Attorney says Porter's petition does not meet Charter requirements

HARRINGTON. A special meeting was held on Monday night for the purpose of setting up election procedures for the upcoming election next Tuesday, January 12th where two seats are being contested. They are in the 2nd and 4th wards each carrying a three year term of office.

Suggesting that the meeting was not proper, Mayor Farrow stated "...the rules and procedures are set in the charter. The date and times for the election are also...plus it has already been advertised".

As the meeting moved along, it became apparent that the real purpose of the meeting on Monday night was to disqualify the petition of William "Billy" Porter who is running for the seat left vacant by Councilwoman Sue Ellen Dennis. Mr. Porter and his opponent Leonard "Tom" Englehardt seek the seat.

The petition was challenged by Councilman Jack Wyatt, Mr. Porter's brother, who contended that Mr. Porter had not complied with the terms of the charter as they relate to the signatures on the petition. "The charter says not less than 10 signatures or more than 25 signatures", stated Councilman Wyatt.

"It was pulled on me 18 years ago when I first ran for office", stated Mr. Wyatt, who said later that his petition was allowed to stand 18 years ago.

"But as far as I am concerned he has not met the requirements of the charter", said Councilman Wyatt.

Mr. Porter's petition contained 59 signatures from his Ward. Mr. Porter stated that he was not made aware of the charter provisions. "My point is that the words of the charter (relating to signatures) do not appear on the petition's heading. So how was I to know. I should have been informed or given a copy of the charter pertaining to petitions. I wasn't", he said.

Mr. Porter had waited until the end of the meeting to respond under the item "10. Other". Fred B. Greenly, Jr. asked if citizens could speak under this item on the agenda since there was no other place provided for citizens to speak.

Mayor Farrow responded that it was his wish that citizens be provided a spot on all public meetings, and that he interpreted "10. Other" to allow just that.

While Mr. Porter was making his point concerning the petition, Councilwoman Dennis made a motion to adjourn the meeting. Councilman Wyatt seconded the motion but not before Mr. Porter had made his point.

The council selected Councilman Wyatt and Coleman from the council and Mrs. Hazel Smith as a resident of the city to serve as election judges. By Tuesday morning, Councilman Wyatt had resigned from the election board. The council is to go into session tonight (Wednesday) to select a new council person.

Mayor Farrow suggested that the election board could not decide on the petition verifications, because there was nothing in the charter which gave them this authority.

City Solicitor, Gary Dodge, said the election officials could make up the rules and regulations for the election. Mayor Farrow interpreted this to be a right and privilege of the council, and not something that was in the hands of the election committee.

Councilman Wyatt addressed the matter of allowing handicapped residents the privilege of voting. Mayor Farrow said this is a matter which should have been considered by the council at a time far in advance of the annual election. The Mayor suggested the council consider building a ramp to enable handicapped persons to enter city hall. "These (ramps) are state law, and it should have been done years ago", said Mayor Farrow.

Council approved constructing a ramp at the front of the city hall prior to the election next Tuesday.

First State Model RR Club to exhibit at Blue Hen Mall

The First State Model Railroad Club will exhibit its operating modular layout at the Blue Hen Mall on Saturday, January 9 and Sunday, January 10. This engagement will mark the third year that the club has put on a demonstration at the Blue Hen Mall for the entertainment of post-season shoppers.

The First State Model Railroad Club is a group of HO scale enthusiasts whose primary goal is to depict the various towns and cities of Delaware and their relation to the railroad. Using authentic track plans compiled by the Pennsylvania Railroad, they have duplicated its route from Middletown to Harrington in a series of two foot by four foot modules. Each module was constructed by a different club member and when assembled they provide over one hundred feet of track for trains to run on.

Since last year's exhibit at the Blue Hen Mall, additional modules depicting Harrington, Du Pont, Cheswold and Farmington have been constructed. The club has also adopted the practice of regulating train movement by means of radio dispatching. This allows four or more trains to operate simultaneously and provides a great deal of additional interest for spectators. New club members have also expanded the fleet of locomotives and rolling stock so persons who have seen the layout in action before will find that these new additions make a repeat visit worthwhile.

While the layout is being operated, the First State Model Railroad will have people on hand to answer questions and provide information on membership for those who might be interested. A raffle featuring authentic HO scale trains and equipment will be held with the results being announced late Sunday afternoon.

Harrington experiences temporary blackout

Lights and power were off from approximately 5:55 p.m. Tuesday night until approximately 6:46 p.m. Delmarva Power reported that there were 1200 customers "approximately" without lights and power during this time.

The cause was explained that a "breaker locked open". A service man was dispatched to the troubled area to check all lines before the breaker was closed again. When nothing unusual was found wrong with the lines the breaker was closed again "...and it held".

Most of the loss of lights and power was in the downtown area of Harrington. Only the Harrington area was effected.

