

Adamo presents plan for 205 lots for Harrington

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell

HARRINGTON. At the workshop meeting on Monday night, Mr. Joseph Adamo, a resident of Raughley-Hill Road near the city limits of Harrington, presented a plan for the lay out of 205 lots along the Raughley-Hill Road. Mr. Adamo seeks utilities, sewer, water, from the City of Harrington. He would like to have the lots go into the City limits. Whether a property does not join the city or whether it does not adjoin the city, Mayor Harry G. Farrow said that the city should be a question for the city solicitor to resolve.

sewer and trash plus the taxes on lots valued at $15,000, it would mean approximately $140,000 a year for the city. I think it would be a plus for the city. I think it would be a plus for the city to consider this proposal", Mr. Adamo said at last night's meeting. Mr. Adamo was directed to the state and county for possible funding. Mr. Adamo was directed to the state and county for possible funding. Mr. Adamo was directed to the state and county for possible funding. Mr. Adamo was directed to the state and county for possible funding.

plan presented was one which the county elections department would run and keep updated. It would require the city's employees to run the actual process on election day. There will be more workshops on this, and the public will be kept advised. The voter registration would require charter changes or new ordinances. The Mayor has proposed a study to be made of the Harrington Police Department. He cited the need for a complete analysis of how the department is operated from the standpoint of costs versus revenues. "I think it is time the council knew just exactly what it is costing the taxpayers to operate this department. Once we know that then we can better approach the notion of what we need or what we can do without, but it is needed. At the next regular meeting, I want a motion to approve this study and make findings and recommendations", the Mayor said. An update was given on the proposed construction of Dorman Street where that street is to be resurfaced, new curbs and sidewalks. The Mayor joined Councilman James C. Temple, Jr. and advocated that the city put as a priority the upgrading of the water and sewer along Dorman Street which could be eligible for a grant. Mayor and council discussed the possibility of replacing the city senior clerk in the front office. With that employee leaving the position this month, it has left a vacancy. The Mayor had asked William F. Smith, the city manager to give the council his recommendation as to whether a part-time person could be used in that capacity "...or would it still require a full time person". Mr. Smith indicated that a part-time person might be acceptable. The council proposed guidelines for the city's audit, and the Mayor recommended that the accountant for the city, Eikenberry, Lank & Co., be returned to give an oral report on the recent audit, which would show the number of accounts, the amount of money on hand, and the average balance in the accounts. The Mayor indicated that the council must make proposals for the Bicentennial grant money. "This has been hanging fire for sometime, and I feel the public should be given an opportunity to express through a referendum what they want. I believe a number of sites existing or otherwise should be offered for the taxpayer's consideration...and let them decide what they want", he said. The council must select a city solicitor in the next few days. "We have a lot of business which must be taken up through a lawyer," said the Mayor. With that the Mayor proposed the council adopt certain rules and procedures to follow in the selection process. The interviews will be held sometime this week.

Cooperation and communication promised by new council

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell
HARRINGTON. At an informal press luncheon held Friday at the Colony Inn, Mayor Harry G. Farrow, Jr. introduced the two new members of council, Mr. Morris "Bob" Willey and Mr. William Porter. Also introduced were the new City Manager, Mr. William Smith and Vice Mayor James C. Temple, Jr. "It was 'Super Tuesday' in Harrington", said Mayor Farrow, referring to Tuesday's special election held for the 2nd Ward. Councilmen Willey and Porter both expressed their appreciation to the citizens for their support. Councilman James Temple expressed his willingness for the council to keep the lines of communication open with the press as well as establishing a better relationship with the citizens of Harrington. "I want to represent the citizens of Harrington strongly and deeply", said Temple. Referring to things that needed to be resolved, Mr. Temple mentioned the Bicentennial grant and charter revisions and/or changes. Keeping a good working relationship with the press, citizens and council is also a main concern of Mr. William Smith, the new city manager. "The City of Harrington is as low as I can remember", said Smith. Mr. Smith emphasized his delight with the recent input from many citizens of the town and stressed he welcomed criticism, as well as praise. "Right now the city is a 'sea of apathy'. Citizens are furious about the goings on in City Hall," said Mr. Smith. The predominate problem seems to be the same as with many municipalities... cash flow. "Cuts can be made," said Smith. "There is no fast process, I must work priorities", he added. When asked about the audit of the books, Mr. Smith commented that no progress had been made as of yet. As far as the cash flow problems are concerned, one of the first steps is to collect some of the thousands of dollars owed to the city. Councilman Willey had suggested the possibility of forgiving some of the penalties to get the cash in. Mr. Smith is also concerned about creating communications between himself, as city manager, and the council. "I will be stepping on some toes—I know this—but I am going to do my job in a businesslike manner," said Smith. "My worth will be measured in results, not words," added Smith. Several citizens were present to express their interest and concern in city matters. Mr. Howard Dill, Harrington resident and ex-postmaster, who is concerned about how town meetings have been conducted suggested that the mayor and council would have to maintain and stick to the agenda. "Other subjects not on the agenda should be placed in a workshop," said Mr. Dill. Mr. Fred Greenly, also a longtime resident of Harrington, whose interest in the town government was spurred by a personal experience some years ago, voiced optimism. "I am looking forward to working with the new council to get the town back on its feet," said Mr. Greenly. Even with Councilmen Temple, Porter and Willey pledging to work together and to bring the city government back to the people, the absence of the "other side" of the council...Councilmen Jack Wyatt, Watson Brown and Daniel Coleman, was quite obvious.

Citizens hear remarks concerning Block Grant

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell
Harrington. Michael Thompson, Director of Kent County Community Development Program spoke to a number of citizens on Monday night at a public hearing held at city hall to discuss a grant to aid the community. This year the county has targeted housing and the upgrading of housing as the chief type of priority for consideration. According to Mr. Thompson the grant would cover needs to the utility system, demolition, housing rehabilitation, ditching, improvements to streets and sidewalks, as well as improvements to the sewer and water systems. The grant totals $1.2 million with each approved applicant being able to acquire up to $300,000. The application must be completed and submitted by the 29th of this month. "It is important to consider a project which will win appeal for as you can see the $1.2 million will not go very far if only four applicants would qualify", said Mr. Thompson. The council will act on the grant whether to approve or disapprove it.

Harrington Rotary Club welcomes Janie Warren

Last Thursday evening Harrington Rotary greeted Janie Warren, Rotary Foundation Scholar, home from Australia where she spent a year of study at the New England University at Armidale, New South Wales. The dinner was hosted by President Roger Trice who welcomed Janie and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warren, and brother Downes. Also present were representatives from Milford Rotary in the persons of Harvey Marvel, Sr., and George Adams, both former District Governors. Present District Governor of Rotary District #763, John Culver, Jr., was in attendance with his wife Barbara, who came up from Salisbury for the occasion, as was Leslie Wix, vice president of the Dover Capital City Rotary Club and his wife Betty. After a rendition of the national anthem "Australia Fair" by Mrs.

