge

Cup continues an AMA tradition of honoring the most versatile rider in Grand National racing. In a winner-take-all contest, the rider with the most Camel Pro points on dirt and pavement will take the $25,000 prize. To be eligible, riders must score points on both dirt track and road race courses.

The Camel Pro Series was inaugurated in 1974 and enters its 13th season in 1986. The record $275,000 point fund posted for 1986 will bring to $1,665,000 the total Camel Pro point fund payouts.

Daytona Enduro cancelled

WESTERVILLE, OHIO — The American Motorcyclist Association announced today that due to land closures, the 1986 running of the Alligator Enduro, which had been scheduled to run in conjunction with Motorcycle Speed Week in Daytona Beach, Florida, has been cancelled.

Penn National banquet set

GRANTVILLE, PA — The Penn National Speedway awards banquet will take place on February 28, 1986. This year the event will be held at the Mt. Zion Fire Co. located in Mt. Zion, Pa. The doors will open at 6:30 p.m.

Ronnie Tobias will be honored as the 1985 Miller Beer point champion. Finishing behind Tobias in the final standings were Bill Schinkel, Craig VonDohren, Fred Rahmer, and Mike Nicholas. Rounding out the top ten are Elvin Felty, Scott Irwin, Davey Wenger, Charlie Eckert and Randy Fortna. The top fifteen drivers and owners will receive trophies while the top ten will be awarded with cash prizes.

The prestigious "Most Improved Driver" award is up for grabs between Rich Frank, Billy Pauch, Bobby Snyder, and Ronnie Tobias.

Earnhardt to be tough in '86

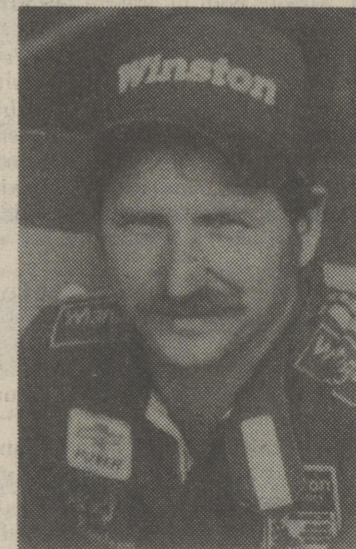

RICHMOND, VA — Dale Earnhardt has been frustrated in his bid to win a second Winston Cup championship, but he is confident that he is going to be a major factor in the battle for the 1986 national driving title.

"I really feel good about our chances of winning the Winston Cup title," said Earnhardt. "If we can avoid the problems that plagued us on the superspeedways last year, we should be in real good shape."

"I think our win in the Busch Clash is an indication of the type of year we are going to have on the superspeedways," adds the 1980 Winston Cup champion. "The last time we won the Busch Clash we went on to win the title, and I think the same thing can happen this year."

Earnhardt won his second Busch Clash at Daytona International Speedway on Feb. 9, holding off Bill Elliott, the man who dominated the superspeedways in 1985.

"When I won the Busch Clash in 1980, it gave our team (owned by Rod Osterlund) a real shot in the arm," said Earnhardt. "And I feel the same way about this year's win."

Since winning the championship, Earnhardt has not finished higher than fourth in the NASCAR Winston Cup standings.

A year ago Earnhardt and the Richmond Childress-Wrangler team were capturing four of the eight short track races.

"The idea is to win races, and if that means I need to race hard at the end of the race that's what I'm going to do," he said. "If that means I'm aggressive, then, yes I'm aggressive."

"That's the way my dad (Ralph) raced, and that's the way he taught me to race."

Qualifying for the Richmond race will begin at 3 p.m. on Friday, February 21, with defending Winston Cup champion Darrell Waltrip rated as the favorite to win the pole position. Waltrip has won four of the last five pole positions at the Fairgrounds Raceway, and he holds the track record of 95.218 miles per hour, which he set last February.

On Saturday, a 200-lap race for the late model stock car circuit will be held at 2:30 p.m.

The Miller 400 will get the green flag at 1 p.m. on Sunday with WTBS televising the race live.

Richmond flooded with entries

The week includes two NASCAR events with total posted awards of over $340,000 on the line for the NASCAR racers.

