Yolanda King

Miss King opens Black College Week at DE State

DELAWARE STATE COLLEGE, DOVER. Miss Yolanda King, oldest Martin Luther King, Jr. and Mrs. Week" at Delaware State College Monday night called on her people

Miss King addressed a nearly packed auditorium in the Humanities Building of principally Delaware State College undergraduates, faculty, staff and the news media. She claims her father's speaking abilities and revolutionary spirit saying that the death of her father in 1968 has continued to leave the job of civil right unfinished.

The civil rights activist stated that racism today is not the paramount theme in the civil rights movement, but that the real movement was toward eliminating the conditions of the poor. 'My father had a dream...and I know you are all familiar with that speech, but the most important theme of his crusade in 1968 was to eliminate the conditions of the poor", said Miss King. She added that her father had planned a march on Washington and "...remain there until such time as our government Atlanta, Ga.

provided jobs for all...and a standard of living which would be acceptable".

Miss King theorized that her father was child of slain civil rights leader Dr. "kared not because of a racial tension but one of rich versus poor. "It was not an Coretta King, opened "Black College" ethnic reason that my father was killed. It was a greed to be all powerful", added Miss King.

...to keep the revolutionary spirit She called for a unification of her going...and don't let the dream be people and asked them not to be caught up in a materialistic world. She used the symbolic term of the fact that in order to get harmony out of a piano you must use the black and white keys together. "You cannot attain harmony with one and not the other. With the use of both, vou can make a melodious tune'

> The annual Black College Week celebration was begun in 1980. Delaware State College is one of 114 black colleges in the U.S. which participates in this kind of celebration. Miss King echoed the theme of Black College Honors Day celebration that as brothers and sisters her people must stand together. She quoted her father many times and one of the most pronounced phrases was "...that we must learn to live together or we will die together as fools" Miss King is a director of the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Center in

THE ECONOMY AND YOU

AMTRAK, THE BILLION DOLLAR SUBSIDY

By Richard H. Fink

One thing you learn in Washington is that talk is cheap. It's the product of all that talk that is driving U.S. taxpayers to the poorhouse.

Take the example of Amtrak, the government-owned passenger train company that carries a "whopping" one-third of one percent of all intercity

Since its inception in 1972, Amtrak has cost U.S. taxpayers some $12 billion. Congress has approved another $613 million subsidy for tghe coming 1987 fiscal year. And if forecasts can be trusted, total cost during the next decade will be in the neighborhood of $7 billion.

That's a lot of money so Congress can play choo-choo train.

All of this is happening, of course, while Congress is simultaneously talking about belt-tightening, eliminating subsidies for the middle class, cutting government to the bare bones. But the people riding Amtrak are not the same people the Reagan administration used to describe as "the truly needy."

Studies show that half of Amtrak's passengers have incomes of $30,000 per year or more. As one who has ridden the train on the heavily traveled New York-Washington corridor, I can assure you that many other riders are galavanting vacationers.

On average, every time a passenger steps on an Amtrak coach he or she receives a $33 subsidy from the taxpayer. That's the difference between the price of the ticket and the cost of providing the service.

The Amtrak subsidy, per passenger-mile, is more than 100 times larger than the subsidy for air, bus, or auto travelers — which is not to argue that these passengers are being cheated. The only people being cheated are the hard-working U.S. taxpayers. They are being taken for a ride.

The historic tax-reform legislation hasn't even been signed into law yet, and already some in Congress - including House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski (D-IL) — are arguing that the tax rates will have to be raised to bring the deficit under control.

That's not why we have deficits. We have a large and growing deficit because of hundreds of harmless-looking government programs such as Am-

The unhappy fact is that it would cost less for the federal government to provide every Amtrak passenger with an airline ticket to this destination than to continue the passenger train subsidies.

That's one Amtrak proposal, however, you won't find many members of Congress ready to climb aboard.

As long as Amtrak receives federal subsidies, its business will continue to be made on the basis of what's political, not what's best and most efficient. Like the government-owned Conrail freight railroad, Amtrak should be turned into a private company, and sold to the public. Rather than politicians deciding its fate, let the market decide.

That's $7 billion we could save over the next decade. Even Casey Jones would approve of this.