Winona Deputy, Dr. Howard Row, Chairman of the Selection Committee that helped select Janie for the Rotary Foundation honor, introduced her to the audience with a resume of her activities that led up to her selection. Janie then displayed articles brought back with her from her year's experiences and gave a slide showing of her activities on sheep ranches and meetings with various members of Rotary on that continent as well as trips through the Outback. Her speech reflected accents that couldn't help but be picked up by her associations with the people of the regions with whom she lived. As a gift from Harrington Rotary, she was given a copy of the February 1988 issue of the National Geographic magazine that featured the various aspects of Australia, as well as a scrapbook with the seal of Rotary International, the name Harrington Rotary Club, and her name as the recipient, in gold inscription on the cover. This book should enhance her various remembrances between its covers. The dinner was the third for this local recipient of a Rotary Foundation Scholarship for study abroad, the first being held two years ago as a "get-acquainted" meeting after Janie was awarded the scholarship, the second held last year when she was preparing to leave, and the "welcome home" dinner held last week. She is now working in the Department of Agriculture offices of Washington, D.C. federal bureau. The committee on arranging all three dinners as composed of Rotarians Melvin Brobst, Chairman, Leon Porter and George Thompson who has since moved to Falls Church, Virginia.

During the course of the evening, Leon Donovan, was recognized as a potential member of local Rotary and was introduced by Rotarian Dr. Arthur Gilbert. The head table floral arrangement was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Porter and presented to Janie's mother at the conclusion of the program. Looking ahead to future spring activities, May 5 will bring five students from Sweden with their leader to the area under the Group Study Exchange program of Rotary International that will include a tour of the Lake Forest High School facilities. On May 14 a singing group of four barbershop vocalists known as the Singing Adelines will be performing. Harrington Rotary meets weekly at the local Colony Inn Restaurant, with President Roger Trice, presiding.

Beach nourishment underway at Bowers Beach

North Bowers Beach is getting some extra protection thanks to a beach nourishment project currently underway. According to Chuck Williams, state dredge coordinator, the project is expected to be completed in approximately six weeks. Williams said 50,000 cubic yards of material will be pumped on the main portion of the beach between the St. Jones and Murderkill rivers. Williams said the operation is designed to replace material which has been lost since the last fill project in late 1985. He said the operation will begin in the mouth of the St. Jones River to clear the channel. The dredge will then move to a borrow area 1,000 feet offshore for the remainder of the operation. According to Williams, the dredge will then move to Kitts Hummock to complete a beach maintenance project involving approximately 25,000 cubic yards of material. He expects the dredge to move back to Broadkill Beach in early May to complete a similar nourishment project. The Division of Soil and Water is currently seeking permits to allow the construction of a groin on the south side of the Murderkill River on South Bowers Beach, Williams said. "The groin will hopefully curb erosion on the north side in the Murderkill channel and reduce the shoaling problems in the mouth of the river," said Williams.

This is the remains of a doublewide mobile home owned by Mr. & Mrs. Raymond Tonczak. The blaze occurred at approx. 8 p.m. Sunday evening. Harrington Fire Co. responded with 45 men and 6 pieces of equipment. Greensboro Fire Co. also responded. The home was located about 7 miles northwest of Harrington on Rd. 275. The cause is still unknown but thought to be accidental. Photo by Don Mitchell.

As Time Goes By...

Days Of Our Years

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell
30 YEARS AGO
FEBRUARY 28, 1958

Some 370 persons paid homage to the venerable Dr. William T. Chipman Monday night, in a testimonial dinner in the cafeteria of Harrington High School, while thousands of others paid tribute in absentia.

The dinner was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the Lions Club, the Harrington Business & Professional Women's Club, and the Harrington New Century Club.

Attendance, probably the largest in the history of Harrington at a dinner requiring paid admission, was curtailed slightly because of an epidemic of respiratory ailments and because the dinner, scheduled for the previous Monday, had been canceled because of snow.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ryan and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Shultie attended the races at Daytona Beach, Fla., recently.

The sale of a large tract of land in Harrington to an industrial concern was completed this week.

Norris C. Adams, owner of the 43-acre tract, said the sale was made this week to the Trane Company, Lacrosse, Wis. An agreement was made last fall, on the purchase, but final settlement was delayed until this week.

The Adams tract is bounded by East Street, on the west, and has openings on U.S. 13 on the east. The Trane Company, one of the nation's largest manufacturers of air-conditioning, heat transfer, and heating equipment, also purchased a strip of the Benson land, to the south, for a switch from a branchline of the Pennsy, and a lot on the western side of East Street, at the railroad crossing, for a switch. A delay in clearing the title of the last-named tract was a reason for the delay in completing the sale of the main tract.

10 YEARS AGO
MARCH 1, 1978

Homicide and attempted suicide along with burglary kept both the Delaware State Police and the Harrington Police Dept. busy in two separate incidents last week.

On Friday the victim of an apparent homicide was Loretta Benson, 38, of 101 West Street, who was dead on arrival at the Nanticoke Memorial Hospital in Seafood after she had apparently been shot in the head with a .22 caliber rifle by her common law husband, Herbert Flamer.

Flamer, 55, of 127 Mispillion Street in Harrington is in serious condition in the Delaware Division of the Wilmington Medical Center after apparently attempting to commit suicide, after shooting Miss Benson by shooting himself in the forehead. Flamer had been scheduled to appear in magistrate court in Harrington on Friday morning but instead allegedly went to the home of Miss Benson about 10 a.m. and forced her at gunpoint to get into a car and drive to a deserted road 1 1/2 miles north of Harrington off of County Road 275.

After arriving there Flamer apparently shot Miss Benson and then shot himself. Her body and the wounded Flamer were found by a truck driver who was using the road as access to his place of business (Mutual Rendering) around 2:20 p.m. Friday afternoon. He then contacted the Delaware State Police who upon arrival contacted the Harrington Volunteer Fire Department Ambulance who transported the injured Flamer to the Milford Memorial Hospital. Flamer was then transferred to the Delaware Division by the Delaware State Police Helicopter.

Earlier in the week the Harrington Police Department had received the report W.T. Chipman school that unknown subjects had entered the building through a window at the back of the building by apparently prying it open with a pair of pliers and a screwdriver. After the subjects gained entrance to the building they went to the junior high school office and then to the cafeteria where they made off with approximately eighty-two dollars in currency. The investigation is continuing.

The Lake Forest girls' basket team clinched second place in the Henlopen Conference's Northern Division and a trip to the state tournament as they defeated the Caesar Rodney High girls team last week.

The girls will have begun play in the State Tournament on Monday as they will have met Ursuline Academy in the second game of a double header at Smyrna. Ursuline had a record of 14-4 on the season.

Do you remember?

by Dorothy Graham

Before you read this—if you dare—be prepared for a hodge-podge column. Minds are sometimes like that. Remember?

This column is sent to tell you that you are very dear. Think of you so often—forget you never fear. My life's been more pleasant because you passed my way—Read on kind friends—that's all I'll say. Hey! Wait—Thanks for the prayers!

To Smile! Hi all you good folks.

