

Harrington Council holds public hearing on new city hall

HARRINGTON. A group of Harrington citizens attended Monday night's public hearing on the new City Hall complex. A letter "paid for by friends for a better Harrington" was distributed among those attended. There will be a mail out of this two page letter to all citizens of Harrington.

The letter essentially stated that the City of Harrington wishes to construct a new City Hall which will cost approximately $241,000. The City's portion will be $125,000 and the balance of $116,000 will be coming from the State through the Bi-Centennial Grant.

In the hand out letter a comparison was made between what it was costing the City now a year, versus what it would cost in the new building. Those figures reflected $11,088 now versus between $15,031 to $16,631 in the new building.

Councilman Jack Wyatt said he is 49 years old and lived his life in Harrington and has never known the City to have a place of its own. "Don't you think the Town deserves a nice City Hall", asking the people in the audience. "We had a building committee search for a site. We looked at several places in the downtown area, but either the owners wanted more money than the properties were worth or it was going to cost too much to either tear them down and build back or remodel them. The business people in the downtown district should have helped us out", concluded Councilman Wyatt. Councilperson Sue Ellen Dennis stated "...it would have meant leveling buildings in the downtown area to make room for parking".

Mr. Woodrow (Woody) Welch asked the council "...what is wrong with this building (meaning present City Hall)." Councilperson Dennis responded by saying "...we were told that this building would not support the weight of the library books".

Mr. Melvin Brobst asked "...what if the referendum passes, will there be enough time to complete the building by the time allotted by the State? The question was referred to former City Manager, George Volenik, who responded by saying "...although this question has not been asked before, I would think that some allowance would be made if the completion was close when the 1st of June 1988 happens".

Mr. Brobst then asked "...if the referendum is defeated...what then?"

Councilman Jack Wyatt responded by saying "...then we give $100,000 back to the State and we have lost it".

Fred Greenley of Dorman Street referring to qualified voters asked "...if names of people who are residents of the City could be compiled from the Department of Elections and the post office, I would think this would be of great value". Councilperson Dennis responded "...the last time I checked their list (Department of Elections), their records were not accurate, and it would be very difficult in the time allowed, between now and December 15th, to carry on a voters registration drive".

Peter J. (Pete) Greeley of the north end of Weiner Avenue suggested that "...there is not enough (money) allowed in the budget (referring to the letter passed out) for maintenance on the new building. I think it is going to cost you a lot more than you think." Mr. Greeley was referring to the annual maintenance for the present library being $250.00.

In the hand out letter, the construction bid for the new building was to run between $189,000 and $223,000, $14,000 for the lot, $5,900 for paving and sidewalks, and landscaping of $100.00 for a grand total of between $209,000 to $243,000.

Mr. Volenik had reported earlier in the meeting that the Tennessee Company, The Barr Company, will finalize the purchase of the land (east end of the Albert Thistlewood farm) by the 1st of December. The next step will be for their engineers to begin that part of the planning stage. The taxes on the first building they put up will bring the City an estimated $20,000 a year. There will be two other buildings of similar size erected in time", he said.

Mr. Volenik also reported that Port Lumber Company, who will be the sister company on a similar parcel of the Thistlewood farm, has already made settlement and will soon begin plans of construction based on their prepared site plans.

Prior to the end of the public hearing, the council heard from Mrs. William Musser who, with her husband, owns the building presently being used as City Hall. She wanted the Council and the people gathered to know that they had been approached previously by other councils to sell the present City Hall to the City. "We did not go to them. They came to us to try to get us to sell", she said. "I want you to have a new City Hall, but I do not want you to condemn our building", she said, referring to earlier statements about the condition of the building being used as City Hall.

Councilperson Anne Minner said "...I did not mean that my report on the suitability of this building was a condemning one. I was told by the building inspector that this building needed a lot of additional work to support the books from the library."

Mrs. Musser said that she and her husband had had the building appraised a year ago and there was nothing wrong with it then.

The Council has set the time for the voting on the referendum to be December 15th 1987, with the voting to take place between 12 p.m. and 7 p.m. at 110 East Center Street, the present site of City Hall.

Harrington Council seeks solution to old questions

HARRINGTON. At Monday night's workshop meeting, Councilman Jack Wyatt was seeking street lights for Peck Avenue. "In a contract between the City and Delmarva Power, we were to get poles and lights at their cost, and we were to pay for the use of the lights and poles by the month. They (Delmarva Power) are saying something else and that wasn't what I understood."

City Solicitor, Gary Dodge, referred to an agreement which stated that "Delaware Power and Light" (now Delmarva Power) did in fact enter into an agreement many years ago that they would be responsible for basic poles and lights. Anything elaborate would be to the cost of the City, "...but we just want the standard poles and lights. That's all", said Councilman Wyatt.

The City had sought a definition of a double wide since early this past spring. Councilman Wyatt had asked for a moratorium on all manufactured homes within the city limits about 2 months ago, until such time as our attorney could render an opinion on a "trailer...double wide, etc". The new City Solicitor, Gary Dodge, suggested that the City come up with a policy on the matter then he could advise Council if it is legal or not. The Mayor proposed that Council submit a list of names to serve on this committee to explore the meaning of trailers, mobile homes, double wides, and manufactured homes. "It is something that will probably take several months to gather (the information) and render an opinion for the City Solicitor to act upon," he said.

In other matters, the travel trailer located on the lot on Dickerson Street has been referred to the city solicitor for further action. A meeting between Dennis Silicato, and acting city manager, Dawson Shahan, and Councilman Wyatt is in the works to determine the final disposition of the barrier to be set between the west end of parking lot behind Meatland and the new homes which were constructed in that area. It was requested that the building at 1 Commerce Street be taken off the water meter due to lack of use that would be the case if water was used excessively. The building is owned by Mayor Harry G. Farrow, Jr. The Mayor explained the building is not being put to the use it was at one time when the newspaper was operated out of that building.

Acting City Manager, Dawson Shahan, indicated that the Soil Conservation System wishes to begin dredging out the branch along Calvary Wesleyan Church. "They will need an answer right away as to whether or not we can provide three trucks to haul off the dirt taken out of the stream", he said. The Council suggested that Mr. Shahan get an estimate on the cost of truck hauling, so that they can act accordingly.

The regular meeting will be held on December 14th at 7:30 p.m.

Due to the extreme disrepair of the roof at South B Elementary, work was begun last week to replace it. Photo by Don Mitchell

Roof can't wait at South B Elementary

by Don Mitchell

HARRINGTON. Even though the referendum failed to pass on November 10th, the roof is being replaced at South B Elementary in Harrington. The question is where did the money come from? And, why fix the roof now?

The roof was going to be patched to try and stop the leaks but, according to Earl Griffin, South B principal, "when the work was started the roof was found to be rotten all the way down to the structural steel." The alternative to replacing it was wasting money by patching and hoping it didn't fall in on the children and staff.

The new roof will serve two purposes. It will be a tapered roof with a slight pitch in the center for drainage purposes. It also is thermal-type roofing which will, hopefully, make the school a little warmer.

"The cost of the new roof is $70,700, taken from minor capital improvement funds, which was earmarked for minor repairs", said Mr. Richard Moretti. There will also be new drains and downspouts installed to direct the water to the ground. The new roof will only cover the classrooms and hallway, it will not cover the cafeteria or offices, as there was not enough money to do the entire building.

The job is being done by a company from Wilmington, Delaware.

State Farm Bureau considers income tax plan from farmers

At the recent Delaware Farm Bureau convention held last Wednesday, the convention members voted by resolution to consider funding taxes for schools through a personal income system.

The tax proposed would be a flat tax on taxable income of farmers which would take the place of a property tax and a capitation tax.

The Lake Forest School Board of Education had proposed the very same plan to the State and to State legislators. Lake Forest School District Superintendent, Dr. James VanSiver was quick to respond on Thursday to the Farm Bureau's proposal. He said "...great idea. Too bad you did not include us in, and maybe the latest referendum, which failed to pass, which would have taken care of our faltering district building situation and teacher's salaries might have been avoided. So let's sit down and work it out right now."

"We have said property tax is not the way. We have said property taxation is not the best plan to fund the schools," he added.

Dr. VanSiver and Lake Forest Board President, H. Earl Roberts, worked feverishly to get the latest referendum passed. It was narrowly defeated on the building plan.

The Farm Bureau had gathered information that total annual personal income tax for farmers was approximately $6 billion in Delaware DOVER. Last Thursday night at the Sheraton Inn the Kent Association of Life Underwriters at their annual awards banquet honored Elizabeth A. Ballard of Smyrna as the 1987 recipient of the H. Stewart Crouch Memorial Award.

Mrs. Ballard who raised "...what we call in the industry as a scratch agency...meaning starting with no accounts and raising it to 2500 today, is the kind of work we like to see in this business", said Douglas Bennetti, a fellow life underwriter during the ceremony.

The H. Stewart Crouch Memorial award is in memory of Mr. Crouch who died unexpectedly in 1975 at the age of 45 "...when he was at the top of his career", added Mr. Bennetti. Mr. Crouch was the manager of the Nationwide district office in Dover. He had won to honors as the leading salesman with the "President's Cup" each year of his tenure. His Dover office was No. 1 in production of 500 district offices throughout the U.S. for six years.
The award is to recognize those individuals who are outstanding members of the Life Underwriters Association, the life insurance profession and the community. "Individuals that are true professionals," said Mr. Bennetti.

The previous winners of this award are as follows: James Barnett, Eugene Sterling, Kenneth K. Brown, Douglas Bennetti, John Sparks Jr., Aaron O. Knopf, Albert L. Wright (Harrington), David R. Dick, Harold L. Bennett, and last year's winner John C. Still, III.

To be eligible for the award a person must have been an active member of the insurance field for seven years and a continuous member of the Association for five years. The candidate must have high ethical standards, further the Association's aims, as well as community involvement.

Mrs. Ballard is the mother of two children and very active in community affairs in Smyrna.

