Lake Forest school officials clarify state audit citations

by William Robertson

The Lake Forest School District recently went through an audit of their 1986 fiscal year accounts and contracts which resulted in citations for violating areas including investments, revenue, construction and grants administration, and contracts.

Dr. James H. VanSciver, superintendent of the Lake Forest School District said that the report, released by Dennis E. Greenhouse, state auditor of accounts, showed that 95 percent of what the audit found in the district was good and only five percent was bad.

The audit found that the district did not comply with a state law regarding a custodial contract for $18,000 and that the district failed to publicly advertise the contract. Also, the district did not always accept the lowest bid.

Richard Moretti, assistant for administrative services for the Lake Forest School District explained the situation by saying, "There is a state law that states, when the district exceeds $10,000 for bids, they must advertise in a newspaper. What we did was solicit the bids directly to five different vendors instead of advertising it in a

'As far as not accepting the lowest bids, sometimes we didn't because the product at the lowest price was sometimes not of the best quality and we didn't except it for that reason."

The district was also cited for a $78,923 contract for roof repair awarded to a contractor by the district which was done without full liability insurance and without a performance bond.

According to Moretti, "We had one bidder apply for the job and he requested a waiver of the performance bond, and the board accepted a letter of credit instead. The district was cited balance which violated a state law. because it wasn't stated in the original contract that the board could waive the preformance bond and accept a letter of credit. We have now been informed that in the future to include a statement in our contracts that will allow for

Another citation the district received was for a federal reimbursement of $24,126.75 from the Environmental Protection Agency for asbestos removal which was deposited in a fund that gave interest on more than 40 percent of the Moretti said, "The $24,126.75 was put into an account that paid interest to the school district instead of to the state.

The account was to have paid 40 percent of the interst of the district and 60 percent to the state. Instead, the money was mistakenly put into the wrong account and the district received 100 percent of the interest and the state received nothing.'

Under the revenue section, the audit found that the school district overcharged users of the school facilities a total of $302.50 after establishing a new energy charge.

"The problem with users of the school's facilities being overchaged was resolved before the auditors left the district and that problem did not fall under the 1986 fiscal year which the report was suppose to cover, but it fell under the 1987 fiscal year," according to

"Those areas where problems were found either have been or are being taken care of and corrected," Moretti

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

000

He last coached in 1985 when he took the fighting Lake Forest Spartans to the Division II High School football state tournament. Although the Spartans lost that game in the closing minutes of the ball game, it was nonetheless typical of a Jim Fleming coached football team...well prepared. That year his team was 7-2-1.

In 1976, the Lake Forest School Board offered Coach Fleming a coaching and teaching contract at the high school level. He took a fumbling, staggering football program and slowly but surely began to put into place a program of conditioning and physical dominance.

His teams immediately showed signs of being well coached, well prepared, and basically well conditioned. "The weight lifting program was the single thing that started Lake Forest on the rebuilding road", said Fleming from the practice field this week.

Over the 10 years he headed the football program at Lake Forest, he was involved in many, many close games. His overall record (unofficial) is 46-48-6. Many of the losses were by one point or by one touchdown. He operated his teams from the "Veer offense", which provided for ball handling and the game. That's football and not necessarily the type of offense you are running.

Through the weight lifting program he has manage to have real good linemen and linebackers putting several on the "All State squads". "This year I am looking to the seniors for leadership. We have Marvin Hicks (allstate lineman) Bobby Reed (split end and safety), and Jimmy Boling returning from last year's squad", added Fleming.

Coach Fleming also added that he has four more seniors returning who were on the squad last year but saw limited action like John Swain, Steve Thompson, Tony Noble, and Doug

Morrison. Coach Fleming has most of his former coaching staff with him this year with Coaches Chester Scott taking charge of the offensive and defensive backs, Al Wood with the 9th grade squad, Bill Eisenbrey dealing with the line backers and Bill Falasco handling the offensive

Coach Fleming said the team will continue to use the run option offense ..but we will put in a different passing game". Coach Fleming, knowing he has a young team, will be looking for ball control and a tough defense. "We have a bunch of good athletes...and I am

Bullock attends training program

TIPTON, Ind. — A Kent County man was one of nearly 100 new sales representatives who attended a weeklong orientation program sponsored by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

Donald Bullock of Harrington was recently appointed a sales representative by Pioneer. The orientation program is designed to familiarize Bullock and others who attended the seminar with the Company's business operation, said Joe Green, training

"This program gives the new reps an opportunity to see, hear and ask questions about the company. It will provide them with a foundation to start their efforts as a sales rep for Pioneer," Green said.

Computer usage, product information and accounting practices were among the subjects covered in the program that Bullock attended.

Pioneer is a leading supplier of hybrid sed corn and sorghum along with soybean, ahalfa, wheat varieties and inoculant products. The company also markets computer software and services designed for farm and agribusiness applications.

They will be initially hiring approximately 40 workers for the Harrington operations. Leonard Stieglitz and his son Michael Stieglitz are the company executives working with the Delaware

Through advertising placed by Forward Central Delaware in the December 1986 issue of Area Development magazine, the Ginger Peachy corporation became interested in what. Kent County has to offer. They contacted Dan Wolfensberger, and he and Dorothy Sbriglia of the Delaware Development Office worked with the client to show potential sites in both Kent and Sussex Counties. "This corporation learned about Kent County from our advertising effort, which shows the potential for a direct ad placement," commented Wolfens- according to Dale Wolf.

