

Adams' position advertised and town meetings planned

LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL. David Adams is now teaching at Woodbridge Junior High School, but the position of District Athletic Director and keeper of student absences from which Adams resigned, has not been filled.

According to District Superintendent, Dr. James H. VanSciver, the position has been circulated through the district for a potential replacement.

Mr. Adams resigned over the Christmas holidays and the resignation became public when Mr. Adams made a statement, the first part of January. Remarks recently made by Mr. Adams indicate that he chose to leave Lake Forest School District after 22 years principally due to what he termed as problems with the administration. He issued a typewritten statement, according to him, to the school newspaper The Lancer for this month's publication in which he discusses his reason for leaving the school district.

He said he feels, or it is his perception that the administration has lost trust and confidence in him. It was just little things that total up to a bigger picture, and I felt it was time for me to move on", he told The Harrington Journal this week.

On the matter of town meetings for the referendum which the District plans for sometime in November, H. Earl

Roberts, board president said residents of the district had requested town meetings in Harrington, Felton, and Frederica to discuss the details of the planned referendum. Dates for the meetings will be announced later.

Lake Forest Board continues to answer referendum questions

Lake Forest Board of Education President, H. Earl Roberts continued to pose and answer referendum questions during the January 18 board meeting.

"These questions are important," Roberts said. "These are questions which we have heard around the community. These are questions which need answers."

The first concerned an alleged sum of money which was rumored to have been put aside in 1982 to add six additional classrooms at the district's East Elementary School in Frederica.

"We have researched this," Roberts pointed out, "and found that there was a petition presented to the Board of Education on March 19, 1984 requesting that an additional six classrooms be constructed at East Elementary with the funds to build them coming out of the District's debt service account. It was not 1982 but 1984. The Board minutes show that the petition was presented to the Board of Education. No further action was noted. No monies were put aside to deal with this; no Board action was taken."

School officials were asked, during the defeat of the proposed referendum package last fall, why no plans for the proposed new administration building were available.

"This appeared to be a no win situation for the District," explained Roberts. "We felt that, if we would have had the plans, then people would have felt that we assumed that the referendum would have passed. We also felt that, in the event that the package failed, which it did, that our residents would have been concerned that we went out and spent money on the plans beforehand and, because the referendum was not successful, we wasted the funds.

"If we decide to hold another referendum this spring and it includes provisions for an administration building, then we will have plans and space allocation comparison breakdowns showing what we are using now and how much we would be projected to use in the proposed building."

Roberts indicated that he anticipates some questions concerning two more relocatable classrooms which will appear at the South Elementary complex and the North Elementary complex in the spring.

"We were able to secure these buildings because of renovations at the Sussex County Vocational School," he said. "It will cost us about $7,500 to move, install and wire them. We hope to get this completed when the weather clears.

"We have serious overcrowding at South Elementary. We hope to use one relocatable to relieve some of the pressure. Also, we are being required to add a level four special education placement for our special education students. That will be located at North Elementary. That is why the second relocatable is being placed there."

Roberts said the Board of Education will continue to listen to and answer questions regarding the District's operations.

Willey takes oath; three councilmen absent

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell

HARRINGTON. The annual election held the second Tuesday in January has not settled the discord within the Harrington City Council. The reorganization of a new council held the Wednesday following the election could not be completed due to this discord. This leaves the city of Harrington unable to operate legally.

Last Wednesday night, newly elected councilman Morris E. "Bob" Willey was sworn in as a formality. At the meeting Councilman James Temple pointed out that councilmen Coleman, Brown and Wyatt were absent from a most important meeting...to welcome new Councilman Willey to the council. "To me this appears to be a slap in the face to him (Willey) and if it is true, then I feel they should not be allowed to sit at this table again," said Temple.

Without a reorganization, the city is without a treasurer, clerk to the council, vice mayor, solicitor, and city manager. At Wednesday's meeting other business of reorganization was not completed. Mayor Farrow said later he would "prefer reorganization under a full council, which will necessitate the election in the 2nd Ward."

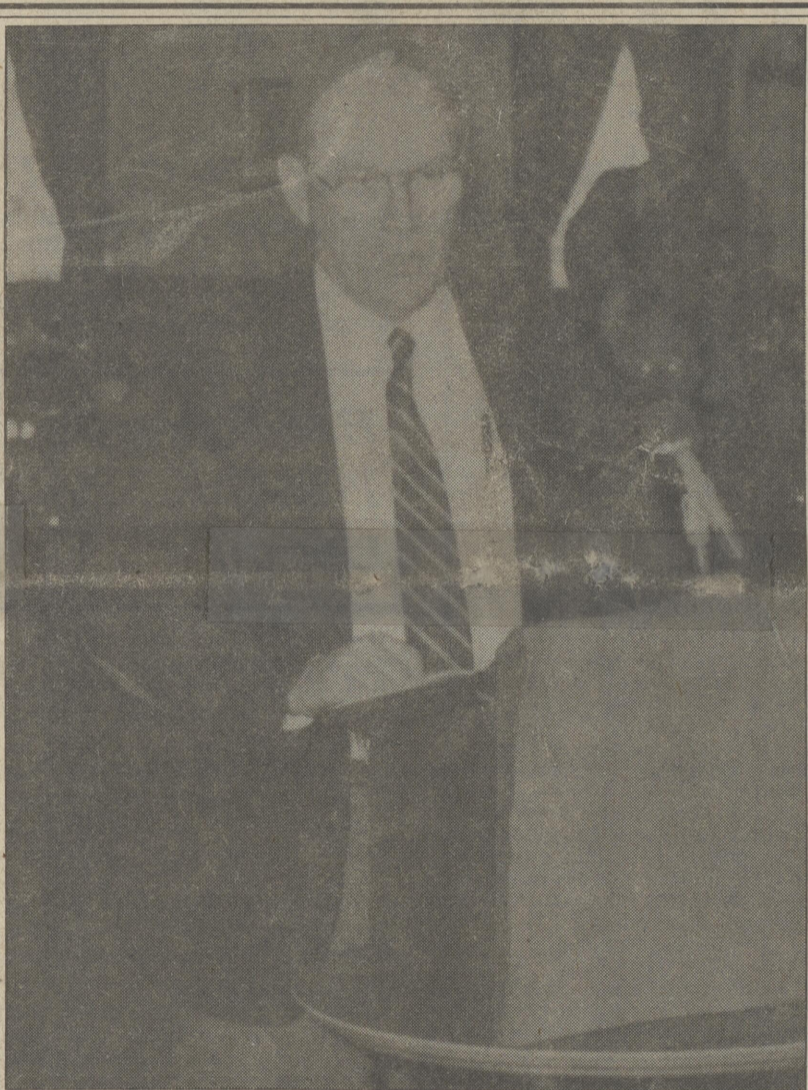

The Mayor indicated following the meeting that he was in favor of an election for the 2nd Ward. He reasoned that in the emergency meeting called shortly before the polls were to open last Tuesday, at the insistence of the attorney general's office, "when council voted to throw out Mr. Porter's petition and Mr. Englehardt withdrew his name shortly after the council adjourned and before the polls opened, this meant there was no viable candidate for Ward 2. Therefore, there has never been an election in Ward 2."

"One of our most sacred rights in a free democracy is the right to vote, and I feel very strongly about the fact that the residents of Ward 2 have not had that right. It was taken from them. A vote is an expression of one's rights", Farrow said.

The Mayor said earlier in various meetings with the council that a petition is nothing more than a show of support and is not regarded as a voting instrument. "If a person has substantially complied with the requirements as best he or she could than that, plus the over all picture, should be the determination", he added.

Mayor Farrow called a news conference for Friday, Jan. 15th at the Colony Inn, Harrington, to discuss matters pertaining to Tuesday's election.

Harrington Mayor holds press conference--discusses election problems

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell

HARRINGTON. Mayor Harry G. Farrow, Jr. invited the working press to Harrington on Friday for an opportunity to discuss the events leading up to last Tuesday's election as well as the post election events.

The Mayor stated that the magic language "on the day of the election" literally means, when the polls open determines at that point in time who is running for the office.

"At the time the polls opened, there were no candidates, because following the striking of Mr. Porter's name from the ballot, Mr. Englehardt, declared the winner, resigned thereby leaving no names on the ballot when the polls were to open", stated the Mayor.

Later the Mayor stated that it was suggested by the attorney general's office that it was necessary to obtain a legal opinion on the matter and be guided accordingly. The Mayor said he obtained a legal opinion on Wednesday morning in which it was affirmed that in fact, there had not been an election in the 2nd Ward. Mayor Farrow went to reorganization meeting on Wednesday evening with this advise for the council. On this basis the Mayor issued a request that the council hold an election in the 2nd Ward within 30 days in order to have a complete council with representation for the 2nd Ward.

Mayor Farrow also pointed out that by not having a reorganization meeting on Wednesday night that the City was paralyzed. "We needed to appoint a clerk to the council, a vice mayor, a treasurer, city solicitor, and a city manager. Without these appointments, the City cannot operate its affairs legally," he said. "It also meant that a Personnel Committee could not be formed which is also vital to the city affairs", he stated.

During the news conference the Mayor made mention to holding a public forum the latter part of this coming week. This meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday night at the Harrington Senior Center. The Mayor is urging that all residents of the 2nd Ward attend this meeting for the purposes of stating the issues involved in the election and petition signing. "It is very important that all citizens of the 2nd Ward attend this meeting", Farrow said.

Harrington Journal owner's son injured in auto accident

HOLLANDSVILLE, DE—David Farrow, 18, of Harrington, was injured in a one-car accident Monday night. Other passengers were not injured. All were released from Kent General Hospital following an examination.

The accident occurred as a result of the dense fog that fell over the area which began forming shortly after 4 p.m. The car, being operated by Mr. Farrow, passed through the stop sign at County Route 58, Hollandville, crossed Route 12, entered and exited a five-foot ditch before coming to rest on the front yard of Mr. Richard Robinson. Mr. Farrow suffered a broken nose.

Open Forum Thursday for Ward 2 residents

Mayor Farrow has announced an Open Forum for the residents of Ward 2 in Harrington for Thursday, January 21st 1988 beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Harrington Senior Center. All residents of Ward 2 in Harrington are urged to attend this very important meeting to discuss the post issues of the recent City election in Harrington. Guidelines for a proposed election and a petition will be offered. Your presence is requested.

VanSciver is not a candidate

Rumors were put to rest during the January 18 meeting of the Lake Forest Board of Education regarding the possible candidacy of Superintendent Dr. James H. VanSciver for the 33rd Representative District.

"There has been considerable discussion around here about this matter," said Board President H. Earl Roberts. "We felt it very important to put this issue to rest. "Dr. VanSciver is not a candidate."

Meatland expands top management

Nick Styke, President of Eastern Shore Markets, Inc., owner and operator of the Meatland and Food City supermarket chain, has announced the appointment of two new Vice Presidents and an Executive Vice President. Such appointments were made to expand top management in order to prepare for expansion of the Food City division during the next five years. According to current plans, three new Food City stores are to be opened each year during that period.

