Ducks Unlimited dinner and auction draws full house

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

FELTON. A capacity crowd...and then some...packed into Felton Fire Hall on Saturday night for a full evening of entertainment. The guests were treated to the famous Felton Fire Hall oysters, dumplings and all the trimmings.

Following the dinner the auction began on the many items which were to be auctioned during the evening. The most valuable prize which was chanced off was the All Material Transport (AMT) 600 by John Deere. It was made available to Ducks Unlimited by Taylor & Messick of Harrington. The value of the vehicle was $3,400. Mr. Herbert Ruf of Greensboro held the lucky chance.

The Ducks Unlimited affair on Saturday was to raise money to help provide for valuable acres of farmland and marshes were waterfowl seek refuge in order to perpetuate their species.

Ducks Unlimited was founded in 1937 to help restore waterfowl breeding areas in Canada. The areas in Canada are where over 70% of waterfowl in North America are hatched each year.

According to historians these valuable waterways and breeding grounds were all but wiped out during the western expansion when civilization reached these areas. Exploring the new frontier and developing these areas naturally caused the natural habitat to disappear. There was another disaster in the 1930's when the great drought also contributed to the downfall of these areas.

There is reported that over $280 million has been raised in the history of Ducks Unlimited which has had a valuable influence on developing water supply aid to industry and agriculture. The 560,000 plus members in Ducks Unlimited have contributed to the success of this program.

A Ducks Unlimited 50th Commemorative Shotgun, a Browning A-5 engraved on both sides and the stock and forend made of American Walnut brought $1700. It was purchased by Mr. Hal Wallis of Pratt Insurance, Smyrna.

A new Honda TRX 125 with 4 cycle engine brought $1850 and was purchased by Mr. Mike Stallings.

A painting entitled "Evening Harvest" by former Ducks Unlimited Artist of the Year, Terry Redlin, brought $825 and was purchased by Walt Messick of Harrington. Another painting by Terry Redlin "Changing Seasons-Spring" was sold for $725.

A solid oak Roll Top desk and chair was sold out at $900.

The affair raised over $20,000 for Ducks Unlimited.

Loyal Journal employee remembered

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

HARRINGTON. Mrs. Marion Liska was laid to rest Tuesday, March 29th 1988 in a quiet ceremony attended principally by family members and friends.

Mrs. Liska came to work for The Harrington Journal 10 years ago at an age when most Americans are thinking about retiring, she was interested in beginning a new career instead of sitting on the sidelines.

She was no slouch in her new role. As a matter of fact, she ranked right there with the very best in sales. Her accounts were numerous and the people with whom she dealt swore allegiance to her side. She had a style that was unique to her alone.

The newspaper could always count on her coming through with enough ads to support this or that publication. I used to kid her unmercifully, but I will freely admit to this, that she always had a quick comeback that always topped mine.

There was one thing for certain about her make-up, and that was that she never quit. The whole time I knew her as I did in the role of her employer, I never knew her to have many good days, healthwise.

One time she was hospitalized with "ticker problems", and you would think she would rest in the hospital bed so that she could come home sooner. Not Marion...she picked up the hospital phone and made calls on her accounts.

What do you say to a person who is that loyal to her job and her co-workers? The truth of the matter is what can you? My grandfather used to say "...some people reach a level where there isn't enough money at Ft. Knox to pay them for what they do for you." I think this is true of Marion Liska. She did her job, because she took pride in what she did.

We will all miss her at The Harrington Journal. Even though things won't be the same without her, I think I am a little better for having known her. I thank her again for what she meant to this newspaper, and trust she will have eternal peace.

Blades NHSACA Region 2 Cross Country Coach of the Year

OCALA, FL.--The National High School Athletic Coaches Association Executive Director, Carey E. McDonald, has announced that James Blades of Lake Forest High School has been selected as 1988 Cross Country Coach of the year for NHSACA Region 2. Blades was nominated by coaches and in the state for "National High School Coach of the Year." Outstanding coaches were nominated from other states in the Region but he was selected by the National Awards Committee to be one of the eight NHSACA Regional nominees for the 1988 National Award. Evaluative criteria included tenure, championship years, win-loss percentages, to the profession, the community, and to high school athletics.

McDonald stated that nominees in each of sixteen sports responsibility areas were included in the 1988 Wilson National Awards program. Participation by state coaches associations was the highest in history. Each state nominee in each sports area will receive a NHSACA Award Certificate.

Blades will be honored with a plaque at the 23rd annual NHSACA National Convention-Clinic National Awards Banquet on July 1, 1988 at the Treadway Hotel in Cromwell, CT. National awards will be announced and award rings or pendants presented to the National A.D. and the National H.S. Coaches of the Year. The National Awards Banquet is co-hosted by the

Harrington Historical Society have busy months ahead

The Greater Harrington Historical Society is collecting anything saleable for an auction on April 16, 1988 at 6:00 p.m. It will be held at the Messick Community Building. This is one of two fundraisers which this organization has each year. The proceeds from this will go towards the refurbishing of the Caboose and the Railroad Tower. Nanticoke Homes of Greenwood, is assisting in finding persons to get the work done but the Society must furnish a lot of the funds to get it done. We are asking for donations of any kind to help in this important work. The railroad complex will be a real asset to the community when we finally get it done. Please help by calling one of the following members for pick-up service of your donation: Howell Hitchens at 398-8816; Kenneth McKnatt at 398-8354; Carroll Welch Jr. at 398-9617. All donations, whether of materials or cash, are Tax Deductible. As you do your Spring Cleaning, keep us in mind.

Fife celebrates 10th award ceremonies

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

OLD STATE HOUSE, DOVER. Amid two centuries of history and pride 30 junior high students from Milford Middle School received patriotic awards last Thursday in the Old State House in Dover.

The awards are a result of an education teaching process centering around the national pastime—baseball. There are 4 teams, one official league, 10 players, 5 substitute managers, coaches, and a league president. There are 5 innings of competition with hits being positive ways of putting points on the scoreboard with outs representing negatives. The program is also designed to stimulate free enterprise with it all coming about through competition. "You can do it" is the name of the game, and the very phrase stimulates one to accomplish that which they set out to accomplish. Cal Hollis long regarded as the single most force behind the Fife, organized the program. Two former governors, J. Caleb

Boggs and Sherman Tribbett, offered remarks at the ceremony. Dover Mayor Crawford Carroll and former Secretary of State Robert Reed also participated in the ceremony.

Those students and teachers awarded were: Ryan Claycomb, Emer O'Dwyer, Craig Brozefsky, Robert Kennedy,

David Beebe, Lisa Morris, Tiana Banks, Shannon Banks, Lawrence Legates,

Walls, Stephanie Cannon, Melissa Raub, Ruth McQuaid, James Rowe and Keith Walker.

Teachers: Raymond W. Miller, "Inspirer of Leaders" Medal. Awardees: Dr. William Warren, Roger Gourley, Pamela Kelly, Rachel Hitchens.

Mills Charter Service safety award program

Mills Charter Service of Milford held its annual Driver Safety Award meeting on Wednesday, March 16 at the Colony Inn in Harrington.

Eleven drivers, the full fleet for 1987, received a Driver Safety Award for having accident-free miles and complying with federal safety regulations.