VanSant retires from public sector for the third time

Frederick N. VanSant, manager of Fish and Wildlife Enforcement, retired December 31 from the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control. It is his third retirement from the public sector but he can't say for sure if it's his last.

"One never knows," says VanSant, 57, of Dover. "When I need a break, I retire."

VanSant has held a wide range of state operational and managerial positions over the past 17 years. He has served under Governors Michael N. Castle, Pierre S. DuPont IV, Sherman W. Tribbitt and Russell W. Peterson.

Since last August, one of VanSant's major responsibilities was to review recommendations from the Wildlife Management Institute on how to better Delaware's wildlife enforcement program. VanSant presented his recommendations December 18 and called for a major reorganization, the appointment of up to 10 senior deputy wardens, and to relocate the office of State Boating administrator, boating education and boat registration to the Department of Public Safety.

At 14, VanSant left Dover High School to sail with the Sun Oil Co. for six months. He returned and graduated with his class in 1948. After turning down a chance to enroll in the Naval Academy, he signed up for a three-year term with the U.S. Marine Corps. That term was extended—eventually through 1970—when VanSant was commissioned to Second Lieutenant as a result of the Korean War. In these years with the U.S. Marine Corps, VanSant attended San Diego State College, the University of Hawaii, the University of Virginia and Armed Forces Staff College.

VanSant began working for the State of Delaware in July 1970 as a public information officer with the Department of Transportation. His three-page resume shows how he served as Deputy State Personnel Director, worked two years with the Office of Controller General, and then was appointed State Personnel Director in 1977 by Governor duPont.

Two years later, VanSant found himself supervising the state adult prison system, probation and parole, treatment and work release. "The prisons were para-military, and I was ready for a change," he recalls. "There were problems, but no major ones...we held a lid on it. It was the toughest job I ever had."

VanSant says he used a pedometer to log his miles walked around the cell blocks. "I always hated being desk-bound; I enjoy interfacing with people," he explains.

Between 1982 and last August, VanSant was Executive Secretary of the Delaware Alcoholic Beverage Commission and Director of the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control, Secretary of the Department of Fish and Wildlife's Acquisition and Construction Branch.

Presently he is a City of Dover councilman, serving as Chairman of the Pensions Committee and on the National League of Cities' Finance Administration and Intergovernmental Relations Committee. He is married to his high school sweetheart, the former Barbara Smith. They have four children and seven grandchildren.

Medicaid to provide health services to low income pregnant women

A major step to reduce Delaware's rate of infant mortality by providing Medicaid-covered health services to low-income pregnant women and their children is starting in January.

This expansion of Medicaid services to give pregnancy-related care to families with incomes up to 100% of the Federal poverty level, who previously have been ineligible for Medicaid, is expected to provide care to 400 women and their infants in the first year.

Medicaid now will pay hospital, doctor, and other medical bills for pregnant women and children under one year of age who have incomes that in the past would have been too high for coverage. The Division of Economic Services urges low-income families to obtain further information by calling the local Medicaid office; Kent-736-3351, Sussex-856-5340.

Many pregnancy-related health problems that require costly treatment, such as complicated deliveries and low-birthweight babies, can be alleviated with comprehensive prenatal care. This care is expected to reduce the number of premature deliveries to low-income women in the state by nearly forty per year, resulting in projected savings of nearly $1,000,000.

The costs of Medicaid are shared by the Federal and State governments, and Delaware now becomes one of 24 states that are taking advantage of this program expansion. It is expected to be cost-effective in both the short and long term, with every dollar invested in prenatal care yielding savings from $2 to $10.

In view of this, the Divisions of Economic Services and Public Health are making extensive outreach efforts through State Service Centers, physicians, hospitals, clinics, and neighborhood organizations to publicize these services.

To be eligible, the annual income for a family of two is $7400; for a family of three the income level is $9300; and for a family of four it is $11,200. Additional information is available from the Medicaid offices in each county.

Increased access to primary and preventive services for pregnant women and their infants is in line with Governor Castle's "Focus on the First Sixty Months" initiative, and follows recommendations of both the Legislative Task Force on Infant Mortality and the Health Care Cost Management Commission.

Person-to-Person A caring puppy lover

by Rebecca Moore

"Forget it, Jimmy Paul. She's on the phone with Mrs. Smith. It'll be at least another hour before we can communicate with her." Shame on me! But it seems that every time I get on the telephone with Linda Smith, it's awfully hard to hang up. Linda is so interesting to talk to, and I don't get to do so very often, so when I do get on the phone with her, there's so much catching-up to do! Fortunately, my children are very patient, and I really do try to stay off the telephone until they're in bed. But sometimes...

I met Linda shortly after we got our dog, Josiah. He was the first dog I'd ever had, and he was quite a learning experience. Being an outside dog, he had an amazing ability to get filthy dirty and stay that way. That's where Linda came in. During most of her waking hours, Linda is up to her elbows in suds and dog hair. She is the owner and operator of "Custom Canines"—a dog grooming shop.

