Tax increases top referendum list for Lake Forest

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

HIGH SCHOOL. The Lake Forest School Board has scheduled May 17th for the next district-wide referendum.

The total cost of the package for the voters on May 17th will be $4.2 million. The breakdown is calling for $1.7 million from the local portion and $2.5 million from the state.

The new proposal will ask the taxpayers to agree to a 23.7 cent tax increase, and a $5. capitation increase. Currently the tax rate is 60 cents per $100 and the capitation is $15 per adult in the Lake Forest district.

The debate centered around whether to include the building improvement plan to South Elementary and the addition of a new administrative office complex at the high school.

The second portion of the referendum relates to the salary equalization which if passed will net the school district some $600,000 to supplement salaries.

For this the taxpayers will be increased the 17.4 cents, which is part of the 23.7 cents. It is programed that if the equalization does not pass, there is likely to be a $250,000 deficit.

Dr. VanSciver hinted that of the 17.4 cents 9 cents of it will keep the district "even" and the 8.4 cents will bring home all of the equalization called for under the state plan.

The "central business" office has been programmed for some time going back to the early days of Dr. Gerald Lysik. Dr. VanSciver pointed out that removal of the central business offices from Harrington would in fact free up additional classroom space plus house 30 staff members versus 7 administrators now. The new building will be 7,500 square feet of space. This is equivalent to two and one half sized houses, roughly 2,000 square feet in size.

Miss Shawnnette Graham, 16, of Harrington will be competing in the Miss Delaware Teen USA Pageant to be held at the Milford Colony Inn later this month. The teen pageant is being produced by The Milford Chamber of Commerce. Miss Graham is a sophomore at Lake Forest High School, where she has been a basketball cheerleader for three years, a French student for 3 years, and works part-time at Betsy Ross Pizza in Harrington. She resides with her mother Mrs. Cindy Allaband and her two sisters Kim Graham and Amanda Hockensmith. Photo by HGF.

Milford native hits on meat specialty

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

MILFORD. When most food stores are concentrating on broadening their selection from food to clothing, there is a guy in Milford who is going the other way and zeroing in on one food item—meat at his store in Milford known as "The Butcher Block."

Charlie Campbell a 1967 graduate of Milford High School and a native of Milford has quickly made believers out of everyone as he has brought a meat store to Milford, and it is USDA Choice. It is naturally hard to attract attention to a new business that is all specialty. But quality has turned it around for this young businessman who believes if his success continues, he is looking at wholesale deliveries to larger outlets or maybe a chain of meat stores.

Charlie Campbell has spent 20 years of his working life as a meat cutter for A & P. He now is capitalizing on that experience. "The cut of the meat makes all the difference in the taste. The quality has to be built in of course—but the cut can make the difference in taste," said Mr. Campbell.

The 20 years of meat cutting experience that is Charlie Campbell's is only part of the story. Joining Mr. Campbell is Mr. Walt Hazzard, Sr., as a meat cutter. His experience in this field goes back 60 years. So between them they show 80 years of experience. It's no wonder they take everything in stride.

The store which is located almost next to the Milford Police Department, features 1200 square feet of floor space. The area reserved for cutting of the meat is under refrigeration.

The store features a number of special services such as custom cutting of deer meat during deer hunting season, special cuts for freezing, a deli, fish and poultry sections, case lot purchases, prices for whole lots such as a whole pig "...and more recently a request for a whole steer," Mr. Campbell said.

"We feel we can offer the public the service of free cut up and still make our prices competitive," added Mr. Campbell. Their meats are purchased directly from the Kansas City stock yards long known for their lean, tenderness.

Another specialty is their freshly ground hamburger, ground and packaged while you wait.

It's an innovative concept. Mr. Campbell not only appears to be reaching the market, but he has turned the corner.

Felton Board meets to discuss police car purchase, hires officer

by Lola M. O'Day

FELTON. The April 4th Felton Town Board Meeting opened with discussion around the ditch on High Street. The ditch is to be cleared by the State Highway Department.

The town council accepted and approved the renovation of the old town hall for the purpose of the Felton Community Historical Society. Steve Childers approached the town council and was satisfied for the Historical Society to resume responsibilities.

The Town of Felton has purchased a police car from the Town of Clayton. The car has been equipped and in service since March 26, 1988. It was also approved by council to re-hire Jim McQuigan, as a part-time acting officer, due to absence of our chief.

The flushing of hydrants in Felton has been done for the past 2 Sunday's and will continue to be flushed for the next 2 Sunday's and/or as needed.

Letters requesting building permits have been delayed in reaching approval of Planning & Zoning. Persons who wish building permits may bring them to the regular council session, the first Monday of the month. There will be a public meeting April 25, at 7 p.m. at the town hall for the reading of Planning &

Zoning's new ordinances. A workshop to follow the meeting.

It was discussed that Bill Corkel is to do the maintenance in the town and temporary repairs on small pot holes, etc. Streets needing repairs are: Branch, Butterworth, North, Jefferson, and Sewell all have pot holes to repair. There was discussion on contacting a sub-contractor for repairs.

It is standard procedure for the town to change keys and locks on all town buildings, town hall, water tower and garage. A key box will be available for council members.

A letter was submitted to Levy Court to keep the mobile library for Felton, we have not had any responses.

Anyone that has a swimming pool in Felton will have the annual capping fee included in the billing. If you are anticipating putting in a swimming pool, submit your plans to town council for approval and then to Planning & Zoning.

You will notice some new signs around town and some signs replaced.

Anyone wishing to rent the large green trash barrels of Eastern Disposal, may do so by contacting the town office. You will be informed of the rates when arrangements are made.

Lions Club still seeks contestants

HARRINGTON. As the April 8th deadline approaches the Harrington Lions Club is seeking more participants for the annual Little Miss and Miss Harrington pageant. The pageant is scheduled for Saturday, April 30th at the Lake Forest High School.

This year's pageant will be marking the 25th anniversary of the Lions Club sponsoring the event.

Little Miss contestants must be 4 years of age and no more than 6, and live in the Harrington area. Participants will appear in party dresses and will be asked to recite a nursery rhyme or other recitation.

Girls seeking the Miss Harrington title must be in the eleventh grade (there is no age limitation), and live within the 19952 zip code. The girls will appear in street clothes and evening gown competition and will be required to make a talent presentation.

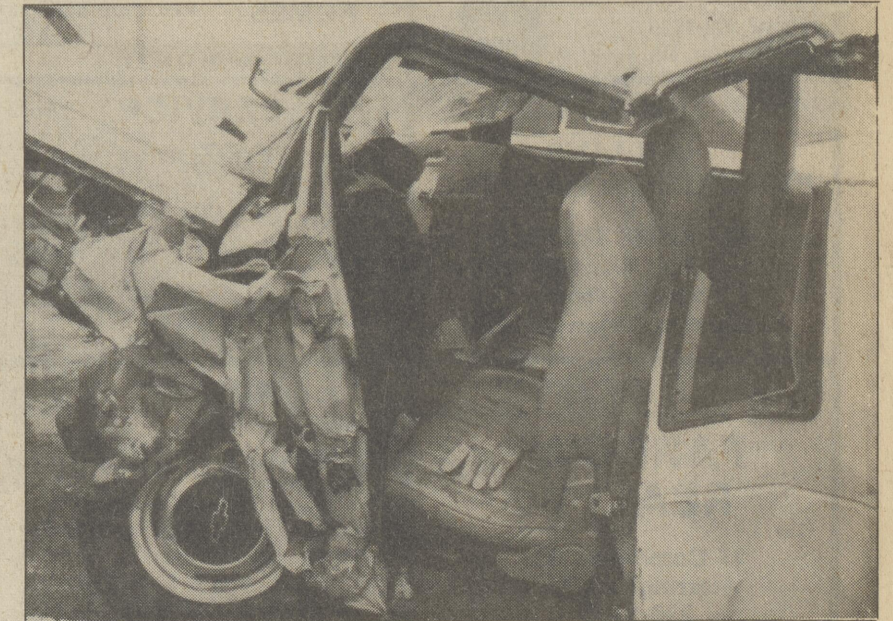

The pageant is a wonderful opportunity for two lovely misses to represent the Harrington Lions Club and the Town of Harrington in many parades and other civic events throughout the year.

To become a pageant contestant, please contact the following ladies no later than Friday, April 8: Julia Quillen-398-3591; Doris Calhoun-398-3965; Sandra Butler-398-3462.

Harrington man listed in fair condition following fatal car accident

Howard A. Krouse, 58, of Liberty Street in Harrington was involved in this two car accident on Thursday afternoon March 31st. The accident occurred on U.S. 113 at Hudson's Pond just south of Lincoln. The car in the left photo driven by Nathaniel Simmons, 29, of Dover had drifted over the centerline, side swiped a car driven by Kathy L. Savage, 28, of Millsboro and proceeded on into the path of the Krouse vehicle, right, which was a small Chevrolet pickup of Delmarva Power for whom Mr. Krouse is employed. Simmons was killed, Ms. Savage was not injured, but Mr. Krouse suffered multiple injuries, with broken bones to both legs, both arms, and multiple facial broken bones. He was air lifted by State Police helicopter to Christiana Hospital in Stanton and admitted to the intensive care unit listed in critical condition. By Monday of this week his condition was lifted to serious and by Tuesday his condition had been upgraded to fair. He remains in the surgical intensive care unit at Christiana Hospital. The wrecked vehicles were towed to Sticks in Georgetown. Photo by HGF.

Officials at W.T. Chipman Junior High School in Lake Forest School District report that Stephanie Nicholson recently won the PTA "Reflections" contest. "Stephanie (an eighth-grader) entered a pen and ink drawing of her little sister using the stippling technique," said

Michelle Melvin, her art instructor. "We thought it was excellent and so did the judges."

Spring Art Fling

The sixth annual Spring Art Fling will be held on Saturday, April 23, 1988 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lake Forest High School in Felton, DE. Students of the district are welcome to submit their original art work to their art teachers before April 18, 1988.

Everyone is welcome to join in the festivities on April 23. The student art work will be displayed.

Activities will include: Displays,

Make-n-Take Tables, hats, calendars, buttons, balloons, cards, nature prints, masks, etc.

Refreshments will be available. Student artists will be performing.

There will be room for five (5) craft tables available on a first come basis.

If you have any questions, please contact chairpersons: Lynda Rae Gannon 284-4405 or Carole Hammond 284-4349 after 5 p.m.

Prepare for the verbal SAT

Delaware Tech, Terry Campus is offering a course designed to help high school students prepare to take the verbal section of the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

Beginning April 11, the course will be offered at Dover High School; on April 12 at Smyrna High School; and on April 14, at Lake Forest High School. The course will meet for eight sessions from 6 to 9 p.m.

For more information and registration call (302) 736-5402.

Terry Campus Chapter, CSI, gets national award

The Terry Campus Chapter of Collegiate Secretaries International, Delaware Technical & Community College, received an award at the Student Conference of Collegiate Secretaries International for the most outstanding achievement and membership participation in CSI and PSI (Professional Secretaries International) activities.

The conference was held March 24-26, 1988, in Dallas, Texas, and was attended by both two-year and four-year colleges and universities. The award was based on outstanding achievement in the areas of professional development programs, service projects, participation in division and international conferences, and active participation with the local Professional Secretaries International Chapter.

