

School Board representatives address State Board at meeting

DOVER. Lake Forest School Board President, H. Earl Roberts, addressed the State Board of Education at their December 17th meeting. Mr. Roberts shared the financial woes of the Lake Forest School District with the State Board.

In the regular school board meeting this month, the Board indicated that the Board will no longer pay for "employees" out of state travel expenses.

This was also related to the State Board.

Dr. James VanSciver was also present at the State Board of Education meeting addressing the State Board about the problem of attracting teachers to either have employment in the Lake Forest School District or to retain them "...due to their ability to get higher paying jobs in neighboring school districts or in school districts elsewhere in the State." He further added that the District is threatened with having to cut programs for lack of qualified staff.

Jefferson Reed, a State Board member, commented that he felt the county government should not be able to exempt property from the school tax. State Board president, Charles E. Welch, a retired DuPont executive and former award winner of the Josiah Marvel Award by the State Chamber of Commerce for excellence in community affairs, commented that "...several districts suffer because they lack taxable industrial property". He indicated that perhaps such properties should be taxed statewide and the revenues allocated as needed rather than providing revenues only to the districts in which they are located.

Mr. Welch further indicated "...the State Board members would be eager to discuss possible remedies with the Lake Forest Board".

Earlier Dr. VanSciver told the State Board that Lake Forest had begun several student self-esteem programs to help improve family relations with the school district. "The Positive Family Contact" program is designed to improve student's grades, behavior, and attendance. Dr. VanSciver said "...the parents support it wholeheartedly and it is working to keep students in school."

The program was piloted in one elementary school, using a Department of Public Instruction grant, and now it's operating in all three elementary schools in the district.

Another such program was begun in the W.T. Chipman School called the "student advocate program". Fifteen students were chosen and they in turn chose staff members who would have individual contact within and without the school. The staff advocates were trained to give the students informal counseling to help them adjust to school and deal with problems in the community or home. "The program is working", according to Dr. VanSciver.

Most students felt that it was helping them improve relations with all the teachers they come in contact with as well as giving them a more positive attitude about school.

State Board President, Charles E. Welch, complimented the Lake Forest representation and suggested the State Board encourage more school districts to follow the same lead.

A one-car accident on Rd. 384, near Killens Pond, took the life of 18 mo. old Dominique Mills of 506 N. Washington St., Milford. The 1986 Pontiac Firebird, driven by the child's mother, Karen Mills, went out of control, skidded and

Four file for City Council seats

HARRINGTON. Two candidates have filed for each of the two city wards with elections being held on January 12, 1988.

The two wards in which seats are up for election for a 3-year term are the 2nd and 4th Wards.

The 2nd Ward seat is being vacated by Mrs. Sue Ellen Dennis. The two candidates who have filed are Mr. Leonard "Tom" Englehardt who resides on Shaw Avenue, Harrington Manor and William "Billy" Porter who makes his residence on Liberty Street.

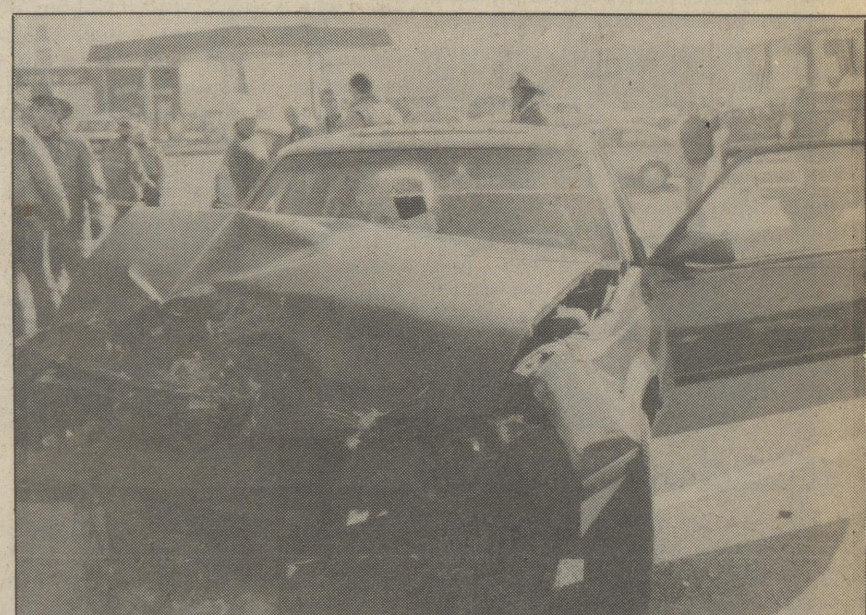

Mr. Englehardt is a civilian employed at the Dover Air Force Base. He is a member of the Planning & Zoning Commission and was its past chairman.

Mr. Porter is a 16 year veteran of the Delaware State Police. He is a native of Harrington and graduated from Harrington High School.

In the 4th Ward, Mrs. Anne Minner is running to retain the seat the council appointed her to when Mr. James Boyd resigned from the council. Mrs. Minner is a retired school teacher having taught in the Harrington School District prior to consolidation and the Lake Forest School District following the consolidation. She has been involved in church and civic affairs since making her home in Harrington. Mrs. Minner makes her home on Weiner Avenue.

Opposing Mrs. Minner is Morris "Bob" Willey who makes his home at 6 Center Street. He has been employed by the Diamond State Telephone Company for 35 years. He works as a splicing technician. He works out of the Milford office of the Diamond State Telephone Company.

Fund drive off to slow start

The Harrington Volunteer Fire Company annual fund drive to this point has raised only $11,000 of the $50,000 dollar goal. Fund drive chairman Randy Ferguson said, "As of yesterday, only five hundred of twenty-six hundred donation letters have been received back."

The monies received from this fund drive will be used to build an addition and to renovate the existing firehouse. Chief Blanchette said, "We are trying to keep up with community expansion. New businesses are moving into town or existing businesses are expanding and we have to keep pace with the change."

Over the past year the volunteers purchased a new 1987 Pierce tanker/pumper which according to Chief Blanchette will hopefully help to keep the insurance rates of residents of Harrington and businesses reasonable.

Approximately two percent of all donations to the volunteers have been from the businesses and the remainder was from private citizens. Chairman Ferguson said, "The fund drive will be through the 31st of January.

Anyone who donates $30.00 or more will receive a Harrington Fire Company hat.

Donations can be sent to: Fund Drive Chairman, 7 High Street, Harrington, DE 19952.

Persons who have already sent in their donations are greatly thanked and there will be a notice of hat distribution at the end of the Fund Drive.

Shultie named president of a state board

DOVER. A Harrington native has been named President of the State Board of Barbers and Cosmetologists.

Richard Shultie, who resides near Harrington and a graduate of Harrington High School, was made president of the 9 member Board of Barbers and Cosmetologists.