The drivers cited for their outstanding driving record are: Delbert Mills Jr., company owner, Lester Beachy, William Coverdale, Edward "Brooks" Layton, Samuel Layton, Jesse Pike, Everett Ralph, Spencer Rice, Alton Webb Sr., Arlene Zook and Noah Zook. Their experience ranges from 12 to 40 years.

These drivers, who received lapel pins and certificates for their accomplishments, travelled a cumulative total of 393,253 miles during 1987 without one accident among them. The average in the bus industry is 250,000 miles.

The Safety Program is conducted by Carrier Safety Service, a division of F.D. Hammond Enterprises, Inc. in Dover. Carrier Safety is a private company that provides assistance to bus and truck companies for complying with the Department of Transportation's Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations.

Wayne Hammond, manager of Carrier

Safety presented the awards and congratulated the drivers on their achievement. "I am proud of what has been accomplished and I hope this year will be the same."

Hammond said that the safety program is designed to reward those drivers who do care about the welfare of their passengers, other drivers on the road, and overall highway safety. "We would like to insure the public that there are bus and truck companies that are concerned about safety. Hopefully this will make the public feel more comfortable sharing the highway with the buses."

Jim Gillespie of the Lancer Insurance Company from New York spoke to the drivers about safely driving through an intersection. He explained that one-third of bus accidents happen at an intersection, and offered hints on how to be more alert and cautious when going through an intersection.

Mills Charter has been in business since April 1985, and this is its second safety award program. The company runs bus trips into the Claridge Casino on a regular basis, and can also charter trips to other casinos. The buses are permitted to travel through most states east of the Mississippi River, and have ICC authority in all 48 states.

Chemical companies carry discussion in council workshop

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell

HARRINGTON. Members of council, Delaware Development Office, the City Solicitor and a representative of Conrail engaged in a lengthy discussion concerning the matter of a chemical company locating a distribution and packaging center near Harrington.

The discussion centered around the need for "...an independent consultant" rendering an opinion based on information previously gathered by DNREC (Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control) with a recommendation concerning the company which wants to come to Harrington; possibility of visiting an analogous plant and a financial sheet "...like something their shareholders would get in their annual report"; said City Solicitor John Williams. The third item was a data sheet on the types of chemicals the plant would be employing.

In response to the question whether there would be any hitches in getting the proper zoning when the land was annexed into the City, Mayor Farrow said "...we must face these issues and questions now and get all the answers for these very questions will be raised during the public hearing on zoning following annexation if it goes that far. So we must ask these questions now and we must have the answers." He also indicated that any plant that wants to locate in Harrington should be willing to show its best side "...as the city desires the same. We want industry...but by the same token we want to do the right things right in square one, because we don't want plants picking up and leaving. Their investment is our investment too", said Farrow.

Mr. O'Brien representing Conrail's Development office indicated that to make the company go back to square one after they have done what was required of them to do "...would be time and time is money whether it is a chemical company, Conrail or the Development office. We must move forward".

The Mayor responded by saying "...that is true...but for a delegation to meet with DNREC would be the same as we have had. I do not have the skills or the expertise to deal with the questions that need be asked...but once I have the information from an independent consultant, I could make a judgment."

The issue was left with the idea that the city solicitor would price out the cost of a consultant, which the City is asking the Development Office to pay.

In other matters discussed in the workshop, the following took place: -heard an argument put forth by manufactured housing representative that excluding mobile homes from Harrington was disallowing affordable housing to Harrington. The Mayor and the attorney indicated that the council was merely desiring to classify districts through definitions of manufacturing housing.

-indicated that they (the council) needed a breakdown on the bill from former City Manager George Volenik.

-reviewed the zoning for businesses in a home.

-received the recommendation from the city solicitor to proceed to collect all delinquent taxes without exception.

-agreed to send Port Lumber Company a letter informing them that they were in violation of final site approval plan and the penalty for this. Port has begun stacking salt treated lumber on the site in defiance of the city's opinion.

-city manager reported that the final survey for the construction work on Dorman St. was completed.

The Civil Rights Restoration Act

by Congressman Tom Carper

Whenever Congress passes a new law, invariably some people disagree with it. But rarely have so many people objected so strenuously to a piece of legislation as they did to the Civil Rights Restoration Act. Hundreds of Delawareans called my office, and the offices of our two U.S. Senators, to urge us to vote to sustain the president's veto of this landmark legislation.

Unfortunately, many of those who called had been purposely misled by groups outside Delaware into believing that this law would do everything from declaring transvestites handicapped to requiring small businesses to hire drug addicts. It will do nothing of the sort.

What the Civil Rights Restoration Act will do is ensure that federal laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex, race, age, or physical handicap apply to all activities of an institution receiving federal funds. That's all. The law overturns the 1984 Supreme Court decision, Grove City v. Bell, that restricted the coverage of federal anti-discrimination laws that restricted the coverage of federal anti-discrimination laws to the individual programs or activities receiving federal aid.

This civil rights law does not dictate moral tenets to churches or church-run institutions. It in no way alters the long-recognized separation of church and state. The law leaves intact provisions of existing law that exempt educational institutions controlled by religious organizations from discrimination suits if the requirements of the law are inconsistent with their religious tenets. No religious organization applying for an exemption has ever been denied.

The Civil Rights Restoration Act does not extend civil rights protections to any groups not already covered by existing civil rights. It will not impose broad new requirements on employers or small business people. Arguments to the contrary are simply not true. This law is carefully crafted to protect individuals from discrimination without treading on other basic freedoms.

The law is not anti-family, nor is it anti-religion. That's why it was endorsed by the National Council of Churches, the U.S. Catholic Conference, the American Jewish Conference, the American Baptist Churches, the United Methodist Church, the Episcopal Church, Presbyterian Church USA, the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, and many more groups.

By overriding the president's veto, Congress has done nothing more than restore our country's civil rights laws to their original intent. Seventy-three Senators and 292 House members voted to put teeth back into federal anti-discrimination laws by making sure that discrimination based on sex, race, religion, or physical handicap isn't subsidized with taxpayers' dollars.

Enactment of this civil rights law is a victory for every American, but a victory tarnished somewhat by the campaign of misinformation designed to undermine popular support for it. Fortunately, in the end, reason prevailed over scare tactics, and twenty years of progress in extending civil rights protections to every American can now proceed unencumbered.

The Early Childhood Development Center

by Hilary Bonnell
Teacher, Lake Forest North Elementary School

The Early Childhood Developmental Center (ECDC) is a district-wide program for mildly handicapped 3 1/2-8-year-old children housed at Lake Forest North Elementary School in Felton.

Each year the ECDC conducts a search (Project Childfind) in the Lake Forest School District for all children between the ages of 3 1/2 and 5 who may exhibit any mild handicap that could result in a potential learning delay.

This screening includes:

1. The DIAL-R
2. Learning Accomplishment Profile (LAP)
3. An evaluation of vision, hearing, and speech
4. Individual evaluation by a trained school psychologist

Children are eligible for the program only if all four of the above screening techniques indicate some type of a learning delay. They are then placed in the program with written parental permission.

