

Peoples Bank sale discussed at stockholders meeting

— Seek value of stocks

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
FELTON. The annual dinner meeting for stockholders and their guests of The Peoples Bank of Harrington was held last Wednesday at the Felton Fire Hall. Dinner of fried oysters, chicken salad and dumplings was what many, if not all the 231 persons present, enjoyed the most. This year 87% of the stockholders were assembled for the voting. The bank has 10,000 shares of stock. Last year's attendance accounted for 241 present. Again this year Leroy Calhoun was appointed temporary chairman and Mrs. Betty Taylor temporary secretary. The cashier report this year indicated there was an income gain of $140,000 over last year's figures. The bank shows total resources (assets, cash, accounts receivable, bonds and other) to be $38,121,468.30. Robert E. Everline, executive vice-president and cashier, gave a comparison report for Peoples Bank as compared to banks of similar size and geographical location. The report showed Peoples Bank far superior. The average growth of comparable banks was 4% as compared to 12 percent for Peoples Bank. Mr. Everline suggested that there were three ways to prove a bank's safe. "They are", he said, "1. Equity Ratio where you compare equity capital to assets. Where 5% is satisfactory—Peoples Bank shows 11.7%, which as they say more than a delight. 2. Liquidity Ratio which is the ability of bank to pay off its deposits. Liquid assets divided by total dollar value of assets shows peer banks at 25% and Peoples Bank at 55%. And 3. Return on assets shows 1% being okay, but Peoples has 1.38% net." Mr. Everline said "...about 4 or 5 years ago the question of whether the bank was for sale or could be sold was first turned over."

"During the past year the bank has been approached by two banks. The meetings have not progressed beyond a friendly meeting", he said. Gayle B. Smith who owns several hundred of the 10,000 shares outstanding asked "...do you anticipate an offer being made in 1988?" "At the present time no negotiations are involved where offers are being made. It has not progressed that far," Mr. Everline said. "The final decision will be in the hands of the stockholders...and if an offer is made the stockholders will have the final say," he added. The assembly of stockholders then heard from Mr. Leon Donovan, President of The Felton Bank. "We have seen local banks sold in recent years to later find that the purchase means it is no good for the farmers and no good for commercial borrowers," he said.

"So hold onto your stock for the personal touch that our present local banks offer you." Mr. John Abbott, a very successful businessman and farmer, said he "...was seconding the idea put forth by this man (Mr. Donovan)." Mr. Everline continued his discussion by saying that "both banking institutions have come knocking on our doors. We have not sought them out, which is an indication of how strong our bank is." The bank shows over $2 million in cash. Mr. Calvert Merriken, who is President of The Mercantile Bank in Denton spoke to the assembly saying "...it is out of order for anyone here to reject the notion of sale until all options are presented and considered." Mr. Merriken also stated that there are many ways to purchase banks. He suggested an affiliate way where the Peoples Bank would surrender their stock in exchange for stock in another bank. One stockholder suggested that Mr. Merriken might have been suggesting that plan whereby Peoples Bank would exchange with Mercantile Bank, because of his affiliation with the Mercantile Bank. Mr. Merriken pointed out that "right now no one knows what their stock is worth. Some has sold for $720 a share and some recently sold for $500 a share. It would be nice to know". "Banking is big today, and it is getting bigger. A bank like Peoples Bank has to keep up and it is hard to do", he added. Today's banking laws, taxes and regulations favor the bigger banks which is what the directors of Peoples Bank know. "Let the offers be made to the board and let the stockholders follow parliamentary procedure on the matter," said Mr. Merriken. "Today we have many banks worth in excess of a billion dollars. Wilmington Trust is a $3 billion bank. There are some which are in excess of $300 billion," he added. "I would hate to see Peoples Bank not step along with the banking times. I say present the offer to the board," he concluded. The legal procedure is for the Board of Directors to extend an invitation for another bank to make an offer. The stockholders will now wait and see. One parting stockholder who did not wish to be quoted as saying that...the board should consider a market evaluation of the bank (Peoples) as well as all the options open, for even though the decision is in the hands of the stockholders the welfare of the residents of the general area are at risk."

Survey by education association indicates salaries here low

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
DOVER. Executive director Mary Anne Galloway, of the Delaware State Education Association on Monday released figures that indicate that teachers' salaries through the state are lower than regional ones. There were three points laid out in the press conference by Mary Anne Galloway. The first point indicated that data shows the main reason for the so-called teachers lag in salaries is due principally to the fact that the ration of 70% of the salaries coming from the state and 30% from local funds is not happening. "The 30% is not there. It transcribes into something less which then makes the formula 80% 20%. If the 30% were fully funded then the averages might be above the average," she said. "There is a need to let the legislature know that this is not happening", she added. The salaries were averaged out over 19 school districts which includes the three Vo-Tech schools. "The government is not meeting the needs of the school districts", was another point put forth. The entry level for a bachelor's degree in Delaware is about $1,040 below the regional average. The Delaware average is $18,225 and the regional is $19,265. The so-called mid-career average which includes masters plus 10 years in Delaware is $27,989 which is about $240 below the regional average. It is about $1886 below Pennsylvania but $663 above the Maryland averages. The other two points dealt with having the State use as career goals "...a Delaware average to be in the 75 percentile, and the raising of "career level era" where one has a masters degree plus 30 credits with 25 years of teaching experience. In this area Delaware has an average of $34,466 which is $496 below the regional average which is $34,962.

Developer plans 32 more units for Harrington renters

Chairman of Harrington's Planning & Zoning Commission held a meeting last Thursday to gather information from Mr. John Seymour, a Maryland developer who built Diamond Court I, who plans an addition to Diamond Court (II). The developer was here to say and presented plans for four new apartment buildings with 8 units in each. The 32 units will be constructed to the rear of Diamond Court I. The new addition will be known as Diamond Court II. The most important question presented to Mr. Seymour was that of drainage. Some members of the commission feel since the construction of Diamond Court I there has been a serious drainage problem in that area. Mr. Seymour pledged to see to it that the same problem does not exist in the new addition. He also pledged to work with the Department of Natural Resources and the county Soil Conservation offices in order to bring about a satisfactory solution to the drainage in that area. The new "tax ditch area district" will include Peck Avenue in Harrington, and it is important that Mr. Seymour work with these two entities which was pointed out by the group present. The property is owned by Dudley and Miriam Willis of Newark. Mr. Willis was the former city engineer in Harrington. The property has been sold to Mr. Seymour subject to the zoning and approval of the Planning & Zoning Commission and the city council.

Felton Town Council discusses upcoming elections

by Lola M. O'Day

FELTON. At Monday night's meeting of the Council plans were submitted to council for approval of the Planning and Zoning. The first was from William Myers for a house on Lot #39 Kerry Circle. Donald Jarman submitted plans for a salt treated deck on a home on the corner of High and Railroad Avenue. Both were approved, pending approval of Planning and Zoning.

A motion was made to allow Delmarva Power to install a light pole on the south side of Sewell St. and to move the present pole to the north side, in line with the new pole. This will distribute lighting evenly in the area. There will be no cost to the town.

Council Myers informed council there would be a public meeting on February 12, 1988 at 7 p.m. regarding our Community Block Grant for the proposed well site. The meeting will be held at the town hall. A motion was made to accept the site east of East Street and south of High Street.

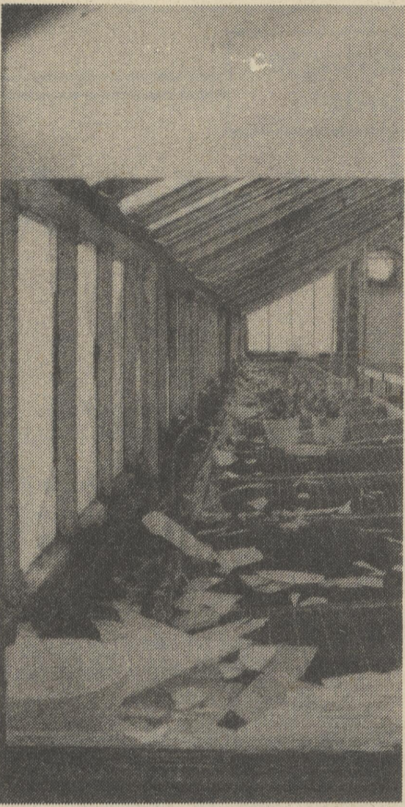

Under Old Business, Councilwoman Rawding sponsored and introduced two ordinances. She then read: Article III, Title 1. An Ordinance: The Provisions of Water Service By the Town of Felton and Fees Therefore; and Article III, Title II, An Ordinance: Concerning the Handling and Disposition of Garbage, Trash and Rubbish and the Fees Therefore. The second reading will be held on February 12.