Surplus Food Distribution set for September

The next quarterly distribution of USDA donated surplus foods will take place Wednesday, September 16 in Sussex County and Thursday, September 17 in Kent County. The State Division of Purchasing, which administers the program, will again be assisted by fire companies, their ladies auxiliaries, Jaycees, State Granges and other volunteers.

According to Connie Biddle, Program Coordinator, more than 400,000 needy households have now been recipients of USDA donated food. "We are extremely fortunate to have such dedicated volunteers involved in this program" said Biddle. "They are the people responsible for distributing 6,700,000 pounds of food to Delaware's needy families. Delaware residents who receive food stamps, general assistance, or AFDC will be mailed food vouchers from the Division of Purchasing which entitles them to USDA donated food commodities. The September vouchers will be mailed several days prior to the date of distribution. The person to whom the woucher is adressed or a representative authorized by that person must take the voucher to the location nearest them in exchange for the food. Persons on the above listed public assistance programs may no longer receive surplus food at these distributions by presenting their assistance cards. They must have a voucher.

Also eligible are those with total household incomes not exceeding 185% of the poverty level.

Only one person per household may apply. Persons applying under the income eligibility guidelines will not receive vouchers, but must present their driver's license or Social Security card as identification. Homebound recipients in this category can also have someone pick up their food by completing a form that their representatives must present at the distribution center. The forms are available now at all State Service Centers. Forms can also be obtained at distribution sites during the hours of

Delaware farmers to receive drought assistance

The Delaware Department of Agriculture announced recently that all three of the State's counties have been approved for emergency disaster loans by the U.S. Department of Agriculture due to this year's drought. The approval of New Castle, Kent and Sussex Counties for this assistance means those farmers who meet certain eligibility requirements may receive low-interest loans through the Farmer's Home Administration.

In making the announcement, Agriculture Secretary William B. Chandler, Jr., credited the quick action on the part of both Governor Castle for requesting the assistance and U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng for acting on Castle's request. "We are quite happy today with the word that Delaware has been approved for lowinterest loans through the Farmer's Home Administration. Although the number of farmers who will be eligible for this assistance may be small due to the eligibility criteria, we feel we must do everything possible to help those that may be interested in such a program. Much thanks must go to the Governor and U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng for acting so quickly on our request.

The approval of Delaware for this assistance was effective August 26, 1987. Those individuals who would like to find out more information on these loans should contact their local Farmer's Home Administration Office.

Going that extra (nautical) mile for pizza delivery

Pulieri, manager of Grotto's Pizza located on Rehoboth Boulevard, has heard some strange requests for pizzas, but when he received a phone call Thursday for 21 pizzas to be delivered to a ship anchored thirteen miles off shore. Pulieri thought it was a joke.

However, later in the day, Pulieri found out it wasn't a joke when the University of Delaware Marine Center in Lewes confirmed the call.

Pulieri said he didn't have any problems with the crews order for 21 pizzas with various toppings, but he did have a problem trying to figure out how to get them out to the ship.

"I called some of my friends who had REHOBOTH BEACH—Dominic boats and they told me a special launch boat had to be used to go along the side of the ship. Luckily, I found one in Lewes and the gentlemen who owned it helped me with the delivery," according to Pulieri.

"The Dutch ship, Christina, had been anchored off shore for several days and the crew saw the Grotto Pizza commercial on the television set they had on board, so they just called in their order," Pulieri said.

The bill for the pizzas totaled $229.00 and when the pizzas were divided each crewman received about five slices. Before leaving for shore, Pulieri said

Do you qualify for an IRA?

Possum Point Players set meeting

Before tax reform, eligibility to set up an IRA account focused on a person's age and ability to earn income. "You simply had to be under 70½ years old and be a wage earner," explains University of Delaware extension home economist Sally Foulke. "Once the account was established, you could deduct up to $2,000 of the annual contribution on your income tax return. Interest on money in the account was compounded tax-deferred. An IRA provided a way to save for Highway, Georgetown.

Before tax reform, wage earners could set up an IRA for their nonemployed spouses. Self-employed small business owners and farmers were also elibigle to

The 1986 Tax Reform Act, however, restricts individual deductions for money placed in an IRA account. This change has left many people wondering if they can and should have an IRA. ow depends on two factors." Foulke says--whether you are an "active participant" in a retirement plan where you work, and the amount of your adjusted gross income (AGI). You are considered an active participant if you are covered by a company pension plan, profit-sharing, 401 (k), or some other type of plan, whether or not your benefits are vested. Vested means you have worked enough years to qualify for a pension. "If either you or your spouse is covered by an employer-sponsored plan, you are both considered covered," Foulke says. The IRA deduction begins to phase out as your adjusted gross income rises above $25,000 on an individual return and $40,000 on a joint return. If it falls below these thresholds, you can still fully deduct the $2,000 deposited into the IRA provided you're not an active participant. As your earnings exceed these levels, the maximum deduction goes down $10 for each $50 of extra adjusted gross income.

"Fortunately," Foulke says, "the 1986 tax law did not change one of the advantages of having an IRA--earnings grow tax-deferred. That means taxes on the earnings of IRA accounts are deferred until the money in the accounts is withdrawn. Even when some money is withdrawn, the balance in the account continues to grow taxdeferred.

"With compounding," she says, 'money grows quickly. Thus, over time, this tax-deferred compounding will do more for you than the initial tax deduction.

