

Sluter carries vote in Felton town elections Myers long time Mayor voted out

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
FELTON — Long time Mayor of Felton, Bill Myers, was defeated for reelection in elections held on Monday night in Felton. Myers had been a member of the council for approximately 35 years.
James Sluter, a businessman, owner of the Golden Years Manor Nursing Home in Felton, received the highest number of votes with 113. "I was overwhelmed by the results, but I think the door-to-door campaign with Jim O'Connor on Sunday was the thing that did it," said an exuberant Sluter.
One of the central issues that contributed to the Sluter-O'Connor victory was the issue concerning the washing of vehicles by firemen.
The former council had placed on the ballot a referendum to the effect that firemen not be permitted to wash their vehicles at the fire hall where water is free. The referendum actually read "...should the fire house be used as a local car wash at the expense of the town water taxpayers." It was the language in the referendum which antagonized the town's voters, mainly the firemen. As a general rule, the Felton Firemen stay out of the Town's elections. But this year led by James Sluter, the firemen or supporters of the fire company turned out in record numbers.

The referendum vote was 114 in favor of letting the firemen use the free water as opposed to 38 against.
Others in the election were John Hopkins who received 84 votes, Bill Brittingham with 91, Myers with 94, and Pat Rawding with 104.
There were a total of 204 citizens who voted.
Brittingham said he was surprised he got as many as he got. O'Connor said

"...thought it went as expected." Hopkins said "...I have no comment."
John Hopkins who received the least number of votes and a Myers supporter said in defending the wording of the referendum "...you can't call it a barn dance if it increases bills." Joe Gannon who works in water testing and environmental related problems said the cost of washing cars at the fire hall was insignificantly low. He estimated the cost to wash a car was under a penny. "It is really nothing for anyone to have gotten excited about. Right before the election Jim (O'Connor) had invited all firemen to come to his house and wash their cars. I really think someone got mad and carried the matter too far," said Gannon.
There will be a reorganizational meeting next Monday night. It is

The house at the corner of Liberty and Fleming streets in Harrington belonging to Walter G. Lekites, III, has been partially taken down at request of City Council.

City drops charges against Lekites

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
HARRINGTON — On Monday evening last week, the Harrington Council went into executive session prior to the workshop to discuss the matter relating to the property located at the northwest corner of Liberty and Fleming streets in Harrington, owned by Walter G. Lekites, III.
The property was supposed to have been "completed according to an order" from the Council by the 1st of January. It wasn't and the Council entered suit in the local Magistrate's Court shortly thereafter. Lekites had five days to respond, and according to the order, the initial charge would come up again each day for five days.
At the end of the five day period, there were then five charges against Mr. Lekites. As negotiations grew into "...by last Monday to between 35 and 40 charges".
In the meantime, Mr. Lekites engaged H. Cabbage Brown of the Dover law firm of Brown, Shiels and Chasanov to represent him. Also in the meantime, Mr. Lekites had negotiated the sale of the property to Bergold Builders, who has begun tearing down the property "...all except that which is useable." Mr. Bergold plans to rebuild on the site and have four apartments sometime by four months time.

Mr. Bergold has been issued a building permit which is good for one year. That building permit will expire sometime in February, 1987. He also has until that date to complete work on the structure.
On Tuesday night, the Council met again with Mr. Lekites and his attorney, H. Cabbage Brown, Jr. and Mr. Bergold, the builder in special session. An agreement was worked out on the details of which are not public in which the parties to the lawsuit agreed to drop the suit, sign an agreement to complete the structure. The Council asked for a commitment on when the structure could be closed in, and received an answer that it would be "...closed in...meaning roof on, windows in, doors hung and capable of being locked," within four months.
The parties signed the agreement, and the charges have been dropped.

Talks on Elizabeth Ave., contract bids and Blue Cross dues were considered at Harrington Workshop

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
HARRINGTON — Chester and Norma Short want to sell a lot located at the end of Elizabeth Avenue to Mrs. Short's parents. The land is located within the City limits and there is no sewer and water to the property.
Elizabeth Avenue is the street which runs north and south between properties owned by Franklin Hendricks and Harry Quillen near Welch's Seed Service.
"This is the only property that will be served. Is that right," shouted Councilman Temple. "Yes...that's the only one," replied Mayor Mann. "How do we know that more lots might come available along the street. Are we sure this won't happen? It seems to me that this has been one of Harrington's problems in the past...no planning," said Temple. "We put in, what is it...a four inch line," asked Temple? "No...just a three quarter inch line," snapped the Mayor. "Why don't we put a big enough line in there so that if we have to add on we won't have to dig up the street again and put in a bigger line. This is the problem and always will be the problem...no planning," said Temple. "Where are we going to get the money to do the job," asked the Mayor.

"There must be some money somewhere around this Town. If there isn't I don't know why we are thinking of doing the job in the first place," said Temple.
The City manager had given the Council some figures at the start of the workshop. "It will cost $956 for materials, and you can add in $1500 for outside labor for a total of $2,456. But if you elect to use the City employees it would be the cost of materials...plus the payroll," said City Manager George Volenik.
The matter was left undecided. It might come up again at the next council meeting on the 10th of March.
The City Manager also asked the Council to approve letting jobs without bids up to $20,000.00. "Now...this means of course that in any matter the council wishes it can request that certain contracts under $20,000 go out on bid," said City Manager. The Council still has the last say in any matter. The power is in the vote which is the seat at the council table.
Blue Cross dues are being raised, and the council approved retaining Blue Cross and upping the amount needed to comply with Blue Cross.

Williams and Draper file for School Board seats

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
HARRINGTON — Sara Williams has filed for the upcoming election to get her seat back on the school board. The term will be for three years.
Williams resigned last month and changed her mind, asking that her letter of resignation not be considered. The letter of resignation and the last letter were sent to school board president Roberta O'Neal. Superintendent Gerald Lysik reported that a letter of resignation speaks as of the date written. In that case the board never voted on Mrs. Williams. School board resignations in the past have been left up to the board. Her name was scratched through on the letterhead, and she was not seated.
She had engaged a lawyer who had indicated that there was authority to support her being seated.

She said this week that she is running to get her seat back which the people had elected her to serve. She is for open school board meetings and good basic education for the children of the district.
"The people elected me to do a job, and I mean to do it," said Williams.
Donald (Donnie) Draper has also filed for the election. The seat which Russell McCready occupies will be up for reelection. Draper is the husband of Doris Draper who has been a leader and outspoken member of the Citizens Advisory Group. One of the issues which Draper feels strongly about is the repairs to the district buildings. "...but doing it without having to raise taxes on property." He also said that minor work could be done and spent from minor caps, and approved a plan to pay as you go along without incurring debt.