Discussion was then turned to the upcoming election to be held March 7, 1988. Deadline for filing is February 19, 1988 at 5 p.m. A decision was made to have Town Hall open on Feb. 20 & 27, 1988 to allow anyone wishing to register to vote to do so. These dates are in addition to the regular schedule.

In other matters, President Egler said "Since our police car was involved in an accident, we have not been able to provide police protection." He stated that he has talked with the Mayor of Clayton and they have 1984 Diplomat like the one Felton had, and want to sell it for $2500. It was decided to have President Egler bring the car down to Felton for the council to look over. Carl Moore will then check it over for any defects.

Education

February is busy month at East

"February is a busy month at East Elementary School," reported Richard Seyler, Principal of the Lake Forest School. "In addition to the observance of 'Black History Month,' our staff is preparing activities for 'I Love To Read Month' and 'Dental Month.'"

"Also, February 11 is East Parent Night at the Dover Roller Rink from 6:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. East children and their immediate family members can roller skate free, courtesy of the East PTAG. The only cost to those attending will be skate rentals. All children in attendance are required to be with a responsible adult. Those who are members of the PTAG and can produce their cards at the door are eligible for free soft drinks at the snack bar. This activity is a way of saying 'thanks' to the parents and children for supporting the PTAG functions this year."

Activities planned for "Black History Month" include a program presented by Alex Becton's Jazz Band on February 24, a news brief reflecting the achievements of a black educator or historian read each morning, bulletin board displays and promotion of the month through the school library.

Promotions are also being readied for "I Love To Read Month" such as the librarian presenting dramas about selected books to all fifth graders, a calendar of events to promote reading being sent to each home and a Book Fair from February 3-10 during the scheduled library period. Students will have the opportunity to purchase books, bookmarks, posters and additional reading materials at low cost.

I Love to Read Month

The Diamond State Reading Association is sponsoring its 8th annual statewide reading project, "I Love to Read Month", 1988. Each school has been requested to plan some special activities during February which will emphasize the joys and importance of reading.

In February, the Diamond State Reading Association sends a calendar filled with reading-related activities to the school districts in Delaware. The elementary schools help by promoting reading in school and by sending a copy of the calendar home with each child so that families can read and do activities together. This year, children will learn about the marvels of tales, fables, and myths from the far corners of the world. These exciting and wondrous stories will be shared and enjoyed by everyone.

Since learning to read and loving to read are so important, the Diamond State Reading Association, (the Delaware Council of the International Reading Association), keeps up this yearly tradition. Parents, teachers, and administrators from every part of our state make "I Love to Read Month" a special time for children.

FLASH - Marsteller's Dairy Market will work with Frank A. Young, Principal of Lake Forest North Elementary School, Mr. Davidson, Assistant Principal, and the staff to promote better homework completion from pupils in grades 2-6.

In a recent survey it was determined that the most frequent causes of failing grades were incomplete homework and test scores. The North Elementary Liaison Committee, at a meeting on December 16, agreed that teachers might be able to help pupils improve their test scores to some extent, but strategies could be more swift if an incentive program were initiated.

Mr. Young contacted Bruce Marsteller. Mr. Marsteller agreed to the following incentive program:

1. A popcorn party in school, at the end of each grading period, for all children who qualify.
2. Trophies or plaques given to all pupils who qualify every grading period of the year. These will be given out at the end-of-the-year awards assembly.
3. Videotapes, used at the party, will be provided by Marsteller's as well as the popcorn, oil, cups, soda, ice, baggies, etc.

The grading period for this project will be shortened, as we began on Monday, January 11. Teacher grade books will be used as the instrument to determine eligibility.

Hopefully, parents will get behind this program and help encourage their children to get all homework to the teachers on the day it is due.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Meredith of Harrington were the unfortunate owners of a trailer which was blown over early last Thursday morning. The Meredith's were still inside the trailer when it blew over and used a side window to escape. This unfortunate happening could have been even more severe as the trailer landed on two propane tanks. Firemen from the Harrington Volunteer Fire Department responded to the scene also responded at the same time to a wires down situation on Clark Street which was causing the blackout in Harrington. High winds prevailed in the area all that day causing severe damage in many areas.

HARRINGTON - Gayle B. (Brown) Smith appeared before the Library Commission for the City of Harrington on Monday night and acting as spokesman for his mother, Mrs. F. Brown (Lillie R.) Smith offered the use of their parcel of ground located between the Harrington Dry Cleaners and Raughley Insurance Building and lying between the two streets, Commerce and Fleming. Under Smith's proposal the City would have use of the premises free for two years which is the period the State has recommended as the period for "establishing" the library. At the end of the two years term, Smith said the Smith family would want a fee for the use of the land. The fee was left open at this time.

Harrington Moose

Mooseheart, the famed Moose "City of Children," is a home and school owned and maintained by the Loyal Order of Moose for the benefit of children of deceased members of the Order, their mothers, and other fatherless or motherless children.

Mooseheart is a complete community in itself. Situated on 1,109 acres of Illinois farmland in the Fox River Valley, about 38 miles west of Chicago, Mooseheart has its own homes, schools, church, health center, stores, post office and utilities.

The entrance fee for Mooseheart is extremely high. Most youngsters at the Child City lost one or both of his parents before he was eligible for admittance.

Whenever possible, the mother of the children is invited to accompany them to Mooseheart.

In assuming the obligation of raising the family of a deceased member, the Moose Fraternity makes every effort to provide the children with home-like surroundings and the best training and education possible.

Children live in units known as residence halls with a minimum of eight and a maximum of 24 in each hall. They are assigned to halls according to school classification, age and social maturity so that they may associate with youngsters of their own age group.

House parents assigned to each hall do their utmost to provide normal home life. Meals are carefully planned by a trained dietician and uniformly prepared in the central kitchen. Students are required to help with the serving of the food and clearing of the tables much as they are in any home. In addition, they are responsible for the cleanliness of their rooms.

The honor system is in effect at Mooseheart and children are taught to have respect for the property of others as well as their own at an early age. There are no uniforms at the Child City and each child is permitted to select his own wearing apparel at the Mooseheart Department Store.

Formal education starts at an early age at Mooseheart. Tots in the Baby Village begin nursery school at the age of three and graduate to kindergarten at five. Then comes eight years of elementary school and four years of high school.

The Mooseheart school system is supervised by the Department of Public Instruction, State of Illinois, and is a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

In addition to the academic program, each student is required to study a vocation. Mooseheart is recognized as a pioneer in the field of vocational training at the high school level and today offers its students the opportunity to learn one or more of 12 different courses.

These vary from electronics, sheet metal, printing, and barbering for the boys to cooking, garment making, cosmotology and secretarial courses for the girls.

Every student has an opportunity to learn to play a musical instrument by being a member of the concert band. Every pupil has the opportunity to develop his voice by singing in one of the choirs or the senior chorus.

Much emphasis is placed on sports. Mooseheart varsity teams are known as the "Red Ramblers" and compete in football, basketball, wrestling and track in the Little Eight Conference. In addition, an extensive intra-mural sports and recreation program is conducted.

Two resident chaplains, a Catholic and a Protestant, administer to the spiritual needs of the children. Every child is trained in the faith which prevailed in his former home and at the present time there are Catholic and more than 20 different denominations of the Protestant Faith being practiced.

Because Mooseheart is a private school, officials are able to set aside one class period of each week for religious instructions. Every evening except Friday and Saturday the children gather in their respective halls for 15 minutes to study the Bible or their Catechism.

A staff physician and surgeon heads Mooseheart Hospital and directs a health program of preventive medicine which has enabled Mooseheart to maintain one of the highest health records of any institution of his kind.

A specialist is assigned to the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic and two dentists and an orthodontist are employed in the Dental Clinic. A full staff of nurses and technicians man the modern health center.

The Mooseheart Child Guidance Clinic was founded in 1930 not only to serve the needs of Mooseheart children, but also to make contributions to the advancement of knowledge in the field of child care and training.

Purposes of the Clinic are to give the Mooseheart administration as complete a knowledge as possible of each individual child in the community, to follow the life and development of each child during his stay at Mooseheart, and to furnish the administration with special and general surveys for the evaluation of teaching and training procedures.

More than 5,000 children have resided at Mooseheart since it was founded in 1913. The outstanding record of achievement of Mooseheart graduates is glowing evidence of the comprehensive training they received while at the Child City.

Mooseheart today is training and educating more than 300 children to take their places in society as useful and productive citizens. And Mooseheart with its spacious campus, 101 fireproof buildings and tree-lined streets stands ready to serve dependent children of its members as an example of true family fraternalism in action.