Linda is not a Delaware original. Actually, she hails from the mid-western state of Iowa—rather a far cry from our terrific little state. But Linda arrived within our borders ten years ago, and has put her roots down. It is just west of Wyoming that she makes her home with her husband, Danny, and her two children, Misty and Ashley, and an incredible number of dogs.

Heading out of Wyoming, you'll find Linda not too far from the Camden-Wyoming Moose Lodge. Sitting right next to the road is a blue and white mobile home, with a big sign out front informing you that you've arrived at Custom Canines. Inside, you'll find Linda. She is surrounded by bathtubs, cages, grooming supplies and equipment, and, of course, any number of bellowing puppy dogs waiting their turn to be cleaned and beautified. Somehow, in all the flying fur and bedlam, Linda maintains her cool, and is always in control.

Dog grooming is not an easy business. Most dogs are not real thrilled at the prospect of being plunged into a tub of water and being scrubbed from head to toe. Many are terrified of the blow dryer used on their fur and getting the knots and furballs out of a matted coat is not a pleasant experience for any canine. All those tasks require someone with a great deal of patience and experience and Linda possesses both. But not every dog is cooperative, and Linda bears the scars which prove this. As with so many professions, dog-grooming has its hazards. Somehow, though, Linda manages to get by the claws and fangs.

Grooming dogs is not the only things that keeps Linda busy. Linda is partner-owner of Orlane Kennels. Linda's specialty is a muppy little dog called a Lhasa Apso. Linda has been involved with dogs since she was a child, so her continued involvement with them is only natural. Breeding Lhasas began many years ago, and has turned into a rather time consuming business. Linda is the proud owner of over fifty Lhasas, each one unique in appearance and personality. Her dogs are known, literally, around the world. Between the proper breeding and Linda's training and grooming, her dogs are always winners.

Visiting Linda's house, located behind the grooming shop, is a fascinating experience. What a riot to be totally surrounded by dozens of Lhasas in varying degrees of moppiness, all making bits for your attention. These grinning, bright-eyed little guys are just right for picking up and cuddling, and all of them have such nice dispositions. When I visited the other day, I even got to play with a whole bunch of brand new puppies. What neat little furballs these guys are!

Linda's Lhasas are famous, as I mentioned, beyond the borders of this country. Linda recently sold one of her prize dogs to a purchaser from South Africa. Another dog will soon be leaving for France. And Linda has received inquiries from an interested in Australia. Getting these dogs to their rightful owners is not an easy task, for red tape, quarantines and other necessary frustrations make the process slow and time consuming. But Linda is well-acquainted with this process and takes it all in stride.

It has been proven that pets are therapeutic. Bringing a small animal to an ill or lonely person can do wonders for them. Because of this, Linda has become involved with "pet therapy". Once a week, Linda loads up several of her Lhasas and goes off to local nursing homes. The elderly people in the nursing homes think that's just terrific. There's something real special about a shining-eyed ball of fur climbing up in your lap and "kissing" you right in the face. Now, maybe that doesn't really appeal to you, but to a lonely person, it's the highlight of their day! Pet therapy is strictly a volunteer activity. Linda does not get paid for this; in fact she does it on her own time, when she could be working in the shop and getting paid for it. But Linda sees the value of pet therapy, and her caring spirit is willing to give up a few dollars to bring a little happiness to some very lonely people. Linda is also involved in a service called "Puppy Referral". Let's just say you were looking for a Cocker Spaniel puppy. You wanted one just as a pet, not for show or anything fancy, but you wanted it to be healthy, and of a good bloodline, so you could breed it. To find just the right Cocker Spaniel puppy, all you would need to do is contact Linda. She has names, addresses and telephone numbers of breeders all over the country, and she can put you in touch with any one of them. This way, you would be sure that the dog you get is just what you're looking for. This service is free of charge—you just have to pick up the phone.

Linda is an active member of the Greater Dover Kennel Club. One of the club's activities is to sponsor a pet food bank. Pet food is free to those who qualify. If you are sixty-five or over, and own a pet, you qualify to receive food for that pet, courtesy of the Greater Dover Kennel Club. The food is distributed at the Modern Maturity Center and the YMCA in Dover. The pet food bank provides food for the pets of those people who are on a limited income, and who might not be able to afford to keep their pet.

Linda Smith is one busy lady! She's awfully good at her job, and she breeds champion dogs. But more than these things, she's got a huge, caring heart that sees a need and then meets it. Her generous giving of her time and resources make her a very special person. If you'd like more information about the Puppy Referral Service, Pet Therapy, or the Pet Food Bank, you can reach Linda at 697-6936. Don't worry—she's got an answering machine, just in case she and I are involved in one of our hour-long conversations!