Draper begins campaign to gain seat on School Board

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.
HARRINGTON — Donald L. Draper Sr. has filed for the seat on the school board now occupied by Russell McCready. Draper is the husband of Doris Draper, a leading spokesperson on the Citizens Advisory Committee.
Draper attends all board meetings and asks many questions concerning the affairs of the board. "I feel you should ask questions and challenge the issues which are put before the board. No one seems to do that," said Draper. "Chief among these matters which should have been questioned was the one on Mrs. Williams. The board was the body which should have acted on her resignation as the board did with Billy Garey and Wally Caulk," added Draper.
The following account by Mr. Draper puts forth what he believes are the issues facing the board:
Building Renovation - With the desperate need for repairs to our buildings, I feel the Board should work with the Advisory Committee on a modified plan for repairs with no tax increase. The balance of the work should be done over five years with minor capital improvements monies and the assistance of our qualified Vo-Tech students.
Equalization - Higher salaries are needed to get and keep our best teachers. However, until teacher evaluations are done on at least a once-a-month basis by both board and public observers, we will not have the best quality teachers.
Hiring Teachers - All teachers should be hired upon the basis of experience and qualifications. We have had instances in our district where experienced and qualified teachers were not hired but inexperienced were.

Office Centralization - I feel that if used efficiently, the office space now in our system is sufficient based upon our student population.
Administration - All administrators should be directly answerable to the Board, not the other way around. Also any positions which open in our district for administrators should be filled by qualified people in the district first.
Vehicle Use - School policy should state that vehicles are for business use only and not for use as commuter vehicles. During non-school hours, vehicles should remain on the school grounds.
Discipline - Discipline must be strengthened and can only be done with more parent involvement. Parents should be called for the first and every offense, not left in the dark.
Special Education - Many of our children now in special education classes need to be retested and re-evaluated. Special education is not designed as simply a way to bring more money into a district but to help those students in the most need of individual attention.
Board Travel - Travel by board members or administrators should be limited to one trip per year per board member or administrator. No two board members or administrators should attend these meetings two years in a row. Anyone attending such meetings out of state should be required to give a written and oral report on that meeting at the next regular board meeting after their return.

Scouts hold spaghetti dinner

by David Dill
Felton Boy Scout Troop 141 held their 4th Annual Spaghetti Dinner at Felton Fire House Sunday, March 2nd. A crowd of approximately 150 persons attended. They enjoyed out-of-sight spaghetti, delicious salads and bread served by the scouts themselves. The scout's moms and dads prepared the meal and did the kitchen work.

The proceeds raised from this dinner will go for such things as camping trips, tents, other dinners, etc.
The dinner was delicious, and the scouts were very courteous and did a very good job waiting on the tables. I'm sure all who attended are looking forward to next year's dinner.

Sluter carries vote in Felton town elections

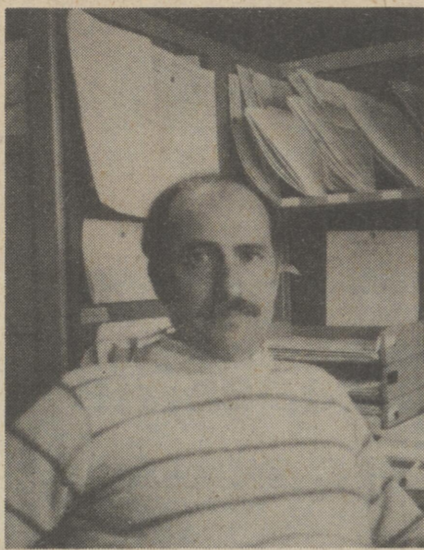

(Continued from page 1) expected that Sluter will be chosen mayor since the candidate with the highest vote at the election is usually chosen. "We have heard from the people, and they are concerned. There are a lot of things undone like the cable TV in one area as well as telephone lines are not connected for people who have complained about it. No one did anything about it," said Sluter.

Need a job? See the Job Corps

By William T. Ficka "All we want is a job." That is the cry sent up by many of Delaware's unemployed teenagers. One man who responds to that cry is Marvin Schelhouse of Greenwood. Schelhouse is the Job Corps representative for lower Delaware. It's not an easy job. He's the only Job Corps representative for all of Kent and Sussex Counties. There are two representatives in New Castle County. The program once had six statewide representatives but because of government cutbacks it now has only three.

Marvin Schelhouse

Schelhouse's job is the satisfaction that comes from hearing that a kid has completed his courses and has found a job. "It does make you feel good if a kid hangs in there and graduates," said Schelhouse. "Many of these kids have serious problems. We either build more prisons or support programs like this," he added. If a trainee stays the full two years, he can leave with $2,400. In addition to the $20 given every two weeks as spending money, the Center puts aside $75 a month for the first six months, and $100 a month thereafter in a readjustment allowance.

Myers refused to discuss the car wash matter prior to the election. He had sent a letter to the fire company indicating that the car washing stop. The argument which Myers said had been going on for 25 years began in the fire house and continued to be an on again off again hot issue. There was also an indication that cars were being washed by people who lived outside the city limits "...and were getting the water free."

Sex education in schools gets X rating

by William T. Ficka

Teenage pregnancies in 1985 numbered 1.1 million, resulting in 500,000 births. Most of these pregnancies occurred among unwed high school girls. Thirty-thousand occurred among girls under 15. Skyhigh VD rates among young people no longer surprise us.

If these figures tell us anything, they tell us that sex education as it has been taught for the past 20 years has been an unmitigated failure.

Children should be given sensible instruction on sex and the role it plays in their lives. But not in the crude barnyard fashion that has prevailed for the past generation.

Previous to 1965, all generations of children had been sexually inhibited by parents, by clergy and by female teachers who were themselves, in the main, sexually frustrated, neurotic spinsters. Many of the male teachers were milkops, who had their own hangups — hardly specimens to inspire confidence or admiration in growing boys and girls. Sex education was largely confined to sneaking a look at a National Geographic where a boy could gaze at a half-naked, sad-looking African girl. From there on out he played it by ear.

Now I don't say this method was good. But it was far better than teaching the will that it euphemistically labeled "sex education" in many of the states. Delaware educators have, to their credit, taken a conservative approach to this most controversial subject. Unfortunately, the same cannot be said for educators in all states.

One state was showing children a film of a man and woman under a bedsheet and telling them that Mommy and Daddy are doing the same as a pair of copulating cats.

Perhaps the worst state is California, the Land of the Loonies.

Jacqueline Kasun, a California professor, in 1979 wrote in "The Public Interest" that, "The seventh grader in my city is advised to set for himself a purely personal standard of sexual behavior." No religious views, no community moral standards are to deflect him from his overriding purposes of self-discovery, self-assertion and self-gratification.

Kasun cites other materials used in classrooms, such as the piece proclaiming that, "Our society must strive to sanction and support various forms of intimacy between members of the same sex."

Some of the more salacious reports simply cannot be described in a family newspaper.

Mel and Norma Gabler's book "What Are They Teaching Our Children" should be required reading for parents and teachers. It tells of depraved sex education courses and other texts in schools throughout the nation.

The specious reasoning behind much of sex education training has been that it "awakens" children to sexuality and breaks down inhibitions.

Have you ever heard such nonsense? Mother Nature and glandular and chemical changes take care of that awakening soon enough. Besides, there are enough sexual lures and enticements in our culture to awaken the dead.

And I wouldn't call those 1.1 million pregnancies the results of inhibitions. Those poor kids could have used a few more inhibitions and a lot more restraint.

But we can't put all the blame on the workaday teachers. Today's teachers are much more sexually enlightened than their counterparts of yesteryear. They do the best they can with the materials at hand.

The gradual breakdown of traditional beliefs that were formerly fostered by parents, teachers, clergyman, the police and the judicial system is largely responsible for much of the juvenile lawlessness and sexual promiscuity.