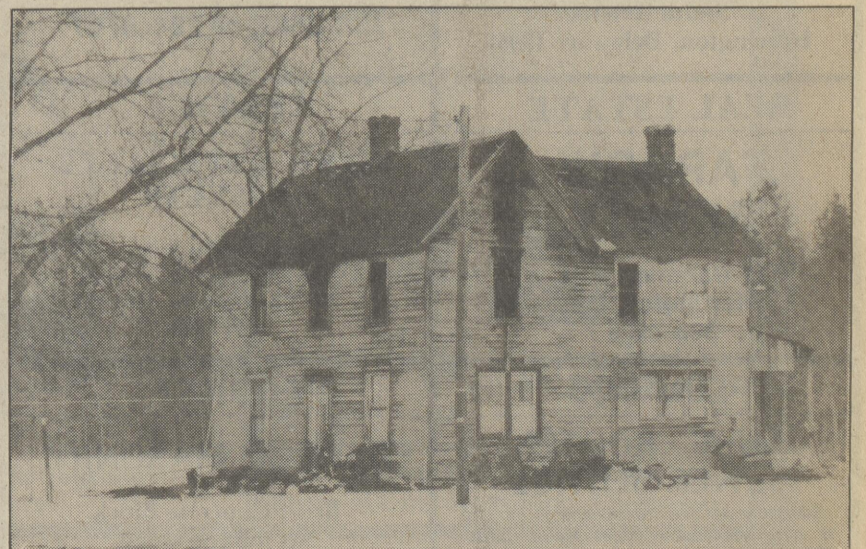

To keep pace with such accelerated growth, Styke said that new management will be added to the organization during 1988. Beside Styke as President and Chief Executive Officer, the new positions and promotions include: Martin Atkins to Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer; Hall D. Reed, Jr. to Vice President of Retail Operations; N. Lee Trapp to Vice President and Chief Financial Officer; Wade Shrieves to Manager of Purchasing Dept.; Richard Iobst to Manager of Maintenance Dept.; Mary Clanton to Manager of Personal Dept.; Rodger Styke to Director of Data Processing Dept.; Roger Bradley to Northern Division Manager; David Douglas to Southern Division Manager; Henry Babic to Garden Center and Floral Dept. Manager. Laurina Styke will continue as Corporate Secretary.

In conclusion, Styke said that these appointments and promotions will facilitate the company's continued growth and expansion into new areas of the Eastern Shore.

Beyond Our Asking

More than our hearts can imagine or minds comprehend,

God's bountiful gifts are ours without end,

We ask for a cupful when the vast sea is ours,

We pick a small rosebud from a garden of flowers,

We reach for a sunbeam but the sun still abides,

We draw one short breath but there's air on all sides,

Whatever we ask for falls short of God's giving

For His greatness exceeds every facet of living.

The Kalmr Nyckel Commemorative Committee and the Delaware Heritage Commission will sponsor the First-Day-of-Issue ceremony for the New Sweden stamp (pictured above) on March 29, 1988 in Wilmington, Delaware.

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell 398-8551

Friday afternoon guest of Crystal Mears was her friend, Roberta Mitchell. The girls enjoyed the day playing together. Roberta was also a dinner guest of the Mears'.

Chester and Donna Hill, near Harrington have recently returned from a two week vacation in Florida. They stayed with Thomas and Thelma McFarland and children in Orlando. But it's nice to be back home.

Susan Larimore spent Friday afternoon shopping with her mother in Dover.

Mr. & Mrs. Robert D. Algier of Lewes

visited with Don and Bonnie Mitchell on Sunday. The foursome spent the afternoon riding around the countryside visiting the area where "Thumper" and I grew up. A good time was had by all!

Visiting with Roberta Mitchell and brother, Shane Larimore on Sunday was their cousin, Brooke Blake of Lewes. It was so nice to have her spend the afternoon, hope to have her visit again real soon!

Celebrating birthdays this month--Toby Kenyon and Rick Welch, both of Harrington, Larry Cannon and Larry 'Babe' Depew, both of Greenwood. You guys thought you had been forgotten, didn't ya!

Also very Happy Birthday wishes to Master Jake Porter, who celebrates his 2nd birthday on Jan. 24th, Elena Paladino who celebrated her 19th on Tues. the 19th, and to my 'Thumper', Monday, Jan. 25th.

Bicentennial portrait to be displayed at the Sussex County Courthouse

In celebration of Delaware's historic role in the founding and ratification of the United States Constitution and the landing of the first European colony in Wilmington, Delaware in 1638, a special bicentennial project was completed by inmate artists of the Sussex Correctional Institution in Georgetown. Jack Lewis, noted Bridgeville watercolorist, was the instructor, made possible through a grant from the Sussex County Council. Mr. Lewis was the 1981 recipient of the Governor's Award for the Visual Arts and has authored and illustrated two books, The Bay and River Delaware, 1980 and The Arno in Florence, 1984. Mr. Lewis has recently completed a group of historic Delaware scenes which have been mounted in Legislative Hall in Dover.

Three inmate artists completed the four feet by eight feet mural in three sections. The first section was painted by former seaman, Robert Martin. His depiction of the Swedish ship, KALMAR NYCKEL, at anchor, while Delaware Indians look on from the shoreline, has great depth and is an intriguing presentation of that historic event.

Inmate artist, Debro Davis, painted the center panel, which presents an abstract view of historic Old Swedes Church. Old Swedes' cemetery contains the remains of some of Delaware's ancestral leaders. It is still in use as a Protestant Episcopal church and is believed to be the oldest church in continuous use in the nation.

The third inmate artist, David Dutton, has portrayed Delaware's "Paul Revere", Caesar Rodney, on his famous ride toward Philadelphia, through rural pre-"Delaware" landscape. Dutton has painted a scarf over Caesar Rodney's face to hide his facial cancer, which is historically correct.

In July of last year, this bicentennial mural was on display in the Wilmington office of Mayor Daniel Frawley, after having been unveiled by Delaware Heritage representative, Ruth Crosson.

In August, Mayor John Hughes unveiled the mural at the Convention Center in Rehoboth Beach. The mural remained there on public display for two weeks.

On August 20, Mayor Crawford Carroll unveiled the mural outside of the Dover City Council Chamber.

Following the Dover City Hall unveiling, the mural was moved to the Visitors Center near The Green, where it remained on view for six weeks.

Most recently, the mural has hung in the visiting room of the Closed Custody Building at the Sussex prison in Georgetown.

This painting has now been exhibited statewide and will be permanently hung in the Sussex County Courthouse. Fred Mertes, the County Administrator accepted the portrait and plaque, on behalf of the Sussex County Council, (the portrait's original benefactor), from Kay Wood Bailey, the Arts Program Administrator of the Delaware Department of Correction. This dedication took place in the Sussex County Courthouse on January 12, 1988.

Dick and Clara Crouse honored by Harrington Moose Lodge

by Ted Layton, Publicity

The Harrington Loyal Order of Moose and Chapter are honored this year by having both the Md., Del., D.C. Moose Association President and W.O.T.M. Deputy Grand Regent for Md., Del., D.C. area.

Our Lodge and Chapter honored Dick and Clara Crouse on January 16th with a social hour, buffet dinner and dance.

Many state officers and co-workers participated in a fun hour of "Roasting" Dick and Clara along with many words of praise. These two individuals have put in countless hours of dedicated work to make us a greater Lodge and Chapter.

Harrington Moose Notes

The Loyal Order of Moose is a fraternal organization. That means, its members follow the principle: "One for all and all for one." It has a combined membership of over 1,772,000 men and women located throughout the United States, Canada, and Great Britain.

Striving together in fraternal spirit, members help one another in need. They established and maintain the 1,200 acre "Child City" of Mooseheart located just west of Chicago, Illinois. Mooseheart provides for the care of children of members under circumstances of need. There, children are housed in a home-like atmosphere, educated through high school, including vocational training provided, college scholarships given comprehensive health care, provided religious training in the faith of their parents, and provided many athletic and recreational programs.

Moose members also established and maintain the "City of Contentment" known as Moosehaven located in Orange Park, Florida. There, members 65 years of age or older and in need spend their retiring years in complete dignity and enjoyment. Moosehaven is a retirement village where there is always something to do—from going to a dinner-theatre outing to participating in arts and crafts.

And every Moose member as well as members of his family have the opportunity to enjoy the Moose Program and facilities of the Lodge and Chapter Home. The Moose Program in every Lodge consists of social events involving parties and dances with refreshments. The program also includes community service projects to help other people in need. Sports, such as bowling, golf, horseshoes, pool and baseball are also part of the Moose Program.

Yes, these activities represent the fraternal benefits of the Loyal Order of Moose in the spirit of "One for all and all for one."

Our new SafeRate CD

With the new SafeRate CD from Sussex Trust, you can profit when interest rates rise, and you don't have to worry if they drop. Because this special certificate guarantees your rate will never go lower than on the day you opened the account.

It offers a rare combination of security and financial opportunity, and it's one more example of how Sussex Trust is working to meet your needs. Open this 24-month CD with a minimum deposit of $2,500. You'll get the benefits of a variable rate that can be adjusted monthly to correspond to the market. ## Asbury United Methodist Church

Pastor William Dore.

"And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be delivered." Joel 2:32

On Sunday morning Gary and Eleanor Homewood, on behalf of family and friends, presented two beautiful candelabra in loving memory of Mildred and Howard Wagner. We gratefully accept this gift in memory of these two fine Christians whose lives touched so many of our Asbury family.

Next Sunday we welcome the Reverend Dr. Gordon Stapleton as guest speaker. Pastor and Mrs. Dore will be on vacation.

nuts available. Contact Betty Taylor if you would like some.

CATCH THE SPIRIT! On Sunday mornings at 8:30 on WBOC, Channel 16. This new United Methodist program helps us to live our faith through all that life throws at us. Many relevant issues are discussed, for instance: Security—Most people spend their lives trying to find security. They try to earn it. Buy it. Steal it. Legislate it. And negotiate for it. But they rarely succeed. As United Methodists, we've found security. True security, the security that comes from depending on each other and on God. Tune in!

Serving next Sunday—Acolyte: Mark Breeding. Nursery: Mary Ann & Lisa Wilson. Greeters: Mr. & Mrs. David Adams.

Coming Up: Sunday, 2 p.m.—Christian Peace Express meets; 6 p.m.—Youth Group meets.

Did You Know? In December 1934 the American flag was presented to the church by the Men's Booster Class, and the Christian flag was presented by the Ever Ready Worker's Class.

"Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life." 1 Timothy 6:12.

Volunteers are still needed to contribute Lenten Devotions for the Asbury Visitors. They need not be long or fancy. The devotions are a real blessing, so please help make sure each day of the Lenten season is covered. Contact Francis Mason if you will help.

The Prayer Chain at Asbury is an active group, uplifting concerns of fellow Christians. If you would like to be a member of the Prayer Chain or wish to have a concern or situation uplifted in prayer, contact Kathy Monroe at 998-8482.

Worship Service: Acolyte was Jean Miller, ushers were Herman and Jane Zeidler. Scripture was read by Vivian Dill. Jane Everline gave the children's sermon. Using a shoe, Jane explained a shoe had parts with the same names as parts of our body. A shoe's eyes, tongue and sole, however, cannot work for God. Using several Bible verses she explained how our eyes, tongue and soul are for God's glory and how we were bought with a price - the blood of Jesus Christ. Shoes are no good until they are put to use - we are commanded by Jesus to "Go Ye Into All The World and Preach the Gospel."

Rev. Holliday's sermon was entitled "What You Need Is What You See." Different people see Jesus differently based on the perception of their needs. John the Baptist saw Jesus as the Lamb of God. The disciples saw Jesus as a teacher. Andrew saw Him as the Christ. How do you see Jesus?

Trinity United Methodist Church

Rev. Joseph V. Holliday, Jr.

O. God we work hard at making a good life. Then all which looked good seems to weight us down as a burden, rather than lift us as a blessing. We become possessed by life instead of possessing it. Forgive us when we live as if this world were an end in itself. Help us to live in preparation for a richer life in your Kingdom with our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Senior Choir anthem, "My Jesus, I Love Thee" with Mrs. Betty Wix soloist.