In her acceptance remarks she said she was grateful for the committee making her this year's choice for the Crouch award. She added that it was the Association that had made it all possible for her to be successful if the committee deemed her to be successful. "I accept for you, because it is you that really deserves the award", she said. "When you are in this business for a year, you get up each morning look in the mirror and say to yourself what am I doing in this business. After 10 years you look in the mirror and say to yourself what am I still doing in this business", she concluded. "But the business is a people business, and I am a people person. For that it explains it all," she said.

Other local insurance salesmen honored were Aubrey Brown as a qualifier for the National Sales Achievement award, and the Disability Income Sales graduate course, and Alan R. Welch for graduating from the Disability Income Sales Course.

At the conclusion of the awards presentations, the Life Underwriters, guests and friends were treated to a spectacular speech maker Miss Helen Leonard who is Director for Public Information of the American Council of Life Insurance and the Health Insurance Association of America. She

State trooper Pulling killed in training accident

HUNTSVILLE, ALA. State Police Cpl. David B. Pulling, 31, a native of Dover, who made his home near Felton, was killed Wednesday, November 18th at the FBI Bomb Data Center at the Redstone Arsenal. He was a six year veteran of the Delaware State Police.

Cpl. Pulling was at the Redstone Arsenal participating in a 26-day training program which dealt with hazardous devices. Thursday and Friday were to be the last two days of the program, and he was performing the task of arming a device to disarm a simulated bomb when the accident occurred.

The accident is under investigation by a board of inquiry composed of military personnel and civilians there. The results of that inquiry might be made known this week.

According to sources at the Arsenal's Army Missile Command Cpl. Pulling was in the process of rigging a device to disarm a simulated bomb, and the device detonated prematurely. The military spokesman indicated that Cpl. Pulling was not working with a bomb, but a device used to disarm a real bomb. The device is a 10 inch steel pipe with a 12ga. shell inserted at one end. The shell is prepared for detonation by means of electrical wires attached to a battery to bring about the discharge. At the open end, water is inserted and the explosion created when the shell is detonated pushes the water into the bomb creating a flushing action which disarms a bomb.

The shell detonated prematurely which caused part of the device he was working with to be blasted against his chest. The shell blast against his chest went deep enough to lacerate his heart causing his death.

It was not clear what caused the blast to happen since this was the first such accident with over 4,000 graduates of this program.

Cpl. Pulling is the first death in this program and the 14th State Trooper killed in the line of duty. He joined the Delaware State Police on September 6,

Cpl. David B. Pulling
1981. He was a 1973 graduate of Dover High School and the University of Delaware in 1977. His assignments have taken him to the K-9 squad, the Special Operations Response Team and the traffic unit at Troop 3 Woodside, Delaware.

The military sources at the Huntsville Arsenal also indicated that Cpl. Pulling was not wearing any protective armor when the accident occurred, which to wear the gear is not standard procedure at the Arsenal for such a drill as this.

Cpl. Pulling is survived by his wife, Elizabeth A. Pulling of Felton, who is expecting her third child in July; two sons, George Nelson Pulling and Jonathan Raymond Pulling, both at home; his parents, Richard C. Sr. and Jacqueline D. Pulling of Dover; and one brother, Richard C. Pulling Jr. of Dover.

Services were 11 a.m. Monday in Wesley United Methodist Church, South State St., Dover. Burial was in Odd Fellows Cemetery. State police honors were held at the cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made to Camp Barnes, Delaware State Police Headquarters, P.O. Box 430, Dover, Del. 19903.

Adams selected Kent Vo-Tech superintendent

The Kent County Vocational-Technical School District Board of Education is pleased to announce the selection of Jeff Adams of Smyrna as Superintendent at its November 9 meeting. He replaces retiring Superintendent Joe Orlando, also of Smyrna. According to Vo-Tech Board President Jack Walls, "The Board was pleased to see such a quality list of applicants in its recent interview process and is confident that the selection of Jeff Adams will serve the needs of Vocational Education in Kent County exceptionally well." Adams will begin his new duties as Superintendent on Dec. 14.

Jeff Adams comes to the Kent Vo-Tech School District from the Terry Campus of Delaware Technical and Community College where he served as Counselor and Director of Financial Aid for over 14 years. He is completing his dissertation toward an Ed.D. in Vocation Education at Temple University and holds his Masters Degree in Education from Appalachian State University.

Adams says that "Becoming a school superintendent helps to fulfill a long-time career goal. I am very excited about accepting this position... I feel very strongly that there is a real need for vocational education in Kent County, and I am prepared to focus my energies in that direction."

Adams' selection as Superintendent allows him to continue a family tradition in the field of education. Jeff's father, Albert White (Baldy) Adams, was a school superintendent for over 28 years and his grandfather, James Osborne Adams, served as Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services for the Department of Public Instruction.

LF teacher named to State Science Council

Officials at Lake Forest School District's W.T. Chipman Junior High School report that Joseph Szajewski has been named to the Delaware State Science Advisory Council. A science instructor at Chipman, Szajewski has been active in state and national science organizations since coming to Delaware in 1970.

When Delaware hosts its first National Science Olympiad this year, Szajewski will be handling the computer staffing for the all day event.

"This is indicative of the leadership roles staff at Lake Forest are assuming," said Superintendent Dr. James H. VanSiver. "Joe is taking his time to advance science education in Delaware. It is important to know that this is volunteer time on his part. I applaud his efforts."

Santa Will Usher In Yuldrice Tomorrow; Prizes To Be Awarded In Home Decorations...Santa Claus will open the Christmas season here when he arrives at 1 p.m. tomorrow in a sleigh, regardless of the absence of snow.

The Harrington High School Band will be in the parade. Santa will be on Harrington streets every Friday and Saturday from 12 noon to 9 p.m. and on Christmas Eve.

The final "Player of the Week" trophy was awarded to Jack Porter today by the Harrington Moose Lodge.

Jack came out on top in the voting, but giving him a battle for honors were such outstanding players as Ronnie Correll, Joe Kliment and David Welch.

Mr. and Mrs. A.S. Klapp celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary on Monday, Nov. 25.

DECEMBER 1, 1967
Gary Simpson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Simpson, Houston, received a watch as state 4-H public speaking winner. Active in 4-H club work the ten years, he attended the 1963 National 4-H Congress as state agriculture winner. A junior at the University of Delaware, he is majoring in animal science.

Trinity Methodist Church at Commerce and Misspillion Streets in Harrington will observe their 87th anniversary on Sunday, Dec. 3. The church was first organized in 1880 Local runners were not notified until Friday and had no chance to train for it. Other Harrington athletes were out of town because of the Thanksgiving weekend.

Nevertheless, six of the sixteen entrants were locals, with Chris Wetherhold winning one of the four high school trophies.

HARRINGTON CITY HALL. Several citizens turned up Tuesday night for a special discussion on ways to deal with the trash problem in the City. The problem revolves around businessmen in the Town who are required to pay for trash removal at their place of business due to the inability of the Town to remove the trash to be able to place their home trash with that type of removal. They argue they pay for a service that "they don't want". They would rather provide their own.

A Harrington youth has been named one of nine national winners in the 4-H Leadership program.

Michael Everline, 16, of R.D. #3, Harrington, was presented with a $1,000 scholarship by Reader's Digest, sponsor of the 4-H Leadership program at the 56th National 4-H Congress in Chicago, November 27.

The Harrington Jaycees announced this week that the 1977 Miss Delaware, Miss Sandra Aiken, will be the grand marshal of this year's parade. The parade will be held this Saturday beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Mr. & Mrs. Roger Edward Gourley

Austin - Gourley wed

Valerie Shorts Austin and Roger Edward Gourley were united in marriage on Saturday, August 1st at Barratt's Chapel, Frederica. The Reverend William S. Downing of Frederica officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Richard and Ann Shorts of near Little Creek. The groom is the son of Roy and Sara Gourley of Frederica.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her son, Matthew Austin, the bride wore an ivory satin gown featuring a deep sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and double-tiered skirt ending in a chapel length train. The elbow length puffed sleeves were appliqued with rows of galloon lace trimmed with seed pearls. Lace and pearls also adorned the hem of each tier of the skirt. The bride's picture hat featured a satin crown trimmed with lace and pearls, and pearl accents on the brim. A pouf of ivory tulle graced the back of the hat, with a double layer to tulle edged in lace falling below the waist. The bride carried a cascade of peach roses, miniature ivory rosebuds and yellow mini-carnations with blue and ivory baby's breath accents.

Rebecca Barnes of Charleston, South Carolina, was honor attendant for her longtime friend. She wore a pale yellow floor length gown with a fitted camisole bodice and waist-length, back-buttoned jacket in matching alencon lace. She carried an ivory lace fan trimmed with yellow roses, blue mini-carnations, peach and ivory baby's breath and yellow ribbon streamers. Bridesmaid was Maralea Gourley of Fort Smith, Arkansas, daughter of the groom. She wore a pale blue gown identical in style to the honor attendant's. She carried a lace fan with blue roses, yellow mini-carnations, peach and ivory baby's breath and blue streamers. Sarah Shorts, niece of the bride was flowergirl. She wore a floor length pale blue dress with a matching full-length pinafore in alencon lace and carried a basket of flowers matching the bride's bouquet. The dresses for the bridal party were handmade by the bride, with assistance from her sister-in-law, Carolyn Shorts of near Little Creek.

Robert A. Calhoun, Jr., of Milford, was best man. Ushers were Arlen Gourley of Fort Smith, Arkansas, son of the groom, and Matthew Austin, Leroy Shorts, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Guestbook attendant was Arlene Veith of Milford, sister of the groom. Phyllis Moses of Smyrna was the organist. Betty Jean Caniford of Dover, friend of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake during the cocktail reception held at the Coral Reef, Little Creek.

Mrs. Gourley is a graduate of Caesar Rodney High School and presently attends Del-Tech Community College, Terry Campus. She is employed by the State of Delaware, Department of Community Affairs as an Account Clerk.

Mr. Gourley is a graduate of Felton High School and Salisbury State College. He is employed by the Milford School District, teaching Social Studies at the Milford Middle School.