Take the case of Tom and Mary, who decide to invest $2,000 in an IRA. Compounded quarterly at 7 percent, their initial one-time investment of $2,000 with grow to $38,000 in 30 years. If they put the same sum at the same rate in a taxable investment, it would only grow to $9,000 over the same time

'An IRA is one of several options you' can use to save for your retirement," the home economist says. "Even if you are no longer eligible to deduct the full contribution, consider the interest that will accumulate tax-deferred. Experts suggest that nondeductible IRA 'The amount of allowable deduction contributions be maintained in a parate account. This will simplify bookkeeping later on and helps you avoid paying unnecessary taxes.

"In everything you do, put God first, and He will direct you and crown your efforts with success." Proverbs 3:6

If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen! Pastor Dore's message Sunday tells us that, as Christians, there are times we have to stay in the kitchen and face the heat. Sometimes the heat we must take in life has the purpose of maturing us in our faith, of growing spiritually. God does not promise that we will not feel the heat, but that He will be beside us always and He will deliver His own. Christianity is a faith that can face the flames of life.

We say welcome to the visitors joining us Sunday and please come again. The Mason sisters, Aleta, Joan and Mary Jean sang Sunday, harmonizing beautifully to the Glory of God. Twenty-five new hymnals have been purchased by the Sunday School for use in Collins Hall. Pick one up and see where your favorite hymn is located so you'll be ready with your request during Sunday School opening!

Varsity, alumni, community 5K funrun picnic Sept. 12

by Keith S. Burgess

The annual Lake Forest High Cross-Country Varsity-Alumni-Community 5-K Fun Run and Picnic will be held at Killen's Pond State Park, on September 12th at 11 a.m.

The informal affair will be contested over the measured and well-marked 5 kilometer (3 and ½ miles) course. Any male or female runner living in the Lake Forest District, may compete. A small picnic will follow. The writer has noticed several familiar and unfamiliar joggers, in the area of late. We are going to start inviting these people to join the fun, on September 12.

In the meantime, Jim Blades' Spartan varsity is working out as the thirtieth season of cross-country in this school district approaches. The Spartans have never had a losing season and hope to keep such an enviable record intact. In fact, if another hot prospect or so should appear, Lake Forest has a shot at adding another state championship. That would make the tally, 10 titles in 30 years, a well-balanced result, indeed. Hundreds of runners from four states will be at Killen's Pond Sept. 19 for the

Suitcase and the Shahans get big win at Big B

by Price Kellar

Brandywine harness racing the week of August 25-30 was highlighted by fine Open class racing and two finals for Delaware Owned horses.

Sunday night was right for Suitcase, as the big, ornery horse went wire-to-wire in Brandywine's top claiming event. Suitcase owned the $15-20,000 Claimers in June and July, and was best this week as Ty Cobb, who had put together four big wins in a row in the class took a week off. Melitot was second, with Igetthepicture third. Bob and Yvonne Shahan own the Meadow Skipper-Suitable 5-year-old who's earnings topped 26,000 with his ninth win of 19 campaign starts. Jeannie Shahan does the training and Bob handles the reins. The Shahans are from Harrington, DE.

Mister Sea ported at Brandywine Sunday night and he took Liberty with the $7500 Open Horses by registering the fastest mile of the week in 1:58.3. Jeff Cameron sat patiently in the pocket with Mister Sea as fraction setting Believe In Magic stopped the quarter timers at 28.4, 57.4, and 1:27.1. Midway down the lane Cameron asked the winner for more and they put away the still game. Believe In Magic, who finished third a half length back. Then came the late rush of Megavolt under a drive by R.L. Farrington, but Mister Sea had enough left to score by a neck. The Open champ is owned by Robert Hamilton, Ben Kelly, and trainer Jim Kennedy. Over 19 seasonal starts the 3year-old Seahawk Hanover-Misty Wight colt shows 6 wins, 4 seconds and 3 shows for earnings of $81,059.

Saturday's co-featured Filly and Mare Opens went to a pair who set sail on a coast-to-coast voyage. Rita Rocklin and driver Jeff Cameron were host in the $6000 division in 2:00.1. Mera Escape and Jim Porter were tops in the $7000 split in a quick 1:57.1.

Rita Rocklin got the top in a 28.4 first quarter, then rolled through panels of 1:00.1 at the half, 1:30.2 at three-parts, then home in 29.4 to score a 1 length victory. Beyond Belief (Walter Callahan) was parked the mile and passed five in the last fraction to place. Little Lou-Rain was third. It was the fourth win of '87 for Rita. The 4-yearold Escort-Irresponsible mare hails from the Rocklin Stables of Paradise, Meta Escape left and had the race won before odds-on favorite Im A Scooter (Gary Del Cameron, II) got in gear to mount a challenge. The best mare was never pushed through panels of 28.4, 59.2, and 1:27.4, but when asked for more down the lane, she responded with a burst that brought her home 3-1/2 lengths on top. Im A Scooter appeared fit in her second start after a three month layoff, but raced second best. Nola Knight showed. It was the third win for Meta Escape, who races for Eugene Landy of Rumsun, NJ.

Pop Pop's Tie took the $9500 final for DE owned 2-year-olds by three lengths, Bob Shahan put Pop to top and never looked back through quarters of 29.2, 1:00.4, 1:32.1 and a final of 2:02.4. Chosen (Joe MacDonald) was slow leaving and parked the bulk of the mile to finish second. Fast Teddy was third. Victor Pizzaia of Georgetown, DE owns the Bonded Yankee-Chipmans Connie colt, who now shows three wins, a second, and a third over seven freshman LABOR DAY - Monday, September 7 was set aside as a legal public holiday and lands on the first Monday of September. It is observed on this day in all the states and in Canada.