55 drivers have entered the Saturday, February 22, 200-lap Late Model Stock Car race with 40 entries received for the following day's Miller High Life 400 over the .542-mile Richmond oval.

Even though 94 entries have been received, only 30 drivers will qualify for each event.

Practice and time trials for both the Winston Cup drivers and the Late Model Stock Car competitors will begin on Friday, February 21.

After practicing the Winston Cup drivers will take to the time trials at 3:00 p.m. when the first 20 positions for Sunday's Miller High Life 400 will be filled. Immediately following the Winston Cup time trials, the Late Model Stock Car contingent will try to fill the front 15 positions for their

Saturday afternoon 200-lap race. The remaining starting positions for both races will be filled when time trials continue at the Raceway on Saturday morning prior to the 200-lap Late Model Stock Car 200.

A new policy regarding children has been set for the Saturday event with all youngsters under the age of 12 being admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Rock Salt may damage concrete

Many people reach for rock salt to rid their walks and driveways of unwanted ice. But this solution poses problems of its own.

"Excessive salt can cause one type of concrete to flake and deteriorate," warns University of Delaware extension agricultural engineer, Dr. Jim Scarborough.

There are two kinds of concrete, he explains. The more expensive type — air entrained concrete — contains millions of tiny bubbles that help it withstand freezing, thawing and salt damage. The other type — non-air entrained concrete — is not protected against these elements.

"The two types look identical at first," says Scarborough. "But after a hard winter or two, you can tell you have air entrained concrete if it's holding up well. The other kind will show signs of flaking and exposed stones."

Salt won't hurt air entrained concrete, but it damages the cheaper type.

Another reason to avoid using rock salt to melt ice is the corrosion it can cause on the finish and aluminum parts of your car. Excessive salt may also damage or even kill plants and shrubs. Scarborough recommends several ways to minimize the harmful effects of deicing salt. Don't use it as a substitute for shoveling. Remove as much ice and snow as possible before sprinkling lightly with a mixture of salt and sand.

Or, instead of salt, use a mixture of granular urea fertilizer and sand — 3 pounds of fertilizer to 100 pounds of sand — to melt the ice. Fertilizer can also damage non-air entrained concrete, but when used in moderate amounts it benefits plants.

If you want traction rather than melting, Scarborough recommends using sawdust, sand or clean cat litter. They won't harm plants, car parts or walks and driveways.

Residential Drug Abuse Treatment program to open in April

Thomas F. Updike, Ph.D., Director of the Division of Alcoholism, Drug Abuse and Mental Health announced today that Delaware's only Residential Drug Abuse Treatment Program will be open and ready to receive its first clients in April of this year. A cottage on the grounds of Governor Bacon Health Center is now being renovated to house twelve adult clients in a residential program to be provided by the Lower Kensington Environmental Center, Inc. (LKEC) under contract to the Division. It is anticipated that clients will spend an average of three months in the treatment program. LKEC operates similar programs in the City of Philadelphia and also operates the 28-day Alcoholism Rehabilitation Program located at Governor Bacon Health Center under a separate contract with the State. Dr. Updike sees the new program as a significant advance in developing a comprehensive addictions treatment system in Delaware and a milestone in the Division's progress in implementing its five year plan to improve alcohol, drug abuse and mental health services. "We are fully committed to developing the best system of services in the nation," said Updike. "we have made considerable progress, as the imminent opening of this program demonstrates, and we have the opportunity to make considerably more in the coming year."

DNES maple sugaring program underway for school children

Drilling a hole in a tree, hollowing out a sumac tap, and watching sap transform into a sweet treat are all part of the maple sugaring program for school children at Abbotts Mill Nature Center. The Delaware Nature Education Society offers the only program in the state where grades 3-6 can learn about the history of maple sugaring from the time it was discovered by Native Americans to the present. A film featuring a Canadian family harvesting this natural sweetener highlights the program.

The program is offered only during February and March. Interested teachers should call the Nature Center at 422-0847. The Abbotts Mill Nature Center is located on Road 620 near Milford, Del.

"I can cope" cancer series starts

Cancer patients and their families will be able to receive instruction on maintaining an active, rewarding life through special "I Can Cope" classes to begin at Kent General.