The couple spent their honeymoon at their home on Delaware Avenue, Harrington.

Felton Community Historical Society news

On November 16, 1987, our society held their meeting with president, Joyce Jefferson, calling the meeting to order at the Felton Town Hall, old Railroad Station, at 7 p.m. The minutes were read by the secretary, Rosemary Sluter, and approved as read. The treasurer, Louise Fisher announced our bank account as of Nov. 16, had a total of $55.00, accepted as read. Edie Hemphill is checking on reprinting of the Bicentennial Book and also would like to have another issue updating the Bicentennial book.

Many items were received at our last meeting, which meant we did need someone to volunteer to take care of accepting gifts, and memorabilia, to file records, etc. We welcome Louise List, she accepted the position as Chairman of the Library Committee.

Thelma Gerardi, presented the society with a 1916 Report Card of Alice Kemp, a 60 day trip monthly ticket on the Philadelphia & Balto. R.R., Oct. 2, 1917, Merit awarded to Alice Kemp, Hymnal for use in schools, homes and devotional meetings, Westminster Press 1916, Edith McDough, Mar. 23, 1911.

The Harrington Historical Society will be doing a special project for the town of Harrington. A housing beautification program will be starting in December. The project will be for all residents of Harrington. It will be called "Home of the Month". Our judges will be considering homes where the owners show pride, upkeep, maintenance and beautification. "Sometimes the slightest little touch will attract the judges eye!"

The winner will receive a certificate of appreciation, a picture of their home in The Harrington Journal and a small write-up under the picture of their home. A small black train will be placed in the front of the home with "Home of the Month" on it. December will be for the best Christmas decorated home. Good luck to all!

and was formerly known as the Methodist Protestant Church of Harrington. The present name "Trinity Methodist Church" was given to the church after the three major bodies of Methodism united in the year 1939, becoming The Methodist Church. The first services of the original church were held in what was then called "the old school house", located on the southeast corner of Dorman and Mechanic Streets. The Rev. J.E. Nicholson was the first pastor.

Delaware farmer's net income went down $7 million in 1966 from 1965. Average farm income after expenses in Delaware was $6,653 in 1966, down nearly 12 percent from 1965, according to Dr. Raymond Smith, chairman of the department of agricultural and food economics at the University of Delaware. Smith describes the income and expenses of Delaware farmers in a new publication, "Delaware's Farm Income."

The Delaware Track and Field Club, recognizing that there is more cross-country interest in Harrington on a per capita basis, than anywhere else in Delaware, held a 4.6 mile race at Killen's Pond last Sunday afternoon. This is twice the high school distance.

Lake Forest Spartans lose "The Bell" to Milford Bucs

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

MILFORD. It was a one-sided score 32-0, as the Milford Bucs ran right over Lake Forest on Friday night in the "game for the bell". The Spartans showed no offense following the injury to the throwing hand of Lake Forest quarterback Petie Davis. "The cold night on top of the injury to the hand was enough to set us down," said head Coach Jim Fleming.

The Spartan defense had problems bottling up the right side of the line of the Milford Bucs. "It took most of the first quarter to close that gap. It was something we practiced all week," said Coach Fleming.

The Spartans got down 20-0 in the first quarter, "...and with a young team like we have (only 4 seniors) it is just too much to ask of them to come back". "Our offense just never got on track", added senior Bobby Reed. Reed had a punt blocked which was recovered on the Spartan 6 yard line. The Bucs went in from there making it 14-0 with about 7 minutes into the first quarter. "I don't think the defense played that badly", added Reed. "...but we did have a problem with their right side of the line. We just couldn't stop the run. This is a young team and that had something to do with it because even though we knew they were going to run that side, our guys just did not have the experience to know how to stop it", said Reed.

The Spartans finished the season 2-8 which was one more than they won last year. "As I look back on the season I am proud of these guys, because you know those teams (Henlopen Conference) are going to hear from us again", said assistant coach Bill Falasco. "We have a young team...which won two games, they should be proud of that. Some of them have two and three years to play together...and someone is going to hear from them", added Coach Fleming.

"They know they must get on the weights and start the body building program if they are going to make it here", added assistant Chester Scott.

Carl Young played his usual hard hitting type of football game. He came out of the game in the fourth quarter with a possible fractured left shoulder. Robby Reed was also injured at the beginning of the game when he took a hard hit on the knee. He sat out the entire game after that injury.

The Spartans have one whole year to think about 1988.

W.T. Chipman gridders end season on winning note

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

GEORGETOWN. The W.T. Chipman football team ended their season on Thursday with a 20-8 win over Sussex Central Junior High School.

The win gave the young Spartans a 4-3-1 season record.

Running back Kenny Bailey, a stand out all season, scored 3 touchdowns and added an extra point in the winning effort.

"The defense played well all year and they were especially up for this game," said head coach Steve VanSant. The defense was led by linebackers Kenny Bailey, Eric Moses, and Bernard Gilbert. "Brian Thompson was also one who contributed greatly all year to the Chipman success," added Coach VanSant.

"Good line play from B.J. Lewis, Gary Bodine and Mark Harmon was also a big contributing factor", said Coach VanSant. "Rodney Bell played extremely well...and I say this because he is a 7th grader. He did us a good job", added Coach VanSant. Rodney played quarterback all year for the fighting Spartans.

Firewood cutting approved

The Division of Fish and Wildlife has designated portions of Blackiston, Norman G. Wilder and Redden Wildlife Areas as firewood cutting areas.

Cutting will be allowed in designated areas only on a permit basis. Individuals must provide their own equipment. Permits are valid for 30 days at a cost of $10 per two pickup truck loads. There is no limit to the number of permits an individual can obtain; however, firewood must be for personal use only. No resale of firewood is permitted.

Permits may be obtained in person or by mail.

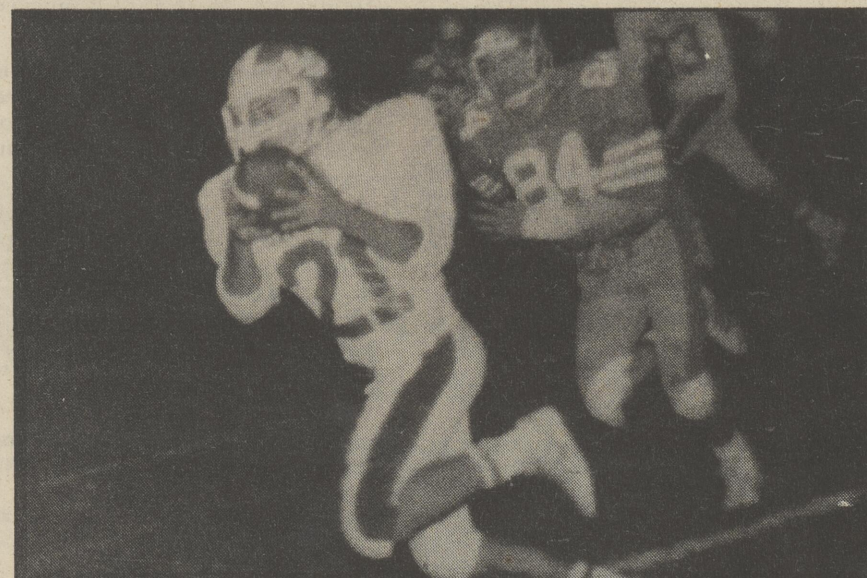

Over 3,000 largemouth bass released

A total of 3,266 largemouth bass, purchased with funds generated by freshwater fishing licenses and matching federal excise taxes on fishing tackle, were stocked in four state-owned ponds recently.

The Division of Fish and Wildlife's Fisheries Section arranged the stocking at Derby and Mud Mill Ponds in Kent County and Tussock and Millsboro

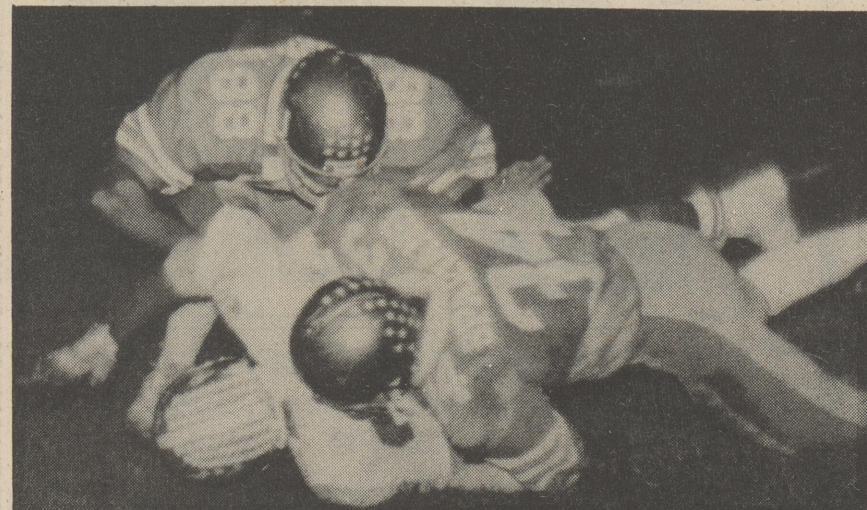

Ponds in Sussex County. The four ponds were stocked with 17.5-7" bass per acre as a result of a fisheries study last spring. The study, which concentrated on how fishing pressures on state ponds has increased dramatically in the past 20 years, determined the largemouth bass populations in 21 state-owned ponds.

Spartans lost to Laurel and were defeated by Milford 32-0 on Friday night. Photo by HGF.

Hard hitting Bobby Reed, #88, on top, with the aid of Carl Young, #34, brought this Laurel ball carrier to the ground in a hurry. Reed and Young figured in on the defense in the game played Friday in Milford against the Bucs who turned the Spartans away 32-0 and retained the "Bell" for the second year in a row. Photo by HGF.

Kelly Adams, left, Lisa Wilson, center, and Jinni Crouch, right, prepare to set up for the ball, which was their usual format all season, and then one of them had a shot on goal. The Spartans were really a fine hockey team this year. It was their luck to play one "...of their very few flat games all season in the tournament". They were a darkhorse this year, but they will be returning with high hopes next season. Photo by HGF.