Lake Forest varsity cagers win big game against Laurel 67-60

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
The Spartans varsity basketball team won a big game against Laurel on Friday night downing the Bulldogs 67-60. "We led at half time by a score of 34-20...and we never headed", said head coach Bill Falasco.

Moving people in and out of the line-up held the score to 34 points in the first half. "But we played a lot of people...and got them in the line-up which is also very important to our program", added Coach Falasco.

Craig Custis scored 18 points and grabbed 9 rebounds. Ray Smith came through with 11 points while Danny DeMora dropped in 9 points.

Mac Holmes pulled down 7 rebounds and played his usual steady game. "Mac is suffering with a problem-some ingrowing toe nail...and it really hampers his play although he doesn't say too much about it", added Coach Falasco.

"For the most part we shot well and only had 14 turnovers... which is not bad considering that we are running a lot", said Coach Falasco.

"We showed them a lot of defenses...and over all we played a fairly tight game", coach added.

The Spartans lost on Tuesday night to Milford 65-57. "The 8 points difference was a lot closer. We were as close as 2 points in the fourth quarter and we almost had them...I thought at one point", said Coach Falasco.

Milford shot real well from the floor. They are ranked 7th in the State. Again Craig Custis, Mac Holmes, and Jason Tiggs did a real good job under the boards.", he added.

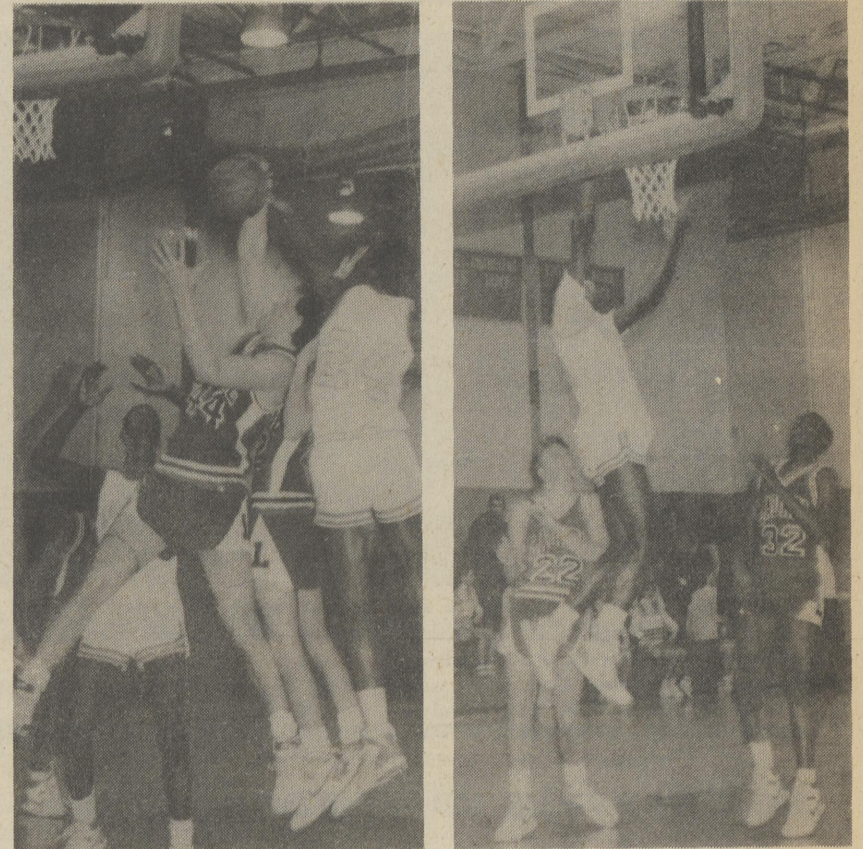

"Defensively...I thought it was one of the best games we had played all year", concluded Coach Falasco.

Tony Bray scored a season high 21 points played very well on defense and had 4 steals. The half time score was 34-30, "...and we were in the game...no doubt about it", said Coach Falasco.

The Spartans now move to 5-6 overall and in conference play have a record of 3-5.

This week the Spartans entertain Smyrna and Dover both away games. "Smyrna is improving but Dover has been going down since the beginning of the season", said Coach Falasco.

Terrain Giddens still suffers with a sprained ankle.

Spartan girls varsity basketball team loses first game of season

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL. The Spartan girls varsity basketball team lost their first game of the season Tuesday when the Milford Bucs invaded the Lake Forest gym.

The final score was 48-41 Milford, which was the same identical score between the two teams during the Christmas tournament—which the Spartans won.

"I think the thing which was the key to our loss started in the first half. We just had too many turnovers. Our first half play was poor," said head coach Pat Dyal Borowski.

"We out played them in the second half but the clincher came for them when Africia (Bell) fouled out with 2 minutes left on 3rd quarter," added Coach Borowski.

"When Africia (Bell) fouled out the big girl for Milford (Johnson) scored almost at will. We could not stop her at that point," said Coach Borowski.

With Africia Bell out of the game with more than a quarter remaining was the crippling blow to the team. No longer did they have someone who could get the rebounds or stop the big offense Milford possessed.

"They played a good zone defense which is what we are seeing more of from our opponents," said Coach Borowski.

"If they (most teams) try to play us man to man, I think we can hurt most of those teams...unless they are quick and fast. So far we haven't seen that in our opponents," said Coach Borowski.

Even though Africia Bell fouled out of the game and her importance was missed as the Spartans lost their first game of the season (10-1) she was the leading scorer for the Spartans with 11 points.

In the Laurel game, the Spartans were back in form as they trounced Laurel 59-32. Arlene May and Tara Dixon scored 18 points each. The Spartans improved their record to 11-1.

Spartan wrestlers win vital match over Laurel Bulldogs

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
With a great deal of emphasis placed on standings in the southern Division of the Henlopen Conference, Spartan head coach Tom Shaffer did some shuffling around in order to win this very important match.

The Spartans won 35-34 with the decision coming down to the heavyweight class, which Marvin Hicks won. Both teams were evenly matched.

In the 103 lb. class Freddie Johnson got a forfeit. Freddie improved his record to 9-1. His only loss came at the hands of Jim Mazola of Caesar Rodney. Freddie now has 7 pins.

In the 112 lb. class John Moyer was pinned in the 1st period by Laurel's best wrestler.

In the 119 lb. class Darryl Allen lost 17-

0. Darryl is really a 112 pounder moved up to hold down the score.

Steve Porter pinned by his 125 lb. opponent. He wrestled one of his better wrestlers. "Steve was out sick for two days prior to the match and possibly should not have wrestled", added Coach Shaffer.

Steve Coppick lost 11-2 in the 130 lb. class. "Steve had wrestled the kid previously and had lost both times by nearly the same score", said Coach Shaffer.

Larry Keller lost his match 8-6. "This was an important match for us because we knew that we could not lose any more points. And Larry gave us a good match," said Shaffer. Larry is in his second year of wrestling. "The other kid had more experience. He is as strong as anyone he wrestles...he is aggressive but he lacks experience", said Coach Shaffer.

Coach Shaffer was referring to the fact that a lot of kids Lake Forest wrestles have had 20 or more matches when they come to the varsity level. "Some kids are wrestling in the 3rd and 4th grade", he said.

Phillip Collison improved his record (9-1) when he took a forfeit. "They were trying to make a shift and get away from Phillip. They shifted Phillip's opponent up to Tracey (Johnson) who pinned his opponent. So the strategy backfired", said Coach Shaffer.

Tracey Johnson pinned his opponent in 45 seconds. "It must have really surprised them a great deal", added Coach Shaffer.

Alex Winchester got the wrestler that Tracey should have gotten and at the 152 lb. class and Alex pinned his opponent. Alex is a 9th grader "...and he is very strong and a very talented athlete", said Coach Shaffer. Alex now has a record of 2-1.

"At this point in the match, I had to make a shift. So I moved Kevin Wix (160) up to 171 lb. class even though the top 171 pounder would wrestle Kevin. I put Larry Morris a JVer in Kevin's spot and got the forfeit", said Coach Shaffer.

"Kevin lost his match but he prevented a pin by losing 8-3. But the loss allowed Laurel only 3 points. Kevin was ahead at the end of the 1st period but just got outpointed", said Coach Shaffer. "It was a good match and Kevin is a very competitive wrestler", added the coach.

Donnie Harrington was pinned in 58 seconds of his match and "...going into the heavyweight class we were behind 29-34. We needed a pin...and Marvin got it for us in 1:29 of the first period", said Coach Shaffer. "Marvin took him down and used a rifle arm which is a perfect pinning move for Marvin...because it takes a person with superior strength in his legs...and Marvin has it there. His exceptional leg strength enabled him to get the pin", said Coach Shaffer.