Participants may attend either of two free eight-class sessions starting Monday, February 24 or Tuesday, April 8.

Instructor for both sessions is Sandra Klima, R.N., Patient Education Coordinator at Kent General Hospital. Mrs. Klima will also use a team of physicians, nurses, dieticians, counselors, physical therapists and social workers as speakers, covering such topics as feelings and fears about cancer, methods of treatment, sexuality, and self-help opportunities.

Participants will also have the opportunity to share specific problems relating to living with cancer. To encourage interaction, no more than 20 persons will be enrolled in each session.

"All consultants involved in "I Can Cope" are selected for their keen sensitivity to patient and family needs," explained Mrs. Klima. "Our approach emphasizes open communication and full disclosure of the disease and its psychosocial aspects."

She added that such classes are designed to supplement, but not replace, the doctor-patient relationship, and that the program does not claim to have absolute authority on all aspects of cancer information.

"By sorting the facts from the myths, we simply hope to enhance each participant's quality of life," she emphasized. "By learning to refocus energies toward the positive, we truly believe each will cope more effectively."

For registration or further information, contact the Patient Education Office at Kent General, 734-4700 ext. 605 or 631, or the American Cancer Society at 734-7431.

Del-Tech honors proclamation

On October 22, 1985, President Reagan proclaimed February 1986 as National Community College Month with the signing of Congressional Joint Resolution 158, and the Southern Campus of Delaware Technical & Community College is honoring the proclamation through a nationwide publicity campaign to increase public awareness.

Joining more than 1200 institutions across the country, the Southern Campus is working with the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges (AACJC) program to increase public awareness of the overall impact that two-year, community, technical and junior colleges has on the educational and economic development within the United States.

Releasing data on the nationwide affect of community college services, Southern Campus Director Jack F. Owens expressed pride in the part two-year institutions play in the educational scheme.

"It is a duty," Owens said, "to provide the educational and cultural advantages and experiences to the people of Sussex County.

"It is a privilege to inform those same people of the impact that institutions such as ours is having on this country."

Using figures released by the AACJC, Owens described national student and institution profiles; economic factors of community college education; and degree and earning power statistics.

One-third of all postsecondary institutions in the United States are public or private, two-year colleges; nearly one-half of those are small, rural institutions; one-half provide on-campus housing.

More than 14 hundred technical programs enrolled 3.2 million credit students in the fall of 1984, nearly 40 percent of all postsecondary students in the United States.

are designed to build character...build strong bodies and minds. You are taught that winning is not everything, but winning cleanly and fairly are very important elements in building character and leadership.

The athlete...particularly if he is a star...is in the role of a "role model and image builder." It may be human to err, but it is not proper to deliberately circumvent a matter when you know you are in the wrong. You must in a case like this pay your dues.

Certainly the people, whomever they are, who are close to this particular athlete who failed to give him proper and logical advice, that is that under the circumstances he should be removed from the wrestling roster, are truly to blame as well. They have feet of clay.

The coaches at Lake Forest on the other hand have as recently as this year taken drastic disciplinary action against some of their players. Coach Jim Fleming suspending star running back and leading ground gainer Lionel Dixon in the Henlopen Football Conference last fall, for breaking rules. The suspension came at a crucial time for the Spartans. He had benched him previously for the first quarter of another game for the reasons that cost Dixon a full game suspension. Dixon took it in good faith and was a better player for it the rest of the season. But the courage Coach Jim Fleming exhibited must be applauded. Give Jim credit where it is deserved, but Jim Fleming is a strong coach and gets a lot out of his players due to his tough disciplined minded approach to such matters.

Basketball coach Bill Falasco has recently removed a player from the varsity basketball squad for breaking team rules. The player was a key player on the squad. He was the leading scorer and rebounder as well as one of the tallest players in the Conference. But again Coach Bill Falasco knows what it means to sacrifice to become an athlete. When the boy broke the rules he removed him from the squad. For him and Jim Fleming, it is a privilege to be a part of their team coached sports. They deserve a lot of credit and support.