In the recent state hockey tournament game, Kelly Adams, center, drives the ball toward St. Andrews' goal. Fierce play by the Spartans such as this still did not net the Spartans a win. The Spartans fielded one of the best hockey teams in recent memory. Photo by HGF.

Kent County run for fitness

by Keith S. Burgess

The annual 5 kilometer, or 5,000 meters or 3 1/4 miles Kent County Fitness Run was held at Killen's Pond State Park, on Saturday. Lake Forest cross-country coach, Jim Blades, stated that the weather was the worst he's seen, for a meet, even worse than the downpour, his Spartans competed in, at the Salesianum Invitational.

The temperatures were low, the wind was fierce. Snow flurries occurred before and during the race. Fortunately, much of the course is in a wooded area, which helped the runners a little.

Most of the competitors wore leggings, leotards, sweat suits, wool caps, etc., but much courage was required, on Saturday. But cross-country runners are a hardy, intrepid lot and 82 of them ran the entire distance, only two or three less, than in 1986, when the weather was much better. The sport continues to attract more converts, and we believe part of this is due to the proximity of the local high school. Lake Forest High just concluded another fine season, logging a 30th straight winning season.

Another reason for the growth of the harrier sport is the continued popularity of jogging or walking for physical fitness. These devotees know that Killen's Pond has a registered, calibrated, well-marked 5,000 meters layout and they use it much of the year. We have seen this course used in January and February.

Lake Forest area athletes did a fine job Saturday. We don't know all their names but the seven, who are familiar to us finished the grueling grind, in fine style.

This was an "open" race, with runners present from as far away as Wilmington or farther.

Pete Rowe, from Lewes, the defending champion was overall winner, in 17.09, and also got a second trophy, for first in the 20-29 age group.

Tim Bamforth of Georgetown, one of Delaware State College's top runners was next in 17.35.

Mark Tozer, Lake Forest's Division II State Cross-Country Champion, was third, in 18.17 and captured the 15-19 age group trophy. John Keenan of Wm. Penn High and Jeff Dawson of Caesar Rodney got the other 15-19 awards.

Elaine Zeiler had a fine, freshman year, at Lake Forest and made the Second Team, All-Henlopen Conference. Elaine was awarded the first place trophy, in the 14 and under age group, clocking 27.11.

Bryon Twardus of W.T. Chipman School, age 11, ran the course in 22.32 and received the third place trophy, in 14 and under boys.

The severe weather conditions made record clocking impossible. Some of these competitors had competed here regularly, but were 1/2 minutes slower than in previous starts, here.

But the locals did well against the field, as all six area boys finished in the top half of the field.

Thirteen year-old Czar Bloom, beat exactly half of the field, getting 41st in 24.27. Tim Fisher was 24th, Mike Sanders was 21st, Scott Pierce, who wore more clothes than many of the runners was 17th.

Coach Jim Blades had two reliable team managers, at Lake Forest High this autumn. Rachel Gussett and Joanne Saulsbury relieved Coach Blades of many details, enabling him to focus more on workouts and competitions. We feel at least a couple Spartans, ran a little better, because these girls were there.

Is Bryon Twardus a future harrier great?

by Keith S. Burgess

To answer the above question, we think he can be, based on reports from Chipman Coach, Baxter Smith. Lake Forest Coach Jim Blades and our own observations. Former Lake Forest star, Sherri Boburn, who set a school record, as a Spartan distance runner, is a neighbor of Bryon's, who thinks he is an excellent prospect, also.

To properly set the scene for this article we have to go back to October 1986, Lake Forest was competing in the Spingarn Invitational, at Fort DuPont Park, in Washington, D.C.

Danny Twardus, a tiny blond 11-year-old seventh grader, from W.T. Chipman School, was entered in the junior high division. It was his first cross-country start ever and he was competing against freshmen, some of them as old as 15. Also, most of the opposition were runners from organized teams, who practiced against each other regularly and, who were probably running in their fourth or fifth meet of the season.

Despite all the odds Danny Twardus ran the rugged, hilly 2.1 miles, in under 15 minutes, and finished just outside the top ten, in his first meet ever.

We heard then that his brother Bryon was going to be very good also. Baxter Smith worked with both of these boys, plus another good prospect from the Frederica area and a few others.

No schedule existed. A few meets would have sharpened these kids skills considerably.

On October 10th, 1987, the locals entered the Spingarn meet. Those people "in the know" were very interested, as to the performances that might come from these two Twardus brothers. It was known that Danny had physical problems, a leg injury and a prolonged setback, from "flu" or some other respiratory ailment.

As the junior high race unfolded, it became apparent that Danny Twardus, now all of 12 years old was whipping most of the freshmen. The eighth grader eventually placed seventh and was more than half a minute ahead of 1986.

Where was Bryon? The 11-year-old seventh grader was in fifth place, only a few seconds over 14 minutes for two plus rugged miles. Bryon just missed moving up another position, as the runner, who was just ahead of him had cut the course short leg thirty yards and would have been disqualified, if caught.

Both Twardus lads received trophies, though running against older, vastly more experienced competition.

Saturday, 11-year-old Bryon Twardus was at Killen's Pond, for his second meet ever. This time he had to run 3 1/2 miles, a mile more than in D.C. Bryon was bundled up against the frigid weather and ran the distance, in an extremely capable manner, clocking 22.32, finishing 31st, beating 51 older runners. He was the youngest of the 82 entrants.

Some years ago, Howard Parker, 8-years-old started running unofficially, in high school cross-country races. By grade 7, he was in his fourth year of competition and could beat over half of the high school runners around. By age 11, he had set three, age group, world records. Mauria "Reese Cup" Coverdale started at age 9 and was a whiz by age 11. Like Parker, he had many miles of practice and competition already.

But these Twardus brothers have only a small percentage of the mileage, that these past stars had, at the same age. Their clockings indicate that each of them is already good enough to run high school cross-country. Coach Blades hopes to get Danny in 1988, and Bryon in 1989. This fan can hardly wait.

OOPS!!

The Sports headline last week should have read "1987 Lake Forest All-Conference Teams"

Steven Cawby is given credit for scoring the first recorded soccer goal for W.T. Chipman Jr. High Soccer team which recently concluded their first season. The goal was scored in a game against Sussex Central.

DNREC targets waterfowl baiters

This fall, more than 10,000 waterfowl hunters will take to Delaware's marshes. Because duck populations are near record lows, those hunters who bait any waterfowl will themselves be hunted.

Waterfowl baiting is when hunters spread corn, grain or other feed to attract birds to hunting sites.

Nine waterfowl baiting arrests have been made statewide to date this season in Delaware, according to Rodney L. Marmic, chief game warden.

"Hunters should be aware that the Division of Fish and Wildlife considers baiting to be a serious game violation," Marmic continued. "We plan to stop this practice."

State fine ranges from $50-$250. Federal minimum fine is $100.

"Nutcracker" to feature local residents

The 1987 production of "The Nutcracker" by the Delaware Regional Ballet Company will feature several residents of the Felton-Fredrica area. The ballet will be performed at 8 p.m. on Saturday, December 5 and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, December 6 at the Dover Central Middle School. It will also be presented at the Convention Center in Ocean City, Md. on Saturday, December 12 at 8 p.m. Special performances for area school children have been scheduled on Friday, December 4 in Dover and on Friday, December 11 in Ocean City.

Wendy Carter, 17, of Felton, will dance the leading role of the Sugar Plum Fairy at the Sunday, Dec. 6 performance. In the Saturday performance she will be featured as Dew Drop Fairy and lead icicle. Wendy is a senior at Lake Forest High School. She is the daughter of Ronnie and Bonnie Carter.

Also dancing in the ballet is Elizabeth Phillips, a Lake Forest High School sophomore. Elizabeth, 16, appears as a maid in the party scene, and later as a soldier, a lady-in-waiting, and a kitchen maid. She is the daughter of Mary and Murray Phillips of Felton.

Saunie Stayton, daughter of Tom and Mary Ann Stayton of Felton, will be featured as a rosebud in the "Waltz of the Flowers". She also appears as a snowflake, a Chinese dancer, and as the Drummer Doll in the party scene. Saunie, 12, is a seventh grader at W.T. Chipman.

Rebekah Crockett, 10, daughter of John and Bethel Crockett of Frederica, dances in the party scene and later appears as an angel and a baker. She is a fifth-grader at Lake Forest East Elementary.

Eight-year-old Jodi Winkler, daughter of David and Janice Winkler of Felton, dances in the party scene and appears again as an angel in the second act. Jodi attends Holy Cross Elementary School where she is in the third grade.

Col. and Mrs. Doug Senter of Felton dance in the party scene of the ballet.

Mrs. Loey Voshell of Felton is assisting in the production of "The Nutcracker" again this year.

Tickets are available from company members and from the Marion Tracy Dance Studio, 1071 S. Governors Avenue in Dove. For more information call 674-1020.

State Farm Bureau

whereas local school taxes collected annually total about $90 million.

The problem is not eased for Sussex Countians where valuable beach property comes into play. The study group estimated that around a 2% increase on personal income could boost the tax amount considerable. Kent County Farm Bureau President, Roger Butler from Andrewville, said he was concerned about young people who are in favor of a referendum, but are not paying any taxes at all because they do not own any property.

The problem exists because poorer school districts are not able to carry their own financial responsibilities. The tax base is not there, and the taxpayers are concerned about their ability to pay more in taxes.

Another plan considered is a tax equalization plan which would take proportionately from the poorer districts and give to the more prosperous one.

"The latest defeat at the polls on this school referendum has allowed us to send again hundreds of thousands of dollars to more prosperous school districts for salaries," said Dr. VanSciver. He was referring to Red Clay District, probably the wealthiest district in the state, whose teachers already earn salaries comparable with industry are now the recipients of our equalization monies by virtue of losing out on the teacher salary equalization proposal.

