

First snowfall brings school closures

by Colleen Lilly

Delaware's first snowfall brought up to eight inches of snow to Harrington last Thursday.

The snow, which began around 7:15 a.m. January 22, turned to sleet and freezing rain in the early afternoon and then to flurries in the early evening.

Temperatures in Harrington and Milford dipped to 27 degrees, but area winds made the air more frigid.

Lake Forest schools opened on time Thursday, with Lake Forest North Elementary greeting the governor as he declared last week "Delaware Breakfast Week" for the schools.

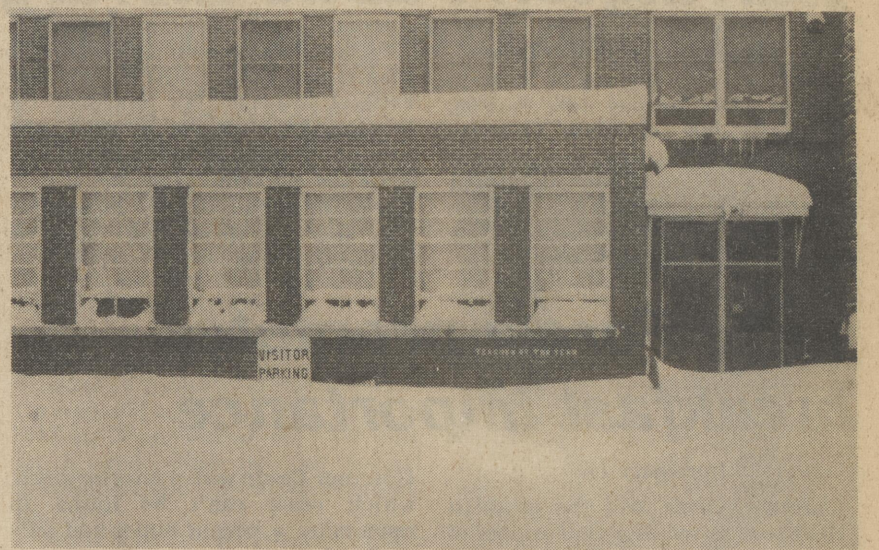

Lake Forest North and East Elementaries closed early Thursday at 12:30 p.m. All other Lake Forest schools closed at 1:00 p.m., and opened two hours late January 23 because of icy road conditions.

Statewide, the AAA Delaware Motor Club responded to 153 motorists with problems on Thursday.

Harry Roosevelt of AAA said, "Most of them were stuck in snow Thursday."

For people driving in snow and ice, Mr. Roosevelt suggests adopting an "easy does it" approach.

Lake Forest promotes breakfast importance

by Colleen Lilly

Learning and proper nutrition go hand in hand, that's the word from the Lake Forest School district and Governor Michael N. Castle.

Faculty and students at Lake Forest North Elementary School, along with member of the school board, met with Governor Castle Thursday, January 22, to designate January 18-24 "Breakfast Week" in Delaware.

Delaware schools are celebrating "Breakfast Month" throughout January; and the Delaware School Food Service Association declared the past week "Breakfast Week."

Governor Castle came to Lake Forest North Elementary to help promote the importance of breakfast for both students and faculty.

"A hungry child does not learn," Governor Castle said.

According to Fay Freese, food service manager at Lake Forest North Elementary, North Elementary began its breakfast program in 1977 with only five to 10 percent of the student body participating. Now, up to 35 percent of the students at North eat breakfast at school.

Dr. James H. VanSciver, superintendent of the Lake Forest School district, said Lake Forest has the highest participation in the breakfast program in Delaware.

Dr. VanSciver said the breakfast program served as a foundation for learning. An environment conducive to learning is needed for solid schools.

"If we have people who care about our kids, then we'll have a better school."

"Learning is a very private, personal thing. Our eternal challenge is to reach every child," Dr. VanSciver said.

Fensterer murder trial enters second week

by William T. Ficka

The retrial of William A. Fensterer for the second degree murder of Stephanie Ann Swift, his fiancée, started on January 19 and is now in its second week in Kent County Superior Court.

The 27-year-old Fensterer, a former Milford accountant, was convicted on the same charge Feb. 8, 1984. The Delaware Supreme Court overturned the conviction May 8, 1986. The state's highest court ruled that an FBI agent's inability to remember how he came to the conclusion that a blue cat leash was the murder weapon deprived the defense of the right of effective cross examination.

Stephanie Ann Swift, 17, an Indian River High School senior, was found dead September 29, 1981 in the back seat of Fensterer's blue Camaro which was parked in the Milford Plaza parking lot.

Fensterer and Swift shared an apartment in the Parson Thorne Apartments in Milford, about one-quarter of a mile from where the body was found.

Prosecutor Bartholomew J. Dalton, chief deputy attorney general, contends that Fensterer strangled his fiancée in a jealous rage after finding love letters written by a former boy friend.

Defense attorneys Harold S. Schmittinger and Charles Whitehurst maintain that Swift was murdered while Fensterer was at work.

Schmittinger said that Fensterer and Swift ate Italian food for lunch some time between 12:30 and 1:15 p.m. on Sept. 28. Since the food was only partially digested, this would indicate, according to accepted medical standards, that she was dead about 2 1/2 hours after lunch, he said.

Wine that was consumed with the lunch would have been completely gone from her system by 4:30 p.m., but traces of alcohol were found in her bloodstream, Schmittinger said.

Witnesses say that Fensterer was at work until 4:55 p.m. that day. A clerk at Dollar General Store in Milford testified that Stephanie bought a sponge mop between 2 and 4 p.m. that day. The mop was found in the car with the body.

The defense will bring two board-certified pathologists from out of state to support its theory that the food found in the victim's stomach rules out Fensterer as the murderer.

Schmittinger said that Dr. Judith G. Tobin, state deputy medical examiner, had given conflicting times for Swift's death in previous hearings and had signed two death certificates carrying different times of death. He said Tobin is not a board-certified pathologist.

Heritage Day volunteers needed

In spite of all that white stuff outside, there will be a summer before we know it. While you snuggle inside now with the flower and seed catalog and dream of the beach, let your thoughts also include our annual BIG affair in our community...Heritage Day.

Heritage Day began as a first birthday celebration for the Harrington Public Library and the Greater Harrington Historical Society. The year was 1979.

Jacquie Davis, who was our Librarian at that time, was the coordinator, assisted by Kenneth McKnatt, President of the Historical Society. That first Heritage Day consisted of about 20 crafts-people, a full day's entertainment, a key-note speaker, Dr. Claudia Bushman, and was attended by about 1000-1500 people. The activities

Drug use rises in Harrington; Police present annual report

by Colleen Lilly

Drug use among Harrington residents is on the increase according to Sergeant Jeff Cook of the Harrington Police.

"We've got a definite problem with drugs in Harrington," said Sgt. Cook. Eighteen drug related incidents were looked into in Harrington in 1986, as opposed to seven drug related cases in 1985.

Cocaine and marijuana top the list of drug offenses in Harrington, according to Sgt. Cook.

Individuals picked up for drugs have been all ages. "We've had them as young as 10 years old," said Sgt. Cook. Sgt. Cook believes the drug problems from downtown are moving into the city, specifically the crack problem Seaford has reported.

Harrington's next largest criminal problem, according to Sgt. Cook, is under age drinking.

"I don't think society's accepted the drinking age," he said.

Overall, the Harrington Police are reported having responded to more cases in 1986 than in 1985.

"The case load in the department has increased," said Sgt. Cook.

Harrington's Police force consists of four full time officers who "know what's out of place and what's not," according to Sgt. Cook.

Criminal arrests and arrests for drunk driving have increased in Harrington. Three of four officers are now trained to detect drunk drivers.

While assaults and thefts declined in the past year, the incidences of trespassing and burglarly rose.

Thefts are the actual stealing of items, while burglaries are considered to be an act of entering a building with the intention of doing an illegal act, according to Patrolman John Horsman of the Harrington Police.

Patrolman Horsman said when one individual is arrested for something, it's possible the person could be charged for three or four offenses, depending on the crime. For example, a person picked up for drunk driving could also be charged with reckless endangering if others are in danger because of his driving.

"We don't see a lot of multiple arrests," said Patrolman Horsman. Because of the way police record their cases, it is uncertain how many of the cases in their statistical data are the multiple arrests of one individual.

Sgt. Cook said the way cases were reported in the beginning of 1986 differs from how they were recorded at the end of 1986.

He said multiple arrests of one individual were reported after former Police Chief Carl McIlroy left the Harrington Police, but not before.

"We adopted the way we do it (record cases) from the way the state police do it," said Patrolman Horsman.

Sgt. Cook said Harrington appears to have become a "drop off place for vehicles stolen down south."

Harrington Police recovered five vehicles stolen either from downstate or from out of state in 1986. They recovered two in 1985.

Sgt. Cook said these cars are usually found along U.S. 13. All five in the past year have found their way back to their owners.

Coroner expects completed investigation of local man

by Colleen Lilly

A Richland County Coroner's investigation into the death of Harrington resident DeWight Ross should be completed by the end of this week, according to County Coroner Frank E. Barron.

Mr. Ross died December 1 from cardiac arrest caused by a severe closed head injury in Richland Memorial Hospital in Columbia, South Carolina.

The Richland County coroner and the Columbia City Police are investigating the death because of its unusual nature.

Mr. Ross had been arrested for trespassing November 21 at the Greyhound Bus terminal in Columbia. Two days later he was taken to Richland Memorial for treatment of a head wound.

Mr. Barron has been trying to decide whether the severe blow to Mr. Ross' head occurred while he was in jail.

"The investigation's not complete. We have everything except the police report," said Mr. Barron.

Mr. Barron is trying to determine, "could he (Mr. Ross) have been hit by a night stick," he said.