Mr. Shultie has served previously on the Board totaling 5 years. The two terms he has served have not been continuous.

The Board meets once a month, administers tests for applicants, sets regulations and handles all complaints.

Reflections on Albert Adams as he visits here

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

HARRINGTON. From 1924 through 1977, the Harrington Public School District, later to become part of the Lake Forest School District, was guided and directed by two men who together forged a school district that would have a lasting impact on generations to come in this area.

J.C. "Jake" Messner came to the Harrington Schools in 1924. A "Pennsylvania Dutchman", he took a firm grip on the District and directed it through many troubled times. He retired in 1960 following first a resignation and then a rescission of that through small squabbles, and was succeeded to the post by Albert W. "Baldy" Adams.

Mr. Messner's reign spanned 36 years. Mr. Adams held the position for another 17 years for a grand total of 53 years.

Mr. Adams and his wife were in Harrington during the Christmas week visiting family and friends. The Adams' raised 9 children, 8 boys and 1 girl. One son, Mike, died while they resided in Harrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams now make their home in Kissimmee, Florida from October to May. "This is our official residence and then we travel to Lynnville, North Carolina. It is a cabin in the Blue Ridge Mountains," said Mrs. Adams.

"What is it they say? Snow birds go to Florida in the winter and the song birds go to North Carolina (from Florida) in the summer," he added.

Today Mr. Adams spends his time far from his chosen field of education. "I am not involved in it in any way. Oh...I keep up with my friends that I made over the years. And I still retain my membership in the (American Schools) Administrators Association. But that's about it", he said. Most of the time now you will find him doing some wood carving "...and I play a lot of golf. I really like the game, and it is a good way to pass the time", he said.

When Albert Adams retired in 1977, he also retired from the State again when he handed in his resignation as Delaware's highest ranking Army officer.

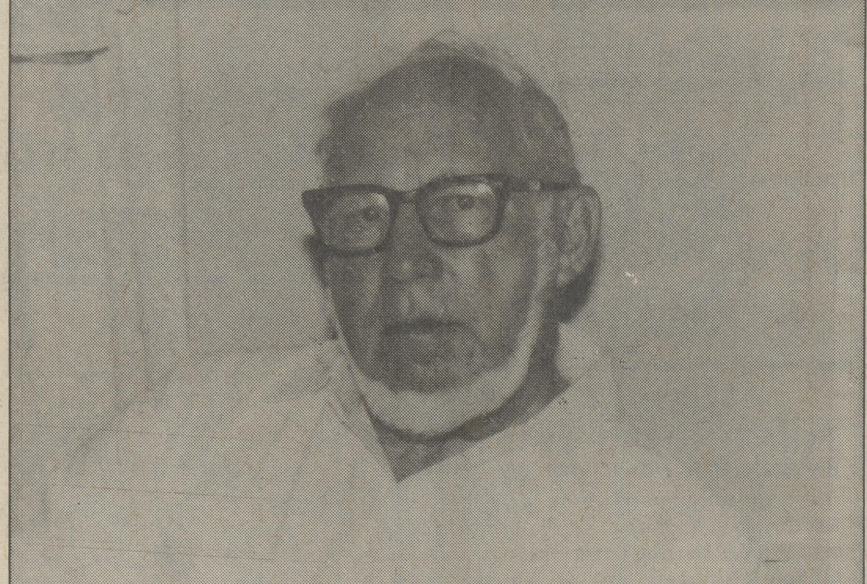

In 1934 he followed a friend who was also a student at the University of Delaware to New Castle to participate "...in some doings with the (Army) National Guard. I didn't know anything about the Guard nor did I plan to do anything with the Guard. I just went along", he said.

Albert Adams had been a right fair athlete as a high school student at Dover High School. He played baseball and basketball very well. "We were always kidding in school much like the youngsters today. And one night at a high school athletic banquet they presented me with a basket and said this might help me catch more balls at third base. I never forgot that", he said.

Mr. Adams went to New Castle that day with his friend without reservation. "I tagged along. I think my friend said they needed two more basketball players for the Guard team. So I went", he said.

When summer came and school was out, they let the two young men go. "But as it happened...and I never gave it a second thought...they never really discharged us or released us", he said.

In 1938 when Albert Adams received a ROTC commission, it was then noted that he had had the previous service in the Guard. It was to be the break that paved the way in his ultimate quest of becoming a Major General in the Delaware National Guard. During his career in the Guard he would command everything from a platoon to a company to battery battalion, group, and brigade. He would become assistant adjutant general for the Army Guard.

"I became a battalion head in 1951 with the Guard. I had had 5 years in the Army too at this point, and I was just tired of it. Came close to resigning and getting out altogether, but my wife said No...you stay and make the best of it. So I did", he said.

When the Korean War broke out the Delaware National Guard was altered. "We thought we might have to go. The State is divided with a northern division and the southern division", he said. "I commanded the southern division. The commanding officer, asked me how long would it take our unit to get ready", he continued.

"But we were only at half strength. It would have taken us 6 months to get ready and maybe more. So the other unit was called", he said. The northern division was at full strength with 4 battalions and an ordinance group.

"So we didn't have to go, because they really needed an outfit right away", he said.

As Mr. Adams continued his climb to the top in the military, he was steadily walking the ladder upwards in the education field. Mr. Adams' father was in education too. He was president of the Board of Education at Laurel and later moved his family to Dover to become the business manager for the State Board of Education. "This was in the early days of the State Board when it was in its building stages", he said.

"It was while we were living in Laurel and my father was at Laurel that he recommended that Laurel hire Charlie Helm as head of the Laurel School District", he said.

It was Charlie Helm that would later have a great impact on Albert Adams' career in education. "When I got out of college, I took a teaching job at Bridgeville. It was teaching 7th and 8th grades social studies. Same as my son Dave will be teaching come this January", he said.

Mr. Adams was right away willing to demonstrate his readiness and ability to go beyond the norm. In addition to teaching social studies, he taught high school chemistry and physics. He found time to teach 7th and 8th grades general science...and when the end of the teaching day came, you would find "Baldy" Adams coaching baseball or basketball. He was also known to do a little officiating on the side.

He became a work-horse from the very first word of "go to it boy". In 1940 he took the job in Laurel. "It was there that I was thrown back with Charlie Helms. My father had recommended the Board hire Charlie several years before, and so Charlie took me under his wing. He told me one day...Baldy...not only do you have to learn to teach everything in this school...but you had best get busy and take some administration courses", he related.

At Laurel, Baldy Adams taught biology, ancient history, American History, P.O.D., consumer science, salesmanship, show card lettering, distributive education "...and there might have been more as well as coaching. In those days you not only had to do everything, but it was expected of you", he said.

In 1948, Mr. Adams got his first high school principal's job at John M. Clayton. It was while he served as principal of John M. Clayton, that he was discovered by J.C. Messner who was visiting the school for an evaluation.