Her remarks were directed at "Graying of America" where the changing age structure of the population is one of the most important and foreseeable demographic trends to shape this society for the next five decades, she said. "There are some 41,000 people in this country alone who are 100 years or older. More

Nine local teens win state 4-H honors

Nine Sussex County 4-H'ers have been named state winners in the 1987 national 4-H awards program, which recognizes achievement in the pursuit of long-term projects.

The purpose of these projects is to build skills in specific areas of interest, increase career awareness, and develop leadership, character, and initiative. 4-H is the youth branch of the Cooperative Extension System. Awards in the various project areas are sponsored by major U.S. companies. The following teenagers, along with winners from Kent and New Castle counties, will represent Delaware at the upcoming National 4-H Congress in Chicago, December 5 through 10.

Amy Elliott, daughter of Charles and Harriet Elliott, received her award for a successful fashion revue project. A member of the Greenwood Hi-Flyers 4-H Club, her award is provided by the Simplicity Pattern Co. and Viking White Sewing Machine Co.

Karen Lofland, another Greenwood resident and daughter of Harvey and Betty Lofland, took the top state award for public speaking. She is a member of the Bridgeville Wildcats 4-H Club. Her award is sponsored by Unocal Corporation.

Robin Loockerman won her award for the breads project, which is sponsored by Fleischmann's Yeast Co. She is the daughter of Lewes and Dorothy Loockerman of Greenwood and belongs to the Dublin Hill Yellow Jackets 4-H Club.

Jennifer Messick of Bridgeville won the achievement award, which is sponsored by the Ford Motor Co. Fund. The daughter of Ronald and Ellen Messick, she belongs to the Bridgeville Wildcats Club.

Robert Cooper, son of Ed and Ellen Cooper of Seaford, won his award with a citizenship project, which is sponsored by the Coca-Cola Foundation. He is a member of the State Line 4-H Club.

Roger Hudson, son of Roger and Ruth Hudson, took a top award with his swine project. His award was sponsored by Pfizer, Inc. and the National Pork Producers Association. A Seaford resident, he belongs to the Sandy Fields 4-H Club.

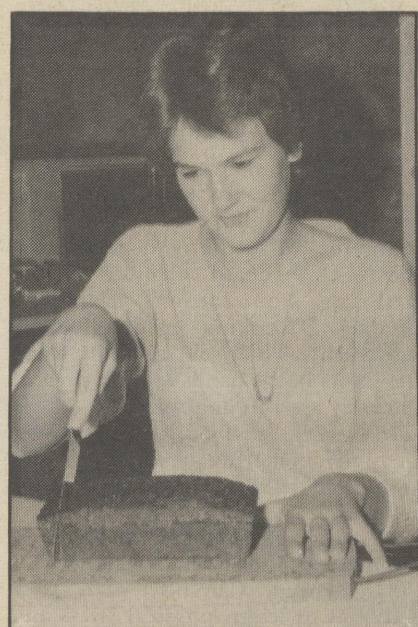

Ron Jernigan, the son of Ronald and Carolyn Jernigan, took top honors with his petroleum power project, which is sponsored by the Amoco Foundation, Inc. Also a Seaford resident, he belongs to the Sandy Fields 4-H Club.

Donya Argo, a Milford resident and daughter of Howard Everett and Mary Argo, won a top award with her food-nutrition project. She is a member of the Broadkill Kool Kats 4-H Club. Her project is being sponsored by the General Foods Fund, Inc.

Tim Wilson, son of Robert and Barbara Wilson of Georgetown, won a state award for his agriculture project, which is sponsored by Case IH and Purina Mills, Inc. He belongs to the Broadkill Kool Kats 4-H Club.

All of the state winners have worked on their chosen projects for several years, each year building on the past year's achievements.

Thorpe celebrates 90th birthday

Mrs. Thorpe was born on a farm near Vernon on the old Harry Luff farm. When she was two weeks old, the family moved to Cedar Neck and remained there 12 years.

From there her family moved to Greensboro and then married and moved to Chester, Pa. She moved back to Harrington in 1940.

There were 14 members present, those being: Dorothy O'Day, Louise Fisher, Rosemary Sluier, Virgie Carlisle, Louise Warren, Elaine Bradley, Mystle B. Brittingham, Thelma K. Gerardi, Lola M. O'Day, Musetta C. Hausler, Betty Louise Myers, Edie Hemphill, Virginia S. Drabant and Joyce Jefferson.

Viola Fire Flies 4-H club news

by Renee Baker

The Viola Fire Flies 4-H Club held their 3rd meeting on November 9. New members are Erin Hobbs and Erica Jester.

Discussion was on decorating a tree & it was decided to decorate a tree at Golden Years Manor. Plans are also being made for the club to participate in the Harrington Christmas Parade. The club has also been invited to decorate a Christmas tree at Ethan Allen Galleries in Dover. Winners of this contest are decided by public votes. PLEASE stop and vote for your favorite tree.

Billy String gave a speech titled "Trumpet Fever," which he will also give in the Public Speaking Contest.

The Christmas Party will be held on Dec. 14. There will be a short meeting, a few games, refreshments, exchanging of gifts and then caroling around Viola.

Anyone age 9-18 interested in joining 4-H should contact Jim Moore at 697-4000 at the Kent County Ext. Office.

Local businesses support live broadcast of ratification festivities

Bank of Delaware, Delmarva Power, Hercules Incorporated, and Nanticoke Homes will underwrite WHYH TV12's historic television celebration of the 200th anniversary of Delaware's ratification of the U.S. Constitution.

Broadcasting live via satellite from Dover on December 7th at noon, Nancy Karibjanian and Patrick Stoner will host this special presentation featuring the First State Day Parade, interviews with notable dignitaries, and taped highlights of the festivities leading up to the December 7th finale.

"It's far-sighted organizations like Bank of Delaware, Delmarva Power, Hercules Incorporated, and Nanticoke Homes that have made this live presentation possible. Without their generous support we would not be able to bring this landmark event to the community," says WHYH's John B. Ford, Vice President for Community Development. The satellite link and production expenses are being funded by these companies.

Over 2000 marchers will participate in the parade including 19 marching bands, the Morgan Horse Guard, antique fire engines, floats and delegates dressed in period costumes. Leading the way in antique carriages, Governor Michael N. Castle, Senators William V. Roth and Joseph R. Biden, and Representative Thomas R. Carper will join celebrities on the reviewing stand. Special guest, the Honorable Warren E. Burger, retired Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, will address the audience.

Marine plant laboratory dedication; new professor to head research

A $1 million, state-of-the-art laboratory for marine plant research was dedicated at the University of Delaware (UD) Marine Studies Complex in Lewes on Sunday, November 15, at 1:30 p.m.

The 3,600 square foot Marine Plant Biochemistry/Biophysics Research Laboratory, located on the second floor of the Harry L. Cannon building, is designed to support research in plant biochemistry, physiology, biophysics, and molecular biology.

Research in the new laboratory will focus on the metabolic mechanisms that cause changes in plant growth when the water supply is limited either by dehydration or changes in salinity.

Beginning with whole plants, researchers will study two processes -- cell enlargement and photosynthesis -- in various parts of plants at various times of the life cycle. Cell enlargement, or plant growth, is the first process to fail when dehydration begins. Photosynthesis, also affected by a limited water supply, is the process by which green plants convert sunlight to energy, releasing oxygen.

An understanding of how these processes behave under adverse conditions will provide the molecular information necessary for improving plant performance with advanced genetic techniques, according to Dr. John S. Boyer, who will head the research efforts.

Boyer joined the faculty of the UD College of Marine Studies (CMS) last month and fills the college's recently established E.I. du Pont Chair for Marine Biochemistry.

"More important is a true desire to share our American culture with foreign students and help them through the adjustments they each face during their exchange year," she continued.

Colson attends prison chapel dedication

WASHINGTON, D.C.-- Charles W. Colson, the former presidential aide and Watergate figure who founded Prison Fellowship Ministries (PFM), was in Georgetown, Delaware to break ground for a new chapel at the Sussex Correctional Institute on Sunday, November 15th at 3 p.m.

A celebration banquet followed the groundbreaking ceremony at the Grace United Methodist Church on Main Street in Georgetown.

The inmates at Sussex Correctional Institute (SCI) will build the chapel in approximately six months.

The Nehemiah Project at SCI is a perfect example of how God uses the diversity of talents in all of us to produce a fruitful end-project," said Colson. "In Nehemiah's day, it was the massive walls of Jerusalem that were rebuilt in an astonishingly short period of only 52 days.

The groundbreaking ceremony comes at the conclusion of a two-week Community Service Project (CSP) in which five inmates from SCI repaired homes of the needy in Dover. The CSP was sponsored by local churches and Prison Fellowship Ministries.

This was the third CSP to be held in Delaware. Since 1981 Prison Fellowship has conducted approximately 100 CSPs across the nation, involving more than 30 cities and approximately 500 men and women.

The joys of Thanksgiving cooking

Preparing the traditional Thanksgiving dinner is a time-consuming task for any cook. For people with arthritis, cooking can also be painful, reports the Delaware Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

"For the 95,000 people in Delaware with arthritis, preparing meals can be one of the most physically demanding of all household jobs," said Mrs. Margaret McMullen, occupational therapist & board member of the Arthritis Foundation's Delaware Chapter. "Cooking involves many movements which are difficult when the joints in the hands and other parts of the body are stiff and sore."

However, with planning and creativity, preparing meals can be easier and more pain-free for people with arthritis.

The Delaware Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation offers these suggestions:

Plan Ahead. Carefully plan your activities to lessen physical stress and fatigue. If possible, do some of your cooking and meal preparation ahead of time, rather than trying to do all the work just before the meal. For example, cook certain portions of the meal several days in advance and then simply reheat them before serving.

Rest. Alternate periods of food preparation with rest. For example, plan 10 minutes of relaxation for each half-hour of cooking.

Sit-Don't Stand. For support and comfort, sit on a high barstool, preferably one that swivels. If a stool is not available, sit in a chair and create a comfortable work surface by putting a board across an open drawer or on your lap.