The first observance of Labor Day is believed to have been during a parade at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Sept. 5, 1882 in New York City, probably organized by Peter J. McGuire, a carpenters and joiners union secretary.

In 1883, a union resolution declared "the first Monday in September of each year a Labor Day." In 1887, Oregon became the first state to make Labor Day a legal holiday. By 1893 more than half of the states were observing Labor Day on one or another day, and a bill to establish Labor Day as a federal holiday was introduced in Congress.

On June 28, 1894, President Grover Cleveland signed into law an act making the first Monday in September a legal holiday for federal employees and the District of Columbia.

Labor Day has also become a symbol of the end of summer.

Several yellows throughout the event kept the field on Burkhart's bumper but the Bob Fisher Chevrolet was up to the challenge. Toreky and Weaver battled for the second spot with Toreky grabbing it for good on the twelfth lap.

Toreky, in his new T&T Racing Olsen, pulled along side of Burkhart on the restart of lap 17. Once again Burkhart was able to get the necessary horsepower from his car and held on for the checkered. Toreky finished a close second with Weaver third, Freddy

Brightbill fourth and John Pinter fifth. The second feature found Johnny Bennett leading the first lap. Kenny Brightbill, in his Blue Hen Racing #30, moved low to take the lead on the second lap before the yellow flew for Freddy Brightbill who went off the second turn. Mel Joseph jumped into the lead at the start of the limited late model main. Oscar Field shot through a group of tangled cars to take second with Jamie dropped Joseph from the top spot on lap three. Fields inherited the lead with Phil Murray taking second. Doug Beach came from the rear to take second at the half-way point and the order Wayne Nailor went on top at the start stayed that way to the finish. For Fields, it was his 14th victory of the season with Beach second, and Murray third, Ernie Lowe and Jimmy Ellis took fourth and fifth respectively

Elwood Driscoll led the first eight laps of the street modified main but a flat tire ended his chance for the win. As Byrum moved on top and went on for his second checkered in a row. Jack Messick finished in second with GEORGETOWN-Delmar, Del.'s Jeff Patilla added his name to the 1987 list of first career feature winners and Freddy Brightbill continued his unique '87 win streak in the "Milford Fertilizer Night" Modified features at the Georgetown Speedway Friday night, August 28th. The foul weather that darkened much of the Friday night racing in the region spared the "Fast Half-Mile" and the night produced the second biggest field of cars and most exciting action seen this season.

Patilla has been campaigning the JGRC, J. Sam Ireland Contractors #69 off and on for two seasons, but the checkered flag had eluded the former Limited Late Model champ until Friday night. Jeff won his qualifying heat over Pete Visconti and Johnny Bennett Jr., two of the other four driver that have picked up their first time wins this year at Georgetown and jumped to the lead from the outside front row in the first twenty lap feature.

Only one caution period, on lap eighteen, slowed the contest. Patilla's mount worked flawlessly and allowed him to open a good lead as Freddy Brightbill, Gollub, Filipowski, Capie and Short battled for spots in the top five. Filipkowski hung on in second for the entire race, but the action around him prevented the #47 from drawing a bead on the leader.

bill was a flag-to-flag lead for winner Freddy Brightbill, but the racing for position was still thick and fast. Brightbill's win was his fourth of '87 and all have come in the second half of twin bill racenights. Starting on the pole, Brightbill took his mount up front. Current Modified points leader, Bob Toreky, motored from fourth to claim second on the first lap and threatened the machine's lead until lap seen when a right rear wheel left his mount, leaving it disabled in turn four bringing out the caution.

On the restart the racer of Tom Capie made itself heard and for the next two laps the two went side-by-side.

Lap eleven brought out the red flag for a horrendous wreck at the exit of turn four. Wayne Weaver, #100, and Filipkowski had been in a pack of cars tyring to move into the top five when Weaver was thrown sideways on the track, leaving Filipkowski with nowhere to go but the wall. Mike impacted hard and literally bounced off the foot thick, reinforced concrete front stretch wall that has been rebounding stock cars for over thirty-five years and came to rest in the middle of the racing surface, tearing loose a one hundred pound piece of concrete in the process. The wreck knocked Weaver out also, but thankfully neither driver was injured though Filipkowski's car was heavily damaged.

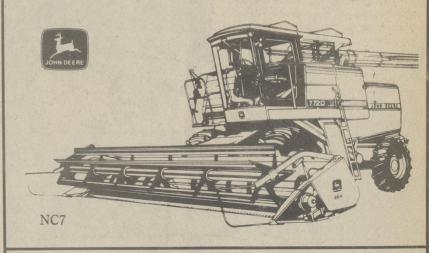

On the restart Capie renewed his challenge but Brightbill rocketed home for the win with Capie second, Roger Laureno third, Gollub finished fourth

Bill Burge got it all together, and took his first overall win of the season on his 650 Truimph.

In the first round it looked as though Andy Given might repeat his win in the previous round. Givens showed up with a beautifully prepared 550 Truimph, after cracking the frame on his Harley-Davidson at the last event. The final eliminations saw Kenny Riggins and Jim Langston square off. Riggins came from behind to take the win, forcing a run-off with Langston. Riggins got his best time of the day, a 5:60 to win the 125 Knobby class.

