

Chemical related company given partial green light

by Bonnie Algier - Mitchell
HARRINGTON. At Monday night's regular monthly meeting of the Harrington Council, Port Lumber Co. of Riverside, N.Y. was given the green light to begin construction of an office building on the land they purchased from William Simpson behind C.T. Film Company.

Port Lumber through their president James P. Latham addressed the council Monday night indicating that he was not aware of the confusion concerning his company being able to begin business this week. His company intends, at this point in time, to distribute salt treated lumber to outlets here on the Delmarva Peninsula as well as outlets on Long Island.

In a written report by Harrington Planning & Zoning Commission issued on December 29, 1987, there was approval of the site plan for the company and the commission agreed to approve a plan for a 24' x 30' office building on the site. The final approval of the site plan was reserved until the company could present a feasible entrance and exit for the property.

Two possible options for ingress and egress have been discussed over the past few months but nothing has been resolved. One option was over the railroad track adjacent to the property and the other would be a road leading off Route 14 back to the property. Neither one of those options has been finalized.

Nicholas H. Rodriguez, their attorney, of the Dover firm of Schmittinger & Rodriguez, offered a four page opinion to Harrington's City Solicitor, John Williams reasoning that he was under the opinion that the Planning & Zoning Commission has final say on approval of site plans rather than the council.

The plan had never been presented to the council. The council reasoned that it was the governing body of the city, and all matters pertaining to city affairs must come back before the council for final approval. The council however referred the matter back to Planning & Zoning for study of the ingress and egress for the property.

In the letter from Mr. Rodriguez, he indicated that the plight of Port Lumber Company has been on-going for over two years. "The mayor and council have had ample opportunity to become familiar with the company", wrote Mr. Rodriguez. He also indicated "that before any action was taken to purchase any property in the area, the entire process, including the potential of locating a treatment plant, was thoroughly discussed with Mayor and Council".

Since the purchase, elections have taken place. This past January and February a new council has been seated, as well as the hiring of a new city manager.

Councilman Temple and Mayor Farrow had asked for status reports on the procedures which were followed concerning the Port Lumber company, but had never gotten a complete up-dating.

Mr. Latham stated "that he was under the impression that everything was on green for us to come in and begin operations...but we are in a bad situation right now".

The earliest plans for the company were submitted to Harrington Council and Planning & Zoning Commission in 1985. Mr. Latham reasoned that perhaps there was a break down in communications between council and company officials.

Mr. Latham said he was not ruling out the prospects of constructing a treatment plant in the future. "We have altered our original plans which called for the hiring of 45 employees. Our scaled down version now would be like a small lumber yard hiring, at the most, 8 employees", he said.

Although Mr. Latham indicated a pre-treatment plant might be part of their plan for the future, the council indicated they would not be happy with that.

The idea of the State footing the bill for the improved water system could be paid back to the State over a two year period where the advent of the improved water system. The industrial park and the number of jobs created would be realized through State income tax gotten back from those employed at these companies. With Barr indicating they would scale down from 250 to 100 over a five year period and Port scaling down from 45 employees to 8, it would appear that the period of retrieving this money would be extended.

In other matters, the Council voted to send the rezoning of the Simpson Dry Cleaning building to public hearing on April 11th at 7:00 P.M. The building is under contract of sale with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Currey. They propose to open a game room on the first floor of the building and construct six apartments on the second floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Currey had applied for a Community Block Grant which was filed on February 29 for money to reconstruct the building. The Planning & Zoning Commission has unanimously approved the zoning request and referred it to council. The Planning & Zoning Commission had also issued a conditional use permit until the zoning request could be finalized. The council had voiced concern about the lack of parking space as one of the main objections to the rezoning. It will be decided following the scheduled public hearing.

The council also received a written opinion, largely definition, on what constitutes a "mobile home" versus a "manufactured or modular home." Essentially the distinction made was that a mobile home was "portable...and not on a permanent foundation...or consisting of two or more units separately towable but designed to be connected into a single unit...including, but not limited to, trailers, mobile homes, and/or double wides, but excluding modular or prefabricated housing designed to be assembled at the construction site."

Mr. Joseph Adamo addressed the council about the question of whether he can be annexed into the city or in the alternative would the city extend utilities beyond the city limits to his property on the Raughley-Hill Road for the purposes of constructing a 205 unit complex for mobile homes. Mayor Farrow indicated that his research had led him to the conclusion that the only way annexation can take place is if the subject property is "contiguous" to the city's property as is spelled out in the charter.

Mr. Rodney Wyatt, who is representing Mr. Adamo in the lay-out and design of the complex, indicated that the city would benefit from the revenues generated from the services or the annexation.

Councilman Donald Jarrell indicated that the burden was on Mr. Adamo to prove that annexation could be accomplished through his reasoning which would be contrary to the charter. "Unless he can show that it can be done, we must stand on the interpretation of the charter", said Mr. Jarrell.

Citizens who reside on Raughley-Hill Road turned out to protest the possibility of this development and presented a written, signed petition by those who reside there.

The way the matter was left was for Mr. Adamo and his associates to bring a plan to the council which would show costs and responsibilities for maintenance.

Consultant dismissed and bidding mishap reported at special meeting

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell
HARRINGTON. Following the open forum on Thursday night, the Harrington council held a scheduled publicized meeting.

The council voted to discontinue the services of consultant for grant projects, Mr. George Volenik. The council, through Councilman Donald Jarrell, reasoned that with a present city manager, those duties should be carried on by him rather than retain a special consultant.

Up until that point, the council was under the impression that Mr. Volenik was also acting as a representative for Port Lumber Co., which he had indicated at prior meetings. Port Lumber Co. was one of the recipients of a grant for water and sewer at their new industrial site.

When Mr. Volenik resigned from the council, Councilman Jack Wyatt had a motion approved that he be paid $15 an hour as a consultant. Since his resignation from the city manager's position, the council had not received any reports or progress on his work.

In another matter the council was made aware of a letter from Mr. Raymond T. Stevens, Jr. in the office of Auditor of Accounts in which the city was guilty of not getting bids on "street upgrading and repairs" where the amount exceeded the bid limit of $10,000. A letter submitted by then city manager George Volenik to the State treasurer's office for the cost of construction on the following streets was presented: Ward St. ($9,866); Dixon ($3,890); Clark St. ($1,730), and Dickerson St. ($6,479).

Councilmen absent from meetings

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell
HARRINGTON. Beginning with the Re-organization meeting on January 13, 1988 two members of the Harrington City Council have been noticeably absent from recent council meetings.

Councilmen Jack Wyatt representing Ward 1 and Daniel R. Coleman of Ward 3 have continually missed recent council meetings.

On Thursday evening one of the most important meetings in two years was held at City Hall. The open forum concerned the two new companies planning to establish new plants in Harrington. Both councilmen were absent, as was the case at Monday night's regular council meeting.

Harringtonians voice concern over possible chemical contamination

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell
HARRINGTON. A public forum held last Thursday night at City Hall brought some 60 plus citizens to the meeting to hear what was to be discussed about two chemical plants coming to Harrington.

For the past two years, two chemical companies, (the W.M. Barr and Co. and Port Lumber Co.) have been making overtures about locating in Harrington on the 100 and some odd acres of land directly behind the C.T. Film Company. The land, the former Albert Thistlewood property, was owned by William Simpson a farmer from Houston, Delaware.

Port Lumber Company, which is already in the City limits and has had its land re-zoned, is in the process of constructing an office building with plans of preparing to receive shipments of salt treated lumber to the site for resale.

Port Lumber Company's representative, Nicholas H. Rodriguez from the Dover law firm of Schmittinger & Rodriguez, indicated at Thursday's meeting that his client "plans to store piling at the site. They do not plan to process the lumber at the site. They are simply a broker of treated lumber".

Those gathered at the meeting were concerned with safety measures to prevent chemicals from getting into the ground which would in effect contaminate the water supply for the City.

Alan G. Steinle, a civil engineer with Duffield Associates Geotechnical Engineers, Limestone Road in Wilmington, has been retained by W.M. Barr & Co. to design a $5 million building. Mr. Steinle indicated the Memphis, Tennessee based firm "...is a packaging company of paint thinners, turpentine, stripping compounds, and do a lot of chemical blending", he said.

Residents of Harrington and those who live in the immediate area were concerned about the high toxicity and carcinogen levels of the chemicals used by the respective plants.

Mayor Harry G. Arrow, Jr. asked Mr. Steinle "is there a direct threat to our atmospheric environment as well as to our water supply." He said "...I don't think so".

Representatives of both companies indicated that the companies would make special efforts to construct safety-designed buildings for storage of the chemicals (in the case of Barr, while Port indicated it was willing to do what was necessary to insure safety.)

In the case of Port, they will be dealing in piling for commercial usages. The criticism was that rain falling on the piling would cause leaching of the chemicals from the piling into the soil, unless there was a way to catch the drainage.

Councilman James C. Temple, Jr. and Mayor Farrow indicated that they had requested biographical sketches of the two companies for the past year as well as reports from the Department of Natural Resources on the two companies "...but nothing had been forthcoming", said Mayor Farrow.

The Companies indicated that they had met preliminary requisites set forth by DNREC, but no reports were presented at the Thursday evening meeting.

Dr. W. Edward Montz, an environmental toxicologist from the State Board of Health, responded to the discussion at Thursday's meeting. Montz indicated that he was very familiar with the chemicals used by both companies "...and frankly I would be concerned if they were used in large quantities in my community".

Dr. Montz strongly urged the use of safety means to insure against contamination from spillages as well as close monitoring of any dumping of the chemical wastes into nearby streams.

Mayor Farrow indicated he wanted the companies to send copies of the daily material data sheets to the city's toxicologist and then meet with the company's toxicologist. "Knowing the type of chemicals used will determine the degree of safety we should employ here", said Mayor Farrow.

Mr. Steinle indicated that Barr will ship their chemicals in bulk by tank truck initially and then possibly by rail car to the Harrington site. "From there it will be packaged in various sized containers...but there is a strong possibility that initially the chemicals will already be packaged. This would mean that the Harrington site would be a warehousing site, and the products would be shipped to other eastern and northeastern markets", he said. Forty to fifty thousand gallons will be brought at one time.