"Jake told me he was going to retire. That was in February of 1960. Told me to apply for the job," he said.

"I never paid anymore attention to the matter. Just dropped it really. Then I heard he had resigned and had tried to rescind the matter. I guess he wasn't able to get that done. The next thing I got a call from the State Board telling me to apply for the job", he said.

Albert Adams came to Harrington as its Superintendent in 1960 to pick up the reins from a man who had been at the helm for 36 years. It would have been a tough job for an ordinary person unprepared for the challenge and the risk taking. But for Albert Adams it was something he was well prepared to handle and handle it he did, right in stride.

Two of the toughest tasks during the Adams tenure were school integration and consolidation of the school district. With the coming of consolidation there was the forming of the Kent Vocational Center at Woodside.

Consolidation came in 1969. Under Mr. Adams the Harrington School District had built the west Harrington School, now South "B", in 1964. "We never experienced problems (integration) because we had attended a conference in I think it was Charlottesville, Va. which preceded the court ruling...and had prepared us for it," he said.

"The first year the west school was built, which replaced an old run down building on the same site...we started a program of sending all first graders to that school. So we were integrated before the ruling, and things went somewhat smoothly," he added. All second graders were sent to the Harrington School.

Asked how he felt about Mr. Messner, and he said "...I always liked Jake. You knew where you stood with him. That's very important in a school district. You build trust, and the people know you then", he said.

Since retiring in 1977, the Lake Forest School District has been close to being on a roller-coaster...if not all the way and properly seated. Even though Mr. Adams is living far from the Delaware shore-line, he keeps up with the happenings "pretty much" in the School District. Never one for mincing words, he was quick to respond when asked how he felt about the school referendum and the issues related to it. He said "...it is always a tough situation, because regardless of what you are asking the price tag is always payment through taxes. It may mean more taxes than you have or it may simply mean a continuation of what you had".

"The only thing you can do is be honest and straight forward with the people about what you are seeking...and hope for the best", he said.

"We passed two referendums. The last one was in '75 or '76, and we rented a little office downtown (Harrington). Had someone there every night for a couple of hours for the citizens to come in and ask what ever they wanted and see what ever they wanted. Or if we didn't have it, we would make sure they got it. Never had any problem", he added.

Commenting about the ownership of the buildings he said "...well that was one of the big problems when consolidation came. Felton and Frederica didn't, the state did (owned them). We owned our buildings, but after consolidation the District owned all of the buildings. So...it is our responsibility really not the State's", he added. "And if they have to be fixed then you have to find a way to do it", he said.

Mr. Adams in reflecting on his experiences in the National Guard said "...I guess John Moore had the greatest influence on me. I liked working for him and serving under him". General Moore was the 1st line general in Delaware since the Civil War. He took that rank in 1950, and when he retired Mr. Adams succeeded him.

Mr. Adams remembers being called out three times during disasters which hit the State. "Once in '63 during a bad storm along the coast. The '66 snow storm which had things bottled up for three days. We carried feed to livestock and chickens. And the riots in Wilmington in '68. There was another time in the early '70's when a storm was supposed to hit here but it didn't, he said.

In 1977 when Mr. Adams retired from education, and took his retirement from the National Guard the ceremony was a little different surrounding the retirement from the Guard. He received full military honors. "As we were having the change of command that day (the retirement), I said to the Governor well I guess after 82 years it is about time I stopped. He said what do you mean...and I said, well I have put 41 years into education and 41 years with the Guard. He then agreed...he thought it was about time too", he concluded.

For those of you who knew and served with Albert Adams, both in the school district and in the Guard, most would agree that he was a constant reminder of strong continued leadership of his predecessor. The Messner-Adams tenure was the end of an era.

Nanticoke Memorial Hospital to purchase new equipment

The Delaware Eye Care and Research Committee presented Nanticoke Memorial Hospital with a check to purchase a pneumatic tonometer. The pneumatic tonometer will be used to detect any abnormalities of the eye that are associated with glaucoma. Glaucoma is a serious eye disease, which if left untreated can result in blindness.

The Delaware Eye Care and Research Committee is chartered under the Delaware Independent Order of Odd Fellows. This committee was established in 1972 and is currently chaired by Albert Clarke. In addition to making contributions to Hospitals in Delaware, they give eye testing machines to schools throughout the state. In particular, many contributions have been made to the School for the Blind in Milford.

The Delaware Independent Order of Odd Fellows has other committees and divisions that support numerous other causes. For instance, they support the Arthritis Foundation in Delaware as well as others. The local lodge which services the community of Seaford, is the Hebron Lodge #14.

Dr. Foote to speak at Heartbeats meeting

Dr. Sandra Foote, a member of Milford Memorial Hospital's medical staff and chairman of its critical care unit committee, will be the featured speaker at the January meeting of HEARTBEATS. The program will be held on Tuesday, January 5th at 7:30 p.m. in Room 207 of the Grier Building, adjacent to the hospital.

Dr. Foote's topic will be "Risk Factors and Warning Signs of a Heart Attack." Following her presentation, free blood pressure checks will be available along with literature from the Heart Association and special "Heart-Healthy" recipes. Light "Heart-Healthy" refreshments will also be served.

Heartbeats is a free program presented on the first Tuesday of every month. Each session features a different topic and speaker and is open to all members of the community interested in learning more about heart and blood vessel disease.

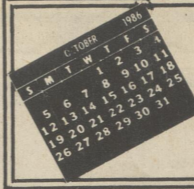

For more information concerning Heartbeats, please call Milford Memorial's Cardiovascular Rehabilitation Department at 422-3311, extension 563, or the American Heart Association of Delaware at 856-7386.

Child Care Connection office to open

Child Care Connection, Delaware's only private, nonprofit referral service, will host a ribbon cutting ceremony at their new Millford, DE office to mark the inauguration of statewide services for working parents and employees on January 7, 1988 at 3 p.m. An open house will follow.

January 7th marks the 2nd anniversary of CCC services in Delaware," said Paula Breen, Executive Director, "to date, we have served 5000 families seeking care for approximately 6460 children." The Millford office will now provide service to the 40,000 working parents of Kent and Sussex Counties.

CCC's telephone referral service will now link parents to an objective computerized up-to-date database of more than 900 providers statewide. In addition, during the 25 minute call parents are assisted in understanding the issues involved in choosing child care and in their role as monitors and safeguards for quality child care. CCC does not endorse or recommend programs. During this initial call, parents are given names and phone numbers of suggested contacts so they can begin their search immediately.

In addition to services for working parents, CCC is committed to expanding the supply of child care through recruitment activities and to supporting enhanced quality activities, through short-term workshops, training and professional materials.