Those in attendance at the conference were Christine Guccione from Camden; Sonia Connors, April Schack, Carol Colvin and Esther Ignacio, all from Dover; Lori Wilson of Harrington; Marilyn Porter from Maryland; and their advisor, Josephine Rolison from Townsend.

Tommy Ellis takes 2nd in AAA poster contest

"W.T. Chipman Junior High School (Lake Forest School District) is proud to announce that seventh grader Tommy Ellis has taken second place in the AAA Poster Contest," said his art teacher Michelle Melvin. "Each year the AAA sponsors a poster contest. They break the states down into sections. Each section has two themes to pick from when promoting the program."

Delaware's themes this year were "None for the Road" and "Stay Alert for the Unexpected." W.T. Chipman art students completed a poster project in conjunction with the contest rules.

Eight posters were chosen for the contest.

"Tommy used the 'None for the Road' theme in his poster," continued Melvin. "Winning second place in such a contest is a great honor since Delaware was competing against at least five other states. We are very proud of Tommy."

A savings bond will be presented to Ellis during the school awards assembly in June.

Stephanie Brown took third place in last year's competition with a poster depicting a bus safety theme.

Delaware Regional Citizen Bee's set

An anticipated 66 high school students, representing 22 Delaware schools will gather at Delaware Technical & Community College (Dover) and the State Office Building (Wilmington) to participate in one of two Delaware Citizen Bee competitions, Tuesday, April 19 at 7 p.m.

The competing students will represent:

(Dover): Cape Henlopen, Caesar Rodney, Dover, Indian River, Lake Forest, Smyrna, Sussex Central, and Woodbridge High Schools. (24 participants).

(Wilmington): Alexis I. du Pont, Delaware Technical, Glasgow, Hodgson Voc. Tech., Howard Career, John Dickinson, Mt. Pleasant, Newark, Padua Academy, Saint Mark's, Sanford, Thomas McKean, William Penn, and Wilmington High Schools. (42 participants).

The students were selected through competitions at each of the individual schools and the top three students from each school are participating in the regional events.

The competition, patterned after a spelling bee and organized by the Close Up Foundation in Washington, D.C., will challenge the students with several rounds of questions, eliminating those who answer incorrectly. The questions will be based on American history, geography, economics, politics, culture and current events from a study guide prepared by Close Up.

The top eight (Dover), and fourteen (Wilmington) students in the events will gather in Dover May 10 for the state finals and two Delaware students will represent the state at the national finals in Washington, DC, in June. The top three students there will win scholarships of $7,000; $5,000 and $3,000.

The Board of Education Tuesday night voted to maintain salaries of the teaching staff at current rates and to increase the additional remuneration of some coaches of athletics.

In addition to a full board, 33 persons, mostly teachers, attended the hectic meeting which consumed nearly three hours' time. Considerable interest was evinced in ascertaining the identity of one "J.J.J." author of a Letter to the Editor in The Harrington Journal of last Friday.

The missive, in gist, complained of supplementary compensation given teachers for normal and extra-curricular activities and of additional compensation for the coach of girls' athletics.

William W. Shaw was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday at the April meeting at The Wonder R.

Thomas Clendening was elected vice-president, C.H. Burgess, was re-elected secretary and Arnold Gilstad was re-elected treasurer.

Chit-Chat with Bonnie

by Bonnie Algier-Mitchell 398-8551

Last week I enjoyed chatting with Mrs. Bessie Jester of Delaware Avenue. She recently celebrated her 87th birthday (March 20). Her children and grandchildren and their families helped her celebrate with a party on Sunday, March 22 at her son's home in Sea Towne, Fenwick, Delaware. There were 28 guests in attendance. Mrs. Jester received 40 lovely birthday cards and many gifts.

On Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Don Mitchell and Roberta visited with Mrs. Florence Mitchell of Laurel to bring her some get well cheer. She is ill with bronchitis and we hope she is well real soon.

Susan Nicole Larimore spent the Easter weekend with her mother, Bonnie and sister, Roberta Mitchell. Mrs. Legatha Farrow was surprised at a birthday party held in honor of her 93rd birthday on Wednesday. The celebration was held at the Milford Memorial Hospital and was attended by many of the doctors and nurses acquainted with Mrs. Farrow. It was a lovely affair and much enjoyed by everyone in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hill of near Harrington held an Easter egg hunt on Sunday for their grandchildren, nieces, nephews and neighbors. Afterwards a birthday party was held for their grandson, Matthew, who is celebrating his birthday on Tuesday, April 5th.

Sunday afternoon visitor of Roberta Jo-D Mitchell was her Godfather, Salvatore Vogl of Hartly.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Bagwell and children, Natasha and Britney have recently returned from a visit with their parents in Alabama. While there Natasha celebrated her 4th birthday.

Felton Cub Scout Pack No. 141 attends kite festival

by Lola M. O'Day

The 20th Annual Great Delaware Kite Festival was held at Cape Henlopen Park on April 1, 1988. It was estimated that there were 500 kites to cast their kites for this great event at the festival in temperatures of 47 to 50 degrees. An estimated crowd of 3,000 to 5,000 persons looked toward the sky at these beautiful kites, of all makes and sizes.

Felton Cub Scout Pack #141, Den mother Chris Burt of Den 6 for the homemade kites took first place and Den mother of Den 3, Maude Kerwin, took second place in the homemade kites. Ages of scouts ranged 12 years and younger.

They all received their treat at King's homemade ice cream parlor in Lewes.

There were 22 scouts and 7 chaperones with the scouts. Congratulations to everyone who participated in the festival.

The last Roller Skating activity until Fall months was held on Monday evening in Milford Skating Center.

Mrs. Grace Starkey was hostess this week for the Ladies Prayer Fellowship.

There will be no CVC classes this week but a missionary service will be held on Wednesday evening at 7:00. Mrs. Beverly Turner will be the leader.

We would like to express our appreciation to the parents of children who participated in the Choir and Easter program on Sunday. The attendance was very good and the program was well received. The church was nearly filled for the Easter Sunday morning worship service. The Easter Hymn Sing on Sunday evening was a real blessing. It is good to experience a real spirit of cooperation by those who participate in these special services.

Guest Speaker this Sunday will be Rev. Liston Moyer in the morning and Rev. Paul Dieter, District Superintendent, Sunday evening. The public is invited to attend all services of worship. Special songs this week are by Kathy Wetherhold, Rhonda Hitchens, and Heidi Conran.

Happy Birthday Greetings this week go to Shannon Bennett, Ed Slaughter, Peggy Mitchell, Barbara Cannon, Joshua Hughes, Kelly Hoskins, and Randy Wroten.

Asbury United Methodist Church

Pastor William Dore
"The Lord reigneth; let the earth rejoice!" Psalm 97:1

Sunday was a special day of worship for our friends and relatives as they joined in to rejoice in the Resurrection of our Lord, Jesus Christ. Wherever you go, you are running with our Lord. You can feel His presence - he'll never leave you, and through your faith in Him, He will carry you through. Special music selections were offered by all four choirs, and through Dale Jarrell's solo, "He Wore A Crown," during this celebration of the highest day of the Christian year. The Eveready Class of our Sunday School was recognized for their 65th year as a Sunday School class, with one charter member, Helen Harrington, as well as many current members in attendance.

On Saturday, about 30 members of our youth enjoyed a fun time of fellowship while searching for Easter eggs hidden around the church. This was sponsored by the Christian Peace Express. Birthday Penny Sunday was observed, recognizing Mike Miller, Gale Vogelen, Chris Jester, Erin Vogelen, Janel Dennis, Troy Harrington, and Chrissy Garey as several of our members who will be enjoying birthdays in April.

The United Methodist Men will hold their Breakfast on Sunday, April 10 at 7:30 at Houston. Our Revelation II study continues on Wednesday night at the Church. On Wed., April 13 from 1:30-3:30 there will be the Methodist Manor House Musical Tea. If you are interested in attending, contact Pat Weaver at 398-4178. The money counters will meet briefly following Sunday's service.

Sunday evening at 7 p.m. is the last study event for the Folds and Sheperds. These meetings have been time well spent as we have learned to more effectively minister to our church family and the community.

Coming Up:
Tonight, 8 p.m.--Bible Study.
Sunday, 7:30 a.m.--U.M.M. Breakfast.
2:30--Christian Peace Express meets; 7:00--"Folds" meet.

Serving next Sunday-Acolyte: Jamie Dennis; Bell Ringer: David Stellar; Nursery: Susan & Heather Beauchamp; Friendly Greeters: Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kibler and son.

St. Bernadette's Catholic Church

CONFIRMATION: The Most Reverend Robert Mulvey, Roman Catholic Bishop of the Diocese of Wilmington, will celebrate the Sacrament of Confirmation with our candidates on Friday evening, April 15th at St. John's. A reception for the Bishop and the Confirmands will follow. The 9th graders have been preparing for 2 years for this final step of full initiation into the Catholic faith.

FIRST EUCHARIST Parents who are preparing their children for this sacrament should call Elaine Hanus (422-5123) to make an appointment for an interview with candidate sometime before celebration of First Eucharist.

YOUTH MINISTRY High school student from St. Bernadette's are invited to the monthly CYO meetings at the home of Mary Pinkney. Call Mary for more information (398-4821).

CHILDREN will continue their celebration of Easter with a free Sunday on April 10th. R.E. will then resume on April 17th. On May 1st we will have a special celebration of a May Crowning.

Eveready class at Asbury honored

HARRINGTON: The Eveready Class at Asbury United Methodist Church in Harrington was honored on Sunday for their 65th anniversary. Mrs. Theodore (Helen) Harrington received the honor for the "original seven". Mrs. Harrington is the lone survivor of the original seven who founded the class.

The original seven were Mrs. Ernest (Estella) Dean, Mrs. Will (Olive T.) Sharp, who was the teacher and leader of the original class, Mrs. Grace Masten, Mrs. Mary Satterfield, Mrs. Mary Greenly, Miss Irene Rickards, and Mrs. Theodore (Helen) Harrington.

Harrington United Methodist Church

Joseph V. Holliday, Jr., pastor. Melvin Brobst, organist-director.

Sunrise service was at 7 a.m. and was attended by many. There were lilies put on the altar in memory of loved ones. Scriptures were from the New Testament-Mark 1-10. The sermon was "Turning Sunset Into Sunrise." Breakfast was served following the service.

The regular church service was at 11 a.m. and was nice to see the church full. Mrs. Betty Wix sang a solo "He Died For Me."

Rev. Holliday gave a children's sermon which was well attended.

Leroy Calhoun read the scripture lesson, Old Testament-Psalm 118:14-24. New Testament-Matthew 28:1-10. Sermon was "The Long Arm of God." Closing hymn "Welcome Happy Morning."

The Door Greeter was Karen Geyer and daughter, Katie Fluhr. Acolyte: Greg Porter; Head Usher: Bailey Minner; Ushers: Norman Brown and Winston Linton.

Prayers are asked for Howard Krouse, Sonny Shultie, Smokey White and Virginia Salisbury's family.

Those having birthdays this week are Anna Lee Anderson and Carol Beyer.

Prospect United Methodist Church

He arose! He arose! Hallelujah Christ arose! This message was proclaimed over and over on Easter Sunday morning.