The Early Childhood Developmental Center's curriculum has been developed to accommodate individual differences among children between the ages of 3 1/2 and 8. Though children go through the same sequence of developmental milestones, they do so at various rates. Heretofore, the center is divided into three levels:

- Level I - Pre-Kindergarten
- Level II - Kindergarten
- Level III - First Grade

Depending on the individual's developmental delays, the child is placed appropriately. Within each level are a variety of activities matching tasks to needs, using different techniques and curriculums to best accommodate the needs of each child.

Parental interest is a vital part to a child's development. The Early Childhood Developmental Center attempts to capitalize on this interest by visits each week to the homes of our pre-kindergarten students. Seasonal newsletters and parent workshops supplement the usual parent conferences and reports in all levels of ECDC.

The minimum wage -- good intentions, bad results

by Roger Koopman

The minimum wage is a classic example of a good intention and a bad idea. The idea behind minimum wage legislation is that government, by simple decree, can increase the earning power of all marginal workers. Implicit in this idea is the notion that employment is an exploitive relationship and that business owners will never voluntarily raise the wages of their workers.

Not only does this line of thinking run contrary to the most basic economic principles of a free society, but it is also illogical. If government could raise the real wages of millions of Americans by merely passing a law announcing that fact, then why stop at $3.35 per hour, or $4.65, or even $10.00? Isn't $500 per hour more compassionate than $50? Absurd, you say, and I would agree. But the "logic" is perfectly consistent with the idea of a minimum wage, once you have accepted the premise that political decrees can raise wages.

What does make wages rise? It is most certainly not government edicts that simply rearrange and redistribute existing wealth. Wages rise in response to the creation of new wealth through greater productivity. The more that a society produces per capita, the more there is to distribute through the marketplace in the form of higher wages, better benefits, lower prices, and so on.

The "bigger economic pie" concept isn't complicated, and yet it is a principle that seems to elude us time and again in matters of public policy. We know instinctively that government cannot create or produce anything. It regulates, confiscates, and consumes, all at the expense of the private economy. And yet we still believe that government can wave its magic wand with laws like the minimum wage, and we all will be better off.

Politicians engage in this deception to buy political favor from special interest groups. We keep falling for these political deceptions because our focus is on short-term personal gains rather than on the long-term consequences to the entire nation. We see the apparent benefit of having our own wages increased. But we don't consider the nameless victims of the minimum wage hike who will lose their jobs because the government has priced them out of the labor market.

The net loss to society from the minimum wage is staggering. Those losses include: (1) The loss of employment to the individual himself, (2) the shrinking of the economic pie by the loss of his productive contribution, (3) the financial loss to society in supporting him in his idleness (unemployment compensation, welfare, etc.), (4) the financial loss in funding job training programs and other government efforts to get him re-employed, and (5) the net loss to society in having consumer prices driven up to cover the higher labor costs, and the loss of market share to foreign competition that may occur.

The cruel irony of the minimum wage is that it harms most the very segments of our society that it is intended to help—the unskilled poor and the inexperienced young. The evidence to support this is overwhelming, and it is the black community that is the hardest hit. In the 1950's, black teenage unemployment was roughly that of white teens. Following years of steady increases in both the level and coverage of the Federal minimum wage, over forty percent of the nation's black teenagers are now unemployed.

If a young person is willing to work for $2.50 an hour, to gain work experience and self-esteem, is it the right of Congress to tell him he can't do it? Is it, in fact, the right of any politician to make these kinds of economic choices for a free people?

In a free society, people must have the right to offer their services in the marketplace for whatever price they choose, whether they are workers serving employers or businesses serving consumers. It is by this process that productivity, wage rates, and prosperity are maximized. Government has no more business objecting to a low wage rate for a menial job than it has objecting to a business that offers its services or products for a low price. Government intervention in these matters distorts economic decision-making, misallocates scarce resources, and destroys personal liberty.

If we are to remain a free people, we need to start trusting freedom, and jealously guard our right to make our own choices about our own lives. Repealing the minimum wage law would be an excellent place to start.

Mr. Koopman operates a private employment service in Bozeman, Montana. This article is adapted from the March 1988 issue of The Freeman.

Senatorial Report

by Sen. Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District

I was thinking the other day that man and machines are on a collision course to determine which will survive as master.

What prompted this observation was the telephone answering service I installed in my home to take messages from constituents while I am not available to answer the phone in person. The machine is determined to handle messages the way it wants to, instead of the way I want it to.

The machine fails to record some messages, refuses to play back others, and generally has my messages in such a mess that I'm wondering whether I should scrap the machine.

This is my way of telling readers that if I haven't answered a message you left on my answering machine, please forgive me and try again. And again.

My problem with machines goes all the way back to my youth, when toys which "any six-year-old can assemble" were incomprehensible to me.

Legislative Hall is a perfect example of the machine attempting to take over the legislative process. We have computer typewriters, word processing equipment, huge computers to search out specific sections of the Delaware

Code, fancy printing equipment. But apparently the Legislative Hall electric cord is plugged into a 15-watt receptacle, because the power keeps going on and off and when it is off everything stops.

Another example is the heating and air conditioning system in Legislative Hall. The facilities management people don't trust us to set our own thermostats, which are sealed. The result is that heat is usually pouring out of the outlets on the warmest day of the year, while air conditioning freezes everyone on the coldest days of the year.

How unpredictable is our uneasy truce with machines? Some years ago, it is reported reliably in the corridors of Legislative Hall, the soda machines ran dry and some hard-drinking legislators and aides were looking around for a suitable chaser for their liquid refreshments. The upshot was that the tippers used all the distilled water necessary to run the duplicating machines in the print shop. The result was that no bills could be printed, and if bills and amendments can't be printed, there's not much sense meeting.

It's difficult to decide in this case whether man or machine came out on top. But machines don't get hangovers.

The United States Census Bureau will be conducting surveys this summer and jobs will be available for residents of Kent, Sussex and rural New Castle County.

Every ten years, the United States Department of Commerce conducts a population count or census of all people in the nation. In order to accomplish this goal for the official 1990 survey, work will begin this summer in non-metropolitan areas.

The jobs are temporary and range in duration from two to eight weeks, and the hours are flexible. Starting pay is $5.50 and 21 cents a mile for the use of a car.

To qualify, census takers must be citizens of the United States, be at least 18 years of age (or 16 years old with a high school diploma), take a written job-related test and have the use of a car.

For further information, please contact Decennial Recruiter, U.S. Bureau of Census, 441 N. 5th Street, Philadelphia, PA 19123 or obtain information at the nearest Delaware Job Service Office.

The Division of Libraries is again conducting a study and needs assessment of Delaware's public libraries. The next one will be Monday, April 11, 1988, from 4 to 6 p.m., at the Division of Libraries Conference Room, Edgehill Shopping Center, Dover, Delaware. For further information, please call the Division of Libraries at 1-800-282-8696.

Working together to address common concerns

by Governor Michael N. Castle

There has always been a sense of commonality on the Delmarva peninsula. Sharing borders we see our neighbors often -- Marylanders shop and vacation in Delaware and Delawareans spend time on the Eastern shore and Chesapeake Bay.

Now Delaware and Maryland are making plans to work together to address some of our common concerns.