Burge, who suffered a first round loss had to take the long route for his win. In the second round he beat Givens with a time of 5:21, which was the fast time of the day, which he shared with Mark-

Burges win forced the run-off for the overall win. Burge blasted the strip, and stopped the clocks at 5:34, which was good enough for the win.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The recent tragedy in a London suburb in which a man shot and killed 14 people is sad proof that strict gun laws do not and cannot stop determined criminals and crazed persons in any country from committing murderous

It is internationally acknowledged that England's gun laws are among the most restrictive in the world. Automatic firearms only may be possessed with authority from the Home Secretary, while rifles, pistols -- for competition only -- and shotguns with barrels of less than 24 inches require that a certificate be issued by a police chief only to persons who can show "good reason" for possession. Even long-barrelled shotguns require a certificate.

While horrible incidents such as the one that occurred in Hungerford are rare in England, it is widely acknowledged that gun-related crime has been increasing over the past several years despite the country's tough gun

According to former Chief Inspector England, Constabulary, "The use of firearms in crime was very much less when there were no controls." In fact, from 1969 to 1979 Great Britain's gun related crimes rose from 1,308 to 6,547, according to a report by the U.S. Library of Congress titled "Gun Control Laws in Foreign Countries." A 1971 Cambride University study of England's gun laws suggested 'abolishing or substantially reducing controls.

Most scholars agree that English customs and culture are the determining factors in crime rates, not gun control. Another major factor in live. the low violent crime in the country is its system of jurisprudence. Criminals are swiftly and severely punished for their crimes. (Use of a gun in a burglary calls for imprisonment for life.)

The answer to reducing violent crime and gun-related crime in the United States is tougher penalties for criminals. But our criminal justice system doesn't seem to be doing the job. In many places in the United States --Texas, Oklahoma and the District of Columbia are among the leaders -hundreds of prisoners are being released from jail before serving their full terms because of overcrowding. Others are turning more and more to probation.

Two recent cases of violence show the real problem in America: William Cruse, who in April shot and killed six people in Palm Bay, FL, still awaiting trial. Cruse probably will plead not guilty by reason of insanity, and may never serve time in prison; and a Virginia man who murdered a Virginia State Trooper and another man just last year could be eligible for parole in only seven years.

There are approximately 20,000 gun laws in this country, yet violent crime continues to climb. And it is no Colin Greenwood of the Halifax, coincidence that crime rates, which fell from 1980 to 1984 when the prison population was reaching an all-time high, now are on the rise as crowded prisons turn prisoners loose by the hundreds or refuse to accept new criminals.

It's a shame we have to be reminded of the truth by such a painful incident occurring so far away. It's time we learned the lesson. To reduce the abuse of firearms, we must certainly and severely punish the abusers. No law can ever eliminate access to firearms to those intent on inflicting evil on good and decent people no matter where they

My good friends of Harrington, I've heard something that beats all that I have ever heard in my whole entire life. The council held a meeting last week down at city hall and voted to hire George Volenik back as a city consultant after he quit as city manager. On top of that, they agreed to pay him $15 an hour at his own leisure to be this city consultant for the City of Harrington

I don't understand how the citizens of this town can sit and watch five councilmembers pass resolutions and ordinaces to hire Mr. Volenik back.

Have the citizens lost interest in what's going on in this town? I think people should start going down to city hall during the meetings and see for themselves just what this council is doing and how it operates this town.

I've been to these meetings and after resolution and tell the people about all the great industries coming to industry come here since Burris was

Those industries and businesses here in the past have left because the council couldn't get its act together and try to accommodate them. I once went to a Chamber of Commerce meeting and asked them if they would consider running a water pipe over to the shirt factory to help them get a better water supply and it would have have helped reduce their insurance rate. The Chamber told me if they wanted to, the shirt factory could move out and that the town didn't need them here anyway.

This is an example of the kind of people that are trying to run this town. They are actually running this town like a three ring circus. All five of them are sitting down there at city hall trying to act like they're smart, when they don't really know what's going on.

This is especially true when it comes to this new city hall they are so determined

I have talked with the priest of St. Bernadette's Church wh property the town is trying to buy. The priest told me that the decision was made by the church council with the Harrington Town Council.

Also, they have hired a construction watched the council pass resolution company to build the city hall and the council hasn't even broken the ground yet. The building is suppose to cost this town. I have yet to see a large approximately $300,000 when completed, and before its all over with, the people of this city will end up paying for it out of their pockets one way or another.

> I just want to remind those on the council right now that election time will be coming shortly.

Charles A. Price Harrington, Del.

Last week, in a very caustic article, Jake Zimmerman, State Senator from Dover, blasted me after I requested a ruling from the Elections Commissioner on a two-page political advertisement that Senator Zimmerman ran in the Dover Post. In a confidential letter sent to the Elections Commissioner I noted that Mr. Zimmerman's two-page political advertisement carried no disclaimer stating who paid for it. In a rambling response printed in the newspaper Mr. Zimmerman has made this matter a public issue by stating he paid for the advertising "at a substantial cost to myself" and then went on to suggest that maybe Ron Smith has a "heartburn" problem.

I guess it was overly optimistic of me to expect a "thank you" from Senator Zimmerman. As an attorney and as Kent County Republican Chairman I routinely review political advertising by elected officials and candidates. Delaware law states: "All campaign literature, or advertising ...shall carry the statement: "PAID FOR BY ... " 15 Del.C. 8005 (b). When such disclaimers are absent, the public has no way of knowing who paid for the advertising. Did the candidate pay? Did his political committee pay? Did some PAC pay? Were public funds used? Disclaimers answer these questions for the public. But, Senator Zimmerman's advertising carried no disclaimer.