Like most things of value, sex morality is learned in the home. If a perceptive teenage girl sees that her mother and father have the sexual proclivities of two alley cats, the chances are pretty good that the girl will soon be receiving her mail at the Home for Unwed Mothers.

In any case, if the barnyard philosophy that now passes for enlightened sex education continues to be taught in some schools, let us hope that the students can counteract it with authentic information. This they can get from knowledgeable parents, good books, and life itself.

Going on the results we have seen thus far, we would have to give modern sex education an X rating.

"...do the crime...do the time"

When Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberoth pulled the plug on those baseball players who were involved in the drug trial last summer in Pittsburg, it created a lot of shock waves & sent up the proverbially red flag.

Across the country all the major newspapers and all the sports journalists took to pen, ink and typewriter.

You would expect the criticism that his ruling did not go far enough or that he should do something about the drinking of alcoholic beverages, which has gotten out of hand too.

Journalists, by trade, are liberals looking for change so you would expect it.

It was a good ruling in light of how this Commissioner and modern baseball look at this thing. Judge Keneshaw Landis, a commissioner of extreme disciplinary measures would have banished them from baseball altogether. This was also echoed last week by Henry Aaron, the all-time homerun king. Aaron said the drug users should be banished from the game for life.

The Commissioner did about all he could do. His hands are tied by the union and their negotiator, Don Fehr, and small print in player's contracts. Judge Landis is turning over in his grave.

We all know the magic language when sports figures get in trouble with the law. "Role-models, influence on young people," and more. We can't bring Judge Landis back to make one clean sweep with teeth gritting. So we have to do something else particularly when it comes to hard drugs...the most popular being cocaine.

If we didn't know it, we know it now that drug is the devil working overtime. The dangerous effects are real and it will have far reaching effects on our society.

But do we want to rid our society of drugs, or is it a monumental problem we cannot deal with? Some say if we wanted to rid our society of drugs...in the United States we could. If we were to invoke a rule Jdg. Landis would favor. The drug pusher would get death. So let's make the punishment death. President Marcos did it in the Philippines—one of the good things he did. Death to the distributor and heavy sentences to those who are caught in related crimes with sentences of 15 to 20 years.

Sound harsh? It is, but we are dealing with a severe problem, one that would have drastic effects in our society.

In truth, we need harsher laws, and carry them out to the maximum regardless of who is involved. One problem I have with sport figures is why aren't they arrested like other people who are caught with drugs.

The Pittsburg trial granted immunity, but the New England Patriots, who admitted to using drugs were not charged with anything!

Where do we draw the line? Commissioner Ueberoth sounded the alarm. He is trying to clean up his house. How do we do it in the business world? Employees say if it doesn't affect my work, what's the worry? But it does effect one's work, and if an employee has two drinks at lunch, that person cannot work effectively in the afternoon.

Little by little we have to close the gap. Start with the young people and show them the right way. Severe punishment of drug users must be carried out as well.

Do we want to stop drugs in the U.S.? I think we can if we pick up from where the Baseball Commissioner has left off and carry a prevention program in our society. "...do the crime...do the time".

Praise Commissioner Ueberoth for his efforts. At least he has started "the ball rolling."

Armor-piercing bullet ban: Bad news for everybody

S. 104 is a bill in the U.S. Senate designed to ban so-called cop-killer bullets, also known as armor-piercing bullets. The irony is that the bill will neither eliminate armor-piercing bullets nor will it save police lives.

The publicity surrounding the armor-piercing bullet has been costly. Since 1984, there has been a 400% increase in head shots to police officers. Criminals have been educated by the public debate about the existence of soft body armor worn by police.

Another irony, a sad one, is that virtually any rifle bullet will penetrate the soft body armor worn by police. Banning bronze bullets included in S. 104 will offer no greater protection to our policemen than they already have because the rifle bullets available to millions of hunters will still be on the market, and still be able to penetrate soft body armor after the bill is passed.

Meanwhile, no policeman wearing a vest has been killed by any of the so-called "cop-killer" bullets.

S. 104 is a bill that solves a non-existing problem while producing publicity that has increased the danger to policemen—not because of bullets, but because of better informed criminals. And as a very unpleasant side effect, many crucial commercial uses of the projectiles will be put on the banned list.

There are at least three companies known to GOA that are currently producing hunting bullets that would be banned by the bill. The bill's ban reads as follows: "The term 'armor-piercing ammunition' means solid projectiles or projectile cores constructed from tungsten alloys, steel, iron, brass, bronze, beryllium copper, or depleted uranium."

The bill specifically exempts steel shotgun shot and provides for an exemption for "sporting purposes" if someone has the time and the money to pursue an application through the Treasury Department and/or the courts to obtain an exemption.

The small companies involved in making the solid core bronze or brass hunting rifle bullets that would be banned cannot afford the legal fees that would be required to get an exemption from the Secretary of the Treasury.

Gun Owners of America has taken a one-half inch thick piece of iron to the Hill to show the Senators and their staffs that standard rifle bullets will pierce the iron while the solid brass or bronze bullets will not pierce iron, let alone steel — they melt before they go through, making a bronze-coated crater and leaving about a quarter inch of the heat of the bullet brazed into the crater.

In other words, the so-called "armor-piercing" bullets will not penetrate even a metal as soft as iron, while standard hunting rounds will.

Tungsten alloy projectiles, which are used in the petroleum industry, and which S. 104 would ban, are used to fragment rock formations that lie between deposits of oil and oil well shafts.

GOA then found the maker of a seismic gun that fires solid steel projectiles (another item on the to-be-banned list in S. 104) into the ground so that petroleum (and other) geologists can hear what kind of strata lie below the surface at that point.

GOA has also learned that solid steel projectiles are used by the steel industry to knock the slag from off the backs of blast furnaces.

The construction industry uses solid steel projectiles in pneumatic guns, as well as an experimental depleted uranium bullet that is being developed by the New Mexico School of Mines to open holes in which dynamite charges can be dropped to blow off the rock facing covering ore deposits.

Had there been hearings in this Congress on S. 104, such information could have been brought to light.

If you think that they do not read the bills in Washington, you may be right.

Daniel Webster and the Constitutional Bicentennial

by Maurice Baxter

EDITOR'S NOTE: On March 7, 1850, Daniel Webster gave the last of his great speeches in the U.S. Senate. Webster spoke on behalf of the Compromise of 1850, a package of bills proposed by Senator Henry Clay as a way of averting a sectional crisis. In supporting the Compromise, Webster shocked some of his supporters, who had come to believe that no compromise was possible on the slavery issue. Yet in this debate, as throughout his career, Webster maintained that the preservation of the Union was essential even if it meant tolerating slavery in the South. Professor Baxter recounts Webster's lifelong devotion to the Union.

As the bicentennial of the Constitution approaches, we can better understand its character by looking at the formative years of the nation, the decades up to the mid-nineteenth century. Daniel Webster (1782-1852) played a crucial role in those early years. This famous New Englander, born on the New Hampshire frontier, educated at the small college of Dartmouth, and launched into the world of law and politics as a young man, soon won recognition as an able, eloquent public figure.