Staffing for the Millford office includes two veteran early childhood professionals Margaret Clark and Joyce Fitch, both long time residents of southern Delaware. Located at 100 "C" N.W. Front Street in Millford, CCC can be reached by parents calling toll free:

Dover-734-9665
Georgetown-855-0997
Millford-422-5810

The referral lines are open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Wednesday night 6 to 9 p.m. The business office is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Kent Countians top state in Carolling Food Drive

As the 1987 Carolling Food Drive drew to a close recently, Delaware First announced that Kent Countians were most generous, donating in excess of 6,400 pounds of actual food items. As a result, Kent County was this year's number one county in actual food donations. An additional 6,171 pounds of food will be available through the Delaware Food Bank from cash donations received in Kent County.

Judy O'Brien, Delaware First's Kent County Director, was very pleased. "I'm thrilled that we Kent Countians really showed our generosity--and I'm especially pleased that we beat out the other two counties," commented Mrs. O'Brien. "We really showed the rest of the state that we know how to help one another here in Kent County."

Statewide, the 1987 Carolling programs has generated 51,476 pounds of food both from actual food donations and cash donations. One pound of food was generated through the Delaware food bank for every twelve cents donated. Most of the food products donated at the Carolling events has already been distributed to food closets throughout the State. Credit lines established at the Food Bank as a result of cash donations will allow food closets to distribute substantial quantities of food during the upcoming winter months, which are especially tough for those in need.

Free IRA publication is available

Washington--Older Americans who have Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) must begin to receive distributions by Dec. 31, 1987, if their 70th birthday was before July 1, 1986, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The beneficiary of an IRA due to the death of the IRA owner may also be required to receive minimum distributions by the end of the year if the IRA owner died before 1987. An excise tax of 50 percent of any underpayment applies to IRA owners who fail to take their required minimum distributions. Retired individuals who participate in qualified retirement plans must also begin receiving distributions from their plans on or before Dec. 31, 1987, if they became 70 before July 1, 1986.

Publication 930, 1987 Required Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs), explains the rules for required distributions from IRAs for 1987 and methods for calculating the minimum distributions and is available free by writing to: Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 25866, Richmond, VA 23260; or calling 1-800-3676.

Nominees named

Principal nominees are the top candidates and are offered appointments to the academies if they meet all medical and physical requirements.

Senator Biden has also nominated eight Delawareans to the Merchant Marine Academy. They are Patrick C. Beebe of Lewes; Jason A. Bright, Newark; Dennis M. Caswell, Dover; Dominic A. Deserio, Wilmington; Matthew F. Frady, Dover; James S. Moudy, Newark; Anthony G. Simpson, Newark; and James C. Owens, Smyrna.

Academy officials will select two Delawareans from the nominations submitted by all three members of the state's Congressional delegation.

As with all senators, Biden is allowed to have a total of five appointees in each of the service academies at any one time.

Biden's alternate nominees to the Air Force Academy are Thomas M. Delle Donne of Townsend; Dominic A. Deserio, Wilmington; Vaughn R. Heyer, Bridgeville; Thomas B. Rice, Claymont; Jeffrey S. Trabaudo, Smyrna; Brian P. Warren, Wilmington; Sean N. Welch, Wilmington; Russell M. Wolfe, Dover; and Richard A. Wysocki, Newark.

The senator's alternate nominees to the Naval Academy include Paul S. Bovankovich of Newark; Patrick B. Cochran, Newark; Shawn D. Ford, Hockessin; Gerald W. Hahn, Newark; R. Scott Killen, Wyoming; James S. Moudy, Newark; Christopher P. Simon, Wilmington; Anthony G. Simpson, Newark; and Brian A. Tollefson, Wilmington.

Alternate nominees to the Military Academy are Sherri L. Brown of Hartly; Dennis M. Caswell, Dover; Matthew F. Grady, Dover; Gerald W. Hahn, Newark; Levon Martin, Wilmington; Joseph C. Rank, New Castle; Thomas B. Rice, Claymont; Todd P. Schwartz, Wilmington; and Brian P. Warren, Wilmington.

Biden's Academy Selection Board, which is chaired by Marie C. Bifferato of Wilmington, reviewed 52 applications this year. Other board members are Norma Lee Derrickson of Rehoboth; Thomas J. Donahue, Wilmington; Paul Henry, Newark; Richard Kelley, Wilmington; and Joseph McDonough, Dover.

The little shop on Route 13

by Rebecca Moore

There's a little shop on Route 13 in Dover, and I love to go inside of it, and I usually end up spending more money than I had planned to spend. In the shop, I am surrounded by pretty things, and the people are always friendly and helpful, never offensive or pushy. The shop is small, and from the outside, looks like a house. Because of its appearance, many people do not even realize it's a place of business. But it is, indeed, a very busy place, so come with me and meet two special people and their "ministry"—The Gospel Shoppe.

Bill and Ruby Farris live in Dover and are the parents of five girls, all of whom have grown and moved away, with the exception of their youngest, Sarah. Mr. and Mrs. Farris have been married for thirty-five years. They both grew up in Virginia, and that is where they met and married. Mr. Farris was the son of a sharecropper and his growing-up years were filled with hard work. A few years after graduating from high school, Mr.

Farris entered the United States Air Force, eventually coming to Dover Air Force Base. He retired in 1980, after thirty years, as a Chief Master Sergeant.

As with any military retiree, Mr. Farris still had lots of good years ahead of him, but only a partial income on which to live. Retirement brought with it many decisions, primarily about a job and income. Many ideas entered Mr. Farris' head—school, relocation—but nothing held any real appeal for him.

Meanwhile, a shop had opened in Dover on Route 13. The owner, hearing that Mr. Farris was available, offered him a part-time position working for him. That was Mr. Farris' first introduction to The Gospel Shoppe. The months went by, and Mr. Farris soon realized that this was where he belonged. It wasn't too long before the owner offered to sell the entire shop to Mr. Farris. This was terrific! It was exactly what Mr. Farris wanted to do. So the transaction was made, and Mr. Farris became the owner of the Gospel

Shoppe.

The location of the shop at that time, was in a rented site. The price was reasonable, and although small, the space was adequate for the shop's needs. But then one day, a man came into the shop. He informed Mr. Farris that his rent was going to increase within the next few months. Mr. Farris felt it was time to look for a new location.

There were several options open to Mr. Farris. Should he rent or buy? Which location could be the most desirable? The decisions were not made easily, but Mr. and Mrs. Farris don't make decisions on their own—they always pray about decisions first. The idea of renting held little appeal, because paying rent month after month leaves you with nothing to show for all your spending in the end. Then the perfect location opened up. Right across from Rodney Village Shopping Center, next to Kathy's Kitchen, a small house went on the market. The square footage was just right, the location was perfect, and the price was right. The owner of the building was anxious to sell, and before long, The Gospel Shoppe was in its location. The mortgage payments on the new location were actually lower than the rent on the old location, so the move was certainly to Mr. Farris' advantage. The owner of the former location had actually done Mr. Farris a favor!