Scripture—Old Testament Psalm 63:1-

8; New Testament John 1: 29-42 was read by Leory Calhoun.

Message of the morning sermon—"What You Need Is What You See."

Friendly Greeter—Mrs. Alma Smith. Ushers—Norman Brown and Wayne Porter.

Acolyte—Darrin Lawson.

"And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death" Revelation 12:11

Real Christianity has never been overcome by Satan and his forces. Satan, already defeated by "the blood of the Lamb", knows that his time is short. He uses all the power at his disposal to try to lead astray all who will listen to him. We should not underestimate the power of Satan to lead us into sin and thus weaken our influence for God. Neither should we underestimate the marvelous grace and sovereign power of God to help us understand the "wiles of the devil", thus enabling us to overcome Satan's influence.

ATV safety course well attended

by Don Mitchell

HARRINGTON. Saturday, January 15th the University of Delaware Extension office and the First State ATV Club offered a safety course at the Delaware State Fairgrounds in Harrington. The course was for young and old alike.

The instructors, Herb Clendaniel of Diamond Motor Sports and Derrick Turner of L & D Cycle, gave one hour of classroom instruction. In the classroom they covered safety equipment such as helmets, boots, chest protectors and shin pads.

Outside they inspected the ATV's before they were allowed on a course the instructors had laid out. As the class progressed the emphasis was on safety.

Ron Jester of the University of Delaware Extension Service commented, "this is the second year the course has been offered and there has been a lot of positive feedback from these courses."

Next Saturday morning there will be a Farm Accident Seminar at Carlisle Fire Hall in Milford. Lunch will be served. The program is being offered by the extension service. Anyone interested in attending this program can contact Ron Jester at the Georgetown office at 856-7303.

W.T. Chipman rolls over Sussex Central & Caesar Rodney

by Don Mitchell

In the game against Sussex Central Jr. High last Monday, Chipman once again showed they are a team with a goal. In the first half Kenny Bailey (#24) and Jermaine Harmon (#35) did what they do best...rack up points. When these guys get on a roll there seems to be no stopping them.

When Chipman came out for the second half they were still charged up. Kenny Bailey was sneaking around stealing the ball away from the Sussex Central players. He would have the ball and be gone before the player realized the ball was gone. The team was working well together.

Coach Probst sent in #5 Jason DeMora, small in stature but big on speed and agility, when he had the ball he left the opponents defense in a state of confusion.

When the clock ran out the score stood at 56-33, Chipman again taking the victory.

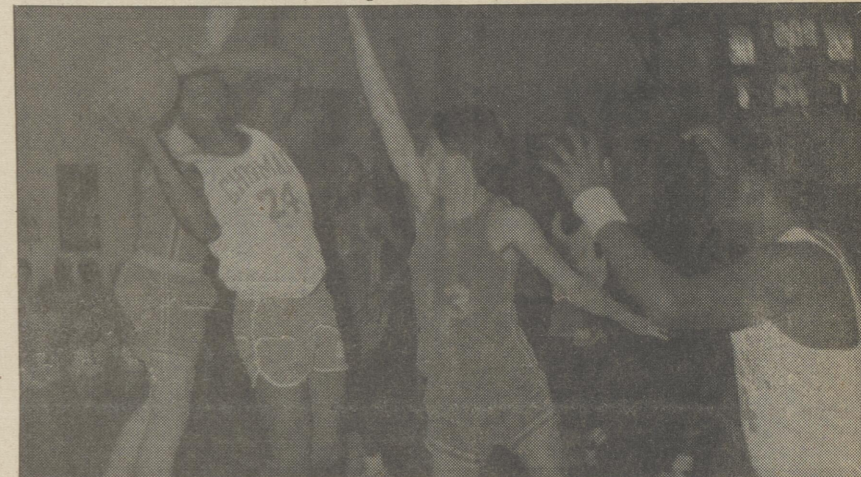

Thursday's game with Caesar Rodney was a tight one. At the end of the first quarter Chipman was down by eleven points, at the half--seven.

Coach Probst must have charged them up at half time...because they came back to win the game with a 55-53 victory over C.R. Kenny Bailey and Jermaine Harmon each scoring 22 points.

Coach Probst has a team to be proud of, and it's evident that they all work together as a team.

Merrywerollalong named December Horse of the Month

COLUMBUS, OH (USTA)--Val d'Or Farms Merrywerollalong, who was a perfect three-for-three during the month, was named December Horse of the Month by the U.S. Trotting Association.

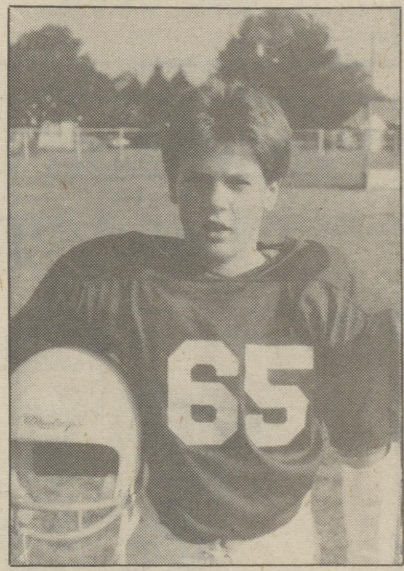

The most important of his three wins was a 1:54 mile in the $123,550 Matron Stakes at Pompano Park. In that one, he left from the number four spot, raced "parked-out" through every step of the mile, and took the lead as the field reached the 3/4-mile marker. From there on, he held Golden Greek and Lasting Image safe to score a 1-4 length victory.

Merrywerollalong's other two December tallies came in the Invitational Handicap ranks, over the same Florida oval. On December 12, following a three week layoff, he raced to a 1:55-3/5 victory, and then followed that with a 1:56-4/5 score. Both were come-from-behind tallies.

Merrywerollalong spent most of the year chasing the best 3-year-old pacing colts in the country, and failed to visit the winner's circle in his first 20 starts of the year. His current four race win skein has pushed his career bankroll to $244,385.

He is trained by Eddie Howard, for the Jerry Silverman Stable, and is driven regularly by Richie Silverman.

Taylor helps Shepard College defeat Wesley 90-45

DOVER -- Teresa Taylor, daughter of Robert and Betty Taylor (Taylor's Hardware) and sophomore at Shepherd College invaded Wesley College on Friday where the two teams met on the basketball court of Wesley College.

Although Teresa did not start the game, she contributed to her team's win by scoring 17 points. The lanky graduate of Lake Forest High School was a star center and forward on Coach Pat Dyal-Borowski's varsity basketball team. She was usually the leading scorer on the girl's basketball team.

Shepherd downed Wesley 90-45. Shepherd squared off against Wilmington College on Saturday and turned the New Castle team away 87-64. Teresa scored 9 in that game. She entered the game during the last half of the second quarter and parts of the remaining two quarters.

Shepherd is now 10-2 overall.

Lake Forest Community swim team promotes swim-a-thon

Swimmers on the Lake Forest Community Swim Team are earnestly searching for sponsors for the annual Swim-A-Thon. The Swim-A-Thon is the primary fund raising project for the swim team. Members of the team solicit sponsors, who pledge an amount of money for every length of the pool the swimmer completes. The funds collected are used to purchase equipment and materials that enhance the competitive swimming program. Fifteen percent of all the money collected is sent to United States Swimming, United States Swimming in turn uses these funds to finance national competition and the Olympic swim team. Sponsors of Lake Forest swimmers not only help the local team, but also support the sport of swimming in the United States.

Last year, through the generosity of the community, the team was able to raise over $5000. This year's goal is $7000. The Lake Forest Community Swim Team continues to grow through community support. Anyone interested in supporting the team can call Coach Dennis Davis at 284-9816 for details.

Spartan boys varsity basketball team wins two

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL. As reported in last week's edition of The Harrington Journal, the varsity boys basketball team turned back a good CR team in the fading minutes of the ball game 58-57. Sharp shooting by the Spartans and clutch defense spelled the difference.

The Thursday night game against Indian River was also on the side of the Spartans as the boys turned back the Indians 62-58 in a hard fought game on the home court of the Sussex Countians.

"I was real proud of the guys for coming back against CR after having lost to them during the Christmas tournament. The reason we won is that the kids are beginning to believe in themselves", said a proud Spartan coach, Bill Falasco.

"When you start believing in yourselves you are also doing all of the other things right too...like working together", he added. "You must know you can win or the game is going to be very close each time you come on court", he said.

The Spartans won the game at the foul stripe sinking 18 out of 24 to have the edge there. "in the second half we got points when we needed them in the clutch...and that is very vital", he said.

The man to man defense switching to the zone trap kept CR just enough off stride to never get complete control of the game.

"We knew we were up against a strong team (Indian River) because they have a few guys that can put the three pointer through the hoop", said Coach Falasco. "Our defense was the real key plus timely shooting", said the coach.

Ray Smith threw in 17 while Tony Bray and Craig Custis scored 12 and 15 respectively. "Mac (Holmes) was again a real key factor because he pulled down rebounds in the double digits (13) which I don't think he has failed to do since the first game. I think Mac is the key to our future winning ways in the years ahead for us", said Coach Falasco. Coach Falasco added that Craig Custis and Jason Tiggs are also very good rebounders.

Danny Demora lent real stability to our attack as the third man in bringing the ball up court along with Ray Smith and Tony Bray", he added.

Demora's performance in both the CR and IR games were additional spark that was needed to win the game.

The Spartans now are 4-3 over all and 2-2 in the conference, tied for second place in the southern conference.

Coach Falasco said he is looking down the road at the Woodbridge game which is a repeat, but this time it will be played on the Spartans' court. "We were wiped out by Woodbridge...but it was their home court (Death Valley) and the temperature inside was 55 degrees," said Coach Falasco. The Spartans were very cold as they were 13 for 66 shots from the field. "Woodbridge had practiced during the Christmas recess in the cold gym so they were used to it...we just about froze. When someone asks me if it was cold...I say you could see your breath...you figure it out", he said.

FALASCO'S PEAS IN A POD: Floyd

Holmes can come off the bench...plays real hard and does a good job in that respect. Hard to get kids out for the sport because of where the high school is located...poses a real transportation problem. Terraine Giddens appears to be just a little nervous...looking for more consistency and I think we can have a fairly good player.

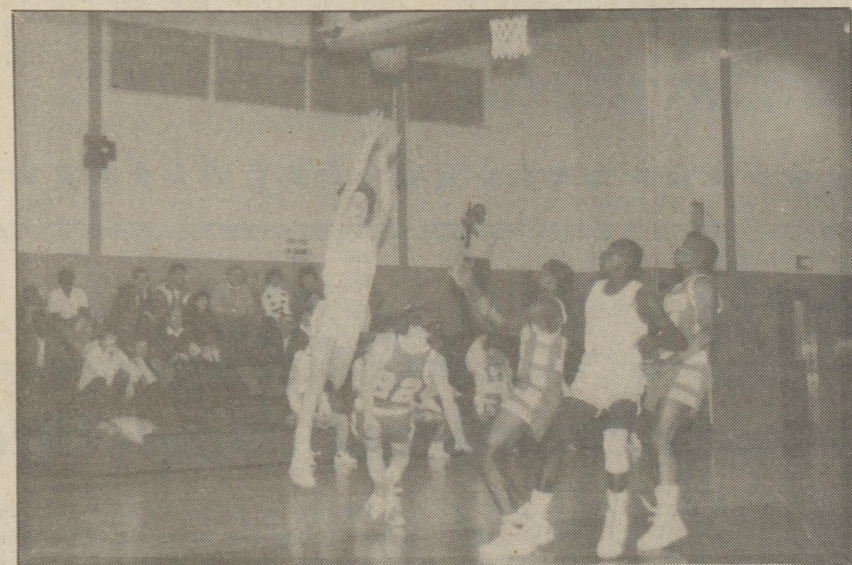

Spartans face Delmar (Tuesday) and Sussex Central on Friday. Delmar has the leading scorer in conference. Two games he scored over 30 points, and Seaford a real good northern division team, tied with Delmar.