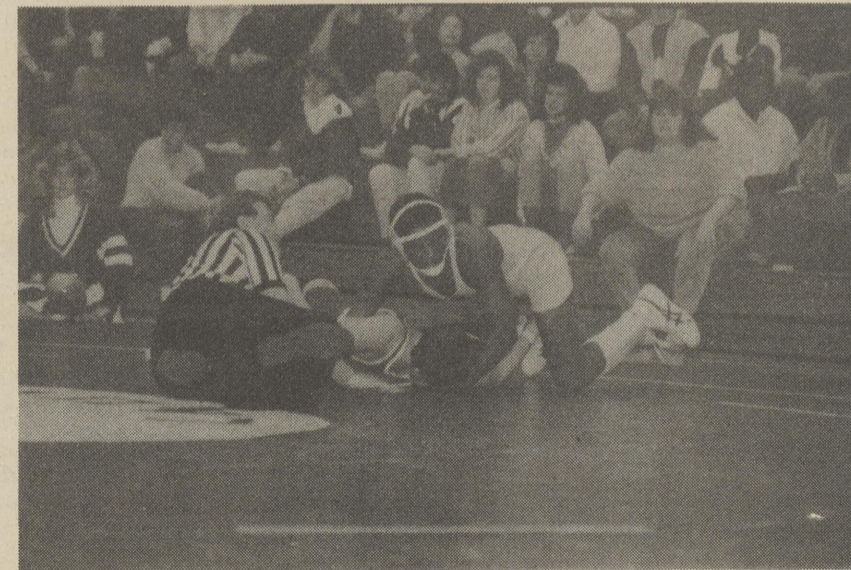

The 6 points picked up through the pin enabled Lake Forest to win 35-34.

Earlier in the week Lake Forest dropped their match to Milford 52-18. The winners of Lake Forest were Freddie Johnson (103) by a 1:00 pin; Tracey Johnson by forfeit, and Marvin Hicks a pin in 1:32.

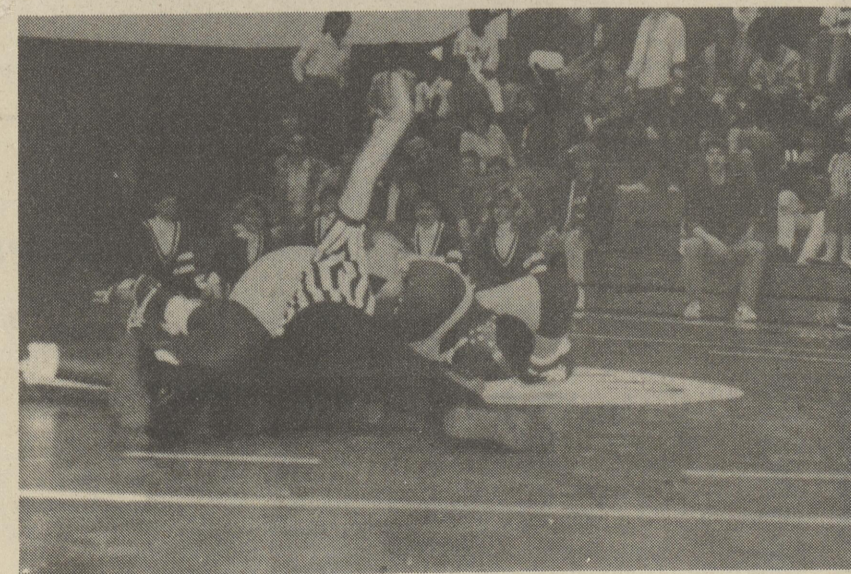

The Spartans are now 5-5 overall and 3-5 in the conference. Marvin Hicks and Tracey Johnson are undefeated (10-0); Freddie Johnson and Phillip Collison are 9-1. Other team members are John Moyer (3-5); Steve Porter (2-5); Steve Coppick (2-4); Larry Keller (2-8); Kevin Wix (5-5); Alex Winchester (2-1), and Donnie Harrington (1-8).

The Spartans face two tough opponents this week. On Wednesday they met Smyrna who are 4th in the State and 1st in the southern conference and Dover which is 2nd in the State and 1st in the northern conference.

The following week Lake Forest will meet Seaford, another very tough opponent.

With Lake Forest down 34-29, Marvin Hicks pinned Ronnie Kelly in 1:29 to clinch the victory for the Spratans. The result of the match was LF 35 - Laurel 34. Photo by Mike McColley.

Bodine wraps up Daytona testing with winter's fastest practice speed

DAYTONA BEACH, FL.—Geoff Bodine ended the 1987-88 winter testing season at Daytona International Speedway with a flourish, as he ran the fastest Winston Cup pre-season lap using a one inch restrictor plate—192.802 mph—on Saturday, Jan. 23.

More than 50 Winston Cup drivers tested in preparation for Speed Weeks, set for Feb. 3-14, culminating with the Daytona 500.

For Bodine, who suffered through a terrible season on the NASCAR Winston Cup Series in 1987, it was a good omen. Bodine headed the testing time sheets in 1986, and won the Daytona 500.

"We didn't have any cars built to run in December," said Bodine, which was why the team was absent during Chevrolet's first session.

"We had perfect weather to run fast," said Bodine of the 65-degree temperatures on the 23rd. "The Fords didn't have it so good, and who knows how hard they tried. Naturally, under these conditions the Chevrolets ran better than what the Fords were showing."

"From what I hear, (Bill) Elliott (Daytona 500 Busch Pole winner the last three years) says he'll run 194. Whatever the weather's like, it could be anywhere from 191 to 195."

The first suspense-filled act of Speed Weeks for the Winston Cup set will be played out on Saturday, Feb. 6, when the front row for the Daytona 500 is locked in with Busch Pole Qualifying. With the exception of a couple drafting sessions by Rick Wilson and Sterling Marlin in Oldsmobiles; and Dale Earnhardt and Terry Labonte in Chevis, teams primarily concentrated on getting their cars ready for qualifying runs.

The Busch Clash of '88 on Sunday, Feb. 7, will be the first race run with the restrictors. Thirteen Busch Pole winners from 1987 will compete.

Before Bodine's hot run, Ricky Rudd had held the fastest lap for nearly the whole 46 days of testing. He ran 192.143 mph on Dec. 11. Rudd, who ran 191.939 in January, predicted speeds only slightly higher for Busch Pole day.

"I think about the maximum you would see would be 193, somewhere in that area," he said. "It would be a miracle to see 195, but with the right weather and good track conditions, who knows?"

While virtually all the veteran teams took advantage of the test sessions, which were divided according to car model, the test time was also valuable for newcomers, including a couple road racers who hope to make their stock car debuts in the Twin 125-mile qualifying races for the Daytona 500, Thursday, Feb. 11.

South African Sarel van der Merwe, winner of the 1984 SunBank 24 at Daytona, tested Rick Hendrick's R&D project Chevrolet at 185.797 mph, and Darin Brassfield of San Jose, CA, an SCCA Trans-Am heat winner at Daytona in '84, ran the second Junie Donlavey Ford he'll supposedly enter.

30th Daytona 500 purse 20 times greater than in 1959

DAYTONA BEACH, FL.—Officials at Daytona International Speedway recently announced a record-breaking purse of $1,546,595 for the 30th annual Daytona 500 NASCAR Winston Cup Series season opener on Sunday, Feb. 14.

The 1988 purse figure is more than 20 times greater than that of the inaugural Daytona 500 on Feb. 22, 1959. The first Daytona 500 had posted awards of $67,760, and champion Lee Petty won $19,050.

Bill Elliott of Dawsonville, Ga., won $204,150 when he captured the 1987 Daytona 500, more than 10 times greater than Petty's payoff.

The race has had a purse in excess of $1 million since 1983.

The $1,546,595 figure for the Daytona 500 and its qualifying events is part of an overall payout of more than $2.5 million for Speed Weeks' events.

The stock car portion of Speed Weeks '88 begins today, Feb. 3, with practice for the Daytona ARCA 200 Permatex Super Car Series race and the Budweiser International Race of Champions XII opener.

The Winston Cup cars open practice on Friday, Feb. 5, with Busch pole Qualifying, which will lock in the front row for the Daytona 500, set for Saturday, Feb. 6 at 2 p.m.

The field for the Daytona 500 will be complete after the Twin 125-mile qualifying races are run on Thursday, Feb. 11.

No fewer than 40 of the best stock car drivers in the world will take the green flag at 12:15 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 14, in the 30th Daytona 500, the only million-dollar stock car race in the world.