Rearrange Your Kitchen. To avoid bending, lifting and reaching, reorganize your work and storage areas. Place objects together in a convenient location so that you don't waste energy collecting them. To retrieve pans and supplies more easily, remove doors of cabinets. Drawers, dividers or lazy susans can also make kitchen tools and supplies more accessible. Or you might hang pots and pans from a wall rack at a comfortable level.

Use Labor-Saving Devices. Electric devices such as can openers, mixers, knives and blenders can conserve energy and prevent strain to your joints. If you have problems holding objects, place foam rubber padding around the handles of your knives, pans or other everyday kitchen items. Use pliers with built-up handles to turn small knobs on your oven and other appliances, and to open paper cartons.

"If your strength or mobility is affected by arthritis, you may want to consult an occupational therapist for other specific ways to meet your kitchen needs," Mrs. McMullen said. "Or you might enroll in the Self-Help Course sponsored by the Arthritis Foundation. The course will give you helpful advice about many aspects of daily living with arthritis."

For more information, contact the Delaware Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. Write to 222 Philadelphia Pike, Suite 1, Wilmington, DE 19809 or call 764-8254. Ask about the "Self-Help Manual" or about the next session of the Self-Help Course.

Quality of life bills important to Delaware's future

by Gov. Michael N. Castle

On December 7th, 1787, in Dover, thirty elected delegates voted to ratify the United States Constitution, and thus we became the First State to declare our commitment to the future of America.

On December 8th of this year, two hundred years and a day after that historic event, elected Delawareans will again meet in Dover to cast a vote for the future -- this time the future of our state.

I have called the General Assembly into special session on that day to work on an important package of legislation, bills which will ensure a strong measure of protection for the quality of life that Delawareans now enjoy.

This "Quality of Life" package, as it is known, will help assure adequate roads in the future, and give each county the tools it needs to manage development and growth in the interest of all its citizens.

Kent Countians are well aware of the problems caused by increasingly heavy traffic on Route 13. The "Quality of Life" legislation will help address these problems and avoid future problems.

I introduced these bills in June, and the General Assembly moved quickly on one of them, legislation creating a Transportation Trust Fund to provide financing for highway projects. By dedicating some of the highway and fuel taxes the state collects, we will be better able to provide good, safe roads in the future.

The other bills have been the subject of numerous public hearings and extensive debate since June, and have been refined and improved as a result. It is those bills the General Assembly will consider on December 8th, and I want to describe what they do:

• First, they require each county to pass a new comprehensive plan by 1990, to update that plan five years later, and then every decade.

These new plans will give citizens an opportunity to decide where and how their communities should grow, and what kind of development is appropriate. The state will establish minimum standards for those plans, so that there is a consistent standard for planning and zoning statewide.

• Second, we have proposed legislation which would improve the process by which counties notify state and local agencies of zoning changes being considered, and by which state agencies provide technical information relevant to proposed changes.

We would require state agencies to provide that information in time for local planners to use it, and then require county planners to explain any decisions to ignore recommendations to the contrary.

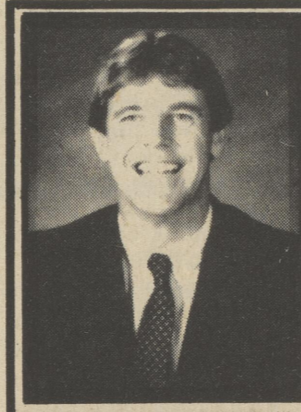

In that way, the citizens of each county will know that zoning decisions are made based on facts, and that planners have good reasons for every zoning decision.

• We would set the same high standard for changes in the comprehensive plan itself, but by requiring a two-thirds vote of county council or levy court to approve those plans.

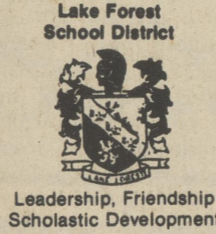

In that way, we would protect the comprehensive plan -- developed through years of work and public input -- from unwarranted changes.

In other words, someone who wanted to change your decision about growth and development would have to convince an overwhelming majority of your elected officials that the change was good for the county.

There is more we must do to protect Delaware from reckless development, but if the General Assembly passes this package of bills, we will have taken an important first step in defending our quality of life.

"Artificial Reality"

A contradictory term was highlighted on the CBS Evening News on August 19, 1987.

The newscast was dealing with the promotion of "artificial reality." At once this is quite interesting and exciting abstract.

By definition the term deals simultaneously with reality, that which is real, and artificiality, that which is not real. This could easily be the cause for quite a bit of head scratching.

The report was concerning simulations and the creative and seemingly limitless scope which they appear to be taking as we enter the next century.

Simulations are more and more playing a major role in the training of medical students, policemen, airline pilots and tank commanders. They have the potential to place the individual in the critical situation, with all the pressures, yet not at the risk of making the ultimate mistake. Simulations will make all these people better at what they do.

Simulations also have a place in our schools. Sometimes called "gaming," these techniques allow teachers to take students through experiences not possible simply by reading or listening. The scope and magnitude of these experiences is limited only by the teacher's creativity and enthusiasm for the task.

They are important. They get students involved. They promote higher order thinking. Students learn.

But some simulations prepare staff and students for what they hope will not happen. During these experiences, skills are practiced which may save lives.

That's why fire drills and bus drills are completed on a regular basis. That's why local firemen are called in to offer advice and suggestions.

Artificial reality is important.

Carefully and productively structured, these situations not only will enhance learning, they will also save lives.

It is far more than just a game.

How sweet it is!

by Senator Bill Roth

Occasionally, even those with the strongest willpower, breakdown and satisfy a craving for ice cream, chocolate or other delectable sweets. But, as anyone with a sweet tooth knows, such a habit can prove quite expensive nowadays. The day of the five cent candy bar is only a sweet but distant memory.

The domestic sugar price support program mandated by the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981 and the Food Security Act of 1985 set a domestic sugar price of 18 cents per pound. These sugar price supports have proven to be a boondoggle at the expense of the American consumer who has to pay unnecessarily high prices, at the expense of American workers who are losing jobs and, at the expense of the U.S. taxpayer who pays for the loans when the processors default. The taxpayer also foots the bill for the foreign aid to help fledgling democracies whose economies have been adversely impacted by our protectionist sugar policies.

Recently, I joined with Senators Bill Bradley, D-NJ, and John Chafee, R-RI, in introducing legislation to reform this costly federal price support program for sugar production. Specifically, our legislation would reduce the loan rate for raw sugar from 18 cents to 12 cents over the next four years while setting a floor on imports which would rise by 500,000 tons per year.

Like other agricultural subsidies, the price support system for U.S. sugar production has gravely distorted the market. As a result, the American consumer is paying three times the world market price of sugar, sweetening the profits of the sugar producers. American workers also feel the sting of bloated sugar prices. More than 2,000 U.S. workers in sugar refineries have lost their jobs because their company could not compete with foreign refiners who have access to sugar at much lower prices.

As I have said before, it is time for the federal government to get out of farming. It is no great secret that I am not a supporter of our agriculture subsidy program. I have consistently voted against agricultural subsidies during my years in Congress. This bill takes us in the right direction towards what I hope will be a total phase-out of all agricultural subsidies. It is for the homemaker who unlike the federal government, operates on a budget. Our legislation may not lead to a return of the five cent candy bar but it certainly is a start!

Senatorial Report

by Senator Ruth Ann Minner

Last week the Senate Highways and Transportation Committee and the House Land Use Committee met in joint session to try to work out compromises on eight bills in the Governor's so-called Quality of Life legislative package.

Since the Governor has already called a special session of the Senate to consider the bills, we are under the gun to reach whatever compromises are possible before that date.

Unless we accomplish more than we did last Tuesday, there will be no need for the special session and it will be a waste of the taxpayers' money. However, two more joint meetings are scheduled and both Houses are still hopeful that an acceptable package can be worked out.

One thing we did accomplish was to agree on a change in one bill (HB 295) which affects many farmers in my district.

HB 295 as written provided that "any person" who violates any rule or regulation involving sedimentation or erosion control would be subject to a fine from $50 to $500, with each day the condition continued after receipt of a notice to comply counting as a separate offense.

I pointed out that many of these conditions occur on farms because someone upstream has controlled the flow of a stream. When the water is released, sediment builds up on the farms downstream or erosion takes place.

I could see no reason why these farmers should be subject to fines for a condition over which they have no control and which was caused by someone else.

It was agreed that the language should be changed to read "any person who causes a violation" so that innocent farmers would not be fined.

Another bill (HB 297), regarding periodic inspections of approved plans in connection with land disturbing activities such as grading and building, met with no objections and will be combined with the amended HB 295 into a new bill.

General agreement was also reached on combining two bills (HB 287 and HB 296) requiring state agencies to provide technical information to counties during zoning procedures. Until we see the draft of the new bill, however, I can't say it's ready for the special session.

Otherwise, we have not even begun discussing some of the more difficult bills in the package, such as one to require a two-thirds vote for any amendments to a comprehensive plan and another to impose a tax on developers.

However, at least the House and Senate are meeting and talking and that's half the battle.

Biden offers budget-freeze alternative

by Senator Joe Biden

The deficit-reduction compromise agreed to Friday by the President and by Republicans and Democrats in the House and Senate was at least a step in the right direction, but it's too early to tell if it was a big enough step.

That's too bad, and worse than that, it's unnecessary. We could be well on the road today to gaining permanent control over federal deficits if we had adopted the one-year, across-the-board budget freeze Republican Senator Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas and I proposed back in 1984. We said then that a freeze would make substantial savings while it gave us time to work out a continuing program for reducing the federal deficit.

We made the same argument Friday, when 20 of our Republican and Democratic colleagues in the Senate joined us in proposing a freeze on both spending and revenues for the coming year. We made that proposal to provide an incentive to the budget negotiators to agree on their own recommendations, but a freeze is worth considering on its own merits. Its effects are certain, immediate and measurable; it would cut the deficit by $30 billion over the next year. And that would give us time to work out a deficit-reduction plan that would continue working, year after year, until the deficit is under control, something which would not tempt us to settle for half a loaf.