Worship began with an early service at Trinity United Methodist Church in Harrington. Rev. Holliday's message was "Turning Sunsets into Sunrises." Everyone enjoyed breakfast afterwards in Fellowship Hall.

The primary class at Prospect presented a play entitled "Were You There?" during opening exercises at Prospect Sunday morning.

What a glorious sight to see 23 children fill the front row and some extra chairs for the children's sermon by Anthony Gallo. Anthony used very attractive posters to tell the Easter story.

Rev. Holliday's message was entitled "The Long Arm of God." He compared and contrasted the Long Arm of the Law with the Long Arm of God. The long arm of the law can't bring someone back from the dead but the long arm of God surely can. Easter gives us new life!

Acolyte was Donald Jester. Ushers were Kim Zeiler and Kevin Robbins.

Scripture was read by Herman Zeiler. 97 people attended worship service! Our circle was bulging so a connecting line was formed. It is truly a blessing to stand and hold hands in a circle around the church and anyone is invited to express his/her thoughts before benediction is pronounced. Mary Lou Wright expressed the thoughts of many as she said what a blessing it was to see so many people who had recuperated from bouts of serious illnesses. These people have all been on our prayer line.

Our prayer list this week: Sonny Shultie, Lyman Wroten, George Bissell, Jerry Hayman, Hyland Webb, Clinton Morgan and safe passage to Jean Miller in England.

We welcomed guests Ed and Karen Thomas from Buffalo, New York.

Coming events: April 20, Family Night 6:30 p.m. at Prospect; April 23, Covered Dish and Hymn Sing, 6 p.m. at Trinity. Every Sunday: Sunday School at 8:45 a.m. and Worship Service at 9:45 a.m. at Prospect.

"Because I live, you also will live."

Harrington Baptist Church

A joyous time of reading God's Word and fellowship was had by all at the Easter services beginning with Sunday School and ending the Evening service with the observance of the Lord's Supper. We missed some of you in Sunday School. Time changes?

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. with a class for every age. Morning Worship is at 11 a.m. with Evening Worship at 7 p.m. Pastor Watson will preach at both services, Wednesday Prayer and Bible study is at 7 p.m. This Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. there will be a Finance Committee meeting followed with a Quarterly Business meeting. All members are encouraged to attend and participate in the business of your church.

The Annual Delaware Baptist Association Spring Meeting will be held at the church this Saturday starting at 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. with lunch and a nursery provided. All are welcome to this inspirational meeting.

The GA's will meet Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. at the church. The Acteems meet each Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

The Baptist Men will meet Monday, April 11th at 7 p.m. at the church. Also the Baptist Young Women will meet that night at the same time. This is a change of date.

Nursery worker for Sunday is Pat Bailey. Ushers for April are Earle Nelson and Frank Collins.

"These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world. John 16:33. When Jesus spoke the words of our text, the greatest storm of the ages was about to break upon Him and His people. He would be arrested, crucified, and buried. The apostles would be scattered like sheep ravaged by wolves. Even following His resurrection and ascension, they would be persecuted by His foes. They would know tribulation, or be in a tight place with seemingly no way out. Our Lord left no legacy of material wealth. He left us something infinitely better--His peace. The world gives and takes away. His peace abides.

Spartan baseball team comes up short

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
LAKE FOREST HIGH SCHOOL — The defending 1987 Southern Division Champions, the LF varsity baseball team, came up short Thursday in their season opener when a surprise Seaford 9 turned them back 6-5.

Lake Forest might have been trying to shake opening season blues, because they have lacked pre-season play with rainouts, which only spells one thing they just were not ready Thursday.

"We had our chances to score in the early innings, but we must not have been ready," said Coach Falasco, who seemed perturbed, said that the same players who hit well and scored readily in the big sixth inning had their chances in the first three innings. "Hey these were the same boys who had the chance to put the game away early on," added Coach Falasco.

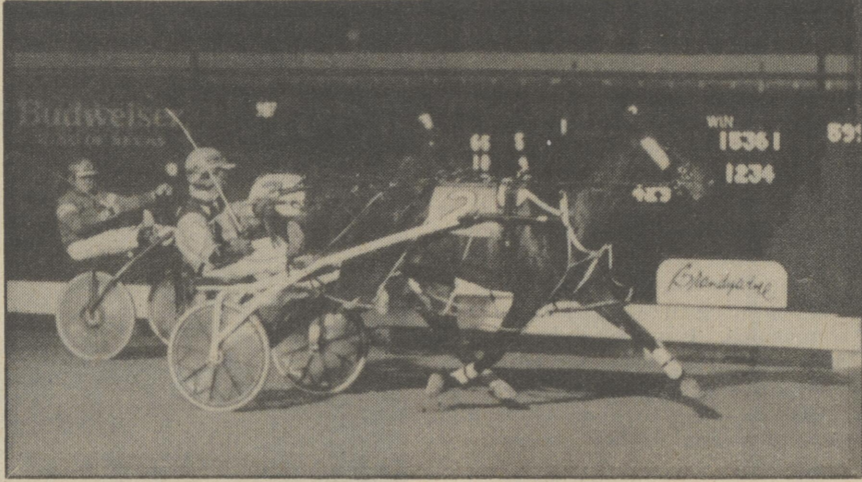

But the Spartans just were not smoothed out. A generally well-mannered Steve Thompson on the mound for the Spartans could not get anything over in the early going, walking 5 batters and hitting one man in two innings.

The game was called in the bottom of the seventh inning with a 2-0 count on lead-off batsman Chris Garton. The Spartans had scored 4 runs in the bottom on the sixth to pull within one run at 6-5.

Seaford had allowed LF just one single through the first five innings, and that was to John Hensley, who lead off with the hit.

In the bottom of the sixth, the Spartans came out like tigers, which they will be throughout this season. An error, single and walk loaded the bases and Fred Murray drilled a two-run-scoring single to chase the Seaford starter Craig Dickerson (3-1).

John Hensley said hello to the relief pitcher Seaford threw up with a hard smash which got another RBI. Terry Sirman scored Murray with another single to bring the Spartans within striking distance. With Day Light Saving Time, which came in this week might have made a difference. "...because I guess our guys were just getting warmed up. We have not had much playing time."

Shahan continues the winning touch in Big B's opening week

Brandywine's leading driver of 1987, Robert Shahan, picked up right where he left off, scoring six victories during the meet's holiday abbreviated opening week to take the early advantage in the 1988 driver standings.

A crowd of 6,217 attended opening night for Brandywine's 36th season of harness racing action on Sunday, March 27. Shahan started his assault on the leaders board with two victories Sunday, followed up with driving doubles on both Tuesday (March 29) and Saturday (April 2) evenings.

Two of Shahan's victories came aboard the five-year-old Reelflux. Opening night, Reelflux defeated a competitive field in the $6000 Fillies & Mares Open pace. Then, returned Saturday evening to capture the first leg of the $4000 Starlet Series. In the Starlet, Shahan took Reelflux to the lead approaching the first quarter and held off a stubborn Nikki Crystal for the 2:00.2 victory. Andrew Feldmann and Max Walton of Newark own Reelflux, a winner of four races in 13 starts in 1988.

In the opening division of the Starlet, G.E.'s Filly, a victim of tough racing luck in her previous races, avoided trouble by leading every step of the way enroute to a convincing 2:03.3 victory. Linda MacDonald drove the four-year-old mare for Jeanette and William Johnson, Jr. of Townsend.

The outstanding card offered on Saturday also featured Aubry and Mary Dillard's Big Deanna scoring a neck victory in the $6000 Fillies & Mares Open Pace. Driven and trained by Mike Rossi. Big Deanna stopped the timer in 2:00.2.

The $5000 Starburst Series for horses that earned less than $30,000 last year was contested twice during the week. Sunday evening J.J.'s Pacemaker and driver Robert Reser captured the first division of the opening leg while Tippy Skipper and Shahan took the second division. Glad To Meet You made it six for 13 on the season with a nose victory in Saturday's second leg of the Starburst.

Tiger B and driver Presley Moore Jr. of Smyrna outlasted J.J.'s Pacemaker in the fastest race thus far in the early season with a 1:58.3 win in the Starburst Series second leg, Tiger B., who had a three race winning streak snapped with a nose loss to Tippy Skipper in the Starburst's opening leg, has now won four races in 10 starts in 1988.

The distinction of being the early season meet's fastest performer belongs to The Porter Grey, a four-year-old Distant Thunder horse who scored a three-length win in 1:57.1 in the $8000 Open Invitational Handicap Saturday. Brandywine's 1987 "Horse of the Year," Suitcase, returned to his favorite stomping grounds and showed his fondness for Big B with a late closing victory in a high priced claiming event on Saturday. Jeannie Shahan trains Suitcase and co-owns the six-year-old with her husband and regular pilot, Robert Shahan.

LF boys overpower Dover 107-39

by Keith S. Burgess

One of Delaware's most respected coaches, Lake Forest's Jim Blades, saw his boys' track team win 15 of 18 events, in a trouncing of Dover High, in the opening of the dual meet season.

Sprint star, Terraine Giddens had a hand in four victories. Giddens won the 100 meters in 10.94 with freshman prospect Petie Davis next. Terraine took the 200 (23.3) then anchored the winning 400 meter relay (46.66). Davis, Herman Mosley and Mike Eck did the first three legs.

Eck, Davis, Giddens and Jason Tiggs annexed the 800 relay in 1:35.34. Davis, up from Chipman, is surprisingly quick and Eck is a real eye-opener. Mike is rated as the best returning cross-country runner, this autumn, in Kent and Sussex Counties. Seldom can an athlete turn in top times at 3.1 miles, in the fall, then step on the track, come spring and turn in fleet opening legs of 100 meters and 200 meters, in relays. But even more amazing is the fact that Eck was tired from a tough half mile leg in the winning 3200 (8.47) meter relay, before he ran the short relays. He's tough, gutsy and fast and extremely valuable to a coach, who has to fill 18 events.

Darren Lawson, Steve Clute and Mark Tozer were the other 3200 relayers with Clute running a great third leg. Tozer, a three time state champion, on an age-for-age basis is the best distance runner in local thinclad history. Against Dover, he also won the 800 (2.05) and 1600 meter runs, (4.38) although 800 meters is a bit short, for the 1987 state cross-country champion. Steve Clute was second to Tozer, in the 1600. Darren Lawson kicked in for third, in the 800.

Jason Tiggs is a real speedster, who is helping Giddens, Tozer and Bob Reed rewrite the Lake Forest boys' track record book. In addition to his 800 relay anchor, Tiggs ran a 53.8, to capture the 400 meter run, leaped 20 feet, 6 inches to annex the long jump and finished second to freshman teammate, Mac Holmes, in a sweep of the triple jump.

Ray Smith was third. Holmes is a fine prospect. His 41 feet winning leap in the triple was augmented by a good 55.8 third place in the 400. Petie Davis scored in four events, in his first meet ever, running on two winning relays and getting seconds in the 100 and the long jump (20 feet, 2 1/4).

Carl Young won the 300 intermediate hurdles in 46.6, with Rod Parker, a close third. Young and Ron Hill went 2-3, in the 110 high hurdles.

Marvin Hicks (42-1), Kevin Wright and Paul Adkins swept the shot. Adkins (120 feet). Hicks and Peter Luckenbach did the same, in the discus.