Recently I met with Governor Schaeffer and we talked about the benefits and challenges of sharing the same peninsula. We are connected by history, transportation links and media markets, and we are both small states seeking to compete in the world marketplace. Without question, there is an advantage to be gained by pooling our talent, expertise and resources.

Of course, there will be times when we will be competitors, but we must not short-change our constituents by not addressing those situations better addressed through cooperation.

Governor Schaeffer and I have sent a letter to our cabinet and agency heads who handle social, environmental, and economic development issues explaining the new relationship and directing them to work together to find common solutions.

Specific social services and health projects include drug enforcement and trafficking on I-95 and the coastal resorts, cooperative arrangements for the treatment of the mentally ill and provision of rehabilitative services, disaster planning, coordination of resort health care needs and control and prevention of rabies and avian influenza.

In the area of the environment, we will cooperate on beach replenishment, the formation of an interstate coastal commission, and ground water management.

Economic development priorities being jointly explored include improved roads approaching the states ocean resorts, joint agricultural and tourism promotion, and dual international marketing and trade missions.

We plan to meet again in late spring to discuss progress made by our staff members on these issues.

It is clear that social problems, environmental challenges and economic development opportunities often know no state boundaries. This cooperative relationship is not only a natural one, but one that is rich with possibilities for progress.

Get off politician's backs

By Edwin Feulner

The best of Broadway can't hold a candle to Capitol Hill. Get this recent headline in the Washington Post: "Packwood Arrested, Carried to Senate in Filibuster Showdown." I was pleased, because except when it is adjourned, Congress does the least harm when it filibusters. The time to sweat is when the filibuster ends and the do-gooders try to do something.

"Shortly after midnight," says the Post article, "a posse . . . marched through the Capitol in pursuit of Republican senators, who apparently had gone into hiding . . . Later, the posse combed the Senate office buildings and came up with Packwood, who, as he noted after he was deposited on the Senate floor, 'did not come fully voluntarily.'"

In this case, the theatrics were worth it. The filibuster prevented passage of more campaign-spending regulations that would have made an unfair situation even worse. But, as usual, the proposal was swathed in such sweet rhetoric that, at first glance, you wonder how anyone could be against it.

Proponents of more restrictive regulations conjure visions of fat cats buying elections, and special interests buying politicians they turn into puppets. The fat cats, of course, are always Republicans—which makes one wonder: How come the Democrats hold majorities in both houses of Congress?

Be that as it may, other champions of "campaign reform" have another bogeyman: negative advertising. "Voters do not want to hear about the worst in others—they want to hear why Democrats are best for them," Democratic Party Chairman Paul Kirk, Jr., has said.

Maybe. But the real trouble is that Washington do-gooders can't leave bad enough alone. Decisions on how much to spend on what kind of ads should be made by campaigns themselves, not government. But whenever the do-gooders see something they consider undesirable, they think government should step in. The result is usually worse, which would be the case if the campaign-spending reforms were enacted.

The bill in question—set aside for the eighth time in a year by the Senate leadership—would give government funds to candidates to offset spending by their opponents that exceeds the bill's "voluntary" limits. It would place further limits on spending by political action committees (PACs).

This is wrongheaded for several reasons. First, crucial to our form of government is an informed electorate. The people are poorly informed now, but they will be even less informed if government further limits their access to information. It is their responsibility, not government's, to evaluate information.

Also, restrictions on campaign spending and advertising hurt challengers far more than incumbents, who can take advantage of ample perks—the "franking" privilege foremost among them. Incumbency also brings name recognition and massive amounts of free media exposure. That's why it has become almost impossible to unseat incumbents.

To be sure, some changes would be desirable. Tougher laws are needed, for example, to prevent union bosses from channeling union dues to candidates regardless of the wishes of the rank and file. And welfare and legal services should not be allowed to double, as they have, as voter-registration centers.

The best way to reduce the impact of special interests would be to reduce the size and influence of government. With crucial industries so dependent on what happens in Washington, no wonder so many "buy into" candidates.

It's not wholly clear why people vote as they do. All we know for sure is that they're poorly informed, and further restrictions on campaign spending would make that situation worse.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

Carl Jones wins camera

Officials at Lake Forest High School report that Carl Jones, a freshman attending the school, recently won a 35mm camera as part of the food service program's promotion of the use and sale of meal tickets.

"The award is the fifth such prize to be given away in our 'Spartan Extravaganza' program," said cafeteria manager Sharon DeLong. "Carl was excited and pleased to have won."

LF snow makeup day announced

Officials at Lake Forest School District report that, due to the day of school missed on January 8 because of snow, one day will be made up at the end of the regularly scheduled school year.

As a result, the last day for kindergarten will be June 9; June 10 and June 13 will be 12:00 dismissal days; June 14 will be a Teacher Day (No School); and June 15 will be the last of school.

Questions concerning individual school calendars may be directed to the building principals.

Residents attend national conference on rural education

Donald Bullock, representing Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., and guest Dr. James H. VanSclaver, Superintendent of Lake Forest School District were among nearly 400 people from 21 states attending a national conference on rural education held March 15-17.

The "Search for Solutions" conference attendees picked up information about innovative solutions to problems other rural communities have solved, heard presentations, and spent time with a group of fellow participants from communities of similar size. Together they sought to identify issues and resources, then make plans for action.

Speakers included Dr. Duane M. Nielson, deputy director of the Division of Innovation & Development, Office of Vocational and Adult Education, U.S. Department of Education. Nielson set the stage with a report on the current status of rural education. He had taught and administered educational programs at the local, state and national levels.

Dr. Vicki Luther and Milan Wall, co-directors of the Heatland Center for Leadership Development in Lincoln, NE, discussed the connection between rural schools and economic development. Luther is a community development expert, while Wall is a management and communications expert. They co-authored "The Entrepreneurial Community: A Strategic Planning Approach to Community Survival."

Dr. James D. Jess, superintendent of the Alden, Iowa, Community School District, explained the role of political structures with regard to rural education. Jess is a past-president of the National Rural Education Association and has spent 23 years as a teacher,

And Dr. Jerry Horn, associate dean of the College of Education and director of the Center for Rural Education and Small Schools at Kansas State University, offered "Strategies for Solutions." Horn has conducted several research studies, written numerous articles, and provides leadership in the development of programs and services for schools serving rural areas.

Search for Solutions, the cornerstone of the Community Relations program of Pioneer, began in November 1985 with a series of conferences on rural health care and rural economic development. Phase II, a series of regional conferences, begins next November in Indianapolis and is to continue for up to three years. Pioneer earmarks 2 percent of its pre-tax profits for such efforts to help fulfill what the Company identifies as its responsibility as a corporate citizen.

"In a way, these Search for Solutions seminars are Pioneer's way of repaying the confidence rural America has placed in us," said Thomas N. Urban, chairman and president of the Company.

"Rural America has been Pioneer's home for 60 years," Urban noted. "We'd like to ensure that the foundation under that home remains strong and solid for at least the next 60."

Harrington Rotary Club

A contribution was made recently toward the Tutorial Program at Chipman Junior School for worthy students, under the guidance of Mrs. Winona Deputy.

At a recent meeting, Rotarian Mel Brobst showed slides depicting Harrington Rotary highlights since the mid-fifties to the present year and revealed to new members the contribution the local club has made to the community along with a remembrance of departed members depicted in the presentation.