Mr. Steinle indicated that Barr had been shown sites in Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware as possible sites for their building.

The initial plan was to design and build a main building of 150,000 sq. ft. costing $7 million with 3 other buildings to be constructed. The initial number of people to be hired "numbered around 250", said Mr. Steinle. "What size building and how many people will be hired now", questioned Mayor Farrow. "We are working on a $5 million building with up to 100 people hired over a five year program...possibly", said Mr. Steinle.

Barr, which is a privately held company, has two plants in Tennessee with their principal place of business in Memphis. They also have a plant in southern California...all of which have approximately 2000,000 sq. ft. of space and employ about 100 people, as

Committee formed for beautification of Harrington

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
HARRINGTON. Members of the Harrington community met last Wednesday to discuss plans for beautification of the City along US 13.

Bill Thompson, of Callis-Thompson, approached Councilman James C. Temple, Jr. initially with the idea of promoting a beautification program for parts of the median strip between the lanes of US 13. Mr. Thompson said he would be willing to put some "seed money" into this sort of project "...with community support and highway input into this sort of thing", he said.

He indicated that the plan which has been successful in the Lewes-Rehoboth area, has been the "...natural look with plants and flowers growing in a wild state. It has proved to be less upkeep and therefore less expensive", he added.

Mr. Thompson asked those present to carry the thought back to their respective groups "...like the Lions and Rotary Clubs as well as the New Century Club and have them designate a representative for this cause...and from that group pick a chairman".

Those present were Mr. Thompson, Councilman Temple, Roland Cashwell of Harrington Moore, Neal Brasure of Lake Forest High School Ag Department, City Manager Bill Smith, Gary Simpson of the Delaware State Fair, Mrs. Amelia McSweeney, Jenney Chasnov and Mayor Farrow.

The Mayor indicated that the interest should carry over into the downtown district "...or just throughout the city".

reported by Steinle.
Mrs. Dorothy Spriglia, Senior Business Development representative from the Delaware Development Office indicated that certain tax incentives had been offered both companies for locating here in Harrington. "There would be corporate tax credits...credits on investments and gross receipts tax reduction", she said.
Approximately two years ago plans were put into effect to extend the City's water lines to the Delaware State Fairgrounds. This would insure a back-up system for the Fairgrounds as well as one for the City in the event of failure of each's system. The plan was to extend the line in East Street to the Fairgrounds. An inquiry was made for possible grant from the Economic Development Office in Dover. The City and the Fairgrounds people were informed there wasn't any money for a project such as that, "...but if the water lines could be looped to an industrial park located in the area behind C.T. Film Company a grant would be available."

With this in mind, two chemical companies agreed to locate in Harrington. The water lines would be extended south on East to the Fairgrounds, east on the road in front of Killen Grain, also extended south on US 13 to the Fairgrounds road, then east across US 13 to the proposed site. The estimated combined cost was $475,000, for the water loop.

Dr. Montz said that he was familiar with the products produced by Barr. "I am familiar with their product Kleen-Strip...that product contains methylene chloride which is very hazardous to workers who come in contact with it. The automotive product on new finishes contain compounds that release cyanide gases", he said.

Dr. Montz indicated that there were compatible safety measures that could be practiced which would insure the safety aspects of the endeavor.

Many of the citizens who reside in the area were concerned with the additional traffic on Route 14, like Mrs. Brenda Porter if a road is developed from Route 14 back to the industrial site. Other citizens like Neal Smith and Jim Quillen felt if the companies could be monitored as well as the wells in the area and a feasibility study made to see just how clean these companies operate. "I think we have to look down the road to the future for the decisions we make today will in effect have a bearing on future generations to come", said Jim Quillen a resident in the area of the industrial sites and President of Harrington Lions Club.

Shirley King and Jack Hampton who live on Brown's Branch indicate there are pollutants in the stream from the sewer plant in Harrington. They were concerned about the prospects of more wastes being put there by other users along the stream. "If this is going to be the place or a continuous situation then I would just as well see it someplace else. I know it means jobs and improving the water system, but we have to think of the welfare of the citizens in the area", said Jack Hampton.

Gary Simpson, General Manager of the Delaware State Fair, praised the Delaware Development Office for bringing business to Delaware and this community "...because we see how this can improve our economy, which is needed, and maybe these comments should have been aired earlier", said Mr. Simpson whose comments were echoed by Taylor's Hardware owner, Bob Taylor.

Dr. Robert Smith said "...we would have aired them earlier but we were not made aware of the situation until this week".

Rev. Clifford Lones who pastors the Independent Bible Fellowship Church on Route 14 opposite the industrial site, has been not only outspoken about happenings in this area, but he has from time to time given wise counsel at meetings concerning the events and happenings there. He wanted to know "...who do we have looking out for us? I mean what agencies, certainly the City of Harrington is not equipped to do it...but who then is responsible for monitoring these companies?". "If we can reasonably assume that the State Public Health or ISIA or the Department of Natural Resources can to a reasonable degree monitor these companies...can we rely on this and be comfortable", he asked.

The open forum ended with the feeling that more information would be appreciated by the citizens of Harrington and surrounding area.

The Auditor is asking that corrective measures be adopted by the City of Harrington so that in the future "...the entire job must be bid...then if

For more information or to donate items for the auction contact J.D. Dennis, Sr. at (302) 398-8520 or 398-4260.

The City desires to break the job down in segments that would be permissible, but the entire job must be bid if it exceeds the $10,000 limit, for the total job.

The city reserves money from the Street Municipal Aid provided by the State, and in doing so, the City along with other municipalities in the State must comply with the state requirements.

Catholic high school plans progressing

Parents for Catholic Secondary Education, a Dover based group seeking to open an independent Catholic High School in the area of Kent County, Delaware, have taken the first steps toward that goal. A name has been chosen for the school and it has been formally incorporated as a non-profit organization. The school will be known as THOMAS MORE ACADEMY, after St. Thomas More, a sixteenth century Englishman. More had a great love of learning and a faith which did not falter even in the face of death. For these reasons, he is felt to be an excellent patron for the school.

Application will be made to have the organization granted tax-exempt status. This should be accomplished within the year. The school is scheduled to open in September 1989. The group is also investigating possible sites for the school. Preliminary inspection of two sites has already been made. Other sites will be looked at in the near future. Parents for Catholic Secondary Education would welcome information about available buildings with potential for development as a school. Write PCSE, P.O. Box 715, Dover, Delaware 19903 or telephone 734-4089.

As Time Goes By...

Do You Remember?

by Dorothy Graham

To smile? Of course you do-being such nice people, surely you smile when it would be saier to cry—but say honey-let me tell you what happened last Sunday morning—was up at 7 a.m., had a bath and shampoo! Nothing special about that you're saying—well, no, in a way, but while I was enjoying the warm water—the roots of my hair tingling from a new shampoo—cleaning my finger nails and toe nails—scrubbing my back and singing a few lines of several OLD songs, Dorothy (that's me), said to herself, "listen you and listen well—today you are leaving this house, one way or another (there is another way to say the same thing, but it doesn't look good in print). Anyway so into the day—Penny fixed breakfast, said grace, and cooked 1 strip of bacon, (like) a poached egg (there I've said a poached egg when in reality it was an egg cooked in a no-stick pan), a frozen waffle (done in a toaster) 3 oz. of orange juice and a cup of coffee (the real stuff). Only 1 cup! Penny was trying to read the paper and I'm telling her, more than once—"Listen, Penny, I'm getting out of this house TODAY!" Okay Mother, where do you want to go?" I replied "anywhere, just anywhere, ride thru every street in Harrington to see just what is happening in the garden spot of the world—maybe out in the surrounding vicinities!" Penny went to Sunday School and Church (Baptist). I watched Dr. Fred K. Price and Dr. James Kennedy—no, did not listen to Swaggart, a couple of years ago, sometimes—now never. Penny called after church and said she would take Hazel and me for a ride after we had dinner. Called Hazel, she had just gotten home from Church (Asbury). Gave her a few minutes to catch her breath—had dinner at the Colony Inn, Harrington. Say listen—that's a great place to meet old friends, now I don't mean OLD, just mean great folk that have lived in and around good old Harrington—please remember, my eye sight is not too hot—so really the only ones that I see are the ones that stopped by to say hello—Margaret Burgess, Keith was paying the bill, Sylvia and Cecil Meredith, Mary E. and Earl Nelson, Evelyn and Guy Winebrenner, heard Penny speak to Alvin (Buck) Thompson—Dorlores—the restaurant was almost filled to capacity. Food was excellent as well as the service. Their coffee is better than most restaurant coffees—Time marches one-but the day progressing, so-so well, one thing for sure...I Was Out Of The HOUSE! After 2 bouts with the hospital believe me it was GOOD!

What a great time was had by all—rode to Bombay Hook and observed the wet lands, the cattails, the twisted bare limbs of the various trees, reflections in the water. Watched and marveled at the absolutely breathtaking play of the sun on the water—looked as tho God had just thrown tons of diamonds on the water. No matter what artist you name, they can never capture that beauty! On this exciting trip we saw buffalo-yes, buffalo, Geese, both Canadian and Black, Mallard ducks, blackbirds, some crane, could not identify that breed—Penny used binoculars and told us how there were a few geese holding their heads up while the other were eating. Sentinels was atold,—lots of lovely homes scattered everywhere. Every shape - round, square, triangle, rancher, old victorian—small, medium, large and extra large. Noticed that the homes with gingerbread trimmings were showing off to the hilt. Different colors are popping upn all over. We left Colony Inn about 2:00 p.m. and our trip, almost to Wilmington, (all side roads except where we had to cross over a highway). Let me tell you Sweetie, it was GREAT—no traffic to mention and the cars that were on "our" road were doing as we—watching, admiring and just indulging in an aura we seldom allow ourselves the privilege of enjoying! Driving back to Harrington, over the St. George's bridge was an all together different era. The gleaming car lights, car lots, food, houses, motels, hotels, trucks and people being people, you wouldn't want it any other way, maybe a little more courtesy and one thing it would be nice to remember that all the trash you see on the highways and byways some one put there.