Higher Education Bill takes new realities into account

by Congressman Tom Carper

Students in Delaware and across the nation who need financial assistance to attend college will be able to borrow significantly more in low-interest loans, thanks to the $10.2 billion higher education bill the House adopted this week, with my support. But there will be conditions on this aid, with an eye toward better targeting scarce federal dollars and getting the most bang for our education buck

While traditional loans--Guaranteed Student Loans for the poor, and middle class and Pell Grants for the lowestincome students--make up the lion's share of the measure, this five-year reauthorization of the Higher Education Act also places some welldeserved attention on new realities of education

For the first time, this bill makes Pell Grants available to an increasing number of new types of students, those who are enrolled less than half time, going to college later in life, usually on a part-time basis while they hold down jobs or raise families.

And the measure includes support programs for continuing education, new grants for campus child-care programs and provisions allowing students to postpone repayment of past college loans if they return to school part-time. These provisions recognize the needs of displaced workers, working mothers and a host of others who are trying to get a leg up through extended

Another small, but important provision allows deferral of loan repayments for up to three years for elementary and secondary school teachers in regions or subjects in which there is a teacher shortage. With the need for science and math education, and to the quality of American education in general, this provision could offer welcome incentives. There are also funds to enhance teacher recruitment, retention and develop-

With the strong support of educators such as Dr. Luna Mishoe, of Delaware State College, we were also able to earmark money for a program to strengthen historically black colleges and universities in recruitment, program improvement and endowment development.

As I noted at the outset, all of these measures designed to help keep Americans in the forefront of education, civilization, competition and prosperity have conditions. In an era of scarce federal education dollars, we must combat abuses of financial aid programs, and in this bill we do. These range from tightening eligibilty requirements, to requiring a C average for continued aid, to increasing penalties for violators of higher education programs, to stepped-up efforts to reduce cheating on loan repayments. While the President wanted to cut the amount and number of students getting loans, we in the House and Senate attempted to streamline programs and better target the dollars. Our conditions are fair and long overdue.

All in all, I believe this is a higher education bill that will help us make the grade in the next five years. I expect that the Senate will also pass this compromise and send it to the President

Among the mountain of statistics we were furnished was one frightening figure: the Atlantic Ocean is rising at the rate of 1 foot every 100 years and every foot the ocean rises represents 350 yards of beachfront land.

This prospect of ocean and storm intrusion raises all kinds of public policy questions.

Should we continue to spend public dollars to try to slow the intrustion by beach enrichment when we know the end result will be the same?

Should we merely discount those now living near the shoreline in our longrange planning? What do we owe to those Delawareans who already own property and have built homes along the shoreline? Carper "Examiner Bill" to come before House

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Delaware Congressman Tom Carper believes that better examination and supervision of the nation's banks, thrifts and credit unions would improve the safety and soundness of these financial institutions and possibly head off a growing crisis. Carper's legislation to address this problem, H.R. 4917, the socalled "Examiner's Bill," expected to be considered by the full House of Representatives on Monday, September

Carper introduced the bill with his Banking Committee colleague, Rep. Stan Lundine (D-NY), a year ago when heads of the regulatory agencies of the nation's financial institutions testified that the impending crisis in the industry required upgrading of the examination and supervision process, as a major first step. Those regulatory agencies are Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, National Credit Union Administration and Office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

'We all know about the devastating collapse of financial institutions in Ohio and Maryland," Carper said, "and they are the tip of the iceberg. With more financial institutions in trouble or failing than at any time since the Great Depression, we must provide early detection of risk and supervise these institutions back to health. "My bill, in essence, says that if the banks, thrifts and credit unions want better examination--which they do-and they are willing to pay the fees to accomplish this--which they are--then Congress should provide them the flexibility to do so. MAJOR PROVISIONS GRAMM-RUDMAN EXEMP-TION-The regulatory agencies suffer a "Catch 22," Carper noted. They are funded by fees assessed on the financial institutions they regulate--not the U.S. Treasury. Moreover, most of their funds sequestered under the Treasury. While these funds are not used to reduce the deficit, neither are they available to pay for improved examination and supervision that the institutions and the regulators both seek. The bill would exempt these agencies from Gramm-Rudman sequestration, as they are not funded by the U.S. Treasury.