Do you remember the first Valentine you ever received? I do, it was a honey. (a Hershey bar). Received one of those awful comics too. It called me a gold digger, can you imagine that? It was truly a joke believe me, as anyone that ever knew me knows that never did I ever have a "sugar" boyfriend. Ha! Ha! Never the less there were worse ones in the market. Are they still selling them? All I get now are absolutely lovely—hate to do away with them.

Do you remember Richard Reeder? He gave me a chic one. A cupid doll the last Valentine's Day he was alive. He was a fine looking young man and so very pleasant. George, my husband, gave me a thrill, a strand of "Delta" pearls and honey they are chokers now for sure. They are still beautiful! Still have a Valentine card that Pauline Cohen (Alexander) gave me in school—also one from Viola Clendaniel, Virginia Martin (Burtman), Hattie Mae Betts (Biddle), Mary Perrone, Madalyn Tharp, Louise Layton, Marge McCready (Gerardi)—lots of homemade ones from my children—George, Gracie, Penny and Genie. Time to get rid of all of them for must make room for the latest ones.

Do you remember the flowers on Valentine's one of your children gave you? I'm remembering Elbert Stevens' last Valentine he gave his devoted wife Catherine—he had a lovely gold chain with a heart on it. Wasn't that nice after so many years—it was always something he did—Remember the things that truly make a lady happy. If you didn't remember this past Valentine's Day—you are lucky for Easter, Mother's Day and maybe her birthday are still coming. Anyway—just count yourself lucky, if she or he is still speaking to you.

Thanks each and everyone of you who sent me a card while I was a patient in Milford Memorial Hospital Christmas, January and the first of Feb. It is so nice to be remembered. Some sent Valentine's cards. Sweetie it is GREAT and do thank you so so much!!

Remembering all the folks at the Harrington Senior Center, the good times—the Valentine's parties—the Bible Study—the Band (Jolly Timers). The Chorus. It is a joy to see these senior citizens doing a toe tapping time! Say ladies and gents, would live to see some of your first Valentines! They had lots of lace and hearts and cupid didn't they? Maybe one of these days you will show them off! Everything's coming in heart shape now—cake, ice cream, candy, hankies, note paper—you name it—it's for sale!

Take care and remember all the past Valentines but keep up with the present. Be thankful for friends and

Lones' celebrate 30 years in the ministry

On Sunday, January 10, 1988 the congregation of Independent Bible Fellowship Church, provided for their pastor, Clifford Lones and Mrs. Lones, a very special day in appreciation for their thirty years in the ministry.

At the beginning of the morning service, five of their children, Mrs. Deborah Gowell and Mr. Tim Lones, Muskegan, Michigan, Mr. Mark Lones, Charleston W.Va., Mr. Dan Lones and Miss Rachel Lones, Harrington, entered, which was a total surprise to Pastor Lones.

During this service, each of his children recalled many memories they have made as a family in service to the Lord.

A fellowship meal was enjoyed by all and followed by an afternoon service. It was during this time many letters from past acquaintances were read, each expressing their joy in having known the Lones family and related a special event from their memory.

Also, among the many congratulatory letters, was a very special one, from President and Mrs. Reagan.

Everyone was very happy to have been a part of this special day in honoring our pastor and Mrs. Lones for their dedication to the furtherance of the gospel.

Pastor Clifford Lones and wife, Janet.

Prospect United Methodist Church

February 21, 1988-First Sunday in Lent. Sermon by Rev. Holliday was entitled "When I Face My Own Sin."

Rev. Holliday spoke of 3 men hanging on a cross, but one is suffering innocently. There is a difference in His spirit and life. Of the other two, one repented and his sins were forgiven, the other one died alone.

We condemn others because we forget our own sin, or we tend to distort the facts rather than face the truth. A healthy sense of guilt and an awareness of our sin can lead us to Christ.

The children's sermon was given by Jane Everline. She talked about conflict in our daily lives and how the conflict should be dealt with and not avoided. She used a sandwich as an example of dealing with conflict. The bread represented love, caring, and acceptance. The filling was the problem to be dealt with.

person with whom you are at odds with love and acceptance, tell them how you feel, and finish by assuring them of your love and friendship.

Ushers were Elaine Zeiter and Mark Wagner. Acolyte was Willie Freeman. Scripture was read by Herman Zeiter.

Marvin Hicks retains conference crown

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
CAPE HENLOPEN. The Henlopen Conference held its annual conference wrestling championship on Friday and Saturday at Cape Henlopen High School.

Defending heavyweight conference champion and Lake Forest Senior, Marvin Hicks, retained his crown when he defeated Ron Wuest 13-3.

"This was a situation where Wuest tried to wrestle Marvin who did not back off. Neither backed off. They came out to wrestle. And you just don't do that with Marvin, because he always dominates," said Head Coach Tom Shaffer. "Wuest tried a few things and Marvin got him. He just outwrestled him," added Coach Shaffer.

In the preliminary round, Freddie Johnson drew a bye. John Moyer was pinned in 3:16, Darryl Allen lost 11-0 by major decision, Steve Coppick lost by technical default (18-3), Phillip Collison drew a bye, Alex Winchester drew a bye and Marvin Hicks drew a bye.

"Moyer was just pinned by a more experienced wrestler, Darryl (Allen) was in the wrong weight class, Steve (Coppick) did his best and Alex (Winchester) who is a 9th grader wrestled a senior who finished 2nd in tournament. Alex will be one of our top wrestlers one day. He has really improved," said Coach Shaffer.

In the consolation quarter finals Coppick lost 7-0 in the 130 lb. class, Larry Keller lost by a pin in 4:38. He had gotten a pin the consolation round.

"He was behind at the time in the 3rd period but came back, got the kid on his back twice and finally held him there. Did a good job," said Coach Shaffer.

Phillip Collison lost close decision 8-6 to Carey of Sussex Central, but Kevin Wix saved us with a 7-1 win over Birl of Cape Henlopen. "Kevin should be in a lighter weight class. He is quick on his feet but he gives up pounds and strength to his opponents."

In the consolation semi-finals, Drummond of Indian River decided Kevin 10-6. "This was an improvement for Kevin for during the regular season Drummond threw Kevin around pretty hard, and Kevin defaulted there. Here he had a good match with him and even threw him once," added Coach Shaffer.

In the championship semi-finals Freddie Johnson lost 3-2 to Nowakowski (CH). "Freddie had lost to him by a wide margin in the Seaford tournament. He wrestled real well...but beat himself," said Coach Shaffer. "He got a take down in the first period and with 15 seconds left in the period he let him up. I asked him afterwards why, because that one point cost him the tournament. He said he got his chin strap in his mouth and could not breathe," said Coach Shaffer.

In the heavyweight class Marvin Hicks decided Watts (CH) 2-1. "This was a close match. This is one of those situations where heavyweights just keep backing up and stalling. Each lost a point here for that and the other was Marvin escaping," said Coach Shaffer.

In the 5th place round Nacrelli (Smy) decided Kevin Wix 4-2. "This was a great effort by Kevin and big improvement by Kevin over regular season play with him because he beat him pretty badly in regular season," added Coach Shaffer.