Bob Reed, defending state champ in the pole vault, has done better than 13 feet against Dover, he cleared 13 feet in his first meet, on a cold March day. By state meet time, some two months hence he could very well be a threat to set a new state record, in the vicinity of 14-7 or so.

Reed also doubles as a high jumper and took that event clearing 5 feet, 8 inches. Wade Salisbury was third, with 5-6.

Mike Sanders, who made an impressive debut as a sophomore cross-country runner, last fall, ran a good 11:21 for two miles to get second place.

Lake Forest swimmers finish season in fine form

Representatives of the Lake Forest Community Swim Team finished their winter season with a B/C Championship meet at Widener University in Chester, Pennsylvania on March 26 and 27. Over 500 swimmers representing 29 teams from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware participated in the two-day event. Awards were given for the first eight places in each age group and event.

Lake Forest was paced by triple winner David Littman in 15 and over boys with wins in 100 breast, 100 fly and 200 IM. Rob Smith, 13/14 boys, was a double winner with wins in 200 free and 100 breast. In 11/12 boys T.J. Soriano took 5th place in 100 free. In 15 & over boys Matt Kelaher took 2nd in 100 breast, 7th in 200 IM, and 7th in 200 IM. David Littman, 15 and over boys, also took 2nd in 200 breast.

The Lake Forest girls also placed well in the meet. In 10 and under girls, Lindsay Arndt took 6th in 50 breast, Kelly Lehman took 3rd in 50 fly and 4th in 200 IM. Jenny Moynihan placed 2nd in 100 IM, 7th in 50 free and 5th in 100 breast and Mary Beth Ellis took 6th in 100 IM. In 11/12 girls Monica Salterelli took 7th in 100 free while in 13/14 girls Angie Mason had a 7th in 50 free. Tara Crowe, 15 and over girls, had a 3rd in 100 back and a 7th in 100 IM.

Also swimming well for Lake Forest were Megan Porter, Lindsay Allen, Jenny Hollis, Maggie Mason, Brandy McMahon, Alyss Lange, Amy Nugent, Rebecca Griffith, Barbara Murphy, J.J. Soriano, David Murphy and David Hartzel.

Brandywine $5,000 handicapping contest

WILMINGTON, DE--Entries are now being accepted for the 2nd Annual $5,000 Handicapper's Challenge at Brandywine Raceway to be held on Friday, April 22 and Saturday, April 23 at the Wilmington, Delaware racetrack.

The 1988 contest will offer $5,000 in prizes. Only 300 entries will be accepted on a first come-first basis. Contestants will vie over a period of two sessions.

An official entry blank is available at Brandywine or by writing to: Handicapping Contest, P.O. Box 7009, Wilmington, DE 19803.

Entries must be received with the entry fee included, by Friday, April 15.

Last year, Vicki Dearolf of Phoenixville, PA won the first annual contest. Her victory came on the last race when the horse she selected won boosting her mythical bankroll to 14,124. Runner-up was Ray Salute of Collingdale, PA with 13,891. Joe Valent of Wilmington, DE finished third with 12,760. Fourth place was taken by Ricky Cornwell of Millford, DE totaling 11,290 and fifth prize to Dan Early of West Chester, PA at 8,087.

West Chester, PA at 8,087.

"Win a Horse" contest at Brandywine

WILMINGTON, DE — Brandywine Raceway will have the answer to a harness racing fans fondest dream, to own a racehorse.

One lucky fan attending the races at Brandywine on Friday night, April 15 will have the opportunity to "Win a Horse" for one full month, with all bills paid during the period. A drawing will be held at the Wilmington, Delaware track with the contestant whose name is drawn declared the winner.

The person whose name is chosen will win the horse for a period of one month. All expenses incurred on behalf of the horse during the month period-

by Keith S. Burgess

Cape Henlopen's girls' track team had too much speed, on the track and too much overall balance, for the Lake Forest Spartans. The home-standing Vikings won the last three events, to break open what had been a close meet. Analyzing the score sheet, it appears that the Spartans lost a few close events, which could have turned the meet around. However, one can't expect these athletes to equal previous performances every meet. Track and life don't work that way.

Tara Dixon was a triple winner for Lake Forest. She broke 16 seconds in the 100 hurdles with Mary McGuire second and took the 300 hurdles, in 51.7. In the 800 relay, Dixon anchored the victory after Shani Palmer made a stirring effort to make up a sizeable deficit. Tonya Norris and Renee Coverdale ran well, on that unit.

Africa Bell, (4-10) Mary McGuire, and Ilka Beyerunge swept the high jump, to give Lake Forest 9 big points. McGuire also had seconds in the shot and discus. Her discus effort of 93-6 1/2 was especially good. McGuire isn't big or fast but is a determined athlete, whose four second places totalled 12 points for the Spartans. We'd say she finished as high as could realistically have been expected, in each of her events.

Arlene May (33-7 1/2) and Renee Coverdale went 1-2, in the triple jump. May also had seconds, in the 100 meters including training, veterinary, necessary racing supplies and costs for required state and racing licenses- will be assumed by Brandywine Raceway.

To win the contest, the person whose name is chosen must be able to fulfill all requirements needed to obtain a horse-owner's license issued by the U.S. Trotting Association and the Delaware Harness Racing Commission.

All Brandywine employees, Brandywine suppliers and those licensed by the Delaware Harness Racing Commission are not eligible to win the contest.

Melanie Pelton had seconds, at 800 and 1600 meters. Tara Dixon was second, at 200 meters. Julie Betts and Voanita Cherry had thirds at 3200 meters and the discus, respectively, in a meet that was closer, than the score indicates.

Nurses receive National Certification

Three Kent General nurses, Deborah Eberly, R.N., Dana Hoyt, R.N., and Barbara Truitt, R.N., have recently received national certification in emergency nursing. Mrs. Eberly and Mrs. Hoyt work in the Emergency Department. Mrs. Truitt is the Head Nurse in Day Surgery.

To receive certification, the nurses had to successfully complete a four hour, 250 question exam which covered all aspects of emergency nursing. It is designed to test the expertise a nurse demonstrates in emergency situations.

Vivian Cebreck, R.N., Supervisor of the Emergency Department, commented, "It is great to be part of a team that takes pride in the delivery of high quality care. We are especially proud of the individual effort and accomplishment of these nurses."

Letting the sunshine in

by U.S. Senator Bill Roth

As warmer weather approaches, our thoughts turn to warm vacation days in the sun. As you soak up the sun this spring and summer, take a moment to consider the value it has as an alternative form of energy.

The harnessing of solar energy, while still relatively expensive compared to conventional energy forms such as petroleum and coal, is slowly but surely entering the market. For example, you may see solar powered products such as watches, radios, and calculators in the store.

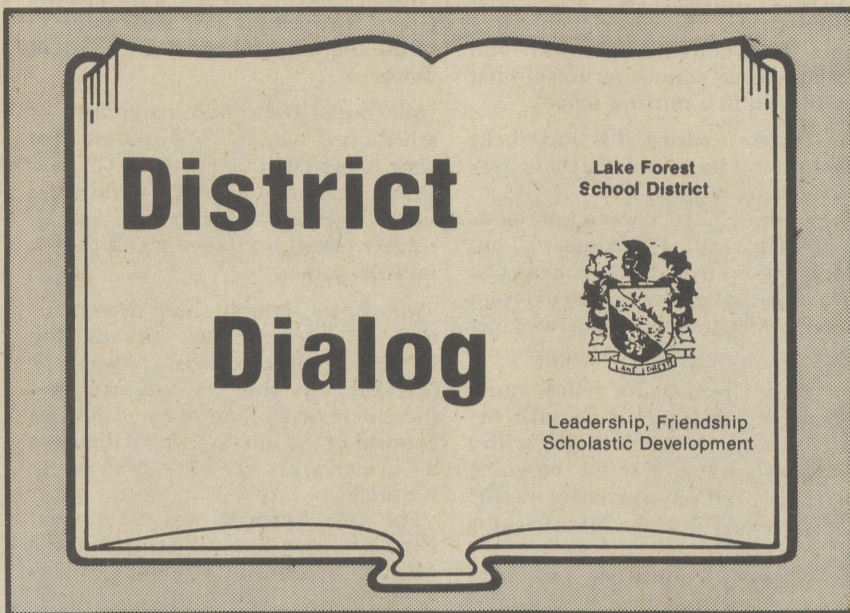

What you may not know is that one of the leading research facilities in this field is right in our back yard. The University of Delaware established the Institute of Energy Conversion (IEC) back in 1972, before the oil embargo or the creation of the Department of Energy and Solar Energy Research Institute. Since then the Institute has been working towards developing the technology and expertise to produce more inexpensive solar cells.

The Institute recently received national recognition as the first American university to develop a manufacturing process that has produced a solar cell with a sunlight to electricity conversion efficiency of 10 percent. The success of the IEC Program is due in no small part to its director, Dr. T.W. Fraser Russell. Under Dr. Russell's guidance, IEC's efforts have been directed to ensure that solar cells developed at the laboratory scale can be manufactured in commercial quantities. In this quest IEC has become the major university laboratory doing photovoltaic (the conversion of sunlight to energy research in the United States).

I have long been a strong supporter of this program at the University of Delaware. Through the efforts of the Department of Energy, private industry and programs like the University of Delaware's, photovoltaics are fast becoming a promising source of electricity in the U.S. with many other domestic and industrial applications.

Unfortunately, in recent years, the level of government support for such research has declined. While I support the need to curtail spending, I believe it is unwise to eliminate programs that are an investment in our future. I have recently written to the Chairman and Ranking Minority Member of the Senate Energy and Water Appropriations Subcommittee and voiced my opposition to the requested reduction in funds for photovoltaic research in the President's 1989 budget. I hope they will take heed of my concerns—without continued support from both government and industry, we are faced with losing our leadership role in this field to those countries such as Japan that have in recent years increased government support of such research.

The local labor market has improved significantly during the past few years. The availability of part-time and full-time entry level jobs has increased.

Groups such as the Business Industry and Education Alliance, the Forward Central Delaware Committee and the Chambers of Commerce are working hard to present favorable labor projections for businesses wishing to locate in our area and are constantly searching for ways to marry the skills of high school graduates to the needs to business and industry.

Lake Forest High School receives calls from potential employers on a regular basis for prospective workers. The managers are aware of students' limited work experiences and are willing to employ them knowing that additional training will be required.

The communication between the work place and the educational community has brought to the forefront two major practices which employers intend to promote. They are requiring that prospective employees submit to drug screening and contacting the schools to check on student attendance patterns. The end result of these two initiatives are obvious. Drug use and poor school attendance will prevent students from getting jobs.

Following the completion of a job application, there are three important criteria for attaining and keeping a job.

First, show up with the desire to work. Try to impress the interviewer that you want to be hired and that you will be a productive employee.

Next, be punctual and prompt for appointments and work. If you experience a delay in reporting, always call and be considerate of others' time.

Finally, present a positive attitude towards your work, your fellow employees and customers.

Always remember that these criteria can be applied to all work situations. Our local employers in Kent County have many entry level positions and applying with a good work ethic will produce for you a job with career potential.