Marvin Hicks

Hicks takes championship in Seaford tournament

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

SEAFORD—Marvin Hicks, a senior varsity wrestler for Lake Forest, captured the heavyweight class this past weekend at Seaford.

The annual tournament hosted teams from the Henlopen Conference. "I was pleased with our wrestlers in their showing. We are young and we did make mistakes...which expected, but what I saw of our guys made me feel real good about our chances this season", said head coach Tom Shaffer.

The Spartans, according to Coach Shaffer, probably finished about fifth in the tournament, but there were some classes in which Spartans placed second or third.

"Freddie (Johnson) got a third in the 103 pound class", said Coach Shaffer, "...and really wrestled well for a sophomore. In this class as an underclassman...you will run into some talent, which he did".

Freddie lost his second round but won the 3rd and 4th.

Kevin Wix got a second in the 160 lb. class with the final score being 10-7. "I got tired and I lost two points for stalling. I just wasn't in shape enough. I guess that I wasn't ready", said Wix.

Fourth place finishers were Phillip Collison at 140. "All of Phillip's matches were real close", said Coach Shaffer. Coach Shaffer stressed again that youth "...will make mistakes, and he made a few, which is expected".

"Tracey Johnson at 145 lbs. wrestled well, "...and his matches were real close", said Coach Shaffer. "He will need to learn to pace himself and build up from there", added the coach.

Steve Coppick at 130 was another fourth round placer. "Steve makes up for lack of experience by being aggressive, and really hustles", added the coach.

At 152 Alex Winchester, a 9th grader, has a lot of strength, "but as a 9th grader he will make a lot of mistakes until he learns...and anytime you are starting as a 9th grader you will run into some competition...which he has", said Coach Shaffer.

Coach Shaffer said he was looking for some pre-season experience for his team, "...and I think we got it. The tournament provided that for us", he said.

Commenting on his champion wrestler, Marvin Hicks, he said "...Marvin just gets better with every match. He just gets better and better...and barring no injuries he should have another good season. He continues to find new things and ways to win by this kind of improvement".

Coach Shaffer said one of the things that impressed him with the Seaford tournament "...was the young guys trying a lot of different moves. Trying things they had in practice...and it shows they are learning and trying to do the right things. They were not afraid to use a variety of techniques".

Coach Shaffer said Sussex Central looks very good again this year. "They have 9 starting seniors (for 13 classes) and that's a pretty good program as opposed to our 3 starting seniors". He said Cape looks really good too. Sussex Central won the tournament and Cape finished second.

OUR TRIP

Lester and Johnnie Kersey, and Lola O'Day of Felton left on the 23rd of Dec., 1987 for a Christmas vacation to South Carolina to visit with Johnnie's family. As we traveled into the night we could see a Christmas tree all trimmed and lit up on the side of the mountain, we finally reached the tree, and in the middle of the mountain, there it stood with trimmings and the Peace on Earth, near the trunk. No village or business around, only the dual highway through the mountain. This tree could be seen for miles in the darkness, it was between Charlotte and Concord, N.C. As we traveled on through the night we could see quite a distance away a huge star in the sky. As we drove on we arrived next to it, this beautiful star was on the tip end of a large crane, all electrified at Cowpens, S.C., at a large construction plant. As we were nearing Gassney, So. Carolina, we could see a big peach over the mountain, that peach was the water tank for the town. It was raining quite hard so at the first rest stop, we pulled in and bedded down in the camper for the night. We really enjoyed all the Christmas lights and decorations as we traveled. Next morning we were off to a good start, but raining all the way.

We arrived at Johnnie's daughter, Jan's, in Seneca, S.C. with her family and Johnnie's family and grandchildren.

Jan and her sister Kay prepared a delicious dinner on Christmas Eve, we ate and Santa's arrival was due. An evening of welcome and pleasure. The next day we left for dinner with Johnnie's Mom and family, the most delicious food and hardly no end to the food. The next few days were spent visiting Johnnie's sisters and shopping.

On Saturday night we all went to Westminster, S.C. to Pop's Country Music Jambooree, a wonderful evening of good music and talent. Johnnie's daughter, Jan Nash, with her pretty looks and beautiful voice, sang with the "Carolina Clearwater Band." Mom & Pop run a nice clean dance hall and always have good entertainment. That night Mom & Pop celebrated their 46th wedding anniversary. Everyone offered their good wishes. Pop announced we three guests from Delaware and came down and danced with each of us, Johnnie and Lola. Also Johnnie was called on stage to sing with her daughter, Jan, they did a beautiful song. We left on the 30th of December and drove into the remains of sleet and snow at Washington, D.C. and for the rest of the way home. All safe and tired, in time for a Happy New Year.