From 1813 to his death nearly forty years later, he was Congressman, Senator, Secretary of State, and perennial presidential aspirant, as well as the leading lawyer practicing in the Supreme Court and an immensely popular orator. His fellow citizens, with good reason, called him the Defender of the Constitution. Whenever the meaning and application of the document became the focus of debate, he had something important to say. He argued before Chief Justice John Marshall's Supreme Court on the commerce power. He spoke in the Senate as adversary of John C. Calhoun on state nullification and as would-be savior of the Union during the slavery crisis of 1850. In party conflict, he stood fast as the great Whig opponent of Jacksonian Democrats.

Webster's constitutional ideas centered on his firm belief that the United States was a perpetual union of the whole American people, not a loose, terminable compact of sovereign states. To be sure, in his early career his sectional opposition to the War of 1812 drew him rather close to advocating state interposition as a remedy. But for the most part, he helped to nurture the nationalist idea that the people themselves had established a federal system with substantial powers distributed between two levels, national and state.

As a tireless advocate of nationalism, he confronted a formidable, sometimes dominant states' rights force. Afterward, Lincoln would vindicate Webster's doctrine by suppressing southern state secession in a bloody civil war. Ever since, the antebellum version of state sovereignty, though by no means extinct, has been a discredited notion.

Abstract constitutional theory had its uses in public affairs. Nationalists like Webster thought that a government possessing broad, flexible authority should encourage economic growth by stimulative measures — a national bank, a protective tariff, federal support for a network of transportation. State interference had to be resisted. The young republic would thrive only if all interests (business, labor, and agriculture) understood how these policies benefited everyone. Webster's opponents contended that this approach favored the wealthy at the expense of common folk, and until the Civil War their criticism usually beat back movements toward economic nationalism. It was another matter in a later, industrial, age.

Expounding a Constitution changing to meet new circumstances, Webster adjusted his ideology accordingly. It would thus be risky to impose his outlook mechanically upon the twentieth century scene. His adherence to a strong national union, to governmental encouragement of private enterprise, and to the mutuality of various interests would still be relevant to modern conservatives.

Yet Webster's nationalism would encounter a far different political and economic setting, one in which a bureaucratic leviathan employs its power to regulate the economy and affects the citizenry in many ways. Webster's speeches would be welcome reading for those persons arrayed against strong governmental pervasiveness, but it is hard to conceive of Webster repudiating nationalism and advocating that we give powers back to the states.

What would surprise Webster if he could see our present constitutional system would be the expansion of civil liberties. Instead of a Bill of Rights infrequently applied, as it was in his day, he would notice, with some concern, the extensive reach of judicial, executive, and legislative efforts to promote individual rights. The national power he nourished now operates positively for libertarian ends. We can only speculate how he would reconcile the power he advocated with its new-found objectives. For Webster, the intrusive nature of the national government might be a cause for concern, even though he might not find the central government itself objectionable. Yet the great defender of the nation would surely not hesitate to declare, as he did in his famous reply to Senator Robert Hayne in 1830: "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

Conservative Caucus proposes open Primary

A proposal that the Delaware General Assembly approve a bill that would establish an open presidential primary and that such a primary be held on the same day as the so-called "Super Tuesday" agreed to by ten Southern States was approved by The Conservative Caucus of Lower Delaware at its monthly meeting on Saturday, February 22, 1986.

According to David F. Coady, The Caucus Chairman, the proposal will be sent to several State Senators and Representatives such as G. Robert Quillen, B. Bradford Barnes, Thurman Adams and Ruth Ann Minner. Coady stated that he felt the present system of selecting delegates to the National Conventions was both archaic and out of date, and left the selection of delegates in the hands of party bosses.

"I believe that the people of Delaware are entitled to a larger say in party politics," Coady said.

"By joining the 'Super Tuesday' Presidential Primary, I feel that we will open up the political parties to the

Dear Mr. Farrow:

Enclosed is a letter which I read aloud to the school board on February 20th of this year. This is how I feel on the matter:

Board of Education
Lake Forest School District
Dorman Street
Harrington, Delaware 19952

At the board meeting on February 13, 1986, I listened in amazement as the school board seemingly accepted the reading of a state ruling regarding the resignation of a board member.

No member of the board questioned the Superintendent's interpretation of this ruling. The board President stated that the board would seek legal counsel on the matter while that same day ads had already been mailed to the local papers stating there was a board vacancy and requesting applicants. These actions were taken even though the ruling cited did not apply to the instance at hand.

It appears to me and to other citizens of

Question: Do you think the Felton Volunteer Firemen should be allowed to use the water at the fire house to wash their cars? (Asked of Felton residents.)
Mrs. Elizabeth Butler, Felton: "Yes, I do. They are volunteering their services and they do a lot for the community."
Mrs. Laura Benson, Felton: "Well, they do give their time volunteering to help us. I don't see where it's wrong to let them use the water."
Mrs. Terri Rains, Felton: "Yes, I do. I think they should be allowed to use the water, because they deserve at least that much. Most of the firemen are around there every day."
Mrs. Donna Green, Felton: "Yes. They are volunteering their time at the firehouse and not getting paid anything. I don't think there is anything wrong with them using the water. Most of them pay water bills at their homes. I think it is a very silly thing to fuss about. After all if they didn't volunteer, a lot of our houses would burn down."

Mr. Steve Childers, Felton: "Yes. There aren't that many places in town to wash cars. That's just one of the benefits they get for volunteering their services. I'll bet there aren't more than two cars that get washed there a week and it doesn't cost that much money."
Mrs. Louise Abbott, Felton: "I don't see any harm in it as long as they are washing their own cars. Now if it was a car wash or something, no. If some of them who live in the country and all want to wash their cars, there is nothing wrong with it."

Rep. Quillen and the Joint Finance Committee

If you have been wondering where I have been lately, look no further than the basement of Legislative Hall. True, the Legislature is in a six week recess, but I have been busy as a member of the budget writing Joint Finance Committee.

During the break the Joint Finance Committee (JFC) has the task of interviewing the budget requests of the various divisions of government and making a determination of what they need to provide necessary services to Delawareans.

The process involves more than Legislators giving their blind blessing to budget requests. Our job is to hold State administrators to a level of accountability at the services level and at the important fiscal level.

One of the things we took a close look at was the Hays Report — a report and recommendation on State salary schedules and job classifications. In my opinion the Hays Report needs amending. Clearly I am not alone in my dissatisfaction of how some State employees are classified.

Though it is still early in the budgetary process, I feel confident in predicting that the Joint Finance Committee will be able to deliver to the Governor another balanced budget, one that is responsive to the needs of all Delawareans. I will keep you posted.

Carper statement on Philippine election

Delaware's Congressman Tom Carper states concerning the Philippine elections and the transfer of the presidency from Ferdinand Marcos to Corazon Aquino:
"Americans have a right to hold our heads a bit higher in the world today because of our recent actions in the Philippine Islands. We have been true to our democratic principles, yet we have not coldly turned our backs on an old ally.

"We have, however, played a critical role in causing President Marcos to resign."

Over The Backyard Fence

Gab Fest by Pat Hatfield

After two weeks of rain, fog, snow and slush it was good to see a bit of sunshine this morning. But it is not brilliant sunshine at that. It crept in so pale, looking like it had faded in the wash, but it gave us a bit of hope that Winter was nearing the end of its reign.

One of our Readers from Ellendale, Doris West, called on Saturday afternoon to report that the field by her house was covered with a huge flock of robins, probably a hundred or more. I wish I could have been there to share her joy and excitement.