The Lake Forest Athletic Boosters Club will hold a meeting, January 21st at 7:30 p.m., at the Lake Forest High School auditorium.

Parents of all Lake Forest athletes are encouraged to attend, along with other fans and friends.

W.T. Chipman is six for six

by Don Mitchell
HARRINGTON. In Monday's game against the Millford Middle School, the Chipman "Machine" rolled on for yet another victory. This brings a total of six wins and no losses, as of yet, this season.

Chipman started the game in a mellow mood and cruised through the first half, ending it with a score of 28-26. When they came back for the 3rd quarter they started shifting gears and burning up the court. Jermaine Harmon (#35) was again smoking the competition and racking up points, while Kenny Bailey (#24) was scoring his share of points and making some great turnovers. They ended the 3rd quarter with a 13 point lead over Millford.

Chipman came back in the 4th quarter and slid into high, the spectators saw some great shots from Terrence Benson (#25) and Mark Bordley (#23). Gary Harris (#10) lobbed in a couple of foul shots and Jason DeMora (#5) played a good defensive game as well as sinking a couple of foul shots himself.

This is a great bunch of kids, that can play well under pressure. They are a team that Coach Probst, students and faculty, and most of all, parents can be proud of.

Jermaine Harmon dropped a couple of foul shots in to add to the score against Millford Middle School Monday afternoon. Final score 67-47. Photo by Don Mitchell.

VanSciver named top pitcher in Eastern Shore League

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
SALISBURY, MD — On Saturday night at the annual awards banquet for the Eastern Shore Baseball League (ESBL), Lake Forest School Superintendent Dr. James H. VanSciver was named "The Outstanding Pitcher" for the 1987 season.

Dr. VanSciver, a southpaw, had a 9-1 record with 1 save, an average of 5 strikeouts per game allowing an average of 5 hits and 1 walk per game and posting an Earned Run Average (ERA) of 1.00 per game.

Asked what his best pitch is, he responded "No one has a so called best pitch all summer. The key is pacing yourself."

Dr. VanSciver, at 39 years old, is the co-holder of the oldest player active in ESBL. "At my age I have to really pace myself. I know that I must also play within myself...meaning not over do it...become a pitcher versus a thrower," he added.

In college, Dr. VanSciver said "I had a lot of speed, and the theory was here is my fast ball. Hit it if you can." Dr. VanSciver said he relies more now on setting a batter up "...watch for the hitch in their swing...look for weakness and deal accordingly."

Dr. VanSciver played for Peaky's. He pitched in the All Star game and got the win pitching 3 scoreless innings. In the baseball tournament held each August, "Perdue picked me up and I beat a Brooklyn, N.Y. team...which made me feel pretty good."

Dr. VanSciver said he tried to epitomize his baseball interest after those of fellow Lewes natives Johnny Morris, who pitched for the San Francisco Giants and Chris Short who pitched for the Phillies. "The person I feel has kept me in this game by continuing to look up to him is Pete Rose...Mr. Hustle. Someone once said it takes Rose 4.5 seconds to get down to first base...yes, but that is under a walk situation."

Guest speakers at the banquet were Ken Gerhardt of the Orioles and Phil Wood, talk show host for WCBM in Baltimore. Wood, long recognized as one of the finest baseball analysts in the field had alot to say about the 1988 Orioles.

Some notes from Phil Wood's locker: Gerhardt will start in left or center field; Mike Boddicker might be a Yankee before the start of the 88 season; definitely need a left handed reliever; Stan Stanccheck, a good shortstop prospect, might be developed into an outfielder in spring training; club lacks depth...consequently Wood sees the Orioles as a very strong 6th place club; praises Ripkin, Sr. for his desire...but hands are tied with long term contracts with certain players; thinks there is a great inconsistency in the strike zone...even between leagues, thinks Jay Buter is a good prospect; feels Terry Crowley has helped Ken Gerhardt to the extent that he may be the single most reason why Ken is in the majors...Crowley opened Ken's stance up so much that he actually faces the third baseman were some of the conversation in open session at the banquet.

Ken Gerhardt feels Frank Tanana is the toughest pitcher he has had to face in the American League. On all pitches always looking for fast ball.

More Wood notes: Jim Traber should be traded, thought he should have gone to the Cards when Clark signed with the Yankees but no condition send Traber back to the minors...trade for anything; says Traber is very discouraged and wants to play in the major, thinks he can make a lot of clubs and he has nothing to prove in the minors; Tom Dodd will not make it to the majors as a player, wants to be a coach and manager...is a real student of the game; Herme Starrett is the new pitching coach replacing Mark Wiley who had instructed many of the pitchers on last year's staff in the minors, but what Ripkin found to be true was these players lacked fundamental knowledge of the game...like how to field bunts and hold runners at first...this was unbelievably bad and was fired as a result of that; Tippy Martinez will not get an invitation back to try and make it in spring training but has been given one by the Braves; Fred Lynn is hurt a lot and when something is wrong he will not play which Wood feels breaks up the consistency needed in the lineup. Just as soon as you get a winning streak going last year the line up changed. Lynn does want to play 150 games but it is unlikely...if he could the Orioles would improve in standings; calls Dave Schmidt the ace of the staff at 10-5...but got a late start as a starter. He was used as a reliever at first...and Orioles want him back as a reliever...and he wants to start...already there is discord; best trade the last two years involved Mike Flannagan to Toronto for Jose Mesa and Oswals Peraga...who will become very good players for the Orioles some day; where should a kid go to college today to play baseball and have a shot at the majors...Arizona State, Oklahoma and Oklahoma State...and even George Mason in Fairfax County, Va.; pitchers and catchers have to report to spring training on the 18 of February.

The Eastern Shore League inducted 13 into their Hall of Fame on Saturday night and the inductees were from three categories--boosters, umpires and players. That part of the program was handled by Norris "Scorchy" Tawes of WBOC-TV. Scorchy was a player at one point in the Eastern Shore League.

Those inducted were from the Boosters: 1. Don Jones; and 2. Bill Bounds. From the Umpires: 1. Carl Pollitt, Jr.; 2. Omar Scott and 3. Charles Mosley. From the Players: 1. Ernie Nichols; 2. Hank Clayton; 3. Archie Coloma; 4. Dick Evans; 5. Bill Murray; 6. Bill Pope; 7. Kerman "Buddy" Smith; and 8. Dick Townsend.

Those wishing to become a member of the Eastern Shore League as opposed to being a player may do so by sending a check for $15 to the ESBL Foundation, P.O. Box 271, Salisbury, Md. 21801.

Dr. James H. VanSciver, left, shares his trophy with John Swain who helped Dr. VanSciver prepare for the 1987 Eastern Shore Baseball League season. "John worked out with me every morning last season. He would appear around 6 a.m. for drills which with out him I am sure I would not have made it through last season", Dr. VanSciver told a capacity crowd in the Ruth Powell Dining Hall at Salisbury State College on Saturday night. Photo by HGF.

Dear Editor:

Those against cruelty will welcome opportunity to support SB-242 which would ban cruel leghold traps in Delaware. Yes, once and for all! Please also ask your friends to help.

Mrs. Adele W. Zencak
Milford

To The Residents of Ward 2:
I would like to take this opportunity to extend my sincere thanks to all of the residents of Ward 2 in Harrington. So many of you good folks turned out last Tuesday, January 12, to exercise your God-given right to vote and were turned away from the polls. I am sincerely sorry that the problem I had with my petition was not rectified before voting time on Tuesday. And I assure all of you that the "too many signatures" on my petition was an honest mistake. I will be sure to "ask" for precise instructions before ever filing in the city of Harrington again.

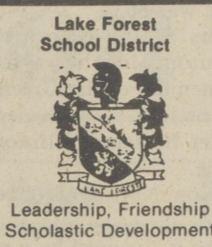

Again I would like to thank each and every citizen who braved the bone chilling cold and icy streets to cast their vote for a councilman in the second ward. As I went door-to-door in this city, I discovered old friends whom I had lost contact with through the years, and I made new friends. I was born and raised in this town, and I chose to remain in this town and raise my family. No matter how many miles I travel, when I get within ten miles of Harrington, I know I am almost "home"! What a fantastic time my wife and I had, being welcomed into each home and sharing old times with people I had known since I was a little boy. And then meeting folks who have moved here from other areas and discovered that they can't leave this little town once their feet are planted. Please do not let the problems of last Tuesday keep you away from the polls in the future. My wish is to return the government to the people, and with your help we can do this.

With heartfelt thanks,
Bill Porter

Museums or hospitals

Sitting in church one Sunday, I listened as the minister explored the role of religion. This particular sermon addressed the age old argument about christians not being perfect and the congregation being sprinkled with those who may not be as enthusiastic about the mission of religion as others.

A single statement touched off a sensitive chord in me. "Churches should not be museums for saints; churches should be hospitals for sinners."

Wow!

I had never really thought of it from that perspective before. What an awakening for me.

Sitting in the church, I mused at how I could ponder that topic of taboo, school and religion at the same moment.

The question was and is, could not the same hold true for schools?

Should schools be museums for those who already know; for those who get perfect scores on each test; for those who never miss a day; for those who have the necessary skills needed or one who will function productively in society?

Or, should schools be hospitals for those who don't know, for those who struggle to get just passing marks; for those whose attendance is always suspect; for those whose socialization skills are severely underdeveloped?

Should we boast of the performance of the gifted yet languish at the misfortune of those not so gifted? Should we condemn those who put forth the ultimate effort, but still fail to reach some of our children.

Or should we realize that, if all students know how to learn; if they all had perfect attendance; if they all know how to deal with each other, they wouldn't be children? Certainly, they wouldn't be children in need of our present system of schooling.

Could we not simply point them in the direction of a well-equipped library and get out of their way?

The point is, schools are a little of both. They are museums to showcase the accomplishments of some, yet they remain hospitals for those who are in need of much attention and guidance.

We should be proud that there is such a system which is able to deal with the complexities of such a diverse population.

Such is the mission of the public school.

For me, I further rejoice that we live in a place, in a time, where I may sit in a church and consider the mission of public education, despite the doctrine of separation of church and state!

A laff a day...

by William T. Ficka

A mother starts molding a boy from the day he is born. She keeps molding him for 20 years but the job is still not complete. A pretty girl comes along and marries the boy—then he is finished.

While the workaholic was as busy as a bee the guy on welfare stole his honey.

A man has more sense after he's married—his wife has the dollars.

The Biden Report

by Senator Joseph R. Biden

I was far from home, on a mission for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to discuss the INF treaty with the leaders of Germany, France, Britain, and the Soviet Union, when I received word of the death of Senator John J. Williams. Perhaps that's why the news inspired such a keen sense of loss, not only for Delaware but for the nation.

Certainly, we can never forget the unassuming Millsboro grain dealer who became "the conscience of the United States Senate," where he represented Delaware for 24 years. He was not an ordinary man.

I was only three years old when John Williams was first elected to the Senate. It was only two years before I became a senator myself when he announced his retirement. It did not seem possible that the Senate could convene without John Williams in the Chamber. It was, in many ways, the end of an era. It was -- to me, to most Delawareans and to many Americans -- a matter of deep regret, although it was admirable of John Williams, and entirely typical, that he made his own decision.