Lake Forest State Champions bring home awards

The Delaware State Team Championship was held at the Wilmington Aquatics Club on December 26, 27 and 28, 1987. Twenty-eight swimmers from the Lake Forest Community Swim Team competed against 315 other swimmers from around the state in three days of stiff competition. Medals for the first eight places and team plaques for the state champion age group were awarded.

Lake Forest swimmers brought home seventeen state champion first place awards and one age group award.

Meadowland takes steps to protect the reputation of sport

The Meadowlands will take immediate action to exclude any horseman from participating at the track who impugns the reputation of the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, it was announced recently by Sam Anzalone, general manager of racing for the Meadowlands.

A new harness meet began Saturday, Dec. 26 and will run through August 19, 1988.

Anzalone stated that the following notice would be distributed to all horsemen participating at this meet:

In light of recent investigations of harness races at Yonkers, Garden State Park and Maywood Park, I want to make the following crystal clear to all horsemen who intend to race at the Meadowlands in 1988:

The Meadowlands will vigorously defend its right to exclude any horseman from these grounds who deliberately damages or impugns the integrity and the reputation of this racetrack and this sports authority.

Our patron has a fundamental right to assume that the racing here is legitimate before he places his bet. If a horseman can't accept that premise, then he has no business being here.

I believe that the overwhelming majority of horsemen who race at the Meadowlands are hardworking and honest. Therefore, we expect a 100% effort every time out.

Anzalone also said that horsemen currently excluded and under investigation at Yonkers would not be welcome at the Meadowlands at this time.

"We will wait until they finish the investigation in New York," anzalone said. "Then if a horseman applies for stalls or wishes to drive here, (Director of Racing) Joe DeFrank and I will review each request."

Wright returns to Meadowlands

The leader in the Meadowlands trainer's standings for the first four years of the track's existence, Canadian Greg Wright has returned to the East Rutherford oval with a 20 horse stable for the first time in six years.

"For the first time, I feel there is an opportunity here for young horses to race early in the season, and since I have mostly two-year-olds, going on three, my outfit has returned to the Meadowlands," said Wright. "With the inception of the Trendsetter and New Faces Series, I can get the colts going for the four races of the series. I believe that a young horse has to race regularly to obtain a good attitude and to learn, and this series racing affords him that chance."

Wright all but disappeared from New Jersey racing in the early 1980's when he went full-time into the buying and selling of horses. His name still floated around the backstretch with regularity, however, as trainers would successfully race purchases from the Candian, including Dignitarian, recently retired to stud after earning nearly $1 million; Allwin Steady, the fastest three-year-old of 1983; Ring of Light, who paced in 1:52.3 this year; and Ideal Tanner, winner of over $400,000.

New Jersey Racing Commission, indicated, however, that all horsemen who were suspended will be individually interviewed before being considered for a 1988 license.

In the Pocket

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

The unofficial dash winner for 1987 is Michael Lachance with 715 wins through December 6th. Herve Filion is second with 601, John Campbell with 516, Steve Condren at 398, and Bill O'Donnell with 385. Delaware's leading harness horse driver, Eddie Davis compiled 248 and winnings of $2,193,372.

These figures will become official next week, and some of the figures will change when USTA has gotten all the stats from the various tracks where these drivers were participating.

The unofficial money winning driver was John Campbell with $10,186,495. This did not top Bill O'Donnell's total in 1985 when he brought home $10,207,372.

The Horse of the Year will be announced this Thursday and Mack Lobell is the leading candidate for this honor.

Nothing of outstanding reporting for this past week. Annicrombie turned in a 1:55.2 mile at Hawthorne for a new track record for fillies and mares.

HAPPY NEW YEAR: Every year at this time we are given a new year to use. It's all nice and clean, with no mistakes and no sins. What a gift! We can classify to ourselves and use it for our selfish purposes or we can lay it on the altar of God for Him to use through us. Will we grab it for ourselves, daring anyone to infringe upon our domain, or will we hold it up to heaven with open hearts and hands? A wonderful new year's resolution would be to start each day completely dedicated to Christ's use so that He would have at least 366 days of control to His glory and to your joy.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Friends,
As many of you know, I have decided to run for election to the Council seat from the 4th District, which I have held since earlier this year. I am asking for your support and your vote in the City election on January 12, 1988.

As a member of the Harrington City Council, I feel I have a responsibility to continue the work which has been underway for the past few months, namely:

1. The selection and hiring of a new City Manager. We have been without a City Manager since August, but through the dedication of Mr. Dawson Shahan, we were able to have his services as Acting City Manager for several months. He has since asked to be relieved of these duties so that he can concentrate on the job of managing the Waste Water Plant.

2. Some solution and decision to the Bicentennial Grant money. Will it be returned to the Committee and will Harrington lose the opportunity to build a City Hall complex?
3. Complete the work to assure the new companies coming into Harrington are made to feel welcome to our Community.
4. Revise the Planning and Zoning regulations so that there will be no question when requests are many for Zoning or Rezoning properties.