Consolation finals in the 103 lb. class Freddie Johnson decided Weber (Delmar) 8-1. "Freddie beat him badly in regular season play. Freddie is very strong for his weight class," added Coach Shaffer.

The Spartans ended their season 3-2 in southern conference play 4-7 in conference standings.

Spartan girl hoopers win two Coach gets 200th win

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL. The girl's varsity basketball team picked up two victories last week, clinched the Southern Division crown of the Henlopen Conference, and gave Coach Pat Dyal-Borowski her 200th and 201st win.

"We had the height in both games...controlled the boards. They stayed with us in the first period—then we ran off 8 straight points and a full court press which broke their backs," said Coach Borowski.

Spartans beat Delmar 73-30. Arlene May had 15 points while four other teammates hit double figures like Melanie Pelton (12), Tara Dixon (14), Africia Bell (12) and Evette Hicks hit on 12 points.

Spartans downed Smyrna 56-21. "Our record goes to 17-1 which is the most wins ever for me in one season," added Coach Borowski.

"This is the best team that I have ever coached," said Coach Borowski. "This team is loaded with talent. In the past I have had good teams where you had three good players and two extras. But this team is strong and they work together," said Coach Borowski.

Prior to this season the most wins for Coach Borowski was 16 wins. The record this year is 17-1 overall with 13-1 in the conference. The Spartans have two games remaining.

Asked why she was so successful, she said "I think it is because I stress fundamentals, passing, shooting, lay up, and dribbling the ball."

The Spartans improved their foul shooting with a 56% last week.

The Conference Championship will be Saturday at 4:00 p.m. at Seaford

Coach Pat Borowski

when the Spartans face the winner of the Cape vs. Milford this week.

In the Smyrna game Arlene May scored 14 points as the Spartans coasted to a 55-26 win. She also had 8 steals and 5 assists. Senior Africia Bell scored 10 while Evette Hicks dumped in 10 too.

"The game was not close as we out rebounded them 2-1," said Coach Borowski. The Spartans wrap up their season this week with a game at Woodbridge and home against Laurel on Thursday night.

"We face a tough opponent in Woodbridge on Tuesday. They are always tough down there...in the 'Cave'. Just hope for the best. It has been a great season," said Coach Borowski, who surely should be named Coach of The Year.

Tax Law Changes For U.S. Citizens And Residents Overseas

Tax law changes for 1987 will affect U.S. citizens and resident aliens living overseas, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The maximum annual exclusion for foreign earned income has been decreased to $70,000 for 1987 and later years. The maximum exclusion for 1986 was $80,000.

As under prior law, most U.S. citizens and resident aliens abroad must file U.S. income tax returns even if their earned income is exempt from tax.

Taxpayers who violate U.S. laws that prohibit travel to certain countries will not qualify for the foreign earned income exclusion in 1987 for income earned in those countries. Also, they will not be able to count their presence or residence in those countries for the purpose of qualifying for the exclusion.

The countries to which travel restrictions apply for 1987 are Cambodia, Cuba, Libya, North Korea, and Vietnam.

Beginning in 1988, U.S. passport applicants may be required to submit a tax information statement as part of their application. This statement will include the individual's social security number, foreign address, and certain other information. A penalty of $500 could be assessed for failure to provide the statement, if required.

Beginning in 1987, U.S. income tax must be withheld from pension and annuity payments unless the recipient chooses exemption from withholding and provides the payer with a residence address in the United States. A U.S. address for a nominee or agent will not meet this requirement.

Taxpayers needing tax assistance while overseas may find help at many U.S. embassies or consulates. IRS Publication 54, Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad, may be helpful. Taxpayers overseas can get forms and publications at U.S. embassies or consulates or by writing to: Internal Revenue Service, Richmond Distribution Center, P.O. Box 25866, Richmond, VA 23260.

Divorced or Separated Parents Can Both Claim Medical Expense

Divorced or separated parents are reminded of rules regarding their child's expenses, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Divorced, separated, or married parents who have not lived together during the last six months of the calendar year, and have supplied more than half of the child's support together, can now deduct the expenses they incurred for their child's medical care. Previously, only the parent who could claim the child as a dependent was entitled to claim medical expenses.

According to the Internal Revenue Service, the child will be treated as a dependent of both parents for purposes of the medical expense deduction. This deduction creates a tax benefit for the parent who is not entitled to the exemption for the child, since without those medical expenses, the 7.5% adjusted gross income limit might not be met.

The deduction does not apply where half of the child's support is treated as being received under a multiple support agreement.

Free IRS Publication 504, Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals, has more information on this subject and can be obtained by using the order blank in the tax return package or by calling 1-800-424-3676.

Deduction Limits On Automobiles

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 set a new recovery period and established new limits on deductions for the business use of automobiles. These limits are: $2,560 for the first recovery year, $4,100 for the second recovery year, $2,450 for the third recovery year, and $1,475 for each succeeding tax year.

The limits apply to the total of depreciation and the deduction allowed by section 179 of the Internal

TAX TIPS

Deducting Moving Expenses May Save Taxpayers Money

Taxpayers who are changing their job location or starting a new job this year may be able to claim many of their moving expenses as an itemized deduction on Schedule A (Form 1040) when they file their tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said. Form 3903 is used to compute the amount of deductible expenses.

Moving expenses that are allowable as an itemized deduction include the costs of: 1) househunting trips prior to the move but after getting the new job; 2) disposing of the old home and getting a new one; 3) meals and lodging while occupying temporary quarters at the new location; 4) moving personal items and household goods; and 5) transportation, meals, and lodging while traveling to the new residence.

A limited amount of job-related moving expenses may be deducted if the taxpayer meets the "distance test" and "time test," and the move is "closely related" to the start of work.

To meet the distance test, the new main job location must be at least 35 miles farther from the taxpayer's former home than the old main job location was. For example, if a taxpayer's old job was three miles from his or her former home, the new job must be at least 38 miles from that home.

To meet the time test, a taxpayer must be employed full time for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months after arriving in the general area of a new job location. A taxpayer does not have to work 39 consecutive weeks or work for the same employer to meet this requirement. If a taxpayer is married and filing a joint return, and if both spouses work, either spouse's employment may fulfill the full-time work requirement but the weeks each spouse worked cannot be added together to fulfill the 39-week test.

Taxpayers who are self-employed must work full time for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months after their move, and for a total of 78 weeks during the first 24 months.

In general, a move is considered closely related to the start of work if moving expenses are incurred within one year from the date the taxpayer first reported to work at the new location.

Taxpayers generally deduct their moving expenses in the year they pay them. Taxpayers who did not deduct moving expenses on a return already filed may be able to file an amended return. For more information, Publication 521, Moving Expenses, is available free by calling the IRS Tax Forms/Publications number listed in local telephone directories under U.S. Government.

Once-in-a-Lifetime Exclusion of Gain From Sale of Home

If you're 55 or older, you could be eligible for a "once-in-a-lifetime" $125,000 exclusion of gain on the sale or exchange of your home, the Internal Revenue Service said.

You qualify if you are 55 or older on the date of the sale or exchange. You must have owned and used the home as your principal residence for a period of three years out of the five years ending on the date of the sale, and you or your spouse must have never excluded gain on the sale of a home after July 26, 1978.