He was always a man who knew his own mind, and he was much more than that. He was also a man of unexampled honesty and absolute integrity. He made the headlines, and he earned them, by his hard-hitting investigations of the Commodity Credit Corporation, President Eisenhower's top aide Sherman Adams, the Internal Revenue Service, and Lyndon Johnson's chief Senate aide Bobby Baker. When it came to honesty in government, he always let the chips fall where they might.

But when it came to his reputation among his Senate colleagues, more than anything else, it was his sense of honor--the nation's honor, the Senate's honor and his own honor--that earned him their highest respect. John Williams, very simply, believed in doing what was right, and it was not in him to see his country, his government or himself do otherwise. He was that rarest and most precious expression of true civility, a genuine man of honor.

I realize that my comment, like his virtue, has an old-fashioned ring to it. Nobody talks much about "honor" these days, and I'm afraid not many of us think about it very much. Doing right for its own sake, seeking excellence as a real achievement rather than as a slogan, is not much in fashion. Yet we need only look to John Williams, as he served in the Senate, as he lived among us as our neighbor in Delaware and as we will all remember him, to realize that honor is a concept and a trait of great value, no matter how old-fashioned it may seem at the moment.

The fact is, I suspect, that persons of such unswerving honor as John Williams have been a relative rarity in any age or any society, because it requires a rare strength of character and an even rarer capacity for absorbing the most essential values of any society, as it were, into the bloodstream and bone marrow. Such a sense of honor can never be calculated or assumed; it can only be bred into the man or woman who possess it. John Williams was a man of honor, not because he tried to be but because he did not know how to be anything else.

That is why so many of us felt it was the end of an era when he left the Senate; that is why all of us must feel it is an even more certain end of an era now that he has left us altogether. But we should hope it need not be, because we all recognized John Williams as a man so essentially American that we dare not turn our backs on the values of honesty, integrity and honor that, good-naturedly but adamantly, he represented and still should represent in the memory of him we all continue to share.

Senatorial Report

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District

Beginning in April of last year, when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that states could set up corporate statutes to protect corporations from hostile takeover, there has been a mad scramble to enact new state laws making it more difficult for corporate raiders to take over local companies.

By the end of last year, 13 states already had passed such laws and many more were considering such action.

Now it appears Delaware will be entering the race, with the Castle Administration urging fast action by the General Assembly on legislation to give companies incorporated in Delaware additional tools to fight takeovers.

Since Delaware is "home" for more than half the nation's largest corporations and 40 percent of all the firms listed on the New York Stock Exchange, which contribute $305 million in bank and corporation franchise taxes and fees to the State this year, the Administration is naturally concerned about being on the cutting edge in corporation legislation.

The rash of hostile takeovers was triggered by deregulation, a relaxed attitude toward anti-trust enforcement by the Regan Administration, and a deregulated financial market that came up with such tools as "junk bonds" to help finance takeovers.

Early this session, legislators expect to be asked to take action suggested by the corporate law section of the Delaware Bar Association which will include a "freeze out" provision which would prohibit a corporate raider from merging, selling, or substantially restructuring an acquired company for several years without special approval.

My interest in the entire matter is that stockholders be protected; after all, it is their money the financial manipulators are playing with.

Studies of the Ohio and New Jersey anti-takeover acts indicate that stock values dropped 1 to 2 percent overall for companies headquartered in those states.

Since the Supreme Court opened the door to takeover regulation by the states, many states have acted to protect specific industries in their state from hostile takeovers. Three good examples: Massachusetts passed a law to help the Gillette Co. avoid a threatened takeover; Arizona responded to a request from Greyhound, and North Carolina helped Burlington Industries.

The argument continues to rage over whether hostile takeovers are really bad or are they a necessary tool for pruning inefficient businesses and bad entrenched management.

Similar arguments are heard concerning whether or not anti-takeover laws really work or will they backfire?

We'll hear all the arguments in Legislative Hall over the next few weeks. Last week five new lobbyists registered in opposition to anti-takeover legislation. The only lobby the stockholders have is those members who believe, as I do, that stockholder protection should be our primary concern.

by Rep. G. Robert Quillen

One of the biggest issues now facing the General Assembly centers around the much publicized Corporate Takeover Legislation House Substitute 1 to House Bill 396.

Simply put, the bill would make it more difficult to takeover a company incorporated in Delaware. Currently, Delaware is home to over half of the nation's Fortune 500 companies. The bill would prohibit a shareholder, holding less than 15 percent of that company's stock, from acquiring that company.

This bill will be hotly debated in public hearings and on the House and Senate floor. The first hearing is set for January 20, 1988 at 2:30 p.m. in the House Chamber, Legislative Hall, Dover.

The measure, as proposed would make it difficult for someone interested in acquiring a publicly held company without the approval of the Board of Directors. The stockholders have an obvious stake in management practices of a company and that needs to be addressed.

When debating this issue, we also have to realize the United States is a free enterprise nation and individuals have the right to purchase the company of their choice. Especially if it promotes competition and efficiency.

This bill will have far reaching effects in Delaware. A solid economy invites companies to locate here, which brings jobs and bolsters our fiscal stability. What we must do is make sure the bill is workable for all parties.

I urge you to familiarize yourself on this subject, attend public hearings and call or write me with any comments or questions. Your input is needed. This is one piece of legislation which will affect us all.

Note: The Division of Libraries and Community Affairs will hold a public hearing to assess the needs of Delaware libraries. Kent County's hearing will be Monday, January 25, 1988 at the Division of Libraries Conference Room, at 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the Edgell Shopping Center, in Dover. For information, call 1-800-282-8696. I will be unable to attend, as I will be at an Education Joint Finance briefing.

Weeding out a problem for Delaware farmers

by Congressman Tom Carper

It seems like every year about this time Delaware's congressional delegation is writing to the Environmental Protection Agency seeking to have an effective herbicide approved for the coming growing season.

The problem faced by Delaware farmers in finding an EPA-approved herbicide reached the crisis stage in October of 1986 when the agency announced its decision to ban the use of dinoseb, the only effective herbicide available for two bean varieties and peas. Dinoseb had been used in Delaware for thirty years. There is no suitable alternative.

While the congressional delegation can't judge the technical merits of the dinoseb case, we want EPA to act swiftly on the state's request to be exempted from the dinoseb ban for 1988. Win or lose, Delaware farmers need to plan ahead. If the request is approved, strict safety precautions for the herbicide's use should be followed.

Last year, EPA approved the use of another herbicide, PURSUIT. That decision may have saved Delaware $5 million in crop damages. A denial of the state's request to use dinoseb won't be that costly, but crop losses could top $1 million, much more than EPA estimated.

When it comes to the use of chemicals in agriculture or anywhere else, safety should be paramount. I think Delaware farmers are prepared to take the precautions necessary to ensure consumers that herbicides are used effectively and safely.

DRUNK BOATERS BEWARE
While Delaware farmers search for safe

weed control options, the U.S. Coast Guard has begun a search to weed out drunk boaters who pose a safety threat on our state's navigable waters.

On January 13, the Coast Guard began enforcing a new federal law to crack down on drunken boating. The standards for drunk boating are similar to those for drunk driving. They will determine if boaters are operating their vessels while intoxicated.

Recreational boaters whose blood-alcohol levels are .10 percent or higher will henceforth be considered drunk and incapable of operating their boats safely. For non-recreational boaters and commercial seamen, the blood-alcohol level is .04 percent. These standards apply to everyone operating a vessel where the Coast Guard has jurisdiction.

What are the penalties for getting caught boating under the influence? An individual operating a vessel while drunk can receive a civil penalty of up to $1000. The criminal penalty can be up to a $5,000 fine and imprisonment for as much as one year, or both.

Under the new federal law, in states where a standard for intoxication already exists, the higher of the two blood-alcohol levels will be enforced. Since Delaware has enacted no standard of its own, the .10 level will be the law of the water in our state.

The new law for drunk boating won't deny a good time to recreational boaters who enjoy Delaware's navigable waters. But it will send a clear message to those who abuse alcohol and then try to operate their boats: the safety threat you pose to yourself and other boaters will no longer be tolerated.

Legislative Report

by Thurman Adams, Jr.

As Chairman of the Senate Executive Committee responsible for considering gubernatorial nominations which require senate confirmation, I've been very disturbed by the confusion around Governor Castle's recent efforts to fill a vacancy on the Delaware State Board of Education created by the resignation of Mr. Kenneth Hilton of rural New Castle County.

The first person the governor nominated to the position, William E. Bazzelle, Sr. of Hockessin, was ruled out last spring because he had not lived in Delaware for the past five years as required by the state law. Governor Castle's second nominee, who is now under consideration is Arthur W. Boswell of Wilmington and he seems well qualified except for one problem.

Under Delaware law the State Board of Education has six members who serve regular terms and a chairman who serves at the pleasure of the Governor. The law states that three of the members must be from rural New Castle County with one each from Kent County, Sussex County and the City of Wilmington. The chairman is supposed to be an at-large member, meaning that he or she can come from anywhere in the state regardless of where the other members are from.

At the present time the chairman is from rural New Castle. There are two other members from New Castle, one from Wilmington and one each from Kent and Sussex. Since Mr. Hilton who resigned was from rural New Castle, his replacement should also be from there, but the Governor's latest nominee, Arthur Boswell, lives in the City of Wilmington.

This means that if we confirm him, the only way the State Board can achieve the balance required by law is to count the chairman as one of the three rural New Castle County members. So what would happen if the present chairman was to resign or be fired by the Governor?

In order to abide by the law the Governor would have to replace him with a chairman who lived in rural New Castle County. The only way he could appoint a Kent or Sussex Countian to the position of chairman would be to get the person who is currently serving a term from that county to resign.

I don't have anything against Mr. Boswell personally, but the way I read the law, Governor Castle made a mistake in appointing a resident of the City of Wilmington. He apparently doesn't want to come out and admit it since he just made a mistake on his first nominee to fill the vacancy. But I think it's about time the Governor and his staff found out what the law calls for.

If we do confirm Mr. Boswell it looks like we would be guaranteeing that a Kent or Sussex Countian couldn't be chairman of the State Board of Education unless another Kent or Sussex Countian stepped down - or unless the law gets changed.

Person-to-Person Right in your own back yard

by Rebecca Moore

Do you remember the story of "The Wizard of Oz"? The main character, Dorothy, seems, at first, to be quite dissatisfied with her life on the Kansas farm, and decides to seek happiness in exotic places. Her unexpected journey leads her into some pretty unsavory situations, but then, in the end, she learns that she need look no further for happiness than her own back yard. There is, perhaps, a smattering of Dorothy in all of us—that twinge of wanderlust, the desire to see the alps or the green of the Pacific. But not everyone has these feelings. Some of us are content with circumstances as they are—they wouldn't go in search of happiness anywhere beyond their own back yard. I met two people who fit this description the other day, and meeting them was truly a delightful experience. Come with me and meet two contented people—Mr. and Mrs. Zora Tatman.

My arrival at the Tatman's Frederica home was heralded by a quarter of my favorite creatures—cats. A little wary of a stranger at first, two of these sleek beauties eventually warmed up to me and took the time to scratched. I knew right from the start that I would like the Tatmans—they were cat lovers. It was freezing cold that day, so in spite of my interest in my new feline friends, I hurried up to the door of the big, white farmhouse. Mr. Tatman met me at the door and ushered me into an incredibly beautiful dining room. Mrs. Tatman's love of antiques was obvious in nearly every nook and cranny of the inviting room. In contrast to the frigid temperatures outside, the house was warm and cozy. Mr. Tatman made me feel right at home, and then I met another member of the Tatman family.