The district convention will be held at Ocean City, Maryland, April 22 to the 24th, to which several members of the club will attend. This event is under the guidance of John Culver of Salisbury, present District Governor of District #763.

Thursday morning, May 5, members of the GSE team (Group Study Exchange) of Rotary International will be in Harrington for a tour of the Lake Forest High School and its facilities. The 5-member group from Sweden will be accompanied by a leader and be guided through the facilities by members of the Harrington Rotary Club and a member of the Lake Forest School District's staff. From there they will go to the Caroline Country Club where they will be guests at a luncheon given by the Denton Rotary Club.

A May 14th event is being planned the Saturday evening at the Colony Inn Restaurant when a 4-member choral group of Sweet Adelines, female barbershop harmony interpreters, will appear after dinner. The buffet dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. with the program presented at approximately 8 p.m. Tickets are available to the general public on a limited basis from members of the club.

Thursday, May 19, a tour of the Nanticoke Homes facilities in Greenwood is being arranged by Leon Porter to be guided by Mr. Carlton Goodhand of the Nanticoke Homes production staff.

Harrington Rotary meets every Thursday evening, at 6:15 p.m., and welcomes all visitors and prospective members.

Harrington's proposed revision to the City Charter ran into a snag Wednesday evening when an amendment was tacked to it in the Legislature shortly before it adjourned for two months.

The amendment, the sponsor of which had not been learned yesterday, called for the exemption from taxes, property or sewer, of all farmland and buildings thereon, of four acres or more, in the City limits. At present, buildings are taxable.

John Warren Holmes, former resident of Harrington and well-known as a trainer and driver of harness horses, here and elsewhere, was killed Wed., March 26, when the car he was driving crashed into a tree on Route 202 near Wayne Collison. They will be crowned by last year's king and queen, Barbara Spicer and William Parker.

The May pole dancers have been named. Mrs. Clara West and Mrs. Catherine Hopkins have completed the arrangements for the dances. The sewing committee for the girls' costumes is Mrs. Virginia Winkler, Mrs. Virginia Coady and Mrs. Musetta Cox.

Engagement

Lori Hannah and Leland L. Hobbs Jr.

Hannah - Hobbs engaged

Mr. & Mrs. Donald Hannah proudly announce the engagement of their daughter Lori to Leland L. Hobbs Jr., son of Mrs. Gene Hobbs and the late Leland L. Hobbs of Felton, De.

The bride to be is a graduate of Seneca Valley High School in Zelenople, Penna. Miss Hannah is also a 1987 graduate of Butler County Community College with an Associates Degree in nursing, and is currently employed in the Special Care Unit at Kent General Hospital.

Her fiance is a 1983 graduate of Lake Forest High School, and was honorably discharged from the Marine Corp. in October of 1987. He is presently employed at Dover AFB.

A May 14, 1988 wedding is planned.

Chit-Chat with Bonnie

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell 398-8551

Well now, the weather is getting nicer and I am sure you folks will be getting out visiting friends and relatives. I would love to chat with you about your excursions and when you have visitors. I will surely put any interesting tidbits in my column, so please call to chat.

Wednesday afternoon Bonnie and Roberta Mitchell had a sweet little visitor. Little Miss Victoria Fenimore of Magnolia spent the day with them.

Scott and Sandy Marks of Seaford were Wednesday evening guest of Mr. & Mrs. Don Mitchell. It was nice to hear that Sandy's daughter, Marti Fredericks, had a role in the Possum Point Players' "Fiddler on the Roof."

Mr. & Mrs. Lester Larimore recently spent several days touring Luray Caverns and the surrounding areas of West Virginia.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Anne Paladino entertained a group of ladies at a Home Interior party in her home. They enjoyed seeing all the pretty home decorations shown by the lovely demonstrator, Gail Brown of Harrington. Afterwards delicious refreshments were served.

Sunday afternoon Mr. & Mrs. Darrell Porter, Jake Porter and Mrs. Naomi Rentz traveled to Wilmington to ride the Wilmington & Western Railroad's "Easter Bunny Express." Master Jake Porter enjoyed the bunny tour and egg hunt and received a treat from Peter Cottontail himself.

Little Miss Breanna Bly enjoyed the Easter Egg hunt held at Killens Pond State Park on Sunday. I had a nice chat with her grandmother, Jean Angersbach who has been down with bronchitis. Nice to see you again, also Lexie!

Don't forget the 25th annual Little Miss & Miss Harrington Beauty Pageant coming up on Saturday, April 30. This is a wonderful, fun experience for little girls 4-6 years of age and young ladies in the eleventh grade.

The pageant is sponsored by the Harrington Lions Club. The deadline for applications is April 8th. If interested in entering the pageant call Julia Quillen 398-3591, Doris Calhoun 398-3965, Sandra Butler 398-3462.

This is a great opportunity to represent your town.

Many congratulations to the new Mr. and Mrs. David Jones. David and Diana Wharff were wed on Friday, March 25th. David is the president of JCPenney Bank.

Get well wishes to David Dill. Hope to see you out and about real soon!

Deepest sympathy is extended to the family of Marion Lisika who passed away on Saturday, March 26. Marion will be greatly missed by the staff of The Harrington Journal where she was a salesperson.

Happy, Happy Birthdays wishes go out to Lolo O'Day, Ann Fields, Elizabeth Peoples, Virginia S. Smith, Stella Foskey, Evelyn Cain.

A cheery hello and get well wishes to Mr. Charlie Price who is a patient in Milford Memorial Hospital. It was nice to chat with you and to know you are on your way to feeling better.

Special birthday wishes to Paula Algier. You're not getting older, you're getting better!!!

Wishing Everyone A Happy Easter!

Wharff - Jones wed

REHOBOTH. Diana Wharff and David G. Jones were united in holy matrimony on Friday, March 25, 1988.

The double ring ceremony took place at 6:30 p.m. in the home of Mr. Jones, 4 Arnell Road, Rehoboth Beach, Delaware. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wayne Grier, formerly Pastor at Trinity Methodist Church, Harrington.

Those attending the ceremony were Mrs. Elizabeth Ash, mother of the bride,

Mr. James Wharff, son of the bride, Mr. Charles D. Jones, best man and son of the groom, and Mrs. Charles D. (Laura) Jones, daughter-in-law of the groom.

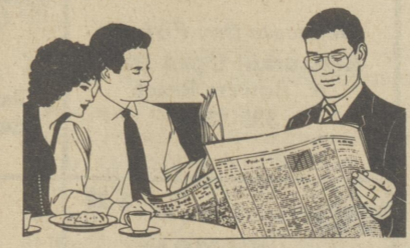

The newlyweds were joined by family, friends, and neighbors for a dinner which followed.

Mrs. Jones is a teacher in the Caesar Rodney School District, and Mr. Jones is the President of the JCPenney National Bank in Harrington.

a former insurance agent, and a teacher at Harrington High School during World War II.

Mr. Cain will be most remembered, however, as the President and Director of the Felton Bank. He was a 1907 graduate of the University of Delaware.

Rehearsal for Children's Choir is scheduled for Wednesday evening at 6:30. CYC classes and Youth activity follows the choir practice. Pastor Miller will conduct a Communion service in the chapel on Wednesday evening at 7:00.