I have only seen robins one time like that. It was in January several years ago, and the weather had been very mild. The field across the road from our house was literally covered with robins. It was a pretty sight. I understand that, in parts of Florida, the robins have become as big a problem as the blackbirds are here. In the South we enjoyed the Scarlet Tanagers flitting about in the trees along the residents' houses.

I grew up as an only child for twelve years and did not live too close to other children, but I was completely happy. Birds were a good part of my life. In the early summer mornings I would get up early and go out of a small clearing in Grandfather's woods and just stand there and listen to the early morning chorus of the birdsong. It seemed that all the different birds were singing at once to greet the day. I live it over again in my memory. It was so spectacular the sun shining through the new foliage and the birds calling and singing, going mad with the joy of it all. I could hardly tear myself away to get my breakfast.

I remember also the day I found the orioles nest swinging from an apple tree. It is the only one I have ever seen. I remember too, my grandfather boosting me up to see the tiny humming-bird's nest on the high, wide limb of an old tree, and I remember the tiny eggs, no larger than a soup bean.

I remember the soft swish of the wind through the pine trees and the wheeling and dealing of the Bee Martins or Kingbirds getting their evening meal. Grandfather always had houses for the Martins. And there was the excitement of finding the pink Ladyslipper along the edge of the woods.

I meant to get started on another Sweetheart Quilt by now, but I've temporarily mislaid the foundation squares I had ready. Do you all have a problem of losing things? When the children were growing up, I used to say that we had at one time or another, lost everything but the piano. We could not always see it under all the clutter, but we knew where it was!

Lake Forest wrestlers record highest score in State tournament in school's history

by Harry G. Farrow Jr.

DOVER — The team scored 41 and one half points during the State Wrestling Tournament over the weekend. The Spartans were 14th in a field of 37 schools participating.

"This is the most points ever by a Spartan wrestling team at the state tournament. Our people did a great job for us...as they have during the season," said Tom Shaffer, head coach.

We sent seven participants...Steve Porter (freshman), Darryl Cherry, Derik Dill (juniors), Ken Outten, Mike Gygyryuk, Scott Fleming (seniors) and Marvin Hicks (Sophomore).

Steve Porter lost his two matches in the 112 lb. class, losing to Durso of Salesianum and Cornwell from Millford in the consolation preliminaries. "Steve is a young kid, and he got down after the first pin, and just never got going in the second round," said Shaffer.

"Derik (Dill) had a good tournament. He did very well for himself," said Shaffer. Derik started by getting pinned by Kurt Howell of Newark in 1:34 and pinned Paoli of St. Elizabeth's in 2:25 in the consolation prelims. He pinned Doug Croll of St. Mark's in :33. "Croll is a real good wrestler and Derik did a real good job," said Shaffer. Derik lost to Chris Szymanski of Salesianum technical fall in 4:46. "Derik will be back next year and I think he will be ready for bigger and better things," added Shaffer.

Kenny Outten lost once during the regular year, and it looked like going from the Henlopen Conference Champion to the state tournament that he would be banging on the door there of the championship. He won his first match with a technical fall, and was on his way. But he lost to Wayne Lamarche of Salesianum 7-6 in a real tough match. Lamarche finished 2nd in the tournament. He then beat B.T. Fisher of CR 5-0, but lost to Joe Anderson of St. Mark's 11-10 in the quarter finals...again a real close match.

Darryl Cherry lost to Paul Hoff of Glasgow 15-0 but pinned Sam Mallock of Tatnell in :45. He lost to Pat Maguire of St. Mark's 11-13. "I was sort of nervous for the first time in the State Tournament. I really had the jitters," said Cherry. "Maguire rode the legs...if I had to do it over again I would have continued to shoot at his legs for takedowns," added Cherry. "Darryl is real quick and if he practices those moves he will be one of the mainstays next year," added Shaffer.

Wendell Watson lost the first two

Labonte wins Goodwrench 500 for his first victory of season

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. — Terry Labonte gained control early and easily fought off a series of challengers to win the Goodwrench 500 NASCAR race at North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Labonte, who set a track qualifying record in winning the pole position for the 500-mile race, beat back challenges by Harry Gant, Daytona 500 winner Geoff Bodine, Dale Earnhardt and seven-time Winston cup champion Richard Petty on the way to his sixth career victory and first of the season.

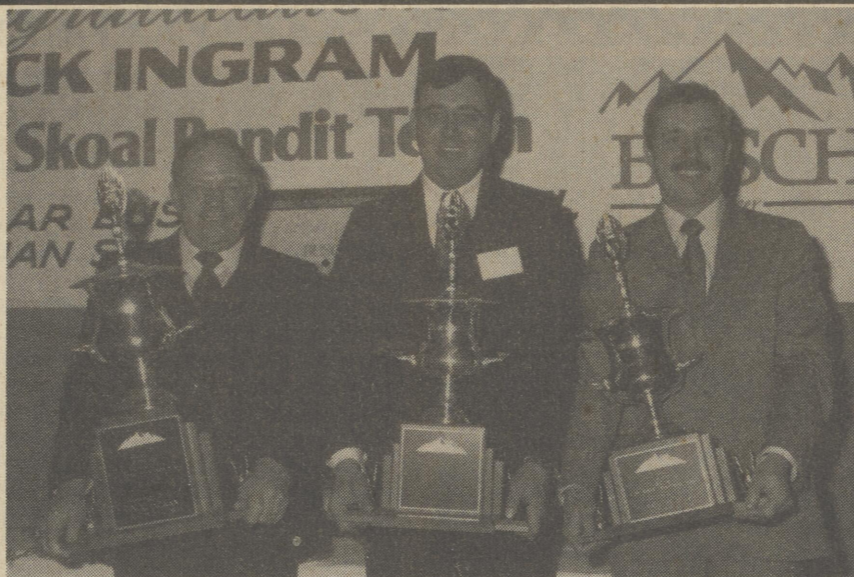

Labonte's Oldsmobile Delta 88 finished less than two car lengths ahead of Gant's second-place Chevrolet Monte Carlo SS.

Ingram wins 1985 championship

by Mike Slade

"Iron Man" Jack Ingram won his fifth NASCAR Busch Late Model Sportsman Championship with his fifth place finish at Martinsville. He edged out runner-up Jimmy Hensley by twenty-nine points. Ingram's win has earned him two distinctions: The oldest champion (age forty-nine) and owner of the most championships (five).

On his way to the title Ingram picked up five wins, seventeen top five, and twenty-two top ten finishes in twenty-seven starts, winning a personal high of $115,798 in purse money.

Waltrip offers predictions

FRANKLIN, Tenn. — Darrell Waltrip believes the record for the most different winners in a season may be broken in 1986.

The addition of the new aerodynamic cars produced by General Motors means the Bill Elliott-Ford domination of 1985 won't be repeated this year, he says. "All of the guys driving GM cars are better off than last year, and those driving Pontiacs are a lot better off," says Waltrip.

"The Thunderbird was a much slicker car than anything any of us GM guys had last year," adds Waltrip.

The new Pontiac, a Grand Prix 2+2, the Buick LaSalle and the Oldsmobile Delta 88 Royal are completely redesigned cars, while a new rear window has been added to the Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

"I said last year that it was going to be the year of the Ford, and it was," says Waltrip. "And this year, I think it's going to be the year of the Pontiac."