Government regulation of air safety may be hazardous to your health

by John Semmens

One would guess from media accounts that it is a proven fact that the skies are less safe due to the 1978 airline deregulation. Whether it be stories of actual tragedies or near-collisions, hardly any coverage ends without implying that deregulation is at fault.

This indictment of deregulation is wrong on two counts. First, the statistical data show that the commercial aviation accident rate is lower, as is the average number of fatalities per year, despite a 50 per cent increase in the number of flights and passengers in the post-deregulation period.

Second, few media stories on air safety make it clear that safety was not deregulated. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) retains control over aviation safety standards, while it continues to operate the air traffic control system. Furthermore, the overcrowded airports at which near-collisions are occurring are government-owned facilities.

Unfortunately, the FAA and the public sector owner-operators of airports have neglected to employ the most obvious means of coping with dangerous overcrowding. Failure to charge compensatory fees for scarce landing and takeoff slots has resulted not only in inefficiency, but reckless endangerment of the flying public.

A consequence of this mismanagement is the attraction of small, non-radar-controlled planes into the crowded airspace near busy airports. Demand-based pricing would divert most of these small planes to less congested airports. Instead, public officials resort to arbitrary landing slot allocation schemes and much hand-wringing over the threat posed by the small airplanes.

It is not as if the concept of metering demand via peak-off-peak pricing differentials is unknown to public aviation officials. The airlines give daily demonstrations of the use of pricing differentials, as they charge higher fares during peak hours. The operators of airports and the air traffic control network could manage demand in the same way. Their failure to do so not only wastes time and money, but subjects fliers to unnecessary risks.

Why is it that airlines use this simple marketing strategy and public authorities do not? Airlines, as privately owned, profit-seeking enterprises, have a strong incentive to pursue efficiency. Airports and the air traffic control system are run by public entities that have little incentive to be efficient. An airline that fails to efficiently manage demand and capacity faces economic losses. An airport that fails to efficiently manage demand is apt to use the peak-period shortage of capacity to demonstrate the "need" for a larger budget and greater subsidies.

Even when it is conceded that the profit motive spurs efficiency, it is frequently asserted that it is insufficient to promote safety. Just why this assertion should be accepted is not clear. The reality is that catering to the wants of people (including the desire for safety) is the marketplace's only path to profit. Crashes cost money and disrupt business. For example, the stockholders of McDonnell Douglas lost an estimated $200 million in market value of their shares following the crash of a DC-10 in 1979. A perceived safety hazard costs profit-seeking firms money. What does it cost the FAA or public sector airport operators?

Ironically, the near-collision dangers created by the failure to adopt rational pricing policies are the very arguments advanced for granting the FAA more power. The dangers fostered by mismanagement of airport capacity serve as the key argument for higher appropriations. Could anyone conceive of a more perverse system for running an air transportation network?

The alarms being sounded over air safety are pointing to precisely the wrong answer. Deregulation of fares & service has been a success because it cleared the way for the profit motive to perform its function of stimulating improvements in air service. If safety lags, it is because the profit motive of the main actors (the FAA and municipal airport authorities) is nonexistent.

Without a strong profit motive to guide the management of airspace and airport capacity, we will be left to the mercy of the good intentions of public officials. Are these good intentions so reliable that we should choose them over the proven potency of the profit in competitive markets?

John Semmens is an economist for the Laissez Faire Institute, Tempe, Arizona. This article is adapted from the April 1988 issue of The Freeman.

Senatorial Report 18th District

by Senator Ruth Ann Minner
18th Senatorial District

As you might have read or heard, the Senate last week debated at length the so-called Sticker Bill I introduced in an effort to get uninsured motorists off the highways.

The bill would require motorists to display color-coded stickers on their windshields representing the month through which their insurance had been paid. A police officer could tell by the color of the sticker whether or not a driver was insured and could pull him over if he or she was not.

However, during debate, so many questions were raised and members appeared so confused, that I asked that the debate be postponed until after the Easter recess so that I might entertain alternative proposals and draft some fine-tuning amendments.

I've got to once again emphasize that this is not "Senator Minner's bill." The bill is the product of more than two years work by the insurance commissioner, the Motor Vehicle Division and many others in an effort to solve the problem of the uninsured motorist.

Nobody denies that the uninsured motorist is a problem in Delaware. It's a problem in all states. We studied the various ways that states have tried to solve the problem, and the sticker idea seemed the best.

However, the bill I sponsored (Senate Substitute No. 1 for Senate Bill 83) is not etched in stone. If anyone has a better proposal, I'm willing to listen; if anyone has a way to make the bill easier to administer, I'm receptive. I'll also be looking closely at how Maryland, North Carolina, and other states have moved to solve their problems in this matter.

But I am determined that the legislature do something to solve the problem of motorists who evade the present laws requiring insurance on all cars. Too many of my constituents have suffered serious physical and financial loss because of accidents involving uninsured motorists.

Too many representatives of the insurance industry seek to poke holes in the bill without offering alternative solutions. We cannot continue to ignore the problem because we haven't been smart enough or determined enough to tackle it.

Senatorial Report 19th District

by Senator Thurman Adams Jr.
19th Senatorial District

Most people realize by now how valuable the 911 Emergency telephone system has been to the people of Delaware in speeding up response time by fire and ambulance units and police. I recently learned about a system which starts where 911 leaves off and goes even farther toward getting emergency help to people when they need it.

Known as "Enhanced 911" or just "E 911", it is designed to allow police and emergency officials to know immediately where an emergency telephone call is coming from, even in cases where the caller can't or won't give his or her location.

I had an opportunity last week to hear a tape recording of the little five-year-old daughter of the Kent County couple who were tragically murdered on Christmas Eve trying to explain to Kent County emergency officials where she was located. Like most five-year-olds, she couldn't do it and it took several hours for them to go through the process of having the phone call traced and getting help to the scene.

If the Enhanced 911 system had been in use at that time, the police could have gotten to the scene in minutes rather than hours.

In Sussex County, in another case, a woman called police to report that someone was breaking into her house and she was afraid she was going to be harmed. Once again she was unable to give the location - in this case because she didn't have time to. By the time police got to her, she had been murdered and the intruder had committed suicide.

They later found out that at the time of her call, a police car had been located one block away.

Maybe the best example of all of what this system can do is a case which took place in Philadelphia, where the system is already in place. A man called into city officials from a telephone booth and threatened to murder the mayor.

After the guy had been on the phone talking for a few minutes, they told him to turn around. When he did, he found himself staring at a policeman with a gun pointing at him.

I think that this system is essential for Delaware both as a way of helping respond quickly to crimes and as a way of improving our response time to medical emergencies.

It can be improved even more by keeping a record at the Emergency Call Board of telephone numbers where people have particular sorts of medical problems like heart conditions or diabetes. Then when an emergency call comes in from that address, emergency medical teams can be preparing to handle that specific problem even as they are making their way to the address.

And the cost of all this? The first year cost could be covered by adding a charge of approximately 50 cents a month to our telephone bills. The cost for the second year and beyond would be 15 to 20 cents per month. It could be paid for by telephone customers, which is almost every household and business. After all, we all benefit from having it.

This system has proven itself to be a lifesaver wherever it's been used around the country. I wouldn't want to say that the lives of Delawareans are any more important than those of other people, but they sure aren't any less important.

Shipwreck bill sinks in House

by Congressman Tom Carper

A flood of legal questions have muddied the waters around historic shipwrecks for years now. Of approximately 50,000 shipwrecks located in local waters, 5% to 10% are thought to have historical significance. Technological advances have made locating and gaining access to many long-lost wrecks possible. The breathtaking pictures of the H.M.S. Titanic and the recent salvage of the De Braak off Cape Henlopen are dramatic examples. But along with the technological advances which made these finds possible have come competing demands from sport divers and archaeologists who want to preserve the wrecks, and salvagers with commercial interests.

A 1953 federal law, the Submerged Lands Act, transferred to states the ownership of all natural resources and submerged lands up to three miles offshore. But the law did not address the issue of shipwrecks found in those waters.

The debate over who owns shipwrecks in state waters is further complicated by twenty-seven state laws which have been enacted to manage the wrecks, and two federal legal principles which also apply to their disposition. The law of finds entitles a finder of a shipwreck to keep the wreck and its cargo. The law of salvage protects the title rights of the ship's owner, but entitles the salvager to a generous reward. The Constitution grants to the federal courts jurisdiction over all maritime and admiralty questions. They have the final say in ownership disputes.

Delaware's Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs experienced the frustration of the current system when it handled the recovery of the De Braak. A private salvaging firm located and recovered the wreck under a permit issued by the state. But the salvager also went to federal admiralty court to claim exclusive rights to artifacts recovered from the wreck under the federal law of salvage and the law of finds. Meanwhile, another salvage firm challenged the first salvager's claim in another federal court.

Congress is trying to clarify this complicated mess. Last year the Senate passed legislation which would apply only to the shipwrecks in state waters which have historical importance. That legislation, which I support along with the state Historical Affairs Division, would give title of these ships to the states in whose waters they are found. States would have to follow guidelines to protect the wrecks, to guarantee recreational divers access to them, and to conserve historical artifacts. The bill envisions the creation of underwater state parks to be preserved for all sport divers.

The remaining 90% or so of shipwrecks in state waters not covered by the law, and all shipwrecks found outside the three-mile limit, would continue to be covered by admiralty law, and available for commercial salvage.

On March 29, the House voted 263-139 to approve this much-needed abandoned shipwreck legislation. That was short of the two-thirds majority needed to pass the bill under an expedited procedure. I hope that the bill will be considered again soon under the normal process which requires a simple majority to pass. The sooner this bill becomes law, the sooner we can ensure the preservation of these historic wrecks for future generations to enjoy just as we have.

SMALL BUSINESS ANGLE

by John Sloan

U.S., CHINA SET TRADE SESSION FOR ENTREPRENEURS

Only a handful of small firms engage in international trade. Currently, it is estimated that less than 40,000 of the millions of small businesses in the United States are exporting a product or service.

There are many reasons small firms don't venture abroad with their wares. Perhaps the simplest is that most are satisfied with their present markets and see no need to expand beyond their city or state, much less overseas.

The Small Business Administration says that most small business owners do not have the expertise themselves, or within their companies to organize an export strategy. They have to hire someone or contract with an export management or trading company.

Language is also a barrier. The owner of a fast-growing manufacturing company recently packed his bags and his files and moved to Paris to learn and speak the language before he opened a branch in France!

Financing is also a mystery to be solved. Lines of credit with international banks must be arranged.

Small wonder, then, that so few small businesses are world traders. Yet, increasing concern over the trade deficit, coupled with a more favorable dollar and advances in communications technology should cause more small firms to look to new markets abroad.

There are efforts underway to help entrepreneurs interested in doing so. The U.S. Department of Commerce will co-sponsor the Small Business International Trade Conference in Frankfurt, Germany April 21 to April 23, 1989. (More on that in a future column.)

In June, an important bilateral exchange in Beijing, People's Republic of China, will bring together key industrial and economic leaders of China and the United States. The U.S.-China Joint Session on Industry, Trade and Economic Development, June 20-23, 1988, is described as a "pivotal event in the expansion of business relations between the two countries."

A new program in China to decentralize much authority for trade is expected to create greater opportunities for U.S. companies and entrepreneurs. The Joint Session is billed as the springboard for this new era.