FLEXIBILITY -- Though not funded by taxpayer dollars, the regulatory agencies have staffing and budgetary limitations as if they receive appropriated funds. The bill would free these agencies to establish their own budgetary and personnel needs. A telling argument for these provisions is that the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC) has more than 1,000 institutions on its current list of problem banks, compared with 257 banks in 1980; yet, the OCC had 2,035 field examiners in 1980, compared to 1,713 in August 1986. TRAINING--A study would be conducted to determine if examiner training could be improved by consolidating the training performed by the different agencies. A second study would assess the feasibility of establishing a graduate degree program in financial management analysis for experienced supervisors and examiners. COMPENSATION -- To stem the flood of turnover rates among examination and supervisory personnel--many are lured away by more lucrative positions in the private sector--a demonstration project would give the agencies, who are governed by the compensation sections of the civil service code, more flexibility in compensation, travel allowances and living expenses

STANDARDS—The bill would establish minimum requirements for examinations of depository institutions by state supervisory agencies if these institutions are federally insured,

ECONOMY AND YOU

THE MYTHOLOGY OF BUDGET CUTS

By Richard H. Fink

One of the great myths being fed to the American people is the notion that, somehow, the federal budget has been cut over the last six years. Turn on any nightly news program and you're likely to hear someone complaining that "federal cutbacks" are causing one problem or another.

This myth of federal "cutbacks" has a secondary clause that suggests that somehow spending on domestic social programs has "fallen" while spending on the military has grown and, together with federal tax cuts, "caused" the unprecedented federal deficit.

None of these propositions is true.

First of all, federal spending has grown 60 percent since 1980. So clearly, the budget has not been "cut." Secondly, while military spending has increased over the last six years, domestic, social and welfare programs haven't been cut back. Instead, they have had their rate of increase held to the level of inflation. In addition it is now obvious that the precious little tax relief Americans were granted in 1981 has been virtually consumed by several recent tax increases and the automatic tax hikes built into the Social Security "rescue" plan passed during Jimmy Carter's administration. Indeed, there is evidence everywhere that federal spending is out of control, and that even the smallest, least painful sort of budget cutting hasn't been done. Some examples: * The federal government still maintains a $21.5 million agency whose sole purpose is to dole out grants from Washington to the nation's museums, art galleries, and zoos. The Institute of Museum Services has been targeted by the Reagan administration for elimination because the president reasons that funding museums and art galleries can best be handled by private philanthropy. Yet because of Congress, your tax dollars are still at work (among other things, paying the Institute's director a $68.700 per year salary). If you've not visited a local gallery or zoo lately, you ought to. You're paying

* The Export-Import Bank, a federal agency offering subsidized loans to private U.S. companies doing business overseas, will spend $4 billion this year. Among the beneficiaries will be the communist government of Angola, which is getting $96 million in loans and credits to develop oil reserves with

* More money for the Soviets: $52 million of your tax dollars will go to subsidizing grain sales to the Soviet Union this year. While we spend billions to defend ourselves against Moscow, does it make any sense to give the Russians a discount on American farm products?

Political activists like California's Tom Hayden and the Rev. Jesse Jackson continue to feed off of federal grant programs to help finance their activities. Hayden, a radical member of the SDS in the 1960's and currently he husband of actress Jane Fonda, has gotten taxpayer-funded grants to work on "housing" and "energy" projects. He has used the money to promote rent control initiatives in California cities, as well as to lobby for a federal takeover of the oil companies.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson's People United To Save Humanity (PUSH) has received similar grants. One federal grant from the Department of Education was used to print 10,000 Christmas cards bearing an autographed photo of Jackson. If you've ever wondered how Jesse Jackson gets the money to jet around the world and meet with the likes of Syrian president Hafez Assad and Cuban dictator Fidel Castro, now you know. You helped pay the tab.

Clearly, there hasn't been nearly enough budget cutting in Washington. (Richard H. Fink is President of Citizens For A Sound Economy, a 250,000 member Washington-based citizens' organization.)

Roth attacks drug problem from all angles

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

It seems that every time I pick up a newspaper lately, I read more and more about drug abuse in this country. As a parent, I find these reports alarming but, at the same time I believe that bringing these problems to the public's attention is a positive step.

Unfortunately, public awareness alone will not put a stop to the drug epidemic. We must close in on this problem from all directions. This would involve efforts to reduce both the supply and the demand of drugs in this country. Intiatives to combat drugs must be taken up from all levels of government, law enforcement, our media, our schools and especially from within the family.

One recent intiative on my part that grew out of a comprehensive study by my Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations on "crack" cocaine was to draw up anti-drug legislation which would close some of the loopholes in the law and forge substantial inroads toward winning the war on drugs.

My legislation would, first of all, outlaw drug paraphernalia, making it illegal to advertise, sell or transport interstate, import or export internationally, the accessories used to manufacture or ingest illegal drugs. It would also give police the right to seize contraband items. I think it's time to strip away the double standard in our law that says that drug use is bad but items specifically made to manufacture and ingest drugs are OK.