Meanwhile, the automatic, across-the-board cuts mandated by the Gramm-Rudman law have already taken effect, and while that effect is clear, it is not a welcome one either at the White House or on Capitol Hill. No one ever seriously intended to apply the mindless, indiscriminate Gramm-Rudman cuts to the federal budget. The real intent was to goad the President and the Congress into meaningful, balanced deficit-reductions that would not cripple desirable military and domestic programs. But even the crisis ignited by Wall Street's "Black Monday" in October failed to produce a budget compromise in time to meet the Gramm-Rudman deadline, even though everyone knows that there could be blacker Mondays ahead if we don't get the runaway federal deficit under control.

That's why we may need something better than the uncertainty that still surrounds the compromise that still dominates the headlines all weekend. In the first place, it has already come under attack by conservative Republicans, so there is no assurance that the bipartisan generalities that make up the compromise will survive the detailed work still to be done by Congressional committees; or that if they do, they will gain the President's signature. And that controversial process faces yet another deadline -- it must be concluded within the next 10 legislative days, in practical terms about three weeks, or the law will make it difficult to substitute the compromise for the Gramm-Rudman cuts.

But even if we do meet that deadline, we will still fall short of resolving the criticism we have been hearing from Wall Street and the international financial community -- that the compromise does not even attempt to make the kind of long-term, structural changes needed to rein in the deficit, not just for the next two years but for as many years as it takes to get it permanently under control.

So we're going to keep the freeze before our colleagues for the next three weeks. If the budget compromise collapses, and it may, our proposal is a far better alternative than Gramm-Rudman--which even Senator Rudman has called "bad legislation whose time has come"--and it would gain the time we need to put an end, once and for all, to the overblown federal deficits that threaten the economies of the nation and the world.

Senior citizens and veterans get a boost

by Congressman Tom Carper

Since 1965, the Older Americans Act has enabled millions of elderly citizens to receive much-needed nutritional and support services. This week, the House voted on a final plan to reauthorize this important legislation, and send it to the president's desk for his signature.

As many Delaware senior citizens know, the Older Americans Act includes programs to provide such things as transportation services, senior center activities, Meals-On-Wheels, senior center food services, and community service employment. The nutrition programs alone serve several thousand Delawareans each day.

In addition, this year's Older Americans Act includes a new initiative designed to provide non-medical, in-home services to the frail elderly who need help with the chores of daily living, but don't meet the eligibility standards for Medicare. The $25 million in seed money we provide for these services should encourage states to develop programs that will allow fewer senior citizens to be institutionalized. I think there's no better way to preserve the dignity of our nation's frail elderly citizens than to help them remain independent and living in their homes.

The Older Americans Act of 1965 -- originally enacted as part of Lyndon Johnson's "Great Society" -- has served our country well during its 22 year history. Along with its better-known counterparts, Social Security and Medicare, the programs contained within this landmark legislation have helped to provide a quality-of-life safety net for our nation's senior citizens. I'm pleased that the Act will continue to serve older Americans for years to come.

On the same day that the House put the final touches on the Older Americans Act, it voted overwhelmingly--399 to 17--to make the Veterans Administration a full-fledged department of the federal government, headed up by a Secretary of Veterans Affairs who would be a member of the president's cabinet.

Created in 1935 as an independent agency, the VA has a budget of $27 billion and 240,000 employees. Only the Defense Department has more employees.

Elevating the Va to a Cabinet-level department won't cost much money, but it will give veterans' concerns the stature they deserve within the federal government. The legislation we passed last week has the support of every major veterans group, as well as the president of the United States.

Since its inception, the VA has had to take its marching orders from some other government agency, like the Office of Management and Budget. I agree with Veterans Committee Chairman G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery that veterans programs are too important to be left to mid-level decision-makers at OMB. As the president said, "There's not a better time, or a better way, to salute veterans than to support the creation of a cabinet-level Department of Veterans Affairs."

A laff a day...

by William T. Ficka

Jim, who had always taken his wife for granted, ate dinner one night at Bob's house. He noticed that Bob gave his wife a big kiss as they entered the house. He complimented her on the fine dinner, kissed her again, and said he would do the dishes.

Jim resolved that he would treat his wife with the same consideration and kindness. The next night he came in the doorway and surprised his wife with a box of candy and one dozen roses. He then gave her a great big kiss and told her that he would cook the dinner.

His wife burst out crying.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked Jim.

His wife cried out, "Debbie came home with a bad report card, Johnny broke his finger, the washing machine broke down, the cat fell down the well -- and now you come home drunk."

The way kids act today it makes you wish birth control was retroactive.

Public golf course in Kent County a possibility?

Back in 1970, a master plan for an 18-hole golf course and driving range was prepared for the land surrounding Killen's Pond State Park. At that time, the area south of the Murderkill River along Paradise Alley (Rt. 426) was included. The problem was that 300 acres of land between Rt. 13 and the existing park were in private ownership, which made the golf course unfeasible, since it has been estimated that a minimum of 110 acres would be needed for a standard 18-hole golf course and 50 acres for nine holes.

Now, 17 years later, the 300 acres are still in private ownership, so at present, there is not enough land to construct a golf course. However, the Delaware Department of Parks and Recreation has been active in the Murderkill River Corridor Project, which is sponsored by the Kent Conservation Project. The purpose of the Project is to recommend future land acquisitions for conservation and recreation areas.

This is good news. It proves there is a significant amount of interest from both area residents and state officials. Our biggest enemy is the clock. Each year this project is delayed, we face the possibility of residential and commercial development, which would ruin the golf course idea altogether.

If you would like to become involved in this project with me, please contact Charles Salkin at the Division of Parks and Recreation. If we show our strength in numbers, we can cause change.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I want to express to you my appreciation for putting the Anniversary Service at Barratt's Chapel on the front page. The article and picture by David Dill were excellent and caught the spirit of the day.

Thank you for lifting up one of Delaware's and the church's important buildings to your community.

Sincerely,
Gary L. Moore

Dear Editor,

As I said earlier, there are nearly 1,100 people out there who are real mad that our referendum did not pass. I still receive phone calls every day from people who want to help.

Two people have called guaranteeing an additional 50 "yes" votes each for the proposed referendum this spring.

Are there more people who live in the Lake Forest communities who care about our children, who embrace the concept of "quality education", who will work to support our referendum in the spring?

I would appreciate calls from you. Do you also wish to guarantee a number of "yes" votes for this spring?

Sincerely,
James H. VanSciver, Ed.D.

Lake Forest High School students hold canned food drive

Officials at Lake Forest High School report that members of the school's Student Government Association sponsored their annual Canned Food Drive from November 16 to 25.

Today, November 25, at 9 a.m., representatives of the Delaware State Police Troop 3 will pick up the canned food at the high school and distribute it to local food pantries.

"The Student Government once again is proud to have this program," said SGA President Richard McGinnis. "This has been a lasting tradition at Lake Forest. It benefits the needy families in our area during the holiday season."

This year's program is a "Battle Between the Classes" according to McGinnis. The class which collects the most food will receive a $100 prize and a plaque with the graduating year of the class inscribed on it.

"We will donate the food to the Lake Forest Ministerium," McGinnis continued. "That group will handle giving the food to families in need."

"I hope that our canned food drive will benefit the community. It is the goal of our organization to see that needy families enjoy this wonderful time of sharing and love and just knowing that students care."

"We want the feeling to be represented by the phrase 'Happy Holidays Lake Forest Community' from the students."

Person-to-Person

Elder wisdom

by Rebecca Moore

Several months ago, a new phase of my life began and I was introduced to a whole group of new people. As with any new endeavor, I had my apprehensions, but the people around me put me completely at ease. These people became my friends, my teachers—those from whom I would learn many things. Come with me and meet a whole group of special people.

Meet Addie. She's a tiny person with fluffy, white hair. Sometimes her eyes are sad, but most of the time she says things like, "Come and sit with me. I'd like to visit with you for a while." Her company is something I enjoy. Addie is the matriarch of a devoted, loving family, and, like herself, they are all a pleasure to be with.

Mary was, for many years, a familiar sight around Harrington. She taught seventh grade in Harrington for fifty years. Mary's days are slower now, for time marches on and has brought Mary into her nineties. Mary is a beautiful woman—not just in an outward beauty which is so often just temporary, but in an inner beauty of soul which causes her to reach out to all those around her, and which never ages.

Catherine and L.B. were married for over sixty years, but Catherine recently suffered her greatest loss and now she is alone in many ways. But Catherine will never be totally alone, for loving people are never without someone to care. And Catherine gives so much love, it's easy to return it. She's got one terrific set of arms, and her hugs deliver an unspoken message—I love you!

Margie could aptly be called "The Great Debater". Outspoken, yet considerate of other's feelings, Margie knows exactly what she feels on just about every subject. Margie is such a special person! I could sit and listen to her for hours. Her experiences in life could fill volumes, and those of us around her are the beneficiaries of her life.

Helen is quiet and unassuming. She's a very elegant woman and my children call her "the pretty lady". Helen is a caring, sensitive person who looks for the good qualities in each individual.

Gertrude is my bi-lingual buddy. She can carry on a conversation with you in either English or German. Gertrude has this endearing quality about her that just makes you want to give her a big hug, and she always returns your gesture.

Annabelle is in her nineties, but you'd never know it to look at her. She loves music, has a definite spring in her step, and a terrific ability when it comes to knitting. Her flying fingers produce woolly scarves which she never keeps for herself, but always gives away to the people around her.

Geneva—ah, Geneva—my sweet lady. She has her limitations, as do we all, but her gentle spirit totally pervades her, and makes her a pleasure to be with.

Herman is a retired land surveyor. He is quiet, but always ready with a hearty, contagious laugh. What a special person he is!

Lucy was known for miles around for her abilities in the kitchen. She was an ax-wielding baker who was famous for her Maryland biscuits. It seems that the dough for Maryland biscuits had to be pounded, and the most suitable instrument for this pounding was the back side of an ax. In Lucy's room you can find a picture of her in her kitchen pounding away at a blob of dough with her trusty ax. To look at Lucy, you'd never think her capable of clobbering anything with an ax, for her quiet, gentle spirit is anything but hard and tough.