"I don't think it could have caused the injury. He would have a fractured skull," Mr. Barron said.

The severe blow Mr. Ross received in the head was caused by a flat surface, according to Mr. Barron.

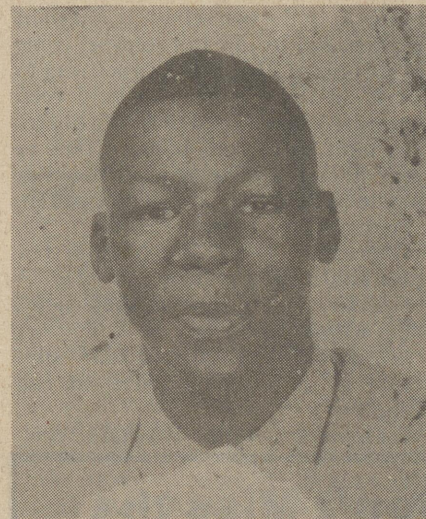

"Something very blunt, probably a flat surface," such as a floor or wall, caused the injury, Mr. Barron said.

According to the autopsy, Mr. Barron said Mr. Ross had been diagnosed as having a brain contusion of the left frontal lobes "caused by something like a fall," he said.

Mr. Ross, whose brain had swollen but not hemorrhaged, lived for a week in the hospital.

"He could have had it (the injury) a day or two before he went to the hospital. Whether it happened in jail or not, I'm not positive we ever will be sure," said Mr. Barron.

Mr. Barron has received a pathology report, a toxicology report and a histology report on Mr. Ross. To complete his investigation, a police report must also be included.

"If it happened while he was in jail, it probably happened if he fell down."

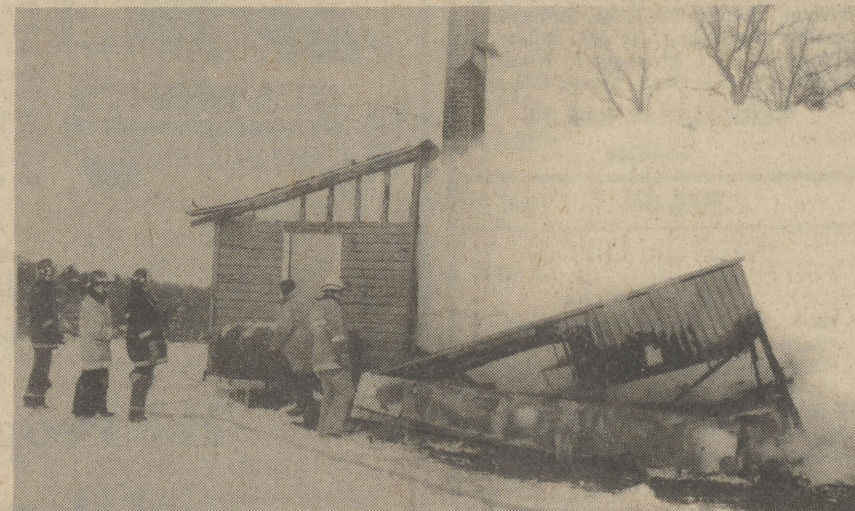

"Someone could have knocked him down. I don't know," said Mr. Barron.

Mr. Ross would have gone before a judge for sentencing the day after he was admitted to the hospital. The maximum sentence he could have received for trespassing would have been 30 days in jail and a $210 fine.

He was buried December 5 at the Williamsville Cemetery in Houston, Delaware.

Twenty five firefighters from Felton and Goldsboro, Md. worked against high winds Friday when responding to a house fire on County Road 268, just west of Felton.

Fire Marshall William Sipple said the blaze started because of an electrical problem in the wall line. The home and an old motor home behind the house were destroyed when the fire began around 1:50 p.m.

Tax cuts, liability insurance top General Assembly agenda

by Colleen Lilly

Tax cuts will top the agenda of the Delaware General Assembly according to State Senator Ruth Ann Minner.

While no specific legislation has come before the Senate yet, Senator Minner expects the General Assembly to deal with possibly reducing income taxes.

"The federal tax reform has given us an abundance of money. If you have it in your pocket, it's easy to spend," she said.

State Representative G. Robert Quillen, R-Harrington, said he wants to reduce taxes for the small businessman.

He would like to see a repeat of current legislation requiring merchants to pay taxes on their business' gross receipts "before making any money," said Representative Quillen.

Liability will be an issue with which both houses deal this year.

"Liability insurance is the stem of a lot of problems," said Senator Minner.

Although she is not working directly with the issue, she said the Sunset Committee, which regulates professions such as nursing and medicine, is working on a bill that would release day care centers from liability in dispensing medication to children.

The bill, to come before the Senate this week, would give day care operators permission to dispense medication to children with on-going problems, such as epilepsy.

Current law only allows the child's parents to give the child medication.

Senator Minner said such a law would be beneficial to working parents since they wouldn't need to make other arrangements for child care.

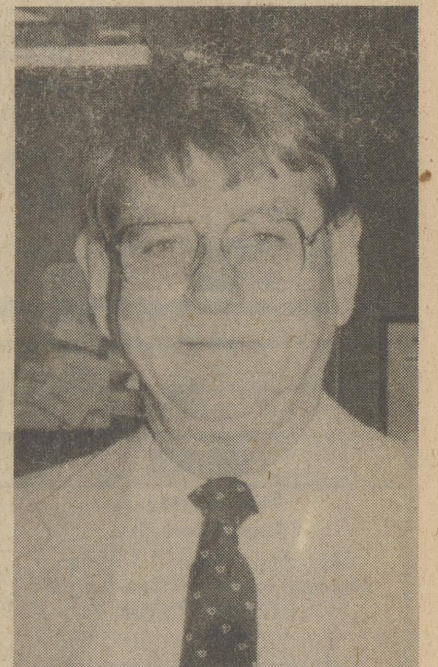

In helping parents with child care, Senator Minner plans to continue legislative work involving state tax credits for child care.

Last year Senator Minner sponsored legislation giving parents a tax credit that allowed them to take one-quarter of their federal tax credits for child care and deduct them from their state taxes.

"I would like to see it (state tax credits) be 100 percent," Senator Minner said.

Senator Minner intends to introduce this legislation this week.

Motorists and roads will be another target area for the General Assembly, according to Senator Minner.

Senator Minner hopes to have a bill concerning uninsured motorists drafted this week.

The bill, still in the development stage, might change the current insurance requirements in Delaware.

Delaware residents are required to have insurance, but "thirty five percent of the people the state police stop are uninsured," said Senator Minner.

"When a car is registered, the driver must be insured. Senator Minner said a number of people do not renew their insurance."

A law requiring an insurance sticker similar to a vehicle registration sticker may be one solution to the problem, especially since three year car registrations are now available, according to Senator Minner.

A sticker system, she said, would make not having insurance a primary offense for which the police could ticket individuals, instead of a secondary offense. Currently, the police can not stop a driver just for not having insurance.

Senator Minner said with all the traffic Delaware sees, not having insurance is

Governor Castle said the breakfast celebration served as a vital symbol of education. "I take my hats off to the food service people. We are taking the time to look at what we're doing in our school systems," said Governor Castle. Janice U. Hinzman, food service supervisor at North Elementary, said, "We have recognized breakfast is the most important meal of the day." Breakfast is not the only important meal. Ms. Hinzman presented

Governor Castle with a favorite lunch, which often can't be found in restaurants, a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. State Representative G. Robert Quillen, who attended the breakfast, said he was glad to come out and spend time with the kids. Four entrees are usually on the menu for North Elementary students. Included on the list may be sausage biscuit, sausage/egg biscuit, waffles, pancakes, french toast or cereal, along with juice and milk.

Fensterer murder trial enters second week

Millsboro, testified they went to Fensterer's apartment to claim their daughter's belongings. When Fensterer could not explain why their daughter's cherished necklace was broken, the Swifts took it to police. Richard Huff, a co-worker of Fensterer, testified that he clearly remembers when police informed Fensterer that the cat leash may be used as evidence in the case. "Bill seemed to go into shock and looked out the window," Huff said. "He ran the leash very slowly through his hands." Leslie C. Sheppard, Parson Thorne Apartments manager, said he saw the cars of Fensterer and Swift outside the apartments "within a few seconds of 7:27" on the night of Sept. 28, 1981. He could pinpoint the time, he said, because the TV program "Family Feud" was showing when he returned to his apartment after checking an outside light. The program airs at 7:30 p.m. Sheppard had initially given the time as just after 7 p.m. but changed his testimony when he recalled the TV program. The defense said Fensterer was driving back to his apartment from Swift's parents' home in Millsboro at shortly after 7 p.m. The trial will last two or three weeks, according to attorneys in the case.

Lake Forest exchange students adjust well to U.S.

by Colleen Lilly
Adjusting to a new lifestyle and school can be a tough time for some teens to do, but Lake Forest High's two exchange students, Eve Hetekivi and Anna Basteras, have made a smooth transition into both.

Common interests, such as horses and art, brought Eve together with Monica Armstrong, a twelfth grade Lake Forest student. Eighteen year old Eve came to the U.S. from Finland last August.

Anna, 17, comes from Sweden and lives with Lake Forest student Sharon Semans and her family.

Barbara Jones, area representative for Education Foundation for Foreign Study (EF), the exchange program both Anna and Eve used to come to Delaware, said the biggest adjustment these exchange students and the seven others she counsels have to make is not school.

"Their biggest adjustment is a lack of transportation," she said.

According to Ms. Jones, public transportation in Europe is much more extensive and efficient than that of the U.S.

A different school system is another adjustment the students have to make. European schools run more along the lines of American colleges.

While Eve has no problem with school now, she thought the initial transition would have been different.

"I thought it would be easier in the beginning," Eve said.