Walls named "Rookie of the Year" at Middleford banquet

by Don Mitchell

There are probably a lot of fourteen year olds that dream about racing cars and sometimes even dream of winning. Scott Walls of Houston doesn't have to dream about it, he went out and did it this past season in a big way. Scott, the youngest driver to ever win both "Rookie of the Year" and the "Micro Points Championship" at Middleford Speedway in his first year. Prior to the 1987 season Scott had no driving experience, so this was a major accomplishment for anyone, any age. Scott also finished third in the points championship at Trailways, a track in Hanover, Pa.

Scott and teammate "Rapid" Rick Kreble put on quite a show for the spectators at the Middleford track, near Seaford, this past year in the Eastern Petroleum Services sponsored micros, which were built and prepped by Scott's dad, Eddie Walls. Eddie, who has been involved in racing for several years, brings alot of knowledge, talent and fresh ideas into play with this E.P.S. Micro Racing Team.

Scott's mother, Dee can also be seen around the pits, running errands and doing whatever is needed to help make this team run smoothly. His grandmom also gets into the picture as his cheering section. This is really a family affair and everyone contributes.

Could there be a modified in Scott's future? Who knows, but if there is, competition beware! Anyway...hope to see them up front in '88.

Parsons draws wild card starting spot for Busch Clash of 1988

DAYTONA BEACH, FL.—In a case of poetic justice, car owner Junie Donlavey, on the eve of the NASCAR Winston Cup, banquet, drew the Wild Card starting berth in the Busch Clash of '88 at Daytona International Speedway for driver Benny Parsons.

Donlavey's Ford Thunderbird had been eliminated from the Feb. 7 Clash -- a 20-lap, 0-to-win race among the Busch Pole winners from the previous Winston Cup season -- when driver Ken Schrader opted to drive Rick Hendrick's Chevrolet Monte Carlos in 1988.

Schrader had won the Busch Pole for the TranSouth 500 at Darlington Raceway while driving for Donlavey. A drawing to select the "Wild Card" entry for the 10th annual race was held Dec. 4 in New York among the 16 drivers who had qualified fastest in second-round time trials at 1987's races without winning a pole. Parsons wasn't there, but Donlavey drew the coveted starting assignment.

"I'm tickled as I can be to be in the Busch Clash," said Donlavey, who had never had a car qualify for the event.

Farmers Can Choose Method To Value Livestock Inventory

A simple method of inventory valuation is available to farmers who raise livestock and who use inventories in computing their gross income for federal income tax purposes, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Under this method, called the unit-livestock-price method, livestock is grouped or classified according to kind and age, and a standard unit price is used for each animal within a class or group.

This method recognizes the difficulty of establishing the exact costs of producing and raising each animal, but the unit prices used should be close to the normal costs incurred. Unit prices and classifications are subject to IRS approval.

Farmers who use the accrual method of accounting for income and expenses must use inventories. Under the accrual method, all items of gross income from farming operations generally are included in gross income when earned, even though payment is received in another tax year.

Farmers who use the cash method of accounting for income and expenses generally do not need to use inventories to figure income. With the cash method, farmers include in gross income all items of income received during the year, even if earned in another tax year.

If the unit-livestock-price method of inventory valuation is used, all raised livestock must be included in inventory, whether held for sale or for draft, breeding, dairy or sporting purposes. All livestock purchased primarily for sale also must be included in inventory. Livestock purchased for draft, breeding, dairy or sporting purposes may be either included in inventory or treated as depreciable assets, but should be treated consistently from year to year in either case.

Other methods of inventory valuation available to farmers are: cost, lower of cost or market, and the farm-price method.

Under the farm-price method, each item in the inventory, whether raised or purchased, is valued at the market price less the estimated direct cost of disposition.

For more information, farmers can get free IRS Publication 225, Farmer's Tax Guide, by sending in the order blank in the IRS tax return package or calling toll-free 1-800-424-3676.

TAX TIPS

Retirees Should Review Tax Withholding on Pensions

Retirees receiving a pension or annuity must decide whether to permit or decline tax withholding, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Under the tax law, federal income tax generally will be withheld from pension and annuity payments. However, this withholding is not compulsory; any person can apply for exemption. The payer of the pension or annuity payments will tell the retirees how to file for the exemption. However, the exemption is not available for pension or annuity payments made after December 31, 1986, to certain U.S. persons residing overseas.

Special Rules Help Divorced, Separated Parents Determine Child Exemption

Divorced or separated parents must use special rules to decide whether they or their former spouse can claim the exemption for their child when they file their tax return. The special rules for divorced or separated parents apply only if:

1. The parents are divorced or legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, are separated under a written separation agreement, or lived apart at all times during the last six months of the calendar year, and
2. One or both parents provide more than half the child's total support for the calendar year, and
3. One or both parents have custody of the child for more than half the calendar year.

Although there are some exceptions, the parent who has custody of the child for most of the year is usually treated as the parent who provides more than half the child's support. It does not matter whether the parent with custody has been actually providing more than half of the child's support.

A noncustodial parent may claim the exemption for their child if either (1) The custodial parent signs a written declaration that he or she will not claim the exemption for the child and the noncustodial parent attaches this written declaration to his or her return, or (2) A decree or agreement executed before 1985 provides that the noncustodial parent is entitled to the exemption and he or she provides at least $600 for the child's support during the year, unless the pre-1985 decree or agreement is modified after 1984 to specify that this provision will not apply.

More information for divorced or separated individuals can be found in IRS Publication 504, Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals, available by using the order blank in the tax return package or by calling 1-800-424-3676.

Tax Reform Act Affects Farmers

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 made many changes to the federal tax law that will affect farmers, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

- Soil and water conservation expenses. Beginning in 1987, expenses for soil and water conservation may be deducted only if they are consistent with a plan approved by the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the area in which the land is located. If no plan exists, the expenses are deductible only if consistent with a soil conservation plan of a comparable state agency.
- Soil conservation expenses include expenses for grading, terracing, and contour furrowing; construction of drainage ditches, irrigation ditches, dams and ponds; and planting of windbreaks.
- Land clearing expenses. Beginning in 1987, expenses paid or incurred to drain or fill wetlands or prepare land for center pivot irrigation systems are no longer deductible. These expenses must be added to the cost basis of the land.

- Prepaid farming expenses. Farmers who use the cash method of accounting may not be able to deduct expenses for certain farm supplies until the year in which the supplies are used. This rule applies to amounts paid or incurred in tax years beginning after March 1, 1986. The rule generally applies to farmers who use the cash method of accounting to report their income and expenses and whose prepaid expenses for feed, seed, fertilizer, other farm supplies, and the cost of poultry are more than 50 percent of their other deductible farming expenses, including depreciation and amortization, for the year.
- Land clearing expenses. Beginning in 1987, expenses paid or incurred to drain or fill wetlands or prepare land for center pivot irrigation systems are no longer deductible. These expenses

The Tax Reform Act reduced most tax rates for individuals and made numerous other tax law changes that will affect farmers as well as other taxpayers.

W.T. Chipman boys basketball team still undefeated

by Don Mitchell

HARRINGTON. Last Thursday's game pitted the Chipman Spartans against the Seaford Bluejays. Seaford started off leading 4-0 and probably feeling pretty confident when Chipman called from within, took possession of the ball and never looked back.

Jermaine Harman #35 as usual was busy burning up the court. Teammate Kenny Bailey #24 took the ball away from many of the Seaford players and returned it to his end of the court for two points. The 1st period ended with Chipman leading 14-8 and Seaford trying to play catch-up.

The second period continued pretty much the same, with Jermaine Harman and Kenny Bailey racking up points and Jason DeMora #5 and Terrence Benson #25 playing a great defensive game. The second period ended with Chipman leading 30-16. When the second half started, Chipman came back a little sluggish. About four minutes into the third quarter Coach Probst brought them in for a little pep talk and evidently fired them up, for they came back onto the court in top form. In the last couple of minutes Chipman scored thirteen points to finish off the third period leading 43-26. The last period saw some of the up and coming basketball player's for Chipman such as Gary Harris #10, Danny Stubbs #30, Mark Bordley #23 and Geoffrey Trzepacz #20 showing promise.

As I have said before, the team as a whole, play well together and their record for the year proves that. So far they are 8 for 8 and they have played some good teams. The Seaford Bluejays are no slouches, but they went down with the final score of 56-39 Chipman. Chipman has three more games for the season which are all on the road, but my opinion is, the way this team has played this season and with the leadership of a good Coach such as Coach Probst, the Chipman Spartans will do well.

New educational outreach program launched to combat alcohol and drug treatment

A statewide education effort has been launched by The Recovery Center of Delaware to inform the public about treatment issues and costs relating to drug and alcohol abuse.

"We want to help people know not only what to do when they encounter drug and alcohol problems, but where they can turn for treatment at a cost that doesn't make them paupers for the rest of their lives," says John Moody, director of LKEC (Delaware) and The Recovery Center.