He says he paid for the ad personally. The law makes no exception. If it is a nice way to relieve it. political ad then the disclaimer is required. Further, I would like to point out that each member of the General Assembly receives from the state treasury $5,000. annually for expenses things like newsletters or two-page advertisements. Is this what he means when he says "he" paid personally? In August 28, 1987 this case we don't know.

Then, as if to laugh the whole issue off. Senator Zimmerman asked his readers to decide for themselves if his two-page advertisement was political. I suppose he did this in an attempt to prove that Delaware's election laws did not apply. If his advertisement pertained to an upcoming football schedule I might understand his cavalier attitude. But it didn't. His advertisement bore a sketch of Legislative Hall, his picture and discussed pending legislation. This same piece of literature could easily be used on election eve. The rational man would conclude, as I did, that Senator Zimmerman's two-page ad was by Harry G. Farrow, Jr. political. The Attorney General now has the issue before him for a decision and hopefully he will create some guidelines to determine when an ad becomes a political ad.

The Senator from Dover is playing games with the public's right to know. The public demands accountability and disclosure. Public servants like Senator Zimmerman would do well to learn this instead of hiding behind excuses and public character assaults such as "Ron Smith's heartburn problem." I would have thought such negative personal comments would have been rejected by the Senator. All Senator Zimmerman need do is continue this pattern of behavior and I am confident the voters of his 17th Senatorial District will choose to vote in a replacement. If Ron Smith has a heartburn problem, that would be a

"Free Agents"

Much has been said regarding the similarities between newspapers' sports pages and business sections.

Ballplayers, owners and agents grapple continuously regarding the appropriate compensation for skill, performance and longevity. It would seem that "a boys' game" has become a major business.

Doubtless it has.

As owners plotted to corner the market on talent, salaries inflated. The ensuing struggle between owners resulted in substantial raises for players.

It was the basic law of economics at work. In its relative sense here, it meant simply, substantial demand and moderate supply resulting in higher pay.

That same basic law of economics may be applied to the teaching profession. It has had a dramatic impact here at Lake Forest where our salary scale is the lowest in the state and one of the very lowest in our region.

Like it or not, there is a teacher shortage upon us. It is a relative shortage with some surpluses still available in social studies and physical education and foreign languages are emptying steadily. In some areas of the country, state-wide efforts are being made to replenish the supply.

Some states predict shortfalls in the hundreds (or thousands) as the teacher workforce grows older and student enrollments begin to climb. States and districts have entered into the same struggle as owners of sports franchises in an attempt to capture the "best" or the "rest" of the supply.

They are raising salaries.

And teachers are going where the money is.

No where is this more evident than here at Lake Forest where we have nearly completed the laborious task of staffing our schools for the coming school year.

We lost, during this past spring and summer at least five people who secured positions in other districts at a higher salary.

All told, we had 17 openings to fill. We interviewed 98 candidates for these

Then came the difficult part. After the screening process, interviewers contacted candidates who had expressed a sincere interest in our openings. Time and again, a total of 18 candidates indicated that they had been offered positions in other districts...for higher pay. They took the other job.

Can we blame them?

People who live, who were born and raised in Lake Forest School District, indicated that they had been offered positions in other districts...for higher pay. They took the other job.

Can we blame them?

We are fortunate to have a well-trained and dedicated staff at Lake Forest. They annually are tempted by substantial compensation elsewhere.

If they choose to leave, can we blame them?

There are citizens who now complain that teachers' salaries already are higher than those of others who work in our communities. That may be true.

The fact of the matter is that teachers come from a different labor pool than do others who work in our communities. That labor pool is demanding...and getting increased compensation with each contract that is signed.

That labor pool is drying up.

Lake Forest School District, if it is to keep pace with our neighbors in terms of offering the best possible experience for our children, the best possible services for our communities, must be able to increase salaries.

The passage of a referendum is critical to that increase in salaries.

If we are able to attract and retain the "best" or the "rest" of the supply of teachers, we must first have the money to pay them.

You see, teachers are society's new free agents.

From the Mayor's Desk

Councilmen Daniel R. Coleman, Sue Ellen Dennis and Jack Wyatt called a special meeting on Monday night in order to make several motions directing me, The Mayor, to sign all legal paperwork necessary to make settlement on the new city hall, to sign a statement saying the City of Harrington does not owe in excess of $10 million, to sign all financial paperwork with JCPenney National Bank relating to the loan on the new city hall complex, and sign a letter addressed to JCPenney National Bank relating to future paving and sidewalks in the area of the

The latter is an issue which Councilman Temple and I had requested research on several months ago. Paving of the area where the new city hall will be erected is a very crucial matter which deserves more consideration than last minute preparation.

A few months ago when we were getting rain, we were witness to flooding in the Liberty Street area. With the advent of a new structure containing approximately 4,000 square feet of roof, getting rid of the water in that area might be a problem which should have been dealt with early on.

Delmarva Power as an adjoining neighbor must be protected from the rain run off which Councilman Temple and I had suggested. I have met with Mr. Jones at the JCPenney National Bank, who has originated the loan for the new city hall, and told him that even though I do not favor the location for the new city hall, I nonetheless will work to preserve the rights of the bank and citizens of the community At a business meeting early Monday evening, many members in that group approached me following the meeting to inform me that "our city hall should be placed in the downtown business district where there are two banks, two insurance companies, a post office, real estate firm, newspaper, fire company and Harrington

Senior Citizen Center. I feel confident as time goes on the mistaken location for the new city hall will become more and more dominant. The fact that the citizens of the community were precluded from participating in a referendum vote to allow them to voice their desire where the city hall should be is also an unpardonable sin.