A principal residence is the home in which you live. Of course you must own the home, whether it be a houseboat, mobile home, condominium, apartment, or house. If you own two homes, and live in both, your principal residence is the one that you reside in most of the time.

Your gain is the selling price of the residence minus selling expenses and items included in the basis of the home. The basis is the original purchase price plus improvements.

If you are married, you may not choose to exclude the gain unless your spouse joins you in making the choice. If you meet all the requirements, and are married but filing separately, you may choose to exclude your share of the gain up to $62,500. Your spouse must agree with your choice to exclude the gain. You may make or revoke your decision to exclude the gain from a particular sale or exchange at any time before the latest of: three years from the date you return for the year of the sale is due, three years from the date the return was filed, or two years from the date the tax was paid.

For further information, IRS Publication 523, Tax Information on Selling Your Home; Publication 554, Tax Information for Older Americans; and IRS Form 2119, Sale or Exchange of Principle Residence, are available free. To obtain these publications and IRS Form 2119, use the handy order form found in your tax package or call toll-free 1-800-424-3676.

Social Security Numbers Required For Dependents 5 Years and Older

As a result of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, a taxpayer claiming a dependent who is at least 5 years old must include that dependent's taxpayer identification number on the taxpayer's return. For most individuals, this number is their social security number. This new law is effective beginning with 1987 tax returns.

If the dependent has a social security number, but the taxpayer does not know what it is, the taxpayer should contact a local Social Security Administration office.

To get a social security number, a dependent must have evidence of: (1) date of birth, (2) U.S. citizenship or legal alien status, and (3) identity. A public, hospital, or religious birth record is generally sufficient for the first two items. A school record and certain other documents can be used for proof of identity. For more information, taxpayers may ask at any Social Security Administration office for the free leaflet, Applying for a Social Security Number.

Questions and Answers Help To Explain Tax Law Changes

Taxpayers who itemize will find many changes due to the Tax Reform Act of 1986. The Internal Revenue Service has compiled the following questions and answers about itemized deductions.

Q. Will I still be able to take a deduction for medical and dental expenses?

A. Yes, but only deduct the unreimbursed part that is more than 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income.

Q. What interest deductions am I allowed to take on my home?

A. Generally, if you itemize deductions on Schedule A, Form 1040, you can deduct all mortgage interest on your principal residence and a second residence for all mortgages secured on or before August 16, 1986. On mortgages secured after that date, you will generally be limited to deducting interest only to the extent that the loans are not more than the purchase price plus the cost of improvements.

Q. Can I deduct loan interest on a mortgage secured after August 16, 1986, that is in excess of the purchase price plus the cost of improvements?

A. Yes, if the mortgage interest results from borrowing money for qualified medical or qualified educational purposes.

Q. Will I still be able to deduct the interest on my car loan and credit cards?

A. The deduction for personal interest will be phased out. The deduction will be limited to: 65 percent in 1987, 40 percent in 1988, 20 percent in 1989, 10 percent in 1990 and zero percent thereafter. For this purpose, any interest that you cannot deduct because of the home mortgage limitation, discussed in the preceding two questions, will be considered personal interest.

Q. Can I still deduct sales taxes?

A. No, taxpayers can no longer deduct state and local sales taxes.

Q. Are there limitations on deducting employee business expenses?

A. Yes. Except for reimbursed expenses and moving expenses, employee business expenses will generally be deductible as a miscellaneous itemized deduction and only to the extent that they exceed two percent of adjusted gross income.

Q. Can I take a deduction for tax return preparation?

A. Yes. However, miscellaneous deductions such as tax planning expenses, union dues and subscriptions to trade magazines are only deductible to the extent that they exceed two percent of adjusted gross income.

Q. Are there taxpayers who must itemize deductions?

A. Yes. Some taxpayers must itemize deductions. For example, when married taxpayers file separate returns and one spouse itemizes deductions, then the other spouse must also itemize.

Q. Can I continue to take a charitable deduction without itemizing?

A. No. A charitable contribution is only deductible for taxpayers who itemize.

Q. How are moving expenses deducted?

A. Moving expenses of an employee or self-employed individual are now allowed only as an itemized deduction. This deduction is not subject to the new two percent of adjusted gross income limitation.

Q. Are adoption expenses still deductible?

A. Adoption expenses are not deductible. Adoption expenses for a child with special needs were allowable as an itemized deduction under prior law but can no longer be deducted.

Senatorial Report

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District

As I mentioned in my last report, I've been working with the newly created Farm Assistance Task Force to find ways of helping Delaware farmers. But one of the real problems we face in Delaware is in people's understanding of the role agriculture plays in our state's economy. This problem is reflected just as much in the state budget as it is anywhere else.

As example of what I'm talking about came up for discussion at the second task force meeting last week. The Castle Administration is proposing to spend $300,000 on aid to farmers at a time when Delaware agriculture is facing the hardest times it's seen since the days of the Great Depression.

At the same time, the Governor has quietly slipped a little proposal in the State Department of Agriculture budget to spend $442,000 to "create 10 new position to consolidate all forestry functions statewide." But when you really get into finding out what he's talking about you realize that what the Administration wants to do is to take over management of some 164 parcels of land owned by the New Castle County government, together with 10 New Castle County employees who supposedly have jobs taking care of all this.

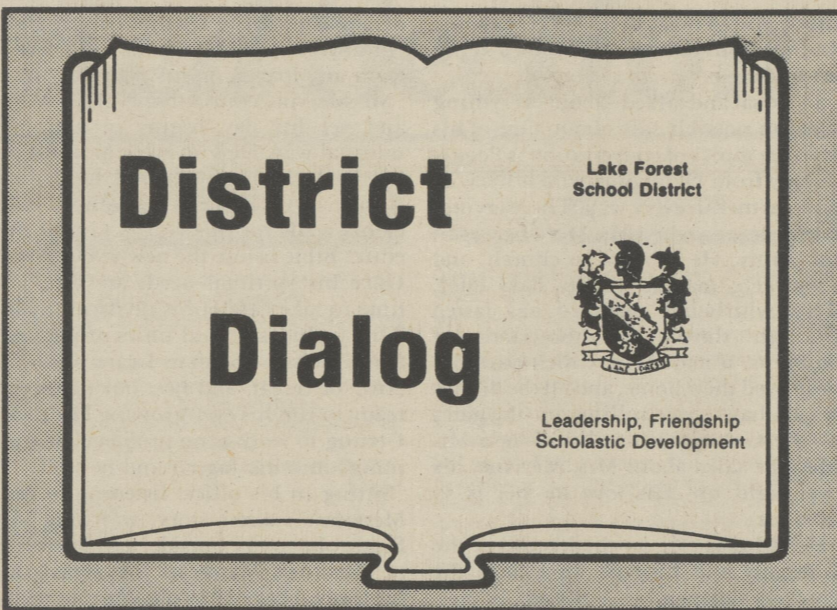

It turns out that most of the 164 parcels are little one or two-acre pieces of land developers have had to deed to the county to fill open-space requirements. No one seems to know quite what the 10 employees do, besides cutting grass. In other words, it's another attempt by the New Castle County-dominated Castle Administration to keep the poor, financially-hard-pressed New Castle County government from having to raise taxes in an election year by spending $442,000 to help them out. And the state wouldn't even get title to the land!