School in Finland, she said, did not include extracurricular activities, such as sports and clubs. Everything is academic.

Eve runs cross country with the Lake Forest winter track team.

"The big difference here is school here is fun," said Anna.

School in Sweden also concentrates heavily on academics. "All you do is study," she added.

At Lake Forest, Anna is a wrestling cheerleader and is involved with the student government.

In Finland, Eve's course load would concentrate more on languages and math and science. Her toughest class at Lake Forest is English, a class EF requires her to take. Algebra is turning out to be her easiest class.

Anna's major in Sweden in languages, and in keeping with this she is taking German II and Spanish I in addition to English. Translating from German to English to her native Swedish can sometimes be a problem, she said.

The EF program requires its exchange students to take English and either U.S. History or American government.

Neither of the girls has encountered any major language barriers. Both have been studying English in their native countries for at least four years.

Bonnie Semans, Anna's host mother, said, "She's very bright. She's learned American slang very quickly."

Looking back, both exchange students agree the hardest change came at the beginning of their stay. "I was so scared," said Eve.

"It's easier now than I thought it would be. I was so scared of meeting a new family," Anna said.

Their host families helped them overcome any fears they had. In being host families, the Armstrongs and Semans have adopted the students as members of their families; yet, the girls came to the U.S. prepared to pay for everything except room and board.

Family celebrations at holidays, such as Christmas and birthdays are more extravagant in the U.S. than in Europe. Eve said she was surprised by the number of presents that were given during these holidays.

Anna said Christmas in Sweden is celebrated on Christmas Eve. She also said, "Most families have a real tree."

Eve said she found this past week's snow rather funny. In Finland, she said, that it snows from October through March. In the snow, she said, "People did have to go to school."

Snow doesn't close schools in Sweden, either. In the last couple of years, Anna said it has snowed in the beginning of May.

Much support for the students has come from the Lake Forest school district. Lake Forest provides lunches for Eve and Anna and gives them the opportunity to go on a number of class field trips.

Among the trips, Anna said she's been to Philadelphia and New York. She'll be going to Walt Disney World with the high school.

Eve will be going to Michigan over Easter break with Monica.

"Most of the parents make sure they see some part of the country other than Delaware," Ms. Jones said.

said, "Lake Forest really goes out of the way for them. They work well with the program."

Ms. Jones said the school districts that host the exchange students even give them honorary diplomas. The ring companies give the students a ring; and the school picture companies provide them with moderately priced pictures.

"Everybody's really cooperative in showing these kids the best we have to offer," Ms. Jones said.

Motivation and integrity are two qualities the EF program looks for in host families.

Having an exchange student "Seems to bring a family closer and brings out the best in a family," said Ms. Jones.

The Delaware House of Representatives will be honoring lower Delaware's nine exchange students with a proclamation making them honorary students Thursday, January 29.

Both girls will be returning to their native lands in June. Eve will have one more year of school in Finland, while Anna has will have two in Sweden.

Eve hopes to continue her education and go into law. Anna would like to be a tour guide in another country. Both intend to return to the U.S.

"Most of the kids are like Anna and Eve. Most come from a very good background. They're so terrific," said Ms. Jones.

"Eve seems very happy here. She loves everything," said Ms. Armstrong.

Ms. Semans said that it's going to be difficult to let Anna leave in June since she has fit in so well with the family.

Homesickness apparently has not set in for Eve and Anna. Ms. Armstrong said Eve hasn't called home since she first arrived, even though the students at Lake Forest collected $40 for each girl to call home. Both girls do correspond through the mail with their families.

The EF program gives the exchange students support through their area representative and through group talks every other month.

Other foreign exchange students in lower Delaware include Mika Tamminiemi of Finland, Bjorn Rothstein of Sweden, Eldbjorg Alske of Norway, Jurgen Maas of West Germany, Klaus Sellman of Finland, Mattias Carlen of Sweden and Erling Bjornsen of Norway.

EF also provides an exchange program for American students who wish to go abroad. The most popular country abroad, according to Ms. Jones, is Great Britain.

EF programs are accredited by the U.S. Information Service, which sets down the program's criteria.

Financial aid workshop at Lake Forest

Prospective college students and their parents are invited to a Financial Aid Workshop program at Lake Forest High School February 2, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Jeff Adams, Financial Aid officer at the Terry Campus of Delaware Tech, will review the various types of aid. He will also explain application procedures. In addition, Janet Conaway of the Mellon Bank will provide information regarding educational loans.

A question and answer session will follow the presentations.

Anyone in the Lake Forest community planning to attend college is welcome to attend. The session is free.

East Elementary sponsors book fair

Students attending Lake Forest School District's East Elementary School in Frederica will have an opportunity to purchase affordable reading books through the school's annual School Book Fair.

The program, scheduled for February 4-11, will also make available bookmarks, puzzles and activity books. A poster contest is being used to advertise the event.

"Volunteer parents are assisting Mrs. O'Toole, our librarian, in this program," said Principal Richard Seyler. "This is another one of those times when we seem to get a lot of support from our homes."

All proceeds are returned to the library for purchase of new books and related materials such as filmstrips and video tapes.

Lifesaving program at East Elementary

In conjunction with the Department of Public Safety, Division of the Delaware State Police, staff at Lake Forest School District's East Elementary School are issuing identification tags to all students in support of the national "Lifesaving Program."

"Students will be receiving tags to tie to their shoe laces or attach to their clothing labels for identification during emergencies," said Principal Richard Seyler.

"George Wagen, the inventor, conceived the idea when, as a Little League coach, a child in his care was injured and died in a hospital emergency room because the parents could not be reached quickly enough to authorize treatment," he continued.

The tags have room for vital information, telephone numbers and a space for parents to sign a contract for physician care in an emergency.

"We hope," Seyler added, "that parents will be a lifesaver and pass this idea on to others."

Families needed for exchange students

American Scandinavian Student Exchange Programs (ASSE) is seeking local families to host Scandinavian, French, Spanish, German, Dutch, British, Swiss, Japanese and Australian girls and boys, 15 to 18 years of age, coming to this area for the upcoming high school year.

These personable and academically select foreign exchange students are bright, curious and anxious to learn about this country through living as part of a family, attending high school and sharing their own culture and language with their newly adopted American family.

The students are fluent in English and are sponsored by ASSE, a non-profit, public benefit organization, affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education and cooperating with the Canadian Provincial Ministries of Education.

Each ASSE student is fully insured, brings his or her own personal spending money and expects to bear his or her share of household responsibilities, as well as being included in normal family activities and lifestyle.

The students are well screened and qualified by ASSE. Families may select the youngster of their choice from extensive student applications, family photos and biographical essays. Students and families are encouraged to begin corresponding prior to the students arrival.

ASSE is also seeking local high school students to become ASSE exchange students abroad. Students should be between 15 and 18 years old and interested in living with a European, Canadian or Australian family, attending school and learning about the lands and people of Scandinavia, France, Spain, Germany, Holland, Britain, Switzerland, Canada and Australia.

Students should have a good academic record and desire to experience another culture and language through living with a warm and giving volunteer family. Academic year and shorter term summer vacation programs are available.

Persons interested in obtaining more information about becoming a host family or becoming a student abroad should contact ASSE's local representative: Dave and Cathy Williams at (302) 697-2205.

Knight to spend day at Lake Forest

Officials at Lake Forest School District report that Dr. James Knight from the Department of Agricultural Education, Ohio State University, will deliver the district's inservice day program at Lake Forest High School February 13.

Additional plans for the district staff provide for mini-sessions, "The One-Minute Teacher," "Non-Verbal Communication," "The Art of Written Communication," "Writing Goals and Objectives in Special Education" and "Wellness Programs for All."

"I believe we are very fortunate to have a speaker of Dr. Knight's caliber presenting during our inservice," said Lake Forest Superintendent Dr. James H. VanSciver.

"He is a most knowledgeable member of the agricultural education community. We, here at Lake Forest, are surrounded by farmland. Yet his remarks will be meaningful for all staff," continued Dr. VanSciver.

Dr. Knight received numerous awards while having published over thirty articles, papers and monographs dealing with agricultural education. He directed or co-directed ten research projects, generating over $180,000 for supported projects and serving as a consultant in thirty states while making over 250 presentations entitled, "Building a Positive School Climate," "Teaching Effectiveness" and "Sex Equity."

Most recently he received the Alfred J.

Dr. James A. Knight

Wright Award for Outstanding Service to Students at Ohio State in May 1985 and the Leadership Award, Vocational Education Equity Council (AVA) in December 1985.

Dr. Knight's presentation was made possible through a grant from the Vocational Division at the Department of Public Instruction. Because of the interest in this program, vocational instructors throughout Kent County have been invited to attend.

Grow With The Chicken Company That Doesn't Mind Handling The Messy Details

worked with over $133 million in construction money. We have built an excellent relationship with agricultural lenders. When it's time to talk about financing, we'll help make the arrangements, assist with the paperwork and see it through the approval process.

Perdue housing specialists will arrange the construction and equipping of your new poultry house, with quality control checks throughout the process.

Every new house is up to Perdue's exacting standard. You'll get no unpleasant surprises, in cost or quality.

Through research and development, the Housing Department is responsible for refining many of the technical innovations—such as third-house brooding and the fogger/cooling system—that have made the Perdue house the most modern and efficient in the industry.

We use an all-metal building with energy-efficient fans, curtain minders, alarm systems, automated ventilation and automated feeding—all of which help keep your production costs down.

Once your new poultry house is in production, Perdue service supervisors will become your personal service representatives. But even then the Housing Department is only a phone call away—ready to handle the "messy details" again if you decide to expand your Perdue operation.

All these services are free of charge. And contacting the Housing Department places you under no obligation whatsoever.