Waltrip says he doesn't see any driver having the type of year that Elliott had in 1985.

"I hope I can match Bill's win total and be the one who wins the Winston Million," says Waltrip. "And this Budweiser team is capable of doing it if anyone is. But I think you are going to see a lot of different drivers win races, and five, six, or seven may be the most (races) anyone wins."

The record for the most different winners in a season during the modern era (1972 on) is 12, set in 1983 and matched in 1984.

And Elliott admits that it's going to be "extremely difficult" to equal his 1985 season. "But our goal is still to better last year," he says. "For one thing, we didn't win the Winston Cup championship."

Pontiac drivers Richard Petty, Rusty Wallace and Lake Speed hope Waltrip is correct in his prediction. "We are three or four miles an hour faster than last year," says Petty. "But who knows how much faster Bill is."

Wallace, who is still looking for that elusive first Winston Cup victory, has switched to the Raymond Beadle team this year.

"The difference in how this car gets through the corners compared to last year's car is amazing," adds Speed. "We couldn't race with Bill last year on the big tracks."

Hillin's Daytona 500 story has historical and competitive significance

MILWAUKEE — Miller American driver Bobby Hillin Jr., 21, became the youngest driver to post a top-five finish in the Daytona 500 when he crossed the finish line fourth.

Another motor erupted while Hillin was leading a five-car draft in a Feb. 11 practice session, sending the car into the outside retaining wall. The 1986 Buick LeSabre was destroyed.

The Miller American team, led by Ron Puryear, took an unprepared 1985 Chevrolet Monte Carlo, updated it to a 1986 model, repainted it with an appropriate color scheme and readied it for competition in the 125-mile qualifying race Feb. 13 — all in 36 hours.

Hillin started the second 125-mile qualifying event in the 31st starting spot and drove to an impressive 13th-

PONTIAC INTRODUCES NEW SD CYLINDER HEAD FOR GM BIG BLOCK V8S

Following an intense eleven month development program, Pontiac Motorsports is ready to release their new Super Duty aluminum cylinder head for GM corporate big block V8s. These engines were originally built as Chevrolet Mark IV V8s, but with the reorganization to CPC, they are now considered corporate engines. The new cylinder head was accepted for NHRA Pro Stock competition by presenting a position paper showing the use of the former Chevrolet engines in full size, late sixties Pontiacs manufactured in Canada.

The new head was developed to meet an overwhelming demand for affordable, reliable and competitive racing heads in Pro Stock and other classes that utilize the big block V8. Every form of competition was considered during its development to ensure broad coverage with Pontiac identity. The cylinder head will be ideal for oval track modified circuits in the deep south, as well as various dragster and modified production classes, drag boat racing, offshore racing and a host of other venues.

The primary goal was to reduce the cost of racing head preparation, and make a quality piece available to everyone. Racers are currently spending twelve to eighteen thousand dollars for a set of modified cylinder heads. Pontiac heads will put them on the track and ready to win for about $3500, and because every foreseeable problem was dealt with up front; the Pontiac castings should provide racers with totally reliable parts that perform flawlessly while illustrating the high caliber of Pontiac engineering.

equal footing with other race teams. Their greatest contribution is their low cost and availability coupled with state-of-the-art flow technology that makes them instantly competitive with any cylinder heads currently available.

Suggested retail price will be $1488, and because they are so well engineered, many competent racers will be able to do the finish work themselves. Developed with the valuable input of leading head porter Dale Iky, valve train expert Danny Jesel and the manufacturing expertise of Brodix Cylinder Heads, the new head will revolutionize big block competition across the nation.

The heads will be available directly from your Pontiac dealer or from Brodix Cylinder Heads. Jesel and Crane Cams will be providing valve train components to complement Manley's titanium valves. Fel Pro will have the necessary gaskets and Edelbrock will be offering the valve covers and the single four barrel intake manifold.

Pontiac is making this head available for all GM racers and they plan to continue applying their skills to contemporary performance problems. It's just another example of consumer conscious engineering from the folks that brought you the GTO, the Trans Am and the Fiero GT.

LATE MODELS JOIN SPRINTS AT HAGERSTOWN

The high-powered late models will be joining the super sprints on Sunday afternoon, March 9th, for an action-packed double feature program. It will be the first appearance of the year for the late models as they begin their chase for the lucrative track championship.

Gates open at noon with Late Model racing at 2:00 p.m.

The super sprints will share the program with the late models on Sunday afternoon, March 9th.

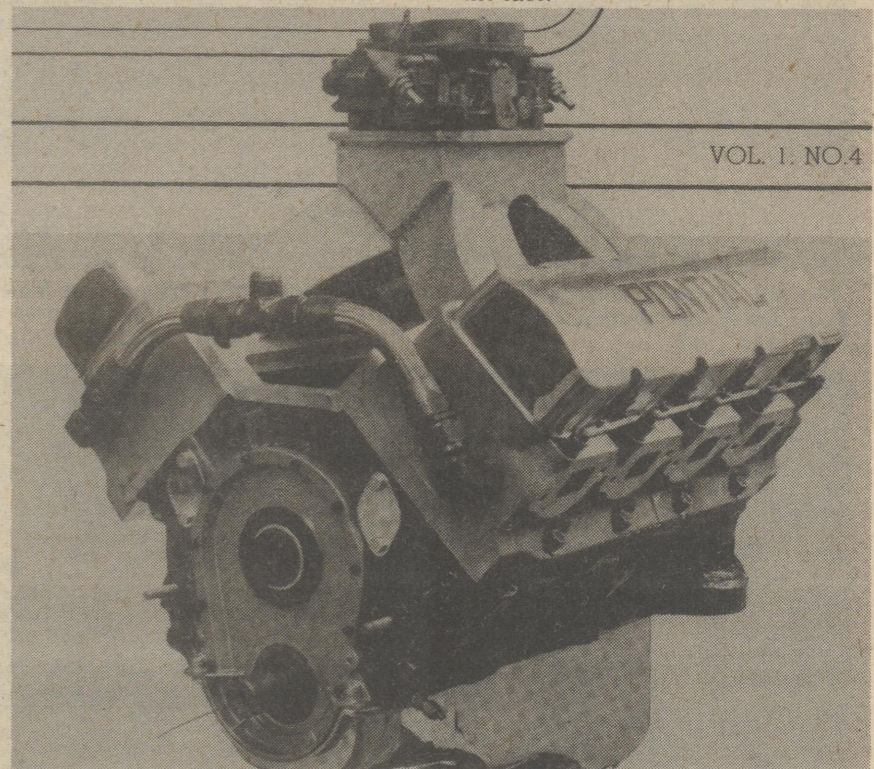

The spring cars will become a part of Hagerstown's schedule this year and will be competing on a regular basis on Friday nights beginning in May while the late models will continue to run on Sunday evenings.

On the following week, March 16th, the sprints will have the afternoon off as the limited late models begin their 1986 season in a triple feature program with the late models and roadrunners.

AIMS TICKET OFFICE EXTENDS HOURS TO MEET DEMAND

The heaviest demand for tickets in the history of Alabama International Motor Speedway has caused General Manager Don Naman to alter his game plan and extend the hours that the AIMS Ticket Office will be open, prior to the May 4th Winston 500.