The new location did produce a few chuckles, because of the building's former occupants. A shop called "Naughty and Nice" had occupied the house until it closed and Mr. Farris purchased it. So the shop has gone from selling intimate lingerie, to selling Bibles! Ah, life is full of interesting little happenings.

So, in October of 1983, The Gospel Shoppe opened its doors in its new, larger, owned location at 1827 S. DuPont Highway.

Owning a small business has been a real education for Mr. and Mrs. Farris. Prior to owning the shop, neither of them knew anything about retail merchandising, but they learned real fast—they had to! Keeping accounts, ordering, stocking, inventory, waiting on customers, dealing with salespersons—at first it was all quite overwhelming. But these years since 1983 have been good and the shop has grown from an inventory of $7,000.00 to $35,000.00. But the education has not just been a business education. Take, for instance, the calls Mr. Farris has received asking for advent calendars. Advent calendars? He didn't have the vaguest idea what an advent calendar was. Well, he found out pretty quickly and ordered a dozen advent calendars.

That was several years ago, and at least nine of the original twelve advent calendars are still sitting around the shop, but at least he got what the customer wanted. Sometimes, customers come into the shop just to talk. Many times Mr. and Mrs. Farris have just stopped and talked to people who are lonely or depressed or who need a word of encouragement and a shoulder to cry on. So there is always something for Mr. and Mrs. Farris to do—there is always activity in the shop.

Going to The Gospel Shoppe is always a pleasant experience. Mr. and Mrs. Farris have got to be two of the nicest people I've ever met. They're always smiling and always have time to catch up on all the latest news. The shop is divided up into several different rooms. The front room contains children's items, printed and recorded music, and, one of my favorite items, wall posters. The second room holds a complete line of greeting cards, available individually or in boxes. Bibles, study guides, Bible covers and other related items are located in a third room. The last two rooms are filled with a vast assortment of books. That's where I always feel a weakness coming on and end up spending more money than I should. The entire shop is loaded with pictures and plaques of all kinds—there's something for just about anyone on these walls! Music plays in the background—quiet music. You can relax and enjoy your shopping in a pleasant atmosphere, with kind, helpful people.

"The Lord put me in this type of ministry to be a blessing to people, not for money. I can't expect to please everyone, but I can still be kind to everyone," Mr. Farris told me. This attitude is obvious throughout the entire shop. Mr. Farris may not always have what I'm looking for in his store, but he's still friendly and kind to me and everyone else there. In the event that he doesn't have just what I need, he can usually order it, and he's more than willing to go on a wild goose chase through his mountains of books.

The Gospel Shoppe is a special place, and Mr. and Mrs. Farris are special people. Next time you're up in Dover, why not stop in and pay them a visit? You'll be glad you did!

Chit-Chat with Bonnie

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell
The hustle and bustle of Christmas Day is now behind us. I hope the "bearded one" made all your Christmas wishes come true and that you will enjoy a prosperous, safe and Happy New Year.
On Thursday afternoon Don, Roberta and I traveled, with Christmas packages in hand, to visit brother Darryl "Thumper" and wife, Paula Algier at Nassau Park, Lewes. This was a special time for us as we welcome this newest member, Paula, to our family. We spent the afternoon chatting and watching "Sunshine", as Aunt Paula calls her, open a few of her presents. What a wonderful, happy time we had.
Later in the day we motored to Laurel to pick up Don's mother, Florence Mitchell, who spent Christmas Eve and Christmas Day with us.
Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Porter and son, Jake entertained their family's on Christmas Eve. Jake had a nice surprise as Santa Claus paid him a special visit.
Shane Larimore spent Christmas Eve and Christmas Day with his sister Roberta Mitchell and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Larimore of Andreville entertained to Christmas dinner their children and families. Those joining them were Mr. & Mrs. Roger Larimore and Charlie, Mr. & Mrs. Pete Gerardi and children, Mr. Brad Larimore and children, Shane and Susan Nicole, Mr. & Mrs. William Post and children, Nicholas and Summer Diane, and granddaughter Melinda Larimore.
Rick Welch has returned home from Minnesota after spending the holiday with his daughter, Sherry.
Monday evening guest of Mr. Don Mitchell was his friend, Dwinton Morgan of Laurel.
Sunday afternoon visitors of Roberta Mitchell were Richie and Ginna Grocki of near Felton. They had a fun afternoon playing with their new Christmas toys.
Mrs. Anne Paladino and daughter, Elena, have been enjoying having her parents and cousin in from New York for the holidays.
To All of You and Yours...A Very Happy New Year!!!

The Harrington Journal invites you to submit your wedding, engagement, and anniversary announcements and photographs to be published on the social page. The deadline for receipt of these announcements is Friday at 4:00 p.m. They may be brought to us at 19 Commerce Street or mailed to The Harrington Journal, P.O. Box 239, Harrington, Delaware 19952. If you would like your photo returned to you by mail, please include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Local Interest

The following letter was received by Mrs. Amelia McSweeney of Harrington, Delaware and she wanted to share it with her friends.
MERRY CHRISTMAS-1987
We hope this year has been a happy, healthy one for you. My how the years roll by. We must be getting old as it seems no time since we wrote last year's CHRISTMAS LETTER.
We have been blessed with good health, for which we are most thankful. Aaron was able to have his drivers license renewed for five years. With only an eye examination.
In May we enjoyed a most enjoyable week with our niece and nephew Janette and John Witt and family in Del Rio, Texas. They had planned to visit us but Janette developed medical problems. So we gave them a rain check. The flowers along the highway in Texas were beautiful.
Our annual visit to our relatives and friends up North is always a treat. The Nurses Dinner and The Thompson Reunion at Milford and Dover, Delaware gives us the opportunity to see more relatives and friends. Aaron enjoyed his many fishing trips with his nephew Kennard.
When our nieces, Geneva and Beatrice from Dover, Delaware were here we enjoyed a trip up the Mississippi River on The Delta Queen. It is surprising the amount of navigation on the river. Our friend Naomi Carlisle made her first plane flight to spend some time with us. Were we surprised when our cousins June and Dean Knister from Canada knocked at our apartment door. They spent the night with us. We enjoy all of our out of town friends.