A distinctive sound immediately informed me that there was a Siamese cat on the premises. This was no ordinary Siamese cat. Jake is twenty years old! He is a beautiful animal who loves to be babied, and yet is energetic and kittenish. My first impression of the Tatmans were flying high, and our conversation had not even begun!

Mr. and Mrs. Tatman are both from this area. Mr. Tatman graduated from Felton School in 1927, and went straight up to Wilmington to Goldey Beacom where he took a course in general business. After graduation, he went to work for the Wilmington Coal Company. Meanwhile, a romance was brewing. When Mr. Tatman was in twelfth grade, Mrs. Tatman was in seventh grade. At that time, the age difference was quite noticeable, but within a few years, that difference vanished. The Tatmans fell in love and were married in 1932. Their first home was in Wilmington, and they lived there until 1943.

Moving to Frederica that year, Mr. Tatman decided to apply for the position of Post Master at the Frederica post office. This was no easy undertaking, because the position was one in the government, and it seems that the government always produces mountains of red tape and paperwork. But in the end, Mr. Tatman was given the position, and along with it, he received written permission from President Franklin D. Roosevelt. This document is a piece of history few of us will ever see, let alone actually possess.

But then, visiting the Tatmans was like going back in time. The house they now live in, is the same house they purchased when they first arrived in Frederica back in 1943. Although the house has been completely modernized, the antique glory of the house still remains. The document from President Roosevelt is, by all means, a museum piece. And this was only the beginning. The Tatmans' dining room table was literally covered in awards and documents Mr. Tatman has received over the years. Several times during our conversation, Mr. Tatman said to me, "Now maybe you'd better not print that. I don't want people thinking I'm proud." Actually, Mr. Tatman is a humble person, but if anyone ever had reason to be proud, it would be Mr. Tatman. He has been involved with so many things for many years, and he's done such a good job in so many areas, he certainly deserves a pat on the back.

When Mr. Tatman began working in the post office in 1943, it was considered a third-class post office. But with a lot of hard work on Mr. Tatman's part, that changed within several years. In 1961, the post office moved from its original location in the fire hall, to its new location all its own. No longer considered a third-class post office, it is a source of pride to Mr. Tatman, and rightfully so!

Mr. Tatman is a man who never believed in sitting still for too long; and his activities prove this. He has been involved with the Frederica Fire Department for forty-one years. He has served as President of the Department for two ten-year terms. He also served as president of the Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association. He was awarded Fireman of the Year in 1978. He is also the secretary-treasurer of the bingo committee. Mr. Tatman is an active member of the Lion's Club. He was a member of the Frederica School Board from 1955 through 1967. For twenty-five years, he has gone to the Frederica School and played Santa Claus for the kindergarten children. Mr. Tatman is a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church in Frederica and was the Sunday School Superintendent for over twenty years. This paragraph is getting rather long, but that's only because of Mr. Tatman's involvement in so many things.

Throughout all this activeness, Mr. Tatman still managed a family life. When he talks of his children, the pride he possesses really shows through. Four daughters are definitely his pride and joy. Barbara, the oldest, is the mother of three and lives on a farm in Woodside. Doris lives in Salisbury and has two children. Elneta is the organist at Trinity United Methodist Church, is the mother of three and lives right next door to the Tatmans. Becky, the youngest, lives at home and is a teacher at Holy Cross School in Dover. All four of the Tatman girls are within screaming distance and that's just the way Mr. and Mrs. Tatman like it.

You've heard the expression, "Familiarity breeds contempt"? Well, how would you like to go to work every day with the man you're married to? That sounds like a dream come true to me. And that's just what Mrs. Tatman did for twenty-five years. Shortly after Mr. Tatman became the post master, he found that he was in need of a clerk. Mrs. Tatman was available, so she was given the position. There was no contempt in this familiarity, and for twenty-five whole years, this arrangement worked beautifully. The Tatmans have been married for fifty-six years and they have an enviable relationship. The love they possess for each other, their four daughters, their eight grandchildren and their six and one-half great-grandchildren is obvious in so many ways.

My curiosity with names and their meanings got the best of me and I asked Mr. Tatman where his name "Zora" came from. Its origins were a mystery to him, but he was named for his father. I did a little digging on my own when I got home, and I found the name "Zorah" in the Bible. It literally means "a place of horns". Now, when you consider the hornet and what an industrious little creature he is, I think Mr. Tatman was given a name well-suited to him. During his working years he was involved in so many things, and that involvement has continued since his retirement in 1973. You won't find this industrious man sitting around, wasting his time; he's still continually busy with the fire department, the school, the church and his family.

Life is full and good for the Tatmans. They've never been far from home, and that's just the way they like it. They've never felt the need to chase rainbows or follow elusive dreams half-way around the world. The Tatmans both know that all their dreams can be found right at home—right in their own back yard.

Social Security beneficiaries will receive benefit statement

by William B. Hopkins, District Mgr. Social Security Administration, Dover

If you're a Social Security beneficiary, you should receive a Social Security Benefit Statement (Form SSA-1099) in the mail sometime this month. The form shows the amount of Social Security benefits you received or repaid in 1987. You should use the form to help you figure whether any of your Social Security benefits are subject to Federal income tax.

Most Social Security beneficiaries do not have to pay any Federal income tax on their Social Security benefits. If your Social Security check is your largest source of income, you probably won't owe any tax on your benefits. But if you have substantial income in addition to your Social Security benefits, up to half of your annual Social Security benefits may be subject to Federal income tax.

Your Social Security benefits may be taxable if your taxable income plus your non-taxable interest play half of your Social Security benefits exceeds the base amount. The base amounts are $25,000 if you file as a single person, $32,000 if you are married and file a joint return; or $0 if you are married, live with your spouse at any time during the year, and file separate returns.

Included with your benefit statement will be an IRS Notice 703. This notice includes a worksheet you can use to get an idea if any of your benefits may be taxable. If you are married and you and your spouse will file a joint return, be sure to combine your incomes and your Social Security benefits when you fill out the worksheet.

If you have any questions about the worksheet or how to figure your taxable income, call any IRS office. The phone numbers of IRS offices are listed on the back of the Notice 703.

If you have any questions about the information on the SSA-1099, you can call any Social Security office.

Special committee on out-of-home placement review scheduled

The Fourth Meeting of the Special Committee on Out-of-Home Placement Review was held on Tuesday, January 19, 1988 in the Senate Chamber, Legislative Hall in Dover.

Under Senate Resolution 50, introduced by Senator Herman Holloway and passed unanimously by the State Senate, a Committee chaired by Senator Holloway has been established to investigate the feasibility of expanding the jurisdiction of the volunteer-based Foster Care Review Board to include periodic review of all children in out-of-home placement, through the Department of Services for Children, Youth, and Their Families which may include delinquent children, in addition to dependent, neglected, and abused children. The children not in foster care but in some other form of out-of-home placement, like Ferris Training School, might benefit greatly by an external committee review of their cases on a regular and periodic basis to ensure that progress towards achieving permanency is being made and treatment and rehabilitation services are being provided to the children and their families.

VOLUME I NO. 1

KENT COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, WOODSIDE, DELAWARE

JANUARY, 1988

"VoPro" New Symbol of Vo-Tech

What is Vo Pro? "It's a new and positive way to identify vocational students, graduates, and programs—a way that is being adopted by an increasing number of vocational schools across the country," explains Kent County Vo-Tech Administrative Assistant Robert Lykens. "It's derived from the two words 'vocational' and 'professional'."

"Many people, particularly teenagers, are missing an important educational opportunity," Lykens continues, "simply because they and/or their parents have a false or negative image of vocational education and do not fully understand how it can benefit them. We are planning to correct that situation."

"Adopting the Vo Pro name and slogan is just a small part of the program," states Lykens. "We are beginning a comprehensive campaign to consistently and systematically get our message across. For instance, instead of relying on traditional methods of communicating the Vo-tech story to students and parents, the Centers are using radio announcements."

Many of the radio spots will feature Kent County Vo-Tech students -- VoPros--talking about the benefits they are receiving from their education. "Our students are proud of their school and their education," Lykens points out. "We believe they are our best spokespersons. In addition to telling the Vo-Tech story to the public, VoPro is helping our current students feel even better about what they are doing."

These announcements will be supplemented by the more traditional methods of communication the Centers have used -- newsletters, mailings to students and parents, evening school adult education publications, material distributed through guidance counselors, field trips to the Centers, and staff visits to the high schools we serve.

For high school students, VoPro is an educational alternative that provides a safer and surer way to success without denying important future options. "For instance, the perception that vocational graduates cannot go to college is nonsense," Lykens exclaims. "Annually, about 25 percent of our students go to college right after graduation, and more could if they wanted to. And this does not take in to account those who go on to college two, three or ten years out-- at a time when they want to go."

"Contrary to popular belief, vocational education gives young people more, not fewer, life options," Lykens explains. "For many young people, the practical orientation of vocational education is a much more interesting and productive way of studying. All of a sudden, these students learn why it's important to have good reading, math and science skills; and they become better students overall!"

Lykens believes strongly that vocational education is an option that all high school students, their parents, and many adult learners should give serious consideration. "It's not for everyone, but many more students should take advantage of it. That's why we are encouraging more men and women--teenage to senior citizen--to Be a VoPro and Learn, to Earn!" he concludes.

Join The Vo-Tech Alumni Association

It has been 22 years since Kent Vo-Tech opened. About 13,000 students have attended during that time span.

Were you one of them?

If so, would you like to join a Vo-Tech Alumni Association?

Now is the time to stop wondering and do something about it. Join the Vo-Tech Alumni Association which is now forming and get in on a big reunion celebration.

Successful VoPro

Joe Lopez, successful owner/operator of Felton Auto Body Repair graduated from Auto Body class at Kent Vo-Tech in 1969.

Lopez stated that he has worked on cars since he was 13. He said that he "went to Vo-Tech to learn the right way to repair cars." Obviously Joe Lopez learned his lesson well.

After graduation Joe's first job was with Kent County Motors as a Painter's helper. He worked for Kent County Motors for 1 1/2 years and worked up to an all around body man.

He then joined with his father in the family operated business (Dover Venetian Blind Manufacturing and Paint Co.) for the next five years and continued to do auto body repair and painting on a part time basis. Joe then went to work for Townsend Brothers Chevrolet doing bodywork for the next three years and then served as the manager of the body shop for the next five years.

Joe then decided to try operating his own business and opened up shop in a converted two car garage in his backyard. This was the birth of Felton Auto Body Repair which today is a fast growing, flourishing business.

Three years ago Lopez built a new 4 bay shop and is presently adding a new addition which will give him 8 more work areas. Future plans call for adding large truck repairs.

Lopez insisted that he is a "firm believer in Vo-Tech and always has been." He commented that if he was in school today he would definitely go to Vo-Tech again and highly recommends Vo-Tech to students today. According to Lopez "just about all the body shops now are looking for good body men." He said that the auto body repair field is a "good opportunity if a student wants to learn the trade."

Vo-Tech Provides Realistic Opportunities

By PAUL BARRY
Kent Center Principal

I welcome the opportunity to write an article concerning Vocational Education in general and Vocational Education here at Kent County Vocational Technical School Woodside. Kent Vo-Tech Woodside offers a wide variety of programs that seek to meet the needs of our local employment area.