"Some patients are being referred out-of-state to programs that are charging three, four and five times as much as our in-state program," says Moody. Ironically, many Recovery Center residents are referred from counselors in other states who are attracted to both the high quality and low cost of the program.

Accredited by the Joint Commission, the Delaware City facility offers a modern facility with 60 treatment beds, it is non-profit, and is part of the LKEC network of outpatient and inpatient treatment programs.

Since its renaming in the summer of 1987, The Recovery Center has been pilot testing materials with specific target groups including physicians, employers, athletes and citizens concerned about family members or friends with drug or alcohol problems.

If people are concerned about treatment costs, adds Moody, they should be even more concerned about the costs of not treating someone with such difficulties.

Anyone may call The Recovery Center and ask for a free copy of "Tips for Handling A Most Difficult Problem: Drinking or Drug Use."

Members of the public are also invited to the LKEC Forum, a series of free educational discussions about innovations and trends in addictions treatment held at 10 a.m. the third Wednesday of each month. The LKEC is held at The Recovery Center on the grounds of the Governor Bacon Health Center in Delaware City.

PUBLIC FORUM

Senatorial Report

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District

If you could have made your way around the stretch of limousines and through the Wall Street and Washington visitors and big-time lobbyists in Dover last week, you would have heard a lively debate about the merits of proposed anti-takeover legislation.

The eyes of the entire corporate world are on Dover as the General Assembly debates the advisability of enacting new curbs to protect corporations from takeover by hostile "raiders."

There are two sides to every story, especially one as important as this. During nearly 10 hours of hearings, most of which I sat through with fascination, experts alternated in forwarding arguments for or against the proposed legislation.

It is necessary to protect Delaware's preeminence as a corporate center and the revenue which goes with it? Or is it an unnecessary restriction which perpetuates poor management and reduces the value of stocks?

Arguing one's case is one thing. But frightening elderly retirees on fixed incomes is another thing, and unforgivable in my opinion.

What happened was that opponents of the proposed legislation got ahold of a list of retired state employees and sent some of them telegrams indicating their pension benefits would be cut if the anti-takeover proposals were enacted.

The worried pensioners naturally began bombarding legislators with postcards furnished by the opponents. The postcards urged us not to take hasty action and to oppose the anti-takeover bills because they would "reduce pension benefits and increase taxes."

By the time the smoke had cleared, the State Board of Pension Trustees felt it was imperative to send a letter to each state pensioner making it clear that their pensions were not in danger--whether or not the anti-takeover bills are enacted.

I realize that a lot is at stake here. But I think the opponents of the legislation, at least in this instance, should be ashamed for having tried to instill panic in elderly retirees in order to bring them into the battle.

I'd like to add my reassurance to that of the Board of Pension Trustees. If you are a retired state worker, your monthly pension check is guaranteed and fully funded. It cannot be reduced, whether or not anti-takeover legislation passes.

If you had any doubts, I hope this column removed them. Sleep in peace.

"The Boxer"

by Dr. James H. VanSciver
Superintendent

Simon and Garfunkel were a popular vocal group during the late 60's and middle seventies. Sometimes their music dealt with social issues.

One song... one line seems very appropriate as officials at Lake Forest School District continue to pursue a relationship between school and community which may best be characterized as trust, confidence and credibility.

The phrase, "A man hears what he wants to hear and disregards the rest," is included in The Boxer.

As school leaders deliberate on the issue of a possible referendum package for this spring, many questions will arise. These questions are important and need be answered.

It is incumbent on all those interested in promoting a quality education program for the betterment of our communities to first ask questions and then listen to the answers.

It is the responsibility of school officials to present answers which are direct, clear and not cluttered with unnecessary data.

Direct, concise questions with direct, concise answers. That will pave the way for important communication.

School officials hope that those who will pose the questions will be objective in listening to the answers and not "hear what they want to hear and disregard the rest."

School Censorship: Compulsion creates conflict

by John Semmens

"School Censorship Upheld" read the headline in my city's daily newspaper. The January 13th ruling by the Supreme Court that school officials have the right to control the content of the student newspaper is stirring controversy. Unfortunately, little attention is being directed to the root of the problem: public schools.

It is because the schools are publicly owned and operated that an otherwise reasonable act takes on sinister potential. It is the existence of tax-financed education that creates the inevitable clash of individual rights. That is, both sides of this case have legitimate rights. The resolution of the case in either side's favor tramples the rights of the other side.

The Court's logic was sound in asserting that the school, since it sponsors and funds the student paper, has a right to exercise editorial control. To deny this right would amount to requiring someone to fund the publication of ideas he finds offensive or harmful. Some 200 years ago, Thomas Jefferson correctly condemned forcing a person to finance ideas he opposed.

On the other hand, critics of the Court's decision are justified in their fears of growing suppression of expression. The recent trend in Court decisions has upheld warrantless searches and censorship of speech within schools. The extension to student papers is in line with these earlier findings.

If schools were private institutions, privately financed and voluntarily attended, there would be no case to bring to court. Private institutions would have discretion over whether there were a student paper and what its content might be. Those who didn't like the way this discretion was exercised would be free to take their business elsewhere. Competition among private schools would lead to a diversity of approaches to this issue.

When schools are public, though, there can be no equitable resolution of the problem. Those who find their local schools unsatisfactory, for whatever reason, are not really free to take their business elsewhere. Students are permitted to attend state-approved alternative schools, but not to select unapproved alternatives. Even if the student leaves the public school, his parents aren't free to withdraw their tax support. Parents may send their child to a state-approved private school, but they still will be required to pay for a public school education not received.

The heavy tax burden for public education effectively limits the schooling choices for many people. Though they might like their child to attend a private school, many parents cannot afford to pay twice for one education. In short, many children are forced to attend public schools.

Because of the compulsory and collectivist method of finance of the public schools, the violation of rights is guaranteed. The student writing a controversial article for the school paper has paid (in the form of his parents' taxes) for part of the cost of the support of the publication. Other taxpayers, who also have paid part of the cost, do not want their tax dollars to fund this controversial article. Whether the article is printed or suppressed, someone's rights will be violated.

That compulsion and collectivism should threaten free expression is amply demonstrated by conditions in the Soviet Union. The Soviet constitution guarantees a free press. At the same time, though, the government owns all the presses. Obviously, the government cannot allow valuable and scarce resources to be wasted on the expression of "frivolous" or "harmful" ideas. Consequently, the constitutional guarantee is meaningless in a collectivist institution where the authorities own the presses.

The only way to protect the rights of those who express ideas, as well as the rights of those who must pay for the publication of the ideas, is to discontinue the use of compulsion in education. Taxpayers should not be compelled to pay for schooling they neither want nor use. Students should be free to attend any school they or their parents are willing and able to pay for.

Ending coercion in schooling would go a long way toward demonstrating our understanding of and commitment to freedom. A truly free education would eliminate a major source of conflict and injustice in our society.

A laff a day...

by William T. Ficka

A man sent for a handyman to do a few minor jobs around the house. The handyman finished them in about an hour and presented him with a bill for $75.

"Seventh-five dollars for only an hour's work? I'm a lawyer and I don't charge my clients that much," exclaimed the man.

"The handyman said, 'Neither did I when I was a lawyer.'"

Remarks by Governor Castle Highway Safety Press Conference

You have a package of materials which outlines in considerable detail the dimensions of the problem I am about to describe, as well as the specific steps we propose to take in the next years to address the problem.

I will make a brief statement, then the people who will be responsible for our new highway safety program will have some comments. Then we'll answer your questions.

Drunk driving, traffic injuries and traffic fatalities are on the rise again throughout this country after a period of years during which our national safety record seemed to be improving.

In Delaware, we have seen our highway death toll increase year after year, until last year we experienced the highest number of fatalities in half a dozen years.

In 1987, 147 people lost their lives on our highways. That's 25 more people than Delaware lost during the Vietnam war, which lasted more than a decade.

Murder, as heinous and regrettable as it is and with all the publicity that surrounds it, resulted in only 23 deaths last year.

In addition, there were roughly 3,300 injuries on our highways, last year, injuries which involved and will involve, for many people, serious physical and psychological pain.

The social, financial and personal cost of this accident toll is enormous to those involved, and it affects all of us in our insurance rates. During 1986, related insurance claims totalled $189 million in Delaware alone. The national figure was over $51 billion.

A few months ago I asked Secretary Steiner to put together the comprehensive highway safety program we are kicking off today to address the entire range of problems we are experiencing on our highways.

There are several main areas of concern:

• The first is driving under the influence.

The tough new DUI laws we passed while I was chairman of the drunk-driving task force several years ago, the roadblocks, and the publicity have reduced fatalities and injuries, but both remain too high.

• My second concern is speeding and dangerous driving.