Another bill I have proposed would keep drug sellers from entering the country by allowing immigration authorities to turn away known drug users and sellers at the U.S. border.

The drug problem in this country is not something new; it has existed for a long time. My concern about this problem is similiar. Over the years the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, which I chair, has looked into many different aspects of drug abuse and possible solutions. This has included investigations into the portrayal of drug abuse by the media and motion picture industry, money laundering by drug dealers and our recent hearing on "crack" cocaine.

This legislation is not the complete answer to the drug problem. There are no quick or easy answers. But, it will curtail the availability of drugs and drug accessories in this country by resolving some of the gray areas of the law. By toughening up our drug abuse laws, we can roadblock an avenue of drug abuse and also send a clear message that we are serious about putting an end to a very serious are having a glorious Indian Summer. As the poet says, "There's a haze on the far horizon." When I was growing up, Fall housecleaning was a major deal. Carpets were taken up and put on the outdoor line and beaten with the wire beaters that people collect today. Paint, paper and varnish was on hand to transform the interiors as we hurried to get everything ready for winter.

Now, it seems that life is much more complicated, so we just cope with the cleaning and decorating situations as they arise. This morning I am watching the antique shop. I guess most of you know that The Early Attic is the The Pine Cupboard under new management. But I still live next door and am usually available to "mind the store." Dad is taking "Ladybug" down to the vets for shots and a checkup so she will not enjoy the morning very much.

Dad is gradually getting his garden and lining up small repairs and other jobs for the winter to keep him busy. The foilage is already beautiful. The the prettiest. Its leaves are brilliant for the winter.

This is the first day of Autumn, and we orange and yellow. Every season has it's own beauty, but we have our favorites. Mine is springtime, with all the new growth and the promise of the resurrection. Winter is not my choice with the cold snow and, as Whittier puts it in his poem, "Snowbound"...

The clothesline posts stood about like tall and sheeted ghosts." But then, what is prettier than a cardinal sitting on a snow-covered evergreen?

The evening news last night said that there are only 93 more shopping days until Christmas! That ought to stir us to some kind of activity. I am already telling myself that I must not attempt to make fifteen different kinds of cookies this year. And, as far as the children go, there are only one kind, and that is chocolate chip! I am also thinking that I should not push myself to make my own Christmas cards this year. I love doing this.

This is the season when the house flies try to take over, and the slap of the swatter and the swish of the spray is ever present. We have not been bothered with mosquitoes this year. We can sit out in the vard after dark, and we do not have to spray our bedrooms at night. I am indeed grateful for this blessing. If cleaned up and laid by for the season, you are fighting mosquitoes, you cannot enjoy the harvest moon.

So let's enjoy these golden days with the fall flowers, the last vegetables, the sugar maple in our back yard is always wild geese before we tuck ourselves in

Harrington Rotary Club

Members of Harrington Rotary again operated the information booth at the Heritage Day activities when they provided help for whoever needed assistance. It is very appropriate that credit must be given to Taylor & Messick for their wholehearted cooperation in all the activities of the day, and Harrington Rotary appreciate the transportation they provide in bringing the booth used for the giving out of information. Mr. Messick and his workers deserve a great deal of credit in providing this assistance, and our hats are off to them!

Visitors at a recent meeting included the Rev. William Dore; Dale Hammond, and Frank Soriano. They were welcome visitors and hope they will return and consider membership into club membership.

Plans are underway for a November 3rd dinner meeting at Villa Kent when Mrs. Marne McAllister, daughter of the late Jack Davis of Bermuda will be the speaker. Her father was a former president of Rotary International.

Plans are also being formulated for the second of three meetings for Miss Elva Jane Warren who leaves for Australia in January for a year's study under the Rotary Foundation Scholarship program. Miss Warren is being sponsored by the Harrington Rotary Club.

Harrington Rotary meets every Monday evening throughout the year at the Harrington Restaurant and Newsstand, 100 Delaware Avenue, with Mr. Roger Trice presiding as president for the current year.

Turnovers and Sussex stop Spartans

The Lake Forest football team traveled to Georgetown Friday night expecting to beat Sussex Central. Instead, they ended up beating themselves.

Sussex Central took advantage of four Spartan turnovers in the first half to jump out to a 12-0 lead. Both Sussex Central touchdowns came from quarterback Chris Keeler.