If you'd like to learn more about the investment and income opportunity of a Perdue chicken operation, return the coupon or call the Housing Department at (301) 543-3000.

The hardest part of being a chicken producer isn't the managing of your operation.

If you've been successful in other types of farming, that part will come easy.

The hardest part is knowing how to get your operation started. Or, if you're already a producer, knowing how to expand your operation.

The good news is, you can turn the hard part over to someone else. An expert who's gone through the process enough times to have built over 1,800 chicken houses in the last ten years.

The Perdue Housing Department. Perdue Farms is the only major chicken company in America with a fulltime team of housing specialists whose whole job is to make it easy for you to become a poultry producer.

And easier to be a successful one. If you think a Perdue chicken operation may be the right farm investment for you, the Housing Department will help you find out for certain.

Working with you, we'll prepare cash flow, tax and income projections and other financial analyses. So you'll have plenty of facts to help you make your decision.

We can even arrange for you to spend time with a producer in your area and "test drive" a working Perdue chicken house.

What About Financing? Since 1976, the Housing Department has

Daily Thoughts for Daily Needs

Often we stand at Life's cross roads And view what we think is the end, But God has a much bigger vision And He tells us it's "Only A Bend".
 Everything is by comparison Both the "Bitter and the Sweet",
 And it takes a bit of both of them To make our "Life" complete.
 God never sends the Winter without the joy of Spring
 And though today your heart may cry, tomorrow it will sing.

Hudon, Hammer, Liles reign as 1986 UDR champions

COLUMBUS, OH — Three familiar names, Joe Hudon, Jr., Roger Hammer, and Emmett Liles, sit atop the Universal Driving Rating standings, compiled by the United State Trotting Association.

For Hudon, 35, it was his second crown in seven years with the last time coming in 1980. His mark of .409 was best among all drivers with 500 or more starts, and is nearly 40 points above his career average (.370). Hudon, who races in Pacific Canada, bested fellow British Columbian Bill Davis — reversing last year's order of finish.

Hammer, 40, wins his second UDR title -- still three short of the number won by his late father, Clay. Roger's victory came in the 300-499 start category with a .470 percentage. Though rarely driving more than 300 times a year, Hammer amassed 1,175 career wins.

Liles, 61, showed again that age is no barrier to success, as his .502 mark was the best in the 100-299 start division. It was his second title in a row and third in four years. Liles seldom strays from his native Iowa, and carries only a "provisional" license -- usually the type held by those just starting out in the sport.

Tom Jackson takes Dover

Downs All-Star

The annual Dover Downs All-Star Driving championship got underway Sunday with Tom Jackson scoring two wins and one third place in the three race Men's All-Star Series Championship.

Jackson, 23, does most of his racing at Dover and at Harrington, where he's third in drivers' standings.

In the second harness race, Jackson and One Armed Bandit finished in 2:01.2, taking first place. With Roman Numeral in the sixth, they took the race in 2:01.2.

Larry Garwood took second in the championship. He also finished first and third in other races.

February 8 Jackson and Garwood will team with Robert Shahan and Walter Callahan, third and fourth place winners, to compete as the Men's All-Star Team against the top four women drivers.

The Women's All-Star Team will be decided February 1 in a similar competition.

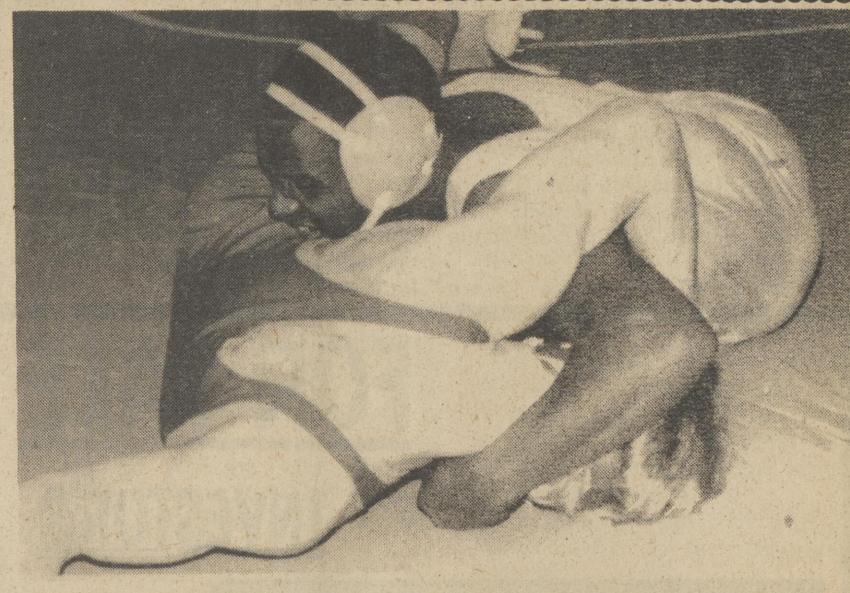

Other competitors in the Men's All-Star were Sam Belote, John Childress, Eddie Dennis and Del Richards.

Last year Kenny Mitchell claimed the Men's All-Star title, but the Women's Team took the team championship for the first time in history.

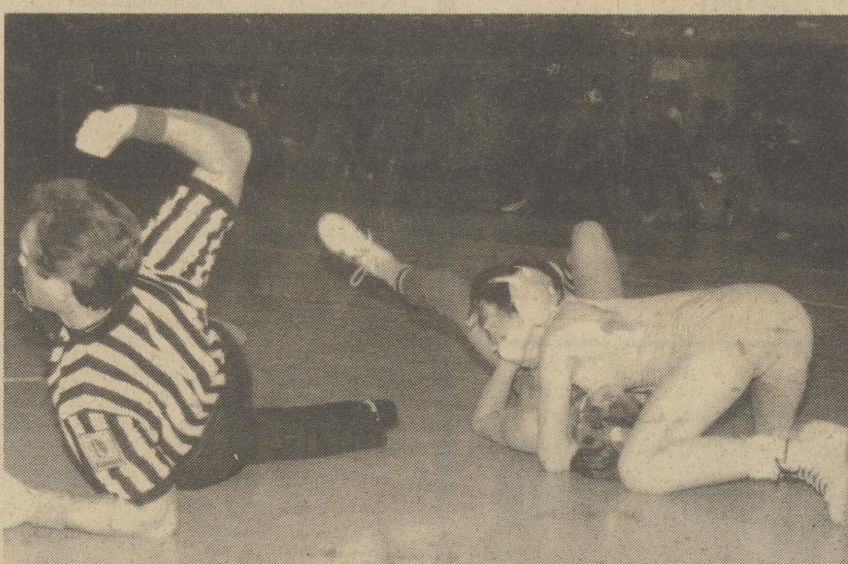

Racing continues through March 21, with post times at 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Tuesday, and at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Tisk offers harness racing a sharp eye

The new boss in the judges stand at the harness racing in the Meadowlands has the "eye of an eagle." So say many of the horsemen in the backstretch.

But Paul Tisuk, who occupies the Chief's seat in the Big "M" official stand, says it's no eagle eye, but a practiced eye.

"All I want is to see that the racing is on a par with the rules," says Tisuk, "and that goes from barn equipment, etc. to the starting gate."

It was no surprise to hear Tisuk use words of par and equipment. He is a wholesaler of golf equipment.

"He rules with an iron hand," added track statistician Bob Heyden. "He takes no guff and slaps a penalty on big and small."

Tisuk made his presence known quickly. The current campaign was only three days old when Ben Webster a potential Hall of Famer, was benched.

"He came off the rail late past the quarter pole and interfered with another horse," Tisuk said, "so Webster was penalized three days."

It occurred Jan. 2nd. Three days later, Webster, one of the game's craftiest, returned to action. And what do you suppose happened? Webster was nabbed again, same infraction. Another three nights off.

"The role of the judges is to keep racing as safe as possible and as competitive as possible," says Tisuk.

He points out that all judges aren't alike. "Every judge has his own manner of looking at a race," he says. "It's the same as an umpire in baseball. Some call low strikes, some call high strikes."

Wait a minute, judge, a high and low strike in harness racing? What do you mean?

The conversation took place in the judge's quarters, which is equipped with several monitors, a half dozen telephone lines and a numbered push button board that operates the monitors.

"Roll that last race," he said to associate judge, Donald Latessa. "The picture showed possible interference by a driver. There are some judges that would call that smart driving. Others would call it interference. My two associates and I review the film a number of times and then come to a decision."

The driver is immediately notified of the occurrence but before any penalty is dished out the driver is permitted a hearing. "Drivers have a right to defend themselves," said Tisuk.

Drivers better get a tight lip in the course of a race. William O'Donnell found out the importance of it. The crack Canadian-born linesman and Carl LeCause engaged in conversation during a race. Both were set down. "No talking while a race is on," Tisuk told both. Each was assessed a $100 fine. Walt Case, Jr. third in the Big M drivers standings, was slapped with a $100 fine for kicking his charge during a race.

Paul, who resides in Vienna, a small community in Warren County, is not new in the Big M judges stand. He put in a three year stint in 1977 through '79. Then went off to his business. "I will be going back to my business on March 1st," he said. "Hugh Gallagher, whom I worked the Canterbury Downs meeting in Minnesota last autumn, will replace me."

Tisuk, 46, who has 18 years experience as a racing official, said "a fan singles out the horse he wagers on. When I look at a race, I try to spot where potential problems happen throughout the field. We watch for lackluster efforts. We want drivers to keep things moving. No single-file racing."

Tisuk is a disciplinarian. The horsemen know it. It's a good system.

with nine points, Amy McClements with six. Melanie Pelton added four points.

Later in the week, the Spartans reeled off a 10-3 fourth quarter spurt to provide the winning margin over Sussex Central. Tara Dixon scored 12 points and Arlene May added 10 to pace the Spartans.