When the Governor wants to spend half again as much on a scheme like this as he does on helping Delaware's farmers in one of the worst times in recent memory, you have to wonder just how deep his commitment is to helping solve farm problems - and how deep his understanding is of how important agriculture is to us in Kent and Sussex.

Our task force is bi-partisan and none other than Representative Wally Caulk, co-chairman of the task force and a member of the Governor's own party, appeared before the Joint Finance Committee on Wednesday of last week to urge that the New Castle County forest deal be postponed a year and the $442,000 be used for a far more worthy cause - helping to salvage what's left of Delaware's farm economy.

You can rest assured that if Newark's Chrysler plant needed another multi-million dollar bail-out or we were being asked to spend a few million to bring some more big banks to Wilmington, it would get approved in a minute. Let's see how much the farmers get.

"To Close or Not to Close"

by Ray Stoops
Lake Forest School District
Supervisor of Transportation

WANTED: Someone who can be exact in predicting the weather.

Weather predicting can be a very tough job in this area with east and west winds, the gulf stream, two bays, and the Atlantic Ocean. But we try! The safety of our children and the motoring public are of great concern to us in the Lake Forest School District, and we endeavor to do what is best for all concerned.

We consider many factors before making a decision about opening or closing the schools during bad weather. We must think of current temperatures as well as those predicted for later in the day, amount of snow on the ground, the amount predicted, and the condition of all the roads, not just a few. If fog is the concern, will the sun be able to burn it off in a couple of hours? Do we have time to give parents ample time to make provisions for their children, do we serve lunch so some students won't go home to empty houses and no lunch? How long it will take to contact all our bus drivers who, by the way, are very good at standing by when unfavorable weather conditions are upon us, must also be considered?

In following our procedure in the Lake Forest School District to not open school, open late, or close early, we feel we are doing everything possible to provide safe pupil transportation, short of closing down our schools for every incident of unfavorable weather conditions. Not only do we consider the above mentioned factors, but also take into consideration the school bus driver's training, equipment such as snow tires, size of the bus, lights, and the public being aware of bus stops. Also, most of the motoring public is already at work when we open late or close early. There is also evidence to show that almost all accidents happen on beautifully clear, dry days. Most people are more cautious when road conditions are not the best.

When bad weather is upon us or predicted, school officials check weather conditions via the National Weather Stations, Dover Air Force Base, county emergency weather stations and state police. We also check the roads and conditions. Our local bus drivers keep us informed about weather conditions, for which we are thankful. All of this information is then used by school officials to help make a decision.

As you can see, deciding what to do about school closings or late openings is a very involved process which requires a decision. In making that decision, we hope it is the correct one. Time has shown we are criticized no matter what we do. Criticism is normal in any decision making process; if we can improve that process we will be more than happy to listen to suggestions.

A taxing time of year

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

It's that time of year again -- tax time. This year, with the Tax Reform Act of 1986 in place, many Delawareans may be experiencing additional headaches as they fill out their returns.

As the deadline for filing approaches, it only serves in reminding me why I voted against the tax reform bill. I had high hopes for what tax reform could be and the tax reform bill in its final form was a bitter disappointment. I found it to be anti-savings and anti-growth, missing an opportunity to aid the U.S. in meeting the competitive challenge.

As a long time supporter of Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs), I was deeply dismayed by measures in the bill to cut back on who could make tax deductible contributions to IRAs. Now, if you have an IRA and also participate in a pension plan, contributions to your IRA may no longer be tax deductible. Deductible contributions for IRAs will also be phased out for two wage earner families with incomes over $40,000.

In my mind, the fight for IRAs is by no means over and I intend to play a very visible role in any effort to restore IRAs in the future. In fact, in a special report on IRAs which appeared in the tax publication, TAX NOTES, it was concluded that "It is reasonable to expect that the IRA program again will be a live issue in the years ahead."

This same report went on to substantiate with statistical evidence, many of my own arguments in favor of IRAs. Noting that annual contributions to IRAs grew enormously in recent years, (from approximately $5 billion in 1981 to approximately $45 billion or about one-fourth of all personal savings) the report concluded that "In our view, the weight of the evidence indicates that IRAs have had a substantial positive net effect on personal savings."

I spent a great deal of time during debate on the tax reform bill arguing that IRAs are an important savings opportunity for middle-class families -- for people like school teachers, auto workers, nurses. My opponents of IRAs argued that they primarily benefit the wealthy. Fortunately, the statistical evidence is in, indicating that 65-70 percent of those contributing to IRAs have annual incomes of less than $50,000.

If around this time you're mourning the loss of your education for IRA contributions, keep in mind that the fight continues. And, if I have anything to say about it, IRAs for everyone will be on a comeback trail.

College Scholarships Available
Attention high school seniors! If you are college bound, and keep your grades high but need extra money for school, then you may qualify for one of several merit scholarships offered by the Delaware Postsecondary Education Commission. Look these four over and see which one is right for you.

DIAMOND STATE SCHOLARSHIP is a state funded scholarship, which is offered to 1988 high school graduates, who are residents of Delaware, rank in the upper quarter of their class, score at least 1050 on the SAT. Approximately 50 scholarships in the amount of $1,000 will be awarded per academic year as a result of a statewide competition. This scholarship may be renewed during the course of the student's undergraduate education, not exceeding four years.

ROBERT C. BYRD SCHOLARSHIP is a federally funded scholarship, also presented to legal residents of Delaware, who are ranked in the upper quarter of their senior class at mid-year and that score at least 1050 on their college boards. Twelve non-renewable scholarships of $1,500 will be awarded as a result of statewide competition.

CHRISTA McAULIFFE TEACHER SCHOLARSHIP LOAN PROGRAM has been established to encourage academically talented students to pursue teaching careers in public elementary or secondary schools in Delaware. This is a state funded scholarship of $1,000, which is to be paid back in teaching service or cash. Only students who attend a Delaware college with approved teacher certification programs may use these awards. The schools are: University of Delaware, Delaware State College, Goldey Beacom College or Widener University.

PAUL DOUGLAS TEACHER SCHOLARSHIP LOAN is a federally funded program for students in the top 10 percent of their graduating class, who plan to seek a teaching career. Awards of up to $5,000 per year may be used at any college and teaching service may be repaid at any public or private pre-school, elementary or secondary school in the United States. If a student fails to pursue a teaching career, the loan must be repaid.

Deadline for application for these scholarships is March 31, 1988. Contact your school guidance counselor for further information, or contact me, and I can send you an application.

There are scholarships for prospective veterinarians and physicians. If you are interested in either field, I can give you the information.

The senseless slander of services

by Russell Shannon

People who urge an expanded role for government in our economy certainly deserve an award for persistence! When one of their arguments collapses, they relentlessly erect another.