Tickets to the infield, as well as the 15,000 unreserved grandstands on the backstretch, also go on sale the day of the race.

MAGNESIUM RACING ENGINE UNVEILED AT SEMA SHOW

Pontiac's Motorsports engineering group introduced their magnesium Super Duty engine block in convincing fashion by suspending it from a scale at the 1985 SEMA Show. The fully dressed engine weighed in at 226 pounds and demonstrated to everyone present, the sophistication of Pontiac's motorsports program. Tentatively scheduled for release in 1986, the Super Duty "mag" engine represents Pontiac's serious intentions in the racing community.

The engineering group has persevered to develop a magnesium engine block that weighs a scant 41 pounds dry and accepts all Super Duty racing hardware. It uses the Super Duty aluminum cylinder head and forged crankshaft to build engine combinations ranging from 2.5L to 3.3L. The first application of the all new block will most likely be a new Camel Light GTP car currently being prepared for the 1986 IMSA season.

BODINE WINNER OF KODAK LAP COMPETITION

Not only was Geoff Bodine the winner of the Daytona 500, but he was also the winner of the first round in the lap leader competition in NASCAR Winston Cup stock car racing sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company.

Some $40,000 in prize money was provided as part of the Kodak Film Lap Leader Awards at the Daytona 500. The race was divided into 10 segments with the leader of a designated lap within each segment winning ten percent of the total award. In the event the designated lap was under caution, the second consecutive green flag lap following the caution became the designated lap.

By awarding each driver ten percent of the posted award for the laps, the final prize money at Daytona was: Bodine $20,000, Earnhardt $8,000, Bonnett $4,000, Labonte $4,000 and Marlin $4,000.

The remaining Winston Cup events which will host Kodak Film Lap Leader Awards competition will be announced at a later date, according to NASCAR President, Bill France Jr.

Kodak is also the official film and paper of NASCAR as well as sponsor of the Kodak Film Pontiac driver by Eddie Bierschwale of San Antonio, Texas.

Fans can't wait, Georgetown schedules earlier opener

The pre-season enthusiasm of their fans and a revitalization program that is ahead of schedule has prompted the Georgetown Speedway to move its 1986 season opener ahead one week to May 2. "We wish we could open even earlier, like so many of our loyal fans have asked us to do," said speedway director Tony Donofrio, "but we want to make sure we have the place looking its best to kick off what we feel will be a banner year for Southern Delaware stock car racing."

First State Promotions has lined up some surprises to spice the opening show. There will be 35 laps of heated feature racing for the Modifieds with a winner's purse of $1250 up for grabs. The Limited Late Models and Street Modifieds will also compete in special length features of 25 and 15 laps respectively for fattened purses.

Beauty will highlight the evening in the persons of Ms. Motorsports '86, Tracey Lape, the queen of the recent Motorsports '86 show held at the Valley Forge Convention Center in Valley Forge, Pa., and two of her fellow contestants, First Runner-up Tammy Klopp and Second Runner-up Lisa Fenimore. These three lovely ladies will be on hand to greet the fans, sign autographs and present trophies to the winning drivers. This will be Ms. Lape's first speedway appearance since winning her title.

Joe's Paint and Body Shop and Cape Henlopen Glass will be sponsoring the evening's events. The Georgetown, DE firm is one of the contributors to the speedway's $16,000 guaranteed season points fund, and they will be providing the winner's trophies for the evening. The gates will open for this exciting kick-off of the Delmarva Stock Car season at 6:00 p.m. with the first heat rolling out at 8:30 p.m. Admission will be $10.00 for the pits and $6.00 general admission.

Bodine eyes Winston 500 as key to Winston Million

TALLADEGA, AL — Geoff Bodine now turns his attention to the May 4th Winston 500, and his quest for the million-dollar rainbow of NASCAR Winston Cup racing, the Winston Million.

"Winning Daytona is the only way to start off, but the Winston 500 is the key," says Bodine. "If we could manage to win that one, two things would be greatly in our favor."

"First, since there would be only two of the races left, no other driver but us could win it this year. Second, we'd only have to win one of the final two races in the series, and that is a big cushion. If we don't win the Winston 500, we'd have to win both the World 600 and the Southern 500, and that would be a tall order. Yes, the key is definitely the Winston 500."

By winning the Winston 500, Bodine, who drives the Levi-Garrett Chevrolet, would lay claim to another facet of the program. If no one wins the required three races, the first driver to win any two will receive a bonus of $100,000 from R.J. Reynolds.

Kelsey-Hayes, Kendall return to Firehawk Series

AKRON — Kelsey-Hayes ET Mags and Kendall Oil again will co-sponsor the Firehawk Endurance Championship road racing series in 1986, renewing their support from this past year's inaugural season of the International Motorsports Association (IMSA) - sanctioned series.

"The Firehawk series took off like wildfire in 1985 and even before the season was complete, both Kelsey-Hayes and Kendall indicated they wanted to work with us again in 1986," explained Jerry Kerr, vice president of advertising for The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, sponsor of the series.

"Both companies believe, as does Firestone, that street stock racing has tremendous growth potential," Kerr said.

Kelsey-Hayes, which markets its ET Mags through its Kelsey Products Division, is the world's largest aluminum wheel manufacturer. Cars in the Firehawk series last season used the ET Mags Diamond Wire and Star Runner design wheels.

Kendall Oil, a division of Witco Corporation, supplies free oil and technical lubrication advice to all series competitors. Kelsey-Hayes and Kendall also contribute to the race prize money and the year-end points fund.

Firestone sponsors the race series as a showcase for its performance tires, including its line of Firehawk GT street radial tires. The series is open to more than 90 models of 1984-1986 imported and domestic performance cars, racing with only safety and minor performance improvements from street versions.

"The Firehawk series provides us the opportunity to demonstrate the wheels under racing conditions," said Jim McClain, general manager of the Kelsey Products Division. "We are proud to say that ET Mags, which are designed for more sedate highway use, performed as expected during the 1985 Firehawk series."

Andy Maurey, manager of performance activities for Kendall, pointed to his company's long involvement in pure racing projects ranging from road racing to drag racing.

"Being able to use Kendall Oil in street engines under racing conditions makes the Firehawk series a relevant one to consumers," Maurey said.

The Firehawk series for 1986 will feature 10 races, nine of them six hours in length and one 24-hour contest. The series begins March 21 at Sebring, Fla.

Lake Forest wrestlers matches one to Fred Cerninaro of Delcastle and to Don Larsen of Friends. Both decisions. "Wendell came on toward the end of the season. He has a strong desire to wrestle, and I think Wendell will be real tough next year. You must remember...that he took off a lot of weight to get down in the weight class. I think it made him sort of weak," added Shaffer.

Mike Gyrynuk started off real good this time pinning Chuck DiCino from Delcastle in 5:15, but was beaten by Brandon Little with a technical fall. He lost to Perry Hopkins 6-5 in the consolation. "Wendell had beaten Hopkins in the regular season...but he was down and tired," added Shaffer.

Henlopen Conference Champion Scott Fleming pinned Chris Koprive from Claymont, but lost in the second round to Marvin Dooley of William Penn. "Scotty had beaten Marvin before...but he (Scotty) knew that Marvin liked to barrel roll...and he did which was good for 4 points. This is hard to make up, added Shaffer. Criticism of the refereeing in this match, because Scotty had the guy on his back 4 times without the ref awarding him a point. Scotty lost 11-8. He won all the rest in the consolation wrestle backs for third in the conference.