Sussex's first score came when Keeler hit fullback Doug Reed with a seven yard touchdown pass.

After a Spartan turnover, Sussex marched to the Lake Forest ten yard line. After a Sussex penalty that pushed the ball back to the 15 yard line, Keeler lofted a touchdown pass to wide receiver Chris Stoeckel over the outstreched arms of Ricky Brown. Steve Sipple rushed through and blocked the extra point as the scoring ended the first

After a scoreless third period which saw the teams trade punts and turnovers, the Spartan offense finally got on track.

Quarterback Brown took the team on a 76 year scoring drive to cut the Sussex lead to 12-7 and gave the Spartans new

The drive was almost halted when Brown hit Sipple with an apparent touchdown pass that was called back on an illegal man downfield penalty. Brown came back to pick up runs of 14 and five vasrds to move the ball to the Sussex six yard line.

After Brown overthrew Bobby Reed, he hit Sipple with a pass to put the ball on the three.

Brown then ran the option to the left and pitched out to Wendell Watson, who scored. Brown nailed the extra point and put the Spartans back in business with 8:35 left in the game.

The Spartan defense would have to hold Sussex and give the offense one more shot at the end zone.

It was not to be as Sussex took the ensuing kickoff and drove 79 yards for an insurance score.

It looked as though the defense would hold as Sussex faced a fourth and four situation at the Spartan 23 yard line. Keeler then stepped up and fired a 10 yard pass to tight end Lance Abbott as by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. the Knights continued to drive.

Two plays after that, Sussex halfback Greg Sheppard ran nine yards for the touchdown with 3:21 left in the game.

With the loss, the Spartans record now stands at 0-2. This Saturday's homecoming game against Woodbridge is the Spartans first game against Southern Division opponent. Woodbridge's record is 1-1 with an opening game victory over Colonel Richardson and a 31-12 loss to the hands of Middletown. Woodbridge has not defeated the Spartans in seven years.

were turned in by Jay Green, Tate Garey, Walt Lekites and Kevin "Mad Dog" Wix.

All four players stopped breakaways by Keith S. Burgess with good hustling saves. On Thursday the Spartans suffered a mild upset at the hands of the Dover Denators. Dover did all of their damage in the first half, scoring at the eight, 13 and 20 minute marks as the Senators earned their first victory of the year.

The Spartans lone goal came with 1:19 remaining in the game as Scott White got loose on a breakaway and fed Kyle

Lake Forest's only goal came with Kelly for Kelly's second goal of the year. Spartan girls run well at Woodbridge

by Keith S. Burgess

Some years ago, the girls' crosscountry team could run simultaneously with the boys, with the understanding, that they were not competing, with their male counterparts. This situation still exists, in track and helps get the track meet over, in a sensible amount of Boys and girls line up and run together in the half-mile, the mile and two-mile runs. The powers-that-be, in Dover, according to the information we have received, in their asinine wisdom, have decreed that this will not be allowed, in a recruiter. Let's face it, there are easier cross-country.

With all that room out there and we are talking 3-miles-plus, the girls would not interfere with the boys and vice-versa. In fact, some of the better girls get even better, when they open up a big lead over their female competition and still have runners, on the course (males) to compete with (unofficially, of course). Then too, some of the slower boys get faster, when they see the girls

At Woodbridge, the Spartan girls had to run by themselves since the Blue Raiders don't have a team this season. Melanie Pelton has improved greatly. The number 1 distaff Spartan clocked 17.14 for 2 ½ miles and had only taken Delaware Chapter of Trout opposition. She wouldn't have had to improve much on that, to have outpaced half the boys, or at least have spurred some of them to come closer to their potentials. Lorraine Lake had a fine 17.51 and the No. 2 Spartan has gotten much better after a good rookie Unlimited will conduct their Annual season in 1985. Julie Betts, a sophomore Fall Meeting, Thursday, October 9, is having a fine first season. Perhaps, the biggest surprise on the ladies team Center (Delaware Nature Education has been the emergence of Stephanie Society), Hockessin, DE. Allen. The slender, 14 year-old freshman was only 13 seconds behind social with free refreshments, election Betts at Woodbridge. The girls have some interesting events Smallmouth in Spring, Summer, Fall coming up this week with invitationals and Winter" by Dave Wonderlich, in Salisbury and Wilmington, but the dual meets could be much more fun and would help the girls reach their potentials, if they could run simultaneously with the boys, like they do in track. The Lake Forest girls usually overwhelm most of lower Delaware's girls' teams, that is if the schools on the boys schedules even field a girls team. From here it seems that members of the feminine gender are being shortchanged once more.