The Spartans are now 5-1, good for second place in the Southern Division, one game behind division leading Laurel.

Physician gains regional recognition

John C. Sewell, M.D., director of the emergency department at Kent General Hospital, received regional recognition for his work in community drug treatment.

Presented by the Northeast Coalition of Methadone Treatment, the Nyswanger-Dole Award recognizes those who have made significant contributions to methadone treatment for drug addiction.

Dr. Sewell, a board-certified emergency physician, pioneered in the use of methadone for heroin addicts as early as 1970 when he began the Dover Methadone Clinic in the Hospital's Emergency Department. Treatment was free of charge, and Dr. Sewell and others volunteered their time. It was among the first recognized methadone programs in the country. In the mid-1970s, State funding was obtained and the clinic was moved into the community. It is now part of Kent County Counseling Services.

Kent County offers winter programs

The Kent County Parks and Recreation Commission is offering a variety of winter recreation programs and field trips.

MMH names staff for new cardiovascular rehab program

MILFORD — Dr. Richard H. Sherman has been named to supervise Milford Memorial Hospital's new Cardiovascular Rehabilitation Program.

According to Glenn Davis, hospital administrator, Dr. Sherman will coordinate a team approach designed to restore the patient participant to a productive, active and satisfying lifestyle as soon as possible following the recognition of heart disease.

Other members of the team named by Davis are Susan McKinney, RN cardiovascular rehabilitation coordinator; W. Matthew Hampt, RRT, director of cardiopulmonary services; Carol A. Soots, RN, MBA, head nurse intensive care unit; Patricia W. Frey, RD, director of dietetics; Joseph P. Whalen, RPT, chief of physical therapy; and Joan W. Lofland, BSW, coordinator, discharge/planning.

Dr. Sherman, a cardiologist, was appointed to the active medical staff of Milford Memorial Hospital in 1977. He was elected president of the medical staff in 1986 and currently holds that position.

The Cardiovascular Rehabilitation Program will provide guidance, medical supervision and monitoring, using controlled exercise as a form of rehabilitative therapy. Education covering the nature of the disease, complications, recovery process, diet management, cardiac medications and the anatomy of the heart also plays a key role.

The program follows standards developed by the American Heart Association. Local units of the American Heart Association of Delaware are also providing volunteer support for the program.

Referral from a physician is required for admission to the rehabilitation program.

Rabies vaccine clinics held locally

A series of rabies vaccination clinics for dogs and cats will be held throughout Delaware during the next six weeks.

A contribution of $3 per pet will be requested to cover the cost of vaccine. All dogs must be on leashes, and all cats must be in carriers. Pets must be at least four months of age to be vaccinated.

Dr. Donald R. Cowan, chief of the Division of Public Health's Bureau of Disease Control, reminds pet owners that Delaware law requires rabies vaccinations as a prerequisite for obtaining a dog license. Dog licenses will be available at clinic sites.

The vaccine used will protect dogs for three years, according to Dr. Cowan. Dogs vaccinated in last year's public clinics will not need another shot this year. Cat rabies vaccine is good for only one year.

Cosponsoring the clinics this year are the SPCA of Delaware, the State Division of Public Health, kennel clubs and civic groups.

Veterinarians are volunteering their services, and the clinics will be staffed by community volunteers. All clinics are open from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Area clinics include:
February 7, 1987: Harrington Armory, Liberty St., Harrington, DE

February 14, 1987: South Bowers Fire Hall, Thompsonville.

February 28, 1987: Milford Armory, N. Walnut St., Milford.

U.S. Speedway banquet honors new records, marks end of two eras

by Charlie Brown

DELMAR, DE—The U.S. 13 Speedway banquet honored the end of two very distinct eras in racing — sixteen years under the U.S. 13 Speedway name and fifteen years of feature wins there for four time modified champion, Harold Bunting.

As previously announced, the U.S. 13 Speedway will continue operating in 1987 under the new name of the Delaware International Speedway. The change in name reflects the active redevelopment currently taking place at the Delmar complex.

For the final time, modified ace Harold Bunting, came forward while the crowd of over 400 rose to a standing ovation, to receive his unequalled third consecutive, fourth overall modified championship. The championship was worth a record $2300 for Bunting whose eight feature wins in the D&D Dismantling Olsen Eagle this season extended his career win record in that division to 86.

Car builder, Budd Olson and his wife were celebrating their 42nd anniversary along with son Doug who presented Bunting with a beautiful clock/plaque. A plaque was also presented by the speedway listing Bunting's accomplishments there. Track announcer, David Brown, added to Bunting's awards with another beautiful plaque from the Checker Flag Fan Club.

Trophies were presented to the top ten in the modified division by Snookie's Speed Parts of Milton. Jerry Lias of McCleary Tires presented Bunting with a check for $500 for his point championship and a $250 check to Ron Keys who finished in second for being the highest point finisher without a feature win.

Eddie Pettyjohn collected a total of $1700 for his first late model championship. Pettyjohn in the Hitchen's Bros. Kustom Chassis late model had a record 17 feature wins in 1986. Eddie also received $500 from McCleary for his championship, while Lou Johnson received the $250 award for finishing in second without a feature win. Trophies for the top ten finishers in both the late models and limited late models were presented by Lankford Sysco.

In the limited late model division, Todd Richardson was not only the top feature winner but also won his first point championship in the process. The point title was worth $750 for Richardson. Hometown driver, Tommy Elliott, collected $450 in winning his first street modified crown.

Several special awards were made during the evening program. David Parker representing J&S Automotive presented the four point champions with championship jackets. David Brown presented the WCTD "Let's Talk Racing" driver awards to Harold Bunting in the modifieds, Eddie Pettyjohn in the late models, Bill Penuel in the limited lates and Kenny Pettyjohn in the street modifieds. Brown also recognized car owner, Earl Keys with a plaque for his help and participation in the Muscular Dystrophy Match Race.

Vice President and General Manager of Delaware International, Carlie Cathell commented that not only was the $20,400 point fund, distributed to the top ten in each division, a new record, but new records were also set for total season purse ($318,490), attendance (over 100,000), and total competitors (243).

In comparison, this year's point fund for the limited late models alone was greater than the total fund in all divisions for the previous three years.

Dale Earnhardt plans to defend Winston Cup title

Dale Earnhardt, NASCAR's 1986 Winston Cup Champion, sees his number one competition in the upcoming season coming from the 1984 Winston Cup Champ Terry Labonte.

Earnhardt will begin defending his 1986 stock car title, beginning February 15 at the Daytona 500.

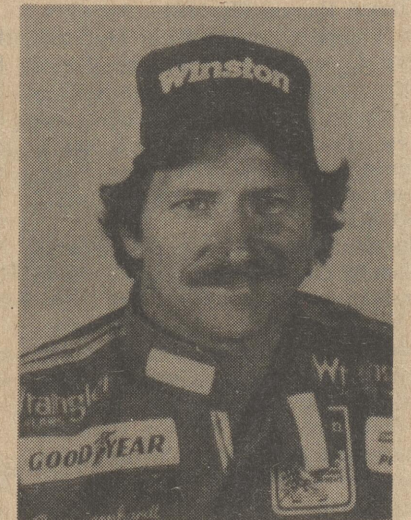

Labonte's been hired to replace Darrell Waltrip on the Junior Johnson elite team.

In the 1986 season, Earnhardt won five races, which netted him nearly $1.8 million.

Only one other driver won more races than Earnhardt in 1986. Tim Richmond, who will miss the season's start because of a bout with pneumonia, topped Earnhardt's record with seven wins and eight pole positions.

Richmond finished third in the point standings, behind both Earnhardt and Waltrip, a three time Winston Cup winner.

Earnhardt will be driving for the

Dale Earnhardt

Richard Childress team again this year. During his NASCAR driving career, Childress never won a race.

A.J. Foyt to debut his Porsche 962 at Daytona Woodinville, Wash.—Veteran race car driver A.J. Foyt has put together what he believes will be a winning team for the International Motor Sports Association grand prix circuit.

His car will be a Porsche 962, his co-drivers will be three-time Indianapolis 500 winner Al Unser and 1984 winner Danny Sullivan, and his sponsor will be Columbia Crest, the superpremium wine from Washington State.

The Sunbank 24 Hours at Daytona Race, a grueling 24-hour test of car and drivers' endurance and skill, begins January 31 and will mark the first time the three drivers have competed as a team. Foyt and Unser have raced together at Daytona, winning the 24 hour race. Sullivan and Foyt were a team in last year's race and led right up to the finish, finally coming in second.

Collectively, this super team of race car drivers has eight Indianapolis 500 victories. Foyt is the only four-time winner in the history of the Indy 500.

Foyt's Columbia Porsche 962 marks his entry into the ranks of International Motor Sports Association team owners, although he has owned Indy cars since the early 1960s and Winston Cup stock cars since the early '70s.

Foyt said he plans to enter the Columbia Crest/Porsche 962, which carries the blue and white colors of the Columbia Crest label and the distinctive Foyt orange, in three additional IMSA events: the Miami Grand Prix, the 12 Hours at Sebring and the West Palm Grand Prix.

Portions of the race will be televised live on the Turner Broadcasting Network.

"On Pit Road" live from Daytona Beach

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—For the second consecutive year, "On Pit Road, Live From Daytona Beach," will air February 9-13.

The hour-long "live" radio show will feature host Ken Squier and various NASCAR Winston Cup drivers and other racing personalities each night, previewing the season-opening Daytona 500 on Feb. 15 at Daytona International Speedway in Daytona Beach, Fla.

"On Pit Road, Live From Daytona Beach" will be on the air each of the five nights from 10 to 11, originating from the Hawaiian Inn on South Atlantic Boulevard in Daytona Beach Shores, Fla.