The State Police say -- and I believe they are right -- that there has been a steady decline in the observance of the rules of the road. Since 1982, the number of people ignoring the 55-mph speed limit in Delaware has increased by 50 percent. Since 1981, although our roads may be safer when measured per passenger mile, we have seen a 23 percent increase in crashes.

• My third concern is trucks and truck drivers, because they are seen as a major source of highway problems. The behavior of an increasing number of truck drivers is the number-one complaint of the general driving public.

Trucks of all types, ranging from 18-wheel tractor-trailers to pick-up trucks, were involved in 41 percent of the fatal crashes in 1987, up from 30 percent in 1986.

• The fourth concern is the most fundamental of safety measures -- seat belts and helmets.

I realize that these are both sensitive issues, and that many of the loudest advocates claim that the state is infringing on their personal freedom, but none of those arguments change the bottom line:

Ninety percent of the people who died last year did not use their seat belts. Ninety percent of those killed in 1986 were not wearing a belt. And 95 percent of those killed in the last ten years were not wearing a seat belt.

As for motorcycle helmets -- 72 percent of the 117 motorcyclists killed in Delaware since 1977 were not wearing helmets.

Finally, there is the issue of young drivers, who continue to be over-represented in all aspects of the traffic safety problem. One incredible statistic tells it all: in 1986 twenty percent of the 16-year-olds in Delaware were involved in a crash.

Teenage drivers.
Drunk driving.
Speeding and dangerous driving.
Trucks.

Seat belts and helmets.
If we are going to succeed in reducing accidents and deaths on our highways, then we need to address each of those problems. I believe we have come up with a comprehensive package that will make a big dent in all five areas.

Some of the measures will require legislation. Others require only administrative decisions and new emphasis in enforcement. All require a renewed effort by drivers in Delaware to obey the law and drive safely.

• First, next week in my Budget Message I will recommend the addition of fifteen patrol officers for the Delaware State Police. More police on the road will mean better enforcement.

In combination with the new judges and new personnel I will recommend for our court system, as well as changes designed to move cases more quickly, we can make it more likely that offenders will be caught and punished.

• Second, I have directed the State Police and the enforcement arm of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission -- the ABCC -- to target two areas: establishments that continue to serve those who are under the influence, and package stores that sell to those who are underage.

State Police and ABCC agents will use underage police agents to see who is selling to those obviously underage.

We want establishments to take responsibility for their actions voluntarily, as has been the case in Newark. But we are also planning to increase the penalties for those who do not -- whether they are selling to people already intoxicated or selling to underage drinkers.

I continue to support and will actively lobby for legislation which will make it illegal for drivers to possess open containers of alcohol, and will push for passage of legislation which will allow us to suspend the licenses of underage drivers who have had any alcohol at all.

Needless to say, we are going to step up use of sobriety checkpoints, and intensify our effort to remind drivers that they are out there.

• Third, we will also propose legislation to make the use of radar detectors illegal. What's more, we intend to catch those who are continuing to use detectors. More than 50 percent of Delaware State Police radar units are now equipped with anti-detector switches, and all radar purchases in the future will be so equipped.

In addition to radar with anti-detection switches, the State Police have incorporated nine VASCAR-Plus units into their speed measuring inventory. These devices allow troopers on patrol to detect speeders without emitting a radar beam detectors can pick up.

We will make more extensive use of non-traditional police vehicles to catch violators.

• Fourth, I intend to call in trucking executives for a meeting in the near future to step up voluntary cooperation from the trucking industry.

I'm confident that we will have all the support we require from the trucking industry. But we are fully prepared to step up enforcement against those who will not comply.

In fact, two weeks ago, the Office of Highway Safety sponsored a five-day program to train 35 officers to detect unsafe trucks.

At the same time, we are relying on new federal legislation to make it tougher on those truck drivers who don't obey the law.

• Fifth, as for youthful drivers, an area of special concern to me, we intend to do more than simply crack down on illegal drinking.

We will also introduce a new, easy to identify driver license for under-age drivers, and we will crack down on false id's and counterfeit licenses.

We will administratively introduce a 60-day grace period for new youthful drivers who will be required to continue to drive with an older driver during that two month period.

• Finally, I am prepared to support both seat belt legislation and motorcycle helmet legislation this year. When you consider the fact that 34 industrialized nations have seat belt laws, that all of our neighboring states have seat belt laws -- that seat belts save lives -- there is no excuse for Delaware to cling to the dangerous past.

When you consider that in a California study of 900 motorcycle fatalities, not a single rider was wearing a helmet, it is very clear that helmets save lives.

Quill in Pen

by G. Robert Quillen

Roads are always a concern of residents of the 3rd district, as well as in the entire state, so I am pleased to inform you that plans are underway for the renovation of Rte. 14.

The Department of Transportation has scheduled a public workshop meeting Tuesday, February 23, 1988, from 4:00 to 8:00 p.m. in the cafeteria of the W.T. Chipman Middle School. Representatives from DelDOT will present plans for the Rte. 14 project, from the Maryland line to Harrington, which include widening the existing roadway to provide for one 12 foot travel lane and an 8 foot shoulder in each direction, roadside drainage improvements and resurfacing.

Governor Castle mentioned this road in his budget address on January 28. This workshop will be conducted as an open forum and has been structured to provide area residents with DelDOT's plans, but also encourage your ideas, suggestions and questions about the project. This is your opportunity to talk to the Department of Transportation.

For more information, contact Paul A. Welsh, Manager of Community Relations at DelDOT at P.O. Box 778, Dover, De. 19903 or call him at 1-800-652-5600. If I can answer any questions, feel free to call me at home or in my Dover office.

A couple weeks ago, I spoke to House Substitute #1 to House Bill 396, known as the Corporate Takeover Bill. This bill received much debate in two Joint House-Senate Judiciary Committee hearings and the General Assembly was even paid a visit by Corporate Raider T. Boone Pickens.

The bill passed both the House and Senate, with legislators deciding it would be in our best interest to protect the corporations and workers who are already in Delaware. If the companies were to pull out of Delaware, there would be a danger of losing many millions in state revenues. The bill now goes to the governor to be signed into law.

Thoughts from Washington

Taking a breather

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

We can all breathe easy for another year. For 1988, the issue of ocean incineration of hazardous waste is dead. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has announced that they will discontinue the development of regulations for ocean incineration until 1989.

As one who has consistently and outspokenly opposed the use of this new technology, I was very pleased with EPA's decision. In fact, I had just contacted EPA Administrator Lee Thomas urging him to put a stop to the development of these rules. I am glad that the administrator has taken my advice and put a halt to this action. I also suggested that the budget savings generated by halting these actions could be spent on the development of constructive alternatives for the disposal of hazardous waste.

EPA was in the process of promulgating the ocean incineration regulations. These rules were necessary in order to issue permits for the actual ocean burning. However, in early January the only company that has operating ocean incineration vessels decided to abandon their efforts to get permits to burn.

In my opinion, there were many reasons why EPA came to this decision.

First, public outcry, including protest by many Delawareans, against the use of ocean incineration has been tremendous since the proposal for ocean incineration was introduced and it has not waned over time. The constraints of the budget also influenced EPA's decision and forced them to reassess their priorities. Finally, the North Sea Ministers, representing eight European countries, met and decided last November to back away from using ocean incineration by the end of 1994, sending a signal to the EPA that this technology is questionable at best.

EPA's decision now requires Congressional approval. However, I don't anticipate any problem in sign off on this by Congress.

While EPA's decision was certainly good news to all Delawareans who want to protect and preserve our beautiful coastline, we cannot completely let our guard down against this threat. It has been delayed until next year. At that time a new administration will take office and decide on the course of action for the future. We can only hope that the new administration is environmentally minded and will agree with this decision. However, we must continue to keep watch.

At Abraham, a man who was willing to sacrifice his child, yet this event was the greatest adventure in Isaac's unremarkable life. Abraham's radical devotion to God, his willingness to even give up his son, apparently did not scar Isaac in any way. The blessing which God had promised to Abraham came down to us through Isaac. On the other hand, sin and the lack of obedient faith in our lives may scar or even sacrifice our children. Pray for wisdom in your family relationships and for a faith in God that will bless your children.

Person-to-Person

He gets the bugs out

by Rebecca Moore

The memory of the experience will stay with me for a long time—so vivid was the experience. We had arrived earlier that day in one of the most fascinating places on earth—the Dead Sea located in the southern portion of the Land of Israel. It was extremely hot and the sun was shining brilliantly. I changed into my bathing suit and raced down to the water. I had heard so much about this body of water, and I was anxious to experience its uniqueness for myself. Our hotel, like all those on the shores of the therapeutic body of water, was extremely luxurious. Rich, thick carpeting, beautiful furnishings, sophisticated dining rooms—this was quite a place. It seemed a little out of place since its location was right smack in the middle of a totally barren desert. But I was enjoying all the luxury and the beauty of my unusual surroundings, so the drastic contrast around me just became part of the wonders of an incredible land.