The key word in our perspective of Vocational Education here at Kent Center is that the application of each of our individual trade areas provides a realistic opportunity for a student to demonstrate and apply all of the mathematical language, communication skills they have already acquired in their education. Plus utilize these as tools in learning a trade which is to be their passport into the local economy. Yes, our students can and want to do, their enthusiasm is demonstrated in their pride and accomplishments in constructing a house, plumbing and wiring it. Designing and producing a myriad of publications.

The pride and self-confidence the young people who attend our school exhibits is well deserved and the result of much hard work by the students themselves.

At a time when the future of such valuable institutions as vocational education is held in critical balance in Delaware it is extremely important that the public not be denied access to such a long standing and valuable component of the American educational system that many of us have chosen as a vehicle to participate in the American dream. All that is good and noble about this great experiment, American Public Education, is embodied specifically in Vocational Education. In order for this system to provide opportunity for all those students who want, need, and can profit from vocational education it will be necessary for those participating districts and the vocational school itself to undergo changes. As stated in the Governors Task Force report, "to solve the problems in a positive way will require administrative and financial changes." Those will affect other schools as well as the Vo-Techs and will not be easy.

We believe such changes should be made, though because the other "solution," the negative one is to let those shared-line schools die slowly of a thousand small cuts.

People in Delaware need not, and should not suffer that loss.

As stated in the beginning of this article, application is the key word. Kent Vo-Tech allows you to apply all you have already acquired to learning. So at this time if Vocational Education and its many opportunities seem meaningful to you APPLY.

Political Leaders Support Vo-Tech

The following quotes were extracted from letters in support of Vocational Education

MICHAEL N. CASTLE
Governor

"Today's employers look to Kent County Vo-Tech as a key source of persons for entry level positions in the trades and in business offices."

"While every Kent County high school provides vocational course opportunities to students, the Vo-Tech District offers students training in those fields that require expensive equipment with instruction having years of professional or craft experience, because, they are able to draw from a large enough population base to produce the number of students to make up a class. It is crucial for the state of Delaware that we ensure these quality opportunities which will, in turn, produce the productive citizens who will be our tomorrow's leaders."

S. B. WOOD
Lieutenant Governor

"Vocational education is an integral part of Delaware's total education picture. As the world, this country, and indeed this state moves into the era of high technology, it will be crucial to our economic success to maintain a high technology trained workforce."

"The First State is currently experiencing a shortage of trained technicians. Vocational education and Kent County Vo-Tech are helping to meet this need - a need that must be met if we are to remain competitive."
"Keep up the good work."

Vocational Education Will Meet The Challenge

By JEFF ADAMS, Superintendent Kent Vo-Tech

The challenge for American educators in the next ten years is obvious—we must provide people with living skills that will enable them to achieve a standard of living that leads to a harmonious and productive society.

The driving force to such a challenge must center around the workplace. William E. Brock (1986) former Secretary of Labor, stated:

"...the job creation capacity of this country is so awesome that we have in the next seven or eight years, a chance to deal with societal problems, such as youth unemployment, minority unemployment... The job demand is going to be enormous. The demand for people with skills is going to be huge. And the question is, do we have in place the systems, the processes, to provide these skills?"

You bet we do! The Kent County Vocational Educational School District (Kent Vo Tech) is a prime example of education's ability to meet the needs of an ever changing job market. Kent Vo Tech currently offers a wide variety of programs, all of which lead to immediate employment and most of which will allow and prepare the student to enroll in college either while in high school and/or immediately upon graduation from high school. Kent Vo Tech has for the past three years had students simultaneously taking courses at Kent Vo Tech and Delaware Technical & Community College in an innovative "Tech Prep" program of study. The "Tech Prep" program allows the student to complete college level courses while at the same time completing courses at Kent Vo Tech. Our students are successful in college and in the workplace. President Reagan in his State of the Union Address (1987) stated:

"...our economy should be able to provide a job for everyone who wants work. We must also enable our workers to adapt to the rapidly changing nature of the workplace."

Kent Vo Tech accepts the challenge of the President to help meet the needs of the workplace. At a time when 80% of the jobs are projected to require less than a bachelor's degree, we feel that our competency based vocational education programs are appropriate for the times. It is our responsibility to evaluate continuously the workplace and to adapt, modify, and/or change our programs in order to enable our students to be competitive in the job market. We must, and do, incorporate everyday life skills (academics, job skills, work ethic, values, and others) into our programs.

Kent Vo Tech addresses the issue of employment through many avenues such as: shared time vocational technical education for high school students, allowing adults to participate in the daytime programs on a "pay-as-you-go" format, special interest and vocational evening courses, Groves High School diploma, Adult Basic Education, and English as a Second Language.

The Combined efforts of well-established Advisory Committees, the faculty and administration, the School Board, and local school districts should enable Kent Vo-Tech to grow into an even more influential and intricate part of the educational process in the State of Delaware.

Let's Be Realistic

By BILL GAREY, North Vo-Tech Principal

The concept of having an area vocational school is to construct and equip classrooms for specialized training. It is simply not a realistic goal for the five school districts of Kent County to each offer a course in electrical wiring for example, with seven students from each school desiring it. However, with these 35 students consolidated into one class, it is logical and economically feasible. This provides the student with the career of his choice, and the community with the necessary skilled labor force. It is therefore important that students in Kent County who have a need for, or an interest in occupational training have access to such programs. Programs which provide a balance between academic endeavors and the real world of our skilled labor force.

Some 800 students from Kent County's academic high schools attend Kent County Vocational Technical Schools: Kent Center in Woodside and Kent North on Denny's Road north of Dover. About 350 attend Kent North for instruction in 11 specific career areas. Students progress through competency based instructional programs.

"There is no doubt that vocational education has a vital role to play today in helping to keep America competitive in our world economy. Our business and industry need a labor pool that can respond not just to the demands of the present but which can adapt readily to the skills which may be needed in the future. In an increasingly complex technological world this presents quite a challenge. I am confident, however, that our schools will meet the challenge by giving our students a sound basis on which to begin and to grow with the changing demands in the workplace."

TOM CARPER
Member Of Congress

"The thousands of successful graduates of Kent County Vo-Tech School District are a testament to the effectiveness of our state's vocational education programs. The millions of people in America's workforce who are now and grads are among the most productive workers in our national economy."

"Even in these days of increasing budget restraint, the high value placed on vocational education has led Congress to avoid deep cuts in federal funding."

Vo-Tech Constructs House

Every year The Kent Vo-Tech School District builds a house. This year, the school is building a 28' X 60' Ranch style house with three bedrooms, two baths, kitchen, dining room, living room, family room, and utility room. The house will also have vinyl siding. The estimated cost for this house ranges between $25 - 30,000. Mr. Frank Smith of Dover plans to buy the finished product and move it just down the road from Kent Vo-Tech Woodside to property on the Woodside-Rising Sun Road.

After each major installation, an inspection takes place. The Carpentry, Electrical and Plumbing classes must meet state standards. The concept behind the construction of the house is to give the students an opportunity to work under the same conditions which their particular vocation participants within the working world.

JOSEPH ORLANDO

Goodbye, Joel!

Mr. Joseph Orlando, came to Delaware in 1957 and began as a business teacher at Smyrna High School. After teaching various business courses for nine years he became Kent Vo-Tech's principal in Woodside. Mr. Orlando remained at Kent Center for two years at which point he became the Administrative Assistant on July 1, 1968. Mr. Orlando held this position until 1979 when he became Assistant Superintendent for the District. He became Superintendent on July 1, 1985 and retired from this position on January 14, 1988.

Mr. Orlando still lives in Smyrna with his wife Sue. He has five children all of whom have gone off on their own, or are away for busy semesters in college. After retiring, Mr. Orlando refuses to break the strings of his long affiliation with Kent Vo-Tech and will remain as a part-time business consultant for the District.

All faculty and staff of the Kent Vocational-Technical School District congratulate him on a job well done and hope that he enjoys his new sense of freedom, after all those long hard years of devotion. We'll miss you, Joe!

Students Explore Careers At Vo-Tech Summer Program

Opportunity is the key word in the Vo-Tech Summer Opportunity Program. All Kent county students enrolled in grades 7-12 are eligible to participate--at no cost. Students can select any three of the seventeen programs offered during the summer session. There are no attendance requirements, no homework, and no report cards.

The goal of the Summer Opportunity Program is to provide students with career exploration. Vo-Tech, Why I'm Here By ATHENA DAWN MASTERMAN Vo-Tech Student.

Vo-Tech, Why I'm Here

Why am I a Vo - Pro student? To study electronics. Why do I want to study electronics? To support myself. I do not plan to be an electronics technician. I plan to major in English. I am taking electronics to help me financially while I'm in college and once I'm out of college; until I can find my spot in the English world.

If I don't succeed in my major, I still have my electronics training. I can either further my technical education or just try to work myself up on the job.

Political Leaders Support Vo-Tech

THURMAN ADAMS, JR. State Senator, 19th District. "The thing that is so important about vocational education is that it provides a way for non-college oriented students to develop their gifts, to find the way in which they can best contribute to their society and make a decent living. This is especially true in a country like the United States which depends so heavily on technology in every part of daily life. If it wasn't for the training people have gotten through technical education in vocational schools, our society couldn't operate."

V. GEORGE CAREY State Representative, 36th District. "For a young person today interested in plumbing, engine repair, electricity, welding, etc. I would recommend our Vo-Tech school. They are great alternative to the strictly academic schools because they keep students focused on the basics, math and English, while letting them get a head start on their career choice in the trades. Vo-Tech students like attending school because they learn something new and valuable every day. And, when they graduate they know that finding a job will be easy."

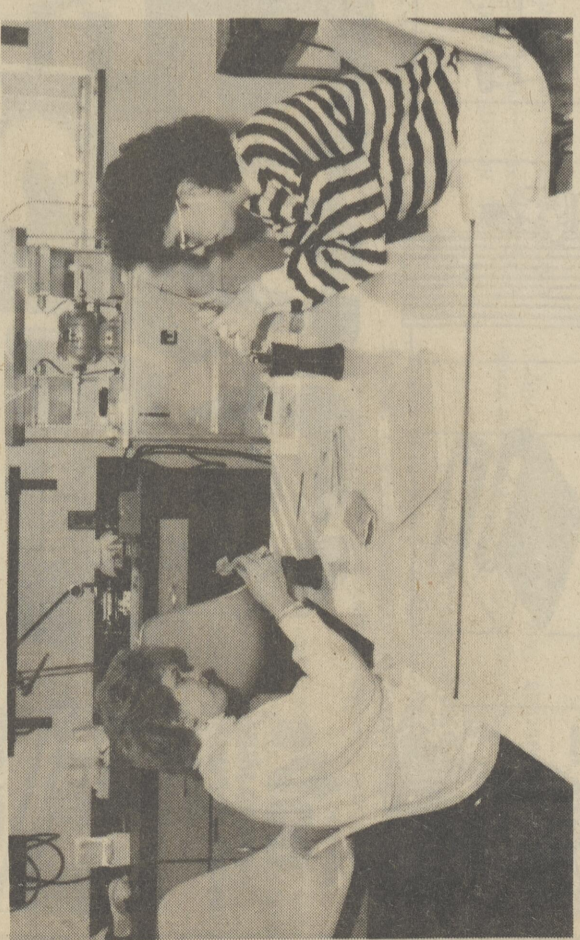

GERALD A. BUCKWORTH State Representative, 34th District. "I think a Vo-Tech education best benefits those students who plan to work in one of the professional trades, such as carpentry, welding, engine repair and heating/air conditioning. The Vo-Tech education blends what educators refer to as the basics - math and English - with textbook and laboratory learning in the vocational trade of their choice. A Vo-Tech education enables students planning to enter one of these fields after graduation to get an early start."