Some of the Winston Cup drivers expected to be interviewed by Squier, the anchorman for CBS-TV motorsports productions, are Richard Petty, Cale Yarborough, Darrell Waltrip and many others before a live audience.

STP and Coors are sponsoring the radio show which will be carried "live" nationally by more than 80 major radio stations. WROD-AM in Daytona Beach, Fla., is serving as the flagship station for the show.

"We are tickled to death we could get Ken Squier, STP, Coors, the Hawaiian Inn and everyone else involved again in the radio show from Daytona Beach and keep a Daytona 500 tradition going," said Pat Patterson, president of Patterson Sports Marketing in Charlotte, N.C. and the executive producer of "On Pit Road, Live From Daytona." We think this will be a very unique entertaining and highly informational show for everyone."

Officials at the Hawaiian Inn stress anyone who will be in the Daytona Beach on Feb. 9-13 and desires to be among the live audience for "On Pit Road, Live From Daytona Beach" should arrive at the motel's lounge area well in advance of the 10 p.m. on-air time each of the five days since seating is limited.

For more information concerning the show, telephone 704-537-2424.

Special radio show set for Thursday before 500

DAYTONA BEACH, FL.—More than 100 stations across the country will carry a special one-hour radio show on the Thursday night before the Daytona 500.

Produced by Motor Racing Network as a special edition of its weekly NASCAR LIVE program, the show - hosted by veteran sportscaster Eli Gold - will be broadcast live from 7:00-8:00 p.m. on February 12 from the grand ballroom of the Clarendon Plaza Hotel in Daytona Beach, FL.

The show will feature leading drivers and journalists answering questions from an audience of fans from 35 states and Canada who are participating in a special five-day, behind-the-scenes tour arranged by Motorsport Adventures Inc. of Montvale, NJ.

In addition, the show will highlight a drive by the Winston Cup Wives' Auxiliary to raise funds to equip a $700,000 mobile medical trauma unit. The special tractor/trailer will carry its own advanced life-support ambulance as well as the latest equipment for treating acute injuries.

Following the radio show, from 8 to 10 p.m., the ballroom will be open to the public. For a $10 donation to the trauma unit fund, fans will have an opportunity to meet drivers and their wives as well as to participate in prize drawings.

"a serious enough problem" for the legislature to consider.

A law involving out-of-state cars would be something else for the House and Senate to consider, she said.

Highway and road projects also top the agenda the General Assembly will be considering.

Senator Minner said her district has some real problems with bridges in the Milford and Harrington areas.

Four bridges in the area have been condemned by the federal government.

"Those bridges are old and need to be fixed," said Senator Minner.

Condemned bridges in the area create some traveling problems. Senator Minner said that in one area residents detouring the bridge have to travel 11 miles to get to their chicken houses which are only on the other side of the bridge, 500 feet away.

While the problems of roads and bridges aren't unique to Delaware, Senator Minner said Delaware hasn't kept up with regulation changes made by the federal government.

The two cent gas tax is "helping but it seems we can't catch up," she said.

Senator Minner would like to see the additional money coming into Delaware from the federal tax reform go toward a highway project to make necessary repairs.

The state prison system will be a key issue facing the legislature this year. Last week the Senate passed a resolution asking the state corrections commissions committee to look into a dress and grooming code for prisoners.

Senator Minner said the prison crisis is a mounting problem nationwide.

Grandparents are the focus of a bill Representative Quillen will put before the House this session.

The Grandparents bill would make the grandparents of illegitimate children responsible for them. He said he introduced this bill last year, but it got in late. Wisconsin passed similar legislation last year.

Representative Quillen is also sponsoring a bill, commonly known as the Good Samaritan Act. This bill gives protection to ambulance drivers and paramedics helping patients by not holding them liable for their aid. Therefore, patients could not sue a paramedic for negligence.

On January 14, Representative Quillen introduced a proposal to expand the Delaware Harness Racing Commission by two members.

Currently, the Commission has three members, who set dates for racing at Harrington, Dover Downs and Brandywine and who hear appeals from drivers with disciplinary infractions.

Representative Quillen said a commission of five would eliminate the problem that occurs when a horseman goes before the commission, only to find a decision on the case can't be heard because a quorum isn't present.

The House of Representatives should vote on this proposal this week.

On Saturday, February 28th, the 17th Annual Hagerstown Car Show will be held at The Long Meadow Shopping Center from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Spartans drop squeaker

The Lake Forest boys' basketball team had their first real chance for a victory, but fell short 66-64 in an overtime loss to Delmar.

With the game tied at 62 going into overtime, Delmar's Tim Bolden and Joe Jones hit free throws to give Delmar the lead before the Spartans got a bucket to tie the game once again.

Then, with six seconds left, Leroy Holland hit a 15 foot jump shot to keep the Spartans still winless and give the Wildcats their first victory of the year. The narrow loss overshadowed the play of Spartan senior forwards Chuck Bell and James Hicks. Despite a winless season so far, Bell and Hicks both scored 16 points apiece.

Later in the week, the Spartans jumped out to a 20-18 halftime lead against Sussex Central before the Golden Knights outscored the Spartans, 40-18 in the second half for the victory.

The Spartans never got on track offensively as Bell and Hicks were held to nine and eight points apiece. Tony Bray picked up the slack with 10 points to lead the Spartans, only 0-6 in conference play and 0-10 overall.

Senator Minner's column

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner

During one of my recent trips to Milton, I noticed the total deterioration of a local road sign (noting directions to Oak Orchard and Harbeson) and, upon returning home, immediately reported this problem to the Department of Transportation.

I was informed that a procedure must be followed to have such signs repaired and, through a written request, I initiated this process. Last week, I was finally notified that this sign is now on the final list for installation.

What this whole experience made me realize is that there is no organized procedure or system within the Department of Transportation to monitor and maintain the thousands of traffic signs throughout our state. Only through private requests or, if a state highway worker happens to notice a problem sign, does the repair/replacement process officially begin.

While I cannot explain or understand why we have such an unorganized system for maintaining our highway traffic signs, I do know the importance of citizen input in this process. As much as I try to travel around to the many areas of my district, I know that there are some areas where traffic problems may exist and I have no knowledge of such problems.

If there is a problem of any kind in your community with road signs, road deterioration or traffic problems, please let me know.

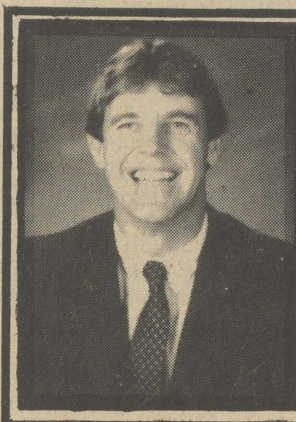

While I cannot guarantee total satisfaction in dealing with such matters, I can guarantee that I will work with you and your neighbors to resolve such problems as quickly as possible.

During the past few months, I have received numerous complaints about a current situation in our day care centers which effects practically every working family in our state. Current law prohibits the distribution of prescriptions to children in day care by anyone who is not a nurse. Obviously, this causes an extreme problem for day care operators (who must care for children, some needing medication), and working parents who are forced to leave work to administer proper medication to their children.

Since this matter involved amending current licensing statutes, I brought this to the attention of Senator Harris McDowell and Representative Steve Amick, Co-Chairs of the Sunset Committee, which is charged with monitoring professional licensing regulations and standards.

Senator McDowell informed me last week that a meeting was held to discuss this problem with the various parties involved and a compromise piece of legislation is now being developed to address this situation.

Action is expected on this very important measure in the next few weeks.

"Pressures"

Education is not an exact science. This business of schooling is generated by people, implemented by people for people and tainted with all the uncontrollable variables associated with the human being.

While those who labor in the schools regularly trumpet the design of a new and, hopefully, more effective measurement device with which to more accurately determine the degree of success achieved, their only true evaluation instrument is history. Unfortunately, historians have tended to disproportionately give credit for society's successes to other sectors of the sociological arena and throw to the educators much of the blame for the citizenry's shortcomings.

Scott D. Thomson, Executive Director of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, wrote, in the December 1986 edition of NASSP Newslender, that educators may, for good reason, get the feeling that they are "over-coached." He asked, "Do you sense a relentless flow of advice coming from distant experts? Do you wonder why so many people with impressive credentials feel compelled to comment on schools? Why all the pronouncements?"

Like no other field, no one has lack of opinion on how our schools may be improved. The ailing patient would not ask, during a normal operation that the surgeon use a different technique for the removal of a gall bladder. Yet, even students, while freshmen and sophomores in high school, may feel no reluctance in giving advice to an educated and experienced teacher on how to better provide a quality education.

And educators often succumb to the pressure of inspection and buy into the advice for, what may be, the wrong reasons.

It is important that school people lend an ear to those with ideas. What Thomson suggested, rather strongly, is that these educators rely more heavily on their own talents than regularly altering delivery and content at the whim of each and every special interest group which knocks on the schoolhouse door.

We have paid, he pointed out, for past errors in this regard. Pressure from sociologists resulted in the mass uprooting of curriculum and discipline codes in the 1970's. One must ask if we have yet to finish paying for that decision in terms of failing test scores, downturns in student mastery of "the basics" and environments in our schools which are not conducive to learning.

Economists, he said, are moving to dominate the schools in the 1980's. "We must stop being pulled to and fro by other fields. Clearly it is time to stand upon our own two feet and insist upon following the framework of our own profession. This framework admittedly includes some soft spots, but we have firm as well as infirm footing on which to stand. We certainly don't need to collapse everytime a new proposal comes along."

Still, one must marvel at the pressure for reform which engulfs the profession. What, with the rising costs of malpractice insurance in the medical field, one may expect a public outcry in reforming standards of certifying doctors, administering hospitals and the development of new tools with which to evaluate the overall performance of the profession. The same may be said of our penal system.