Aaron enjoys working with the men in The Hobby Shop. The new pieces of equipment makes the work much easier. Another activity that Aaron has is Fire Marshall with forty-two monitors. A monitor is a resident in each wing and each floor. A fire drill is held each month. Unannounced.
May Christmas Day bring you sunshine, is our sincere wish for you. May the good Lord walk beside you every where in all you do.
May true friends bring you pleasure and may all your days be blessed.
With laughter, health and everything that makes you happiest.
We enjoyed our visit with you last summer—Thanks so much for getting the group together and for the newspaper clipping—I hope that everyone enjoyed it as much as we did. Please say "Hello" to all our friends. Don't work too hard.
With our love

Meet the Lake Forest Community Swim Team

From Dover, Camden, Magnolia, Frederica, Felton, Harrington, Seafood, Milford, Lewes and Bridgeville, the 1987-88 Lake Forest Community Swim Team has drawn 125 swimmers from a 800 square mile area of southern Delaware. The team represents southern Delaware in the Pioneer Swim League of northern Delaware and southeastern Pennsylvania and in invitational meets sanctioned by United States swimming in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. United States Swimming is the national governing body of the most successful Olympic sport in history.
Competitive swimming requires dedication on the part of the swimmers and their families. The effort is rewarded many times over. According to the Lake Forest head coach Dennis Davis, "Togetherness is one of the strengths of our program. The team provides an excellent opportunity for parents and children to work, travel and have fun together for their personal enjoyment and growth. It is a family oriented program."

The Lake Forest program is a community program as many parents from southern Delaware can testify. One Frederica parent, Dan Griffith, puts it this way, "This is an excellent family sport and activity. Competitive swimming has developed a stronger self-confidence in my son and daughter as well as good physical conditioning. It is also fun sharing this activity with the other families. We have made many new friends." The responsibility and dedication of the swimmers and parents has resulted in a successful and growing swim team.
For more information about this program, contact Coach Dennis Davis at the Lake Forest High pool at 284-9816.

Class starts ATV owners on safe ground

Young people who received an ATV this Christmas will be able to demonstrate their driving skills and test their knowledge of the vehicle at an ATV rider class set for Saturday, Jan. 9, at the Delaware State Fairgrounds, Harrington, Del.
Preregistration is required for the event, which begins at 10 a.m.
Sponsors of the class, which will provide safety training for novice riders and reinforce the skills of more experienced riders, are the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension System, the First State ATV Association and area dealers. Each rider must pass an equipment safety inspection before driving the course.

"Because all-terrain vehicles handle differently than other vehicles, special riding techniques are required to avoid accidents," says Ron Jester, Extension safety specialist. "At this class, parents will also be able to pick up tips on how to teach and supervise their children's ATV riding."
To obtain a registration packet, call Jester at 856-7303 or contact a county Extension office.

Spartan basketball team bows to Riders in first round of the Christmas Tournament

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
DOVER. Monday night was the start of the Christmas Tournament hosted by the Dover Senators.
The Spartans varsity basketball team squared off with the Caesar Rodney Riders in the first round, and were turned away from the finals to be held on Wednesday night with a loss to CR of 60-51.
Head Coach Bill Falasco was quoted as saying following the game which saw the Spartans tied with the Senators as they broke for half time at 23 all, that "...we just did not play four quarters. The first quarter really did the trick against us".

Coach Falasco was referring to the big lead which CR grabbed in the opening minutes, but still saw the Spartans pull to within three when the buzzer sounded the end of the first quarter. The score at the end of the first quarter was 13-10.
"We played a pretty good second quarter scoring 13 to their 10 which was just a turn around of the first quarter in their favor", said Coach Falasco.
Terraine Giddens led all Spartans with 12 points while the Holmes brothers muscled up only 6 points

Trinity United Methodist Church

Rev. Joseph V. Holiday, Jr., pastor. Sunday School at 10 a.m. Worship Service at 11 a.m. Prayer of Confession: Almighty and most merciful Father, who has come into our prison-house of sin through the birth of your Son: We have celebrated the birth of your Son in a dramatic way. But our celebration is more of a holiday than thanksgiving: Help us to discover the happiness of forgiveness; that our joy may glorify our Savior, in whose name we pray. Amen.

Anthem by the choir: "This Christmastide." Scripture Lesson was read by Kelly Calhoun from the Old Testament, Psalm 111 and New Testament, John 1:1-18.

Lay Leader Leroy Calhoun delivered the message in the absence of Rev. Holliday.

Rev. Holliday and Bill Outten visited the nursing homes last week to bring some cheer to our shut-ins.

Ushers-Richard Shultie and Winston Linton. Acolyte-Darrin Lawson. Coffee hour followed Worship Service with Doris Linton and Karen Geyer, hostesses.

Wayne Porter will be celebrating his birthday this week. Bill and Irene Outten their anniversary. Jan. 5, 1988 West Harrington Charge Conference at Trinity Church.

Prospect United Methodist Church

December 27 was Student Sunday and Prospect youth took an active part in the service. In the absence of our minister, our service was led by layleader Jean Miller. Derek Dill led us in the Psalter and Affirmation of Faith.

The ushers were David Calvert, Holly Freeman, and Dina Richardson. Scripture was read by Willie Freeman and Holly Freeman.

Jean Miller gave the youth message. She read a story called "Wise Men Bring Gifts To Jesus."

The message of the morning was in the form of a play entitled "Get Me To The Church On Time." This was presented by Herman, Mary Jane, Kim and Elaine Zeidler, and Jean Miller. It was a hilarious play about a family who was always late to church, but this one Sunday they arrived early because they forgot to set their clock back. The underlying message of the play was that all are needed in the Church and Sunday School. Don't wait to be asked, volunteer your services.

Our prayer list this week includes: Karen Melvin, Dorothy Graham, Lyman Wroten, Joanne Chandler, and the Gibson family.

Charge Conference, Trinity Church, Jan. 5, 7:30 p.m. Prospect Sunday School-8:45 a.m. Worship Service-9:45 a.m.

Start the New Year on a positive note by attending church. We, at Prospect, wish for everyone a New Year filled with the love, joy, and peace that comes with the saving grace of our Lord and Saviour.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
In response to Lynn Outten's letter in the Journal last week, it does take a lot of work to put on a parade and the Harrington Parade is the nicest one we have participated in. I don't know anything about the incident she is referring to, however, I do know that the JCPenney Bank has not won the Grand Prize Trophy two years in a row.

They did win it this year, but the Houston Cardinal 4-H Club won it last year. A lot of young 4-H members would be upset if this error was not corrected.

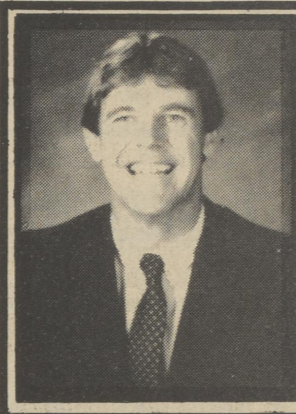

This letter will certainly clear up the matter--after all lets give credit only where it is due.

"It's up to them"

On November 25 the Wilmington Morning News published a story describing how students from Tatnall School and Wilmington Friends School are battling a graffiti-spattered bridge wall on Delaware 141 near Barley Mill Road.