We stopped in for coffee and small hot fudge sundae, sat back and spoke of how awe inspiring and majestic the day had been. Say honey, it was 7 p.m. when we arrived home, just in time to see 60 Minutes, the closing of the Olympics, and the last half of an OLD movie starring Betty Grable and Eddie Albert, did not remember the leading man's name - he was tall, dark hair and walked with grace. It was a very happy ending to a delightful day. Thanks to God, Bob, Penny and Hazel. (When I say God, I mean everything we saw, everyone we came in touch with and everything we did on one of the most pleasing of days.)

Do you remember such days? I remember many such days but as stated is the getting out after so long, was divine. Just proves one thing—when the dark clouds get their silver lining we are more receptive to the things that we almost ignore when everything is going just right.

Thanks most sincerely for the calls, visits and notes. Call a friend that you haven't heard from in a while. Be kind to each other. Wishes to those in sorrow. "When you're through changing, you're through."—Bruce Barton

Special thoughts to Ola Teldon for the mistake in last column. Everyone that knows Ola, knows her name is Ola not Ela. But honey, the girl that reads my writing has done a good job. Not too many erros even with all the horrible writing I send in.

Could not close without saying a great big "Hello-I love you" to my Charleston, S.C. family—Troy, Lisa and T.G. To my Texas family, Gracie, (she's with Cheryl, my granddaughter) Debra, Cheryl, Aaron and Brandon. My California family—George, Donna, Sid and Tonni. My Virginia family—Richie, Terri, Eric and Richie Jr. Then, of course, there are those of us in Delaware—Todd, Vanessa and Alicia—Peny Sue and David, daughter Genie and Lester Jr. and Laura.

Congratulations to the King and Queen of Harrington Senior Center—Edna and Walter Heiser. Listen one and all they are super folks. Edna is a wiz at crafts, especially quilts and pool, both are avid photographers. They take photos, so much easier to enjoy than slides, anyway for me! All of you out-of-towners, think of you often and glad you enjoy The Harrington Journal. Best wishes to all of you at the Harrington Senior Center, and Pete, Bob, John, Bill, Merritt, Viola, and to each and everyone that remembers me, say, honey, I'm glad and proud to know you!

Must tell you before this column is finished...grandson, Todd Dennis won the contest WDSB 94.7FM radio station had for a mascot. It was good!! A hen is such finery!! It must be seen to be appreciated. Then he also is with the Reel to Reel band. Turning on the charm, singing, playing piano and sax. I'm just his grandmother and you know full well how grandmothers are!! You do remember!

Do you remember walking to school, say a mile or two or three? Do you remember 5 cent candy bars and 5 cent cokes. Do remember 5 cent tablets and 1¢ pencils?

Do remember when Easter Eggs were hard boiled eggs and just hard boiled eggs?

Do you remember when you had chicken on Sunday and Turkey or Goose on Christmas and Thanksgiving?

Do you remember the swishing horsetails instead of the gas pumps? See you soon. Love—Faith

Harrington Moose

by Ted Layton

NEW ANTI-DRUG ABUSE DRIVE LOOKS TO YOUNG

The Loyal Order of Moose is asking all young people to submit their design and slogan for use in a new campaign against drug abuse. The call for a new design and slogan is to allow young people to make the decision as to what the campaign design and slogan should be against drug abuse.

The announcement for the new design and slogan was made in the February issue of Moose Magazine. Space was provided in the announcement for any young person, 18 years of age or younger, to draw his or her design which should be submitted to Robert Elliott, Director of Development at the Supreme Lodge.

The design and slogan should tell the message to America's youth not to get involved in illegal drug and alcohol use. The Moose fraternity's request is in keeping with its belief that young people will listen to and heed the advice of other young people more readily than from adults. That has already been proved by the High School Student Congresses sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose to obtain recommendations on how the drug abuse problem should be handled. The high school students produced a host of excellent recommendations on how to fight the problem. Many are followed today by school systems and school counselors.

Spring! The weekend was wonderful. Even with the March winds blowing approaching spring was evident. Enjoyed a lovely Sunday, got our yard raked of the fallen leaves and some Marigold seeds planted. Saw many folks in the area during the same things. It was just a nice weekend.

Many birthday wishes this week go to—Mary Hendricks, William DeVine, Dorothy M. O'Day, Frances Wright, Belle Graef, Hazel B. Davis, Irene Beck, Denelda Moore, Virginia B. Smith, Robert Hamilton, Ena VonGoerres, Grace Sherwood, Sarah E. Hunter, Bessie Jester, Ann Goslee, Clarence Welch and Mike Welch.

On Saturday Susan Larimore was an afternoon visitor of her mother, Bonnie Mitchell.

Roberta Mitchell spent Sunday afternoon entertaining her little friend Natasha Bagwell.

Mr. & Mrs. Lester Larimore of Andrewville have recently returned from a trip to Florida. While there they enjoyed many sights, one being Cypress Gardens. They also enjoyed the nice weather.

A cheery hello to Sylvia and Cecil Meredith of Calvin St., had a lovely chat with them on Sunday. Sylvia has known me since I was a girl and it was so nice to see her again. Hope "Syl" is on the road to recovery after her bout with the flu and bronchitis. Take care and keep up the work with the senior center chorus and band which is enjoyed by many.

Joanne Saulsbury, who played Audrey in Lake Forest High School's play "Little Shop of Horrors" over the weekend got a real surprise on Friday evening. She happened to spy her brother, Steve in the audience. He had flown in from Plymouth, Michigan just to catch Joanne's performance.

To add to Joanne's evening, she received flowers from another brother, Grant and his wife, Patricia, who live in Houston, Texas and could not make it.

Hello-Hello to Thumper and Paula. Many good wishes to you Paula on your new job. Also hope my brother, Thumper is feeling better as he has been down with a cold. So nice to have you back after your excursion to Virginia recently. Hope to see you all soon. Just know you are greatly missed and loved.

Sorry to hear David Steller is ill with pneumonia. Hurry and get well, your smiling face is missed.

Asbury United Methodist Church

William Dore, Pastor.

"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." Micah 6:8

Last Sunday we were happy to have the Girl Scouts, Brownies and Daisies join us for the morning worship service. Our community is blessed to have this organization available to our girls, and we appreciate the leaders and helpers who give of their time and efforts.

Received into membership at Asbury this week are Leonard and Priscilla Coryell. They come to us by transfer from a baptist church in Texas. We welcome them and will do our best to make them feel at home with us.

The second "Folds" meeting was held Sunday and was another enlightening and enjoyable evening. Ministering to church members and to the community can take many forms, as we are learning from this study event. One of the first steps is to identify the areas of concern and what resources are available to deal with them. One of our best resources is people, so if you missed the first two meetings, try to come this Sunday evening at 7 p.m. There is always something to be learned from the fellowship of caring people.

The Prayer Chain will meet in the Chapel following the worship service on Sunday.

There will be NO cherub choir practice this Thursday.

Rehearsal for the cantata will be at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

The Century Club Fashion Show/Luncheon will be held in Collins Hall on Wednesday, at 12 Noon.

Holy Communion will be served this Sunday, the Fifth Sunday in Lent. Jesus initiated the "Lord's Supper" as the way to remember Him. It is to be a thoughtful, prayer time of personally remembering Jesus Christ and His death for you. Consider what it means to you "to proclaim the Lord's death". Rejoice in the hope of His second coming promise.

Coming Up:
Tonight, 8 p.m.—Bible Study.
Sunday, 12 Noon—Prayer Chain meets; 2:30—Cantata Practice; 5:00—Confirmation Class meets; 7:00—"Folds" meeting.
Serving Next Sunday—Acolyte: Jenny McCarter, Nursery: Nancy Dellinger and Kathy Masten, Greeters: Mr. & Mrs. Robert Wilson.

Passover—The historic Jewish Passover is of utmost significance to New Testament Christians in light of the cross, which is its counterpart. The apostle Paul, who was a zealous Jew and leader of the Jewish community wrote "These are only a shadow of what is to come; but the substance belongs to Christ."

"O death, where is thy victory? O grave, where is thy sting? The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." 1 Cor. 15:55, 56

Spring Revival meetings at Independent Bible Fellowship

open to him. He is a very interesting speaker, using everyday experiences to illustrate Biblical truths.

The senior choir of the church will be singing for all the services along with special music presented by individuals. The public is invited to these Revival meetings along with all church people as the Independent Bible Fellowship

Church is an interdenominational church reaching out to people of all faiths or no faith. Rev. Clifford Lones is the pastor.

Greenwood United Methodist Charge

Lent is a season of pilgrimage, a time when all Christians make their way again to Jerusalem. The members and friends of Greenwood United Methodist Church in Greenwood, Delaware invite the public to join with them this year in making a musical pilgrimage to Jerusalem.

On Palm Sunday evening, March 27th at 7:30 p.m. the Greenwood UMC Choir, under the direction of Mrs. James (Elnoia) Anthony, will present a "Musical Celebration of Holy Week."

Prospect United Methodist Church

March 13, 1988. Fourth Sunday in Lent.

Do you know God? The only way some people know God is through words they hear use. God is a holy being. He is reality, He is the great I AM. He is the Savior. God is Great! These were Rev. Holliday's words as he spoke to us on "The Goodness of God."

Vivian Dill told the children a great story about 4 boys who were friends and who were always getting into mischief. Their delight was to swipe strawberries from Mr. Thumb's garden. One fourth of July they decided to blow up some vegetables with firecrackers. The oldest boy, Chris, decided he didn't want any part of this and he went off on a hill to watch. When he saw what a mess the boys made and how upset Mr. Thumb was, he took the blame and worked to very hard to make things right. Mr. Thumb forgave all of them. Vivian related this to our Savior who "took the blame for us" and to God who forgives us.

Through music and readings, arranged by Mrs. Anthony and Rev. Dr. Michael S. Russell, the pastor of Greenwood UMC, the Choir will celebrate Jesus' pilgrimage from Hosanna Road to The Empty Tomb. Immediately after the program the UMW will serve coffee and cake to the guests in the fellowship hall. Everyone is welcome to attend.