For risk-takers looking for new markets, there will be opportunities to meet with governors of China's key provinces, or their trade representatives. Post-session trade programs are planned for 18 key cities and local officials will be eager to help business owners negotiate the barriers to establishing business relationships in a nation of 800 million people.

Readers who want more information about the Joint Session should write or call the U.S. coordinator, People to People International, Dwight D. Eisenhower Building, Spokane, WA 99202; phone (509) 536-0202.

When asked to rank their top concerns as small-business owners, members of the National Federation of Independent Business listed "exporting my products or services" last in a list of 75 problems and priorities. Researchers surmised that the low ranking was due to the "relatively few small businesses that export and the comparatively passive means by which those that do export become involved."

With stepped up efforts by governments and private organizations such as People to People, many more small firms could be marketing abroad soon, and helping to reduce the U.S. trade deficit.

John Sloan is President and CEO of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women. He is also a member of the U.S. Advisory Committee to the U.S./China Joint Session on Industry, Trade and Economic Development.

Milford Memorial Hospital honors one of its own

by Harry G. Farrow, Jr.
GRIER BUILDING, MILFORD. She had returned to Milford Memorial Hospital many times in the past 65 years mostly as a nurse, but last Wednesday the 30th of March, Mrs. Lagatha Hill Farrow returned to the hospital and the Board Room of the Grier Building to celebrate her 93rd birthday among family and friends.
 Since 1986, she has been in declining health...first with a broken hip operation, last year with the need for a pacemaker, and this year...two weeks ago with an eye operation. But she is a tough campaigner, and her blood pressure steadies at 130 over 80.
 She said recently she hadn't had the need for a doctor in 60 years. "Don't know why now...I have to have one."
 For her being a nurse was a natural call to arms. Always concerned about those about her with a high level of importance placed on the needs of "her children"—and this did not necessarily apply to her own, natural child.

 As she sat Wednesday listening to those who spoke well of her, and Dr. Oliver A. James, was in the forefront here, she turned to Dr. Baker, the most respected pediatrician of his time to inquire about his well being. "I see Dr. Baker has a cane like me. One of these days I am going to get rid of this thing," she said.
 Sixty some years ago Milford Memorial Hospital was not what it is today. Today there are 300 beds, over 60 on the medical staff, and it employs over 300 people.
 Back then though it was known as Milford Emergency Hospital, and it was small. But if it were to grow, certain things had to take place. The chips had to fall into place...and it happened almost like a Hollywood script writer had ordained it.

In 1921 members of the medical staff at this little hospital met with Miss Minnie Green, the superintendent of nurses. They designed—planned—and drew up a loosely drawn version of what they wanted in a nursing school.
 Nurses were needed. If this worked, the little hospital might well be on its way to something bigger.
 The summer of 1922 was a hot one as Dr. James recalled Wednesday, but what had gone from hot to intense was the fact that Miss Green opted to resign her post. Matrimonial vows lured her away.
 But Miss Green had a fellow nurse whom she hand picked to take her place. Just shy of 5 feet in height, with a very warm, friendly smile, outgoing personality, and very aggressive was the way you could describe Miss Lagatha Hill.
 As Dr. James recanted, she was thrust into the role of Superintendent of Nurses, carrying on the work of Miss Green, the medical staff, and careful to please the watchful eye of the Board of Trustees.

 She began the tough assignment of scheduling classes. The nurses that were there on duty worked 12 hour shifts. "And the doctors had night office hours...they all did obstetrics...and all subject to call, so they were all there," said Dr. James.
 Somehow through sheer determination and perseverance the nursing school got launched. Miss Lucy Shrock (Bender) was the first graduate and there were many more to come. But the survival of the nursing school then was a tremendous aid to this young hospital.
 The first hospital was where Bill Berry's funeral home is located today in Milford. In 1938, the hospital moved to Clark Avenue where today it sprawls over many acres, and is certainly one of the best staffed and best all-around hospitals in the area.

 "The State...the community, and the local governments are greatly indebted to Miss Hill (nee Mrs. Farrow) for what she did for this hospital in the early going," said Dr. James.
 My mother has told me that while a nurse and being at Milford Emergency Hospital on her days off she would start out toward her father's farm on Paradise Alley. "I felt that I had to go home to help mom around the house or help Pop in the fields digging sweet potatoes, or hoeing cantaloupes. I always took my vacation during sweet potato digging time," she said. One of her relatives usually picked her up hitchhiking going and coming.
 What the Board of Trustees, Miss Minnie Green, the medical staff and others in authority did not know—could not have known...that in selecting Miss Lagatha Hill (nee Farrow) to put the nursing school together they had made the very, very best choice.

 For anyone who knows anything about harvesting of truck crops like cantaloupe, tomatoes, sweet potatoes and the like know that you never quit...you never give up until the job is done. The job is done when that last cantaloupe is picked—same for the tomato, the sweet potato or any other similar plant.
 The experience not only builds character and determination—it makes for the best type to be a nurse. Milford Hospital got that—plus there were others who followed with that same sense of fair play and determination which has earned them the respect of the many they have nursed.

 Harrington, DE 19952

Dear Mrs. Farrow,

I want to add my good wishes to those of your family and friends for the happiest of birthdays.

It is certainly one of the most pleasant of our customs that each of us has one day each year that is special to us and allows us to renew our ties with each other.

Along with family, friends are the truest wealth that any of us possesses, and friendship is the greatest gift we can exchange.

That's why I make it a point to remember birthdays, and that's why I wish you a truly happy birthday, with many more to come.

With my very best wishes,

Sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Farrow:

Congratulations on a very happy occasion!

I learned from Harry that you are celebrating your 93rd birthday this Wednesday, March 30, and I would like to extend my sincerest best wishes to you.

You have certainly led an extraordinary life — what wonderful memories you must have! I join Harry, and your grandchildren, David and Todd, in hoping you have continued good health and happiness in the years to come, and many more happy birthdays.

Milford Memorial Hospital

March 30, 1988

Dear Mrs. Hill-Farrow:

On behalf of the entire family of Milford Memorial Hospital, I would like to wish you a very happy 93rd birthday.

It is most fitting that you are celebrating this birthday here at Milford Memorial, a hospital you have helped shape in so many ways. As the nursing superintendent and one of the founders of our nursing school, you have seen great change and advance at the Hospital. We are grateful to you for an institution's growth and success can occur only if its earliest leaders — such as yourself — have the vision and foresight to plan for that growth.

Again, best wishes and congratulations as you celebrate your birthday. And thank you again, for your life's work with Milford Memorial Hospital — the training of our nurses and the health of all those we serve.

Sincerely,
L. Glenn Davis

Spartans do well in Diamond State Relays

by Keith S. Burgess

The Diamond State Relays held at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium, features teams from several states.

Lake Forest boys and girls did very well on numerous occasions. Africia Bell cleared 5 feet, 2 inches to get second place, in the meet. Bell tied one of Lake Forest's oldest records, first set some 12 years ago, by Hillary Haines.

Mary McGuire spun the discus 98 feet, 3 inches, for third place overall, just a foot out of second.

Tonya Norris, Renee Coverdale, Tara Dixon and Arlene May sped 800 meters in 1:50.8, to win their heat. 1:51.6 was the best the Spartans could do, in 1987, over the whole track season. The same quartet ran 53.2, to get second, in the 400. The locals clocking was the same as the winning teams. Arlene May was fourth, in the triple jump with an effort past 34 feet.

Lake Forest's boys were first in their 800 meter relay heat, clocking a swift 1:32.2, which is as fast, as they ran all last season. Rod Parker, Petie Davis, Terraine Giddens and Jason Tiggs were more than two seconds ahead of runner-up Egg Harbor, N.J.

The same quartet captured their 400 heat, in 44.6, only one-tenth of a second and over 1987's best.

Freshman Mac Holmes (54.07) Terraine Giddens (50.4) Mark Tozer (55.2), and Jason Tiggs (51.98) ran a swift 3:31.8 to take their heat, in the 1600 relay with Norristown, Pa. almost two seconds back. Giddens and Tiggs are both rated as being fast enough to become the first Spartans, to break 50 seconds for 400 meters.

Bob Reed was meet winner, in the pole vault, but missed an opportunity to set a new, state mark.

Reed cleared the bar, at thirteen feet, then elected to try 14 feet, 7 inches, a new state mark.

Incredibly, meet officials had neglected to bring a ladder. So the Spartan, adrenaline pumping, had to sit for what seemed an interminable time, while a ladder high enough to set the bar at 14-7 was obtained.

Reed thus cooled down, had his concentration broken and had his opportunity to vault into history ruined. We say this because he almost made the height anyway, on one attempt. We sincerely hope the athletic Spartan senior gets that mark soon.

Jim Blades' Spartans made their presence felt, in Wilmington, on Saturday.

LF trackmen drub Cape

by Keith S. Burgess

Lake Forest boys had little trouble in a meet at Cape Henlopen on March 30. The locals prevailed 92-54, over a squad that is usually at or near the top in Henlopen Conference competition. The Spartans are 2-0. The writer feels that only Caesar Rodney of the remaining Henlopen foes has a chance to derail the Spartan express. We would hope that all of the local athletes do not run into any bad luck such as illness or injury. Otherwise things look rosy.

Mark Tozer was involved in four Spartan victories in what was a busy afternoon, for the three time state champion athlete. Tozer combines with Mike Eck, Steve Clute and Scott Pierce to make the Spartans a formidable force. Steve Clute ran an especially exciting leg, bringing the Spartans from a large deficit, into the lead.

Tozer then took the 800 in 2:06, the 1600 in 4:55 and the 3200 in 11:14. Mike Sanders was 3rd at 3200.

Terraine Giddens had a hand in four wins. Giddens ran 11.1 at 100 meters and 23.4, in the 200.

Giddens, Petie Davis, Rod Parker and Herman Mosley ran 45.8, in the 400 relay. Giddens, Davis, Mike Eck and Jason Tiggs blazed a 1:33.7, at 800 meters. The sprinter situation was uncertain here, at the start of practice, but in the last few weeks, the holes were filled by new or improving speedsters, giving the Spartans a more solid lineup. Parker had seconds at 100 and 200 meters, with Davis topping off the surprising sweep, in the 100.

Jason Tiggs was not pressed in winning a 53.6, 400 meters. Freshman Mac Holmes looked very good with a third place 55.6 clocking. Tiggs also got a third, in the long jump, with a near-20 foot jump.

The senior Tiggs (40 feet, 6 inches) and the freshman Holmes (38-7/8) went 1-2, in the triple jump.

Bob Reed jumped 9-6, in the pole vault, enough to win, then switched to the high jump and got second with a 5-8 clearance. Darren Lawson was third in the pole vault.

Peter Luckenbach had a good discus effort of 127 feet, 4/8 inches. Marvin Hicks and Paul Adkins threw around 120 feet, for the sweep. Hicks had a good toss of 45-4, to take the shot. Adkins was 3rd.

Carl Young was third, in the high hurdles and second, in the intermediates. The hurdles and jumps accounted for four of Cape's slim total of five victories, this chilly afternoon.

Spartan girls outclass

Dover 94-43

by Keith S. Burgess

Jim Blades' girl's track team lost only the 400, 800, 600 relay races to easily surpass the visiting Dover Senators, in the 1988 track opener.