Over the past few years, for example, there has been much ado about our emerging "rust belt." Often due to the pressures of foreign competition, many manufacturing facilities closed. Widespread calls rang out for government intervention in the form of "industrial policies" and trade barriers against imported goods.

By and large, however, we seem to have suffered only a temporary setback. As measured by the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production, manufacturing output is now well above the peak achieved in 1979 just prior to the recession of the early 1980's. Of particular importance is the fact that, over the past two years, the falling exchange value of the U.S. dollar has spurred our export industries.

However, alarmists still complain that employment in manufacturing remains well below the 21 million workers who had jobs in that sector in 1979. But they ignore the fact that the unemployment rate for the economy as a whole is falling, and the overall employment rate has reached unprecedented levels. Apparently, these displaced workers are finding jobs, many of them in the service industries. We thus are continuing a trend which originally shifted workers from farms to factories: output in both agriculture and manufacturing continues to rise while employment falls, due to impressive gains in productivity.

Yet critics of laissez faire are still not content. Now they scoff that soon we may all be flipping hamburgers or pumping gas. But the service sector does not deserve such derision. It encompasses far more than fast-food restaurants and service stations. After all, this category includes medical personnel, teachers, journalists, lawyers, and entertainers, among many others. And not only are many of these service jobs crucial to our welfare and culture; they also quite likely provide far more satisfaction and fulfillment than one can find in the drudgery of hanging left front doors on an endless assembly line of automobiles, or in filling empty boxes with shoes.

What's more, William Johnston of the Hudson Institute has discovered, as a result of a careful statistical analysis, the shift to services can be a boon to economic stability. Because "employment and production in service industries are more stable than in the goods economy," he writes in the December 10, 1987, Wall Street Journal, we are less likely to suffer the pains of economic recession. People may be able to postpone buying a new car or refrigerator if times get bad, but they are not so apt to cut back on services. Thus, they are more likely to maintain demand and, thus, employment.

There has been great interest of late about perestroika (restructuring) in the Soviet Union. Quite obviously, our economy is experiencing its own restructuring. Would it not be ironic -- even tragic -- if, at the same time the government of the Soviet Union restructures its economy by attempting to reduce centralized control, we foolishly went in the opposite direction?

Professor Shannon teaches in the Economics Department, Clemson University. This article will appear in a forthcoming issue of The Freeman.

BUDGET GIMMICK HIDES TRUTH FROM TAXPAYERS

By Richard H. Fink

If you think 2+2=4, your understanding of math is unfortunately at odds with that of politicians in Washington. Only in the nation's capital can you find a budget process that allows politicians to increase spending yet claim that spending has been reduced. Similarly, only Washington can raise tax revenues over 75 percent in an eight year period and call that a tax "cut" because taxes did not increase even faster.

Legislators get away with telling taxpayers that increases are cuts because of an accounting gimmick called the "current services budget." When Congress debates next year's budget, instead of comparing tax and spending proposals to the previous year's totals, figures are instead compared to the current services budget.

The current services budget automatically assumes taxes and spending should increase every year. For instance, if the president's budget calls for a 4 percent increase in a certain program, but the current services budget calls for a 9 percent increase, the president's proposed hike gets labeled a 5 percent cut!

The tax side works the same way. If the budget calls for taxes to increase 3 percent, and the current services budget says taxes should increase 10 percent, the 3 percent increase becomes a 7 percent tax cut.

This sounds too strange to be true, but unfortunately for taxpayers, it is all too accurate. The recent budget agreement worked out between President Reagan and Congress is a prime example of how the system distorts truth. Politicians claimed that they reduced the deficit $30 billion, raised taxes $9 billion, and cut spending by $13 billion, with sales of government assets making up the difference. The truth is that; the deficit will increase by $5 billion this year, spending will increase by nearly $60 billion, and taxes will increase by over $50 billion.

Politicians claim that they reduced spending from what it would have been, and caused the deficit to be lower than it would have been without their "courageous" actions. But in reality, there is no such thing as a budget that "would have been." Money can only be spent if Congress votes to spend it and the president does not veto it.

It is dishonest for members of Congress to claim that they cut spending because they might have spent even more. Imagine if the rest of the world worked the same way. You could spend $15,000 on a new Chevrolet, but claim that you actually cut your spending by $20,000 because you did not buy a $35,000 Mercedes.

Of course, there is nothing very unusual about politicians doing ridiculous things. A budget process that creates $200 billion deficits and unrestrained spending, however, is a lot more dangerous than the average boondoggle a congressman supports for his home district.

Any time a politician has the courage to try and stop increased spending for a special-interest program, the program's supporters use the current services budget to convince the public that the government will spend less on the program next year than it did this year. The media, which is supposed to be on the lookout for political tricks, usually plays along and reports "bone-wrenching" budget cuts.

The time has come for taxpayers to rise up and stop this type of chicanery. There are a few courageous policymakers in Washington who want to restore honest budgeting to Washington, such as Phil Gramm in the Senate, Connie Mack in the House, and Office of Management and Budget Director James Miller in the administration.

The efforts of these taxpayers' heroes will only succeed, however, if the American people let all their elected representatives know they expect them to live by the same budget rules everyone else has to.

(Richard H. Fink is president of Citizens for a Sound Economy, a 250,000-member independent public interest group located in Washington, D.C.)

Person-to-Person

The man behind the houses

by Rebecca Moore

Drive down just about any road in Delaware, and you'll see one. You even see them moving down the highway enroute to their final resting place. You can't go anywhere without bumping into one. They're everywhere. What on earth am I talking about? Nanticoke Homes, of course. If you don't have one yourself, you probably know someone who does. They're the largest independent manufacturer of homes in the area, and their buildings can be found as far away as Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Virginia. The factories are huge, and as busy as a beehive. It's quite an empire, and at the top of it, you'll find one man—Mr. John Mervine.

You've probably seen him on television, and you've seen his buildings, but did you ever wonder what he was like? Oh, sure, he's the head honcho of an incredibly successful business, but that's not really him—the business is not what makes him tick. Come with me and meet John Mervine—an unusual man who really surprised me.

It was a Monday morning, and my appointment was scheduled for 9:30. I had already spoken several times on the telephone to Mrs. Mervine, and I was anxious to meet her personally, as well as interview her husband. When I arrived at the big, white, two-story building which serves as Nanticoke's executive offices, a very polite receptionist informed me that Mr. Mervine was in a meeting and would be busy for a few more minutes. Shortly, though, a door opened, and more three-piece suits than I had ever seen came walking out. The meeting of Nanticoke's main men had adjourned. I was already just a little nervous, as I had never interviewed an executive before, and all these business-type people just increased my nervous position from slight to palm-sweating. "Ah, well," I thought, "they're human beings, just like you, Becky. Why let them intimidate you?" Good rationale. And, besides, my surroundings made me feel right at home, so I decided to relax and enjoy myself.

While I was waiting for Mr. Mervine, I had plenty to occupy my mind. Pictures of Nanticoke homes in beautiful settings adorned the walls. A Canadian goose was mounted in the curve of a staircase. There was a constant flow of people through the reception area, and the phone rang non-stop. I really think the receptionist deserves a raise. After all, she's the first person any visitor or caller encounters, and she's very pretty, extremely professional, and yet, very friendly, and she handles all those calls and visitors with ease. Anyway, I figured that if the rest of the employees at Nanticoke were anything like her, the success was understandable.