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

NEWARK. An assembly of champion figure skating stars assembled at the ice arena at the University of Delaware on Sunday afternoon for a last exhibition in figure skating before many of them are off for world competition in Budapest on March 21st, 22nd and 23rd.

The youngest skater was Kristen Pedroso, who with her parents and coach recently moved to Newark to be able to use the skating rink at the University of Delaware.

Under the directorship of Mr. Ron Ludington, the program at the University of Delaware is growing. The present arena was built in 1971 with private donations.

Mr. Ludington has coached 35 national champions, and Peter and Kitty Carruthers were 1984 silver pairs medalists. This was the first time a U.S. entry had earned a medal since Mr. Ludington won in 1960 at Squaw Valley.

The University is in the throes of constructing a new ice arena which will be referred to as "the new ice skating science development center."

Asked where our program can improve over the Russians and other foreigners, Mr. Ludington said, "... we tend to fly by the seat of our pants whereas the Russians have a totally structured program. We need more organization. The figure skating must be organized... you must start early and keep it going." He also indicated that the Russians have a wider base from which to choose. "Many of our good athletes quit early. They can't go on for either lack of money or something else... but it takes that plus dedication," he added.

He said he felt this was a good program for our kids because it builds character, "... how to win and how to lose gracefully."

He said the new program at the University hopefully will attract talent from all over, "... because the complex will be a first in North America. We will have the sports medicine and the developmental program which will in turn develop coaches."

Wayne and Kim Seybold, a brother and sister team, are natives of Marion, Indiana. "Our parents have been living in a mobile home for the past 15 years sacrificing just for us," he said. They were members of the 1988 Olympic team that just participated in Calgary. "The people were just great there... and we skated as well as we could," he added.

Asked what it will take to beat the Russians in world competition he said, "... It will mean good clean moves... no mistakes... just like we did at Calgary. We can't improve anymore... just hope that others make the mistakes."

Pretty April Sargent and Rusty Witherby are the replacements for Suzanne Semmank and Scott Gregory. Scott had the operation on his back last Thursday and is well on his way to a complete recovery. Scott and Suzanne were the Olympians representing the U.S.

April has been a student at the University of Del but this year has taken time off just to be able to prepare for the Olympics (she was an alternate) and the world titles. She is a native of Ogdensburg, N.Y. Her background is in skating. "Where I come from there is a lot of snow all the time. We had a skating rink in our backyard... so I have been skating for a long, long time," she said.

Her partner Rusty Witherby is a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, and April and Rusty found each other through the Wilmington club. Both April and Rusty have goals of winning an Olympic medal and later becoming coaches.

The world competition is the first for Rusty and April. "I hope we are able to impress the judges enough to get up there in points. The first couple of times is hard, because the judges don't know you," he said.

"I feel good about our chances, and I think we will make our mark," he added. April and Rusty will do a flamenco dance routine.

Other performers on Sunday were Archie Tse and his sister Ginger who did many large sweeps and over the head routines. Archie is a full-time engineering student carrying a 3.5 scholastic average.

Carol Fox and Richard Dalley, 1984 Olympic Team members, 1986 and '87 World professional champions and stars of the Ice Capades gave an exhibition of dance routines. They had a lot of graceful moves, turns with wide sweeps closing with close in routines.

Following the figure skating exhibition, a high school hockey match between Newark and William Penn took place. Delaware has three high school hockey teams... the other being St. Mark's.

Brandywine 36th season starts this month

One of the Delaware Valley's warm weather favorites, Brandywine Raceway swings back into action for its 36th season on Sunday, March 27.

The traditional charm of the first night-time pari-mutuel racetrack in the area has not changed since opening night, on Labor Day of 1953.

The grandstand is regarded as one of the finest in the racing industry while the immaculately kept clubhouse can accommodate 850 in the terraced dining room and an additional 150 in the cozy Rodney Room.

One of the unique treats for Brandywine fans are retractable windows which are raised during ideal weather conditions to permit fans to watch racing in the open air. At other times, the facility is climate controlled for patron comfort.

The Brandywine season starts on Sunday, March 27 and continues with Tuesday through Sunday racing until Labor Day, September 5. On Tuesday through Thursday, there will be 10 races each night while Friday, Saturday and Sunday will feature 11 races. First race is 7:30 p.m.

The familiar Daily Double, Exacta and Trifecta wagering format will be augmented by a Late Double, Twin Trifecta and a new Pick 3 bet, in which fans must correctly select the winner of the 5th, 6th and 7th races in succession.

Over the seasons, a large gaggle of Canadian Geese usually fly in prior to the first race of the night and decorate the twin infield lakes and color lighted fountain at the track.

There's something for everyone at Brandywine. From free admission every Wednesday for Ladies' Night and a similar evening for Men on Thursdays. The highlight of the racing season takes place on Sunday, May 29 when the top 3-year-old pacers in the sport compete in the prestigious $100,000 Battle of the Brandywine classic.

school district and thereby pay school taxes. Continuing, Neeman said a Salisbury, Md., bakery, from whom the school is purchasing bread, isn't paying one cent in taxes to the school. He added, "I do not feel that I, or my company, was treated fairly in this matter, and to regain your business (approximately 170 to 190 loaves per week), I have been authorized to offer you bread for 1/4¢ per loaf cheaper than you are now getting it from the Salisbury baking firm."

10 YEARS AGO MARCH 22, 1978

HARRINGTON-In one of the largest turnouts for a Chamber of Commerce meeting that can be remembered, some 20 members voted unanimously to "...take whatever steps are necessary to have the ordinance rescinded."

The motion, made by David G. Jones, Executive Vice President and Cashier of The First National Bank of Harrington, was directed at the controversial City of Harrington ordinance which was passed at last Tuesday's regular monthly meeting of the City Council.

The ordinance said in effect that "...no traffic could be used on Reese Avenue in excess of 30,000 lbs. or 15 tons." The ordinance passed last week's meeting by a margin of 4 votes to 2. Those in favor of the ordinance were Councilmen Earl McColley (the sponsor), Dr. Vincent Lobo, Jack Wyatt, and newly elected Councilman William Dill. Those voting against the ordinance were Councilmen Gary Homewood and William W. Shaw Jr.

"At first there was just a little smoke, then, real quick, the middle part of the roof went up," explained one volunteer firefighter.

Before it was under control, the fire which consumed the center portion of the Lake Forest East Elementary School on March 16 had caused over $250,000 worth of damage and created a make-shift holiday for school children in the area.

While the cause of the fire is still under investigation, Benjamin Roy, state fire marshal, explained that the fire originated in the ceiling above the gym. "The fire was contained to the area of origin," Roy stated. He added that at this point the cause of the fire is assumed to be an accident.

Roy said that at present it looks as though the fire might have originated around a light that was in the attic. It has not yet been determined if the light was a heat source.

E. Elaine Watson, composition editor for The Harrington Journal, received news this week that a second of her children's books has been accepted for publication by Broadman Press, Nashville, Tenn. The book entitled "God Made the Sea, the Sun, and Me," will be released in January 1979.

Delmarva Chicken Festival celebrates 40th anniversary

With the 1988 Delmarva Chicken Festival less than three months away, plans are moving into high gear for this annual tribute to the area's best known bird.

Set for June 10, 11 and 12 in Salisbury, Maryland, the festival is celebrating its 40th anniversary and organizers plan to make it the biggest ever.

First held in 1948, the festival spotlights the area's poultry industry and its significant impact upon the Delmarva economy. The billion dollar industry which ranks fourth in U.S. broiler production grows an estimated 490 million birds annually and provides employment for more than 20,000 persons.

The June festival will be held at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury and will feature ongoing entertainment, arts and crafts, a carnival, a home and trade show, poultry related displays and an abundance of food. Delmarva's giant fry pan, trademark of the festival for years, will be on location to cook tons of chicken for thousands of visitors.

A highlight of the event will be the Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest. Held on alternate years, this competition is open to residents of 12 northeastern states (Virginia to Maine) and the District of Columbia. Two finalists from each state will participate in cook-off finals on Saturday, June 11.

Festivities will open at noon on Friday, June 10, and continue through the weekend. Co-chairmen of this year's event, Salisburians Dean Gray and Keith Iott, expect to attract as many as 50,000 people during the three days.

The Delmarva Chicken Festival is sponsored by Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. and will be hosted this year by the Salisbury Area Chamber of Commerce. For further information or a complete schedule of events, please contact Delmarva Poultry, R.D. 2, Box 47, Georgetown, DE 19947; or the Salisbury Area Chamber of Commerce, P.O. # SALUTING THE AGRI-INDUSTRY

Dover Mall festivities highlight Ag Week

Delaware's agricultural industry will give itself a pat on the back Friday and Saturday, March 25 and 26, during festivities at the Dover Mall, U.S. 13 north, in Dover.

Ag Week--A Salute to Delaware Agriculture will feature exhibits, contests and other activities for the entire family. The celebration is being held in conjunction with Delaware Agriculture Week, which is recognized during the first week of spring, and National Agriculture Day, traditionally marked on the first day of spring.

Future Farmers of America chapters and 4-H clubs will have their own educational displays. A panel of judges will select the best FFA and 4-H exhibits. Winners will receive gift certificates from Dover Mall and trophies from the Department of Agriculture. The department also will award a trophy for the best exhibit overall.

"Our intent is to focus public attention on agriculture and to create an awareness about the state's largest industry," explained Robert Smallwood, a marketing specialist with the Delaware Department of Agriculture. "We hope to make this an annual event."

Delaware's Master Gardeners and the Delaware State College's Ag Sciences Department are expected to exhibit, as well as several other agricultural organizations.

A variety of displays will be on exhibit during the mall's operating hours. Antique farm equipment and implements will be shown by the Delaware Agriculture Museum, Taylor & Messick Museum in Harrington and Fifer Orchards in Wyoming.

Children will be entertained by clowns roaming the mall, and those who have never lived or worked on a farm will get a chance to see farm animals up close at a petting zoo that will be set up outside under a tent. Animals are being provided by state FFA chapters.