Yet, somehow, these fields and others like them escape the pressures which are placed on the schools.

Perhaps one may rightly suggest that this is simply an indication of the intense interest, on the part of society, in education. Possibly so.

Still, it is one of the most important components of the daily job of educating our youth...handling the pressures.

Capitol Comments

On the road again

by Congressman Tom Carper

Last week's snowy weather in Delaware was a startling reminder to all of us of the importance of good road conditions. Congress can't control the whims of Mother Nature but it can do its part to ensure that state departments of transportation, like DELDOT, have much of the resources they need to maintain our nation's roads and highways. That's why I was particularly pleased last week when the House of Representatives took up the issue of highway transportation as one of its first acts in the 100th Congress.

By a vote of 401 to 20, the House passed the Surface Transportation Act Amendments of 1987 (STAA), legislation which will provide for $90 billion dollars to fund much-needed highway construction and mass transit programs over the next five years. Most of that money comes from the gasoline and diesel taxes we pay at the pump. Similar legislation was passed by the House and Senate last year, but no compromise with the Senate could be reached on several controversial amendments, and the legislation was left to languish in conference committee as the 99th Congress came to a close.

This time around, there is greater optimism that the House & Senate can resolve their differences and send this legislation to the President's desk. The urgent need for swift action is readily apparent. Many highway programs have already come to a screeching halt because their authorization expired with the beginning of the new fiscal year on October 1. Further delays in enacting this bill until the spring construction season could endanger as many as 1,500 projects involving 138,000 construction jobs.

In Delaware, enactment of the Transportation Act will mean approximately $43 million in highway funds annually for our state to ensure the continuity of the Delaware Department of Transportation's ongoing efforts to improve our highway system. Without it, the Department's six-year capital improvement program presently underway could be jeopardized.

The construction work being done on Routes 202, 141, and 7 in New Castle County, and Routes 1 and 13 in Sussex County is just a sampling of the projects funded in part by programs contained in this legislation. The 58-mile Route 13 relief route in New Castle and Kent Counties planned for the near future will also be financed with significant amounts of federal money authorized under the 1987 Amendments. In addition to road construction, mass transit programs reauthorized under the legislation will provide the Delaware Administration for Regional Transit (DART) with much needed resources to maintain its present operating levels and support modernization activities.

Sometimes we Delawareans take for granted the importance of the roads we use every day to get to work, or school, or the grocery store. But maintaining our surface transportation infrastructure is not only important to the comfort and safety we enjoy in our daily travels across America's highways and byways, it's also critical to the future economic development of our country. Without good roads and efficient mass transit, business and commerce simply cannot function properly.

That's why this legislation is so important. There may still be some bumps in the road towards its final enactment - the President has threatened to veto it as too costly - but it is my hope that the Congress and the President can resolve their differences in time to avert any serious delays in highway projects in Delaware and throughout the country.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Approximately five years ago the Harrington City Council chose three Councilpersons to be on a Building Committee. The function of this Committee was to study the feasibility of either purchasing an existing building for a City Office or construct a new one.

Several existing buildings were viewed. There was always the same conclusions drawn. It was too costly to purchase an existing building and have all of the renovations to do or in some cases we would have the added expense of demolishing the building altogether and would only be left with an empty lot.

Being forced with these barriers, the Committee proceeded with the idea of new construction, provided they could find a suitable vacant lot. After coming up with the needed amount of space to house the City Office and Police Department, the Committee proceeded to obtain information on plans and talked to various contractors. This information was presented before the entire Council. The Council had hearings to receive public input. After the hearing the Council decided not to proceed to build a new City Hall.

In October 1985, the Mayor suggested we choose a group of 12 citizens as an ad hoc Building Committee. After selecting this group, we were back to square one. Citizens were chosen from all wards with Dr. Vincent Lobo as Chairman. Three Councilpersons were also selected to act as a liaison.

The Committee formed three groups to check all possible avenues for a City Hall. They did an outstanding job and drew the conclusion that a new building was needed and even found a piece of vacant property to build on. The City could purchase from the Catholic Church a lot facing Liberty Street for $14,000. The new building would house the City Hall, Police Department and Library.

With the help of our City Manager, Mr. George Volenik, we were successful in obtaining grants from Bicentennial Funds. At the present time, we have $83,128 with the possibilities of receiving more.

If these funds are to be utilized, we must break ground by March 20, 1987, or lose the funds granted to us. I feel quite certain we will never be given a grant such as this again. It is surely a wonderful gift to the City.

I have lived in Harrington all my life and never has the City had a City Office to call their own. The City presently pays $4,200 a year in rent. This doesn't include water, sewer, electricity, trash and taxes. We would be collecting taxes and water and sewer fees from the owners of the existing City Hall, when we move.

The City is expecting new revenue from Diamond Court of at least $6,500. These two yearly figures totaled together would pay a monthly payment on a new City Hall. The Council has no intention of raising taxes to pay for a City Hall. Naturally, one cannot predict the future, but there is no present need of raising taxes to pay for the City Hall.

As you are all aware, our City is starting to grow and with this growth, the City also has more needs. The project of establishing a permanent home for our City Offices is long overdue and if the Bicentennial funds slip through our fingers, the entire expense of a City Hall would then fall on the shoulders of all of our citizens.

With this letter, I hope I have cleared a lot of existing rumors and just know you are always welcome to attend a Council Meeting or call me.

Councilman

BUDGET RAIN DANCE

By Edwin Feulner

President Ronald Reagan's trillion-dollar fiscal 1988 budget proposal has been sent to Congress, where it was ritualistically declared "dead on arrival" by the House and Senate leadership.

It seemed that everybody had some sort of complaint. Big city mayors, the higher education lobby, mass transit Trekkies, self-appointed spokesmen for the homeless, they huffed and they puffed and they posed and they pranced, all declaring that the defense budget was too high and domestic spending too low. They said this despite the fact that defense spending in the current fiscal year (FY 1987) will be $100 billion less than the Congress itself agreed to just a few years ago.

Still, administration critics say there is too much "fat" in the defense budget and too much lean in other categories, and propose putting the Pentagon on a new diet regimen—dressed up, from the looks of it, by a microbiotic drill instructor at a Jane Fonda clinic.

The network television newscasters, of course, just love this budget rain dance, and willingly take part in the merriment.

I watched the newscasters carefully the evening the budget was sent to Congress, and without exception the budget was explained to the viewing audience in the most simplistic and dishonest terms, as if there were just two "line items" to be considered: defense spending and domestic programs.

In fact, the federal budget consists of dozens of categories and thousands of individual projects and programs.

There are budgets for national defense (category 050), international affairs (150), energy (270), natural resources (300), agriculture (350), commerce and housing credit (370), transportation (400), community and regional development (450), education, training and employment services (500), health (550), income security (600), the Veteran's Administration (700), the administration of justice (750), interest (900), federal pay (920), and a catch-all "other" category.

Within each of these budget "functions" are the thousands of individual programs we are asked to pay for with our hard-earned cash: the Export-Import Bank, Department of Interior land acquisitions, Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) research, the National Sea Grant College program, Coastal Zone Management State Assistance Grants, Rural Electrification Administration, rural housing, Federal Housing Administration, U.S. Postal Service direct subsidies, the Small Business Administration, National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) civilian aeronautical research and development, Urban Development Action Grants, the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Economic Development Administration, "impact aid," bilingual education programs, WIN, Job Corps, Community Services Block Grants, Legal Services Corporation, trade adjustment assistance, and on and on and on, ad infinitum.

It is not the Pentagon against the poor, which is the question the liberal big spenders want us to believe. It is instead thousands of individual programs, many of them unnecessary, the majority of them unknown to most taxpayers.

January 26, 1987

Dear Citizens,

As Councilman for the Fourth Ward, I feel that a public letter stating my position regarding a new City Hall for our City would be appropriate at this time. I have listened constantly for the past year, since taking office, to the ongoing arguments for and against a new City Hall and Library. My position is as follows: I am in favor of accepting the 50% Bicentennial Grant for the construction of a new City Hall, Police Station, and Library complex. This complex would be housed in an attractive, well-kept, Colonial Style building. I feel that the best location for this building is the property adjacent to DP&L, on Liberty Street. Furthermore, I am against, and will not vote for an increase in taxes to attain this building.

For those willing to listen, I would like to express some of the reasons for which I take these stands, and at the same time deal with some of the arguments which I have heard against these positions. I do wish to express, first, that I have heard absolutely nothing negative about the City's plans from residents of my ward for the entire year since I took office. In fact, anyone I have spoken to on the issue feels that we are very lucky to be in a position to undertake such a venture. I have heard two negative comments in the past week. I do not agree with them, and I will explain that further on. Any stalling or changes now would jeopardize the grant. I cannot allow that to happen at this point. That is not to say that I am not open to input from citizens. In fact, I personally delivered a letter to every resident of my ward when I took office asking for their input and suggestions. However, input must be given when it is useful. The City Hall discussions have taken place in Open Meetings for the past year and only a small handful of people have given opinions.

I wish to say a few words in defense of the Library. I see a growing Harrington. I see now shopping centers and new homes being built. I feel that a new, attractive City Hall-Library is a part of this progress. A library, in particular, is an attraction to people who are deciding about settling in a community. A library in a small trailer indicates to an outsider the importance that education and culture holds for a community. I believe that Harrington does indeed hold education and culture as a high priority. If we do not, we are not living in the 80's and our children will not be ready to live in the 90's! I have spoken to a realtor about the desirability of a library in the neighborhood. He replied that a library in the area does indeed increase real estate values, since it is one item which makes houses easier to sell.