The Community Good Friday service is set for Friday evening in the Frederica United Methodist Church starting at 7:30. Rev. William Downing is the host Pastor.

A special rehearsal for the Children's Choir is set for Saturday morning at 10:15 in the church. An egg hunt is being planned for pre-schoolers through grade 6 on Saturday, April 2 starting at 11 a.m.

PLEASE remember to set your clocks AHEAD 1 hour this Saturday evening. Easter Sunday services are as follows: Sunday School opens at 9:30 in the Sanctuary. Special songs by the Children's Choir and recitations. The service of worship will start at 10:40 a.m. with Pastor Miller bringing the Easter message. Special songs by the choir, Rhonda Hitchens, Junior and Judy Vosshell, and a duet by Wilbur Bubb and Earl Griffin.

Mrs. Thelma Miller is arranging a special Easter Sunday Evening Hymn Sing. The service will start at 6:00 p.m.

The Senior Choir presented a beautiful musical celebration of the Resurrection this past Sunday evening. The attendance was very good. Again, we want to express our appreciation for every visitor present. All the services in Calvary Wesleyan Church are open to the public.

Birthday Greetings this week to Carlton Melvin, Don Parsley, Freddie Wyatt III, Debbie Hill, Virginia Collison, Shirley Downs, Louis Starkey, Dana Moyer, and William Ray Moffett.

Asbury United Methodist Church

William Dore, pastor.

"But he was wounded for our transgressions; he was bruised for our iniquities; upon him was the chastisement that made us whole, and with his stripes we are healed."

On Palm Sunday the crowd cheered as Jesus entered Jerusalem, but on Maundy Thursday the cheers turned into sneers and jeers and shouts of "crucify him." It was on this special night our Lord instituted the Holy Communion for the first time. A Tenebrae Service of Communion will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday evening.

This is a most moving service. Plan to come and share this time with the Lord.

Then on Good Friday, a community service will be held at Trinity United Methodist Church in Frederica at 7:30 p.m. Members of Asbury's choir are participating in this service and would encourage you to attend.

"But the angel said to the women, 'Do not be afraid; for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here; for he is risen, as he said.'" Celebrate the empty tomb at a Sunrise Service at 7 a.m. at the Houston Church!

These are busy days for all of us, but to more fully appreciate the salvation we are offered, we need to STOP and re-live these last days with Jesus and reflect on how these events have a direct effect on our lives today.

The special services this week can help you feel the confusion of the disciples, the agony of Gethsemane, the pain of the cross, and the boundless joy of the women who were told, "He is not here, he is risen as he said!" He did it all for me and he did it all for you. Praise the Lord!!

The Revelation Bible Study will not meet this Wednesday. It will resume on April 6th.

The Folds and Sheperds will not meet on Easter Sunday. They will meet on April 10th at 7 p.m.

This week is Birthday Penny Sunday for Asbury's "April Children."

There will be an Easter Egg Hunt at Asbury on Saturday from 10:30 to noon for all children who are pre-school age through the fifth grade. Come join the fun!

Vacation Bible School will be held in the mornings the week of June 20. Plan now to bring your children and ask them to be thinking of someone they might ask to come along. Anyone able to help with VBS, please call Sue Ellen Dennis or Jerry Lange.

Serving next Sunday--Acolyte: Bobby Southard, Bell Ringer: David Stellar, Nursery: Jean Angersbach, Frances Mason and Mark Breeding, Greeters: Mrs. Woodrow Holloway and Mrs. Fred Powell.

Coming Up: Wednesday, 7 p.m.--Cathedral Choir practice. Thursday, 1 p.m.--Cradle Roll mtg. at Nancy Henry's; 7:30 p.m.--Maundy Thursday Service.

Friday, 7:30 p.m.--Community Service in Frederica.

Saturday, 10:30 a.m.--Easter Egg Hunt. Sunday, 7 a.m.--Sunrise Service. Monday, 8 p.m.--Administrative Council mtg. Tuesday; 6:30 p.m.--UMW dinner.

May we all be open vessels to receive the blessings the Lord has for us this Easter!

April 16 the Dover District Mission Festival at St. John's U.M. Church in Seaford at 9 a.m.

If you would like to register for Camp Pecometh please see the Pastor. Covered dish supper and Special Hymn Sing, music by Gospel Group, April 23 at 6 p.m.

Those having birthdays are John Minner, Mark A. Maloney, C. Tharp Harrington, Mary Trice, Alma Smith and Melissa Dill.

We are glad to have Tharp and Charlotte Harrington home from their Florida vacation.

Prospect United Methodist Church

Beautiful palms and daffodils from the homes of Jean Miller and Russell & Jeanette Legates graced our pulpit March 27, in honor of Palm Sunday.

Rev. Holliday's sermon "A Tremendous Drama," was Gods pageantry of the years. This was seen as a drama played out by God and man. Act One was the excitement of Palm Sunday. The cheering people waving branches as Jesus rode into Jerusalem.

Jesus raising Lazarus from the dead--a preview of the resurrection. Shouts of "Hosanna!" Jesus' three years of ministry coming to an end!

Act Two would be Holy Thursday. This is the last time Jesus would meet with his disciples before his crucifixion. He gave Holy Communion and asked them to do this in remembrance of him. Then there was Good Friday--a mock trial. Pilate found no fault with him but the people said "Crucify him!"

The final act is ours. The decision is ours. We can take our seat and be a spectator or we can be a member of the cast. God grant us the right choice.

Rev. Holliday also gave the Children's sermon based on Palm Sunday. He explained what the term "rolling out the red carpet" meant, and used this as an example of what the people did by laying down of palm branches, taking off their coats, etc. to celebrate the coming of Jesus to Jerusalem. They were proclaiming Jesus as their King.

April 11th--Baptist Men will meet at the church at 7 p.m.

Youth Convention is April 15-16 at Ocean City, Md. See Patsy Scheufele for details.

Nursery worker for Sunday is Kathy Morris.

Happy Birthday wishes to Deloris Dill and anniversary wishes to Clark and Sudie Lilly.

"And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow: And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men. And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not yet: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay." Mark 28:2-6

Russell Legates led the Psalter. Scripture was read by Jean Miller. Ushers were John and David Calvert.

Our prayer list this week: Frank and Ethel Tharp, Sonny Shultze, Marshall Anthony, Clinton Morgan, Larry Hammond, Lyman Wroten.

We also pray for Jean Miller as she journeys to Mildenhall, England this week to teach classes in connection with her job at Dover AFB.

We welcomed guests Bill & Joyce Hamilton from York, Pa. and Laura Oliver, sister of Clara West.

This week on our charge: Maundy Thursday Communion Worship Service--March 31 at Trinity U.M. Church at 7:30 p.m.

Easter Sunrise Service--Trinity U.M. Church at 7:00 a.m. Breakfast following.

We will be turning in our Lenten Special Offering on April 3rd.

At the close of the service everyone was given a cross woven by a group in South Africa whose income is almost nonexistent. This is their means of making a little extra money. The crosses, courtesy of Jean Miller, were distributed by Elaine Zeidler and Holly Freeman.