The Delmarva Poultry Industry will feature a cooking display as well as an incubator where visitors can watch chicks hatch. The Delmarva Poultry Fanciers will bring with them several rare Delaware Blue Hens and a variety of exotic birds.

Adults may get a bigger kick out of the Farm Follies, a series of unusual contests scheduled during the mall's evening hours. Several of Delaware's political candidates and other local celebrities will be competing in such events as hog calling, goat milking and log sawing.

The mall's Ag Week events are being co-sponsored by the Department of Agriculture and Dover Mall.

If you have not received an invitation to enter an exhibit but would like to be a part of "A Salute to Delaware Agriculture," contact Robert Smallwood at the Department of Agriculture, 736-4811 or 1-800-282-8685, or Pat McConnon at the Dover Mall, 734-0415.

Ag dinner honors Delaware's number one industry

The 18th Annual Delaware Agricultural Industry Dinner, slated for Saturday, March 19, in the University of Delaware's Clayton Hall, will kick-off Delaware Agriculture Week, March 20-26.

The banquet is sponsored each year prior to the beginning of spring by the Delaware Council of Farm Organizations to recognize the importance of agriculture to the First State and to honor the governor, his staff and the state's elected officials for their continued support of the industry.

Dinner features a buffet that offers virtually every Delaware grown or produced food product. A reception prior to the banquet affords Delaware farmers and agri-businessmen a chance to visit one-on-one with their elected officials and discuss legislative concerns. Future Farmers of America clubs also will have displays set up in the hall.

Dan Hudson, President of the Council of Farm Organizations, announced that Wilmer D. Mizell Sr. will be this year's keynote speaker. Mizell is the USDA's Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Governmental and Public Affairs. Many, however, may better remember him as Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, a professional baseball pitcher for 14 years. Mizell's career included six years with the St. Louis Cardinals and a stint with the Pittsburgh Pirates when they won the World Series in 1960.

A native of Vinegar Bend, Ala., he now resides in Midway, N.C. He has held his current position since August of 1982. Prior to that he served as a North Carolina Congressman and as USDA's Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development.

Only 500 dinner reservations will be accepted, so tickets will be distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis. To order tickets, or for more information, contact dinner chairman Bill Sammons at 736-4811 or 1-800-282-8685.

AG WEEK PROCLAMATION

Gov. Michael Castle signed a proclamation on February 26, in his Legislative Hall office in Dover recognizing March 20-26 as Delaware Agriculture Week.

The proclamation coincides with National Agriculture Day, traditionally celebrated the first day of spring.

Secretary of Agriculture William B. Chandler Jr., chairmen of the House and Senate agriculture committees and leaders of the major farm associations were on hand for the signing.

Delaware Agriculture industries will get a much deserved recognition during Delaware Agriculture Week, March 20-26.

Many festivities have been planned to show our appreciation of some of "Delaware's Best". Photo by David Dill.

Ag trade directory seeks new listings

The Delaware Department of Agriculture is seeking new listings for its Agricultural Trade Directory.

"We are preparing to update the directory for the first time since it was first published in 1984," said marketing manager

Bill Sammons. "We have sent letters to those listed in the last edition to see if they want to be included again, but we are also looking for new listings."

The directory shows possible sources of food and agricultural products available in Delaware. It will be distributed to potential buyers through trade shows, exhibits, direct mail, seminars, etc.

Listings are free and do not obligate individuals or firms in any way.

Companies can be any size as long as they are involved in the sale of food or agriculture products, service or equipment.

Specific categories include: nursery stock, fresh fruits and vegetables, apiary, livestock, forest products, poultry, ag real estate, farm equipment, grain storage, and many more.

Social Security Section

Additional earnings may mean higher benefits

A person who returns to work after beginning to get Social Security retirement benefits may qualify for higher benefits because of the additional earnings, a Social Security manager said recently.

It is not necessary for the worker to take any action if his or her earnings would result in higher benefits. Social Security automatically refigures the benefit rate after the earnings are credited to the worker's record.

People should, however, notify Social Security if they expect to earn more than the annual exempt amount. Earnings over the exempt amount result in the withholding of a person's benefits. In general, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above the exempt amount.

The exempt amounts are $6,120 for people under 65 for all of 1988 and $8,400 for people 65 through 69. There is no limit on earnings for people 70 and over.

In addition, a worker's benefit can be increased by 3 percent a year (1/4 of 1 percent a month) that the worker does not

SSI eligibility examined

People in the local area who receive supplemental security income (SSI) payments have their eligibility re-determined periodically, a Social Security manager said recently.

SSI is a Federal program administered by Social Security that provides a basic cash income to people 65 or older or blind or disabled who have little income and little in the way of personal property or real estate. Money to make SSI payments comes from U.S. Treasury general funds, not Social Security taxes.

The purpose of the redetermination is to make sure the people getting these payments continue to be eligible and that they are getting the right amount.

The amount of a person's SSI payment depends on his or her other income and living arrangements. People getting these payments are required to promptly report any change in their circumstances that can affect their payment rate or their eligibility.

The periodic redetermination is a part of the continuing process to make sure that Social Security payments go only to those people who are eligible. Payments are stopped if a person does not cooperate with Social Security.

For more information on the SSI program or about Social Security, call any Social Security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Benefits are reduced for early retirement

The amount of each retirement check is permanently reduced if a person elects to retire under Social Security before 65, a Social Security manager said recently.

Payments are also reduced if a spouse or a widow or widower begins receiving payments before 65.

The amount of the reduction will depend on the number of months the person receives checks before reaching 65. Those who start getting checks earlier will realize about the same total amount over the years; however, the amount of each check will be smaller because of the longer period during which they will be received.

Beginning in the year 2000, the age at which full benefits will be payable will gradually increase until it reaches 67, however, reduced benefits will still be payable as early as 62.

More information about Social Security retirement benefits can be obtained at any Social Security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Social Security earnings base, Tax rate increase for 1988

The annual earnings base—the maximum amount of earnings that counts for Social Security—will increase to $45,000 for 1988, up from $43,800 for 1987. In addition, the 1988 tax rate for employees and their employers will increase to 7.51 percent, up from the 1987 rate of 7.15 percent, a Social Security manager said recently.

The increase in the wage base is based on the change in average earnings levels from 1986 to 1987. The tax rate increase was already a part of the Social Security law. The effective tax rate for self-employed people will rise from 12.3 percent to 13.02 percent for 1988.

The increase in the tax rate will amount to $7.20 a month for a person earning $2,000 a month.

Other Social Security figures are scheduled to increase in 1988 as well, the manager said. The annual exempt amount used in the annual earnings test will increase. The annual earnings test is the measure used to determine whether a person who works will receive benefits during the year.

The 1988 annual exempt amount for people 65 through 69 will be $8,400, up from the 1987 amount of $8,160. The 1988 exempt amount for people under 65 all of 1988 will be $6,120, up from the 1987 amount of $6,000.

A person whose earnings do not exceed the annual exempt amount will receive all benefits for the year. A person's benefit is reduced by $1 for each $2 of earnings above the exempt amount. The annual earnings test does not apply once a person reaches 70.

The amount of earnings needed to earn a quarter of coverage—the measure of Social Security work credit—will be $470 in 1988, up from $460 for 1987. In 1988, a worker will earn four quarters of coverage if his or her annual earnings are $1,880 or more.

Call Social Security before making visit

It is a good idea for people in the local area to call Social Security before taking the time to visit the office. The reason is that most Social Security business can be taken care of by telephone, a Social Security manager said recently.

Unless the person's business is urgent, it is best to call after the middle of the month and later in the week. Inquiries can be handled more quickly then.

Even if a person needs to visit the office, it is a good idea to call for an appointment. This can help shorten waiting time.

Examples of the business that can be handled by phone include:

- Applying for Social Security benefits.
- A claim can be started by phone and completed by mail.
- Applying for Medicare.

- Changing name and address in Social Security records.
- Reporting a change in marital status.
- Reporting stopping or starting work or to report any other event that can have an effect on benefits.
- Reporting a lost or stolen check or delayed payment.
- Getting help in completing a Medicare form.
- Arranging for direct deposit of checks.
- Getting a benefit estimate.
- Requesting a statement of earnings.
- Getting help in requesting a review of a claim decision.
- To ask any question about Social Security.

The telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Annual report deadline near

People who get Social Security retirement or survivor checks and who earned more than the annual exempt amount in wages from a job or in self-employment in 1987 have until April 15, 1988, to file an annual report of their earnings, a Social Security manager said recently.

The 1987 exempt amounts were $6,000 for people under 65 all of the year and $8,160 for people 65 or over any part of 1987. In general, a person has $1 in benefits withheld for each $2 of annual earnings over the exempt amount.

Social Security uses the annual report to decide whether the person received the correct amount of benefits during 1987. If too much or too little was paid, any adjustment necessary is made based on the annual report.

A special monthly test is used during a person's first year of retirement. Under this test, a person can get a benefit for a month in which he or she did not earn wages over the monthly limit and did not perform substantial services in self-employment. This monthly test can be used only in the person's first year of retirement.

Most people who need to file a report should have received one in the mail. If a person did not get a form, or lost or misplaced the one he or she did get, another copy of the annual report form can be obtained at any Social Security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Disabled workers should not delay benefit application

Workers in the local area suffering from a physical or mental impairment which prevents them from working should consider applying for Social Security disability benefits when it appears the condition will last 12 months or more, a Social Security manager said recently.

Social Security disability benefits can be paid to workers under 65, disabled widows and widowers 50-60, and to unmarried adult children who become disabled before reaching 22.

Under Social Security, a person is considered disabled if he or she has a condition which prevents him or her from doing any substantial gainful work and which has lasted or is expected to last at least 12 months or result in death.

While no payments can be made to a disabled worker, widow, or widower for the first 5 full months of disability, applications should not be delayed.

Before a person applies for disability benefits, it will be helpful if he or she gathers certain information. This will help speed the application process. All it takes is a telephone call to start the process.

This includes:

- The person's Social Security number.
- Date last worked.
- Date person became sick or injured.
- Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of doctors, hospitals, or clinics that provided treatment for the condition and dates of treatment.

Military service serial number or VA claim number if available.