"Marvin (Hicks) had a real great tournament," said Shaffer. He beat Tom Boeltz of A.I. 17-6 but lost to John Gouly of St. Andrews 1-0.

He beat Vince Alessia of St. Elizabeth's 4-0 but lost to Curtis Taylor 4-2. "Each match I lost was real close. I did not think anyone was stronger than I was...it was just one of those things in getting the breaks," said Hicks. "I think a lot of it is experience," said Marvin Hicks, who is a sophomore. "Marvin got a lot of experience this year and someday, Marvin should be state champion. If anyone can do it, Marvin can because he is dedicated to winning," said Shaffer.

Winston Million top AP story

DARLINGTON, S.C. — Bill Elliott's victory in the Southern 500 stock car race at Darlington Raceway, which claimed him a $1 million bonus, was voted the top South Carolina sport story for 1985 by Associated Press newspaper and broadcast members.

Elliott won the "Winston Million" by capturing three of the four designated races on the Winston Cup Series, which included the Southern 500. The bonus was offered by the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company for the first time this year.

Elliott opened the season by winning the Daytona 500, then won the Winston 500 at Talladega, experienced mechanical problems at Charlotte in the World 600, then beat the odds makers by winning the Southern 500 and the bonus.

In the single season, Elliott won more superspeedway races than anyone in NASCAR history with 11; he set the all-time single-season earnings record of more than $2 million; went faster than anyone ever had gone in a stock car with a qualifying lap of 209.398 mph at Talladega; won seven consecutive superspeedway poles, another record; was named the NMPA Driver of the Year, Eljer Driver of the Year and NMPA/NASCAR Most Popular Driver, beating the legendary Richard Petty by a 2 to 1 margin. He also was named the Atlanta Journal Pro Athlete of the Year.

Included in the top ten sport stories for the year were: William "The Refrigerator" Perry's emergence in the NFL; Furman's second-place finish in the NCAA Division I-AA football playoffs; Danny Ford's reprimand and the suspension of four Clemson football players after a fracas during the Maryland game; and the paralysis of Citadel linebacker Marc Buoniconti after his injury during the East Tennessee game.

place finish. Practice sessions the next two days allowed the team to get the Miller American Chevrolet Monte Carlo race-ready for the Daytona 500.

Starting in the 25th position, Hillin moved to the front during the first half of the race and remained in contention to the finish. He led the 101st lap and felt he could have finished as high as second if not for miscommunications with his pit crew. He crossed the finish line fourth, in the same lap with

Bodine.

"Our radio signal had been getting crossed up with a motel and a plumbing company during the race, and when we made the last pit stop, I misinterpreted the message," said Hillin. "I thought I heard Ron tell me that the caution was out and to go back around the track again before coming back into the pits. That situation definitely cost us a better finish."

yield to the popular mandate of the Filipino people. Widespread bloodshed, which was viewed as inevitable only a few days ago, now appears unlikely.

"Our nation's relations with the Filipino people have not been irretrievably damaged. We can look forward to developing a solid working relationship with the emerging government there. We can look forward to continuing to play a major role in that part of the world.

"Just as the Filipino people have earned our respect for their devotion to democracy, we, too, may have earned the renewed respect of the rest of the world by the way we have conducted ourselves in the past several weeks.

"I believe we owe it to ourselves to look at these recent historic events as an example to emulate in other parts of the world, where our legitimate, strategic interests are threatened, in part, because of our blind devotion to an ally who no longer enjoys the popular support of his or her people."

Senior Center News

On Monday (10th) the Ceramics Department will be working putting the finishing touches on their lovely items for the Spring Bazaar and in the afternoon, we will be having the Members Meeting. Any member is invited to the monthly meeting to have their opinions heard or to just be a part of the center memberships decisions. The meetings begin after lunch at 1 p.m.

On Tuesday (11th) we are sponsoring our first (but not our last) Crafts excursion. The trip, which costs $4.00 for members and $6.00 for non-members, includes visits to All About Crafts in both Seaford and Salisbury, Darn Yarn, Salisbury Mall, and the Twilley Center, all in Salisbury. It is not too late to get seats for this trip...if you are interested in crafts, this would be the trip for you. While we are talking about trips, it seems everyone has started asking us about upcoming trips. I guess everyone is tired of being 'cooped up' in the house during the winter. Well, we have scheduled trips to Inner Harbor, which includes tickets to the Power Plant and a smorgasbord at Horn and Horn in Severna Park (April 10th); Atlantic City trip on April 21st (which includes transportation, $8.00 in coins, $5.00 towards food and a show, all at the Atlantic Casino. Cost is $15.00 for members and non-members. Leave Harrington at 8 a.m. and return at 8 p.m.). In May (14th) we have a trip to the Potomac Mills, the worlds largest outlet mall. Also included in this package is a free shopping bag and a book of discount coupons, a delicious full course meal, and admission to the New International Elvis Presley Museum. Then...in June, we will be taking another one of our Mystery Trips. For information on any of these trips, please call the Center at 398-4224.

So, you see, the Center not only tries to have programs at their facility that interest people, but we also try to accommodate those persons who like to travel.

Now, this week's Information Tip. We have received in the office, Discount Coupons for Busch Gardens in Williamsburg, Virginia. If you are 55 or greater, you would present the coupon at Busch Gardens and receive a $4.50 discount on the general admission cost. This offer expires on May 31, 1986. Busch Gardens is open weekends beginning March 29th and daily beginning May 10th. If you would like to have any of these coupons, while supplies last, please stop by the Center.

Now, most importantly, don't forget to stop by the Center on Saturday, March 22nd for this year's ANNUAL SPRING BAZAAR. We are hoping that those persons who have been unable to attend in the past, due to work, etc., will be able to stop by on Saturday. So, pass the word. The hours for the sale will be 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. A luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. There will be arts and crafts, ceramics, baked goods and white elephant.

If you would like to lend a hand in the preparation, here is the information: Crafts Department works Tuesday and Thursday at the Center (Contact Barbara Evans or Jeanette Legates); Ceramics Department works Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Center; Baked Goods Department is headed by Virginia Smith. If you would like to donate some items, please call her or the Center. The White Elephant Department is headed by Gladys Hill. If you have any items to donate, please call her or the Center. The Kitchen (Luncheon) Department is headed by Loris Henry and Phyllis Clink. Please contact either of them or the Center if you would like to help in that area. Elmer Clink is this year's overall Chairman (398-3912) and you may call him if you would like to help in any area! Looking to see you then, Saturday, March 22nd.

Get well wishes are extended to Angela Stumpf who has been confined at home with an ear infection. She is feeling better.

The sale of the late Raymond Dill held at Wilson's Sale on Monday, February 24th, 1986 was terrific. Cards, pictures, books on Delaware pottery, a wonderful display on "Delmarva". Watch for the next sale, try not to miss it, even if you just look, you can get an education of Delaware in the early days to the present.

The Cub Scout Pack 141, served their spaghetti dinner yesterday in Felton Fire Hall. Their service, manners and attentiveness was "super". The spaghetti prepared by the Cub Scout's parents was delicious and salad also was great. All in all, it had to be a success for all concerned.