The Daddy of 'Em All

Note: The following was taken from The Hambletonian Society News, Jan.-Feb.-Mar., 1988.

Who was Hambletonian?
Where did he come from?
Did he ever race? Whatever happened to him?

Hambletonian, the horse? He's the daddy of 'em all. Or, just about all trotters and pacers racing today, Hambletonian was foaled in a field near Sugar Loaf, New York, on May 5, 1849. There's a marker on the farm where he was born. The farm, at that time, belonged to Jonas Seely who also owned the dam of Hambletonian. They called her the Charles Kent mare because at one time she belonged to a New York City butcher named - Charles Kent.

When the Kent mare had her foal, Jonas Seely's hire man took an immediate liking to the colt. He was William Rysdyk and he bought the colt and the mare for $125, determined to make his fortune from the colt's future stallion fees.

And rich he did become. The horse earned over $200,000 in stud fees for his new master.

Rysdyk called his colt Hambletonian, a name that traced back to the English community of Hambleton, the site of some ancient horse racing. There had also been a very well known running horse in England around the turn of the 19th century whose name was Hambletonian, a horse highly respected by Rysdyk.

When Hambletonian was only a few months old, in the autumn of 1849, Rysdyk took him to nearby Goshen's half mile track (Historic Track), the site of the Orange County Fair. Horsemen brought their stallions to these county fairs to show them off, to publicize them. Rysdyk was not going to waste any time letting his intentions be known. And so Hambletonian was first introduced to the public while still a weanling.

Hambletonian was never a race horse. His destiny was at the stud. He wasn't a pretty horse but he had a look of power about him. He lived in Chester, New York, only a few miles from where he was born. And just a jog from Goshen where he first became known.

Beginning at the age of two, Hambletonian spent 24 years at stud—siring over 1,300 foals. During the time it was necessary to race only once to prove he had speed. He was the leading sire for many years and his real strength was revealed through his stallion sons. 150 of them sired Standard performers, their bloodlines so strong they eliminated all other families.

When he died in 1876 at the age of 27, Hambletonian was buried near the stall where he lived all his life. A tall granite shaft marks his grave, just a few steps off a street called - Hambletonian Avenue.

Brandywine opens DelVal season on Sunday, March 27th

WILMINGTON, DE— Brandywine Raceway opens its 36th season on Sunday, March 27. Among the usual cast of popular drivers and trainers based at the track will be a former Delaware Valley favorite, Abe Stoltzfus, who will return for the meet. There will be a host of new faces including several talented newcomers who have raced at Pompano Park and other eastern meets that will be on hand for the season which will continue each Tuesday through Sunday for 138 nights until Labor Day, September 5.

Racing secretary Richard Kane has received a record number of stall applications for the 1988 season and he is pleased with the reception by horsemen for the 29th renewal of the $100,000 Battle of the Brandywine pacing classic to be held on Sunday, May 29, and a set of six late closing series which will debut opening week.

Among the bountiful nominees for The Battle are Even Odds, winner of the richest race of 1987, the $1.5 million Woodrow Wilson at the Meadowland and this season's brilliant sensation Burnham, who has won 25 races in a row.

Returning this season will be defending champion driver Bob Shahan and last year's leading trainer, Presley Moore, Jr. heading the list of highly touted new arrivals will be Bob Barella and Joe Antonelli, who will both ship north from Pompano Park in Florida.

Stoltzfus, whose stable has been a leader at Brandywine during most of his career, returns with his powerful band of campaigners after spending last season in Maryland. Stoltzfus and veteran Jim Crane annually produce many of the top 2-year-olds in the sport.

Although not stabled at the track, the David Rovine stable should be popular in the top class events each weekend. Rovine will ship his entourage from his nearby training center at Middletown, DE.

This season Brandywine will feature 10 races nightly Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and 11 on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. First post is 7:30 PM each night.

The daily double will be featured on the 1st and 2nd races. A late double is scheduled for the 7th and 8th races and this season a new "daily triple," will debut on the 5th, 6th and 7th races. There will be trifecta wagering on the 4th, 6th, 8th races every night and on the 10th weeknights and 11th on weekends. Exactas will be available on all races.

URC Kendall challenge tour attracts many for 88 season

WEST LAWN, PA.....The 1988 URC Kendall Challenge Tour will get underway on Saturday night, April 16 at the Delaware International Speedway and a fine line-up of competitors can be expected. Of course, headlining the list is Glenn Fitzcharles of Pottstown, Pa., the 1987 URC point champion.

Last season, Fitzcharles dominated the active schedule but as the season grew older, the competition became tougher. Driving the Don and Darlene Kerr sprinter, Fitzcharles was the threat but still many eyes focused on Billy Ellis as the man to contend with.

Ellis scored one feature victory in 1987, slipping by Glenn Fitzcharles in the final laps of the event held at the 311 Speedway in Madison, North Carolina.

Other drivers expecting to show force and strength in 1988 include Ed Wylie, winner of two URC events last season along with one time winner in 1987, Paul Molz. In a heartstopper at the Selinsgrove Speedway, Molz outran Ellis, Fitzcharles and Dave Kelly to notch the victory.

The line-up for 1988 will also include Bruce Thompson, a veteran of the URC was along with Don Wolfe of Lebanon, Pa. and Bob Swavely who will be driving the Bill Bauer owned sprinter. Ray Swinehart, a small block modified driver will make his first attempt with URC in 1988 along with Jim Baker, winner of many modified stock car events.

Person-to-Person

A lesson from the dump

by Rebecca Moore

In my day-to-day routine, which often is hardly routine, I try to keep my eyes and ears open, because there is so much to learn. Many things can be learned from the printed page or in a classroom. But then, sometimes the most significant lessons are learned in unexpected ways, and, so often, right in our own back yard.

Last Friday was one of those incredible days you'd like to catch in a bottle and let out a little at a time on gloomy days. The sun was spectacular, and very few clouds had the nerve to put in an appearance. The temperature hovered somewhere in the sixties, and it was obvious that Old Man Winter had finally surrendered to Spring.

My son, Jimmy Paul, had a day off from school, and had his best friend, Ronnie, as an overnight guest. On such a beautiful day, one would naturally assume that two eight-year-old boys would be anxious to romp about in the woods, but this was not the case. They chose, rather, to sit in front of the television, with a joystick in their hands and the Commodore 64 going in high gear. After a few hours of this, Mommy decided their eye-hand coordination had been exercised enough, and that the rest of their little bodies could use a workout. Under protest, they were sent outside to go for a walk in the woods.

I fully expected to see them at the kitchen door within a few minutes with some excuse like "Ronnie's legs are hurting, Mom. Can we play with the computer again?" But this was not the case. Indeed, it was quite some time later, as I was putting lunch on the table, that I heard two excited juvenile voices litting over the damp airways of the garage. Bursting through the door, Jimmy Paul and Ronnie were grinning from ear to ear, and looking like the proverbial cat that swallowed the canary. Four little hands held behind two little backs were the final give away. Obviously, they had found some woodland prize to bestow upon Mommy. I smiled and asked, "So, what 'cha got hiding behind your back?" Expecting some first wildflower of Spring, or a handful of brilliant blue jay feathers, one can just imagine my shock when these two elated darlings produced two buckets full of daffodils!