The long and short of the matter is simply that a player must be removed from the squad when he commits a wrong. To say that the school has no rule covering such incidents overlooks the fact that every coach has an escape clause whereby he can institute his own discretion in the matter for the good of the team. Simply stated, you cannot have an athlete in a role model role representing your school, your conference, your state when that person is guilty of committing a very serious crime.

It shocks the conscience of every moral law abiding citizen of this state. If it doesn't, it should!

Abraham Lincoln, Equality and the Constitution

forms of interpretation that are dominant today in the law schools, universities, and courts of the nation. For contrary to Lincoln's expectations, his words at Gettysburg have been greatly noted and long remembered: it is their meaning that has been forgotten.

The ground of Lincoln's constitutionalism is the argument that follows from that "abstract truth applicable to all men at all times," to which, at Gettysburg, Lincoln said the nation had been dedicated at its conception. This argument is indeed the ground of all his moral and political thought, and he had been developing it throughout his mature life. According to Lincoln, the Civil War was a "people's contest" because the rights of the states, and of the United States, were the rights of the people, either severally or generally.

But what are the rights of the people? They are the rights which the Creator has equally endowed all men — all human beings. These are the unalienable rights, among which are the rights to life, to liberty, and to the pursuit of happiness. Since all men have these rights equally, no man can rule another rightfully, except with that other man's consent.

Nothing better illuminates that division within the American mind that brought about the Civil War than this passage from Lincoln's Peoria speech, of October 16, 1854. "Judge Douglas," said Lincoln, "frequently, with bitter irony and sarcasm, paraphrases our argument by saying: 'The white people of Nebraska are good enough to govern themselves, but they are not good enough to govern a few miserable negroes!'" "Well," Lincoln continued, "I doubt not that the people of Nebraska are, and will continue to be as good as the average of people elsewhere. I do not say the contrary. What I do say is, that no man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent. I say this is the leading principle — the sheet anchor of American republicanism."

Slavery, Lincoln observed, is a violation of this principle, not only because the master governs the slave without his consent, but because "he governs him by a set of rules altogether different from those which he prescribes for himself." Republicanism, for Lincoln, meant that those who live under the law share equally in the making of the law they live under, and that those who make the law live under the law that they make. Here in essence is the necessary relationship between equality, consent, democracy, and the rule of law in Lincoln's thought. Here in essence is the integrity of the Declaration and the Constitution. Here is the essence of the Lincolnian understanding of why the argument against slavery and the argument for free government are one and the same argument.

The people are collectively sovereign because the people individually, by their consent, have transferred the exercise of certain of their unalienable rights — but not the rights themselves — to civil society. They have done so, the better "to secure these rights." And civil society will act by the majority, under a constitution devised to assure that the action of the majority will fulfill its purpose, which is the equal protection of the indefeasible and equal rights of all. The majority is the surrogate of the community, which is to say, of each individual. Majority rule is not merely obliged to respect minority rights; in the final analysis it has no higher purpose than to secure the rights of that indefeasible minority, the individual. The sovereignty of the people — or of the states — cannot be exerted morally or lawfully for any purpose inconsistent with the security of those original and unalienable rights.

Emily's Free Lunch

By Edwin Feulner

I earn a good living. Yet my daughter Emily, who attends elementary school in Alexandria, Virginia, is eligible for a cut-rate school lunch five days a week—courtesy of U.S. taxpayers, many of whom earn considerably less than I do.

Am I insensitive, or is something wrong here? We are going to find out just how wrong things are in the weeks ahead, as Congress, the White House, and the special interest lobbies engage in a free-for-all over the federal budget.

Some of this will be waged with statistics. Already the Congressional Budget Office has cooked up a new report showing that even without any changes in our tax and spending policies there will be a dramatic drop in the deficit by 1991. Some conservatives have gone for the bait, crediting the CBO with suddenly discovering that Reaganomics is working.

Others of us can read between the lines. The CBO report was no paeon to Reaganomics. It was a backdoor attempt to guard special-interest spending from the coming budget cuts. After all, if things are peachy keen just as they are, why change them. There's something very Alfred E. Neumanish about it.

Which brings me back to Emily's subsidized lunch. There is really no reason under the sun why Emily and millions of other school children shouldn't pay the full cost of their lunches. The special-interest lobbies knew, however, that limiting subsidies to children whose families really need them would make it easier to keep costs under control. They lobbied, therefore, to subsidize everyone, regardless of need.