I learned real quickly that every Tom, Dick and Harry needed a minute or two with Mr. Mervine, but this didn't seem to ruffle him at all. He just grinned from ear to ear and did what had to be done. In spite of the fact that people were pulling on him from every direction, he maintained his composure and took everything in stride. Somehow, though, we managed to connect, and the next thing I knew, I was following Mr. Mervine down the hall and into his office.

My concept of an executive office was based, entirely, on Hollywood and television portrayals. I pictured an outer office with some super-efficient secretary sitting behind a gigantic desk covered with telephones and a variety of computerized equipment. The inner-office would have three-inch thick carpeting, probably overlaid with Persian rugs. Huge bay windows would look out over a vast empire-complex. A mammoth, mahogany desk would sit ominously in one corner, and brass and crystal would enhance the rich appearance of the executive office. As always, however, Hollywood had failed me. There was no hint of ostentation in this place. It was more like home. There was no ruthless, iron-fisted ruler here. His office was my first hint into what makes Mr. Mervine tick—he's one of us. There was no outer office...period. The office of the chief executive of Nanticoke Homes is a room at the end of the hall—all of his calls are handled by that efficient receptionist out there by the front door. His office is neither large nor small. The carpet was not three inches thick. It was just like what you have in your living room. The desk was big, not mammoth, and I wouldn't know real mahogany if it came up and bit me. A lamp in one corner was made out of a miniature golf bag. The real thing also sat in the corner. Further evidence of Mr. Mervine's favorite pastime sat on the desk, along with a copy of "The Wilmington News Journal", and assorted business paraphernalia. Two normal windows, looking out over the empire, were dressed in an attractive print. On one wall was a huge map of The United States. Another wall was painted with a mural of one of Mr. Mervine's passions—a landing strip complete with several airplanes and a helicopter flying overhead. Seeing this office, my nervousness went out the window. Besides, Mr. Mervine put me completely at ease—he kept asking me questions about myself and the newspaper. His interest was genuine and sincere, but I began to wonder who was interviewing whom.

From his two windows, Mr. Mervine can watch the activity outside. He knows every vehicle that passes through the security gate, every forklift that lumbers across the yard, every employee who traverses from one building to another. He doesn't stay glued to his windows like a watchdog—there's too much else to do—but it is his company, and he needs to know just what's going on out there.

So we sat and talked—about everything one can possibly talk about. One of his favorite topics of conversation is Peggy—a lady from Oklahoma who is his wife and partner in every way. The Mervines met years ago when Mr. Mervine was in the Army. He met her in church, and they were married ninety days later. This whirlwind romance has lasted through three sons, thousands of chickens, a major fire which partially destroyed their home, and all the houses which have come rolling out the gates of the Greenwood facility. When Mr. Mervine talks about Mrs. Mervine, his eyes light up. His love for her is so obvious.

He filled me in on the history of the company and how he went from the chicken business to building homes. Seems that a house was needed down in Seaford. It was February, and the ground was frozen too hard to put in the foundation. The Mervines decided to build the house, anyway—inside an abandoned chicken feeding station. Problem was, there were support posts down the center of the building. Because of the center posts, the house had to be built in two pieces. That was the beginning of sectional houses—all the result of posts in a chicken feeding station. Life is full of little ironies. The original building site was in the Mervine's back yard. In 1979, the entire facility was destroyed by fire, including part of the Mervine's home. Since then, Nanticoke homes have all been constructed in the huge facility located on Route 13 in Greenwood, and every morning, promptly at 7:00, a new home rolls through the gates, headed for its permanent location.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervine have been members of the Calvary Wesleyan Church in Harrington for as far back as he can remember. He knows everybody who goes there or who has ever gone there, and he just loves the Millers to pieces. Besides his church involvement, Mr. Mervine is also active in The Gideons—that's the organization that places Bibles in hotels, hospitals and just about everywhere you can think of. Getting the Bible into everyone's hands is an important thing to Mr. Mervine.

I asked Mr. Mervine what kind of a boss he is—is he a pal to his employees or does he stay in his office and oversee operations from a distance. Well, it seems that he tries to achieve a balance between those two extremes. No, he's not his employees' pal, but they all know he's there if they need him. He has to keep in mind that his business is dependent on the quality of work his employees produce, and he doesn't want any loafers on his payroll.

Mr. Mervine is an extremely busy man, and yet his day begins in a rather unusual way. He's up every morning at five o'clock (horrors!) and he begins each day with his nose in his Bible. One of his goals for this year is to read the entire Bible before the new year arrives. Once his spiritual needs are met, it's time to take care of his physical needs. This includes several miles of jogging and more sit-ups than I care to do. A bowl of cereal, and he's out the door, ready to run his ever-growing business. Getting to work is no problem—he just jumps into his Jaguar and he's off!

Sitting in his office, listening to Mr. Mervine's success story, watching the flurry of activity outside, and thinking of Mervine's Mansions just across the highway, I began to wonder about it all. All this has been accomplished through one man. It would be so easy for him to just sit back, put his feet up, pat himself on the back and let it all go to his head. After all, he has just about anything a person could possibly want, and success is in the palm of his hand. Perhaps most men would have a head swelled to the size of the great outdoors, given Mr. Mervine's circumstances, but this is not the case with him. "No," he told me, "it doesn't go to my head. All of this belongs to God." His humble spirit thoroughly amazed me. He knows that things of life are so temporary, and can vanish so quickly. He doesn't worry about anything, and he doesn't need an avocation to help him relax—he's totally comfortable with his life and his business as they are. Besides, he knows who is in control, and that is where he finds his greatest comfort.

I left Mr. Mervine's office and the executive building. Walking to my car, I stopped to look behind me at the expansive construction facility, then I gazed across the highway at Mervine's Mansions standing in all their glory. What an enigma! All this incredible success, and yet at the head of it, a humble, compassionate man, who is totally devoted to his family, his God, and who cares personally for each individual employee. Even now, thinking back to my visit, I'm still puzzled. For in those executive offices, I didn't find any stereotypes. I found Mr. and Mrs. John Mervine—the classic American success story, but at the same time, people who are just like you and me. They won't even take credit for their success, or do anything to draw attention to themselves. What amazing people they are, and what a pleasure it was getting to know them!

Just can't close this column without remembering that Feb. is Black History Month—It is pleasant to remember the friendly faces of Nellie Tyler—I just loved to see her Valentines. She received so many, she had several children. Then there was Elma Tharp—Elwood Morris—Elsie Neal—all gone to rest. Do you remember the poems Elwood used to say? I'm remembering Sol Anderson (he worked with George). Then there was Gertrude Thomas. It is with kindness that I've seen Ola Tilden—Mary and Mable Perry and Watson Brown still performing at Harrington Senior Center.

Then there is Mae Smith—Ethel Humphrey—Mabel Lake—Anna Johnson—Rev.