There are many other matters that are before the Council that I would like to see resolved. I will try to give my best effort to see that the work of the council is done to the best of my ability. I earnestly ask for your vote on Tuesday, January 12, 1988.

Very sincerely,
Anne T. Minner

Dear Editor:
I have been reading with a lot of interest about our school's referendum not passing. I read the letter from the students of the high school. It was worded very nicely and they had a lot of feelings in what they were trying to get across in the community.

I agree that we need to have our schools updated and as parents we should not have to worry that our children will have something fall on them while in school.

I am in and out of the high school often and I see a lot, but I also hear a lot. The talk I hear is not so much, that the referendum did not pass, as other things going on. Teachers are willing to forego a salary raise (as much as they would like one) to be treated fair and not as someone whose just there.

Yes, many of our teachers are leaving our schools. If you would talk to them personally, you will find their reasons are far different from what you read in the paper.

We have administrators that are making a fine salary. A $2000.00 dollar raise in one year to one $65,000 a yr. for one administrator. We have several vice principals in our schools. Do we need all of these? There is a sizeable amount of money, that could be used elsewhere. Our superintendent is a very good P.R. person. He's out there trying, but he's really not being fair to the teachers and staff under him. I hear he carries a whip, so to speak.

Some of the rules he has enforced upon the students leave a lot to be desired. Mind you, I am in favor of rules. But tell me what the difference is in wearing sweat pants, than wearing mini-skirts up to you know where? The dress code needs some working on, so all will be happy.

Before we lose all our good teachers, I suggest that the administrators sit back and re-read this letter and listen to what the teachers would like. After all they are human beings just like the rest of us.

Several teachers, willing to give up a raise in pay, because as they say, they "love the students and the school," better be getting treated with some respect before they are no longer there. So you see it's not all about the referendum. It's respect also.

I will vote for the referendum in April, but I, like several hundred people want to know that it will go to the right places and not be a part of another raise for our superintendent.

Just where did you find the means for that high of a raise? That question I direct to the school board. They also could do with some updating.

Sincerely Yours,
Louise Apt

A laff a day...

by William T. Ficka

Adolescence is the time of life when kids start understanding rock and roll lyrics.

A man and a woman in a car were winding their way up the steep roads of the Colorado Rockies when they were stopped by a policeman.

"Sorry, folks. But I'll have to give you a ticket. You don't have any tail lights," said the policeman.

The couple got out of the car and walked to the rear. Suddenly the woman let out a scream and burst into tears.

"Don't take it so hard, ma'am. Replacing the tail lights won't be difficult," said the policeman.

"I'm not worried about the dumb tail lights," cried the woman. "What happened to our trailer?"

Better standards, not lower standards

by Governor Michael N. Castle

Respected Delaware educators say we need to improve the way we determine whether a prospective teacher is qualified to serve in the classroom. I agree, but lowering our standards is not the way to do this.

The problem is that capable teachers are being forced to leave our schools, or are never applying to teach in Delaware, because we are using a test that measures certain academic skills but does not really measure teaching ability. A group of educators asked by the State Board of Education to evaluate the competency test now in use concluded that there is a problem, and then recommended that we lower the passing score -- in other words, that we make the test easier to pass -- as an interim solution.

That is unacceptable to me.

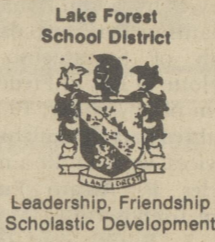

We have worked long and hard to achieve excellence in public education in Delaware, and have not stinted in backing up our demand for better schools with more money. Today our teachers enjoy the 15th highest salaries in the nation, compared with 22nd a few years ago. Only 7 states spend more per student. The results are clear: a recent report ranked Delaware's public education system fourth in the nation. Lowering our standards, or even appearing to do so, would send the wrong message to taxpayers, to students, to parents and to the businesses which depend on Delaware graduates.

If the current test is not a good measure of teaching ability, then we must find a new test, and do so immediately. We must do everything in our power to put the best teachers in our classrooms. But lowering standards is the wrong way to accomplish that, and it cannot be allowed to happen in Delaware.

District Dialog

by Dr. James H. VanSciver
Superintendent

Priorities

by Dr. James H. VanSciver

A referendum will not ever pass in the Lake Forest School District unless the people in our communities commit themselves to education. The schooling of our youth must be placed on the top of the list of those items which we feel important...not on the list; not near the top.

It must be most important.

There will be opposition.

The question is whether or not the opposition speaks for all the people who live in Lake Forest, for all the people who send their children to our schools, for all the people who sincerely view a solid school system as the vehicle with which community improvement may be realized.

It is interesting to note that organized opposition is developing even as we read this. Against what? Against the schools!

They are organizing against the possibility of a proposed referendum. They are organizing against something which has not yet even been planned!