So prevalent are these subsidies that a new Census Bureau study indicates that one out of every three children in the United States now lives in a family receiving some kind of government welfare. The true numbers, of course, are much higher when all of the Emilies in the country are included.

When non-cash benefits from government and private employers are looked at, a separate Census Bureau report showed that 76.7 million of the country's 86.8 million households in 1984 were the recipients of one or more freebies. Of these non-cash benefits—valued at more than $300 billion annually—an estimated $250 billion worth were not based on need.

Let's face it: Ed Feulner's daughter and most other school children don't need federally subsidized school lunches. They were included in the program to make it politically more difficult to trim the size of the herd.

Cost-cutting changes in this and dozens of other federal programs are possible. Currently, the National School Lunch and National School Breakfasts programs provide cash and commodity assistance to schools, day care centers, and other institutions which serve meals to children. Children from families whose income falls below 130 percent of the poverty line receive free lunches (which comes to a subsidy of approximately $1.30 per pupil). Children from families between 130 percent and 180 percent of the poverty line receive a subsidy of 90 cents each. And children such as Emily from families with incomes above 180 percent of the poverty line receive a smaller 13-cent subsidy. But multiply that 13 cents by millions, and repeat the calculation every school day, and you're talking about big bucks.

The elimination of school lunch subsidies for middle- and upper-income children is the kind of belt-tightening the country should have started years ago. It's time to realize that there's no such a thing as a free lunch.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

COMMENTARY

Biden and du Pont do Delaware proud

By William T. Ficka

Little Old Delaware is certainly a good breeding ground for high-caliber politicians.

It will be a long time before the halls of Congress see the likes of former Republican Senator John Williams, a Delaware man who became a symbol of honesty and integrity for the entire country.

Now we have not only one, but two, presidential prospects. I speak, of course, of U.S. Sen. Joseph R. Biden and former Gov. Pete du Pont. Hardly a day goes by that you don't see or hear a reference made to either Biden or du Pont as potentially strong presidential candidates in 1988.

Last Friday Biden was in New Hampshire to address the New Hampshire Democratic Party at its annual fund raiser. It is a political axiom that the New Hampshire Primary is a "must win" primary for presidential hopefuls. The primary is scheduled for February 1988.

Biden, the Delaware Demosthenes, has for years been in high demand as a speaker at political rallies and fund raisers.

In the past four months, Biden has also visited Virginia, Iowa and Florida, all key primary states.

Word from New Hampshire tells us that Biden must impress the rank and file, the man in the street. It's taken for granted that Biden can fire up a crowd. They want to know how he will come across in a one-on-one basis.

Any Delawarean could tell them that Biden is just as effective out among the crowd as he is on the stump. When he turns on the Irish blarney, he can charm the birds off the trees.

Pete du Pont, Biden's counterpart among the Republicans, is likewise an eloquent speaker with a great sense of humor. This, along with youth, good looks, and a magic name, makes him a natural for the fundraising circuit.

Du Pont, as Chairman of the political action committee GOPAC, aims to elect more Republicans to state legislatures. Any help he can give to politicians at the grass-roots level will surely be remembered at the Republican Convention in 1988.

Du Pont was the subject of a long interview in the January issue of Conservative Digest. His strong conservative beliefs present an interesting contrast to Biden's generally liberal views. Du Pont puts forth his firm belief in supply-side economics, which worked so well in Delaware. He emphasizes his belief that federal spending must be controlled by constitutional spending restraints. He told interviewer Patrick B. McGuigan that "if spending in the federal government had held even with inflation from 1977 to 1984, we would have had an $8 billion surplus in Fiscal 1985 instead of a $212 billion deficit."

Du Pont said he is personally opposed to abortion, in favor of voluntary school prayer, for the Strategic Defense Initiative, and is "a strict constructionist who believes in judicial conservatism and not judicial activism. I think the Supreme Court has overreached in the past few decades."