- List of kinds of jobs performed in previous 15 years.
- Names, Social Security numbers, and dates of birth of spouse and children.

Workers' compensation or other public disability benefit number if any.

A person should not delay applying if all this information is not available. The people in any Social Security office may be able to help. The address and telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. I get SSI checks because I'm disabled. I've been offered a job—part-time at first and additional hours if I can handle them. How will going back to work affect my SSI checks?

A. Generally, the first $65 a month you earn won't affect your checks. Half of any amount over $65 will count and that amount will be deducted from your SSI checks. But there are special provisions in the law to help disabled people who want to work. For example, you may be able to continue getting SSI and Medicaid while you test your ability to work. Also, the cost of certain impairment-related work expenses won't be counted as income. For more information about these "work incentive" provisions, call any Social Security office.

Q. My daughter just bought a new car and wants to give me her old one. I would like to have a car, but don't want to take it if having it would reduce my SSI checks. Will my checks be affected if I take the car?

A. It depends on the value of the car. If its current market value is $4,500 or less, there will be no change in your SSI checks. If the value of the car is more than $4,500, check with your Social Security office about the effect it will have on your checks.

Q. As a worker, what Social Security changes should I be concerned about for 1988?

A. This year, the Social Security tax rate is 7.51 percent. The maximum amount of earnings subject to Social Security taxes is $45,000. You will earn 1 quarter of coverage for each $470 of your covered earnings up to a maximum of 4 quarters for the year.

Q. If I become disabled, why do I need a certain number of work credits to receive a Social Security disability benefit?

A. Disability benefits are intended to replace part of the earnings you lose if you are disabled and cannot work. If you have not worked, obviously, you would not lose any earnings if you become disabled. To assure that there is relation between earnings and benefits, you cannot receive disability benefits unless you have worked long enough and recently enough in a job covered by Social Security.

Q. My Social Security check is deposited directly in my bank account. If my mailing address changes is it necessary to contact Social Security? If so, why?

A. Yes. You must notify Social Security of any change of address whether or not you have direct deposit. When necessary, Social Security sends you notices and other information by mail. They also may need to contact you to make sure you continue to be eligible for benefits. If you cannot be located, Social Security may stop your benefits until they can find you.

Q. I've never worked in jobs that were covered by Social Security. I heard that even though I don't have any Social Security credits, I can still get Medicare. How do I arrange this?

A. You can get Medicare hospital insurance at age 65 by signing up for it and paying the monthly premium. If you buy Medicare hospital insurance, you also have to sign up for Medicare medical insurance and pay its premiums. You should get in touch with any Social Security office at least 3 months before you reach 65 so that your protection will start as soon as you're eligible.

Q. I'll be going into the hospital next month for an operation. I'll probably be there for several weeks. If I have a television in my room, will Medicare pay for it?

A. No. Medicare hospital insurance cannot pay for a television or other items of personal convenience, such as a radio or a telephone in your room.

Q. I think I might be eligible for a program in my State that offers free heating oil. If I am eligible, will it affect the amount of my SSI checks?

A. Probably not. Home energy assistance based on need and certified by the State does not count as income for SSI purposes and will not affect the amount of your check.

Q. I'm the sole proprietor of a small business I recently started and have three employees. While my business is small I want to correctly start my recordkeeping. What exactly do I need to do to report wages and taxes properly?

A. As an employer, your recordkeeping involves Social Security. You need to keep a record of each employee's earnings for Social Security. You are required to withhold income tax and Social Security tax from the wages of your employees. After the end of each calendar quarter, you must file Form 941 with the Internal Revenue Service and send that agency the taxes you withheld plus the employer's share of the Social Security tax. At the end of each calendar year, you are required to file a report with the Social Security Administration by sending a completed Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, for each of your employees. Forms W-2, which contain yearly wage and tax information for your employees, must be transmitted to Social Security with a Form W-3, Transmittal of Income and Tax Statements. It is important that the report be timely submitted using correct names and Social Security numbers. As the sole proprietor, you pay Social Security taxes as a self-employed person on the net earnings from your business. You report your net earnings on Schedules C and SE to your Form 1040.

Q. My wife and I both will be 65 next year. How soon should we apply for our Social Security benefits?

A. You should apply for retirement benefits about 2-3 months before you plan to retire. That way, your claim can be processed in time for your payments to start when you stop working. Even if you decide not to retire, you should file an application for Medicare 2 or 3 months before 65 to make sure you will have full Medicare protection starting at age 65.

Q. I've been getting SSI checks for about 5 years. Every so often the Social Security office calls me in to fill out what seems to be the same papers asking the same information about my income and resources. Is that really necessary?

A. Yes, it's necessary. Since SSI is a program based on need, your case must be reviewed from time to time to be sure that you're still eligible and being paid correctly.

Q. I got out of the hospital last month, and now I've got to go back in for additional treatment. Will I have to pay the $520 hospital insurance deductible again?

A. No. The hospital insurance deductible is charged only for your first admission to a hospital in each benefit period. If you are discharged from a hospital and then readmitted before the benefit period ends, you do not have to pay the deductible again. A benefit period ends when you have been out of a hospital or skilled nursing facility for 60 days in a row.

Q. I retired earlier this year. I also worked part time all year. I understand that I may have to pay taxes on half of my Social Security benefits. Will Social Security send me a statement of my benefits for the year without my contacting them? If so, when?

A. Yes. You will receive a statement of earnings sometime in January. It is Social Security Benefit Statement Form SSA-1099. It will show the total amount of your benefits for 1987 as well as any deductions for things like Medicare premiums.

Q. My county job is covered by Social Security. At retirement, I'll get a county pension and I'll also be eligible for a wife's benefit on my husband's Social Security record. How will the government pension offset affect my situation?

A. The government pension offset only applies to Social Security dependents' and survivors' benefits, so your county pension will not affect any benefit you get on your own Social Security record. Also, it will not affect any benefit you receive based on your husband's Social Security record because your government employment is covered by Social Security. The offset only applies to government employment not covered by Social Security.

General enrollment period ends soon

March is the last month of the 1988 general enrollment period for people who failed to sign up for Medicare medical insurance at their first chance, a Social Security manager said recently.

There is a general enrollment period during the first 3 months of each year. Also eligible to enroll at this time are people who once had medical insurance but who dropped this protection.

Medical insurance protection will start July 1, 1988, for people who sign up during the general enrollment period. The basic monthly premium for medical insurance is $24.80 for the period ending December 1988. The basic premium is increased by 10 percent for each year a person could have had this protection but did not.

The premium paid by those with medical insurance represents about one-fourth of the costs. The remaining amount is paid by the Federal Government from general revenues.

Medical insurance helps pay for doctors' services, outpatient hospital services, and many other items and services not covered by the hospital insurance part of Medicare.

In general, after a person has had $75 in approved charges for covered medical expenses in a year—the annual deductible—medical insurance will pay 80 percent of the approved charges for any additional covered services a person has during the rest of the year.

Anyone who has a question about either part of Medicare—hospital insurance or medical insurance—can get the answer at any Social Security office. The people there have free leaflets which tell about the protection offered by Medicare. The address and telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Retroactive checks are limited for Social Security

People who delay applying for Social Security retirement or survivor benefits for some time after they become eligible may miss out on some checks, a Social Security manager said recently.

This is because the number of months for which back payments can be made is limited.

In general, people who apply for retirement or survivor benefits after they reach 65 can get back benefits for up to 6 months before the month they apply, but not before the month of their 65th birthday.

People who apply for reduced benefits before 65 generally cannot get benefits for any month before the month they apply.

People who apply for benefits because they are disabled—workers, adult children, widows, and widowers—can get benefits for up to 12 months before the month they apply if they are eligible in all other ways.

People can save time when they do apply for benefits if they have the necessary documents ready. This includes the person's Social Security card or record of the number, birth or baptismal certificate, W-2 forms or self-employment tax returns for the past year and marriage and death certificates, if appropriate.

More information about applying for benefits can be obtained at any Social Security office. The people there can suggest other documents if those listed are not available. The address and telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

Additional earnings may mean higher benefits

get benefits after 65. Starting for people who reach 65 in 1990 and later, the credit will be gradually increased until it reaches 8 percent in 2009. The credit also applies to widows and widowers.

More information about the effect of work and earnings on Social Security benefits can be obtained at any Social Security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest Social Security office can be found in the telephone directory.

An economic development plan for our future

by Governor Michael N. Castle

Nearly ten years ago, when the state was on the brink of financial disaster, a number of steps were taken to put us back on the road to financial health. One, of course, was controlling our spending. But another crucial element of that recovery was an increased emphasis on economic development.

As a result, the Delaware Development Office was created. And, for the past seven years, DDO has done a remarkable job in making Delaware one of the most responsive and most successful states in economic development.

But changing times require new ideas. At the initiation of DDO director Dale Wolf, the Development Office recently completed an assessment of its progress and began charting its course for the future. The report, released this week, looks at DDO's changing responsibilities since 1981 and targets projects for the rest of this century.

It takes into account the needs of the entire state and is consistent with our efforts to attract business and job opportunities in Kent and Sussex Counties. The plans range from the practical -- a catalog of exporters -- to major steps such as creation of an Economic Development Fund to provide incentives for the expansion and recruitment of businesses. Four million dollars in start-up capital has been included in this year's Bond Bill.

Businesses with fifty employees or less provide thirty percent of the jobs in Delaware as well as much of the potential for new job creation. The long-term goal of the Development Office is to become a focal point for assistance to new business ventures and to existing, but still small, firms. Specifically, DDO plans to serve as a small business advocate and to develop funding sources beyond those presently available.

Many of the nine industries previously targeted by DDO for emphasis would benefit from the growth of high technology activities. DDO's plans in this area include supporting the creation of a new technology park and an Institute for composite Technology on land donated by the University of Delaware.

Tourism, which is big business in our state, is also highlighted. The challenge here is to expand the industry and its employment opportunities without overcrowding facilities or overburdening our natural resources. One of the ways suggested in the report is to help extend the business year for resort and seasonal facilities by encouraging non-seasonal events and activities.