I have heard the argument that we should not accept the Bicentennial Grant because we are indirectly paying for it anyway through state taxes. This may be so, but the system says to us, "Either you take the money or we will give it to someone else." Whether we like the system or not, citizens of Harrington are paying state taxes, and it is not fair if we do not receive a share of what is due us. I feel a responsibility as councilman to see that some of this money comes back to Harrington. Why should we pay for a City Hall or Library in Lewes or Wilmington-if we don't get one, too?

There are those in town who say that they believe that taxes will have to go up to cover our 50% of the cost. After listening for a year, I have concluded that they will not go up! Nor, will I vote for them to be raised! Our 50% will be mortgaged, just like you mortgage your house. The payments will be somewhat more than then present rent payments, but this difference is already covered by taxes from our new businesses and homes. Furthermore, we will finally be owning our own building, instead of depending on landlords and leases. The reasons for the City buying a City Hall-Library are the same reasons that people eventually buy homes: It is not economically desirable to pay rent forever. Again, I feel that it is my duty as councilman to free the citizens of Harrington from being tenants forever!

There are those in town who feel that an old home or business would be preferable to a new building. This may be so. However, the Building Committee, selected by Council even before I took my seat, studied this issue and recommended a new building. I, myself, looked at some properties with an open mind. Without going into detail about each one, there were problems with each individual situation. In short, by the time the city purchased one of these sites and refurbished it to just meet its needs, the cost would approach that of a new building. The new building, on the other hand, would be designed to meet present needs AND have the capabilities of future expansion. Again, I saw that the citizens of Harrington will get the most for their money with a new building.

Finally, a word about location. The Building Committee recommended the Liberty Street property due to its openness, off-street parking possibilities and room for future expansion. I agree with them. The property is being sold at a fair appraised value, and it is a bargain for the city.

In conclusion, I felt that I owed the citizens of Harrington, for or against this venture, an explanation of the reasons behind my convictions. I sincerely hope that everyone understands that I am doing what I, as well as many of my ward's residents, feel is right and good for Harrington. I am always open to discussion and welcome it. I wish to thank the editor of this paper for printing this letter. I wish to thank you for taking the time to read it!

Sincerely,
James B. Boyd

Volunteers wanted for Heritage Day

were all in Center City. There were food vendors and many merchants participated in one way or another. The JCPenney Bank, then the First National, and the People's Bank both contributed to put the affair on the radio for the day.

The next year, the Historical Society volunteered to continue the affair with Mr. McKnatt as chairman. He served in this capacity for two or three years. Then there were members of the Historical Society who felt the affair was growing too large for them to handle...they wanted to follow up on other programs and Heritage Day had grown to the point that it now stretched from Welch's Seed Service and Taylor and Messick on the west and even included a tennis match at the W.T. Chipman school. Craft persons now number about 35 to 50. And let's not forget the gigantic Flea Market at the Bank Parking lot...Gene Price is usually the man responsible for the success of this portion of the Day.

The coordinators of Heritage Day to date have been: Jacquie Davis, Ken McKnatt, Sue Ellen Dennis, Barbara Page, and Beverly Turner. It is not a small job. Neither are all the other jobs associated with the BIG DAY. Every year about this time, the Committee requests volunteers for that year's work.

The only compensation you can expect is the satisfaction of knowing that you have helped to produce such an excellent affair and helped your community. Each year the programs get bigger and better. Last year a coupon book was added, which was very well received. Last year they also had about 160 craft persons, with an increase of about 60 more wanting to come this year.

The Heritage Day Committee is completely made up of volunteers, as stated before. They are from Harrington and neighboring communities.

Business people, retirees, teachers, secretaries and others all give their time and efforts for this day. The Heritage Day Committee was begun when the Historical Society decided to move on to other things. It is supported almost entirely by gifts and donations. The only money making activity they have is an auction on Heritage Day and the articles for this are donated from crafters, business people and interested people in the community. Many people do not know that it is no longer a branch of the Historical Society, but a separate Committee.

The Committee is asking for volunteers now for this year's group. Anyone can come and join if you are willing to work for that is what we do the most. If you want to help and cannot work, donations can be made to Post Office Box 171 and made payable to the Harrington Heritage Day Committee.

The first organizational meeting of 1987 will be held at the Harrington Senior Center on February 17 at 7:00 p.m. Please plan to attend and bring an interested friend.

Snow brings accidents, closures

"The best rule of thumb is don't panic," said Mr. Roosevelt. Motorists skidding on ice should steer into the curve and should pump their brakes gradually, not quickly in snowy areas, said Mr. Roosevelt.

While Mr. Roosevelt suggests using common sense in driving, we did alleviate one myth about snow driving that some people still take to heart.

"If you take the air out of your tires, it doesn't give you more traction," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Cars should have properly inflated tires when driving in snow. Mr. Roosevelt said some motorists let a little air out of their tires believing it will help them drive better in the snow. He said this doesn't help the driver.

Other common sense driving tips:

- *Clean all snow and ice off the car to ensure good peripheral vision while driving.
- *Keep the car's gas tank at least 1/2 full.

- *Don't warm the auto in an enclosed area, such as a garage, since carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas that can kill.

- *Make sure the tires are properly inflated.
- *Wear seat belts, especially in poor weather.

Harrington Police responded to "about half a dozen disabled vehicles and one accident," according to Harrington Patrolman John Horsman.

The accident did not involve any injuries, only property damage.

"If you don't have to be on the road, stay home," was the advice Patrolman Horsman had for drivers.

State police responded to more than 50 accidents in Kent County, but none were serious, according to Corporal Gerald Pepper of the Delaware State Police.

"The type of accidents were your minor property damage accidents and fender benders," Corp. Pepper said.

The most serious problem state police responded to in Kent County happened at Routes 15 and 12, where about six cars all stopped at once because road slickness kept them from going up an incline, according to Corp. Pepper.

To help people stranded or stuck along the highway, state police doubled their manpower Thursday by putting two troopers in each patrol car.

No particular area was any worse than the rest, said Corp. Pepper.

Corp. Pepper said drivers should use their lights when visibility is down like it was during rush hour Thursday; and they should make sure their taillights are visible, not covered with snow.

For Roger Minner's Wrecker Service near Milford, business was about normal, with about 10 cars getting towed.

Carl Moore, owner of Moore's Garage near Felton, said "The phone's been ringing off the hook."

Mr. Moore said towing did increase Thursday, but none of the accidents were serious. Mainly the towing service spent the day pulling cars out of ditches and getting them out of driveways.

Freezing temperatures caused problems for Delmarva Power and Light customers in the Harrington and Slaughter beach areas.

According to Bill Andrew of DP&L, approximately 1,400 customers in Harrington were out of power for a half an hour Thursday. The power outage occurred between 3:00 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

In Slaughter Beach, Mr. Andrew said 200 customers were out of electricity for a period of two hours.

Jim Strickland from Diamond State Telephone said, "By and large, the storm didn't affect us. It was just another normal day."

No phone service was out, according to Mr. Strickland. "We've buried a lot of our lines, so when you have bad storms you're not very susceptible to damage," said Mr. Strickland.

Phone systems, which rely on electricity, were down when the electricity went off in Harrington.

News about school closings can be obtained by calling the school districts:

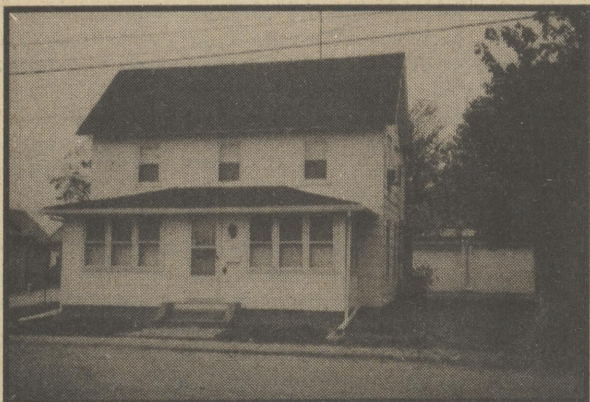

- *Lake Forest School District at 398-3244.
- *Milford School District at 422-1600.

Cancellations can also be heard on area radio stations:

- *WAFB-FM, 97.7.
- *WYUS-AM, 930.
- *WDSB-FM, 95.7.
- *WDOV-AM, 1410.

Harrington Police cite increases in local crime

Some crimes increase simultaneously, said Sgt. Cook. One such example includes the crimes of criminal impersonation and fugitives.

Fugitives, according to Sgt. Cook, usually lie about who they are when they get picked up. Harrington Police picked up five fugitives in 1986, all of whom lied about their identity, therefore committing criminal impersonation.

The number of human deaths not involving foul play has gone from two to four in Harrington. These deaths can occur outside of hospitals, and include suicides the police investigate, said Sgt. Cook.

"Crimes against property are up. Most trespassing and burglaries happen in the middle of the night," said Sgt. Cook.

Sgt. Cook would like to believe thefts are down in Harrington because thieves are "getting scared away."

He suggests residents lock their homes and use common sense in protecting their belongings.

He said residents need to be more aware of what's going on around them and to report things that are out of the ordinary.

In 1987, Sgt. Cook said the Harrington Police are "hoping to work a lot closer with the state police" on local cases.

"We're also going to try to get out on the streets more," Sgt. Cook said.

The local police will also be targeting the areas where most of Harrington's accidents occur, mainly near the intersection of U.S. 13 and Route 14 and on Commerce Street.

Sgt. Cook said the had intersections in the area may be studied by the Department of Highway Safety.

In the police department's annual report to the city manager, the police department is recommending an increase in manpower, an increase in the number of police vehicles and an increase in the amount of coverage they can provide, according to City Manager, George Volenik.

Mr. Volenik will consider the police department's recommendations before presenting the city budget to the Harrington City Council in March.

The search for a new police chief is still continuing according to Sgt. Cook.