What does this mean? Simply put, this opposition will fight against anything the school officials propose. They will spread vicious rumors, play on the emotions of taxpayers and use any tactic in an attempt to defeat any proposal rendered by school officials.

If this opposition speaks for the citizens in Lake Forest School District then so be it. Our school staff will have been sent an important message.

If, however, they are representing a minority view, however vocal, the people who work and learn in our schools must know that. We must know what is important in Lake Forest School District.

We must know if education in our communities is important.

More than that, we must know how high a priority is placed on the education of our youth.

Time will tell us.

Conservative Caucus opposes Constitutional Convention

The Delaware General Assembly should rescind its "Call For A Constitutional Convention" according to a "Tax Fax #219" pamphlet sent to every State Senator and State Representative by the Conservative Caucus of Lower Delaware.

David F. Coady Chairman of the Caucus appointed David S. DeRiemer of Lewes, Chairman of "Stop The Con-Con Committee". The task of the committee will be to lobby the General Assembly to rescind Delaware's "Call for a Con-Con (Constitutional Convention).

"We do not need a Con-Con to re-write the Entire Constitution. If it needs an amendment, this can be achieved through the normal and accepted procedure of amending", DeRiemer stated.

"We, the Stop The Con-Con Committee", will personally be lobbying every member of the General Assembly starting in January", DeRiemer continued.

Hollywood: Quiet Please

By Edwin Feulner

Some months back, Steve Glass, a reader from St. Louis, dropped me a note mourning the passing of Fred Astaire, his "favorite superstar of show biz." The note has been sitting on my desk nagging me ever since.

With the exception of Milton Berle, George Burns, and a handful of others, all of the people who brought us so much joy over the years—Jimmy Durante, Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields, the Marx Brothers, Rudy Vallee—are gone now.

The names are really unimportant. The operative word in the sentence above is "joy." And that's what's been on my mind in the months since I received Steve Glass' letter.

Americans seem to have lost the capacity to have fun the way they used to. Instead of song-and-dance men—and women, of course, such as Ginger Rogers and Gracie Allen—we have an entertainment industry today more preoccupied with promoting causes (usually left-wing) than entertaining.

With what special qualities are the Jane Fondas of the world endowed—other than good teeth and great bodies—that they should be invited to testify as "experts" before Congress? Making a $25 million movie about a struggling farm family does not a struggling farmer make.

The trouble is that these Hollywood goo-goos take themselves so seriously.

And Washington...well Washington just fawns over them, in a comic version of Jimmy Stewart's classic "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

Somber-faced and deadpan serious, our elected representatives parade the glitter-queens and macho-men—all properly sensitized to the issues of the day, of course—into their chambers for a ritualistic performance that (Surprise!) will somehow be deemed newsworthy enough for the network news.

Do our politicians really think the American public is that gullible?

Does anyone really care what the Hollywood crowd has to say about anything? Or on which side they are on a given issue?

With the exception of Bill Cosby, Bob Hope, and very few others, Hollywood no longer seems to have superstars who enjoy life...and are satisfied merely entertaining the moviegoers and music buyers who pay their bills.

I don't know of a single member of Congress who would ask Barbara Streisand or Woody Allen to fix his or her car, or remove a spouse's tonsils. Why do we call on them to tell us how to solve the world's problems?

It's time for Hollywood to stick to entertainment. And if stars do come to Washington, it's time for Washington to simply tune them out.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

Senatorial Report

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner

18th Senatorial District
Post-Christmas and New Year is not only a time for paying the bills incurred in the annual shopping spree, but it is a time for merchants to begin trying to obtain some satisfaction for bouncing checks.

Worthless checks have become an ever-increasing problem for everyone who does business in Delaware and the State Senate took notice of this fact when in June it created a Task Force on Rubber Checks to look into the problems and recommend legislation to attempt to correct it.

The Task Force made its recommendations on Dec. 15 and I believe the report is worthy of serious notice and consideration.

The Task Force recognized that the bad check problem often is the result of poor training in check identification procedures by businessmen and their employees. The result has been preparation of an instructional pamphlet entitled "How to File a Bad Check Complaint" containing a detailed list of "Dos" and "Don'ts" of accepting a check for payment of goods and services.

The pamphlet has been distributed to the appropriate business organizations, such as Better Business Bureau and chambers of commerce, for reprinting and wide distribution to members of the business community.

The Task Force also recommended two pieces of legislation to improve chances of collection of the full costs of processing a bad check.

One bill would require magistrates to add $30 to the amount of a bad check when restitution is ordered as compensation to a merchant for his time and expense of pursuing prosecution of a bad check issuer, or $50 if more than one check passed by the same person was involved. This recommendation is designed to encourage businessmen to prosecute as a deterrent to repeat offenses.

The second bill, patterned after the state's treatment of first offense drunk drivers, would place first offender bad check writers on probation without judgement of guilt. If the check was made good and the restitution fee and court costs were paid, the offender would not have a bad check arrest on his record. However, any subsequent offense would be subject to fines and/or jail.