This new plan is an important development tool for Delaware. Under the leadership of Dale Wolf, and with the hard work of the DDO staff which is dedicated to making Delaware a better plan to live and work, we now have a plan that will ensure our competitiveness into the next century.

U.S. Service Academy nominating process starts now

by Congressman Tom Carper

Each year I have the privilege of nominating some of our state's best and brightest high school seniors to the U.S. Military, Naval, Air Force, and Merchant Marine academies. My nominees for the Class of 1992 were outstanding, and several have already received appointments.

The seniors I nominated for the class of 1992 have much to be proud of. The road to gaining an appointment to the U.S. service academies is not an easy one.

For students interested in being a member of the class of 1993, it's time to start preparing for the 1989 nomination process. I strongly recommend that high school juniors interested in being nominated to an academy next fall start NOW.

Applying for a nomination from my office is not overly complicated, but it does require time, attention, and diligence. The ideal service academy candidate is an athletic individual who excels in academics, earns SAT scores of over 1100 or ACT scores of over 45, has demonstrated leadership capabilities, is involved in community service activities, and has a genuine interest in pursuing a military career.

What do prospective nominees need to do? Visit your guidance counselor and ask about applying for Congressman Tom Carper's service academy nomination. Or simply write to me, informing me of which academy you hope to attend. My address is: 5021 Boggs Federal Building, 844 King Street, Wilmington, DE 19801.

After sending me the required college board scores, transcripts, letters of recommendation and updates - the absolute deadline is October 14, 1988 - the nominating process will culminate with a personal interview by my Service Academy Review Board in the fall. The Board, a non-partisan group of community leaders from throughout the state, will recommend 10 unranked nominees for each academy. No nomination is necessary if you wish to attend the Coast Guard Academy. Individuals are eligible for nomination until they reach the age of 22.

I usually have one appointment slot open for each academy. Once that slot is filled by one of my ten nominees, those that remain will still be eligible for non-congressional appointments available to their respective academies.

While applicants are participating in my nominating process, they must also provide the academies with similar information, and undergo physical exams and aptitude tests as well. That's why it's a good idea to begin as soon as possible.

A nomination to attend one of our nation's service academies is a mark of academic excellence and commitment to serving our country. As a veteran and Naval Reserve officer myself, I'm particularly proud of the students I've nominated over the years, and I look forward to the opportunity to continue sending some of the finest young people our state has to offer to the U.S. service academies.

Senatorial Report

By Sen. Ruth Ann Minner

18th Senatorial District
I've been getting a lot of calls and letters lately pertaining to uninsured motorists and the so-called "Sticker Bill" I introduced last May in an effort to get uninsured motorists off the highways.

Many of the calls come from victims who have had to pay large sums of money for repair of their own vehicles damaged by uninsured motorists.

Unfortunately, opponents of my legislation (SB 83) have also been active, circulating what I consider to be misinformation about the bill and what it will do. The misinformation seems to be confined to five main areas:

That I'm the only one who had input into the legislation and that I claim the bill will rid the highways of uninsured motorists. The facts are that the legislation was drafted and worked on for two years by a group including the Insurance Department, the Motor Vehicle Division, the State Police, and the State Insurance Department before I even got involved.

That your policy due date will be the 1st and 15th of the month. Not true. The bill leaves that decision up to the Insurance Department, which will draft rules and regulations only after full public hearings and input from the insurance industry.

That stickers will be issued only for the time paid. True. But if the current laws were being enforced, the insurance companies would not issue insurance cards for any time not paid in advance. What has been happening is that an insurance company issues a card for 12 months, when the motorist is paying by the month.

That if a motorist wishes to cancel liability insurance for any reason, such as sale or trade of an auto, the sticker must be returned. True. But under present law, the insurance companies should require that the insurance card be returned before there is any premium refund.

That motorists will have to pay $2 for a sticker every time a premium for less than a year is paid. Partially true. There is no $2 fee in the bill. That is left up to the insurance companies and should cost no more than it does now if the insurance industry properly kept tabs on the insurance cards it issues.

During the two years the bill was in the drafting stage, the Insurance Department has met with representatives of a broad spectrum of interests, including the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), truckers, auto dealers, the insurance industry, and legislators. The result of these meetings has been a large volume of appropriate suggestions, many of which could be incorporated in SB 83 or in the regulations of the Insurance Department.

I recognize that the bill may need some refinement. I have scheduled it for Senate debate on March 29, and I urge anyone who would like to address the Senate on this issue to contact my office. I will personally ask for the privileges of the floor for anyone who contacts me.

There is no effort to cram anything down anyone's throat. Reasonable people can disagree, but reasonable people do not let an admitted serious problem on our highways continue without some effort to eliminate it.

"The Dream of a Student Voice"

by Richard McGinnis

SGA President
Lake Forest High School

In 1930, the dream of a student voice in the policy making process of high schools throughout this nation became reality because of a young man named Warren Shull. Shull was Student Council President of Sapulpa High School in Oklahoma. He wanted the students across this nation to unite and become a stronger voice, nationally, if possible. He became the founder of the National Association of Student Councils.

Student Government is more than "Just a Club," it is the voice of the students' concerns to the administration, community, and the nation. It's a voice that needs to get louder for a better quality education. The Lake Forest student council tries to promote and protect student's rights and the right to due process.

Student leaders are not hard to come by. Anyone in Lake Forest High School who is a student with determination, a lot of school spirit, and enough patience to deal with problems in a civilized way, can become one.

Being a student leader has a lot of responsibility attached to it. You have to try to work with the association and keep your grades up. Sometimes this can be a difficult task. It also requires you to basically give up a social life, but it teaches many basic needs that are necessary to know when you go out and face the world. Managing your time, knowing what's important and what's not, patience and long and short term goals are examples of this.

Being a student leader can also teach you the basic principles of democracy, which is of a great importance in our society. Student Council can prepare a student to take on this responsibility of protecting democracy. The students get hands-on experience on how democracy works, because they are the ones who are making it work.

Students vote on many SGA issues, such as "Where should our funds be spent?" and "What will the theme for homecoming be?" I know that may not sound big, but take into consideration that someday a Lake Forest student could be a U.S. Senator voting on issues like Contra Aid, a balanced budget, or better yet, more funding for quality education.

Student Council members are very fortunate, because they learn many aspects of life and how the government works, thanks to the support of their advisors, teachers, parents, and the NASC founder, Warren Shull.

Roth: Noriega, you must go

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

In recent weeks we have been inundated with media reports about the involvement of corrupt Panamanian public officials in the narcotics trade. In January, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, (PSI), on which I serve as ranking minority member, heard the first direct testimony about large payments to Panamanian officials from drug dealers, including payments to Panama's military strongman and de facto head of government, General Manuel Antonio Noriega.

According to the sworn testimony of convicted drug dealer Steven Kalish, Noriega was a full fledged co-conspirator in Kalish's drug and money laundering activities. Subsequently, two federal grand juries in Florida have handed down indictments against General Noriega and others.

More recently, we have been treated to the spectacle of the president of Panama employing his legitimate power under Panamanian law to dismiss General Noriega, with the result that the President was immediately and illegally deposed by Noriega's henchmen. President Delvalle, who is still recognized by the U.S. government as the legitimate civil authority in Panama, was forced to go into hiding.

I have long been concerned about the role Panamanian banks play in facilitating the international drug trade by laundering the immense cash profits of these merchants of death. In 1985, I issued a report pointing out that these banks, through secret numbered accounts held in the name of secret corporations set up under the laws of various countries, including Panama's, were facilitating drug trafficking by allowing drug dealers to hide their profits.

I think it is time to make absolutely clear to the Panamanians that we will not continue to abide the corrupt activities of a petty dictator like Noriega -- not when those corrupt activities directly affect the security interest of the United States in the continued operation of the Panama Canal and directly involve the health and welfare of Americans.

I have introduced legislation to clear up any ambiguities about U.S. policy. My legislation will ban all imports from Panama.

In 1987, Panama exported about $700 million in products to the United States including fresh fish and shellfish, bananas, refined petroleum products, coffee, tobacco and pearls. This trade constituted approximately 60 percent of Panama's total exports. Thus, an import ban would be expected to have an immediate and significant effect.

My bill also would mandate the termination of direct air service between Panama and the U.S. and halt minting of Panamanian coins in the United States.

It is time to change the picture. It is time to send some clear and resounding messages. First, to General Noriega -- you must go. Second, to the people of Panama -- we support you in your efforts to eliminate a corrupt dictatorship.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The article in last week's Journal by Lucille Evans Clendaniel was very interesting and informative. It is great to hear and read about students from Harrington and their accomplishments over the years.

This paper needs more such articles and I am sure there are many more to be gotten and published for the teachers and students to savor for incentives and more interest in their teachers and studies, and to further their future. There have been many from Harrington Schools that have accomplished much in their lives and it would be great to hear about them.

POWER TO THE PEOPLE

By Edwin Feulner

Most of what government does could be done better in the private sector at enormous savings to taxpayers. That's why President Reagan, in his 1989 budget message to Congress, proposed privatizing, or transferring to the private sector, a large number of government functions. And that's why cities have been saving millions by doing the same thing. The president has the right idea: Washington needs to stop dictating to mayors and governors across the country, and start learning from them.

The world's foremost privatizer is British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. She has revolutionized the British economy and, as an offshoot, British politics. As The Heritage Foundation's Stuart Butler, one of the world's leading authorities on privatization, has explained, privatization's intertwining of politics and economics explains why it succeeds where other efforts fail.

There are two basic reasons government can rarely do better than the private sector, no matter how good the intentions or powerful the intellects of government do-gooders.

First, incentives in government programs run in the wrong direction. A department that actually solved the problems it was created to solve would be a candidate for abolishment. But if the problems get worse, it can request a fatter budget and bigger staff--and generally gets them.

Second, there is very little accountability in government programs. With federal programs, the cost is spread over all the taxpayers in the nation, few of whom even know of the existence of individual federal boondoggles. It's not worth their while to investigate them or lobby against them. Why get excited about a particular program when it's only costing you a buck or so?

But it is worth the while of those who profit from them--bureaucrats mostly--to lobby for increased funding. That's why small, well-informed and well-financed special interests keep flourishing at the expense of the average taxpayer.