With 11 laps remaining, Wlatrip pulled alongside Bodine on the outside, then took the lead as they raced down the front stretch.

The penalty grew out of an incident at the New Asheville Speedway in Asheville, N.C. in which driver Ingram and another driver, Ronnie Pressley, were involved in a racing accident. The incident took palce on Sunday, September 14 at the New Asheville Speedway which runs under NASCAR sanctioning, but was not a Grand National event, in which Mr. Ingram was a guest driver at his home town race track. Mr. Ingram and Mr. Pressley were racing for the lead on the third turn when each spun on the track. Each car, Ingram's and Pressley's, were facing the opposite way of the track when the cars came to rest. According to NASCAR official Ed Cox, Mr. Ingram proceeded up the track the wrong way. It appeared as Mr. Cox related it that Mr. Ingram was heading for the pit road entrance. Instead, Mr. Ingram proceeded on by the pit road entrance and "...under caution...hit the Pressley car head on". Mr. Pressley was removed from the wreck and taken to a nearby hospital where he was listed as having a concussion and many facial lacerations.

During the confusion a fight broke out among several different pit crew criminal charages.

The NASCAR official Ed Cox the same day suspended Mr. Ingram indefinitely from all NASCAR events and fined him $5,000. Mr. Ingram appealed the decision. "I had several meetings with Mr. Cox...and I agree that the incident should never have happened and I believe that it represents conduct detrimental to stock car racing", said Jack Ingram.

Following the discussions, Mr. Cox reduced the suspension to two weeks (ending on September 29) but held fast on the $5,000 fine.

Asked to compare this incident to the one last February between NASCAR Winston Cup drivers Dale Earnhardt and Darrell Waltrip, one NASCAR official said the Earnhardt/Waltrip did not apply here. Smithsonian motorcycle exhibit opens

The Smithsonian Institution has open the new motorcycle exhibit in the Road Transportation Hall of the National Museum of American History. The exhibit, entitled "American Motorcycling and Motorcyclists, 1900-1940," has been mounted by the Museum's Division of Transportation The exhibit complements efforts by the American Motorcyclist Association and the Motorcycle Industry Council (MIC) to recognize the 100th anniversary of the development of the motorcycle. The Smithsonian exhibit will continue through November 27, 1986.

Cooperation from individual AMA members and MIC member companies helped the Smithsonian bring together an impressive collection of motorcycle artifacts, photographs, historic motorcycling footage, documents, and vehicles. The exhibit focuses on motorcycling as a means of everyday transportation and as a sport in the formative period before WW II. But the modern technology and continued innovation that characterizes motorcycling is also represented: a 1982 Rifle/Yamaha which achieved 372 miles per gallon in fuel-efficiency road tests is exhibited along with motorcycles from 1900-1940.

Motorcycles included in the exhibit include a 1903 Indian, a 1914 Harley-Davidson board-track racer, a 1918 Cleveland touring motorcycle, a 1923 Indian touring model with sidecar and the 1937 Harley-Davidson Daytona speed record setting motorcycle.

The important role of competition in early motorcycle development is also well represented. The exhibit pays tribute to such famous motorcycle champions as Maldwyn Jones, who won his first sanctioned race in 1908, Jim Davis, whose active career spanned 1916-1937, Floyd "Pop" Dreyer, an early sidecar racing champion, and Arthur "Babe" Tancrede, who won both the Daytona and Laconia nationals of 1940. Motorcycle competition is also highlighted in a short subject documentary donated for the exhibit at Smithsonian's request by Talbott-Van Barriger Productions. That video features footage from the 1920 Doge City dirt track event with (Continued on page 10)

There's a movement afoot in the Lake Forest School District. That direction has now officially been given a theme. Through the efforts of both the district's staff and the cooperation of the students, the purpose of the educators and all those associated with Lake Forest has been captured in a unifying thread.

Staff were asked to submit suggestions for the theme. Suggestions were screened by a panel of students. Cheri W.T. Chipman Junior High School, penned the phrase which was adopted. 'I think that is great," said Dr. James H. VanSciver, Superintendent. "Cheri has captured the essence of what we are all about. This is a theme of which we may all be proud.

"It will set the tone for how we deal with situations; for the direction of our district. Now we want to get it in front of everybody.

The theme will be included on all district letterhead and all materials. Staff and students will be encouraged to incorporate it into programs in which