With implementation of the Task Force recommendations, I am of the opinion that the incidence of worthless checks would decrease and the process of collecting on those remaining would be more efficient and timely.

For chicken lovers

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

For most Delawareans chicken is a staple of their diet, whether it be fried, broiled, baked or grilled. And, for some Delawareans chicken is more than a big part of their diet—it is their livelihood.

Just to give you an idea how much Americans love chicken, according to the National Broiler Council, (NBC) for 1987 the average American will have consumed 63 pounds of chicken. In June of 1987, Americans consumed over 100 million chickens in one week.

Recent reports on Salmonella have caused a great deal of concern to both poultry consumers and poultry growers. With the problem of Salmonella in mind, I recently cosponsored legislation to authorize funds for 1988 and 1989 for food safety research at colleges and universities. The funds would be directed toward developing technology to rapidly identify such microbiological agents such as Salmonella. Emphasis would also be placed on more specifically measuring the potential health risks posed by Salmonella and other complex organisms and determining the most effective means of controlling or preventing contamination. Some of the organizations supporting this bill include the Delmarva Poultry Industry, the National Broiler Council, and the National Turkey Federation.

The National Academy of Science (NAS) has suggested that more research on the subject could prove very valuable. NAS has also advocated education of the consumer and quality assurance programs for the food industry.

I think this research will help bring about a better understanding of organisms such as Salmonella and it is a logical first step towards a quality assurance program. Information obtained through the various research could then be shared with consumers. By doing so, I hope consumers' fears would be allayed. Therefore, both the consumer and the poultry industry would benefit from the research.

In the mean time, if you are a poultry lover, there are precautionary measures that can be taken by the consumer to alleviate any potential health risks. In fact, according to the Center for Disease Control, 96 percent of all food-borne illness outbreaks are the result of improper food handling and preparation in the kitchen. Helpful tips from the NBC include: Keep uncooked poultry refrigerated or frozen until ready for preparation; Never allow meat to defrost at room temperature where harmful bacteria can multiply, instead thaw frozen in the refrigerator, in the microwave or under cold running water; Wash hands, utensils, containers and preparation surfaces thoroughly after contact with uncooked meat, poultry and fish; keep these separate from other foods; Cook chicken thoroughly or until the juices run clear. Taking these precautions, dollar for dollar chicken remains one of the best deals around.

From The Mayor's Desk

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

The meeting at City Hall on Monday night was purported to be one to set the rules and procedures governing the upcoming election this coming Tuesday.

The report was mere camouflage for the real purpose of making preparations to strike the candidacy of Mr. William "Billy" Porter from the voting rolls.

Although all elections must have rules and regulations to follow, the law of common sense must come into play when there is a conflict between the charter in this case and the nominating petition.

To argue that Mr. Porter cannot be a candidate because he has too many signatures is void of any form of prudent reasoning. There is nothing on God's green earth that would justify such a silly argument. If such an argument would prevail, I feel sorry for the citizens of this town and the property which they own.

Today everywhere in this country the courts are "encouraging" names to remain on the election ballots. There has to be some reason that smacks in felonious meaning to strike someone from the election ballots. Even then, it is not an open and shut case.

My youngest son came home from school Tuesday saying that all of his classmates heard that Mr. Porter was being taken out of the election because he had too many signers on his petition. We all thought that was funny. Try explaining that to a 13-year old and see how far you get.

I suggest that the meeting on Monday night was illegal and unnecessary. The rules and regulations governing elections are covered by the charter. The time and place of the election has already been advertised in the Harrington Journal. The selection of election officials by charter is done on the Monday night prior to the general election...which means this should be done next Monday night. As far as voting handicapped persons, I am for it, but I think it is something that should have had prior discussion and debate. It should be treated like any other ordinance or law which we pass in the city. This means the proper legal treatment with the proper number of readings. What if now a person who is handicapped cannot get out of their house to enter city hall have we denied them the right to vote. If a person is "home-bound" are they not handicapped? I think all such persons should have the right to vote.

I think this council has had ample opportunities to work this past year for the general welfare of the citizens and for this City. Instead there has been a consistent attempt to make me the central issue of their smear tactics. The real issues before this council were a voter registration which I advocated back in February; a public referendum when taxpayers monies are involved; a place on the agenda for citizens to speak at all public meetings; tax reform, prudent spending of taxpayer's money, and a coming together of the council for the best interests of the city and its residents are just some of the things that should have been done.

The citizens face an election next Tuesday in Wards 2 and 4. A word to the wise should be sufficient and that is the vote of each taxpayer is very necessary. Elections can and do determine the welfare of a city. I urge the citizens of this city to not fail to vote. It is very important. Once a person is elected they are there for three years, and you will have to live with that choice.