I returned to my hotel room after spending a thoroughly wonderful time floating around in the maple syrup-thick waters, while my roommate, Carol, stayed downstairs to swim in the indoor pool and soak up some steam in one of the hotel's many spas. I was alone in the room on the fourth floor, with no one anywhere around. Walking into the room, I was overwhelmed with an uncanny feeling—I was not alone—someone was very much with me. Boy, talk about something giving you the creeps! Looking over the room, I was reassured that no one was there, but the bathroom was still left to be searched. I cautiously peeked my head around the corner and breathed a sigh of relief as I surveyed an empty room—but then I noticed the bathtub...the shower curtain was drawn tightly shut. "Oh, my goodness!" I thought, "Someone is hiding in my bathtub!" I had no defense, no protection, and screams would have done nothing but echo back at me from the empty room. In spite of my fears, I bravely grasped the curtain and thrust it open. There, instead of some fearsome, two hundred pound creature with blood thirsty eyes, sat the biggest cockroach I had ever seen. He just sat there and stared at me—all three inches of him—with his antennae flailing at me. He looked big enough to provide a substantial meal for someone. Relief and repulsion swept over me simultaneously. Then panic set in. I would be spending the next eighteen hours in the same room with this monstrosity! Oh, horror of horrors! With lightning-quick responses, I grabbed the nearest weapon I could find—a white towel folded up and sitting on the back of the toilet—now, don't laugh. I was a desperate woman—and charged upon the armour-plated beast. I'm not real sure just what I expected to accomplish with a towel, but I did my best. Mr. Roach, however, had other ideas, and it seemed no matter how many times I buffeted him with my trusty towel, I was no match for his cunning. He merely scampered down the drain and out of my sight.

Shortly thereafter, Carol returned from her dip in the pool and found me in a rather upset condition. When I related to her my ordeal, she simply shook her head. Carol lived in the heart of downtown Philadelphia and was a nurse in a huge geriatric facility also in Philly. To her, roaches were an everyday occurrence—a fact of life over which she didn't bat an eyelid. My pleas for sympathy were wasted on her. She really thought I was whacked when I told her I would not sleep in that room that night unless the drains were securely covered. But she finally agreed, and we saw no more of our man-eating predator.

Welcome to Delaware! A wonderful state full of delightful people and wonderful places to visit. In New Castle County, one can find museums, opera houses, industry and high technology. Kent County offers a slower lifestyle and fewer stop lights, a beautiful capital and the world's largest airplane Cross the line in to Sussex County and Delaware's famous beaches and the Atlantic Ocean await you, along with acres and acres of fertile farmland and fabulous restaurants serving the best of sumptuous seafood. It's a great little state and living here is terrific! But, in addition to the wonders of this state also come some less-wonderful, multi-legged creatures. Although we don't have much in the poisonous department (thank goodness for that!) we still are deluged with just about everything that flies, scurries, chews, bites, stings or repulses. When I moved to Dover fourteen years ago, I was told that the mosquito was the official state bird. For a while I had a tendency to agree with that statement, until I met the deerflies—those hideous little black buggers that fly in your eyes, ears and mouth and chase you back indoors. What nasty little creatures they are! Mosquitoes, although a pain in the neck, pose no real threat to humans—but if you happen to be of the canine variety, watch out! Through a very complicated process, heartworm larvae are sucked out of an infected dog by a mosquito, and injected into another unsuspecting canine. The results are fatal if the dog is not treated, and Delaware, because of its large number of mosquitoes, is pretty hard on dogs. In addition to these, because of the fact that Delaware is so low and damp, most of the state is a cockroach's dream come true. These most lowly and despicable of all life forms (in the author's opinion) just love to be warm, damp, and dark. Crawl spaces, basements, attics with heat pumps, swampy wooded areas—the vermin's favorite hangouts. Let's not forget crickets that eat your carpets and keep you awake at night, the fleas that drive your pets to distraction, the moles that turn your yard into catacombs, termites that eat your house, and the mice that eat everything else.

HELP!

If you are faced with the problem of dealing with one of the above, help is just a telephone call away. Look in the yellow pages of your telephone book, and you'll find a vast assortment of life savers—a group of gallant individuals who stare these dreaded creatures square in the face and destroy them, once again making our Delaware homes bugless! Armed with sprayers and the latest in chemical preparations, they wage a seemingly endless war against the creepy crawlies.

Considering the fact that I live in the woods, a very damp woods at that, and finding a mouse in my kitchen is not exactly the greatest joy of my life, I picked up the phone. That's when I met Mr. and Mrs. Wes Bailey of Bailey's Termites and Pest Control. He's a life long resident of Smyrna, and she hails from Scranton, Pennsylvania. Their business is run out of a little shop up in Smyrna, in a shopping center which houses a variety of businesses and an assortment of local characters. Sitting in the Bailey's office, I listened to country-western music, and watched, with a degree of amusement as a continual parade of fellow shop-owners streamed through the door. It seems that Mrs. Bailey makes real good coffee, and always has a pot on the burner. This draws in all the neighbors for a mug of the good stuff and a quick chat to catch up on all the local news. Besides the Baileys, the shopping center is also home to a television repairman, a private investigator, a veterinarian, a flower shop, a shop which sells airplane parts, a gift shop which Mrs. Bailey operates, and Leager construction company. All these people are good friends—its' just like one big, happy family. In addition to the neighbors who visited the Baileys, various friends and relatives also stopped in. This made my visit with the Baileys even more interesting, because everyone had a story to tell, especially good old bug stories.

Mr. Bailey, formerly a machinist, has been in the bug business for about sixteen years now. He got involved with it when one of his brothers (he has a total of four) opened the business. About two years ago, his brother retired, and Mr. Bailey took over the operation. Exterminating is not a job for anyone, but Mr. Bailey just takes it all in stride—nothing seems to upset him. I wrinkled my nose more during our conversation than I have in a long time. When he talked about his shoes and pantlegs turning black with fleas, or so many roaches, they were crawling on people, my nose really went wild! Boy, this man has really got some nerve! Just the sight of one roach is enough to send me running hysterically through the house in search of some lethal weapon, preferably a shoe belonging to someone else. But multi-legged beasts don't even phase Mr. Bailey. He just gets in there and gets rid of them. He's alot braver than me!

If you're a homeowner, probably your biggest concern when it comes to pests is that nasty little creature called the termite. Forty different varieties of termites live in North America and they do as much damage to property each year as does fire. Termites live in a very complex society—each termite has his or her own specific task. But the important thing about termites is, if you've got them, you need to get rid of them. Termites live on wood and paper. Since most of our homes are at least partially built of wood, termites can show up feasting in anyone's home—they're not particular about whose home they destroy. Should you see a swarm of insects on the ground or in your home, it's time to call Mr. Bailey. A swarm of insects can be an indication that your house is being eaten.

Since exterminators use chemicals, I was concerned about potential health hazards to the exterminator, himself, and those living in homes which require the chemical's use. Mr. Bailey often has to make use of a respirator—a mask containing a filtration system. This prevents chemical fumes from entering his body. He takes every precaution necessary to prevent accidents when using and handling chemicals. Even the strongest treatments do not require evacuation from your home for more than a few hours. Once a chemical has dried, it no longer poses a threat. I had to laugh, though, when Mr. Bailey told me about a home he had to fumigate for fleas. He had to use so much fogger, it set off the smoke alarm in the house. But then, there were no more fleas!

Eliminating unwanted creepy things from our homes is not an easy task and should not be performed by someone who doesn't know what he's doing. Mr. Bailey is an expert and knows how to get rid of anything that bugs you. He runs a thriving business, and he knows just about everybody in the whole town of Smyrna. If bugs are a problem, give him a call (he also has a Milford extension). He'll get rid of your bugs, and tell you some real interesting stories in the process!

The wisdom of the elderly continues to amaze me. The other day, I was at work. I walked into Mary's room, and she was watching that morning news program on CBS. They were doing a story about a baby boy who had just undergone a liver transplant. The story had a happy ending for the little boy and his family, but not for the parents of another child. Another baby died, and his liver was used in the transplant. Watching the interview with the bereaved parents, Mary and I cried. Then we watched, in amazement, as the transplant took place. The sick little boy totally changed within a matter of minutes and within a few hours was on his way to complete recovery. Mary and I were awed by what medical science is capable of performing, but it was Mary who summed it all up with her statement, "My, my, God's hands were busy that day!" She was right.