The pleasure of the moment was immediately shot full of holes. Recovering from my surprise, I tried to remain calm and keep the shouting to a minimum. But, there I sat, envisioning some green-thumbed lady returning home that day only to discover that her garden had been desecrated. "Jimmy Paul!" I gasped, "where did you get those?" His innocent, confused eyes looked at me, and he was obviously trying to figure out why I was not thrilled with his offering. "In the woods," he replied, in all sincerity. "Jimmy Paul," I sternly retorted, "daffodils do not grow in the woods. They grow in people's gardens and on their lawns. They don't grow wild in the woods. Now, where did you find these daffodils?" The innocence and confusion just increased. "I found them in the woods, Mommy." He was not being defensive; he was merely stating a fact.

By this time, my husband, David, had arrived on the scene, and he, too, reacted as I had. We wanted to believe Jimmy Paul, but the facts were stacked against him. We knew perfectly well that, while the woods offers a beautiful assortment of God's delicacies, daffodils are not one of them. But an obvious solution to the problem became quite clear. David pulled on his sneakers, and followed the boys outside to locate the mysterious origin of the yellow flowers.

Within about ten minutes, the three of them had returned. I had been waiting impatiently, and seeing the smile on David's face, I knew that our son had been acquitted. The daffodils had come out of the woods, not out of someone's yard. What a relief! My faith in Jimmy Paul was renewed, I had a beautiful bouquet to brighten up my kitchen table, and I did not need to get acquainted with an irate neighbor.

But, how in the world did daffodils end up growing in the woods? Well, thanks to David, the answer to that question was quite simple. For the past year, there has been quite a bit of construction going on along the back side of our property. This construction, of course, required a considerable amount of bulldozing and digging. The end result of this excavation was a huge pile of dirt and trash—in other words, a dump. But unknown to anyone, along with the dirt, came dozens of daffodil bulbs. So, at the edge of our property, in the middle of the woods, sits a dump covered in brilliant, yellow daffodils.

A very relieved Mommy gratefully took her son in her arms and gave him an apologetic hug. And in my eyes, he grew several inches taller that day.

It was later that day, as I was thinking over the incident, that the real lesson of it hit me.

This is the week during which we celebrate the suffering, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. It is appropriate that this occasion should be celebrated in the Spring, as this is the time of year when new life begins. The trees begin to take on their new coats; the flowers, having laid dormant through the cold winter, raise their sleepy heads towards the heavens; farmers are busy with planting, and with the arrival of the new lambs and calves. All about us are reminders of new life, and a return to life. It was in the Spring that Jesus returned to life, victorious over death, and giving eternal life to all who would believe in Him with their whole heart.

If I took a daffodil bulb and plopped it on the table in front of you, you'd probably think, "Well there's a daffodil bulb. It looks dead—more like a rock than the beautiful thing it will become when spring arrives." And your thoughts would be correct. For to look at a daffodil bulb, one would never imagine that out of something so dead, something so alive would eventually grow. But that's the way it is when a farmer plants his fields. He doesn't take an ear of corn off a stalk and plant it. He takes dead seeds and puts them into the ground, and out of death, comes life.

I thought of the dump daffodils. A year ago, some unknown person, sitting in the seat of a bulldozer pushed tons of earth to a dumpsite. Within those tons of earth, were "dead" daffodil bulbs. But with the arrival of Spring, life was breathed into those dead bulbs, and there they stand—tall, magnificent and a reminder to us of the Creator.

And so it is with us. For as the apostle Paul said in the book of II Corinthians, "Therefore, if any man be in Christ, he is a new creation; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

A loving gesture from my busy little boy; something to brighten my kitchen table; a curiosity sitting in the woods. All these things came about last Friday. But more importantly, a lesson was learned, and I was reminded again of life—eternal life which was brought about by Jesus Christ, by His death on the cross and His resurrection. Life out of death—difficult to comprehend, but so incredibly miraculous and glorious!

ELSIE A. JENKINS

WOODSIDE — Elsie A. Jenkins, third-generation proprietor of a century-old store in Woodside, died Friday, March 25, 1988 of heart failure in Kent General Hospital, Dover. She was 76.

Jenkins' Store, next to the railroad tracks on the edge of the main road through Woodside, was built and operated by John and Jane Reed, grandparents of Mrs. Jenkins' late husband, Glancy. When her husband's father died in 1947, the couple moved from their small farm to the house next to the store. They ran the store until Glancy Jenkins died in 1967. Since then, Mrs. Jenkins operated the small store by herself.

The Delaware Agriculture Museum hoped at one time to move the rural relic to an outdoor museum on U.S. 13 in Dover to preserve it as an example of a vanishing community fixture.

Three Woodside residents built a replica of the store several years ago, complete with a Firestone Tire sign and old kerosene pump. The store was Woodside's entry in the Kent County Tricentennial parade in 1983.

In addition to running her store, Mrs. Jenkins was a school bus aide at John S. Charlton School in Rising Sun for the past nine years.

She was a member of Woodside Town Council for more than eight years and had recently begun another two-year term.

She was a member of Woodside Methodist Church.

Mrs. Jefferson stated she had visited with Mr. Sweeney at Kent Vo-Tech, Woodside about printing our membership cards, note paper and stationary with our logo on it. The prices were reasonable and a motion by Edie Hemphill and seconded by Steve Childers for the printing to be done. Steve Childers reported on the attending of the Felton Town Council for the old town hall for our Historical Society. The town council approved, to be discussed later, for the renting, repairs, etc. Mr. Childers has inspected the building and to his surprise found it in not too bad a condition. The first donation offered was 10 gal. of paint to the society, from Wm. Myers, Jr. We were pleased with the report and the donation. Mr. Childers also explained to us, the yard sale we have been planning at E.B. Warrington's Classic Car Sales lot will be May 14th, a rain date May 21st, 1988. More information can be obtained on where and who to call for any donations for the Society's sale, contact Virgie Carlisle, 284-4594, Joyce Jefferson 284-3152, Dorothy O'Day 284-9120, Lola O'Day 284-9175 and our Chairman Mr. Steve Childers 284-3488. Any items can be stored by us, as you get your donations, call any of the above phone numbers and we can advise you where it can be stored and help you. It was decided for Lola O'Day to handle the advertising for the sale and the posters Steve Childers will distribute to service stations, post offices and many more, just watch for the posters and the newspapers, TV and radio. Steve sketched a membership card for Joyce to examine for our cards to be printed.

The Felton Volunteer Fire Co. gave a donation of $10.00 to the Historical Society, we greatly appreciate the gift.

Our treasurer, Louise Fisher is in Florida, we miss you and hope you are enjoying your trip.

Lola O'Day presented the society with a souvenir, believing in years to come it will serve as a pleasant reminder of our school day associations, presented to the late Elmer L. O'Day by his teacher in 1923, Myrtle C. Cabbage. Edie Hemphill also presented the society with a number of memorabilia of the Bicentennial, newspaper, letters, cards, all appreciated so much.

The JCPenney Bank contacted Mrs. Joyce Jefferson informing that they are having an exhibition of artifacts and memorabilia dating, for the bank in Harrington the years 1888-1930, and Canterbury bank dates are from 1930-present date.