Political Leaders Support Vo-Tech

WILLIAM C. TORBERT State Senator, 16th District. "It has always been my firm belief that vocational-technical courses are an integral part of our secondary system. For the many students who, for whatever reason, do not plan to attend an institution of higher learning, vocational technical education provides a valuable source of training preparation for careers in many fields."

BEN EWING State Representative, 35th District. "The way I see it VO-TECH works for students, parents and surrounding communities. Here's why: it gives students the opportunity to acquire the skills associated with a professional trade or craft before they enter the job market. Some of those skills include carpentry, plumbing, electronics, etc. By the time they graduate, they not only have satisfied their basic math and english requirements, they have also gained years of textbook and practical experience in the trade of their choice. That makes them valuable to prospective employers."

E. STUART OUTTEN State Representative, 31st District. "As a long-time supporter of vocational and technical education in our country, I must express my sincere appreciation to the administration, support staff, instructors, and students for filling such a critical need in the economic and business community in Kent County. Private businesses and commercial interests considering prospective locations ultimately examine the work force of each locality to determine the skills, experience, and employability of citizens in the area. Thanks to the vocational and technical educational opportunities and training results in Kent County, we are better able to compete in the state and regional economy for jobs and revenues."

Why Vocational Education For Dental Assisting

You might ask yourself, "Is it really necessary to go to a vocational school if I want to be a Dental Assistant?" Well, the truth of the matter is, vocational education is not required, it is chosen. The student who is willing to work at being the best possible candidate for employment will choose vocational education. The reasoning is simple; vocational education offers you a "jump" on others who have never been formally trained in their career fields.

With the dental field becoming more and more specialized the need of a well qualified assistant is in demand. Also, most successful dental practices are requiring that assistants be expanded duty assistants. In order to work as an expanded assistant or in a specialty field it is very important to have a good basic knowledge of dentistry. Vocational education can offer you that and more. It can offer you extensive training in one of many specialized fields through the Co-Operative Work Program.

The dental field is a challenging career for the highly motivated student. It can open many opportunities to high paying jobs such as dental laboratory or dental hygiene. Although, vocational education is not a requirement for the dental assistant, it is a real "plus." One area dentist says he considers a proper vo-tech education a real asset to a prospective employee. So, while you are thinking about different career fields consider the dental field and don't forget vocational education is the way to go!! Also, a good vocational program can help prepare you to pass the National Certification Test given to dental assistants. Earning your C.D.A. will assure a prospective employer that your dental knowledge has been tested and found to be of the highest quality.

Kent Vo-Tech...A New Beginning

By MIKE COVERDALE

Student Services Coordinator

"A New Beginning" can be used to describe what is going on at Kent Vo-Tech. This phrase not only applies to the school itself, but to the students as well.

Think about - "A New Beginning" - and what it can mean to you. Our career counselors are ready, willing, and waiting for an opportunity to assist high school students and adults in the Kent County area.

At present Kent Vo-Tech offers 23 day-time vocational technical courses. Our programs involve highly technical areas such as Industrial Electronics and CAD Drafting, as well as more traditional programs such as Carpentry, Masonry and Electrical Construction. We also offer courses such as Culinary Arts, Graphic Arts, Cosmetology, and Child Care.

"A New Beginning" you better believe it! By enrolling in one of our courses you can receive job skills and training that can prepare you for employment, college, or both.

High school students can become part of our VOCATIONAL - PROFESSIONAL team (VO-PRO) by enrolling in Vo-Tech courses during their freshman or sophomore years. Some students may even wait until their junior year. Most of our career programs are 2-3 years in length so it is relatively easy for a student to complete all required graduation requirements and receive Vo Pro training at the same time.

Adults are eligible to enroll in any of our regular daytime programs by paying a small tuition - $100/semester. Where else could you receive the education that Kent Vo-Tech has to offer for such a small investment?

Become a VoPro and be part of the "New Beginning" at Kent Vo-Tech.

The Future Is Now

During the next few weeks high school students throughout the state of Delaware will be making decisions that will affect their lives not only for the present but also for the future.

These decisions involve course selections and the subsequent educational path that a student will follow. Parents and students need to closely examine all options open to them. Many times educational decisions are made in the blind and for all the wrong reasons.

Students, with the aid of their parents and the school system need to ask themselves three basic questions:

1. Where am I?
2. Where do I want to go?

3. How am I going to get there? By answering these questions truthfully, logically, and realistically a student is then ready to choose their educational path albeit general curriculum, academic, or vocational.

Future employers and postsecondary educational institutions will closely scrutinize the particular curriculum a student has chosen in high school. A general curriculum is not a favorite of employers or educational institutions because a student may be ill prepared for both.

An academic curriculum is usually chosen by students desiring to pursue collegiate studies. This is an excellent option for college bound students but if they later choose not to attend college they also may be lacking in skills desired by an employer.

A vocational curriculum may very well be the best alternative. Through careful planning early in their high school career a student can major in a particular vocational area (mainly offered at Vocational-Technical School) and also take certain academic level courses. The end result is a saleable skill, which is demanded by area employers, and the academic background needed to pursue collegiate studies.

Many students and parents are caught up in the myth that vocational students can not attend college. This is simply not true. Many vocational graduates can and do pursue higher studies at both two and four year institutions.

Kent General Hospital Data Processing Operated By Kent Vo-Tech Graduates

Visit the Data Processing Department at Kent General Hospital in Dover and you'll find a department made up of successful graduates from the Data Processing Program at Kent Vo-Tech.

Cindie Yun Mcknatt graduated from Kent Vo-Tech and Caesar Rodney High School in 1969. She worked one year in a state position before going to Kent General. In 1971 she became supervisor of the department and today holds the title of Data Processing Coordinating Manager.

Her co-workers are Virginia Dee Bliem and Brenda Welch Morris, who also have been employed at Kent General for 16 and 11 1/2 years respectively. Virginia graduated in 1970 from Vo-Tech and Dover High and Brenda graduated in 1976 from Vo-Tech and Lake Forest High School.

All three of these ladies attended Kent Vo-Tech for two years and were placed on actual job locations during their second year of study. They stated that they "all are the result of Mrs. Vera Bures (teacher) training at Vo-Tech." Mrs. Mcknatt says that "by her training we have become successful employees."

Each one feels that vocational education has a very important place in today's school systems. When they attended high school they said they were faced with the same negative image of vocational education that is present today. Mcknatt said that "there is a misconception about what a Vo-Tech school really is." She commented that when they were in high school all three of them had the belief that "we'll have a skill that we can use when we graduate." "Yes" and "definitely" were the two answers given when asked if they would attend Vo-Tech again.

Each one participated in either VICA contests or OEA (Office Education Association) in their respective contests and events. Mrs. Mcknatt was named student of the year for Data Processing in 1969.

Each one agrees that they would recommend Vo-Tech to incoming students but stress that motivation and interest are very important for Vo-Tech students. Cindie presently has a step-daughter attending Kent Vo-Tech and Virginia has a son who plans to enroll next year. Brenda comes from a family of seven and six of them attended Kent Vo-Tech.

Cindie, Virginia and Brenda all agree that they were well prepared for the world of work when they graduated. None of them have found it necessary to seek advanced coursework but have participated in several in-house training programs to keep themselves up-to-date.

Barbi Troxall Commercial Art Graduate Attends Ringling School Of Art

Barbi Troxall enrolled in Commercial Art at Kent Vo-Tech in 1983 with a goal in mind - College.

Barbi completed three years of the Commercial Art program, graduated in 1986 from Kent Vo-Tech and Caesar Rodney High School, and was accepted into the Ringling School of Art and Design in Sarasota, Florida. Now in her second year of college Barbi hopes to land a future job with an advertising agency specializing in corporate identity programs.

Miss Troxall became interested in Commercial Art while attending the Summer Opportunity Program at Kent Vo-Tech prior to enrolling in seventh grade. She stated that she was "so impressed with what the program had to offer" that she decided at that point to pursue study at Vo-Tech in Commercial Art during her high school days.

Barbi served her Commercial Art classes as a class secretary in her junior year and treasurer in her senior year. She also participated in the state VICA contest for Commercial Art and placed third in the state.

One of her major accomplishments was development of a portfolio during her senior year which was used to fulfill part of the admission requirements for college. Her portfolio earned her first alternate status for receipt of an art scholarship. Miss Troxall commented that she would highly recommend the Commercial Art program to any interested student. She feels that Vo-Tech is one of the reasons why she is attending college today. She holds the teacher of the program, Henry Evans, in very high esteem. She said that Mr. Evans is a very caring, encouraging teacher and that "there is more to the package than just Commercial Art."

Hire A Vopro Graduate

By SAL GUINTA, JR.

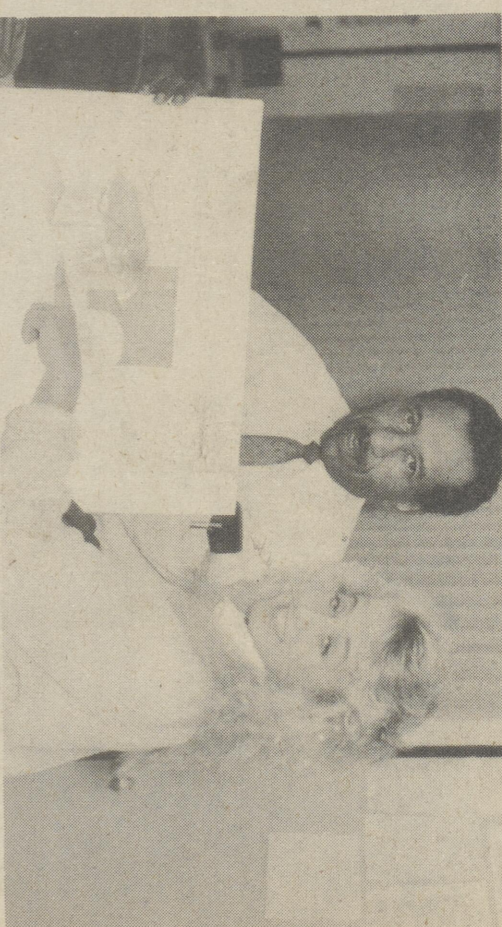

Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. "Between now and the end of the century, new technology, stiff international competition, change in consumer tastes, and Demographic shifts will cause pervasive mismatches between workplace needs and work force capabilities. The next 10 to 15 years threaten that growing cohorts of our working age youth and adults will lack the education and skills to obtain even their first entry level job. At the same time, most of those working today will need to enhance, if not acquire, totally new skills to remain employed." This comment by William H. Kolberg, President of the National Alliance of Business gives all of us something to think about.

It is estimated that by 1995 the number of high school dropouts will increase to over one million each year, that one out of every four ninth graders will not graduate from high school and by 1990, an estimated three out of four jobs will require some education or technical training beyond high school. As a business person and employer these and many more startling figures has me concerned.

Part of the solution to increasing my work force with trainable employees has been to look towards the Vocational Technical High School System. If we're going to need to retrain or update skill levels of employees, it makes good sense to hire someone with a good basic background in the field. It's been my experience that a young person who has devoted 2, 3 or 4 years learning a skill, surely intends to attain his or her goals in that skill area.

I have successfully hired and retained in employment, graduates of Kent Vocational Technical High School in the Automotive Industry. I have found their training, desire to learn and attitude towards business to be above average. Hiring a graduate of Vo-Tech is a good place to start looking for that skilled employee everyone so desperately needs and it seems like the smart thing to do.

Henry Evans (Commercial Art Instructor) observes as Barbie Troxall explains some art work