Tara Dixon, who is a two time state hurdles champion, annexed the 100 hurdles in 16.43, with Mary McGuire next, then ran the 300 low hurdles in a swift 50.7. Tara also won the 200 (27.7).

Sprinter-jumper Arlene May won 4 taking the 100 (12.75) the long jump, with an excellent leap of almost 17 feet. Kim Smith was third. May triple jumped 35 feet with Deanna Scott second. May also finished first at 400 meters, in 66.4.

Africia Bell (4 feet, 10 inches), Mary McGuire and German exchange student, Ilka Bewerunge swept the high jump.

McGuire was a double winner in the shot and discus, with her near-90 feet-discus toss, being a fine effort. Voanita Cherry and Deanna Scott completed the discus sweep with Kim Smith getting a third in the shot.

The meet's first running event, the 3200 meter relay went to a Spartan quartet of Jill Blades, Elaine Zeitler, Julie Betts and Melanie Pelton. The first two runners are freshmen. Blades later grabbed the 800 meters win in 2:51 with Zeitler third.

Another freshmen, Dawn Kane and Melanie Pelton went 1-2, in the 1600 meter run. Julie Betts finished first, at 3200 meters with Kane third.

Allen Bradford wins week two at the U.S. 13 Dragway

DELMAR, DE--Defending Super ET Champion, Allan Bradford of Salisbury, Md. was back in his winning form as he captured Super ET Sunday at the U.S. 13 Dragway. Jessie Truitt of Willards, Md. was the winner in Heavy ET. Donald Tate of Berlin, Md. won his first of the season in Pro Bike. Hot Rod Trophy for cars was won by Mark Thompson of Millsboro, De. and Hot Rod Trophy for bikes was won by Mark Thompson of Millsboro, De. and Hot Rod Trophy for bikes was taken by Wardell Allen of Lincoln, De.

The final round of Super ET was a battle between Salisbury residents, Allan Bradford in his '68 Camaro and Kenny Abbott in his '67n Chevelle. Bradford came out on top with a fine run of 10.11/131.9. Abbott edged by Georgetown's Danny Bastianelli to capture the runner-up spot with an 11.82/102.27 to Bastianelli's 12.19/106.6. Making it to the quarter finals were Brent Bounds of Snow Hill, Md., Bob Johnson of Millsboro and Dennis Larrimore of Preston, Md.

The finals of Heavy ER found Jessie Truitt facing the tough Linda Bishop in her '55 Chevy. Truitt was quick off the lights and ran a 13.75 on his 13.73 dial-in for the win. Bishop's final run of 14.48/95.33 was good enough for runner-up and semi-finalist went to Rick Passwater of Bridgeville who broke in the final round. Quarterfinalists were David Adkins of Pittsville, Md. and John Henderson of Frederica.

Donald Tate took advantage of defending Pro Bike Champion, Michael Durham's misfortune to win Pro Bike. Durham's bike broke on the line with Tate going on to record an 11.77/114.5 on his Kawasaki. Durham finished in the runner-up spot with Lee Clark of Easton, Md. finishing as the semi-finalist with a 11.68/108.4. Mark Thompson out ran Hebron's Steve Hurley to win in the finals of Hot Rod Trophy for cars and Wardell Allen ran a quick 11.12/102.7 to defeat Carl Selby, Jr. of Pocomoke in the finals of Hot Rod Trophy for bikes.

This Saturday and Sunday will be the 3rd Annual NHRA First State National Open. More than 250 cars will compete for over $50,000 in cash and contingencies in the two day event. Saturday's gates will open at 9 a.m. with NHRA Record Runs beginning at noon. Comp Qualifying begins at 3 p.m. and a special ET Tournament for cars 0-11.99 seconds will begin at 6:30 p.m. Sunday's gates open at 9 a.m. with time trials in Super Stock, Stock, S/Comp, S/Gas and S/Street until 11 a.m. NHRA Eliminations will begin at noon. Regular Pro Bike, Bracket, and Hot Rod Trophy classes will not be run.

Person-to-Person

The only one in the whole state

by Rebecca Moore

It all started with my passion for counted cross stitch. Barbara Page was having a 25% off sale at the Craft Cottage, so I went wild stocking up on aida cloth, patterns, and embroidery floss needed to indulge in my latest interest. I couldn't wait to get home and get started on one piece in particular—six little teddy bears floating around on balloons. There was a perfect place on one of my living room walls to hang the little guys once they were completed and properly framed.

I jumped into the project with enthusiasm and excitement, and, as the stitched picture began to take shape, my feelings grew. In spite of the fact that some of these different colors were used for only one stitch was not a real concern. This was a slight inconvenience, and I could tolerate the minimal expense so I could have a satisfying finished product. What I couldn't tolerate was the intense pain I felt in my neck after even just a few minutes of sitting in my favorite chair and stitching. So involved was my concentration, though, that I foolishly ignored the pain, until it became too noticeable to ignore. After three days of agony and missed work, I finally dragged myself to the base hospital and Dr. Paris. Seems that my nasty scoliosis didn't like counted cross stitch, or at least my blind devotion to it. The nerves, bones and muscles in my neck and shoulders were seeking revenge for my mistreatment of them. This darling little teddy bear project was giving me a little more than I bargained for. But I was a real good girl and did just what Dr. Paris told me to do, and I stayed flat on my back for three days. Of course, I couldn't just lay there idly, so I did a bit of reading, a bit of sleeping, and, you guessed it, a lot of counted cross stitch. When the three days of recuperation were over, so were the teddy bears.

After all the trouble these little guys had caused me, I guess I should have pitched them in the nearest dumpster. But I decided, instead, to go ahead and put them in that perfect spot on the wall.

Maybe I figured I needed a reminder to behave myself better when it comes to the pursuit of satisfying hobbies—you know, everything in moderation. But, at any rate, I decided to not only hang the needlework in that perfect place, but also to have it properly framed. My logic being that it had caused me so much grief, I deserved a trophy for having completed it.

Knowing that my abilities in framing anything are about as great as my ability to read Greek, I headed north on Route 13 to some people who have a slight bit more expertise than me. I went to see the folks at A.M. Matthews. They're framing experts.

Please bear in mind that places like The National Museum of Art and The Guggenheim Museum hold little interest for me. Add to that the fact that my knowledge of Picasso and others could fit into a thimble, and you've got one person feeling just slightly out of place in an art gallery/framing shop. I was sure I would feel like I was in a foreign country, but that's not the way it turned out. Sure, there were things that made me cock my head and squint, but most of what greeted me in the shop would have been perfectly content hanging on a wall in my house.

I was waited on by a very pretty lady with curly, brown hair. Turns out, she's Valerie O'nion, one of the co-owners of the shop. I gave her my six bears, she showed me several different frame samples, made a few suggestions, and our business was soon taken care of. I was really impressed with my surroundings. Here I found just about every type of artwork one could imagine. There was something to please every possible taste. Water colors, prints, tote painting, dried flower bouquets—you name it, it was there. Looking beyond the display area out front, I could see all kinds of "I wasn't sure what". And my curiosity started working overtime.

A phone call and several days later, I found myself back up at A.M. Matthews, not to pick up my newly-framed cross stitch, but to learn more about the shop, the people who work there and what all is involved in giving a piece of art that finished look. Remembering my visit in the shop, I'm still just a little confused about the actual procedures involved in framing, but to the folks who work there, this is all second nature.

Arriving at the shop, I was introduced to Michael Homlish, Valerie O'nion's son-in-law, and the other co-owner of the shop. Michael is younger than I expected—probably somewhere in his late twenties—and he usually has a beard; but with the warm weather coming on, the beard has done a disappearing act. Michael is not new to this area. Growing up in an Air Force family, Michael spent a good bit of his time in Dover. Graduating from high school, he ended up at the University of Delaware for a while, but then left school and, following in his father's footsteps, entered the Air Force. Deciding this was not the career he had in mind, Michael re-entered the University and majored in art.

Somewhere during this busy time, he managed to meet Theresa. With the mention of Theresa, Michael sighed and smiled. Although Michael takes pride in his profession, it is quite clear that Theresa is his real source of pride. Theresa is a teacher at Terry Children's Center up in New Castle. She is up every morning at 5:30, drives the hour to New Castle, and takes on the role of educator. Returning home in the late afternoon, Theresa takes on another equally challenging role—that of Mommy to twenty-one month Michael and seven month old Catherine. It's beyond me how in the world these two people find time to breathe!

The framing shop is the result of Valerie and Michael putting their heads together. When Michael graduated from the University in 1982, he returned to Dover and went to work with his mother-in-law. Now, that's something you don't hear about everyday! But their's is not the stereotyped mother-in-law, son-in-law relationship. They obviously have a good working relationship, and the success of the shop is evidence of this.

But Michael was not content with being a picture framer. So he put his nose to the grindstone, and headed out to Chicago. There, he took a grueling, four-hour exam, and on passing it, he became a Certified Picture Framer. No one else in the state of Delaware can make that claim. He is an expert in what he does, and one visit to the shop proves this.

I won't even attempt to describe Michael's masterpieces to you, for this would be an exercise in futility. Suffice it to say that by the time Michael is finished with even a mundane piece of art, it is totally transformed into a thing of real beauty. I was amazed at his creativity and his ability to take the average and change it into something exceptional. Perhaps most impressive were his ducks. Taking a print of a duck, (those found on duck stamps) Michael matted, padded, carved and framed and turned a duck into something that will certainly knock anyone's socks off. This is all a mystery to me, but to Michael, it's all in a day's work.

The back room of the shop, where all this creativity takes shape, is not the place for someone who has a fear of sharp things. A vast array of machines, all used for cutting, are mounted on tables or walls. One even resembles a guillotine! With these machines, frames and matings are cut to exact size for the finished product. One wall is loaded with lengths of moldings; another wall is covered with shelves containing every color of matting one could possibly imagine. There you might find Jerry or Bob busy making someone's vision a reality; or Michael giving his creative juices a workout. Even in this back room, you'll find more works of art hanging on the walls. Everywhere in this shop, you're greeted by imagination and beauty.

As I sit at my dining room table and write this article, I can look up at a perfect spot on my living room wall, and see six little teddy bears floating on balloons. They are framed in oak and complement the roll-top desk just a few feet away. The professional framing job was just the right finish to a project which had, quite literally, been a pain in the neck. My visits to A.M. Matthews were well worth the effort. I got to meet some fascinating people, learn a bit of what goes on behind the scenes, and my teddy bears are a sight to behold. So, next time you get the urge to increase the esthetic quality of your surroundings, pay a little visit to the creative folks up at A.M. Matthews. Michael Homlish is one of a kind in this state. Just one visit to the shop, and you'll understand why.

Everywhere in this shop, you're greeted by
imagination and beauty.

"I've raised chickens for another poultry company. Now I'm growing with Townsend. In my book, they're the best."

"Growing chickens for Townsend is an important part of our family. With four houses and 100,000 birds, you can tell that we're big believers in the growth potential of our industry here on Delmarva.

I don't think anything compares to the satisfaction of doing a good job and getting a good return on your investment. And I don't think any company compares to Townsend. For one thing, they give you a lot better chick. For another, their servicemen are tops. They'll work with you to keep your operation at peak efficiency.