Delawareans will long remember du Pont's now-famous "the state is bankrupt speech" on March 3, 1977. Du Pont, then 41, took over as governor of a state that faced a potential $121 million deficit. The state had a 19.8 income-tax rate — the nation's highest — and an unemployment rate higher than the national average. Businesses were avoiding Delaware like a hippie avoids a bar of soap.

When du Pont left office after serving two terms, the state could boast of major income-tax cuts, the lowest property and real-estate taxes in the Northeast, budget surpluses, scores of new businesses, thousands of new jobs, and still no state sales tax.

Du Pont says his role model in politics was Winston Churchill. He could have done a lot worse in his choice of heroes.

And, concerning possible presidential candidates, the country could do a lot worse than Biden or du Pont.

They both do Delaware proud.

do a program for the guests there. On Tuesday, the 25th, after a lunch of Homemade Vegetable Soup, Turkey Submarine, Jello w/Fruit, and a juice of your choice, we will be having a program with Claudia Holden entitled "Cooking Without a Grain of Salt." This program will begin at 1:00 p.m.

On Wednesday, the 26th, we will be having a Penny Party in the afternoon after lunch. The proceeds from our penny parties go back into the Center to help fund other parties with refreshments, etc. Now, here is an update on a couple of previously mentioned activities: First, we listed Diabetic Screening on Wednesday, February 12th. The person who was to do this program had to cancel and we will try to reschedule as soon as possible. Now for the update on our Valentine's Party. Well, first we passed out index cards to anyone who wanted to wish a valentine message to any person or to all. There were some lovely sentiments listed and we all had a lot of fun guessing who some of the valentines were from.

Next, we had Chocolate Covered Hearts wrapped in red foil placed in a glass serving bowl. Everyone was asked to go through the line and take one of the hearts. Five of the hearts had numbers on the back of the wrapper good for door prizes. Winners for that day were Phyllis Clink, Annabel Morrow, Velma Chism and Riley Flamer. The fifth gift went unclaimed. Next we had punch for everyone and the announcement of this year's Mr. and Mrs. Sweetheart. Before I tell you this year's winners, let me tell you the winners of the past three years. Dave and Bessie McCracken, Ken and Joann McKnatt and Cecil and Sylvia Meredith. This year's winners were Phyllis and Elmer Clink. They received a lovely corsage and boutoniere from the Center and will be served lunch at their table for the week of February 17th. The winners each year are chosen by the membership themselves by ballot. Everyone joined in for a chorus of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" for the finale.

Now, before we close for this week, the Crafts Department has asked me to ask if anyone out there has any ideas they would like to share with the department. It is hard to continually come up with new ideas, and they would appreciate any help or suggestions. Also, a personal get-well to Mrs. Jeanette Leagates who has been ill. Get better soon. The Crafts ladies, members and friends miss you.

Also, here's wishing all of our members and friends who have been ill a Get Well from the Center staff, members and board. You are in our prayers.

As we mentioned earlier, the Annual Spring Bazaar will be on Saturday this year, March 22nd. This is in an effort to allow those persons who work during the week to attend. There will be some lovely items in the Arts and Crafts and Ceramics Departments. There also will be baked goods, white elephant and a luncheon served on that day. If you would like to volunteer your help, please call the Center or Mr. Elmer Clink, this year's overall chair person.

To remind you, the Harrington Senior Center is open Monday thru Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Open to everyone 60 years or older, regardless of race, creed, sex or handicap. The Center has over 860 members, and is very proud of its facility. Why don't you stop by and see.....Until next week, Take Care!

Felton/Sandtown

Brenda Biggs on Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Get well wishes are extended to Claude Morris, Felton, who has been admitted to Kent General Hospital, Dover.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the Hughes family in bereavement of their mother, Edith M. Hughes, Felton.

Congratulations to the proud grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John Farley, Felton, on the arrival of a granddaughter. The proud parents are Jacqueline and John Sach, Dover, DE. They have named their daughter Jenna Lec, born on February 8th, 1986, Milford Memorial Hospital, weighing 7 lbs. 9 oz. "Congratulations to the new parents."

Mark your calendar for March 8th, the Felton Volunteer Fireman's fried oyster, dumplings and chicken salad and of course all the goodies to top a good meal.

Mr. Lee Kersey, Washington, D.C. is home visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs.

Gardner Kersey of Viola, DE.