My hat goes off to the staffs of both schools for their efforts in guiding the youth in such a way so as to enable them to make the decision to deal with the graffiti.

I applaud the students for their ability to deal with the peer pressure, to be able to sort through the maze of confusing information presented them by society and for their sacrifice of time to correct this matter. Truly they are models for all Delaware students.

Peter Chandler, the Tatnall upper school history teacher who promotes the activity said, "I thought it was too much of an eyecore to put up with." He said this was his students' "statement against graffiti." He got plenty of volunteers for the project.

Some quotes from students are also noteworthy.

"I could be home doing my homework right now, but I want to help," said Tatnall freshmen Colleen West. She added that she thought the graffiti looked terrible.

"I hated this place; it was really ugly," added James Whitney, a Wilmington Friends School senior.

Both West and Whitney talked about sacrifice.

A potential cloud of gloom could have been cast over the project as Whitney said, "The people who did it in the first place will come back again."

Which gets to commitment.

While Marcel Levy, a Tatnall junior, agreed that the graffiti artists would return, he said that he'd keep coming back to paint over their graffiti.

Peer pressure, sacrifice and commitment. These are powerful tools for our youth. These students at Tatnall and Wilmington Friends were able to use all three to make a statement about what they knew was right.

Students at Lake Forest have the same opportunities.

It's up to them.

The Biden Report

by Joseph R. Biden, Jr.
United States Senator

Despite the controversy that has dogged the War Powers Resolution since it was enacted over President Nixon's veto in 1973, the resolution itself is based on a very simple proposition -- a democratic society can apply military force for an extended period successfully only if that initiative has the support of the people.

In other words, the idea behind the resolution is not only to limit a use of force that is unwise or unsupported by the people, but also to assure that a necessary use of force will have the support of the people and therefore be effective.

It aimed to forge a sure bond between the American people and American power in sustaining critical and coherent American purposes by providing for consultation and cooperation between the Congress and the President.

Unfortunately, instead of fostering cooperation, the resolution has been the center of a continuing and very spirited Constitutional dispute, and thus the source of dissension and division which, in a time of national crisis, could gravely endanger the country's security.

Such a dangerous irony should not be permitted to persist, so the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has formed a Special Subcommittee on War Powers to re-examine the resolution, decide what changes need to be made and recommend those changes to the full committee. I have been asked to chair that subcommittee.

We will begin our work next spring after the full committee finishes work on the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces Treaty, hold hearings to consider all sides of the question and file our report by the end of the year.

The rationale behind the War Powers Resolution sprang from the controversial nature of the war in Vietnam; it received neither the full commitment nor the full condemnation of the American people, and it dragged on for eight years. The controversy over the resolution itself derives directly from the Constitution, which gives Congress the responsibility for declaring war but invests the President with the powers of commander-in-chief of the armed forces and with the responsibility for conducting foreign policy.

As chairman of the War Powers Subcommittee, I do not intend to approach the war-powers issue simply as a conflict between Congressional and Presidential prerogatives. What's at stake -- our Constitutional form of government and our national security -- is far too important for such a narrowly defined examination.

Instead, we must look both to the well-proven wisdom of the men who framed our Constitution and to the demands our modern world produces with an urgency the Framers could not have imagined. That is a challenge which, as I fully recognize, approaches the dimensions of a dilemma, but with good will and a sense of common purpose between the legislative and executive branches, we should be able to resolve it, and thus guarantee that the will of the American people stands behind the commitment of American force.

Senatorial Report

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District

With the opening of the second session of the 134th General Assembly scheduled in less than three weeks, two big January battles already are shaping up.

By the time the legislature reconvenes on Jan. 12, members expect to get a peek at the Castle Administration's controversial legislative proposal to make it more difficult for corporate raiders to accomplish unfriendly takeovers.

Since Delaware is "home" to a majority of the nation's largest corporations, as well as tens of thousands of smaller ones, the Castle Administration wants to provide takeover protection for Delaware corporations similar to that already provided in 13 other States. The argument goes that, unless Delaware takes fast action, some of those corporations now domiciled in Delaware will flee to other states which have already taken such a step.

Also scheduled for January is another battle over key bills in the Governor's land use and transportation package. One bill tied up in the House (HB 391) would set comprehensive planning ground rules for all counties and municipalities and require them to have such plans in place by Dec. 31,

Another bill, temporarily defeated in the Senate Dec. 8, would require traffic impact studies to be performed before approval of any rezoning for development which would impact already overcrowded roads. We have had a problem with the Transportation Department for years over its tendency to state that new development has no impact on overtaxed roads because they already are below an acceptable service level.

Some proposals which would have a significant impact on farmers in the 18th Senatorial District also are being circulated among legislators, but in my view they still need significant study.

Other major business of the second session probably will include another push for mandatory seat belts, another record budget bill, and the annual bond bill to finance capital improvements.

I'm particularly interested in trying to get funds in the bond bill to finance a swimming pool for the mentally retarded at the Howard T. Ennis School in Georgetown, which would service all handicapped and severely mentally retarded in Sussex County.

Of course, there are also a lot of roads in the district which need work and I'll be trying to make sure we get our share of projects approved for Fiscal 1989.

A laff a day...

by William T. Ficka

A young man was going with a girl who had a face that would stop an eight-day clock. Her other physical features were even worse. But he was in love with her and planned to marry her. When he brought her home to meet his parents, his father took him aside for a talk.

"Son, this girl would put the ugly duckling to shame. Her face looks like it blocked a kick, she's bowlegged, she's flat-chested, her hair is falling out, and her clothes look like they came from the garbage dump. Where on earth did you find her?" the father whispered in his son's ear.

"You don't have to whisper, Dad. She's deaf too."

Many men get married because they're tired of eating in restaurants, sewing on buttons, doing their own laundry, mending holes in socks, and washing the dishes. Many men get divorced for the same reasons.

The Aquila is a lemon

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

Try to imagine the feeling that you would have if you spent thousands of dollars on a new car and it did not work. Then imagine the feeling that you would have if every time you brought the car in for repair the mechanic asked you for additional money so that he could try to repair it correctly, and through this entire process not once did the car come close to performing up to expectations. If you multiply this problem by billions of dollars it may be possible for you to understand the difficulty the Army is having with producing the remotely piloted vehicle, the Aquila.

Although this hypothetical question may seem farfetched, I can assure you that the problem is very real. After eight years of development, the Aquila continues to be a textbook example of gold-plating and sole source contracting in the Department of Defense (DOD). During those eight years of development, more than $2 billion has been expended and yet today the Aquila is no more ready for production than the electric car.

Specifically, the Aquila is a piloted vehicle intended for use in surveillance missions on the battlefield. According to a recent GAO report, operational tests showed the Aquila fulfilled its requirement in only 7 of 105 flights. Additionally, the Aquila had difficulty being launched, detecting targets and surviving under battlefield conditions. The bottom line is that the Aquila simply does not work.