And I'll give you the bottom line. I can make more money with Townsend. I'm tickled with the new rates.

I honestly hope my sons continue with me. Right now, Allen helps out with his electrical background, and Gerald is involved with building chicken houses. It's a good life. And growing with Townsend is a great way to earn a good living."

If you're serious about growing chickens, we'd like to talk to you.

- Outstanding chick quality
- Competitive rates, including:
 - Bonus for 15 top growers
 - New house contract of $175/M for the first ten flocks
- Experienced servicemen
 - Our growout team has over 200 years collective experience and they're ready to put that expertise to work for you.

Delaware sweet potato houses nominated for National Register

"Sweet potatoes needed a house of their own where they were cured and aged until they were ready for marketing," said Judith Quinn, an art history graduate student at the University of Delaware. Ms. Quinn is documenting sweet potato houses in southern Delaware, which, after approval from the State Historic Preservation Review Board, have been nominated for the National Register of Historic Places by the University's Center for Historic Architecture and Engineering.

An important cash crop in the first part of the century from 1900 until the 1930s, Delaware sweet potatoes were replaced by other crops because of the invasion of black rot, a root disease, and because of the amount of labor required to grow them. The uninitiated may think raising sweet potatoes was just a matter of setting out plants and digging up the potatoes when they were mature, but it was not that simple. "Growing sweet potatoes was a year-long process and required a lot of work," Ms. Quinn explained. Sprouts were started in beds in March and required warmth that was provided by either terra cotta pipes filled with water heated by a hardwood furnace, or by the use of compost with the plants covered by tarps on wooden frames.

In May the sprouts were transplanted to the fields by hand. A mule or horse pulled a transplanting machine, equipped with a barrel of water and two seats built near the ground. A driver sat on the barrel and the two people, sometimes women, sat on the seats planting sprouts every 16 inches or so and dousing them with water.

Over the summer the plants were watched, weeded and tended carefully. In September and October, the sweet potatoes were harvested. The plants were plowed out, then workers would "scratch out" the potatoes, taking them in baskets to the sweet potato houses to be kiln-dried in bins until they were edible.

Sweet potato houses were cooperative ventures with neighboring farmers renting space, Ms. Quinn reported, and some bins are still tagged with farmers' names. Sweet potatoes had to be cured at temperatures of about 50 degrees with air flowing around them. Sweet potato houses were designed with these requirements in mind. Lightweight and quite narrow, sweet potato houses were generally one or two stories tall, with front and back gables, few windows, and a main entry and second story loading door. Heated by coal or woodburning stoves, there were gaps in the ceilings and walls to allow the warm air to circulate. In warm weather the doors and windows were used for ventilation; in colder weather hatches were put over the windows and doors and the fire was lit and burned continually from fall until spring. The buildings had up to three layers of siding with insulation to maintain the temperature, and bins were placed along either the outside walls or in the center, and each could hold up to 220 bushels of "sweets."

Those who lived in the area at that time recall planting the sprouts in the fields or tending the fires morning and evening. It wasn't all work, however. One man recalled card games played in sweet potato houses when someone had fire duty. Square dances were also held in them. One woman said she and her friends turned the sweet potato house into an improvised roller skating rink when they were children. And of course, another favorite pastime was roasting the sweet potatoes, the Big Stems, the Up-the-Rivers and the Southern Queens, or making them into pies.

Today sweet potato houses that are not in disrepair are used mostly to house farm machinery or implements.

The Center for Historic Architecture is administered by the College of Urban Affairs and Public Policy and is cosponsored by the colleges of Engineering and Arts and Science at the University of Delaware. Dr. David Ames, urban affairs dean, said one of the missions of the center is to make the public aware of its buildings and heritage. Documentation is one way of preserving buildings, especially when the buildings, such as sweet potato houses, are highly perishable, he said. Funding for the project came from the University and the State Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs.

"We also take the results of our research back to where it comes from," he added. At a presentation in Laurel, a representative from the Delaware Agricultural Museum announced afterwards that a sweet potato house should be part of the museum's exhibits. Both Dr. Ames and Ms. Quinn hope a farmer will donate one, with the museum picking up the transportation costs.

Ms. Quinn plans to do another invited presentation about sweet potato houses at the Vernacular Architecture Forum in Staunton, Va., this spring, so the fame of Delaware sweet potato houses is spreading.

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN.

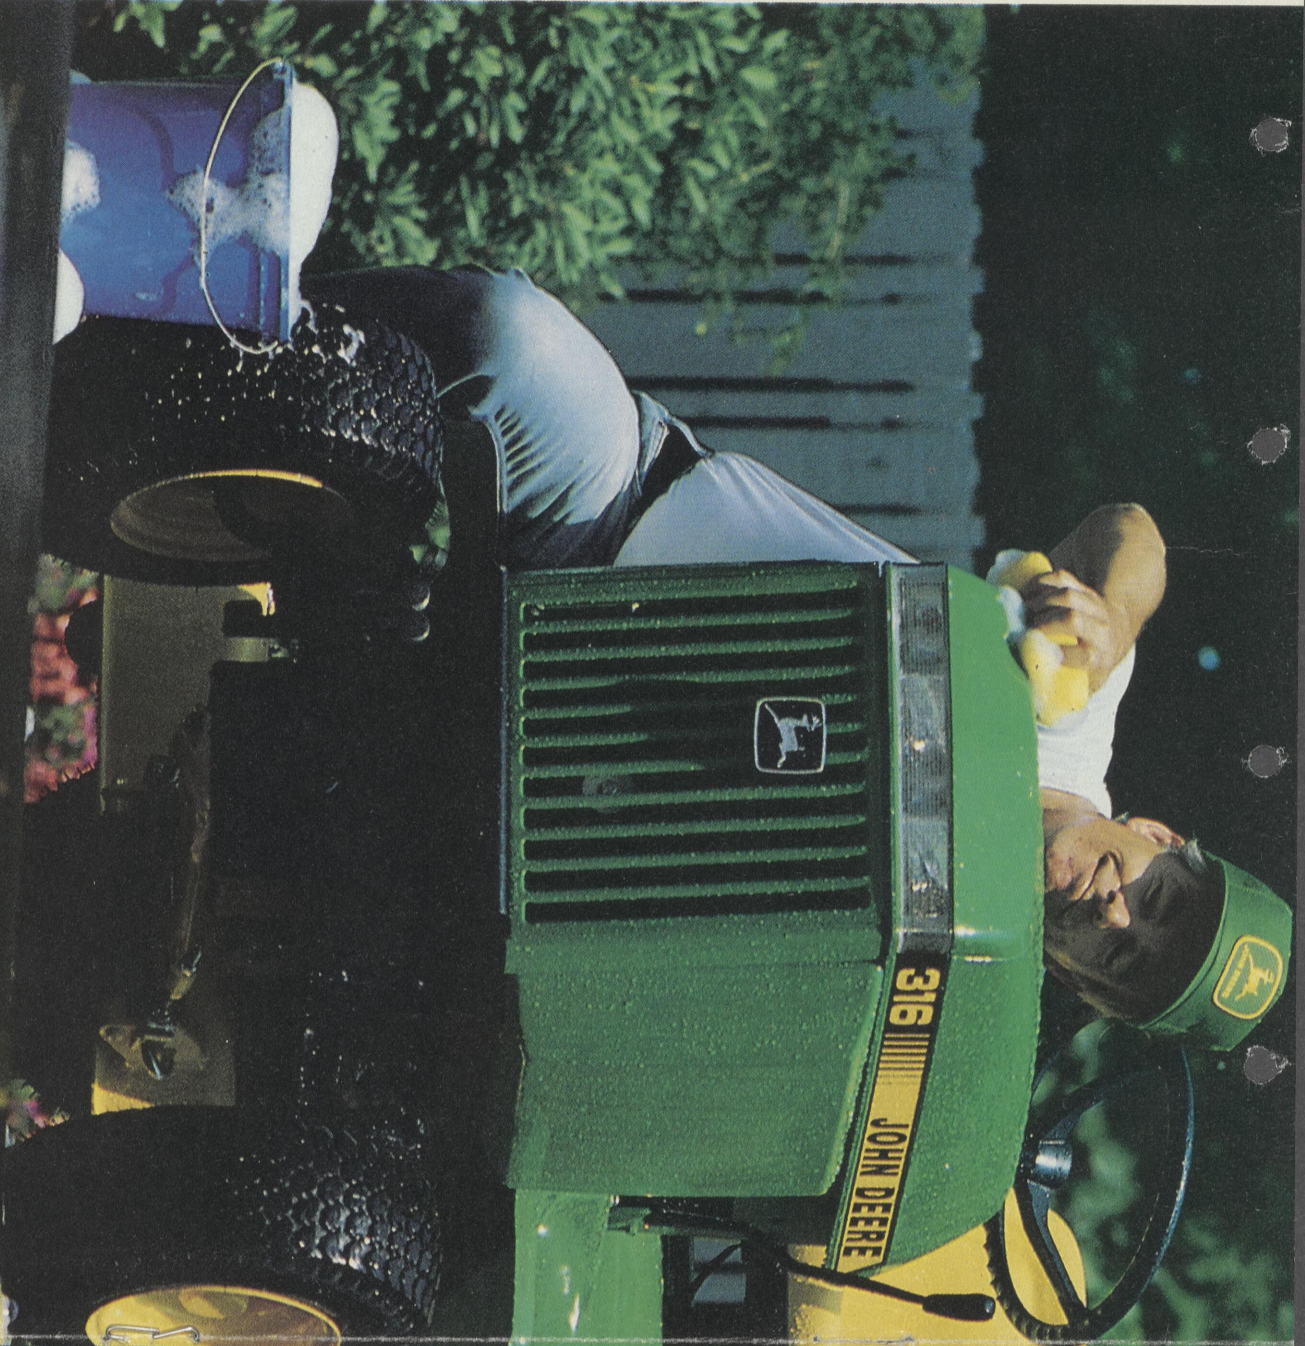

DEERE SEASON. IT'S A GREAT TIME TO BECOME A JOHN DEERE OWNER.

Right now is the perfect time to get your hands on the John Deere walk-behind mower, riding mower or lawn tractor you've had your eye on.

That's because, from now until May 31, you can get up to $350 off our best prices of the year.

For instance, you'll save $50 on our new 200 Series Lawn and Garden Tractor with overhead valve engine and easier on-off attachments.

Or, you can take home more great John Deere products for no money at all. Buy a walk-behind mower, for example, and you can get a rear bagger at no additional cost. Or a utility cart when you buy a riding mower. Lawn tractors come with your choice of a chain saw, dumpcart, bagger or gas trimmer.

And a 300 or 400 Series Lawn and Garden Tractor will get you a walk-behind mower, garden tiller, portable generator, chain saw, gas trimmer or Power Flow bagger.

Considering the way we stand behind our equipment, you'll be getting a great deal more than just another great deal.

Every John Deere lawn mower and tractor sold for home use is backed by a 2-year limited warranty. And smaller equipment carries a warranty as well.

The warranty is backed by a fully trained staff of on-premises service technicians. And sales people who can answer your questions on proper lawn and equipment care.

You can even put off monthly payments and finance charges for 90 days by using your John Deere credit card.*

So, isn't it time you owned a John Deere or two? Visit your participating John Deere dealer to take advantage of these deals before time runs out.