Senatorial Report

by Senator Ruth Ann Minner

Those of us in public life often get bogged down in studies and study reports and get to wondering whether even half of them are worth their cost

I was reminded of this by a newspaper article last week that reported on a $30,575 study about to be financed by a federal grant and an appropriation from the House of Representatives.

The article reported 18 educators and legislators spent 25 minutes trying to define "higher order thinking"--without success. The group then decided to go ahead with the study of 'higher order thinking" in 15 classrooms of 2nd to 6th graders in Delaware schools, even though they couldn't define it.

The Advisory Task Force for Higher Order Thinking, headed by Rep. Gwynne Smith, may well be producing another study report which will wind up gathering dust on a shelf somewhere. I wonder whether the money couldn't be much better spent buying additional textbooks or paying additional substitute teachers for our school districts.

While we're on the subject of studies, I might as well get something else off my communities.

Now I've received a letter from Secretary Kermit Justice asking me to attend a meeting with local officials to launch another study entitled the Resort Area Transportation Study. The letter also discloses that the consulting firm of Wilbur Smith Associates has already been hired to do the study.

To the extent that the two studies are duplicating each other, I wonder if they're really necessary. Wouldn't one study of transportation needs in the resort areas have been sufficient?

Finally, I've served on the Governor's Environmental Legacy Task Force for two years now and our report is not yet completed. Yet the Governor has already introduced a series of bill on 'Quality of Life' which pulls the rug right out from under many of the proposals Task Force members have been discussing.

If the Castle Administration was going to draft its own legislation and make proposals before the Task Force concluded its work, why did he appoint a Task Force? I suspect that we have been providing mere window dressing for the Administration's proposals, and I'm not the only Task Force member who is upset about it.

Maybe we should fund another study of a study of East-West traffic through of why Task Forces are appointed and

Roth questions Army's award of gasmask contract

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

Some of you may remember my work on government, especially military, overspending. I continue to actively investigate potential wasteful spending. A possible example of this has been cited by a Delaware corporation, ILC Dover Inc. Not only does this issue of military overspending involve all Americans as taxpayers, but I also thought this particular case would be of special interest in Delaware due to the involvement of a local business, along with the potential for up to one hundred new jobs should ILC's allegations be substantiated. ILC filed a complaint with the U.S. General Accounting Office (GAO) upon failing to obtain a U.S. Army contract for 300,000 new gas masks. ILC entered a bid of $35 million, $17 million dollars less than the $51.8 million bid entered by Scott Aviation of Pennsylvania, who got the contract. The Army claims that the additional $17 million is a justifiable expense on the grounds that the Scott mask provides greater protection. ILC disputes that finding, not only saying that their own mask meets all Army specifications, but also claiming that not substantial difference between the protection levels afforded by ILC and

If these allegations by ILC are substantiated, there would be legal grounds to award the contract to ILC and save the taxpayers $17 million for this one package, savings which could add up to as much as $134 million with the projected additional gas mask procurements of 2.1 million masks over the next eight years.

Since the Army needs these masks soon, and so that justice may be swiftly served, I wrote letters to the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Comptroller General of the United States in the General Accounting Office, and the Deputy Inspector-General in the Department of Defense to help expedite matters.

I was displeased to learn that the army plans to proceed with production of the gasmasks, despite the fact that GAO will report the results of it's investigation within 90 days. However, I have their assurances that any production between now and the time GAO announces their findings will not be irreversible, giving them the flexibility to terminate the contract the Army's testing methods are flawed with Scott Aviation in favor of ILC, if or inadequate, and that there really is GAO finds this appropriate.

Publisher's Choice

It seems it was just a few years ago that the issue on abortion really came to the forefront as a dominant issue...or political issue of the land.

On the other hand maybe it has always been one of those that was constantly lurking in the weeds.

As the time approaches to convene a new Supreme Court in October some pre-courting business is necessary, and someone is likely to get the business.

So dominant is the issue of abortion that a federal judge who opts to be the next Supreme Court Justice of the United States...the highest judgeship in this country will be tested on his position on this so grave an issue.

It is more important than the frenzy in the Persian Gulf, AIDS matter, drugs and drug testing. In trying to defend or take a stand on the issue of abortion it is likely to bring any human being to their

Is there an answer...a complete answer to this age old issue? Judge Bork, the man who seeks this highest of high judgeships, has his whole career and possibly dream just before him.

Perhaps it should be this way, for we still seek the perfect solution. However if the the Judge surrenders up his career to this issue, the debate will nonetheless proceed on with reckless abandonment seeking the perfect answer.

What are the issues we face regarding this subject. "...how is the decision made and who makes it...", the philosopher wants to know. With that comes the theories of "retention of the old theory that it is still against the law so they say...or reform it..., and you could repeal it'

The pendulum seems to be swinging in favor of the antinomian theory...principles vs. the person (the mother), and it is a theory the feminist movement has picked up on.

This theory and the circumstantial theory are seemingly the most logical, for in both cases the woman makes the decision. Somehow I am resolved to that acknowledgement. She has been given three powers...and these are God given powers...1) the power to conceive; 2) the power to end it, and 3) the choice of doing either.

Most lawyers and legislators will reason that these God given powers allow the decision to rest too much with the woman. Her decision, I am sure they will reason, will be in her best interests. And maybe it should be, but should

Person-to-Person

Summer has ended. The days and weeks of carefree play are now a thing of the past as time marches on in its neverending trek. In a few days, schools will open, the huge orange vehicles with flashing red lights will once again grace our highways, and the familiar smells of worn books and pencil erasers will ripple across our olfactory senses.