A message of sympathy is extended to the Thompson family of Viola, DE in the death of Wm. E. Thompson (better known as Billy), formerly of Viola, DE and communities in this area. William was a kind person to everyone, all that knew him in his happy friendly way of helping others.

There were 17 members and parents attending the Washington Pilgrimage Encampment, Valley Forge, Pa. over the weekend (15th & 16th). There was less snow there and all enjoyed the good camping outside in the snow. Their hopes of having some very impressive pictures taken on the tour of the National Park. The program sponsored by the National Park Service was very enjoyable to all.

Cub Scout Pack 141, Felton are having their Blue and Gold Banquet February 23rd at the Viola Ruritan Building at 2:00 p.m.

typing it in the form required by the publishing companies, but I'm sure no one realizes the tremendous amount of time that is involved. I am arranging the material in four units, and I am not halfway through the first unit, so I cannot yet set a goal for the date, and in fact cannot yet see the light at the end of the tunnel.

When the winds of winter are howling around our homes, old-time Sussex Countians go into a nostalgic phase indulging in the hearty foods of yesteryear...hot, buttered hominy with scrapple, buckwheat cakes and sausage, black-eyed peas with ham hocks, barbecued spareribs, cod fish cakes and cornbread, big kettles of homemade soups, fried flounder and Hush Puppies, candied sweet potatoes with fried ham and red-eye gravy!!! My, I'm hungry!

mother last week. She was living in Indiana.

The Harrington Historical Society will hold a meeting on 7:30 p.m. Thursday the 20th at the Senior Center. Since receiving their grant from the Bicentennial Committee, work on their Museum has progressed very rapidly. All the rough electrical wiring has been completed and inspected. The security system is being installed, work on installing the insulation has begun February 17th at 9 a.m.

Ms. Janet Mullins and Mrs. Nancy Emory spent the day Monday in Atlantic City.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown this week were Mr. and Mrs. William Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Brown, Mrs. Norma Jean Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. James Larimore.

This month is Black History Month, and is the subject of many interesting programs.

One such program was held at United Metropolitan Church on West Street. The service started at 3:30 p.m. and was well attended on Sunday afternoon.

There were several special musical numbers which added much to the service.

There were presentations of silk flowers to educators who either taught locally or now live locally. The two educators specially recognized were Mrs. Ola Tildon of Harrington and Mrs. J.H. Bedford of Dover. Mrs. Tildon taught at Lewes Crossing (a one room school) at a school between Felton and Frederica (a two room school) and at the local school.

Mr. Bedford taught 6th grade at the old West Elementary School site. Mr. Bedford made the statement that "The Lord saves souls and teachers save minds." Mrs. Bedford was also recognized as a former teacher at Dover.

Mrs. Ella Parker, Mrs. Virdella Brown and Mrs. Lula Macklin were unable to attend to receive their recognition. Mr. Watson Brown accepted for his wife. He, as an educator, received a special little gift as did each minister present.

Mrs. Garnet Messick and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Welch Jr. attended the service as representatives of the Greater Harrington Historical Society. Mrs. Welch was presented with a yellow silk rose as an officer of that society.

If you have the opportunity to attend such a service it may prove well worth the time. This service was arranged by Mrs. Agnes Harris. I also recommend if either of these teachers were yours, send them a thank-you note. Let them know you care and appreciate what they did for you.

Get well wishes go out to Mrs. Joyce Dyer who is ill with the flu. Get well wishes to Mrs. Martha Morelli who is at home now.

Staci Frazier is a patient in Milford Memorial Hospital, room 226.

Mrs. Marilyn Mervine is recuperating at home on Raughley Hill Road. Why not shower her with get well cards and let her know we care?

assistance. All services are funded through the program, therefore, they are at no cost to the individuals.

The program is being well received by both the high school staff members and the students. As of January, 1986, over 125 individuals have been assisted. Carrie and Meg make regular weekly visits to the high schools as well as meet with individuals at agencies during the week and on weekends. In response to their efforts each high school has cooperated by identifying students who might benefit from participation in the program. Some high school senior participants have received full scholarships. Overall, we can look at the Talent Search program as another effort by the College to make higher education accessible to our area residents.