This all came to light in a General Accounting Office report which I released a couple of months ago. I have been a consistent critic of the Aquila. I believe that the Aquila program is typical of many government programs that have grown, year after year, with no apparent end in sight. In the past, I have suggested that the Aquila not go into production until the Army can certify that it will work under battlefield conditions.

I was pleased to learn that the Army has decided to delay production indefinitely. The Department of Defense has an obligation to the American taxpayer to either correct the massive problems associated with the Aquila or to terminate the system. I hope that during this delay, the appropriate course of action can be determined.

Even more recently, an investigation by DOD's Inspector General, which I requested, revealed that Lockheed, the contractor for the Aquila, had illegally influenced the test results. When I learned that these allegations were indeed true, I was outraged. It is difficult to say which of the parties involved in this testing fiasco is more to blame -- the contractor who broke the law or the Army testers who allowed it to be broken.

During this time of massive deficits and reduced government resources, I believe that the American taxpayers more than ever deserve a full return on their tax dollar. We cannot afford to waste even a single dollar, let alone billions, on a system that does not work. The Army's delay of production of the Aquila is certainly a step in the right direction. The latest revelations about the illegal involvement of the contractor in the Aquila's testing increases the question of the Aquila's future.

Why welfare reform?

by Congressman Tom Carper

Recently the House of Representatives passed a far-reaching welfare reform bill designed to get people off the welfare rolls and put them on the tax rolls.

Our country desperately needs welfare reform. The current system is a mess. In fact, it is hard to imagine a system that is worse than the one we presently have in place. Today, for example, if a welfare mother (or father) with young children gets a job -- even a low-paying job -- she stands to lose not only her Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) benefits, but her Medicaid health benefits, her food stamp assistance, and possibly her housing assistance. In addition, she is unlikely to find free day care for her children, so she faces the possibility of paying for those services as well. What she gets in return is the right to pay taxes. It's not surprising, given the financial ramifications of leaving welfare, that many people choose not to.

Recognizing the disincentives to work built into the present system, Congress set out to enact reforms which allow people to get off welfare without pushing themselves further below the poverty line. Early in 1987, there was bipartisan agreement on the need for reform. The President even called for it during his State of the Union Address. But a year that began with bipartisan consensus on the need for welfare reform has ended with bipartisan polarization.

The welfare reform package which passed the House has a number of positive elements, and it was endorsed by the National Governors Association. But its cost -- $5.5 billion over five years -- and some of its more controversial provisions made it impossible for many in Congress to support.

I tried to offer a bipartisan alternative to the welfare reform package we passed recently, but my substitute could not be offered under the restrictive procedures governing consideration of the bill. The Carper substitute, developed with the help of Republicans and Democrats anxious to reform the welfare system, but to do so at a price we can afford, would cut the cost to $2.7 billion over five years.

My proposal would melt together the best parts of the Democratic and Republican alternatives we eventually had to choose from. Our plan isn't perfect, but it is a strong step in the right direction. It requires a welfare parent of children age two and older to enter employment programs, or if the parent is a minor, to finish high school as a condition for AFDC eligibility. It provides AFDC for two parent families, as long as one parent was involved in a work training program. It extends one year of child care and one year of family health care assistance to welfare recipients who find jobs and move off the welfare rolls. It requires though child support enforcement, including immediate wage withholding. And it requires minor parents to live with their parents, in most cases, to qualify for welfare benefits, and to have the household income considered for calculating benefits.

Although my amendment could not be offered, the House did agree to several provisions in my bipartisan plan, and to reduce by about 10% the overall cost of the final package. These changes were a result of negotiations held between myself and Rep. Tom Downey, the chief sponsor of the bill that passed.

In the end, I supported the final welfare reform package because I did not believe that the obituary for welfare reform should be written on the floor of the House of Representatives. The need for reform is too overwhelming. But make no mistake about it, the welfare legislation passed recently will not become law in its present form. I think the welfare package which is ultimately adopted by Congress will look more like the Carper substitute than the bill we passed recently.

between them. James Tiggs led the Spartans in rebounds with 14. The Spartans had 52 to 49 for the Riders, but the shooting was off completely.

Both teams were off in their shooting with the Spartans gunning 59 times hitting on 21 for a .350 average which was better than CR who shot 75 times and hit on 24.

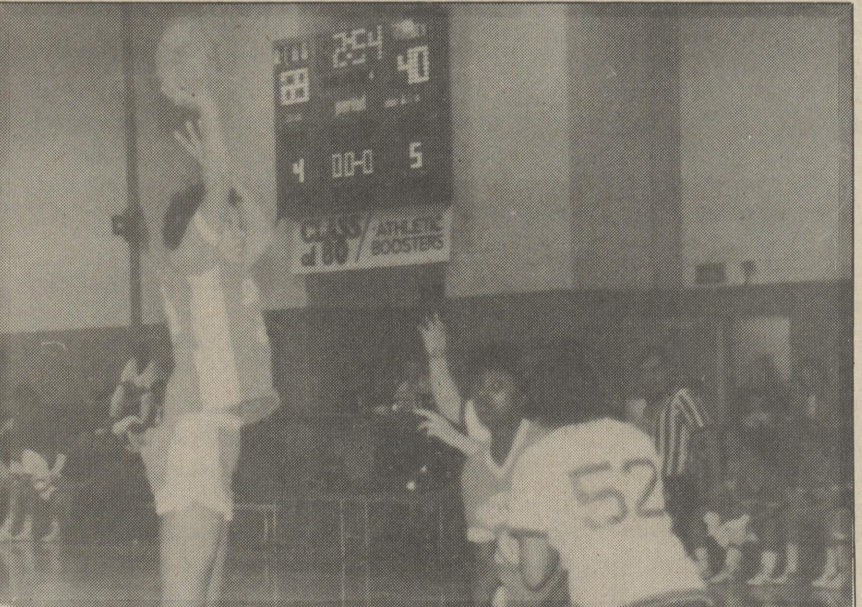

Tony Bray who scored 8 points had a good game defensively with 10 steals and five assists.

According to Coach Falasco, the Spartans would come out in every game with the full court press hoping to force turnovers and stealing the ball.

"In the first quarter we didn't do that, but that wasn't the only problem", he added. The Spartans were weak at the charity stripe hitting 7 of 23, which cost them the game from that floor position.

The scoring went as follows: Bray 4-0-2; Smith 1-4-3; Tiggs 3-0-2-6; Giddens 5-2-3-12; F. Holmes 1-0-2-2; M. Holmes 1-2-7-4; Custis 3-0-0-6; DeMora 1-0-2-2; Parker 2-2-3-6; Eck 1-0-0-2; Totals 22-7-23-51.