This time of the year is never a pleasant one for me. For I have spent the last three months alternating between the desire to temporarily join "Runaway Mothers Anonymous," and the desire to gather my two priceless children in my arms and tell them how incredibly much I love them. Summer is a crazy time. But more than my sadness over the summer ending is a twinge of realization that, once again, I am giving my children over to someone else for seven hours a day. So with a sigh and bittersweet smile I kiss them both and watch them tumble through the car door and up the steps to be educated. I'll miss them intensely.

Ah, but enough of the sadness. There are so many good memories of summer vacations and this year I made an important discovery about them.

Sometime during the early spring of 1986, we were sucked in by Madison Avenue's invitation to be "together at Disney". Disney World--the ultimate playground for children of all ages-beckoned us. We were drawn like moths to a flame. A quick phone call to Lauralee Fox, the travel agent, and we learned about a package deal called the Gold Key. It sounded too good to be true. Five days and four nights at Disney World's Contemporary Resort Hotel. Unlimited access to the Magic Kingdom, Epcot Center, River Country and Discovery Island. All meals, including the Polynesian Luau, the Hoop-Dee-Doo-Music Review, the Top of the Contemporary, the Character Breakfast, and Disney's ultimate dining experience--the Empress Lilly. Air fare and transfers from the airport to our hotel. Even unlimited use of boats or horses when we decided to take a break from the World's usual attractions. It was all paid for in advance and we needed money only for long-distance phone calls, babysitting, and souvenirs. This land of fantasy was totally at our disposal for five incredible days. We fell for it, hook, line and sinker. two months in advance, and those were certainly the longest months any of us had ever experienced. But June finally arrived and we barrelled down the ramp to US Air's silver bird that would bear us and our impatience to Orlando, Florida.

Arriving at our massive, ultra-modern hotel, our bellhop (even his tip was included in the cost of the trip!) whisked us off to our luxurious, tenthstory room and the beginnings of our adventure. For the next five days and nights we lived a fantasy as only Walt Disney World can produce. We laughed with delight at the surprises waiting for us around every corner in the Magic Kingdom. We held our breath as a real, live Tinkerbell "flew" from the highest spire of Cinderella's castle in a blaze of fireworks. We blushed with pride as the Hoop-Dee-Doo performers picked us out of the crowds and sang about our terrific little state. We stuffed ourselves on every imaginable palate pleaser from lobster to pate' to chocolate souffle' to fried ice cream. We marveled at the Japanese chef's ability to control flying, razor-sharp knives and forks while he important ingredients.

prepared shrimp, chicken, steak and vegetables for us at our table. We slithered down two hundred-foot water slides at River Country. We hobnobbed with Mickey Mouse and all his pals. We sped across Disney's beautiful lake in our racy little speedboats. We visited Europe and Asia and were astounded by today's technology at Epcot Center. We raced through space, traveled 20,000 leagues under the sea, got spooked in the haunted house, flew over London, sang along with the Small World's gathering of children, wept over our invaluable freedom in the Hall of Presidents, and dodged pirates' cannonballs. And I cried as I turned for one last look at a very special place before we left on Friday evening.

Within a few hours, we were back to Philadelphia and back to reality. But what an incredible trip! What believable memories! Madison Avenue had not sold us a raw deal. It was worth every penny!

This year our summer vacation was slightly different. We decided to save our dollars and spend our two weeks off in our twenty-six foot bunkhouse camper permanently parked in Chestertown's Duck Neck Campground. In this quiet place, there are no incredible views from our tenth-story balcony-just the indescribable sight of the sun setting on the Chester River. There is no lobster or liver pate'--just lots of crabs, barbequed chicken and silver queen corn. There's no two hundred-foot water slide or spiffy little speedboat, but a lazy ride on a fat innertube is almost as good. President Lincoln is not there to to talk to us and stir up our patriotism, but Washington D.C. is just down Route 301, and with it, so many reminders of the price of our freedom. We can't visit China, France or Italy, but we can visit with old and new friends. We don't have a maid to make our beds and vacuum our floors, but we're camping, so who cares!

No, there is little luxury in a campground. My son gains several temporary pounds every day from the dirt he invariably gets covered with. The river, unlike a swimming pool, is hardly crystal clear. The camper, although surrounded by trees, is not air conditioned, and quickly turns into an oven under the blazing sun. In other words, camping is a far cry from the fantasy and luxury of Disney World and the Contemporary Resort Hotel.

Recalling the two entirely different vacations, I made my discovery. I have just as many good memories of my days at the dirty, hot campground as I do of our extravaganza into an unreal world. That's simply because the three most important ingredients needed for a teriffic vacation were all there--David, Rachel, and Jimmy Paul. I discovered that it doesn't matter where we are or how much it costs. As long as the family is all together, our summer vacation will be terrific.

Labor Day weekend looms ahead in the distance. I look forward to loading up the van and heading west towards Chestertown once again. We'll float around on the river, spend time with good friends, see how big a catfish we can reel in, and worship God with the folks from Chestertown Baptist Church. It will be nice to sit and read or paint or write "Person to Person" on the picnic table in the screenroom. But mostly, we'll have just a little bit more of a vacation...with all the most

ASK MR. BERKO

Dear Mr. Berko: I recently reached 65 and have started to collect Social Security benefits. My wife is also 65 and never paid into the system because she worked for a nonprofit organization that did not participate in the program. She presently receives half of the amount I get.