All budget-cutting schemes are important unless they take account of these political realities, as privatization does. There has been no shortage of commissions that have pinpointed waste and recommended efficiencies, for example. But the waste keeps getting worse, because so many people profit from it.

With privatization, though, several desirable things happen, as Thatcher and many U.S. governors and mayors have shown. Government spending is reduced. The services government once provided are improved.

In Britain, millions of workers have become stockholders for the first time. In America as well as Britain, public housing tenants are becoming homeowners for the first time.

Since 1979 around 600,000 British workers have switched from public to private payrolls. The number of British stockholders has soared from 2 million in 1979 to 10 million today--40 percent of all British households. In other words, more citizens have a real stake in the system.

The political effects? No longer is capitalism considered the province of plutocrats, and no longer is collectivism considered compassionate. As much as anyone else, the poor take pride in ownership and the increased quality generated by the competitive pressures of the marketplace. Indeed, properly managed, privatization leaves even former bureaucrats of abandoned government programs in better shape.

No wonder the British Labor Party, which has built its post-World War II success on its zeal for nationalizing the British economy, has said that renationalization would "no longer be a priority." Today, anyone who believes expanding the welfare state is the way to give power to the people is either a fraud or a fool.

With another battle of the budget ahead of U.S. policy-makers, there appears for the first time genuine bi-partisan interest in privatization. A key test comes shortly, when the President's Commission on Privatization releases its report. All of us taxpayers should press the Congress to pay close attention to it.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

TAX TIPS

Heavy Vehicle Use Tax: Exemption for Some Farm Trucks

According to the Internal Revenue Service, liability for the federal heavy vehicle use tax may be suspended for an agricultural vehicle under certain circumstances. The tax may be suspended during a tax period if it is reasonable to expect that during the period an otherwise taxable highway motor vehicle used for agricultural purposes will be used on public highways 7,500 miles or less (5,000 miles or less for non-agricultural vehicles).

An agricultural vehicle is any highway motor vehicle that is:

- Used, or expected to be used, primarily for farming purposes, and
- Registered as a highway motor vehicle used for farming purposes under the laws of the state in which the vehicle is required to be registered.

A highway motor vehicle is used primarily for farming purposes if more than half of the vehicle's use, based on mileage, during the tax period is for farming purposes.

To qualify for the suspension of tax, the owner of the vehicle must complete a statement in support of the suspension of tax on the first Form 2290, Heavy Vehicle Use Tax Return, filed for the period. If, while the tax is suspended, the vehicle is used on public highways for more than 7,500 miles during the period, the owner must pay the use tax for the entire tax period or part of the period for which the vehicle is in use, regardless of when it exceeded the 7,500 mile total. The tax is reported on a Form 2290 filed by the last day of the month immediately following the month in which the vehicle exceeds 7,500 miles for the period.

If an agricultural vehicle on which use tax already has been paid for the tax period is used less than 7,500 miles on public highways, the owner may claim credit for the tax on the first Form 2290 filed for the next tax period, or may file a claim for refund of the tax at the end of the tax period. The tax period for this tax is from July 1 to June 30.

Additional information is in free IRS Publication 349, Federal Highway Use Tax on Heavy Vehicles, available by sending in the order blank in the tax package or calling IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-3676.

Social Security Coverage Election For Ministers

Under the Tax Reform Act of 1986, ministers who previously elected to be exempt from social security coverage may change that election and renew their coverage, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA), for social security purposes, treats ministers of a church, members of religious orders, and Christian Science practitioners as self-employed individuals. Prior law permitted them to make an irrevocable election to be exempt from social security taxes if they are conscientiously, or because of religious principles, opposed to participation in a public insurance system.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 provided a limited period (generally up to April 15, 1988) during which a minister, who previously had elected out of social security coverage, may make an irrevocable election back into coverage. An electing minister becomes subject to the Self-Employment Contributions Act (SECA) tax, and post-election earnings are credited for social security purposes.

In addition to the above option, the Act also provides that ministers who make application for exemption from coverage after 1986 must include a statement that the ordaining, commissioning, or licensing body of the church or order has been advised that he or she is opposed to social security. Such application generally must be made within two years of beginning the ministry. The Government will verify that the applicant is aware of the grounds for exemption and seeks exemption on such grounds before approving the application.

For more information, Publication

517, "Social Security for Members of the Clergy and Religious Workers," can be obtained by filling out the order blank in the tax return package or by calling 1-800-424-3676.

Person-to-Person

Meatland's marvelous manager

by Rebecca Moore

Writing a newspaper column gives me the opportunity to meet some fascinating people and get into some pretty interesting situations. Most of these situations are of a rather serious nature—lots of them have to do with people who are experiencing difficulties or have overcome adverse circumstances. But every so often, I visit with someone just for the fun of it. That was the case last week when I visited Meatland out on the corner of Routes 13 and 14. I didn't anticipate any heavy conversation, and there was none. But there were surprises waiting for me during my visit. Come with me and meet a real surprise—the manager of Meatland.

The manager of Meatland is what I call a "preconceived misconception". That means he is not at all what I pictured. After talking to him on the telephone, I envisioned a middle-aged, probably balding man with a bit of a paunch. We arranged to meet at the store on Friday at eleven o'clock in the morning, and I fully expected to come face to face with the embodiment of the above description. After all, doesn't that sound like a grocery store manager? Anyway, I arrived at Meatland and went to the little booth at the front of the store where I expected to find the manager. As I approached the booth, a young man exited.

"Excuse me," I started. "I'm looking for J...?" The word caught in my throat as I looked at the young man's name tag. It said "John". There must be more than one John working at Meatland. But this John just smiled at me and said, "Well, you've found him!" My preconceived misconception was shot to smithereens. This was no middle-aged, balding, paunched man. "There must be some mistake," I thought. But there was none. John Ward, the manager of Meatland is the ripe old age of twenty-five.

Recovering from my initial shock, I began to follow John around the store. Through the bakery and produce departments we went, as John pointed out various points of interest. He introduced me to lots of his employees, all of whom were terribly busy, but took a brief moment to smile. I was still trying to figure out how a person becomes manager of a major grocery store at twenty-five, when one of the employees stopped us and asked, "Hey, John...is this your wife?" Oh, my! Bless that employee! My ten-year seniority diminished. But John is in his position in spite of his age, because of his qualifications. He's been in the grocery business for ten years already. John has done everything in a grocery store that it's possible to do. Starting as a bag boy at fifteen, he's done it all.

During our walk through the store, John was called away to take care of business several times. During these times, I wandered about the store, comparing it to more familiar territory—the commissary at the base. There were many similarities, but Meatland did offer one thing I had never seen in a grocery store before. Piled up at one end of the meat case, were packages of chicken feet. I was really shocked when John told me later that the store sells between two and three hundred pounds of chicken feet every week!

Two things really impressed me while I was on my guided tour. To begin with, the employees were awfully friendly. Either they knew they were going to be in the newspaper, or they're just a friendly, outgoing bunch of people. My past visits to Meatland lead me to think my later conclusion was correct, because, as a customer in the past, I was always treated with courtesy and friendliness. The other thing that impressed me was John's enthusiasm about his job. This guy grinned from ear to ear during our entire visit, and he was as proud of his chicken feet as he was of his filet mignon. This thriving business was his domain and he was sure glad to be part of it!

Finishing our tour, John pointed to the mirrored windows in the front left corner of the store. "That's my office and we can talk up there," he told me.

This would be a new experience for me. I had never been on the other side of those funny type windows. From the office, I could look out over the store, but no one in the store could see me. It was downright sneaky. But John does not sit up in his office and watch out for shoplifters or anything of that nature. He watches the checkout lines and everything else in the store, because he wants to make sure all is running smoothly.

Walking into John's office I was greeted by the grinning face of Katilyn Marie, one of the two real bright spots in John's life. The other bright spot being his wife, Donna Marie. The Wards make their home in Laurel, and they are in the process of building a new house. Donna does all of the grocery shopping—at Laurel's Meatland, of course. Donna is a fulltime housewife and mother. Talking about Donna and Katilyn, John really got to grinning. "I push that gas pedal just a little harder going home than I do coming to work!"

Coming to work often means leaving the house before the sun has poked its head over the horizon. Depending on the shift he works, John arrives at work anywhere from six to ten o'clock, and stays there for the next eight to ten hours. Long hours, to be sure, but I got the impression that this work was more like play to John. I had never met anyone so thoroughly content with his profession.

Meatland does not have a huge, stockpiled inventory stashed away in cavernous storage rooms. Rather, they keep a close watch on all their merchandise, and order more as needed from their warehouses in Norfolk, Virginia. These warehouses provide all the food sold at Meatland, except for that which comes from the local area, like some of the produce. By the way, did you know that the items which sell the best are displayed on the shelves at eye level? You just never know what you're going to learn!

John Ward is an interesting person. He is totally devoted to his family, and he has a job which he thoroughly enjoys. He certainly has just about everything! But in the midst of all this Utopia, is there anything that really gets on his nerves and drives him crazy? Is there any down side to the wonderful job he's got? When I asked John about this, he sat and thought for a minute. With everything he has on his mind, and the continual responsibility, he has a mental check list which he runs through before he heads home at the end of the day. That takes care of his responsibilities. But there is one thing which weighs on him constantly. That one thing is making sure his customers are always happy, because happy customers mean more business, and that, to John, is the most important thing.

By the way, I also asked John what he liked the most about his job, and he didn't have to stop and think about the answer to that one. He's crazy about the town of Harrington and its people. He thoroughly enjoys seeing the same smiling faces week after week, and getting to know them. The small town situation gives him the opportunity to make friends and establish relationships which he really values.

So the next time you're in Meatland, look up John Ward and say "Hi!" You'll recognize him from the smile on his face, but he may be hard to find. He'll be busy doing everything from bagging groceries to unloading produce, to watching the donuts cook in the bakery to deciphering the reams of paperwork that come through the office. But, I guarantee he'll take the time for a smile and a "How ya doin'?" He values you, not just as a customer, but as a friend, and that's what makes him special and so good at what he does!