Lester is quite a character, with his most outstanding trait being his sense of humor. Lester laughs so hard and at so many things, his chair begins to shake, the blood pressure needle goes haywire, and his pulse jumps right out of my grasp. Lester has seen alot of life-war, peace, joy & unhappiness—and his mind is a wealth of stories and information. But everything in Lester's life has an underlying current of humor and this makes him a special person to be with.

Nathaniel is a retired pharmacist. But retirement has not turned him into a sedentary person. He loves to be with people and music is a big part of his life. He even sang to me once—a song about Becky! Nathaniel is full of surprises!

On sunny days, you'll find Walter cycling around the streets of Felton. As with Nathaniel, retirement has not slowed down Walter. He has lived in Felton for many, many years and knows everyone and can tell you everything you ever wanted to know about this quiet, little town.

Millard is a man of faith. Sometimes the problems of this life weigh heavily on him. But he always remembers that things work out in the end. He is a real encouragement to me whenever I see him because of his faith.

John is, perhaps, my greatest teacher. John is very quiet, unlike some of us who tend to run our mouths at the speed of light. When John talks to you, you just naturally pay attention, because you know that whatever he says is important. John is teaching me the importance of knowing when to talk and when to keep quiet. That's one lesson it's taken me many years to learn, but John is a good teacher, and his wisdom is getting through to me. I'm glad I've got John for a friend.

Carrie, little Carrie—what a character! A tinge of worry wrinkles her brow, but it doesn't stay there for long. Her smile and shining eyes erase the worry. Carrie is sharp as a tack, and always fun to be with. Carrie makes me laugh. She has some special quality which just naturally makes me want to squeeze her. She's easy to love.

Grace—my favorite story-teller. She is surely one of the most loving people I've ever met. Grace can hold my attention in the palm of her hand for hours with the stories she tells of her years growing up. Her life has had its bumps, but she bears no sorrow or feelings of bitterness. Being with Grace is always fascinating and pleasant.

Paul and Marietta are going to celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary shortly. My time with them is minimal and this, I regret, for they are both such sweet people, and time spent with them would never be wasted.

Ed and Hattie have been married for sixty-three years. For Ed, it was love at first sight. "I took one look at her, and I knew I was in love with her!" Ed recently told me. Ed is one smart man, for Hattie is a beautiful woman in every way I can think of. I've never seen two people so totally devoted to each other or so much in love. In a society of disposable marriage, Paul and Marietta, and Ed and Hattie are certainly wonderful! I consider myself extremely fortunate to know these four delightful people.

So now you've met all of my new friends. This particular group of people can be found at the Golden Years Manor in Felton, but people like them live on every city street and in every country crossroads. They are the older generation. Some people have the attitude that if something is old, it's worthless. But that has got to be the stupidest idea anyone has ever conjured up. For with age comes wisdom, and what could possibly be more desirable than wisdom? The joys and hardships that have produced my minuscule, thirty-five-year wisdom are a drop in the bucket compared to the experiences and wisdom of my new friends. And it is this wisdom that makes them and every member of their generation so intensely special and of such tremendous value to society.

What incredible people belong to the older generation! Of all people, they deserve our love and admiration, but most certainly, our respect!

Evening Services at Barratt's Chapel

Methodism's historic Barratt's Chapel, located on Route 113 near Frederica, Delaware, will be the setting for two Sunday evening services during the 1987 Advent Season. Both services of worship will be open to the public, and a warm welcome is extended.

At 7 p.m. on November 29, the first Sunday in Advent, the Wesley United Methodist Church of Dover will host a Moravian love feast at the chapel. On December 13, starting at 6:30 p.m., members of Carey's UM Church, Millsboro, will conduct a Christmas Celebration.

Kathy Devine, Wesley's director of music, is heading preparations for the love feast on November 29. The love feast, a "meal" eaten in token of brotherly love and charity, was a rite of early Christians and was often observed by early area Methodists. The Moravian-style feast will feature coffee and specially prepared buns; the food will be served by costumed participants. A message will be brought by the Rev. Alvin Willink, senior pastor, and special music will be presented by Wesley Church's Chancel Choir.

Something new in "Old Barratt's" is a welcome addition to the calendar of events at the meeting house built in 1780 when on December 13 members from Carey's UM Church, Millsboro, will travel by bus to Kent County to host the Christmas Celebration in word and song. Coordinated by Berta Smith and starting at 6:30 p.m., the service will include a message by the church's lay leader, Don Ward, and vocal music. The musical presentations will be by the Methodist Youth Fellowship, Carey's Trio, and Faye and Zip Fielder.

Any worship service in Barratt's Chapel is a special occasion, but a muted candlelight setting in the freshly-painted interior could add immeasurably this year to one's preparation and anticipation for the Christ Child.

On both November 29 and December 13, the adjoining museum will be open for visitors before and after the service. The complex is open regularly on Saturdays and Sundays from 1:30 until 4:30 and at other times by appointment.

W.P. Watson, pastor.

Join those in the community at the Asbury Church tonight, (Wed.) at 7:30 p.m. for the Thanksgiving Community Service. As you come, bring a can of food for the needy.

Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, take an hour to join us at the church at 9:30 a.m. for song, testimony and a devotional period. Bring your company with you. Also bring a can of food for our food pantry.

At the Sunday Morning Worship Service, we were blessed by the sermon "Baptismal Blessings". Scripture was I Peter 3:18-22. That as we are saved through "His shed blood" and cleansed, we show through baptism the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus. The ordinance of baptism was ministered by the pastor. We welcome Mr. & Mrs. Albert Dill into the fellowship of the church.

Sunday services begin at 9:45 a.m. for Sunday School, Morning Worship at 11 a.m. and Evening Worship at 7 p.m. At 2:30 p.m. those who wish may join us at the Caroline Nursing Home, Denton. This is a ministry that is held the 5th Sunday of each quarter. Dennis Schurman is in charge. At the Sunday Evening Service at 7 p.m., Rev. Bob Depp will share a report about his visit to Africa this past summer, during which he visited his daughter who is a missionary.

DAVID B. PULLING

FELTON—Services for state police Cpl. David B. Pulling, who was killed Wednesday, November 18, 1987, in a bomb disposal training accident in Alabama, were at 11 a.m. Monday in Wesley United Methodist Church on South State Street in Dover.

State police honors were at Odd Fellows Cemetery in Camden after the services.

Mr. Pulling, 31, was killed when a device he was rigging to disarm a simulated bomb detonated prematurely at the Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, an Army spokesman said.

Mr. Pulling, of Felton, was a six-year state police veteran. He was assigned to Troop 3 in Kent County and was attending a 26-day hazardous devices program, which the Army runs for the FBI at the arsenal's training facility.

During his career, Mr. Pulling was assigned to the K-9 squad, the Special Operations Response Team and the traffic division in the Dover area. He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Police in Dover.

He was a 1973 graduate of Dover High School and a 1977 graduate of the University of Delaware.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth A. Pulling of Felton; two sons, George Nelson and Jonathan Raymond, both at home; his parents, Richard C. Sr. and Jacqueline D. Pulling of Dover; and one brother, Richard C. Pulling Jr. of Dover, a state trooper assigned to Troop 9 in Odessa. His wife is expecting a third child in July.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Camp Barnes, Delaware State Police Headquarters, Dover.

WALTER L. VANAMAN SR.

GEORGETOWN—Walter L. Vanaman Sr. of Old State Road, near Georgetown, died of heart failure Sunday, November 22, 1987, in Peninsula General Hospital, Salisbury, Md. He was 65.

Mr. Vanaman retired in 1973, after 17 years of service as an aircraft mechanic at Dover Air Force Base.

He also served in the Army during World War II in the European Theater and drove in the Red Ball Express.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy Kemper Vanaman of Georgetown; one son, Walter L. Jr. of Millford; three daughters, Barbara Coverdale of Lewes, Virginia Towery of Dover, and Nancy K. Vanaman of Wilmington; two brothers, Paul Vanaman and Robert J. Vanaman Jr., both of Georgetown; one sister, Betty Boyd of Georgetown; and three granddaughters.

Services will be 2 p.m. today at the Dodd-Carey Funeral Home, Georgetown, where friends called Tuesday evening from 7 to 9. Burial was in Union Cemetery, Georgetown.

Instead of flowers, the family suggests contributions to the American Heart Association.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank everyone who was so good to us during the recent loss of our mother, Ruth Vincent. Your visits, phone calls, food, cards, flowers, prayers, contributions to her church; the caring and love shown will never be forgotten. We wish to thank especially Rev. Randy Steele, Rev. Roy Judy, Dr. Vincent Lobo and the Harrington Senior Center for their special part in her life.

With deep appreciation,
 Ruth Ann & Bob Messick 11

POSTAL EXAM

ALL POST OFFICES IN THE 197 & 199 Zip Code Areas with Rural Carrier positions will be accepting applications for the Rural Carrier exam November 9 thru December 4.

The starting salary varies depending on the size of the route carried and can go as high as $31,000 per year plus excellent benefits. When positions become available the individuals with the highest scores are hired. You should not miss your chance to fill one of these highly desirable and competitive positions.

STUDY GUIDE by POSTAL EXAM PREPARATION CENTER

The study guide by P.E.P.C. was researched and written by the foremost authority in America on how to gain employment with the Postal Service. The author, Mr. Stephen McNally, has the following qualifications:

- 1) former postal employee
- 2) currently a Ph. D candidate in education
- 3) averaged 96 on two of the strictly scored Rural Carrier exams

Mr. McNally, who averaged 100% on 7 out of 7 of the various Postal exams stated, "The Rural Carrier exam is by far the most difficult of the 5 exams commonly offered to the general public." For this reason, proper preparation is essential to obtaining one's maximum score.

You may purchase this study guide for $15.00 (1st class postage and handling included.) (Indicate Rural Carrier on your order)
